Motley County Wins In Homecoming Battle

BUNNI ZABIELSKI
1980 Football Sweetheart

Two pass interception returns for touchdowns paved the way for eighth-ranked Motley County Friday night as the Matadors took a 26-6 District 2-1A North victory over Nazareth.

The win raised Motley County's record to 7-0 for the season and 2-0 in district play, while the Swifts fell to 3-4 and 0-2.

The Matadors started off with a bang as Dwight Campbell picked off a Nazareth pass and ran it back 75 yards to paydirt for the first score of the night. Charlie Campbell tackled on the PAT.

Later in the opening period, Tim Shannon rambled 5 yards to score and Charlie Campbell again converted.

After a scoreless third quarter, the Motley County defense went to work again. Jerry Long intercepted another Nazareth pass and returned it 23 yards to score. The PAT attempt failed.

The Swifts finally got on the scoreboard in the fourth quarter as John Schultz ran it over from 2 yards out, but a run for the extra point was stopped short.

Motley County's final TD came on a 37-yard sprint by Shannon. The PAT attempt was blocked.

The Motley County team will travel to Lubbock Friday to face the Longhorns at 7:30 p.m.

HOMECOMING ROYALTY -- Mrs. Lucille Meador Woolery of Abilene and Ed D. Smith of Stateline, Nev., were named Homecoming Queen and King at the meeting Saturday afternoon of the Matador High School and Motley County High School Ex-Students and Teachers. Ed D. was also recognized as the ex-student who traveled the farthest to attend the reunion.

Motley County Homecoming Is Well Attended

Attendance Friday and Saturday at homecoming of former students and teachers in Matador and Motley County schools was up over the number of those registering in previous years. A count reveals 252 names on the registration sheets, but does not include all the spouses and other relatives who accompanied the exes. There also were a number of late arrivals who did not sign in.

Class reunions and several family reunions during homecoming probably accounted for some of the increase.

During an afternoon business meeting in the school gymnasium, Lucille Meador Woolery of Abilene was named Homecoming Queen, and Ed D. Smith of Stateline, Nev., received the Homecoming King title. He also was recognized as having traveled the farthest to attend. Miss Beulah Sheridan of John Knox Village, Lubbock, was the oldest graduate (1918) present, and Virgie Sparks Hunter of Slaton was the earliest teacher, having taught at Bird Ranch in 1922.

Mrs. James Gwinn (Darla Cruse) presided and was assisted by last year's queen, Mrs. Sam Tucker of Amarillo, the former Jean Mize, in presenting corsages to those recognized. The new homecoming queen received a bouquet of red roses.

A slate of new officers presented by the nominating committee was approved in an unanimous vote and includes Roger Vinson, president; Betty Standefer Farley of Turkey, vice president; and Hazel Walton Donovan, secretary.

New directors are Lucretia Estes Campbell, Eugenia Garrison Barton, J. B. Cooper and Darla Gwinn Cruse. Hold-over directors are Dan Brandon, Naomi Simpson Lawrence and Johnney Turner.

Luther Green gave the invocation and read the names of deceased since last year.

Sour Dough Singers An excellent program of music was presented by four of the original Sour Dough Singers, a popular high school group in the 1960's.

Returning for this event were Gary Campbell of Houston, who acted as emcee and also accompanied the group with his guitar; Larry Keltz of Plainview; Judy Gwinn Hempel of Levelland and Janie Killingsworth Rodman of Lubbock.

They sang a number of favorite songs, including Campbell's "The Lonely Nightingale," and received a standing ovation as they concluded with a rousing rendition of "This Land Is My Land."

The business meeting and program followed an enjoyable Walter Jones barbecue, which was served in the school lunch room. Activities had originally been planned for outdoors, but were moved inside the school building.

The homecoming dance was held at the American Legion Building as scheduled.

Lighthouse Electric Tells Building Plans

Lighthouse Electric Cooperative, Inc. announced today that a new headquarters office, warehouse and service facility will be built by the utility at the intersection of State Highway 207 and U.S. 70 east of Floydada. The announcement was made by Alton Higginbotham, General Manager of the Cooperative.

Cooperative to combine its operations from the Floydada office at one location. In the past, office and warehouse facilities were in separate locations.

Design for the entire area will incorporate the latest and most efficient energy saving concepts, with full insulation throughout, and an earthen berm to help shield the building. Heat pumps for heating and cooling will be specifically zoned into each area for the most efficiency and will have automatic controls to regulate the system whenever an area is not in use. Electric service to the new office will be provided by the Cooperative.

An expanded transformer and oil circuit breaker repair shop will allow the Cooperative to perform routine maintenance locally, rather than sending equipment out of town for extended periods. The transformer repair area is also coordinated with a vehicle maintenance area for maximum utilization of equipment and labor.

"This move is a reflection of our confidence in the area we service and its future", said Higginbotham. "Lighthouse has experienced rapid growth each of the last several years, and our projections indicate this trend will continue. Since occupying our present offices in 1949, total number of members has increased from 2,000 to 7,100, miles of line has tripled from 1,200 to 3,700 and KWH sales are 400 times more in 1980 than in 1950."

MOTLEY COUNTY HEART ASSOCIATION was presented two awards Tuesday during the regular meeting of the Matador Lions Club. Earlyne Jameson was presented the "Outstanding Program Award", honorable mention, for being second on the state level for attaining a high level of activity in alerting the public about heart disease. Emilio Aguilar was given the "Heart and Torch Award" for exceeding all previous fund raising records. Pictured are Carolyn Moore, director, of Lubbock; Mrs. Jameson, Mr. Aguilar, Larry McEachen, director, and Ronnie Vandiver, Local Lions President.

Return From Hawaii

Mr. and Mrs. Bill McCaghren reached home Thursday after an 8-day, three-island tour of Hawaii, including Oahu, Maui and Hawaii. Highlights of the trip included entertainment as well as sight-seeing. They attended the Jim Nabors Polynesian Extravaganza and visited the Polynesian Cultural Center. The tour group enjoyed a pageant of long canoes, riding the "trans," and narration by a Polynesian guide explaining village life and customs of the South Pacific Islanders. After a lavish dinner that day, the group was entertained in a semi-amphitheater where a pageant was presented, titled "An Invitation to Paradise." The McCaghrens took the Pearl Harbor cruise on the Hawaii State cruise ship carrying 600 people. Color photos were made of each couple on the tour after leis were placed on the women. A deluxe audio-visual presentation described the attack on Pearl Harbor, coordinated with full color slides. The dramatic recording included actual broadcasts of national radio coverage of the attack, President Roosevelt's address to Congress and important information on the events leading to the war with Japan. The recording included also the coverage of the Arizona Memorial and a special address by President Ford. Leisure time was spent at Waikiki and on Maui, where a luau was served.

From there they transferred to Hilo on the "Big Island" of Hawaii and a tour which included a visit to Kilauea Volcano, described as a "crater within a crater." Mr. and Mrs. McCaghren flew from Amarillo, and upon their return, visited their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. McCaghren, and with Mrs. McCaghren's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Edwards.

Reagan

There is a crisis of leadership in America today that only new, strong leadership can correct. A strong leadership tempered with wisdom, decency and compassion. That's Governor Reagan's vision of leadership. And if he is elected President, here is a glimpse of what Americans can expect.

Strong leadership in foreign affairs means a strong peace.

Only a strong America can enjoy the fruits of a strong peace. And only a strong peace can instill in Americans a sense of security and the feeling of confidence they seek.

Says Reagan: "We know only too well that war comes not when the forces of freedom are strong, but when they are weak. It is then that tyrants are tempted."

Under a Reagan Administration, America would move swiftly to:

- Provide the leadership and policy direction necessary to promote a healthy, growing economy, enabling the U.S. to show the world it is a nation in control of its destiny again.

- Restore America's military strength, because an America that enjoys a margin of safety in its military preparedness is an America with the greatest chance to keep the peace—the strong peace that would always be at the heart of Ronald Reagan's foreign policy.

- Speak out more often and more eloquently—in the U.N., through the Voice of America, Radio Free Europe, and in every other proper forum—on behalf of peace, freedom, human rights... the principles for which America stands.

- Seek greater consultation and cooperation with our European allies—fully expecting each one of them to bear a fair share of the common defense effort—in order to maintain a strong NATO as a counterweight to the Soviet Union's continuing arms build-up.

- Re-establish an efficient intelligence operation, for the ability to detect and act upon a brewing problem early and peaceably is essential in conducting an effective foreign policy.

- Make it clearly understood that detente is a two-way street and that the Soviet Union cannot expect U.S. silence in the face of aggression, such as the invasion of Afghanistan—or refusal to honor the Helsinki Agreements guaranteeing a free interchange of information and the right to emigrate.

All of these points represent but a sampling of the foreign policy direction that a Reagan Administration would take. Such a foreign policy would not stand alone. It would be linked to a domestic policy that reinforced its strength and credibility in the eyes of the world.

Strong leadership in economic policy means lower taxes, more jobs, and less inflation.

Governor Reagan has an economic program for America that will work because it's a comprehensive program. A program that recognizes the interrelationships and complexity of our economy... one that combines the wisdom of leading American economists with common sense.

Here is the basis of the Economic Plan that can be expected from a

Reagan Administration:

- The growth of federal spending will be controlled. A freeze on federal hiring will be instituted immediately. And Ronald Reagan will do as President what he did as Governor of California: create a task force composed of the finest minds from industry and labor, to isolate wasteful and fraudulent operations in government, estimated by the Justice Department to amount to as much as $25 billion. No Longer will unemployment be used to fight inflation.

- An immediate 10% reduction in personal tax rates, along with acceleration of depreciation schedules, will be initiated in order to help generate industrial expansion and the creation of new jobs. Changes will be made in the tax structure, especially aimed at removing those requirements which serve as disincentives in industry. It will be recommended that the tax on savings account interest be further reduced. Upon reducing the tax rates, tax indexing will be proposed to protect taxpayers from automatic tax increases resulting from cost-of-living wage increases.

- Action will be taken to review those government regulations which clearly hamper, instead of encourage, economic growth—and to then change them in an orderly fashion as possible. This action will not affect regulations in such sensitive areas as health and job safety which do serve a useful purpose.

- A sound monetary policy will be restored—one designed to instill confidence in the American dollar abroad, as well as bring down the rate of inflation at home.

- The nation's economic policy, once established, will be adhered to. Abrupt changes in economic policy have, in recent years, aggravated existing problems and created new ones; they have played havoc with the confidence of those in both industry and labor. The right economic policy, held steadily and consistently on course, will do much to establish greater stability in America's economic system.

Beyond these broad economic steps aimed at expanding the economy as a whole, a Reagan Administration would recognize that special problems exist which require special solutions.

A few examples:

- For workers who have lost their jobs because they lack certain skills or are victims of a changing technology, Reagan would act to implement job retraining and job placement programs.

- For disadvantaged youths and others unemployed because of the flight of industry from the cities, enterprise zones would be established in depressed urban areas in order to stimulate new businesses and new jobs.

- For industries in trouble because of exceptionally aggressive foreign competition—such as the auto industry—he would initiate steps to permit American industry to be more competitive in the world market. These would include the elimination of unnecessary and costly regulations... and adopting a firmer, common sense view of future trade agreements with other nations, always with jobs for American workers uppermost in mind.

Strong leadership in meeting human needs means common sense, as well as compassion.

Ronald Reagan believes in the need to devise lasting solutions to problems, and in the need to combine a sense of caring with a sense of the cost involved.

As President, he will:

- Strengthen the Social Security system in order to insure that older Americans need never worry about the survival of the system. And he will strive to improve quality health care for the aged and poor through medicare and medicaid.

- Act to change the tax structure to make treatment of working spouses more equitable, and remove the present tax provision that penalizes married two-worker families.

- Work at both the federal level and with state governments to end welfare fraud by removing ineligible from the rolls, strengthen "work incentive" programs to help recipients become self-supporting, and at the same time, resolve to never fail to assist those who are truly needy.

- Propose a health policy with built-in protections against financial disaster brought on by huge medical expenses.

- Sponsor the removal of many of the bureaucratic and costly federal regulations on small businesses, thereby assisting them to be profitable.

- Demand vigorous enforcement of civil rights laws intended to assure equal treatment in job recruitment, hiring, promotions, pay, credit, mortgage access and housing.

- Support equal rights and opportunities for women in such key areas as employment, but oppose taking away the traditional rights women have enjoyed, such as exemption from the military draft.

- Support every effort to guarantee quality education for every American... back tax credits for parents bearing the cost of educating their children in non-public schools... and oppose forced busing of children that is often disruptive and does nothing to improve educational quality.

Ronald Reagan believes—and is ready to prove—that strong leadership can make a difference in meeting the human needs of Americans in a way that combines a sense of caring with a sense of what the cost will be to every American taxpayer.

Strong leadership means strong people working as a team to get the job done.

When Ronald Reagan was Governor of California, he was widely acclaimed by friend and foe alike for selecting the most qualified and capable men and women to serve in state government. He would, as President, put together the finest team to assist in the formulation and implementation of both domestic and foreign policies. Here is just a sampling of the talent he has called on during the campaign:

Gerald R. Ford, former President; Milton Friedman, Nobel Prize-winning economist; Donald H. Rumsfeld, former Secretary of Defense; James Lynn, former head of the Office of Management and Budget; George S. Shultz, former Secretary of Labor and Secretary of the Treasury; Rita Hauser, former U.S. Representative to the U.N. Commission on Human Rights; Dr. Fred Ikle, former Director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency; Arthur Burns, former

Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board; Frank Shakespeare, former Director of the U.S. Information Agency; Alexander M. Haig, former Supreme Commander of NATO; Carla A. Hills, former Secretary of Housing and Urban Development; William P. Rogers, former Attorney General; Donald E. Santarelli, former Associate Deputy Attorney General; and Caspar Weinberger, former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

What all of these people have in common is experience and expertise in specific areas of government policy. Together, they would bring to a Reagan Administration a reputation for knowledge, sound judgment, and a keen awareness of the type of strong leadership that America needs.

They would also bring the urgent realization that the time for such strong leadership is now.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:

First let me say that I am always happy to see items of "memories and flashbacks" in the Tribune, as well as the family stories and histories which were published back in the year. We who are working on genealogies and our own family's stories find many things which help pin-point an event, date, or something personal.

I wish you to print the enclosed notice about Randall Whitworth, and enclose a check for payment of same. If it is too little, then I'll remit whatever the balance is. If it is too much, then please apply the balance to my subscription to the Tribune which will be due December 5th.

I don't know when Randall Whitworth's subscription expires, but he very likely owes you for continuing to send his paper after he moved to San Antonio. We'll be glad to remit that, too.

Thank you, Mrs. William C. Gruver (Randall's niece)
