A Second Glance

By Leon Watson

How to make a newspaper. Lesson number one.

To build a good newspaper first you must know how to jump the story, shoot the page, strip the negative, burn the plate, blow up the picture, kill the ad, bury the filler, float the ad, size the photo, make the PMT, and proof, trim and wax.

Always be careful not to have bumping tombstones, but if you do, you may just box a head. Always give the ads plenty of air, and keep fresh soup in the darkroom. Be sure to check the half-tones, dummy and runsheet.

There are basically two types of pictures. First you have the action shot, which of course, shows action. Then there are the Castro shots. They are the ones where you line up the subjects and shoot them.

You will learn that a newspaper has a lot of lines in it. There are by lines, cut lines, see lines, date lines, jump lines, credit lines, border lines, head lines, name lines, and that dreaded dead line.

In no time, after a brief lesson in the camera room at the press you will be yelling, "Five by seven, 50 per cent, 40 over nine, shoot." But that will come later, if anyone is interested in lesson two.

At the larger newspapers, where they run different colors, you will learn how to do color separations, but for now we will try to keep these lessons simple and easy to understand. Besides, we can't run color very often in our paper. We can't run red because our entire stock of red ink is used in the bookkeeping department.

At the typesetting machine, after you get the proper setting for justification, and program the lead, you click out the galley. But long before you ever crank out the copy to be cut and processed you will do all kinds of dividing, flushing and pausing to try and figure out what on earth the writer was trying to say.

This is the end of lesson one. We hope you learned a lot. If lesson two is published next week we will be surprised. If not, then you will know someone either burned down our office or shot the editor.

Her mother made the veil.

She carried a cascade of pink and white carnations, pink sweetheart roses with orchids in the center. The bride wore a heirloom gold charm inscribed with the Lord's Prayer belonging to her late maternal great-grandmother for the traditional something old and borrowed, something new was her wedding ensemble and something blue was her garter. The bride also had in her shoes pennies minted in the year of birth of the couple.

Mrs. Jerry Card of Lubbock was Matron of Honor. She wore a floor length dress of pale pink chiffon trimmed with maroon ribbons and pink lace. She carried a bouquet of miniature pink and white carnations and sweetheart roses with streamers.

Best man was David Dixon of Lubbock, nephew of the groom. He wore a three piece tan suit, pink shirt with pink carnation boutonniere.

The three tiered wedding cake was heart shaped, decorated with columns of pink and white roses and adorned on top with two love birds. Punch, cake, nuts and mints were served from crystal appointments.

Emergency Care Course Offered

An Emergency Care Attendant (ECA) course has been planned for May 18, for interested persons in Motley County according to Joyce Campbell of Matador.

"This is a short version of the EMT basic training course covering a wide range of emergency patient situations," Mrs. Campbell said. "Trainees receive instructions and classroom practice in the skills of taking vital signs, CPR, bleeding control, fracture immobilization and lifting and moving the patient."

She said trainees will learn to use a sphygmomanometer and stethoscope, bag mask, oxygen equipment, splints, stretchers and much more.

"These are basic life support skills and techniques which do not require physician orders or supervision," she said.

She said additional certification requirements are that trainees must attend 40 clock hours of classroom instruction and skills practice plus the additional time required for certification testing. No hospital or ambulance experience is required.

"We would like for everyone to take this training. For more information you can call the Motley County Clinic," Mrs. Campbell said.

By Emilio Aguilar

By Emilio F. Aguilar SIGN-UP!!!

You only have until April 16, 1982 to sign up to participate in the 1982 acreage reduction program for wheat, upland cotton, corn, grain sorghum and barley/oats.

WHY SIGN UP? You have nothing to lose by signing an intention to participate in the program. Final participation is determined by you acreage reporting dates for the crop. (May 15, 1982 for wheat, barley/oats, and August 1, 1982 for cotton, corn/grain sorghum.) If conditions change and you wish to withdraw, there is no penalty for doing so.

Remember, you may participate on one base or all on a farm. Also, you do not need to participate on all farms that you have an interest in, nor must you plant within bases on the farms you do not participate in the program on.

April 16, 1982 is not far off. Think about it. If you do not fully understand the 1982 program, come over to the ASCS office and let's talk it over. We will be glad to assist you in any way possible.

Deciding not sign up means that you will not be eligible for loans and purchases, the farmer-owned reserve, if authorized, and possible deficiency payments.

WHEAT, OATS/BARLEY CERTIFICATION

May 15, 1982 is the final date to come in and report all your wheat, barley/oats acreage. A timely and accurate report is required. An inaccurate report of acreage could cause loss of all program benefits. Measurement Service is available.

If you have wheat, barley/oats acreage that was planted before January 29, 1982, and you wish to designate some or all of this acreage for Conserving Use Acreage (set-aside), you need to file a report by May 15, 1982.

ACREAGE BASE APPEALS

The acreage bases can be appealed until the end of the sign-up period which is April 16, 1982.

The appeal must be in writing and must show that the acreage base established for the commodity is not representative of the current operator's normal operation for the farm(s).
