A Second Glance

Senator Lloyd Bentsen said this week that if you ever drive south of Fort Worth on U.S. 377, stop by the town square of Granbury. At first glance, you'll notice that it really hasn't changed much from the way it was back in the 1890's. But don't let that fool you into thinking Granbury is a sleepy little town -- because it isn't. The beautifully spruced-up 19th century architecture around the square is an important key to the town's charm and economic progress.

Granbury draws weekend visitors from around the region to its prosperous shops, set in what were once neglected, crumbling relics. These handsome buildings were restored to the level of their former glory with the aid of Historical Preservation Tax Incentives.

Recently the President signed into law the Bentsen bill which extends these special tax incentives for five years. Under this program, these historic buildings are restored by private enterprise, not the federal government. The only role of government is to provide a tax incentive that encourages private investors to spend their money on these historically important projects.

The Texas Historical Commission reports a rapid growth of applications to certify historic buildings under these tax provisions. Since the incentives were enacted in 1976, 54 proposed and completed projects worth over $40 million have been approved in Texas alone.

For example, depreciation tax incentives encouraged restoration of the famous Menger Hotel in San Antonio. The elegant 19th century hotel has lured such distinguished American visitors as writer O. Henry, "Teddy" Roosevelt, Ulysses S. Grant and Robert E. Lee.

And in Houston, a structure that weathered pioneer days -- the old Kennedy Bakery Building -- today houses a restaurant in what was once a trading post and stage coach stop.

Why doom stately, historically valuable buildings to decay, when we can harness the creativity of private enterprise in rejuvenating them? And it makes for good economics. A relatively small tax reduction is stimulating hundreds of millions of dollars in private investment nationwide, which triggers a burst of economic activity, creating thousands of meaningful, productive jobs.

In addition to incentives, the Bentsen bill also extends two tax disincentives designed to protect historic structures. The first prohibits income tax deductions of demolition expenses on historic buildings. The second forbids the use of accelerated depreciation for new buildings or renovation work which destroys or defaces an historic landmark.

So far, the Department of Interior has approved

GOING ASHORE -- Mrs. W. F. Jacobs, followed by her daughter, Laura, leave the M/S Skyward of Norwegian Caribbean Lines, for a day of sightseeing and shopping in Charlotte Amalie, a Virgin Islands port during their recent 7-day cruise in the Caribbean.

Caribbean Cruise Enjoyed By Pair

By Lila Meador

Mrs. W. F. Jacobs returned recently from a 7-day Caribbean cruise with her daughter, Laura Jacobs of Farwell, Parmer County Extension Agent for Home Economics. The pair left January 10 by plane from Lubbock for Miami, where they embarked.

The cruise included four ports-of-call, Cape Haitien, Haiti; San Juan, Puerto Rico; Charlotte Amalie, Virgin Islands; and Puerto Plata in the Dominican Republic. Shipboard activities included "just about anything a person would want to do," according to Mrs. Jacobs. Movies, night club entertainment, Calypso music Under the Stars, bridge sessions, exercise classes, swimming, deck games and sports, were but a few, not to mention a "Grandmother's Party," which Mrs. Jacobs attended. Tours and shopping took up shore time in the ports but included also a beach party and swim in the Atlantic ocean. One of the night tours included a visit to a Flamingo Club, which was especially entertaining, with the exotic and colorful flamingo dancers, Mrs. Jacobs said.

Among the nightly entertainments they enjoyed aboard ship was a masquerade party, the floor shows and midnight buffets.

Laura says the cruise was "everything I thought it would be and more," and she hopes to have the opportunity to do it again every January, according to quotes from the State Line Tribune of Farwell.

Parker Sings At KLLL Opry

by Lakenna Park

DeAnne Parker, a Senior at Patton Springs, recently performed at the KLLL West Texas Opry before a crowd of 2,850 people in Lubbock.

Parker said that when she was singing with a group called Malfunction Junction, the Maines Brothers heard her and Lloyd Maines helped to get her on the Opry.

"It was scary but fun, I think it was a great experience because the people came to watch the show instead of dancing and carrying on," said Parker.

She continued, "That's what made it so scary -- all those 2,850 people with eyes on me!"

The producer of the Opry told Parker that he wanted her to make a demo (trial run at studio recording).

"Meanwhile he said they'd be looking for me some songs of my own. I'd love to make a record!"

The money collected from the Opry went to benefit the West Texas Boys' Ranch.

Parker said that KLLL has an Opry about every two months to raise money for the Boys' Ranch.

PTA Members Hear Program On Alcohol

"It is never okay to get drunk from a health viewpoint," according to Tom McGovern, a Counselor with the Alcoholic Program of the Department of Psychology of Texas Tech Health Science Center.

McGovern spoke to Motley County PTA members and their guests last week, adding, "there is no way to say what will happen to any person when under the influence of a mind altering chemical."

According to McGovern, the outside layer of the brain which controls a person's emotions is what is affected first by alcohol and other drugs. "If this goes wacky, we go wacky," he added.

"One passed out from intoxication is the closest to death that person can be," continued McGovern. "Pain is a necessary part of life and being normal is being able to cope without mind altering chemicals," he said.

If weekends are made for Michelob and life is to get all the gusto -- what's left?," he asked.

According to McGovern, one out of every eight drinkers are alcoholics; each of these significantly affect the lives of two others. Alcoholism is a disease of the family, but there is a hope for recovery through information given from the health point of view.

"Negative emotions come from addiction. Drug dominance means that you can not function emotionally, thus the addict loses the ability to love himself," McGovern stated.

"An alcoholic can recover if he will admit that he has a disease. Alcoholism is a 50-50 split in professions and jobs, sexes, and age groups. However, there is Recovery," concluded McGovern.

Best Buy In Farming

May Be Crop Insurance

With a new government subsidy that pays up to 30 percent of the cost of carrying crop insurance, the best buy in farming today may be the few dollars an acre (tax deductible) that it costs to insure all the other dollars invested in producing a crop.

This advice comes from Ben A. Jordan, Jr., Regional Director of the recently expanded Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

Jordan suggests that there are now fewer than five sound reasons farmers should consider insurance this year, even if they have never protected their crop investments in the past.

First, the new policies offer more protection. Policyholders can insure up to 75 percent of average yields, which in most cases should fully cover the investment in the insured crop plus the cost of the insurance. They can also select, from several choices, the amount they want to be paid for each bushel or pound their crop falls short of the guaranteed production.

Second, the new federal subsidy can reduce the per acre cost of carrying all-risk insurance by as much as 30 percent. The combination of the subsidy and the tax deduction allowed for insurance premiums means the after-tax cost is only a small fraction of the protection provided.

Third, rising production costs mean the dollars and cents risks of crop production this Spring will be sharply higher than a year ago. In the event of crop losses, such as many farmers experienced in 1980, the financial consequences could be disastrous. Many farmers who have felt they could afford to farm without some amount of insurance in the past are now wisely reappraising the risks involved, Jordan said.

Fourth, the USDA disaster payments program, which some farmers have looked to as a solution for insurance, will end after this crop year.

Farmers who elect to carry FCIC insurance in 1981 rather than participate in the disaster payment will be eligible for the 30 percent discount plus, if they do not incur a crop loss, an additional 5 percent premium discount in 1982.

Fifth, farmers who insure their crop investment will have an advantage, Jordan predicts, in competing for credit in this Spring's tight money market. The cash flow guaranteed by the policy assures a source of funds for timely loan repayment even in the event of a total crop loss. Moreover, at the option of the policyholder, FCIC policies can be pledged as loan collateral.

For information about the new, higher-coverage, lower-cost insurance protection, contact the nearest FCIC office or a private insurance agent that handles FCIC insurance.

Choice of Tax Preparer

An Important Decision

The choosing of a paid preparer by taxpayers to do their federal income tax returns should be done carefully and wisely. Most tax return preparers are honest and do not deliberately attempt to defraud either their clients or the IRS. However, a few misuse the responsibility of preparing a tax return for someone else, and the IRS has suggestions on how to identify these preparers.

Taxpayers should not sign a blank return, or one which is partially completed, or one prepared in pencil. These could be altered by the preparer. Preparers should be asked to sign the return in the taxpayer's presence, and give his or her identification number, as required by law. The taxpayer must be given a copy of the completed return.

Preparers who promise a refund, claim a special relationship with the IRS or boast of ways to beat the tax system should be avoided by taxpayers.

The choosing of a preparer is particularly important because the taxpayer, not the preparer, is responsible for the accuracy of the tax return. As much care should go into the choosing of a tax preparer as the selection of an attorney, doctor or any other professional person, according to the IRS.

Methodist Churches At Flomot and Quitaque Plan Revival Services

The United Methodist Church of Quitaque and Flomot will be holding Revival services February 11-15 with Reverend Richard Dunagin of Greenville, Texas as evangelist and Reverend Marvin Gregory of Morton leading the music.

Many will remember Reverend Dunagin from the YEA Crusade of 1979. Richard is currently serving as the pastor of the Westview United Methodist Church in Greenville. He received his college education from Southern Methodist University in Dallas. His seminary training was taken at Asbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore, Kentucky and Perkins School of Theology, S.M.U. He comes with a wealth of experience having served as a Youth Director in Fort Worth and pastor for the past eight years in various United Methodist Churches in the Dallas-Ft. Worth area. Richard is the Co-author of Through the New Testament, a notebook study guide for Biblical studies.

Reverend Gregory is presently the pastor of the First United Methodist Church in Morton. He received his college degree from McMurry College in Abilene and his seminary training from Asbury Theological Seminary. While at Asbury he was involved with the Singing Seminarians, the Seminary Chorus and numerous other areas of music ministry. He served as the Minister of Music of the Plainview First United Methodist Church from 1976 to 1978. Marvin comes with a great deal of experience in music having served as organist of the Aldersgate United Methodist Church in Abilene, Texas; plus he has served as Music evangelist for several revivals, youth camps and Ashrams in the Northwest Texas and New Mexico area.

The schedule for the services will be Wednesday and Thursday evenings at the Flomot Church. Friday and Saturday evenings at the church in Quitaque. There will be morning services at both churches at their regular times. In addition there will be a mid-morning Bible study at the Quitaque church beginning Thursday morning, plus morning breakfasts Friday and Saturday at Quitaque. Saturday there will be a community wide Youth Rally at the Quitaque Community Center.

The members of both the Quitaque and Flomot United Methodist Churches invite everyone to come and be a part of these services.

TIPS ON TAXES

You can save yourself some tax money now and your estate some tax money later in three different ways.

One way is with a Missions Agreement Savings Plan. You deposit money with World Vision, Inc., a Christian humanitarian and service agency. Like a bank, the plan pays you interest and you are free to withdraw your money whenever you wish. When you die the amount you have on deposit will go toward Christian work so none of it is subject to estate tax.

Another way is to set up a trust that will pay you and a survivor a regular income for the rest of your lives. Part of that income will be tax-free. Afterwards, the trust fund will be used to help the poor and tell them about Christ. It, too, will require no estate tax.

The third way is to donate your home, farm or other property, yet retain the right to use it for as long as you live. This is called a Life Estate.

Meeting Planned Here For 4-H Clothing Plans

Motley County 4-Hers will soon be involved in 4-H Clothing projects.

Through participation in the clothing project, 4-Hers will gain an overview of clothing. They will develop basic skills in planning, buying and construction clothing suitable for the individual.

They will also recognize that clothing reflects social rules, develop habits of good grooming and learn to work and share with others.

The Clothing project is for all youth ages 9-19 regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Adults interested in learning more about this project and a way to help the youth in this county are encouraged to attend a meeting Thursday, February 12 at 4:30 p.m. in the Motley County School. Plans for the project will be discussed. A program in this subject area will be presented by Sylvia Quintero, Extension Agent-Home Economics.

TUCSON'S CANYON RANCH

Where Fitness Is Fun And Dieting Is Delicious

When you're a guest at Canyon Ranch, Tucson's luxurious new fitness and vacation resort, you can spend your days by one of the three pools, basking in Arizona sunshine. Or you can spend your time sight-seeing. But most guests choose to participate in what has been called the most comprehensive fitness and health program to be found anywhere. That's because Canyon Ranch's instructors make getting in shape fun.

The $6.5-million, 28-acre superspa, nestled in the foothills of the majestic Santa Catalina Mountains, offers the ideal solution to couples, one of whom wants to reduce and the other just to have a great vacation. There are plenty of exciting activities for both fitness-seeker and vacationer. Every day there's a choice of as many as 25 different sports, fitness and recreational activities right at the resort.

But that's just half the story. Jeanne Jones, Canyon Ranch's nationally known nutrition consultant, has created menus which make dieting a gourmet delight. "Our calorie control is achieved through portion size," she explains. "so guests who want to lose, maintain or even gain weight—all eat the same well-balanced, delicious and attractive meals."

The Canyon Ranch philosophy of diet and exercise is designed to start a permanent change in lifestyle, rather than just while a guest is at the resort. The recipes for such unexpected diet dishes as Steak Au Poivre, Coq Au Vin, Cheese-cake and Blueberry Mousse aren't kept secret-in fact, they're available to all guests. What's more, special classes in food preparation are offered, so the benefits of their Canyon Ranch experience can continue when guests return home.

For free sample gourmet diet recipes, write: Recipe Offer, Canyon Ranch, 8600 East Rockcliff Rd., Tucson, AZ 85715.

COOKING CORNER

VIVE LA GRANNY SMITH!

Southern France is giving Americans a delicious eating idea that can only grow in popularity. The clean, crisp tart flavor of the Granny Smith apple from Toulouse is here to stay.

The biggest news about the Granny is its taste. Tart, but not sour, the Granny Smith is a delight to CRUNCH into. They're round, medium-sized apples, with a greenish-white pulp that's fine, firm and full of juice.

Apple growers must take care in the grafting of trees to insure a uniform, quality product. And that's just what's taking place in the beautiful southwestern countryside of France—the first country to export apples—where there are orchards full of Granny Smith apples. From November through late January, U.S. consumers can enjoy the bright green Southern French Granny imported by the Blue Whale fruit producers. Because of its geographic situation and size of production, regardless of climatic conditions, the Blue Whale potential cannot be equalled.

Eaten fresh, Granny Smith apples never taste odd, or are fuzzy. Their cooking quality is excellent. Granny Smith apples keep their natural flavor—between a Pippin and a Golden Delicious—and hold their shape once cooked.

All apples help to exercise and cleanse your teeth and gums. They aid digestion in supplying pectin which helps to maintain the body's cholesterol balance. High in potassium, the greatest food or as topping for vanilla yogurt or ice cream.

an average apple has only 80 to 90 calories and does wonders for satisfying the appetite.

If you'd like to have a copy of your own free recipe brochure, write: "Granny Smith—A Whale of an Apple" c/o The Blue Whale 3345 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90010

And while you're at it, try this Southern French favorite from the Blue Whale!

SPICY POACHED APPLE SLICES

1/2 cup honey
1/8 cup cider vinegar
5 whole cloves
1 stick cinnamon
3 Blue Whale Granny Smith apples, peeled, cored, thinly sliced (approximately 4 cups)

Place honey, vinegar, cloves and cinnamon in small saucepan. Bring to boil. Simmer 2-3 minutes. Drop in half the apple slices. Cook 5-8 minutes at gentle boil until slices become translucent. Remove with slotted spoon. Repeat with second half of apple slices. Serve warm or cold, plain or as topping for vanilla yogurt or ice cream. Makes 4-6 servings.

The custom of "knocking on wood" began because people hoped the noise would prevent evil spirits from hearing about their good luck and taking it away from them.

Frigidaire

Washer offers dependable cleaning power -- even lets you conserve hot water and detergent

- No need to waste hot water. This Frigidaire Washer features a Water Level selector that lets you match the amount of water to the size of your washload.
- Depend on Frigidaire to keep lint from settling back on your clothes with the Lint Filter which snaps in and out for easy cleaning.
- New horizontal cleaning action passes clothes under the recirculating filter 8 to 14 times each cycle. The new system is equally effective for small, average or large loads.

Dryer puts big drying capacity within easy reach

- For easy loading and unloading, the big oversize door opening -- one of the largest in the industry -- is positioned a comfortable 18 inches off the floor.
- For efficient drying, without hot spots that can damage fabrics, Frigidaire gently pulls air through your clothes.
- For big-family wash loads this Frigidaire dryer provides gentle fabric care for up to 18 pounds of laundry.

Former Resident Dies In California

Word has been received by friends here that Mack C. Green, 88, of Auburn, Calif., formerly of Matador, passed away there, January 13.

A letter to Mrs. Eddie Russell last week from Mrs. J. Everhart, the former Betty Green, informed her of the death.

Services were conducted at 2 p.m. January 16 at the Chapel of the Hills in Auburn, and burial was in the Newcastle District Cemetery, at Newcastle. Mr. and Mrs. Green had been residents of the Auburn-Newcastle area the past three years.

Mr. Green was born July 11, 1892 in Quanaq. He and his wife, Mable, were married there and moved to Matador soon afterwards. They made their home here until about 1942 when they moved to New Mexico. They lived in Roswell and Los Alamos several years and then built a home in Ruidoso, where they lived until moving to California. Mr. Green was a mechanic, and Mrs. Green was a longtime employee at the Matador Variety.

Survivors include his wife, of Auburn, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs. Bruno (Maxine) Dalpogetto of Santa Cruz, Calif., and Mrs. J. (Betty) Everhart of Penryn, Calif.; six grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Green's address is 750 Auburn Ravine Terrace No. 8, Auburn, Cal. 95603.

Kuykendall Rites Held In Lubbock

Services for Orvell T. Kuykendall, 67, of Lubbock, formerly of Flomot and Matador, were conducted at 4 p.m. Saturday at Franklin-Bartley Chapel, Lubbock with the Rev. Wayne O'Perry, a Baptist minister, and the Rev. Richard Watters, pastor of Highland Baptist Church, officiating.

Burial was in City of Lubbock Cemetery under direction of Franklin-Bartley Funeral Home.

Mr. Kuykendall was pronounced dead at 10 a.m. Friday, January 30, at his residence by Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy, who ruled natural causes in the death.

He was found by friends, Varner McWilliams and Marvin Hunt, when they stopped by the residence Friday morning for him to accompany them on a fishing trip.

He was born at Loraine, but grew to manhood in Flomot when his parents moved to that community. He attended and graduated from Matador High School in 1934 and attended Howard Payne at Brownwood, where he played football. He and the former Leora Darsey were married January 20, 1936, in Lubbock. She passed away September 22, 1979. He had lived in Lubbock the past 24 years, moving there from Sudan.

Survivors include three daughters, Janet Hales of Spring, Sudie Faulkner of Vernon and Carol Turner of Ardmore, Okla.; and two sons, Don and Ross, both of Lubbock; three brothers, H. L. of Nartinez, Calif., J. B. of San Fernando, Calif., and Porter of Los Angeles, Calif.; two sisters, Sudie Davies of San Diego, Calif., and Mrs. Harrison George (Oma Lee) of Flomot; and 12 grandchildren.

Screwworm Sample Study Continues At Mission Lab

Official closing of sterile fly production at the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Mission Screwworm Eradication Plant has important implications for both livestock producers and owners of household pets.

In operation since 1962, the Mission facility is gearing down and transferring total sterile fly production to the new fly plant at Tuxtla Gutierrez, in the Southern Mexico state of Chiapas. Progress toward screwworm eradication in the U.S. and northern Mexico has prompted the action, to be completed by March 6.

Laboratory specialists who identify worm samples will remain on duty at Mission to provide continued quick analysis of all worm samples submitted.

Animal owners will need to be alert throughout the year for animal wounds, and collect samples of worms found in all wounds. Proper treatment of each wound also is vital.

Following Mission Lab identification of the worm sample, plans call for aerial hot-spotting with sterile flies of any Texas premise where positive screwworm cases are found. Sterile flies will be flown from Tuxtla Gutierrez, which may require greater treatment time than when handled at Mission.

Since speed is all-important in preventing a major screwworm outbreak, livestock producers should rush all worm samples to the Mission Lab for identification. Any needed fly drops can then be coordinated in a quick and orderly manner.

Don't gamble that the larvae in animal wounds may not be true screwworms. Reinfestation can take place quickly, even though international cooperation has rendered the southwestern U. S. and northern Mexican states virtually free of the pest which feeds on flesh of warm-blooded animals.

Mailing kits for the worm samples are available at County Extension Offices. The kits are free for the asking.

A small administrative and maintenance staff will also remain on duty at Mission after the March closing date. They will be ready to re-activate the plant, if necessary, within two weeks.

St. Valentine's Day: A 1,700 Year Tradition

February 14th is St. Valentine's Day again this year. And again this year, people happily in love, and those who hope to be, will send valentines to the objects of their affection. But few lovers realize that the history of this happiest of holidays dates back more than 1,700 years—and that its origin was anything but happy.

St. Valentine's Day stems, inconspicuously, from the death of a Roman bishop named Valentine, who was beheaded on February 14, 273 A.D. by Emperor Claudius II. According to an account, Claudius had outlawed marriages because they kept men at home rather than fighting for Rome. Valentine, so the story goes, paid with his life when he continued to marry young lovers. Another version had Valentine thrown into prison, where he befriended the jailkeeper's daughter. When his ornate love letters to the young lady were discovered, he was executed on February 14. His last note was signed "your Valentine." In England, the Roman conquest introduced a pagan fertility festival that was celebrated on February 14. Nearly a century after the Romans left England, Pope Gelasius abolished the pagan ritual and established St. Valentine's Day in 496 A.D. as a celebration of love.

St. Valentine's Day therefore came to be observed in much of the Christian world, but especially in England, where in 1537 King Henry VIII instituted the holiday by royal charter. A 1667 entry in Samuel Pepys' diary mentions special notes of endearment sent to his wife on St. Valentine's Day, including one with "her name writ upon blue paper in gold letters."

In America, the Pilgrims continued the St. Valentine's Day tradition and it steadily grew in popularity. Among the earliest U.S. valentines were Pennsylvania Dutch cards fashioned with painstaking workmanship and calligraphy. Some resembled lace, an effect achieved by thousands of pin pricks arranged in elaborate patterns.

Nineteenth century valentines took many forms—including colorful designs of hearts and flowers and cleverly folded cards with cut-outs of rose petals, angels, and cupids that moved when unfolded. There were also comic valentines that poked gentle fun at recipients.

Like so many things that have historical and aesthetic value, old valentines are now collectors' items. Particularly prized are lace British valentines with pastel paper underlays, early handmade and engraved cards, and Civil War, World War I, and World War II valentines.

Based on traditional heart and cupid motifs, this colorful 14-penny stamp issued by the British Post Office to mark St. Valentine's Day is adding an extra touch to millions of valentines being exchanged this year in England and the U.S.

One valentine sold last year for an extraordinary $2,250. The popularity of valentines has also led to the growth of nationwide collectors clubs, whose members regularly trade and exhibit rare specimens.

Valentine's Day has become so well established that in England this year millions of lovers will exchange valentines sent with a special postage stamp, issued for the occasion by the British Post Office. This beautiful stamp, an allegorical rendering of two cupids by artist Fritz Wegner, is also available in America (from StanGib Ltd., 1325 Franklin Avenue, Garden City, New York 11530) to both collectors and the romantically inclined who want to add an unusual touch to their missives of love. Of course, these British stamps must be accompanied by regular U.S. postage on valentines mailed in the United States.

Despite its unfortunate origin, St. Valentine's Day has become one of our happiest and most enduring traditions. And as long as people enjoy sending and receiving messages of love, this colorful annual ritual will continue forever.

Norcross-Rust Craft Collection. This sentimental 19th century valentine (ca. 1835) was colored by hand. Its four lines of verse read: "Thou darling of my life, my soul's delight, By day my vision, and my dream by night; Thy service shall my only pleasure be, And all my heart's delight in pleasing thee."

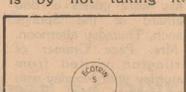

The National Health Quiz

More than ever before, Texans want to know how to take better care of themselves and how to prevent serious health problems. In response to demand for medical and health information a one-hour self-evaluation health special, "The National Health Quiz," will be telecast on Public Broadcast Service. The special will help you evaluate your risk of suffering from the four leading causes of death, heart disease, cancer, stroke and auto accidents.

It will be helpful if you can find out your height, weight, blood pressure, blood cholesterol level, family history for diabetes and the age at which your grandparents died before the program. However, you can still take the quiz without this information. Although the quiz is designed for all Americans, there are certain questions that, because of age or gender, will not apply to all viewers.

If you have a question about "The National Health Quiz" contact your local Texas Agricultural Extension Service office. You may pick up answer sheets at the Extension Service office, according to Jerry Cummins, County Extension Agent. Remember the only way you can fail the health quiz is by not taking it!

Chapel-Museum Added To Hale Center Hospital

By Lila Meador

A combination chapel-museum has been added to Hi-Plains Hospital in Hale Center and will be formally opened February 15.

According to Gordon Russell, hospital administrator, the new room has been completely financed by donations and has been erected in memory of the late Dr. D. R. Foster who opened his practice in Hale Center in 1951.

The new facility was designed, not only to serve as a chapel, but to house what Russell describes as a priceless collection of wild game trophies left by Dr. Foster at his death in 1977.

In an interview with Russell, Carolyn Fuqua of the Plainview Reporter-News quotes the administrator as saying that he first had the idea of finding a place for the trophy collection even before Dr. Foster's death. "Since most families do not have space enough in their homes to display such massive memorabilia, and since Hi-Plains Hospital was without a chapel, the idea was put into motion to combine the two," says Gordon.

"You would just have to have known the doctor before completely understanding how much the collection meant to him." He explained how one might get the "wrong impression" when wild game trophies are mentioned, but he went on to say that Dr. Foster never killed indiscriminately...he only hunted meat that could be eaten, or animals that were a threat to life or property.

Mrs. Fuqua describes the physician as "healer, family man, humanitarian and enthusiast in wild game management. In addition to the many animal skins, mounted horns and heads that Dr. Foster acquired on his many treks through the wilds of North America, and Africa, many of the doctor's personal belongings will also be placed in the combination tribute-room-chapel.

"In the area designated for the chapel, several pews and an altar are highlighted by two multifaceted stained glass windows. One window is donated in memory of Lila Freeman, the late wife of Hi-Plains staff member Dr. Ray Freeman. The other window (a secret until now) is donated by Gordon Russell and his wife in honor of the hospital staff. They are the best staff in the world, and I just wanted to do something special for them," says Russell.

Gordon is the son of Mrs. Willie Russell of Matorador, and the late Eddie Russell who spent his final days as a patient in Hi-Plains Hospital.

One...Two...Three!

Administrator Gordon Russell displays the head of a three-tusked rogue elephant which is one of many wild game trophies that will adorn the new chapel of Hi-Plains Hospital in Hale Center. The rare elephant was shot by the late Dr. D.R. Foster M.D. in Kenya in 1968. The ivory is said to be worth from $20,000 to $30,000 for each tusk on today's market.

University Day Planned At Tech

A taste of college life, including both the academic and recreational sides of campus living, will be offered high school seniors and other prospective college students February 27 during University Day at Texas Tech University.

A full day of activities has been planned for students to receive academic counseling, to visit various departments, to tour the Texas Tech campus and to sample the recreational and entertainment opportunities open to Texas Tech students.

All activities are free and students need not register in advance.

More than 1,500 students are expected to participate in the program. Registration will begin at 8:45 a.m. in the University Center Courtyard. The program begins at 9:30 a.m. in the University Center Theater. Texas Tech President Lauro F. Cavazos will welcome students.

College advisement sessions begin at 10:10 a.m. and 11 a.m. to acquaint students with career choices, possible majors and academic prerequisites for each college. The afternoon program will include campus tours and opportunities to meet with representatives of various academic departments. Activities will end with a two-hour swimming and dance party, beginning at 8:30 p.m. at the Texas Tech pool.

Additional information is available from the Texas Tech Office of New Student Relations, Room 146, West Hall, (806) 742-1480.

Handicapped students needing special services or accommodations should contact Trudy S. Putteet, assistant to the dean of students, P.O. Box 4259, West Hall, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Texas 79409, (806) 742-2192.
