PRICE TEN CENTS

TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

A group of boys from my community used to take an annual wagon vacation. Four or five would collect bedding, food and fishing equipment for a week on White River. They of course camped out and told wonderful stories of their experiences. I never made the trip because I did not have the $10 to $15 required, and my parents thought it was a little risky. Vacations are much more expensive and complicated today, but perhaps no more enjoyable.

He was the kind of a West Texan who could not tell if a new moon was wet or dry. All of us experienced weather prophets know that a new moon lying on its back is full of water, but if the point is down, the water has drained out.

Pollution and ecology experts must have a field day when they evaluate the tragic condition of Switzerland, where the home and cow barn is often one building. The pathetic aspect of this situation is that the Swiss have lived this way for centuries, developing a strong and healthy race.

The attitude of trying to get something for nothing has probably led to more failures than all other causes combined. The lasting rewards are those that are earned.

If you have never placed a piece of cardboard inside your shoe to cover a hole, you have perhaps lived a sheltered life.

My inventions have not been successful except as drawing boards for dreams of wealth and influence. I once perfected a method of creating synthetic shredded coconut, that looked and tasted something like the real product. I grated turnips, added a small amount of glycerin and sugar. The problem was the inconvenience of my process, the small demand for shredded coconut and the fact that the real product is not expensive. Well, you can't win them all.

If you introduce two young people who fall in love and marry, the accomplishment may be more rewarding than writing a book.

Lions Name Seigler As New President

Leary Speaker At Tuesday Meet

MATADOR LIONS Tuesday elected Pat Seigler to the civic club's highest office. The election was from a slate of candidates presented by the nominating committee. No nominations were presented from the floor and the election was by acclamation.

Lions International fiscal year begins the first week in July. Reigning for her first meeting Tuesday was Miss Lou Anne Woodruff, recently elected Queen for the 1972-73 year. She accompanied her father, Lion Glenn Woodruff. The new Queen was presented a piece of luggage as a token of gratitude from the club.

Principal speaker at the luncheon was Eddie J. Leary, a native son of Motley County, who is a candidate for State Representative (66th District) in the May 6, Democratic primary. He was introduced by Lion Ronnie Vandiver, resident State Game Warden. Leary spoke briefly and impres-sively outlining some of the things he opposes and supports, in event of election. He pointed out that the Lions Club does not create influence it represents, but that the members make it the great organization known for its good works throughout the world.

"I do not hold anything against my opponents," Leary said, "they are fine young men. I do not believe a man can build himself up by tearing some one else down."

"I am against bussing in any form," he declared, "and I believe our welfare program is a national disgrace. I think we should cut out the cheats. I believe only those who work, should eat from our tax dollars. We need a good welfare program for those who are disabled, feeble and dependent."

"I believe in reform in state government. I believe in vocational training in our schools to put dignity back in the job. I believe our country stands on the threshold of the greatest era in its history."

Absentee Voting Has 25 Applications

A total of 25 applications to vote absentee were processed Monday by Motley County Clerk Pat Sheridan, on the first day of absentee voting. He said the applications indicated interest in the May 6 Democratic primary.

Persons who are registered in other Texas counties but have moved to this area since April 5 may vote a limited ballot during the absentee voting period. A limited ballot carries only state offices in the primary elections. Under recent Supreme Court rulings only a 30-day residence is required.

Members of the Armed Forces do not have to be registered. They merely send a post card to the county clerk. This card is their registration and automatically means they will receive absentee ballots for the primary, runoff and general elections.

COME TO CHURCH SUNDAY

YOUTHFUL EDUCATOR—Mrs. Furman Vinson, President of El Progreso Club with Garland Rattan, Superintendent of Schools at Boys Ranch, who spoke at the club's "Gentlemen's Night" banquet Thursday night. Boys Ranch Teaches Concept of Values

RESPECTABILITY and a youthful concept of values are among the first things taught a new recruit at Boys Ranch, according to Garland Rattan, superintendent of the ranch's 40 teacher school.

Rattan, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Rattan of Matador, grew to manhood here and is a graduate of Matador High School. He made the principal address Thursday night at El Progreso Club "gentlemen's night" banquet, held in First United Methodist Church basement. He was introduced by Douglas Meador.

He first showed an excellent motion picture from the great institution founded by the late Cal Farley, then explained the method of teaching boys who have come from the streets, from broken homes and boys who have gotten into trouble. About 400 boys are currently living at the ranch.

"We teach boys that learning is not a thing apart from living," the speaker declared, "and we teach fairness because our entire plan is boy centered. We teach spiritual learning and introduce the boy to Jesus Christ. Involvement is the key to our plan. We do not ridicule. We teach boys to play. We teach many talents not taught in books. We fit the boy to the ranch, teaching him to work while considering individual differences. We have six vocational teachers.

"We try to prepare a boy for the world outside Boys Ranch and give him an equal chance. We know the boys want to be important now and we try to give them a sense of belonging. So they can meet the frustrations of the future with confidence."

Title of the program was "Reclaiming Our Young People." Invocation was by J. R. Whitworth. Leader was club president Mrs. Furman Vinson. Benediction was by Rev. Douglas Gossett. Organ music in the church sanctuary preceding the banquet was by Mrs. Frank Pohl.

The excellent banquet was prepared and served by members of the club. Attractive decorations were also arranged by members, but were provided by Mrs. J. S. Stanley and featured a ranch motif. They included miniature corral and cowboys, and a ranch house. Place cards, made by Mrs. Pohl, were shaped as wagon wheels. Sprays of artificial roses enhanced the setting.

Quanah Book Fair To Honor Authors

Quanah will make headlines in the book world, Sunday, April 23 when Quanah author Winston M. Estes introduces his second book on his home town with nation-wide sales and presides over a Texas Book Fair in that city.

The festivities, which are expected to draw authors from over north and west Texas, will be held in a three-hour open house and autograph party at the First National Bank during the afternoon.

Center of attraction will be "A Streetful of People," a hilarious parody on small town life with the Main Street of Quanah as the backdrop.

Estes, who grew up in Quanah during the "dirty thirties," introduced his other best selling book, "Another Part of the House" in Quanah two years ago.

The two books, published by the J. B. Lippincott Co., of Philadelphia, Pa., both take place in Quanah and have projected the author, a retired career Air Force officer, as an author of note over the nation.

Mr. and Mrs. Estes, who now make their home in Springfield, Virginia, will be in Quanah for the festivities, as will personnel from Lippincott Publishing Co., news media, including TV, daily and weekly newspaper people and radio. Other authors and writers will also attend.

Native of Quanah

A native of Quanah, Estes attended Texas Tech and for 28 years was an Air Force officer with assignments in public affairs, education, training and intelligence. His primary responsibility, however, was that of a lecturer-instructor.

He is a cousin of local residents, Mrs. W. N. Pipkin, Mrs. W. F. Jacobs, Mrs. Robert Darsey and Mrs. R. E. Campbell Jr., daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bert Estes, who moved here in the 1920's from Quanah.

Estes recently retired from his second tour of duty in the Pentagon where he had the two-headed job of Assistant Secretary of Defense and State in Public Affairs. His first book was a humorous account of his Pentagon military life, entitled "Winston in Wonderland."

Authors of books published by Quanah-based, Nortex Offset Publications Co., as well as other noted authors in the area have been invited to take part in the book fair and to be on hand to autograph copies of their books.

Studio Negatives Donated to Club

Due to the lack of proper storage space, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Vaughan, owners of Webb's Studio, Childress, have donated all of the studio's negative files from 1935 through 1959 to the Modern Home Club of Childress.

The club is charging a small "search and find" fee for each set of negatives, which will be used for the club's non-profit projects and donations. These will include refurbishing the Woman Department Club building and other worthy civic projects.

The Woman Department Club has been open to the public since April 15 for the purpose of claiming negatives, and will be open the remainder of this week as follows:

Thursday, April 20, 2:00 to 6:00 p.m.; Friday, April 21, 2:00 to 6:00 p.m. and Saturday, April 22, 10:00 to 5:00 p.m.

All negatives not claimed at this time will be destroyed, according to Mrs. Charlie Johnston

Secretary of the Modern Home Club. Many Matador negatives are included in the files, she said.

Junior College Study is Made

A study is being conducted in a five county area which includes Motley County, to determine if there is a need for a junior college which offers occupational and technical education or training.

The area being surveyed in the study includes, in addition to Motley, Briscoe, Floyd, Hale, and Swisher counties. The study has been approved and is sponsored by the Division of Occupational Research and Development, Texas Education Agency.

Using the name Area Occupational Education Research, the study is being conducted by Perry H. Bell, Project Director and Thomas J. Krueger, Associate Director.

"To accomplish the purposes of the study," said Mr. Bell, in Matador Monday, "several groups will be surveyed. These will include students, employers, parents and out-of-school youths." He said that survey forms will be mailed to these groups, and urged that everyone who receives a form, supply the information requested and return it as soon as possible to facilitate the completion of the study.

SEVERAL RESIDENTS HOME FROM HOSPITAL

Several residents have returned home from area hospitals, where they have been recent patients. They include Miss Amy Glenn, from Central Plains Hospital, Plainview; Floyd Hardin from Hall County Hospital, Memphis; Givens Crump from Caprock Hospital, Floydada; Mrs. Jewel Landrum from Central Plains, Plainview; and Mrs. Buford Williams from University Hospital, Lubbock; and Elzie Stone from Richards Memorial Hospital, Paducah.
