Roy Thompson was picked as an All State offensive lineman. He had previously been ranked as All-District Defensive lineman and second team All District offensive lineman.

Tim Shannon was named as an All State offensive back, as well as being the Class A All South Plains player of the year. Other honors earned by Shannon this season were All South Plains Offensive Back, All District offensive back and second team All District Defensive lineman.

John Russell was chosen to be on the second team All State offensive line. He had been named to the All South Plains offensive line, All District offensive guard and Honorable Mention All District Defensive lineman.

Shawn Bearden was named as Honorable Mention All State defensive back, and also All District defensive back and Honorable Mention All District Quarterback.

"These young men earned the individual awards by doing their best to help the Motley County football team win bi-district the last two years," Williams said. "Along with their teammates they all were extremely easy to coach. The '82 football team had the best united team effort that I have known."

Coach Williams said these four young men gave their best and along with the support and help from their teammates received the highest individual award, being selected to the All State team, that you can in the state of Texas.

"We will miss all the seniors that we are losing," he said.

1982 — Year Most Farmers Would Like To Forget

By Bill Braden
Communications Specialist
Texas Agricultural Extension Service

No opinion poll is needed to find out how Texas farmers and ranchers feel about the past year. 1982 was a disaster in almost every sense of the word — a year that most farmers and ranchers would just as soon forget.

The year started out with many producers in bad financial shape due to poor prices the past two years. And from there things got worse. Farm prices continued to suffer as commodity supplies mushroomed, and producers found little encouraging news as 1982 drew to a close.

A FEW BRIGHT SPOTS

A few things did happen during the year for which farmers and ranchers can be thankful. Interest rates eased down a bit and that old nemesis, inflation, finally cooled off to slow the rise in production costs. 1982 also turned out to be a fairly good crop year for some producers.

At the outset of the crop year, many farmers were in a dilemma about what to plant. For rice it was a matter of choosing the least of several evils. Many opted to plant less cotton — more than a million acres less — due to poor price prospects. Rice plantings were also down for the same reason. The slack was taken up by corn, grain sorghum and soybeans, but the outlook for those crops was lukewarm at best.

HEAVY WEATHER LOSSES

Extensive wet weather in the spring delayed planting operations in some western areas and in the state's mid-section. That caused many crops to be late, making them prime targets for the long, hot summer that followed. So some areas went abruptly from extreme wet conditions to a season-long drought that cut crop yields severely.

Of course, the spring storms with heavy rains and cool weather reduced young crop stands in some sections, particularly in central and eastern areas and in Southwest Texas, where hundreds of acres of corn, cotton and vegetables were lost to flooding, hail and high winds. Earlier, dry conditions had delayed plantings in parts of Southwest Texas and other areas.

The real blow as far as spring crop losses are concerned came in the Texas plains. Farmers saw most of their cotton crop wiped out by some of the most severe hailstorms in the area's history. Almost half of the South Plains' five million acres of cotton were reduced to stubble by the savage storms. Since the storms hit so late in the season that cotton could not be replanted, many farmers went to alternative crops such as soybeans and sunflowers. A considerable amount of grain sorghum also replaced hailed-out cotton.

Texas wheat yields in late spring were "so-so" as the crop endured extremely dry conditions in late winter and early spring followed by heavy rains. Rust disease also was severe in many areas. This year's wheat acreage was the largest ever in Texas. Spurred by good price prospects. But when harvest time rolled around, prices had cooled off considerably.

INSECTS, OTHER PROBLEMS

Insects once again made the scene as the 1982 crop season progressed. Yellow sugarcane aphids, greenbugs and cutworms dealt a lethal blow to thousands of acres of grain sorghum in coastal and central areas.

By mid-year the weather had settled down into its usual pattern — hot and dry. Most crops progressed well for a while, but soon spring moisture was gone and drought stress set in. In irrigated areas, farmers had irrigation pumps going full blast to keep their crops watered. Needless to say, running those pumps pushed production costs up sharply.

The hot, dry summer weather continued into the fall, providing ideal harvest conditions in most areas. Most farmers reaped good cotton, corn and grain sorghum harvests despite slow crop starts in the spring. However, the summer-long drought cut into crop yields in some areas, particularly cotton and dryland peanuts in central areas and soybeans and peanuts in coastal and eastern sections.

The summer drought also dealt a blow to this year's pecan crop, which already had its share of disease and insect problems. In addition, this was an alternate-bearing year for most pecan trees.

RANCHERS HAD PROBLEMS

While farmers were enduring all these problems, ranchers weren't faring any better. 1982 started out extremely dry so cattle had little grazing on small grains such as wheat and oats. A siege of cold weather followed which brought snow to much of Texas and caused a surge in livestock feeding.

Spring brought warmer weather and some rain, but much of the state continued dry until May — and even later in some areas — extending the feeding period due to lack of grazing. Of course, this pushed costs up.

May rains gave a big boost to pastures and ranges and brightened the outlook for most livestock producers. However, market prices remained weak for the most part and tended to waver downward as the year progressed.

Stockmen again had to be on guard for screwworms — perennial livestock pests. The first case of screwworms in Texas in more than a year was confirmed May 18 near the Starr-Hidalgo County line. But only a few more cases followed to bring the 1982 total to six, compared with five in 1981.

As the hot, dry summer weather wore on, ranchers had to contend with short grazing conditions, so they started to feed hay. Some had plenty of hay from an abundant harvest or past seasons but others faced short supplies, particularly in coastal, central and southern areas. As the dry siege continued, ranchers started culling their herds heavily. They shipped calves and lambs to market earlier than usual. And these heavy runs at local auctions sent prices plummeting.

The dry weather continued into the fall, causing delays in small grain plantings for fall and winter grazing. Some fields were dry-planted but didn't come up due to lack of moisture. Limited small grain growth hampered the movement of stocker cattle into the

Telephone Bill Excise Tax To Increase During 1983

The federal excise tax on monthly telephone bills will increase during 1983 from one percent to three percent as the result of legislation passed by Congress in August 1982 to obtain new tax revenues.

The tax applies to local and long-distance service.

The tax legislation states the three percent tax will be collected for three years with elimination in 1986.

An excise tax on telephone service was first imposed by Congress during World War I as a "temporary" measure, according to U.S. Independent Telephone Association.

Although repealed briefly after the war, the tax was reinstated during the Depression. Rates have ranged as high as 25 percent on long-distance calls and 15 percent on local service.

The tax stood at 10 percent for almost 20 years. However in 1970, Congress voted to begin eliminating the tax by reducing it one percent per year beginning in 1973 and continuing through 1981. However, the Fiscal Year 1981 Budget Reconciliation Bill signed by former President Jimmy Carter in December 1980 contained a provision maintaining the excise tax at two percent during 1981.

The 1982 tax bill

further postponed the phaseout by keeping the tax at one percent until Jan. 1, 1985. However, the August 1982 legislation raised the tax to three percent for the years 1983-85. The three percent tax is shown separately on the bill.

The tax revenues collected by telephone companies are forwarded to the federal government.

FARMERS

ains area where small grain grazing traditionally is big business. However, the demand for lightweight stocker cattle picked up in early December following widespread rains, with some going for up to $1 a pound. These December rains gave a big boost to small grains although much of the western half of Texas remained short on soil moisture.

WHAT'S AHEAD

Undoubtedly, Texas farmers and ranchers are putting improved prices for their products at the top of their list of New Year wishes. There are two chances of that happening — slim and none. So what's there to look forward to?

Most farmers will need to take a hard look at their operations to try to cut costs wherever possible. They will also need to consider participating in the 1983 government farm program which offers some price protection on their investments and can supplement their income.

Ranchers also need to follow efficient management practices — those that can bring in extra dollars — and they need to cut out anything that might be draining their pocketbooks.

Farmers and ranchers must strive to become better businessmen if they expect to financially survive the year ahead. If U.S. and world economic conditions improve some, the demand for agricultural products could increase and prices could strengthen.

But that may not happen for some time. So, farmers and ranchers must continue to hang on for survival — a situation they have become accustomed to over the past several years.

Defense vs. human needs disputed

Church leaders told they must work for alternatives

By SHARON MIELKE

(THE UNITED METHODIST REPORTER) — Every time a diner eats in the Pentagon dining room 40 children give up their mid-morning snack, according to the way federal dollars are allocated, United Methodist social service agency leaders were told here last month.

Dr. Rachel Tompkins, a United Methodist who describes herself and her agency — the Children's Defense Fund — as advocates for children and families, said such "false choices" between defense and human needs will continue to be made in Congress unless concerned Christians point out other alternatives.

Dr. Tompkins and Dr. Arthur Flemming, a prominent United Methodist layman who has served numerous government posts, addressed some 300 United Methodist social service agency leaders here last month.

Love of neighbor basic precept

Dr. Flemming told his audience that the commandment to "love thy neighbor as thyself" does not require us to approve everything our neighbor does but to never pass up the opportunity to help our neighbor achieve his or her highest potential. "Out of that commandment comes our concept of social justice," Dr. Flemming said. He said the commandment applies as well to groups of which Christians are members. "We should never miss the opportunity to help the neighbor."

He urged Christian leaders to know the facts about what is happening to the poor and to be a bridge of information to local congregations.

Dr. Tompkins' organization claims to be the only agency to "look for the little things" in the huge federal budget that make the "choices" understandable to the average citizen. "People can't really get their minds around what 220 MX missiles — at a cost of $110 million each — means," Paul Smith of the fund's search department told the Reporter later.

"It's just so much glibberish to most people to be told that eliminating the MX missile, for instance, could eliminate poverty in America twice over. But my mom — who I believe is a typical citizen — can understand that every time another automatic watering system is installed on a military golf course, it costs about the same amount as providing day care for 20 low-income children for a year, or about $40,000."

Dr. Tompkins said advocates should be waging full scale war on items in the defense budget which have nothing to do with defense, but which, because they are funded, mean "life-giving social services are cut."

She outlined how the "false choice" between defense and human services, described above in this article was computed.

"Secretary of Defense Casper Weinberger has a private dining room with a staff of 19 people which is available to 100 top officials. Each meal served costs the diner an average of $2.87 and the taxpayer $12.06.

"In the fiscal 1982 budget the mid-morning nutrition snack costing 30 cents per child was eliminated from the Childcare Feeding program which subsidizes meals at low-income child care centers.

"At the same time, the Pentagon dining room is subsidized annually with $400,000, the equivalent of 1 million mid-morning snacks," she said.

She added that there are four other executive dining rooms in the Pentagon which all together receive a total annual government subsidy of $1.7 million. Put another way, that would be equivalent to two programs which were reduced in fiscal 1982: child abuse prevention ($700,000) and counseling and aid for runaway youth ($500,000).

Christians concerned about loving their neighbor "need to work harder" to prove that the federal budget can be financed without sacrificing either genuine defense needs or hurting children, persons with handicapping conditions and the poor, said Dr. Tompkins of the Children's Defense Fund in Washington. The fund is a national, non-profit agency which lifts up the needs of children and others who lack political clout. The United Methodist Women's organization through its annual "Call to Prayer" offering has supported the agency's "Children's Sabbath" — a project geared to informing the public of how children are faring in our nation.

Dr. Tompkins told the denomination's social service leaders here that the members of Congress often do not have "clear choices" on which to vote between defense and human services.

Mr. Smith of her staff told the Reporter of several other "choices" pointed out by the children's fund.

Military bands came under fire. "Everybody loves the Marine Band, so it's hard to oppose them," said Mr. Smith, who said he learned how to identify military luxury items in the monolithic defense budget from Congressman Les Aspin of Wisconsin.

He said the 100 military bands cost $100 million each year, which human service advocates suggest might be applied more effectively to restoring the Compensatory Education program which was cut by $1 billion and is being considered for elimination.

The compensatory program provides remedial reading and remedial math for low-achieving children and, according to Mr. Smith, is widely credited with "turning around elementary school test scores in basic skills... especially among low-income children, black children and the children of parents who were school dropouts."

"A secret that never got out was that basic elementary education skills were turned around in the late '70s," he said, and largely due to the Title I program. Dr. Tompkins said this is an illustration of her contention that "what has worked" and "what hasn't" in federal service programs have never been carefully analyzed.

Citing another "choice," Mr. Smith said the Pentagon, which is located in Virginia, provides social aides to top officials who are in effect personal servants. Three hundred aides cost $3 million per year to pick up uniforms, shine shoes, shop, etc. for officers.

At the same time, Virginia has 100 homemaking aides who provide similar services for 2,500 persons who can't do these things themselves because they are aged, blind, disabled or have a handicapped person in the home. The Virginia program was reduced by one-third last year while the Pentagon budget for personal servants increased 15 percent, he said.

'Errors' mock cuts

Mr. Smith noted the irony of the 1982 domestic budget cut of $35 billion being literally wiped out as soon as it passed by the standard "error" each year in the cost of military procurements of between $30 and $50 billion.

Areas of American life in which Christians should be seeking and advocating "clear choices" are children, social security, and rebuilding America's infrastructure — roads, bridges, Dr. Tompkins said. "These should be seen as complementary needs, not as competitive needs," Dr. Tompkins said. "Filling potholes in roads should not be competitive with filling teeth."

She said her agency would be running a voter analysis of all the 73 United Methodist members of Congress this year on budget bills. This will be available from the Defense Fund at 1520 New Hampshire Ave., N.W. Washington, D.C. 20036. They will also have a "Graben Book" of "choices" related to the new federal budget which will be available in February.

Motorists Given Precautions For Winter Driving Season

The Texas Department of Public Safety reminds motorists that the winter season is upon us, and it is time once again to get both the driver and the vehicle in the best possible condition for this most grueling driving season.

The DPS reported 1,262 fatal accidents were attributed to snow or ice covered roadways, according to Major Vernon Cawthon, Regional Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

He said, "Winter driving on wet, foggy, or ice covered roads is different and requires more patience."

He advised the motorist to start early, to allow time for traffic delays, and for rest periods on long trips, to adjust their speed for road and traffic conditions, and to avoid sudden driving maneuvers.

Cawthon said, "Winter driving requires more concentration and effort on the part of the driver, and extra care must be taken to clean windows and headlights of mud and ice. The ability to see or be seen is lowered in bad weather and this requires more driver alertness."

He noted, batteries, tires, windshield wiper blades, and anti-freeze are items that need to be checked. Weak batteries should be replaced, tires should have good deep treads, and good wiper blades are vital in winter when visibility is poor.

"Remember the speed limits posted on our highways are limits for good conditions, and winter driving may require us to lower speed to adjust for poor conditions," he said.

He emphasized that impatience will not get you to your destination any faster. Patience will not get you there any faster either, but he said, "It will sure make the trip more pleasant and safe."

PSYCHOLOGY

Are you a daydreamer? No need to be ashamed, psychologists say. Your waking musings aren't just a waste of time. They can often work for you—to meet the stress of life and even solve problems. Nearly everybody else daydreams too! Another way to ease tension is to sit back and relax with a nice cup of hot tea. It's a pleasant accompaniment to any daydreaming afternoon.

Snails and slugs have a remarkable homing instinct. Each has been observed to return to the same area, even the same plant, from which it was removed.

COOKING CORNER

Ideas from Betty Crocker's Working Woman's Cookbook

Recipes for quickly prepared, tasty dishes are treasured by working women everywhere—and, many point out, every woman is a working woman. As their numbers grow (there was a 2.9 percent increase in the number of women working outside their homes in just the last year), America's nearly 50 million working women like to know that they're not skimping on appetizing meals or important nutrition.

The new Working Woman's Cookbook from Betty Crocker will help them accomplish that goal. This 160-page illustrated volume offers quick-and-easy recipes and dishes that can be done ahead and refrigerated or frozen. There are loads of timesaving tips for menu planning, shopping and storage.

The book is from Random House. It's priced at $10.95 and is available at department and bookstores.

Here's a sample do-ahead recipe:

HOT VEGETABLE SANDWICHES

- 6 unaliced whole wheat or white hamburger buns
- 1 1/2 cups shredded Swiss cheese (about 6 ounces)
- 1/4 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon dried basil leaves
- 2 small zucchini, thinly sliced (about 1 cup)
- 1 large tomato, chopped (about 1 cup)
- 1 medium onion, chopped (about 1/2 cup)
- 1 can (2 ounces) sliced ripe olives, drained

Vegetables and cheese... a tasty team for hot, satisfying sandwiches

Cut thin slice from top of each bun; reserve. Remove center from each bun, leaving 1/4-inch wall. (Use removed bread for crumbs or stuffing.) Mix cheese, mayonnaise, salt and basil; spread about 1/4 cup in bottom of each bun. Mix zucchini, tomato, onion and olives; divide among buns. Top with reserved tops of buns. Wrap each sandwich in heavy-duty aluminum foil. Refrigerate no longer than 24 hours.

About 35 minutes before serving, heat wrapped Hot Vegetable Sandwiches on oven rack in 350° oven until hot and cheese is melted, about 30 minutes. 6 servings.

NOTE: The book also gives directions for making this recipe to serve immediately.

County Agent's Corral

By Jerry Cummins

January through February is an ideal time to select shade or ornamental trees for planting so they can become established prior to spring growth.

In fact, Texas Arbor Day, January 21, is an excellent time to plant a tree.

Tree planting should be done with care. To begin, select a tree that suits your particular landscape needs. Before buying, ask yourself these questions: Will there be adequate room for the tree when it reaches maturity? Will it fit the existing landscape? Is it for shade, screening or wind protection or just to balance the landscape?

Choose a tree that is well adapted to area soils and weather extremes. Consider possible insect problems such as elm leaf beetles, common to various elm species, and disease susceptibilities such as anthracnose, common to sycamore trees and the Arizona ash.

Choose between deciduous and evergreen trees. Deciduous trees provide shade in summer and shed their leaves to let sunlight through in winter. Evergreen plants provide shading and screening the year round but do not change color or texture in the fall.

After selecting the tree, make certain it's planted correctly. Make sure the planting hole is large enough for the root system. For a bareroot tree, make the hole large enough to allow the root system to spread out naturally. The plant should set no deeper than its original soil level—slightly higher (1-2 inches) is even better. Next, trim broken or damaged roots and then form a mound in the bottom of the planting hole, letting the roots flow down the mound. Do not allow roots to dry out.

For a balled-and-burlapped tree, dig the hole about 1-1/2 times the diameter of the ball. Plant it so that the top of the soil ball is at or slightly above the existing surface.

Finally, prune the tops of transplanted trees to compensate for loss of roots. As a general rule, prune about 1/3 of the top growth. Then fill the hole with a good soil mixture and water thoroughly.

For a list of trees suited to various areas of Texas, get a copy of B-1237—"Trees for Texas Landscapes", available at the county Extension office.

Social Security In Motley County

Terry J. Clements as we start this new year, the vitality of the Social Security system confirmed in two distinct ways. First, the whole country is watching and waiting for the legislative medicine that will restore financial health to the retirement and survivors benefit system. This public attention will assure effective treatment. Secondly, routine, annual adjustments and program refinements, already provided by law, will take place as usual in 1983. Orderly change of this type is characteristic of a stable and mature system.

Beginning this year, retirees who are at least age 70 can earn any amount and still get all their Social Security benefits. This 'earnings test exempt age' had been 72 until this year.

Also, retirees between the ages of 65 and 70 can earn $6600.00 in 1983 without losing any benefits - a $600.00 increase in this 'allowable earnings amount.' For younger retirees, survivors and dependents the annual exempt amount is $4920.00, up $480.00 from 1982.

Social Security benefits are intended to partially replace lost earnings. Therefore, these annual earnings limits apply only to payment for services, including wages, salaries, and net profit from a business or partnership. The limits do not apply to other types of income.

Remember that those who received a Social Security check last year, who were not at least age 72 throughout 1982, and whose earnings were above last year's limits must file an earnings report with the Social Security Administration by April 15, 1983. The 1982 exempt earnings limits were $6000.00 for those between the ages of 65 and 72, and $4440.00 for younger beneficiaries. People who estimated their 1982 earnings would exceed last year's limits can expect to receive an annual report form in the mail. Forms can also be requested from your nearest Social Security office. Filing a tax return with the IRS does not satisfy this annual report requirement.

By the way, these allowable earnings rules do not apply to those who receive benefits based on disability or to those who receive Supplemental Security Income. Any earnings should be reported promptly by those who get disability or SSI benefits.

There is no scheduled change in the Social Security payroll tax rate in 1983. The tax rate will remain 6.7 percent, paid by both employees and employers. Self-employed persons will continue to pay 9.35 percent on their net profit. The amount of earnings subject to Social Security tax, however, has gone up this year, from $32,400.00 to $35,700.00.

This taxable wage base increases automatically each year to reflect the rise in average wages. Although some workers will pay a slightly higher Social Security tax amount due to the increase in the amount of wages covered in 1983, there will be no increase in the amount of Social Security taxes paid by about 92 percent of all workers.

Also tied to the rise in average wages is the amount of earnings which will result in one quarter of work credit under Social Security. People born after 1928 need 40 quarters of work credit (or about 10 years' credit) to qualify for retirement benefits. Fewer quarters of work credit are needed by people who will be 62 before 1991 or in cases of death or disability before age 62. The new quarter of coverage amount is $370.00, up $30.00 from last year.

A final routine annual adjustment involves the Medicare hospital insurance deductible amount. The deductible amount is designed to represent the average cost of one day of hospital care. To keep up with rising hospital costs, the 1983 inpatient deductible has increased by $44.00 to $304.00.

While some of these routine annual adjustments are more welcome than others, the changes are a necessary part of this country's most important system of financial protection and health insurance - the Social Security system.

FACTS & FIGURES

By Candace Lieberman North American Precis Syndicate
 Every day, more than 107,000,000 Americans read a newspaper. Every week, 90 percent of the adults in the country read at least one paper. That may explain why newspaper advertising revenues lead all major media - more than television and radio combined. In fact, newspaper advertising was up 12.1 percent in 1981.

Foot Facts

By Dr. Robert Brodtkin, D.P.M.

Treatment Of Ankle Sprains

When a person comes to the podiatrist's office with an injured ankle there is a set routine to follow to establish an accurate diagnosis. This is done by first talking to the patient to discover the mechanism of injury and to rule out other injuries. Oftentimes pain will override pain so it is important to not overlook other trauma besides the ankle injury. Feeling the various ligaments around the ankle can give much information since an injured ligament will be acutely painful. X-rays are then usually taken to rule out fractures of the ankle, leg, or foot. Stress x-rays or arthrograms (injection of dye into the joint) can also be used, in the hospital, to test the integrity of the ankle ligaments.

The diagnosis will be based on three things. The history (what the patient tells the doctor), the physical examination (what the doctor sees), and the x-ray findings will be evaluated to give an over-all picture.

In Grade I injuries (bruising of the ligaments) or Grade II sprains (tearing of some of the ligamentous fibers) the treatment alternatives include the following: ice packs, compression dressings, elevation, aspirin, rest, splints, adhesive strapping, and crutches, if necessary.

A more severe injury, including a Grade III sprain (rupture of the ligament), or a fracture usually requires a plaster cast. Surgical repair may be needed depending upon a number of factors. For example, an 18-year-old football player would do best with early surgical repair of the torn ligaments while a 70-year-old grandmother might do best with an ankle splint.

The development of excessive swelling, bleeding, and muscle cramping can make the diagnosis a more difficult job. It is best to seek medical attention early, preferably within a few hours of the ankle injury.
