Local Dealers Now Operate All Conoco Service Stations

New York, N.Y. May 28 Recent abandonment of operation of service stations by Continental Oil Company, in favor of selling its products through independent dealers, has been a development of major importance both to the consumer and the company, it was said here today by Dan Moran, Continental's president.

"In line with this new policy," said Mr. Moran, "all Conoco gasolines, oils, and greases are sold only through independent dealers and jobbers, in business for themselves, who operate their stations under ownership or lease.

"Under this plan the place of the former service station salesman has been taken by men engaged in a business they own and control, of the same standing as the local jeweler, hardware merchant or furniture dealer. He becomes a permanent resident of the community takes his place among other merchants, and is more inclined to get out and hustle for more business that will give him a profit above that he earned as a company employe.

"Major operators who were somewhat skeptical about the outcome of this policy that wiped out the company-owned and operated stations are fast becoming convinced of its value in good will and public approval," concluded Mr. Moran. "Our experience indicates that the industry will find it has lost the administrative headaches of roadside retailing, and has gained the support of thousands of new 'mileage merchants' who will take care of the oil company's interests in taking care of their own."

FIDDLERS WILL VIE FOR PLACE STAMFORD MEET

Stamford, June 8.—Breakdown tunes reminiscent of frolics of frontier days will be played by aged musicians competing in the annual old fiddlers' contest in connection with the Texas Cowboy Reunion here July 1, 2, and 3. The contest is the biggest free entertainment on the Reunion program.

The fiddlers' contest will be held in the City Auditorium on the last day of the Reunion, Saturday, July 3, starting at 8:30 a. m., and continuing probably until noon. Professional musicians are barred and fiddlers must be 50 years of age or over to be eligible. No entry fee is charged. Prizes totaling $32.50 will be awarded the winners, first prize being $15, second $10, third $5, and fourth $2.50.

Allowed Two Tunes
Each contestant is allowed to play two tunes of his own selection, the only restriction being that breakdown tunes must be used. The fiddler may play alone or select a second, but only one accompanist is allowed. Jim Stell of Stamford is chairman of the committee in charge of the contest.

THROUGH BROAD AND BEAUTIFUL ENTRYWAYS VISITORS WILL PASS TO THE NEW YORK FAIR

NEW YORK. (Special).—Forty thousand persons an hour—visitors from every state and every nation—must be accommodated in comfort at but one of the entryways to the New York World's Fair of 1939, according to arrangements the Fair Corporation is completing to handle a maximum daily attendance of 800,000. The artist's drawing, as reproduced above, calls for a magnificent double-decked entryway with underpasses, over-passes, pedestrian walks, bus terminals, comfort stations and bridge connections assuring comfort while providing an area of architectural splendor.

Shown is a ramp leading from the exposition grounds toward the I.R.T.-B.M.T. subway terminal, at a point where it is necessary to cross over the Long Island railroad tracks and to avoid undue congestion of pedestrian traffic. Shown in the left foreground is a domed restaurant within a fountain basin and a concourse bordered by grown plane-trees, and, nearer, an open-air cafe and an information kiosk. Along the flanking walls the artist has delineated the Fair's world concept which looks to the building of a peaceful, happier World of Tomorrow.

were: First prize, J. C. Lane, Tahoka; second, Jack Sitton, Stamford; third, C. A. Ward, Weinert; fourth, J. E. Meadow, Lueders. Another feature of the Reunion designed to keep alive pastimes of the early day cattle country is the square dance held at the Cowboy Bunkhouse at the Reunion grounds each night. Judge C. E. Coombes, prominent, West Texan, who is a former cowhand, presides over these dances in which many of the pioneer cowmen, present day cowboys, and visitors participate.

IN STATISTICAL VEIN

Do you wonder how the rattlesnake population holds up in view of the huge population increase of their natural enemy, mankind, in the habitat of the rattler on the plains of the southwest? Nearly every resident of the country kills at least one rattler a year and has for years and years. But still there are plenty of rattlesnakes every spring. Gus King, Motley County rancher and nature student, vouches for the statement that an immediate "shortage" of rattlers is not probable. Rattlesnake mothers, nature having so ordained, give birth to many little rattlers every year. An ordinary rattler will have twenty-five or thirty, an unusually fecund one fifty or sixty. No wonder there is ample rattler population every succeeding year.—Floyd County Hesperian.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Boys working on National Youth Administration soil conservation projects in the Amarillo district have assisted the county agricultural agents in making terrace surveys on 19,295 acres during the last 15 day work period, Phil B. Wilson, district project superintendent, has reported to J. C. Kellam, State Director.

Definite results from one phase of the Texas Planning Board's work was announced this week by Maj. E.A. Wood, director of the Board. It was the feeding of 200,000 head of Texas cattle. These cattle are being finished for market on Texas feedstuffs. Here tofore Texas cattle have been finished for market on mid western pastures.

Youths working on a National Youth Administration project in the San Antonio Public Library have checked 106,517 books; pocketed, plated, and collected 8,667 books; and typed cards for cataloging 1,750 volumes, since the project started last August, Hishie Johnson, district project superintendent, has reported to J. C. Kellam, State Director.

A 40,000 citrus crop is in prospect for 1937-38 in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, according to Texas Planning Board statisticians.

One hundred and twelve deep water vessels docked at the Port of Brownsville during 1936-37, according to the Texas Planning Board.

MY OWN SUCCESS STORY

Giving people more mileage

I like people to know that I'm not just hired at my station. I'm the proprietor, making my living, all on my own. Naturally I'm choosy about anything I recommend, so no matter how close you might check whatever I say about mileage and performance, I can always look you square in the eye. And that goes double for my Conoco Germ Processed oil. It is the only kind that can Oil Plate your engine. The patent Germ Process, you might say, gives this oil a real strong "yen" for metal. The oil actually joins up with every working part, always leaving a durable, slippery Oil-Plating that cannot run down, whether your car is stopped or hitting it up. Then you can start up a thousand times a day, or streak along from morning till night. But Oil-Plating will still be there, heading off wear, and letting you skip a lot of stops you used to make for oil. You'll be back here saying even more than me, about all your mileage and performance from Conoco Germ Processed oil.

If Alexander Wins Speakership, To Be First Not A Lawyer

AUSTIN— If Bob Alexander, Childress County legislator, should be elected to the speakership of the 46th legislature—as many of his friends are predicting—it would be a precedent—for Alexander is not a lawyer.

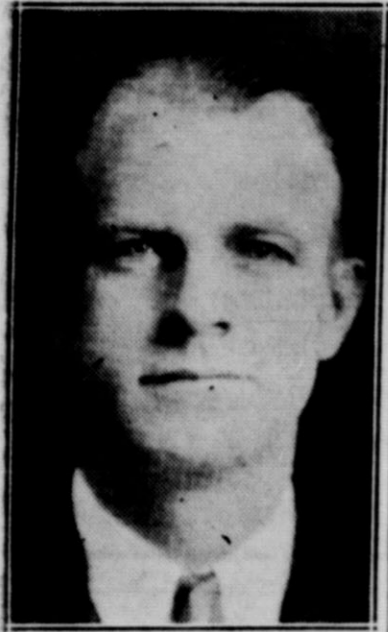

Custom says that lawyers should be speakers, on the premise that lawyers are better able to follow the devious rules.

"All I can do is call 'em as I see 'em," Alexander explained.

Has No Platform

The 38-year-old Childress County farmer currently is reputed to have more signers for his speakership petition than any other of the numerous candidates, but those passing around the petition won't even tell the candidate how many signers they have.

Alexander says he has no platform for the speakership. "I'm like the negro porter who said to the woman riding on the platform of the train: 'Lady that's just to get in on, not to ride on.' So I don't have any. Didn't have any when I ran for the legislature the first time."

Alexander graduated to the legislature from a twice-a-weekly newspaper in Childress.

"I was working there when things got pretty tough on the farm. A bunch of us used to meet after lunch every day, in the back end of a tailor shop, for a session, and we got to talking about the legislature one day, and they said they were going to run me.

"I thought they were joking until they come around and said they'd collected $74 for my campaign. That constituted my entire expenses account for that race—$74. And they never would tell me who contributed the money. The most any one person gave was $2.50.

Ellis County Native

"About four weeks before the election, and I still wasn't asking it seriously, they came around and said, 'Bob, we've spent all that $74 so you better go to work.' So I campaigned for the next four weeks."

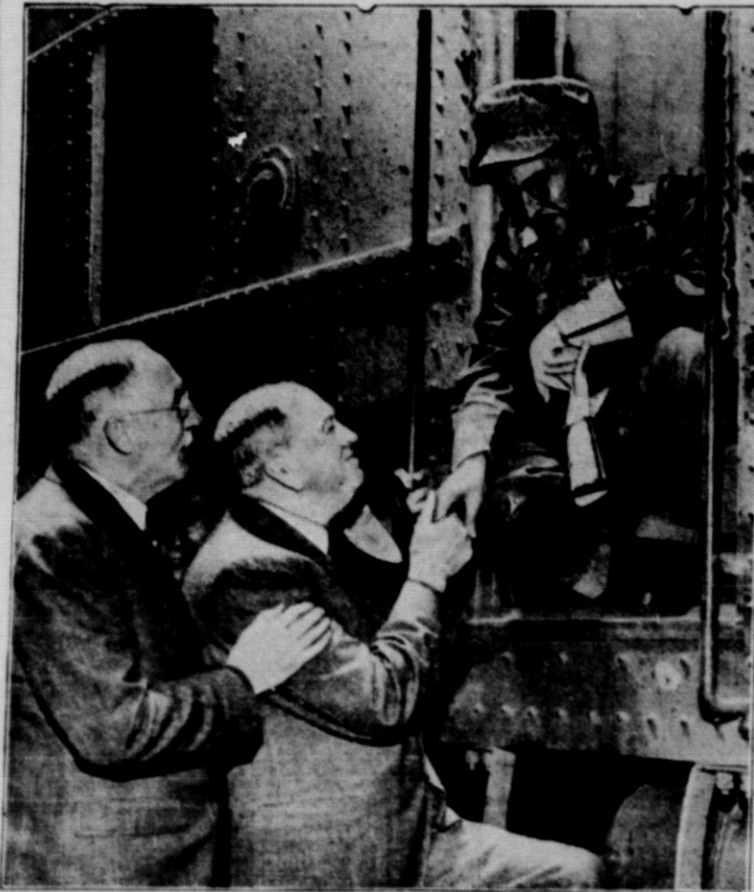

Alexander is a native of Ellis County, but has lived in Childress County since 1900. The second year he was at the University of Texas, he enlisted in the army, and after the war, tried another year of schooling. That was the extent of his higher education.

SUPER CHIEF BEATS TIME

President Samuel T. Bledsoe, of the Santa Fe Railroad, shakes hands with Engineer J. W. Martin at the conclusion of the record-breaking run of the Super Chief from Los Angeles to Chicago. Standing behind Mr. Bledsoe is C. L. Rice, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce. The crack Santa Fe streamliner made the 2,228 mile run in 36 hours and 49 minutes, clipping two hours off the previous record. To break the record, the Super Chief averaged greater than 60 miles an hour for the entire distance.

Meters Building besides the splendor and grandeur found in the Esplanade, the Federal Building, the Industrial Building, the Halls of State, of Science, of Transportation, of Religion and in the Calves of the Americas! On Midway I would enjoy the Black Forest, the Midgets, Believe It Or Not, and Little America where Ayrd and his dogs are on display. "An interesting event it would be to be present when and where the two Americas shake hands. One of thousands of visitors from the Latin American countries will be present at Dallas this summer to attend their and our exposition—the first exposition based upon sincere international friendship and cooperation in the New World. There I would come in contact, or at least see displays of all these Latin American countries, also. "For these main reasons I would be delighted to attend the Greater Texas and Pan American Exposition at Dallas." (By Sylvester Purcell) "In thinking why I want to see the Texas and Pan American Exposition I can recall many, many reasons. The most important however, seems to be the advantages to be derived in my school work. I will be in the eighth grade next year, and it will help me with my history and enable me to know Texas better. It will be of interest to see what Texas was like when we fought Old Mexico, for I shall like to see the pictures of the men fighting at the Alamo and the men drawing the black bean when they were captured by the Mexicans.

"Just think, it will be of great worth to compare Texas with the other states in the Union. Our state is larger than Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, and Indiana put together. Its fine forests cover as much area as Indiana; it has a cotton patch as big as Ohio, a grazing belt as large as Pennsylvania; more wheat than either of the Dakotas, and more corn than Illinois can boast of. Texas can furnish all the desert. Arizona can find room for and never miss what it gave away. At the same hour in Texas bananas ripen in one section while blizzards are in full sway in another. Products from all those sections are represented at the centennial. I also want to see the bluebonnet of Texas gowing and the tropical pecans from the Rio Grande valley.

"The next important thing, however, is the Pan American fruits and crops and the people themselves. Again, I want to see the Pan American Exposition at Dallas because it would be so far to go on a visit to all the smaller countries. Perhaps I, along with many others, shall never travel in foreign countries. To see all the pottery, blankets, musical instruments and trinkets from our Spanish speaking neighbors would be instructive within itself. Learning how the other half of our New World lives by seeing the things they make, and observing their natural resources would help American people understand these others who have homes near us. I also want to see the exhibition of the Pan American States to see if they are as beautiful as those of Texas.

"Thus I believe, by a trip to the Centennial, I can learn more geography, history, science, and art than I could learn in a long period of time here. Then there is the most important thing; a better understanding of our fellowman, especially our Latin American neighbors. I want to go not only for the glamour and beauty of the Centennial that I will be privileged to see, but for the higher educational value to be obtained hereafter."

GMC TRUCKS TO NEW YORK CITY

An order for 300 new heavy duty General Motors Trucks of the Cab-over-engine design, valued at $1,221,000 has been received from the New York City Department of Sanitation...

This is the second big fleet order which New York has placed with General Motors Truck division in recent months, delivery of 315 similar trucks having been completed only last March.

Plant at Capacity

General Motors Truck Division, according to Mr. Little, has been operating at capacity since introduction of the 1937 series of trucks which match an impressive group of mechanical advancements...

They are equipped with 24-yard capacity dump bodies of special design mounted on drop frames to facilitate loading from the street level and thus save labor costs.

Mechanical specifications for the new fleet are very similar to those of the 315-unit fleet now in service. Motors are of a heavy duty, six cylinder type built in the General Motors Truck factory at Pontiac, Mich.

Miss Marguerite Burns of Afton visited here last week in the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. A.P. Hodges.

Third Scout Camp Will Open Sunday

The third Camp Period for the Scouts in the South Plains Council will open Sunday evening, June 13th, at Camp Post, Post Texas. Approximately 100 Scouts and leaders from the following towns are expected to have their troops represented: Plainview, Hale Center, Olton, Littlefield, Sudan, Muleshoe, Levelland, Brownfield, Ropesville, Tahoka, Post, O'Donnell, and Matador. Possibly other troops that have not attended one of the other camp sessions will also attend, according to Marshall Mason, Camp Chairman.

Parents need not hesitate about sending their boys to camp because of the heavy rains and inclement weather as the new Camp Mess Hall and ranch house afford adequate facilities to protect the Scouts from any kind of weather.

The men in charge of this camp serving on the Camp Staff are: Camp Director, Lyndon T. Grant, Asst. Scout Executive; Swimming Instructor, Lyndon T. Grant; Camping and Pioneering, B. G. Wadzeck of Spur; First Aid, L. M.

Magness; Handcraft, Joe C. Hutchinson of Sudan; Nature Study and Astronomy, Dr. E. L. Reed of Lubbock; Camp Cook, Jimmy Berry, Lubbock; Assistant Cook, Clyde Revens, Lubbock.

This will conclude the regular Scout Camp periods at Camp Post. All Scouts and leaders who have not already made their reservations to attend this period should do so by sending $1.00 preliminary registration fee which will be applied on the camp fee to the Poy Scout Office, 413 Myrick Building, Lubbock.

The superintendent, visiting a country school, asked the children a number of questions. After a while he said to the class, "Now I want some of you to ask me a question that I can't answer."

After a few vain attempts a small boy said, "Please, sir, if you were stuck in a pool of mud up to your head and I threw a brick at you, would you duck?"

"It can't be done," he moaned. "What can't be done?" asked his roommate.

"You can't have a merry Christmas and a happy New Year!"

Nations of World Allot Year 1939 To New York Fair

World Exposition Already
Growing Up; Seeks Active Participation of State

NEW YORK, (Special).—The New York World's Fair, in which every state in the nation must inevitably take small or prominent part, is out of its infancy.

Preparatory construction goes on night and day at the Flushing Meadows Site of 1216 1/2 acres at the geographic center of New York City. A steady flow of activities and announcements emanates from the Fair Corporation headquarters on four floors of the Empire State building. Judging from all of these the Fair is a lusty growing institution that will reach full maturity—no question about it—by the scheduled opening day, April 30, 1939.

The task of grading the site is about half completed. Battalions of men with trucks have already moved over 3,000,000 cubic yards of dry fill in the process of turning the waste marsh lands of the Flushing River basin into park ground. Other battalions are scooping out "meadow mat" for use as fertile top soil for the made lands, and in so doing excavate the beds for the two large lagoons featured in plans for the Fair.

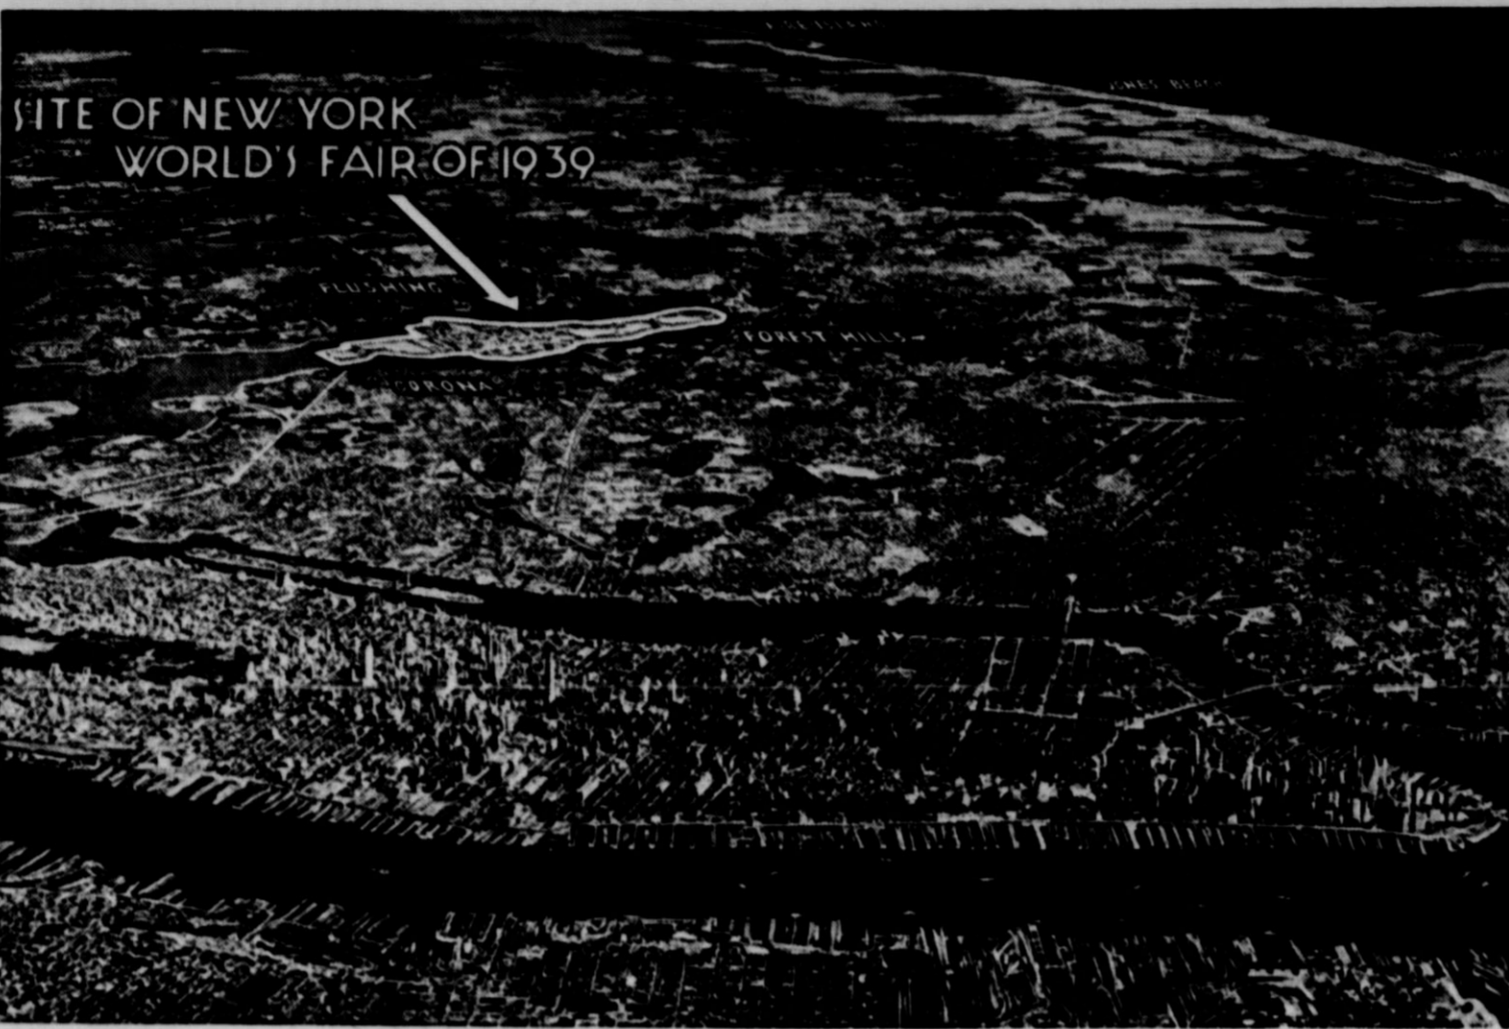

The first of the 300 structures which, according to estimates, will house the 1939 Fair, has been completed and is ready for occupancy. This is the headquarters building for the field forces of today and the employment department of the exposition period.

Scheduled for early in the new year is the start of actual construction of the $90,000,000 Administration building. The designs for this structure, let under architectural contract a few weeks ago, are bearing the day of their approval in the Corporation's offices. Upon completion of this building, late in August, 1937, the Fair headquarters, bag, baggage and sales offices, moves to the exposition site.

The most splendid and significant edifice projected for the 1939 international exposition, the Theme Building, as described at Fair headquarters, is also well along in its contractual period. The estimated cost of this great building for the "Thematic Centre" of the exposition is set at $1,200,000. The preliminary designs are to be finished in about eight weeks and the final plans submitted within four weeks thereafter. Construction is scheduled to start immediately the designs are completed.

From this Theme Centre will radiate all that is to be the 1939 Fair as conceived by its founders and rendered into concrete terminology and model by the Fair's Board of Design.

New York World's Fair Site From 9,000 Feet Up

NEW YORK, (Special).—Photography and ingenuity combine to show about how the New York Fair will appear in 1939 to visitors arriving from the west in planes flying at an altitude of one and three-quarters miles. Cameraman made this "shot" from a plane over the New Jersey meadows. Shown in the foreground is the shipping along the Hudson—Manhattan with its towers grouped about the Empire State building (center) which houses present headquarters of the Fair—and in the middle distance the 1,216 1/2 acre site of the 1939 international exposition. To the right lies Brooklyn and, beyond, the hinterland of Long Island. At the extreme left, spanning the East River, is the new Triborough bridge over which many of the 50,000,000 visitors expected at the Fair will motor to the convenient parking lots. A photograph of the table model of the Fair has been superimposed on the negative of the air view to show the grid of the central exhibit zone, the boat basin being constructed on Flushing Bay and the lagoons that will feature the exposition's amusement zone.

"Our job from now on is to give physical expression to the plan and theme of the Fair as announced and set forth on paper in our headquarters," says Grover Whalen, President of the Fair Corporation. "Starting next April 1, we plan to complete the design of one major building every ten days for a period of seven months. In all, we expect to design no less than 30 major buildings to house the exhibits from every part of the world. Some 300 structures, in all, are planned for the Flushing Meadows site, within a few minutes' ride from Manhattan."

Without solicitation on the part of the Fair more than 250 American business houses and institutions have begun preliminary conversations regarding their participation and are already planning exhibits. Five of the great nations of the world have already assured the Corporation that they would erect their own buildings, while no less than 32 other nations have informally indicated their desire to participate.

And then, on top of all this display of keen interest, comes the announcement that the International Convention Bureau, meeting in Paris, has allocated the year 1939 to the New York Fair. This means that the New York Fair has exclusive ranking as the "one international exposition" of 1939, and assures it of the active support of the 21 nations signing the agreement.

President Roosevelt has just extended official invitation to the nations of the world, Governor Herbert H. Lehman, of the host State of New York, has extended invitation to the governors and residents of 47 states. Governor Whalen, likewise has invited the governors in a letter pointing out that "the commercial consequences of the New York World's Fair are so great and important that they alone would justify the active participation of every state."

Fair Commissioners are already in South America and Europe. Still others are on their way to the Far East and other foreign shores. Major Dennis E. Nolan, retired, as head of the Department of Foreign, State and Municipal Participation, will himself make representation to the governors and legislatures of the various states.

Meanwhile, under the direction of Harvey D. Gibson, President of the Manufacturers Trust Company, and Richard Whitney, former president of the New York Stock Exchange, the prominent figures in the financial capital conducted a 28-day campaign to sell $27,829,700 in debenture bonds of the Fair to finance the construction period.

Every confidence is being expressed that the Fair not only will "pay its way," but that it will bring a billion dollars more of revenue into Greater New York and stimulate American industry in general to an extent many fold that amount.

The total cost of producing New York's Fair including collateral improvements is set at $125,000,000. Statisticians estimate that the attendance will total more than 50,000,000 persons.

The City of New York, the State of New York, and the Government of the United States, according to expectations will account for $35,000,000 of the total expenditures and thus lend an official backing never before achieved.

DETERMINED

At a lecture, the speaker orated fervently: "He drove straight to his goal. He looked neither to the right nor to the left, but pressed forward, moved by a definite purpose. Neither friend nor foe could delay him, nor turn him from his course. All who crossed his path did so at their own peril. What would you call such a man?" "A truck driver!" shouted a voice from the audience.

"Are you a college man?" "No. A horse stepped on my hat."

"In the time it takes me to tell you how to do the work I could do it myself."

"Yes, mum. And in the time it takes me to listen to you, so could I."

HOW OLD WAS THE EGG?
At breakfast one morning the town bachelor noticed some handwriting on one of his three-minute eggs. Examining it closely he made out the following message: "This egg was packed by a girl who is prepared to marry the man who notices this message. She is said to be the prettiest girl in this neighborhood."

He wrote: "I would like to correspond with you—object matrimony."

Several days later he received a reply: "I am flattered by your offer, but I am now married and have three children."

By MARSHALL FISKE

The "HENDERSON" or "BRITTON HOME" is noted for two things: its fine iron fence with its Grecian urns on the gate posts, and for the fact that here during the siege of Natchez, a shell tore its way through this old house and lodged in the servants' dining hall. Luckily, it was just after the meal and no one was injured.

"CHOCTAW" or as it is sometimes known "THE PISK HOME" was in a state of sad dilapidation, the premises overgrown with weeds with much debris in evidence.

But even in its ruin one could see its "class" and the inside seemed to be filled with the ghosts of the past. It exerted a powerful magnetic attraction, even in its old age.

"THE BRIARS" was especially noteworthy because here took place the marriage of Jefferson Davis, the President of the Confederacy, to Miss Varina Howell.

"WINDY HILL" also was associated with an historical character. Here it was that Aaron Burr tarried preceding his notable trial at Richmond, Va. As one enters one sees a fine spiral staircase and many antiques. But it was the three ladies who live here, the Misses Stanton, who gave the house its true character. The eldest, Miss Elizabeth, was an octogenarian and the author of "Fata Morgana". She presented a most imposing appearance, such fine poise, such noble majesty. The blue blood of her ancestors had all converged in her and made her the aristocrat that she really was. If I remember correctly, she told me that the Stantons traced their lineage to William the Conqueror. She laughed when she told me how reluctant they had all been at first in opening their house to outsiders. "You know, we are all so very southern, but since we have opened up our house to the public we have met so many charming people which otherwise we would have missed."

And I added "that we would have missed, too."

"GLOUSTER" has a most unusual feature about it, a dry moat running about the place. It also has a double entrance. In its central hall hangs an extremely large oil painting of the Italian school, this dominates the whole place seemingly. It is truly an artistic colossus.

"HOMEWOOD" was a typical antebellum home, built of brick, with 'iron lace' balconies and pillared porticoes. It was pressed into the service when "Birth of a Nation" was filmed, also in "Old Kentucky".

"LONGWOOD" the unfinished Moorish creation appealed most to my imagination. Only the basement is livable, the rest of the huge place was just as the carpenters left it to join their colors at the outbreak of the War. The house is octagonal in shape and is surmounted with a cupola that reminds one somehow of those surmounting church edifices in Russia, onion-shaped in this case. Niches were about in the great central hall which were never destined to be filled with their imported marble statuary. It seems that time hangs suspended here in these unfinished rooms.

"DUNLIETH" is a very handsome antebellum home, one of the very finest, a double decker veranda runs about three sides of it imparting an airy grace to it. It looks so cool and inviting especially when Old Sol beats down with all his fiery force.

To "DEVEREUX", however, must be awarded the palm for architectural beauty. It looks like a chaste Greek temple standing in a grove. Its proportions, and its very fine door-way is a veritable masterpiece of designing. And the interior is in keeping with its exterior.

"STANTON HALL" was the first ante-bellum home I came across in my wanderings about Natchez. It burst forth like a gigantic aristocrat amongst a lot of puny plebeians. It occupied a whole city square and sat on a knoll amongst old trees.

Above its pillared portico one could make out the date it was built - '1851' - The interior was furnished with many fine mahogany antiques, but only one or two chairs remained of the original furnishings. The magnificent carved woodwork, the sculptured bronze chandeliers, were all intact just as they were originally. The original owner of this magnificent home was the master of over 40 plantations but his great wealth did not make for a vulgar display. This one sees all through the south people of vast means do not obviously flaunt their wealth in your face but fine taste and discretion are used and these are wedded to a refined feeling for the aesthetic.

I hated to tear myself away from Natchez as the people had all been so wonderful to me, a stranger in their midst, and had opened their houses to me with a cordial liberality that gave me so much pleasure and profit and a good understanding of the times long since passed away.

HOUSING PROBLEM OLD AS CAVE MAN

Story of Human Shelter Through The Ages Shows Continuous Struggle For Better Homes

THE nation-wide interest today in the subject of better homes for more people is no new thing. It started before the dawn of history when men literally roosted in crude tree shelters or covered in lightless, heatless caves to escape the many cruel natural forces with which they had not learned to cope.

Tracing the history of human habitation from prehistoric times to the safe, attractive, and comfortable American home of today, it is shown in "Shelter," an illustrated booklet issued by The Rubeiroid Co., New York, that many structural ideas now commonly regarded as new are actually very old.

Air conditioning, for example, was attempted more than 2,000 years ago by the Egyptians, who built on their roofs a device called a "mugiluf," shaped like a trough with open ends, which sucked the prevailing cool winds down into the house much like a modern ship's ventilator.

The "covered wagon," usually associated only with American frontier days, had its counterpart more than 1,000 years ago in a chariot tent, used by the hordes of Attila the Hun when they were ravaging Europe. The penthouse gardens of modern skyscraper apartments had their origin in the roof-top gardens that were the rage in the Babylonian of Biblical times. The modern house furnace can be traced back to the "hypoocaust," a device by which heat was conducted from cooking ovens through the walls and under the floors of the homes of Imperial Rome.

Pointing out that the degree of civilization which man has achieved at any time in history may be judged in large measure by the character of his home, the Rubeiroid booklet shows how the combined efforts of modern science, industry, and business have reduced construction costs to a point where an American family of modest income can today enjoy a home with comforts and conveniences undreamed of even by the kings and barons of an earlier day.

Prizes totalling $2,300 will be awarded in this year's rodeo. Besides the daily cash prizes in calf-roping, wild-cow-milking, bronc riding and steer riding, six handsome saddles are to be awarded the champions in the various contests. One of these will go to the champion bronc rider, one to the champion cow-milker and one to the cowboy making the best record in calf-roping. Of the other saddles, one goes as first prize in the cutting-horse contest, one to the winner in the old time calf-roping's contest and one to the winning cowgirl sponsor. Besides these special made saddles presented by the Reunion management, Jack M. Little of Dallas will give a saddle to the winner of the junior cowboy contest, which will be a new feature this year.

The Teas Cowboy Reunion rodeo is unique in that actual cowhands from the ranches of Texas and adjoining states are featured. Professional rodeo performers are barred from the contests.

Outlook Justifies State Participation In New York Fair
Whalen Voices Opinion In Inviting Governor and People to the 1939 Exposition

NEW YORK, (Special).—In a letter of invitation to the governors of 47 states, Grover Whalen, President of the New York World's Fair 1939 Corporation, points out that the commercial consequences of the international exposition under construction in New York City are so great and important that they alone would justify the active participation of every state in the nation.

consumers purchasing power will be represented by these visitors. They will comprise a true cross-section of America.

The World's Fair, according to Mr. Whalen, will be a magnificent spectacle, entertaining and instructive. It will attempt to answer the questions: "What kind of a world have we built? What kind of a world are we building? What kind of a world can we build?" With collateral improvements, it will represent a total investment of more than $125,000,000 by the Fair Corporation and the governmental, industrial and other participants. The Fair site park is a tract of 121 1/2 acres, almost at the geographical and population center of New York City.

Construction of buildings and roads, grading, dredging, planting and landscaping are already under way, based upon a schedule which calls for completion of all construction operations before January 1, 1939, to allow four months for final decorations and installation of exhibits preparatory to the opening of the Fair on April 30.

The opening date commemorates the inauguration, on April 30, 1789, of George Washington as the first President of the United States.

In the government area, and near an imposing federal hall to be erected by the United States Government, the Fair will provide a "Hall of States" in which the significant contributions of each state in laying the foundations for the better World of Tomorrow can be proudly displayed, says Mr. Whalen.

His letter supplement an invitation to participate in the Fair extended to the governors on November 30 by Governor Herbert H. Lehman of the host state of New York. Governor Lehman pointed out that the State of New York has already appropriated, to date $2,135,600 for commencement of construction of boulevards, service roads, bridges, and certain other basic improvements the State will make at the exposition site or its approaches. The New York legislature, further, during 1936 passed an act creating the New York World's Fair Commission of 18 members and providing funds in aid of this body's preparation of plans for a state building and exhibit and for active state participation in the Fair.

STAMFORD SHOW TO TEST SKILL BRONC PEELERS

STAMFORD, June 2.—What promises to be the best string of rodeo stock in the history of the Texas Cowboy Reunion is being assembled here for the eighth annual roundup which will be held on July 1, 2, and 3.

Twenty-five new bucking horses, calculated to give trouble to the best of bronc riders, have been imported to add to the outlaw broncs already available on nearby ranches. Rancorous steeds that have built up reputations for aerial tendencies in past past rodeos are being retained. Among these are "Clamity Jane", "Candy Wagon", "Dr. Blackwell", "Pitchfork Bay" and "Throckmorton Dun."

Ten new wild Brarma steers have been added to the herd of 26 which the Reunion kept over from last year. Those that showed gentle tendencies have been cut out. Three cars .75 head, of cows have been bought for the wild-cow-milking contest and 50 roping calves are being shipped in.

M.E. DELEGATION TO ENCAMPMENT

A group of local young people, accompanied by Rev. and Mrs. D. D. Denison of the First Methodist Church and Mrs. John Russell left Monday morning for an annual week's encampment to Ceta Canyon, a branch of Palo Duro State Park near the city of Canyon.

The Matador delegation included James Dickey Denison, Aline and Sonny Russell, Mack Jacobs, Zona Ruth Scaff, Katherine Sheats, and Nettie Jenette Jenkins, and Eugenia Tilson of Whiteflat.

He: "If you will remove your glove I will kiss your hand." She: "Oh, it would be much easier to remove my veil."

"I'll be frank with you," said the young man when the embrace was over. "You're the first girl I ever kissed."

"I'll be equally frank with you," she answered. "You've got a lot to learn."

A Medieval Bride-Ale for the Modern Bride

Beer Spice Cake Served with Beer or Demi Tasse

JUNE—the bridal month. We have bridal breakfasts, bridal showers, bridal wreaths and bridal bells. It's a happy and exciting month. In fact, so much so that few of us have found time to ponder on the real meaning of the curious word "bride."

Originating way back in the fifteenth century when beer and ale were the all-important beverages served, every eventful social gathering was called an Ale. There were church-ales, Easter-ales, midsummer-ales, Whitsun-ales, wedding-ales, scot-ales, tithe-ales, bride-ales and many more of which are heard quite frequently in the history of England.

Luckily for our figures, to say nothing of the cook, along with bride-ale being shortened to bridal, the wedding breakfast has been cut down. Medieval bridal breakfasts included such delicacies as swan, capons, herons or pheasants, chickens and pigeons. All that would be topped off with a bit of pastry, serving huge quantities of ale or beer all through the feast.

Why not try a modern Bride-Ale with a long medieval lines for your wedding breakfast? Choose any one of the ales used then and have beer and ale as your beverages. You will then have a very simple menu.

TWO VALUABLE WATCH PRIZES ARE RECEIVED

A valuable Longines diamond wrist watch, offered as a prize on the Woodbury radio program "Follow The Moon", was won by Eugenia Tilson, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Tilson who live north of here in the Whiteflat community, for the best answer to a question asked over the air in the contest now being sponsored by the soap company. The watch, in a gold and silver metal case, was received Saturday. An identical prize was also awarded to Miss Lucretia Estes, of the Matador Variety Store here, where the soap was purchased.

Miss Tilson won the watch for her answer to the question "I like Woodbury's Soap best for my skin because—" with these words "When I found what a nice skin Woodbury's gave me, no other soap would do." Miss Estes also won a diamond wristwatch for her cooperation. The contest is unique in that a consumer winner and a dealer cooperate to win awards for themselves.

The contest, which began on April 12th, will continue through June 18th, allowing ample time for additional participants to enter. During this time, 1000 diamond wristwatches will be given away at the rate of 100 a week. Fifty a week will be awarded to consumer participants and a like number to the dealers from whom the purchases are made.

Details for entering the contest may be learned on the afternoon radio program, "Follow The Moon", heard Monday through Friday over the National Broadcasting Company. Elsie Hitz and Nick Dawson are stars of the romance-adventure air series.

Dam Bill Is Signed Upper Red River

Governor Allred yesterday signed the bill creating the Upper Red River Flood Control and Irrigation district and appropriating $2,000 for further investigation of the possibilities of the proposed project. The district includes Childress, Hall and Briscoe Counties and the appropriation is for investigation by the state board of water engineers of possibilities of a dam on Red River, tentatively proposed for the western part of Hall County.

Started by Barr The state board of water engineers became interested in the project through efforts of Dr. Roy E. Barr, Childress dentist, and made a preliminary survey last fall. In their report, they recommended further investigation.

The measure was sponsored in the Legislature by Rep. Bob Alexander of Childress and Rep. Tarwater of Plainview.

The three-county district will be set up with representatives from each of the counties on the board. The investigation of the possibilities of the dam will include an estimate of the land available for irrigation, the quality of water which would be impounded, and many other items.

Flood Waters Delay Postal Service Here Washout On Railroad Near Quanah Ties Up Delivery. Towns along the Q. A. and P. railroad west of Quanah were without eastern mail service Tuesday as result of torrential rains falling near Lazare and north toward Childress according to reports received here after the morning eastern mail failed to arrive. It was declared a bridge across a small dry gulch had washed out and a notice was posted in the lobby of the post office that the mail would be delivered in five and one half hours. This notice was later replaced with a placard stating that no mail would be made Tuesday. Other reports said a seven foot rise had struck the Pease river bridge between Quanah and Paducah. Service Is Resumed Service was resumed yesterday to the towns along the affected route, including Paducah, Roaring Springs, Matador and Floydada. Meager information regarding the delay obtainable yesterday indicated that the Pease river bridge had not been impaired by the flood waters altho fears of its withstanding the headrise were entertained. Complete railroad service was conducted yesterday with mail and express shipments arriving on time, altho the local post office faced a two-day distribution of mail.
