Matador Tornado Aid Package Might Contain False Hopes

By PHILIP HAMILTON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A contract providing $350,000 in financial assistance to victims of a tornado that struck this city may have given false hopes to residents hoping to receive some of the state money soon to rebuild their homes.

Almost six months after the twist-er ripped through Matador, the Texas Department of Community Affairs sent the contract to the city after an article Sunday in The Avalanche-Journal about the grant money and the plight of the residents of Matador.

TDCA Regional Coordinator Jeff Vistein told The A-J Tuesday that the contract had not been sent to the city because of "a backlog within the department" and promised the document would be sent by the end of the week.

However, Vistein warned that the city might not accept it because of restrictions on insurance claims and income levels. The regional coordinator also said the grants would be restricted to those persons who applied for Small Business Administration loans.

The contract arrived as promised but made no mention of SBA loans and placed no restrictions on income levels. Insurance claims of up to $8,000 were allowed in the contract.

"It's better than we anticipated," said Matador Mayor Gary Lancaster after reviewing the contract. The document was signed and returned to TDCA Tuesday morning.

Vistein said the grant money would have arrived about two weeks after the contract is returned, but now it could be longer.

"We may try to amend the contract," said Vistein Tuesday afternoon. He said the restrictions were not placed in the contract because of "human error."

"I did not get to review it," he said, adding that the contract was "rushed out of here" after The A-J began to question why Matador had not received aid six months after the disaster.

"We will just have to wait and review it again," said Vistein. He refused to answer any additional questions. "I can't comment until I see it," he said.

If the restrictions are placed in the contract TDCA will have to pay fewer claims. Vistein estimates that only 10 people would be eligible for the state money if the restrictions are applied. He said the city probably would not be able to spend the entire $350,000 if the restrictions are enforced. The remaining money would go back into TDCA's emergency fund and would be used for future disasters.

Matador could opt to reject an amended contract and negotiate with TDCA to drop the restrictions. However, the negotiations could drag on for months, while repairs need to be made before winter sets in. If the victims make repairs before the money arrives, they will not be eligible to receive the grants.

Lancaster said Matador is working with consultants to prepare to distribute the funds in two weeks. He said TDCA signed a legally binding contract and the city expects the department to honor the document.

"We're going to try to hold them to it," said the mayor.

Following a week of cold and drizzle, glorious fall weather dawned as over three hundred and fifty history buffs experienced "History Day at the Ranch," a sesquicentennial project for the General James Smith Chapter of Daughters of the Republic of Texas. Manned by many volunteers from Motley and surrounding counties, the program was designed to make history come alive for a day.

Attentive Texas History honor students, exuberant cub scouts, interested old timers, and students of cowboy lore saw historical sights, heard lectures on the history of the area, and tasted cowboy grub at a chuckwagon. In the space of a couple of hours, they briefly covered the time span of 12,000 years of history.

In front of a former line camp, "Cottonwood Matt," established about 1880, the visitors listened as Motley County Judge Billy Joe Whitaker and Johnny Stevens recounted the early history of the Matador Ranch and The Matador Land & Cattle Company. The original log cabin was torn down to build a two room house with white ship-lap siding trimmed in red with red cedar shingles. This same house, although rooms have been added over the years, serves the Burleson Ranch today as housing for ranch hands.

Judge Whitaker told of a shoot-out between two cowhands, Harkey and Barbee who died at the Matt over a disagreement about the song "Yankee Doodle." A mulberry tree stump which was pumped full of lead in another fatal disagreement stands in front of the house as a mute reminder of frontier justice, or lack of it.

As the visitors traveled through pastures dotted with mesquite and redberry juniper, brilliant fall colors were provided by the shinnery oak's purples and oranges and the cottonwood's yellows. Wildflowers such as broomweed, groundsel, and lazy daisy splashed golden hues along the countryside.

Texas history buffs themselves, the guides Vance and Betty Campbell, Jaynette Marquis, DRT members Lou Burleson and Marisue Potts discussed points of interest, told about the early history of the area and answered questions about ranch life. Vance and Betty who have recently toured all of the Matador Ranch locations from Matador to Channing to North and South Dakota to Saskatchewan, Canada, shared their extensive knowledge about the ranch with the visitors. Jaynette's grandfather was Humpy Briggs, a well known chuckwagon cook in his time who shared his folklore with her.

The local DRT chapter president, Mrs. Veta Blackburn of Hobbs, greeted the visitors at the rock-lined dugout, giving a brief history of the James Fields family who once lived there and the items they might have used while nesting along the winding stream called Chimney Creek. Mrs. Blackburn told how Fields had been reduced to chasing rabbits to feed his small family, and thinking he had one cornered in a hole, reached in only to be fatally bitten by a rattlesnake.

Mrs. Linda Moore of Lubbock, also a DRT member, explained what it might have been like to have lived in a dugout, the good things about living in one, such as it was cozy and warm in the winter, as well as the bad things, such as visiting stinging scorpions, centipedes, tarantulas. Linda's husband, Bill, dressed in cowboy attire complete with six shooter and leggin's, flew the Texas flag over the settlement.

Pioneer Mrs. Edna Leonard Waybourn of Childress narrated facts about the dugout told to her by her father, J.F. Leonard, who bought the place from the Fields family. Leonard later sold this and his other holdings to the Matador Ranch when home-steading surrounded by a large ranch proved too difficult. Her father's initials, JFL, can still be seen on the fireplace arch stone where her sister carved them eons ago.

Under an eighty year old pecan tree, Mrs. Harold Campbell and Mrs. Josephine Hamilton demonstrated the art of quilting on a fifty-year old quilt top, pieced by Mrs. Campbell's grandmother in

Mini-Thoughts On Theology

By Pearl Alexander

"Let us therefore, cast off the works of darkness" Rom. 13:12 My husband, Lonnie, an ex-Navy man tells me that to "cast off" means to remove everything that keeps you tied to the shore, a buoy or another ship. But Paul was saying for us to untie, chop off, rid ourselves of the works of darkness that hinder, slow down or stop us in the sea of life.

Barnacles fasten themselves to a ship below the water line, and the ship must be dry-docked and the bottom scraped to remove them. Satan will seek to fasten the "barnacles" of doubt, discouragement, even disobedience to us below our prayer line. We need to "dry-dock" ourselves and use prayer to scrape them off.

The idea of awarding degrees dates from the 1200s when schools in Europe won the right to examine and license their graduates.

Pastures are big in the ranch country below the Cap Rock. A couple of generations ago the pastures were even bigger and the roads were a long way apart. Some of the roads were only cattle trails and sometimes just a couple of marks in the grass, except where they became a water course. Rain water will follow a pasture road and can wash out the ruts so deep that a car can't get over them.

A farmer settled near the town of Dumont a number of years ago. His farm was seven miles northwest of town. Once or twice a week he or his nephew would ride over to Dumont to get the mail. One time after a day of work, they decided to get the mail in the car, so they both went.

It was dark by the time they picked up the mail in town and headed back toward the farm. On the way home they missed a turn in the poorly marked road and found themselves driving around unfamiliar pastures in the big ranch country. Mesquite trees and grass look a lot alike after a few miles.

To the south for miles and miles lay the big Pitchfork Ranch. Other ranches had big pastures in the area, and they traveled one pasture road after another in trying to find their way back to the farm.

One time the ruts were washed out deeply and the car hit high center and the wheels were left spinning in the air. A lot of digging and pushing is necessary to get a car off a high center.

They wandered around cattle pastures most of the night. There was a glow of daylight in the east when they saw a lamp light in the window of a farm house, where a housewife was already fixing breakfast.

"Right here is where we find out where we are," stated the uncle. He parked his car and started for the house. When he reached the yard fence, he whirled around quickly and came back to the car.

"Aren't you going to ask them where we are?" asked Harry.

"Heck, NO!" said Uncle Oscar. "That's my neighbor."

Mr. and Mrs. H.G. Hunter of Quitaque were honored Saturday, November 3rd with a reception from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. at the Community Center in Flomot in observance of their 65th wedding anniversary. Take the trauma out of traveling with children. Make this exciting time a successful adventure by planning ahead:

- Organize your packing—about two weeks before your departure, make a list for each family member. Don't forget toys, but don't take too many.

- Pack a tote with plenty of diapers, pre-moistened towels and a colorful picture book to amuse your child on a long trip. Bring juice in aseptic boxes (they take up less space; don't need refrigeration) for toddlers. Give your infant a bottle during airplane take-off and landing to help equalize ear pressure and minimize his discomfort.

- Use a large suitcase with wheels to pack most of your belongings, suggest the experts at Samsonite Luggage Traveler Advisory Service. It can be checked whether you travel by plane, train or bus. Carry on a tote with a shoulder

When traveling with children, remember safety seats. Most rental car companies have them, but you should ask when you reserve your car.

FIRE EAST OF FLOMOT

The Flomot Fire Dept. responded to a fire east of Flomot around 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

Bobby Whitaker of Spur was hauling two trailers of feed bundles from the John Jones farm south of Flomot when feed on the front trailer caught fire as he was going east on Farm Road 97. The front trailer was slightly damaged when turned over to free the burning feed and the camper on back of the Ford pickup was damaged by the flames and heat. The second trailer and feed escaped damage.

Despite the strong north winds, the fire was brought under control before reaching adjacent fields of baled hay.

DID YOU KNOW?

By James H. McNeal
President & CEO,
The Budd Company

Here are a few facts about trucking that might just haul some people up short.

For instance, did you know:
• A loaded 18-wheel tractor-semi-trailer combination truck and a 115-pound woman wearing high heeled shoes both exert the same pressure per square inch—about 65 pounds. The truck spreads its weight on some 53 square inches on each of its 18 wheels, while the lady with the high heels concentrates the 65 pounds into one square inch at point of impact. It is this "spread the load" concept which governs truck weight regulation in the United States.

Railroads are also becoming Hot Mix Asphalt customers for the paving of transfer terminals for piggyback traffic. As piggyback (truck trailer) traffic increases on the railroads, large paved areas are needed for the storage and movement of trailers into and out of the terminals. This, points out the National Asphalt Pavement Association, helps keep down maintenance costs and can save consumers money on products shipped by rail.

84th Birthday Celebrated By Eastern Star Lodge

The Matador Chapter No. 66, Order of the Eastern Star, celebrated its eighty-fourth birthday with a salad supper and Friendship Night, Oct. 5th.

A menu of turkey, ham, fruit, meat and vegetable salads, and hot rolls were served to guests from Childress, Floydada, Lockney, Paducah, Spur and members of the Matador chapter. Mrs. Harold Campbell was chairman of the food committee.

A beautiful white birthday cake made by Mrs. B.M. Stanley and decorated with an emblematic star was the centerpiece of the serving table, and was served with coffee for dessert.

The chapter was opened in ritualistic form and was followed by a musical program. Mrs. Tildea Armstrong of Paducah pleased the group with a beautiful solo, "You Are the Sunshine of My Life," followed by the "Lord's Prayer." Mrs. T.J. Richards, also of Paducah, accompanied her on the piano.

Mrs. Frank Pohl, organist, presented on the cello and piano, "To a Wild Rose" by McDowell, requested by the Worthy Matron, and "Falling Water."

A lovely surprise came when it was learned that Mrs. Dell Gray, grand organist of the Grand Chapter of Texas, was among the guests. She played the Grand March chosen for the 1984-85 on the piano, "The Windmill March." She is the daughter of Wayne and Roberta Russell of Floydada.

Guests were registered by Mrs. Bill McCaghren and Mrs. Frank Pohl. The banquet hall and chapter room were decorated with white baskets and pink roses, chosen colors for the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Greer Willis left Tuesday afternoon for San Angelo, after receiving word that his grandmother had passed away early that morning. Services for Mrs. Fannie Collard, 82, are scheduled for Thursday morning from Johnson's Funeral Home in San Angelo. Mrs. Collard had suffered a lengthy illness.

Travelers and consumers may each benefit from some recent experiments conducted under railroad tracks. The experiments tested the use of Hot Mix Asphalt as a base for railroad trackbeds. The tests showed asphalt offers a more secure, lower-maintenance alternative to the traditional ballast-type construction, as well as permitting heavier-loaded rail cars.

Mayor Speaks To Club On Public Affairs

Mayor Gary Lancaster was guest speaker Thursday, Oct. 25 at a regular meeting of GFWC El Progresso Club held at Summit Savings Community Room, and explained the distribution of donations which have been received by the county and city, and the regulations restricting the distribution of emergency grants for victims of the May 1 tornado.

Previous grants for community improvements were reviewed and include a project of new sewer lines, paving and drainage in Southeast Matador which has just been completed. The latest is a grant for new water works in Northwest Matador. Due to bad weather conditions during winter months, it is not likely that this work will be started before next year, the Mayor said. With regards to the grant for a Senior Citizen's Building, this will be a county and not a city project.

"Over the last three years, some seven or eight hundred thousand dollars have been received in grants by Motley County," he said.

Mayor Lancaster explained that the contract for $350,000 in disaster funds which had been granted for Matador's tornado victims had not been forthcoming, causing the delay in going ahead with the work.

(The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal publicized this fact in its issue of Sunday, Oct. 28, and followed that article with another release on Oct. 31, stating that the Texas Department of Community Affairs sent the contract to the city after the Sunday article had appeared about the grant money and the plight of the residents of Matador.)

Mayor Lancaster explained that disbursement of the grant funds, when available, would include $81,000 for rehabilitation of private property, allowing $4,500 per tenant house, with a maximum amount of $6,000 for the tenants who are eligible, and $24,000 per home to those who owned their homes, and are eligible to receive help.

A Grants Administration will have charge of disbursing the funds. The contract for the grant contains some 35 pages, which the Grants Administration will review and pass on. The Administration has secured all the grants which the city has received thus far, according to Mayor Lancaster. "It is estimated that it will be at least a year and a half before this is all completed."

Other aspects of the local situation were discussed in a questions and answers session, including some speculation of the plight of the school. The funds that were donated for victims who had homes damaged or destroyed, which were made to the Ministerial Alliance, have been divided equally to those families, it was learned.

Mrs. Robert Dickson, president, opened the meeting, and after business was disposed of, Mrs. Ted Elliott, program leader, introduced the Public Affairs program with the yearbook quotation from Ralph Waldo Emerson. She then presented Mayor Lancaster, a native of Matador, for his updated report on rebuilding Matador after the tornado.

Mrs. Elliott concluded the program with an Inspirational Thought from Washington Irving. Spiced tea and doughnuts were served by Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Dickson. Others present were Miss Rachel Patton and Mesdames J.E. Edwards, John Hamilton, W.D. Lipscomb, E.A. Day, Frank Pohl, Douglas Meador and Harold Campbell.

In the business session, Mrs. Campbell reported that registration for the historical tour of Mott Creek Trail Drive was over 300. She and Mrs. Hamilton participated in the event with a quilting demonstration at the site of the historical Matt dugout. Other members who made the tour included Mrs. Pohl, Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. L.B. Campbell, who were accompanied by Mrs. R.E. Donovan and Mrs. Truitt Read.

County Agent's Corner

By Ray Minkley

By Ray Minkley TEST FORAGE FOR FEEDING VALUE

Just how "good" is the hay you harvested this year?

It's really hard to tell without a forage test. The forage test is the only way that a definite feed value can be assigned to a particular lot of hay. While a forage test may cost a few dollars, it can save you money in supplemental feed or livestock condition.

Feeding low quality hay without supplementation can result in livestock weight losses and reduced rebreeding percentages. At the same time, feeding supplement with top quality hay may not always be necessary.

Only when your hay's feeding value is known can you make a useful decision on the necessity of a protein or energy supplement. The hay's feeding value might be such that no supplement is needed or it might be such that the animal is slowly starving without a supplement.

A forage test can give a positive value on which to base a feeding program, and with the high cost of feed, that's essential for a sound management program.

Anyone interested in getting hay tested for protein, fiber, nutrient and mineral content can bring samples to the county Extension office where information forms and mailing containers are available. Forage samples will be sent to the Extension Forage Testing Laboratory, Soil and Crop Sciences Department, Texas A&M University, College Station, Tex. 77843.

SPIRITS HIGH FOR FINAL GAME

The spirits are still running high at MCHS due to the efforts of a great pep club and their cheerleaders.

The Mighty Matadors and their coaching staff have overcome many adversities this year. Even with an 8-1 record, they have proven they are not quitters but real winners. Plan now to support these MCHS students in their final game of the season, Friday at 7:30 at Burlson Field.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Georgia

The meeting was skillfully planned and highly advertised. But the memory expert failed to show up for the speaking engagement.

The reason? He forgot the date.

The offices of an insurance company were robbed. There was a great loss of money and equipment.

Guess what? The loss was not covered by insurance.

An agent for an oil company took me to see his new sign. It read: Check your gauge. Fill up now. No service for twenty-five miles.

I missed a plane that night. Why? He ran out of gas. Many do not practice what they preach—especially in religion. They pray and talk cream, but they live skimmed milk. They talk Christianity by the yard, but they live it by the inch. But lofty doctrine and low practice do not go well together.

If you say you are a Christian, show it. If you profess Christianity, practice it. Either take the Lord into your life, or take Him off your lips.

The apostle John said, "He that saith he abideth in Him ought himself so to walk, even as He walked."

MY APOLOGIES

The error was mine, and I wish to apologize to Billy Paul Campbell, Billy Paul Simpson and the Matador Ex-Students and Teachers Association's nominating committee. The new slate of officers as submitted included J.E. Edwards, President; Billy Paul Campbell (not Simpson) Vice President, and Hazel Donovan and Olivia Campbell Barton as co-secretaries.

Ranch Day Relives History

bright blue and yellow. Mrs. Campbell gave a brief history of the types of quilts and answered questions about the craft. The ladies were ably assisted in setting up the quilt by Harold Campbell, quite an expert himself, having had experience helping and observing his mother.

When returning to the camp area, they were greeted by Wayne Parker, fourth cousin of Quannah Parker, and Choise Smith, grandson of Blanco Canyon pioneer Hank Smith. Parker, a highly sought-after historical speaker, illustrated his lecture on the different types of people who inhabited this area for the last 12,000 years with many examples from his extensive artifact collection. An atlatl, projectile points, pottery and other artifacts were on display. Attentive students who could answer his questions were awarded an arrowhead, and one student from each group was selected to wear an Indian costume.

Moving from the Parker lecture, the group surveyed a Buckskinners' camp where four Lubbock members of the Free Trappers club had set up an eighteen foot tipi, depicting the 1840 historical era. Larry Reat, wearing a blue fox hat, calico shirt and buckskin britches, and Dale Jones, wearing a coyote hat and full Northern Plains Indian regalia, described the authentic details of their costume, their flint-lock guns, and their bedding and lodging. Showing the inside of the lodge, the men answered questions about tipi living and invited the students to inspect the tanned hides of bear, deer, badger, and fox used for bedding or clothing.

On their last stop, the history buffs gathered around a chuckwagon where Eddie Fortenberry of Abernathy, Donnie Bybee of Lockney, and S.C. Burselson were dishing out black coffee, son-of-a-gun stew, beans, and Eddie's specialty of Dutch oven sourdough biscuits. While sampling the cowboy grub the group listened to fiddler J.B. Cooper and guitarist Morris Stephens play old western songs. J.B.'s grandparents were among the very earliest settlers in Motley County, establishing the post office at TeePee City in a dugout. His grandmother lived in a dugout for thirty five years.

Cowboys who had worked on the Matador range were available for interviews and answered questions when not reminiscing about mean horses or mean bosses. Tutt Garnett recalled the time when he and a few other hands made a dugout for their own protection from the severe weather, only to have it taken over by a higher ranked ranch hand. The men had their revenge on the fellow by smoking him out. Banny Brandon and Jack Lackey traded stories while Johnny Stevens, the last manager of the Matador Land and Cattle Company at the home ranch, remembered the worst horses he ever rode were on the Pitchfork Ranch, known today for its outstanding horses. Bundy Campbell, who was instrumental in the research of which cowboys had worked for the Matadors, who had lived at the Mott Camp, and who bossed the various wagons over the years, served as coordinator of the cowboys, and kept the banter and tall tales flowing. Bundy, and his brothers, Harold and Vance, are the grandsons of H.H. Campbell, the founder, manager, and stockholder in the original Matador Ranch in 1879. Kirk Brock's mule team, upset by all the unusual activity, added a little excitement to the morning by having a little run away. They soon settled down and provided many rides for children and adults alike. Beverly Brock and Carria Burselson, dressed in their pioneer dresses, were responsible for greeting visitors, keeping schedules, routing people and traffic.

The purpose of "History Day at the Ranch" was to give Texas History students a chance to experience some of the exciting events that took place in the early history of our area. By seeing an actual dugout, tipi, chuckwagon and line camp, and by hearing people who have actual historical connections with the early settlers, ranchers, and Indians they talk about, students and history buffs alike who were a part of the General James Smith Chapter of Daughters of the Republic of Texas program saw history come alive for a day. DRT members Mrs. S.C. Burselson and Mrs. Frank Potts, assisted by Mrs. W.E. Burselson, owner of the ranch, planned and executed the program with the help of numerous volunteers, friends, neighbors and DRT members.

Some of the many people from Matador and Motley County helping by supplying antiques, artifacts, documents, books, or photographs were Joan Patton, Jay Archer, Betty Campbell, Tutt Garnett, Mose Damron, Frances Moss, Boy Scout Troop Leader Ronnie Vandiver, Barbara Jameson, and Leon Watson.

Among those volunteers, not already mentioned, donating time or food were Lewis and Mickey Bostick, Lucretia Campbell, Dorothy Merrell, Mollie Burselson, Dickie Garrison, Bobby Jack Dempsey family, James Bearden, Frank Potts, Jim and Rob Potts, and others. To all of these people, those mentioned in the article, (and those temporarily but unintentionally overlooked), goes the credit for an inspiring and successful "History Day at the Ranch," long to be cherished in our golden memory treasure box.

Many local residents, indicating the avid interest of area history buffs, attended, while over 100 Texas History students attended, many coming as far away as Lamesa and Lubbock. Sponsors of the groups have enthusiastically asked for reservations for the next Ranch Day. Some of the other visitors coming from out of town were from Hart, Friona, Lubbock, Levelland, and Madill, Oklahoma. A large number of people were turned away or refused reservations due to the overwhelming response.

SWC Selling Trees For Area Windbreakers

By Joel Holt

The Upper Pease Soil and Water Conservation District is selling trees for windbreaks. Windbreaks can be used to reduce wind erosion, conserve moisture, protect crops or livestock, improve an area for wildlife, or just enhance the natural beauty of a house or farm.

The district is selling both evergreens and hardwood trees. The evergreens come in containers of 30 trees, and are available in Eastern Redcedar, Austrian Pine, Ponderosa Pine, Afghanistan Pine, South Pine, or Arizona Cypress. The hardwoods must be ordered in multiples of 50 or 100 and you can choose from Green Ash, Russian Olive, Honey Locust, Bur Oak, Hackberry, and Native Plum. To insure your choice of trees ordered early, as supplies are limited.

The trees will be delivered in mid-February, and will be around 12-18 inches tall. These trees are grown by the Texas Forest Service nursery at Lubbock and are well adapted to the climate. Planting windbreaks is an inexpensive way to reduce wind erosion and add beauty to farmsteads for generations to come.

For more information and order forms contact the Soil Conservation Service in the basement of the Matador court house or any Upper Pease SWCD director.

Among the top 4-H'ers in the district being honored will be Darryl Perryman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Perryman of Matador, and Janice Brown, granddaughter of Ossie Lee Brown of Roaring Springs.

Steve Carriker, State Representative from Roby will address the banquet in the Memorial Building in Benjamin. Kit Horne of West Texas Utilities Company, which sponsors the annual banquet, will welcome the honorees and guests.

The theme of this year's program will be "4-H On The Move." The banquet is planned and conducted by 4-H'ers on the Gold Star Committee of the 1983-84 District 4-H Council.

Committee members this year are from Dickens, Fisher, Kent, King, Knox and Stonewall Counties. Marianne Brown of Throckmorton County, council chairman, will be mistress of ceremonies.

Parents, distinguished guests and special friends of 4-H will attend the banquet to salute the county winners.

To qualify for the Gold Star Award, highest 4-H honor at the county level, a 4-H'er must be at least 14 years old, have completed three years of club work and be active in 4-H. The award is intended to stimulate winners to higher achievement and to encourage other young people to participate in the county 4-H program.

The awards will be presented by Mrs. Elaine Houston and Ed Garnett, District directors for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. 4-H is the youth program of the Extension Service.

4-H Food Show Held

The Motley County 4-H Food Show was held Saturday, November 3, 1984 at 10:00 a.m. in the First Methodist Church. Winners earned first-place awards in three divisions: pee wee, junior and senior.

First place winner in the pee wee division was Joshua Palmer in the fruit/vegetable division.

The junior division winners are Cathey Perryman, main dish; Rusty Willmon, breads/cereals; Kristi Timmons, fruits/vegetables; and Natalie Burkes, nutritious snacks and desserts.

Winning first place in the senior division were Regena Mangram, bread/cereals; Janice Brown, nutritious snacks and desserts; Rhonda Long, main dish; and Tricia Palmer, fruits/vegetables.

The junior and senior division winners will compete on the district level in Wichita Falls at Sikes Senter Mall on November 17, 1984.

There were a total of 27 entries in the Food Show. Chosen as alternates were Thiry Long, Trent Willmon, Amy Pipkin, Memori Assitor, Jenifer Davis and Donna Mangram.

The agents, Ray Minkley and Mary Streit, wish to thank the parents and leaders. Without their leadership in and support of the project, this activity would not be possible.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Throw away those cigarettes!

HOUSTON, TX. — Cigarette smoking is the unarguable chief enemy in this country's war against cancer.

"Smoking causes more than 30 percent of all cancer deaths and is blamed for costing nearly $30 billion in medical care in the United States alone," says Dr. Guy R. Newell, director of cancer prevention programs at The University of Texas M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute.

For years, lung cancer has been the Number One malignancy among American men. Recently, it has surpassed breast as the biggest cancer killer among women in Texas and several other states.

"This latter trend is truly alarming and, unfortunately, reflects that women are attaining the wrong kind of equal rights," Dr. Newell laments. He says smokers also have a higher incidence of cancers in the oral cavity, larynx, esophagus, pancreas and bladder as well as many more heart attacks, strokes and chronic lung diseases.

Many people do not realize that when they quit smoking their risk of heart attack decreases almost immediately. Within five years after quitting, the chances of having lung cancer are about the same for a former smoker as for someone who never used tobacco products.

Actually, the number of adult smokers has steadily declined, but Dr. Newell says more teenagers have taken up the terrible habit, plus many people are living longer to have tobacco-related cancers diagnosed.

For self-help material and more information on how to quit smoking, call the Texas Cancer Information Service toll-free at 1-800-4-CANCER.
