Abolition Of Death Penalty Asked In Bill

AUSTIN, Feb. 20 (AP)—A bill to abolish the death penalty was introduced in the house today by Rep. Taylor White of Odessa.

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel has advocated elimination of capital punishment.

A bill offered two years ago to accomplish that purpose failed to get out of committee.

The governor has consistently granted each person sentenced to electrocution a 30-day stay. The maximum he is empowered to grant without a recommendation by the state pardon board.

The emergency clause of White's bill stated that "the death penalty is barbarous and inhuman."

By a vote of 110 to 13, the house passed a senate bill exempting army post exchanges from the state cigarette tax.

A resolution intended to reduce the number of speeches to the legislature by outsiders was introduced by J. K. Hileman, young representative from Atlanta.

Hileman and Preston Anderson, veteran representative from San Antonio, said speeches and entertainments were taking up time which should be spent on legislation.

The Bexar county delegation wrangled for a time on a local bill, causing one house member to suggest facetiously that each Thursday be set aside as Bexar county day.

With personnel up to full strength of 80 youths, the National Youth Administration resident center was moving steadily into its regular program Thursday.

Regularly youths assigned to the center are putting in three hours a day at the defense program in welding at high school and are engaged in improving and organizing facilities at the center headquarters in the city park.

Attendance at the welding class is staggered so that half of the boys are in school during the morning while the others work at the center. The procedure is reversed during the afternoon.

Equipment in the woodworking shop at the center is being arranged so that instruction and production may start there.

Wednesday Orris M. Cosby, Sweetwater, area supervisor, inspected the center and Thursday Rod Merritt, district NYA personnel officer was at the center.

Opposition To Leasing Bill Gets Recruit

Senator Reynolds Laughs At Willkie's Recent Testimony

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Senator Reynolds (D-NC) announced today that he was opposed to the administration's British aid bill because he was convinced that its enactment might lead the United States directly toward a declaration of war.

Beginning the fourth day of debate on the measure in the senate, the North Carolina senator described it as "a bill for the defense of the British empire at the expense of the American taxpayer."

His opposition came as a surprise to many senators because Reynolds had voted with the administration majority to report the measure from the foreign relations committee for senate consideration. He had consistently refused previously, however, to say whether he would support the bill.

"I want to state," Reynolds told his colleagues, "that I am not opposed to giving aid to England as is provided under existing statutes. However, I am bitterly opposed to any subterfuge or the circumventing of the present statutes by any type of legislation such as this, which we are now being called upon to vote upon."

"There is no man in this body that abhors war or hates war more than I do, and I intend to do everything in my power to keep our country from becoming involved in this war. I am opposed to this bill, H.R. 1776, because I am convinced that its passage may lead us directly toward, and to a declaration of war."

Reynolds termed "ridiculous" a statement by Wendell L. Willkie, the 1940 republican presidential nominee, before the foreign relations committee. Under questioning by Reynolds, Willkie told the committee that if Britain fell tomorrow this country would be in the war within 30 to 60 days.

Reynolds said Willkie was an "alarmist," and he also added: "In the eyes of every military man, he made the ridiculous statement that if we aid Great Britain to the extent of providing planes for her, with which she can attain supremacy of the air, that she would reconquer all of the territory taken by Hitler."

Reynolds said Willkie was an "alarmist," and he also added: "In the eyes of every military man, he made the ridiculous statement that if we aid Great Britain to the extent of providing planes for her, with which she can attain supremacy of the air, that she would reconquer all of the territory taken by Hitler."

"Of course we all know that Europe could not be conquered from the air. To conquer or to reclaim conquered territory, the foot soldier of today is just as necessary as was the foot soldier of Napoleon's day. It would be easier to conquer a country by radio waves, propaganda, than it would be to conquer or reconquer a territory without the actual employment of soldiers on the ground."

After the program refreshments will be served under direction of Earl Thompson. Ladies of the Eastern Star chapter have prepared the traditional cherry pie.

Suspect In Lamesa Store Entry Taken

LAMESA, Feb. 20 (SpI)—Sheriff A. M. (Buck) Bennett was due here today with Frank Jeffries, who has been charged in connection with burglary of the Taylor and McCall drug store.

Jeffries was taken into custody in Tucson, Ariz. on advice from local officers in connection with loss of goods estimated at around $2,000 from the drug store here three weeks ago.

Owen Taylor and Matt McCall, owners of the store, accompanied Sheriff Bennett to Tucson and identified seized goods as those taken from the store.

Sheriff Bennett reportedly had a statement from Jeffries concerning the case. Jeffries has a prison record and waived extradition. He was apprehended three weeks to the day after the burglary.

Only about half of the goods, consisting of a large number of watches, rings and similar valuables, was recovered.

Turks Say Pact Aid To Britain

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Feb. 20 (AP)—Officially controlled Turkish newspapers said today that the Bulgarian-Turkish nonaggression accord is insurance that Bulgaria will not join the axis and that it actually constitutes an obstacle to any German advance through Bulgaria to Greece.

"Bulgaria promises not to enter the tri-partite pact," said the newspaper Vakit.

"It would not be easy for Germany to go to fight in Greece against the Greek and Turkish army unless the way had been thoroughly prepared as in Rumania and this declaration makes this preparation more difficult."

The newspaper Tan said it was an exaggeration to interpret the declaration "as the British do, that it is a wall to further German penetration of the Balkans, or as the Germans say, that it is a political defeat for England."

"This declaration was made simply to reassure Bulgaria that our preparations in Thrace (the frontier region) are not offensive in nature. Bulgaria indicates her unwillingness to allow German soldiers to pass through her territory."

"At the same time Bulgaria is too weak to help any German drive, but a German march through Bulgaria might cause a revolution there and allow the British to bomb Rumanian oil fields."

The newspaper Ikilian declared that, "although we made this declaration with Bulgaria, our doors are closed to Germany and we shall keep our obligations to Greece and Britain."

British Take Ethiopia Fort

By The Associated Press British South African troops slashing into Italian-conquered Ethiopia were reported today to have captured the fascist garrison at Mega along with 600 prisoners, while other British forces were locked in heavy fighting with the Italians on the Somaliland front.

Mega is 40 miles north of the Kenya Colony frontier, where South Africans started their drive into the kingdom taken from Ex-Emperor Haile Selassie in 1935-36.

Premier Mussolini's high command said the British had made "reported violent attacks" in an attempt to cross the Juba river, in Somaliland.

In the battle of Britain, RAF bombers raked the "invasion ports" of Brest and Calais on the north-held French coast as German night raiders strewn their cargoes of death and destruction on London, Plymouth, Portland, and Swansea, Wales.

Nazi bombs wrecked a block of a big London hospital, killing several patients in bed and a nurse. Other patients were buried in the debris, but rescue squads, doctors and nurses, working by flashlights through the night, extricated all the trapped survivors by dawn.

In another London district, an elderly woman was killed when seven high-explosive bombs fell; two pedestrians died, and two children were killed asleep.

A British communique acknowledged severe damage at Swansea, South Wales industrial port, including "a considerable number of houses and business premises."

Japan renewed efforts to soft-pedal war alarms in the Orient, with Dornel, the Japanese news agency, reporting that Japan's vice foreign minister Chuchi Chasi told Australian Minister Sir John Greg Latham that talk of a "Far Eastern crisis" was groundless.

Nevertheless, British residents of Thailand (Siam) were officially advised to leave as thousands of newly-arrived Australian troops manned defenses in northern Siam, bordering Thailand, and Japanese warships were reported massing in the Gulf of Siam.

And in Washington, Japan's new ambassador, Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, left no doubt that Japan is bent on further southward expansion in the Pacific—"peacefully and economically" if possible. But, he added: "I cannot say with absolute definiteness that Japan will not resort to force."

Dispatches from Shanghai pictured Japan in the curious role of "demand" mediator in the conflict between Thailand and French Indo-China, making sweeping military and economic claims on the two countries while supervising their "peace conference" in Tokyo.

Some committee members said Marshall refused to comment on administration policy in relation to the Far Eastern situation but assured them there was no intention on the part of army and navy chiefs to strip American defenses in the effort to speed up war equipment deliveries to Britain.

Prefacing his remarks with the warning that what he was divulging to the committee was not "his secret," General Marshall was reported to have specified what he considered "an irreducible minimum" of aircraft and other equipment which the United States should have on hand to meet any situation that might develop anywhere in the world.

FLYNN TO VISIT BROWNWOOD, Feb. 20 (AP)—Edward J. Flynn, chairman of the national democratic committee, will visit Camp Bowie on March 6.

The division is a national guard unit composed of troops from Colorado, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona, plus some selective service recruits. Its present strength is between 9,000 and 10,000 men.

Testimony In Knife Slaying Case Begins

FORT WORTH, Feb. 20 (AP)—The story of an excited father's attempt to have H. Glen Cox charged with kidnaping after the 19-year-old Fannin county farm youth eloped with his 14-year-old daughter was unfolded in court here today in the trial of Earl Thomas Brewer; the father, for the knife-slaying of Cox.

Louis Woolsey, Fannin county state attorney, testified for the state that Brewer, a 40-year-old farmer, came to his office in Bonham on Monday, Jan. 4, and asked Woolsey to file a kidnaping complaint against the youth with whom his daughter had left their farm community that morning.

Woolsey said that when Mrs. Brewer came to his office, the father was upset.

"He said that as far as he knew Cox had run off with his daughter—he said he thought they had run off and got married, and he asked me what to do about it after I didn't know about filing a kidnap complaint against Cox," related Woolsey.

Woolsey said that Brewer expressed the opinion the couple had married and gone to California and then they discussed the possibility of having the youth charged with false swearing, if they could find the county in which Cox obtained the license.

"Then he said he guessed he'd just have to take the law into his own hands," continued Woolsey.

At this Rogers again objected and was sustained on the basis of the attorney voicing an opinion, but Woolsey was allowed to state that Brewer said Cox was no good, wasn't any account, didn't work and was marrying his daughter to take her off and make a slave of her.

Administration To Ask Extension Of Ever-Normal Granary

Wanta Carload Of Skunky Oats?

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 20 (AP)—A carload of oats, was figuratively, pushed around in grain circles here today because nobody appeared to want it under the circumstances.

As the story goes, Robert E. Dunn, grain salesman, sold the oats to the Searle Elevator Co., but when it was delivered out waddled a skunk. What's more, two other skunks—both dead—were found inside.

The Searle company representative protested the deal. It smelled, he said, and he demanded a discount. A skunk, he contended, certainly comes under the ruling against foreign material in grain. But Dunn refused to approve the claim. "Produce the live skunk as evidence," he said in effect, "and we'll take a discount. No skunk, no discount."

To settle the row Chicago officials were wired to rule who, under the odoriferous circumstances, owns the grain. Back came the helpful answer:

"The skunks, undoubtedly."

Half Billion Appropriation To Be Sought

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The administration, officials said today, soon will ask congress to extend the life of the agriculture department's "ever normal granary" program and to authorize an additional $500,000,000 to finance federal crop storage and price-pegging operations.

The life of the Commodity Credit corporation, agency which advances loans to farmers on crop surpluses, expires June 30.

Agriculture department officials said that unless the corporation was given an extension, the government would be without the financial power to continue the present program of pegging prices of such commodities as wheat, corn, cotton and several other farm products at prices above levels which would prevail under normal operation of the economic laws of supply and demand.

The corporation already has approximately $1,300,000,000 tied up in loans to growers on surplus farm commodities and in crops taken over under foreclosure of past due loans. Its lending power is limited to $1,300,000,000.

Officials said that the corporation probably would need much more than the $500,000,000 unobligated balance of its lending power to meet grower loan demands for this year's crops.

It is the theory of the present farm program that surpluses of good production years would be kept off the market and stored under Commodity Credit corporation loans to farmers, and released in years of short crops to avert consumer shortages. Thus the title "ever-normal granary."

South Texas Begins Weekend Of 'Good Neighbors' Fiestas

By Associated Press
Far away from exploding bomb and shrapnel, Texans today begin a weekend of celebrations and fiestas dedicated to better relations with friends below the Rio Grande.

Solidarity of the Americas—culturally, fraternally—was the goal of quiet Washington commemorations planned Saturday in hundreds of communities honoring the "father of the good neighbor policy."

But down on the border—the U-turn of the nation—folks had other plans. Thousands will sing and play in fiestas noted for its color and cultural significance.

Brownsville today had 100,000 visitors—many of them winter tourists from the east—for Charro Days which through Sunday will recreate the spirit of the frontier when the Lazy Rio Grande was no border.

Street dancing, troubadour singing, a bloodless bullfight, Indian rodeo—Brownsville will spare nothing. Men will grow beards and dress like the Charro—a glorified Mexican cowpuncher who is supposed to have spent his life on his pony strumming a guitar and wooing ladies under balconies.

The old tradition is that a "Charro never sleeps." Brownsville guaranteed that for four days, snoozing will be at a premium.

Thousands thronged Laredo today for its forty-third Washington birthday celebration—four days of festivities dedicated to a good neighbor policy that the nation's first president preached.

Honor guests were three governors who call themselves "Amigos"—W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas, and Magdaleno Aguilar of Tamaulipas and Bonifacio Lazo of Nuevo Leon, Mexico.

Laredo posted no costume rules—as long as dress was significant. Some wore a colonial motif—hoop skirts and a dozen petticoats for the women, powdered wigs and buckled shoes for men—and some went Mexican—sombros and serapes.

Galveston's Fat Tuesday (Mardi Gras), which dates back to 1867, will attract ten Latin-American beauties and nineteen envoys from other states and cities. From today through next Tuesday the pulchritude of two continents will converge on the coast city and be presented in the "Pageant of America's" Tuesday night.

From Washington will come four daughters of ministers, ambassadors and embassy officials. They will be escorted by Mrs. Morris Sheppard, wife of Texas' senior senator, on a special train significantly named "The Diplomat."

Elsewhere in Texas Washington observances will be unostentatious—recitals in schools, programs in women's clubs, speeches and luncheons. But the same theme will prevail—friendship, freedom, peace.

Real Colorado City Pioneer Passes Away

COLORADO CITY, Feb. 20 (SpI)—In the death of Mrs. W. J. Miller, 95, whose funeral was held Wednesday, Colorado City lost one of its bonafide pioneers, for Mrs. Miller first came to Colorado City the day the spikes which held the first rails of the Texas and Pacific railroad here were being given their final driving down.

Mrs. Miller was born Emmeline Black on March 13, 1845, in Mobile, Ala. Her family came to Texas when she was five, making the trip by boat across Lake Pontchartrain to New Orleans and thence to Jefferson, Tex., where they lived for a time. Mrs. Miller often recalled how the cannon was fired to signal the arrival of supply boats on the river, and how platform speeches for and against the building of railroads were made at barbecues.

Her father died quite early, and her education was guarded by an uncle who was a Presbyterian minister. She grew up to become a Bible student and a charter member of three Presbyterian churches—the First Presbyterian church of Colorado City, the First Presbyterian church of El Paso, and the First Presbyterian church of Seminole. She was the last surviving charter member of the Colorado City church.

The marriage of Emmeline Black and William Jackson Miller took place in Gateville on March 1, 1863. The Millers came to Colorado City with the railroad from Coryell county on the last day of March, 1881. They had the first house built of lumber in the sprawling tent town which was Colorado City at that time, the lumber being secured by Mrs. Miller's brothers from commissary houses which were built and torn down as railroad construction progressed through West Texas.

Two of Mrs. Miller's brothers, Joe and Chris Black, and her brother-in-law, Ellis Major, supervised the building of the railroad bed through this section of West Texas. They were still working ahead of the rails with Colorado City as headquarters when the Millers arrived.

What is believed to have been Colorado City's first Sunday school was held in the Miller home, the first Sunday after they arrived. Mrs. Miller went from tent to tent inviting children and older people to come to her home for Sunday school. The came and sat on barrels, benches and the floor, she often recalled, singing lustily without music.

In the latter part of 1881 the Millers followed the railroad on to El Paso, which was then very new and very small. Thirteen months later they came back to Colorado City, which was their home off and on afterward. Mr. Miller served in the Texas legislature under Gov. Lanham.

Six children survive Mrs. Miller. They are: Mrs. W. M. Cleghorn of Fort Lyons, Colo.; John W. Miller of Florida, Ariz.; Mrs. W. H. Brennan and Dr. Felix P. Miller of El Paso; Mrs. V. Van Gieson of Big Spring, and Mrs. Y. D. McMurry of Colorado City.

Policeman Tells Of Relief Found In Modern Hoyt's

Officer Thomas of Amarillo Says Hoyt's Proved to Be Right Treatment for Indigestion, Sourness and Dizzy Spells.

"For a long time I had severe spells of indigestion," says Police Officer W. R. Thomas, of 2303 West Second St., Amarillo, Texas.

MR. W. R. THOMAS

"After each meal, my food soured in my stomach, and there was a sour taste in my mouth. Gas caused terrible pressure around my heart. My stomach felt like there was a big, solid lump in it. I had frequent dizzy spells, and my knees, arms and shoulders pained me terribly.

"Immediately after I started Hoyt's Compound, I was feeling better. Now indigestion is gone. I eat as I want to. Hoyt's is a wonderful medicine, and the results it gave me are almost unbelievable. My kidneys are normal. I rest well. I feel like an entirely different person.

Hoyt's Compound is recommended and sold by the Collins Bros. Drug Store and by all leading druggists in this entire area.—adv.

Arkansas Lad Wows 'em On Houston Links

By WILLIAM T. RIVES
HOUSTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Frank Stiedle, the heralded hillbilly bit-er who breezed into the Houston Country Club invitation golf tournament like a march wind, faced the possibility of going out the same way today in the first round of match play.

Stiedle, colorful Hot Springs, Ark., hotel clerk, charmed the gallery yesterday in the qualifying session. He won a host of admirers, but bumped into a tartar today in the person of Long John Barnum, the former Rio Grande valley pride who was runner-up in the tourney two years ago.

Barnum, whose tee shots almost match those of Stiedle, figured to give the Osark star a rousing reception.

Stiedle's performances struck the spectators even before match play began. First, he was a late but welcome entry in the event.

Then he blew around the tough par 35-37 layout in 35-34-70 to share medal honors with Raymond Smith of Dallas and Billy Bob Coffey of San Antonio.

In the driving contest following the qualifying round, Stiedle didn't show up until the last man had pounded a shot down the No. 1 fairway. Just as the officials were about to give up and the crowd decided wouldn't have a chance to see this famed slugger in his specialty Stiedle appeared.

His first shot went out of bounds. His second was exactly one yard short of Ellsworth Vines' 368-yarder, the best previous effort. On his third and last try, Stiedle—who weighs only 165 pounds—sailed the ball 297 yards.

Stiedle had seven one-putt greens on his qualifying round, which balanced his iron troubles. Coffey, state champion, shot a 67-33 and Smith a steady 55-35.

Coffey met Dick Naults of Houston in another feature match today. Naults, a perennial dark horse, reported a 75 yesterday along with Barnum.

Jack Munger of Dallas, who also took 75 shots, was a decided underdog, despite his long and impressive tournament record, when he took the tee against Johnny Dawson, Hollywood salesman who probably is shooting the most consistent golf of any nationally-ranked amateur.

Dawson's even par 71 yesterday matched the scores of Bobby Riegel, defending champion, and Howard Orel, Houston southpaw.

Vines, Ed White, former titlist; Walter Emery of Tulsa, and other favorites apparently were in for little trouble in their opening tilt.

Fire Destroys Texarkana Plant

TEXARKANA, Feb. 20 (AP)—Damage estimated at more than $50,000 resulted here last night from a fire that swept the main factory building and an annex at the 15-acre W. S. Dickey Clay Manufacturing company plant.

The firm held some defense contracts for sewer pipe for army camps and air fields, M. P. Wilhelmson, vice-president of the company said, but he added that these contracts did not constitute the principal production of the plant.

Origin of the fire was unknown but an explosion was heard in the factory building shortly before the flames began sweeping the structures.

Arizona-Texas Schedule Fixed

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Feb. 20 (AP)—A 132-game schedule for the Arizona-Texas baseball league awaited today only the approval of the El Paso club before being drafted.

E. Louis Hahn, president of the Albuquerque Cardinals, drew up the schedule, containing four more games than the 1940 draft. Hahn said it had been approved by both St. Louis and Tucson but that El Paso had yet to be heard from.

Lookin' 'em Over

WITH JACK DOUGLAS

Pat Patterson, pitcher who put in one day with the Big Spring Barons of 1940, was released and then finished up the baseball season at Lamesa, is marking time until he receives his contract from Greensboro, North Carolina, of the Piedmont league. Pat is the lad who, after being released outright, went ahead to win 22 and lose 8 games during the summer season, and wound up by being bought by the Boston Red Sox.

In the event he is not picked up by the North Carolina club, Patterson has indicated that he would be ready, willing, and able to show his wares before Big Spring customers on Jodie Tate's and Tink Riviere's ball club. Riviere predicts great things for Patterson, provided he gets the breaks that are coming to him, and if 22 wins in 30 tries mean anything, the youthful hurler is due to carry out Riviere's bit of soothsaying.

Eddie Miller, who is at present pushing an ambulance over the country for Aid to Britain publicity purposes, is another baseballer known to these parts who is dickering with Tate and Riviere for a spot on the 1941 local ball club. Miller doubles in brass so far as an athletic career is concerned. He turns in a bit of grid-iron work for the New York Giants' football firm and then whizzes away the summer months as a ball player.

Last year he took care of the second base chores for Jodie Tate's Lamesa club and, if he can come to terms agreeable to both parties, Miller will be seen on a Big Spring roster.

There seems to be one item that might keep Miller from performing on West Texas-New Mexico league diamonds—he is a reserve officer of the army and may be called at anytime to go on the active list.

Seek, and ye shall be rewarded, is a slogan that Tink Riviere has followed through many years as a professional baseball campaigner.

After years of seeking he has been rewarded by being put on Houston Post's All-Star Barbers' first team. Holder of the first-chair position on the lineup is Texas University's Dana X. Bible, thereby causing Tink to feel that he is at least in talented company.

According to Riviere, he won his place on the team by virtue of his fast-breaking, catch-as-catch-can talking, a talent that won him wide renown down in the coast country. Tink is of the opinion that, although he was a brilliant performer in the art of shooting the gaff, he must keep on his toes out in this country if he intends to keep his laurels.

West Texas-New Mexico baseball league problems will be discussed and ironed out at a meeting of all clubs at Baylor on March 2. The parley is scheduled to climax pre-season preparations and break the ground for spring training.

For a while suggested names for the Big Spring ball club were coming up in good style but the supply has fallen off lately. Tate and Riviere have announced that the one whose suggestion is picked will be their guest at all home games played by the local nine. In case there are a number of suggestions for the same name, the club owners have said that they will have one of Big Spring's men dip his hand in a basket of paperclips with each person's name on it and tag the name drawn as the guest.

Natives of Jubaland, in Africa, sometimes brand themselves with the same design used for their cattle.

Now, that's howl that's hard to take—That Louis parted to a fake. But, as Bill Corum suggests in the Journal-American, maybe it was just a "Haluskanation."

It's still up in the air, said the 71-year-old keeper of the Bees in response to a query about prospects of plans for purchase of the "controlling" stock by a syndicate of several men.

Boston Bees Sale In Air

By STEVE O'LEARY
BOSTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—President Bob Quinn is in "no position" to talk about the status of negotiations for the purchase of the Boston Bees but it's significant that "pressure of business" keeps him in Boston today as his club embarks for pre-season training at San Antonio.

"It's still up in the air," said the 71-year-old keeper of the Bees in response to a query about prospects of plans for purchase of the "controlling" stock by a syndicate of several men.

But that doesn't mean he will stand pat with the youth-studded lineup which did so well in the last two months of the 1940 season.

"No baseball club can stand pat," said the forthright Quinn. "Even a championship team like the Cincinnati Reds made moves during the off-season in an effort to gain strength."

"Baseball demands that you keep moving ahead and experimenting. That's why we go to spring training camps."

New Grid Lettering Plan Suggested

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 20 (AP)—Coach Mike Castel of the University of Arizona proposed today a system of lettering football jerseys whereby he believed Mr. Pan could more easily describe the plays to the little woman.

Castel suggested lettering each player according to his position and numbering him odd or even with reference to his place to the left or right of the center, who would wear an "X".

Thus, left ends would wear the letter of their position and odd numbers, as E1, E3, E5, E7, etc.

Here's A Horse With Six Gaits, One Of Them 'Special Reverse'

AP Feature Service
FORT RILEY, Kas.—The fanciest of American horseflesh usually has five gaits, like most automobiles have three speeds forward and one in reverse.

Now, after hundreds of years of horse history, a calm-natured palmetaking army officer, Lt. Col. Hiram E. Tuttle of the United States cavalry school, has added a new gait to a horse's repertoire—the backward gallop with a change of lead.

Colonel Tuttle, America's outstanding exponent of the horse show event called dressage, is exhibiting Vast this season, a 14-year-old American Thoroughbred and former racer that has accomplished this feat.

Vast for several years has been one of the very few horses in the world, if not the only horse, that could gallop in reverse. Now he not only will gallop backward but in addition changes his lead. As far as his army officer trainer has been able to determine, no other horse ever has performed that trick.

Changing Lead
In galloping, one of the fore hoofs always is held slightly ahead of the other. Thus when a horse changes leads he shifts one foot in front of the other but doesn't change gait.

Vast is the youngest member of Colonel Tuttle's family of three dressage horses, from point of training, and the army officer says he has responded remarkably.

He has such a sensitive mouth and such a remarkable understanding of his rider's desires that he can be ridden with only a single thread of sewing silk for a rein.

Colonel Tuttle brought him into the exhibition arena at the Inter-American Horse Show in Washington, D. C., with a silk thread for reins and Vast went through his act, which includes two-tracking; the passage; galloping; in place and galloping backward, without an error.

Dressage New Here
Dressage is an art of horsemanship virtually unknown to most American horsemen but perfected by Europeans through hundreds of years of horse training. Colonel Tuttle placed third with Olympic, another of his Thoroughbreds, in the 1932 Olympic games dressage event, the first time an American entry ever had placed in a schooling event in modern Olympic games.

In this event the horse goes through a routine of 135 accomplishments. So perfect is coordination of horse and rider that the audience is unaware of the transmission, by the rider, of his commands to his animal.

Colonel Tuttle can make Vast understand his demands through a spoken word; an imperceptible movement of the reins; the touch of his foot or the shifting of the weight of his body. In the arena Vast turns, changes his leads, changes gaits and changes direction without the audience detecting the transmission of a single signal of any kind from Colonel Tuttle.

Gus Dorazio Denies Charges That He 'Took a Dive' in Louis Fight

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Feb. 20 (AP)—Gus Dorazio—who should know—says "I didn't quit or take a dive" in his fight with Joe Louis.

Furthermore, the Philadelphia heavyweight believes there are "apparently some punch drunk senators as well as punch drunk fighters."

Gus, who was knocked out by the Brown Bomber in the second round of their heavyweight title bout last Monday night at Philadelphia, unlimbered his vocabulary last night and answered Pennsylvania State Senator John J. Haluska's charge that he "took a dive."

"I thought I was winning the fight until they told me in the dressing room that I had been knocked out," said Gus who attended a local fight.

"When I came back to my corner after the first round I told Jimmy Wilson, my trainer, that the fight was going easier than I thought."

Then came the fatal stanza. "I saw Louis' chin in front of me big as a house and I swung for it," Gus recalled. "That's all I remember."

But the 15,902 spectators—Haluska among them—remember Louis must have seen Gus' chin quite plainly, too, because a right cross to the button ended Dorazio's challenge.

Haluska had asserted he spent

10 years in the ring himself and "when I speak of dives I know what I'm talking about."

But Gus reported "I never heard of him as a boxer and nobody I've spoken to has ever heard of him. If he knows anything whatever about the fight game and saw what happened Monday night he knows that I didn't quit or take a dive."

Haluska attended the fight as the guest of another state senator, H. Jerome Jasper who introduced a resolution in the Pennsylvania senate two weeks ago seeking an investigation of the Pennsylvania Athletic commission and asserting Dorazio and Louis were unevenly matched.

The vice-president's post went to Ray Ogden and Jake Douglass was re-elected secretary of the organization. Luke LeBlou was chosen chairman of the board of directors. Douglass was also made director from Big Spring to the West Texas-New Mexico bowling association.

League competition is scheduled to get underway during the first week of March, Douglass announced.

Arkansas To Corner Crown This Weekend

By the Associated Press
Arkansas can put the finishing touches on its campaign for the Southwest conference basketball championship this weekend.

If the Razorbacks take two games from the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs at Fort Worth Friday and Saturday it all will be over.

Only Southern Methodist retains a chance of beating the Porkers out and to do so the Mustangs would have to win their four remaining games while Arkansas was dropping four.

Texas faded from the chase last night when the Longhorns lost to Baylor 62-45, their fourth loss.

Major-City's League Play Nears Finish

Major-City basketball league play nears the wind-up games tonight as Crystal's Chefs tangle with Cities' Servicemen at 7:30 in the high school gym, Vaughn's Doughboys and Phillips' Teremen are put in the featured spots at 8:30, and the Empire Geasers just with Ward's Clerks.

The Chefs will be battling to maintain their lead of the loop and are not slated to have too much difficulty in doing so. Yet to be placed in the loser's row, the Chefs are due to wind up the season with the title, providing there is not a shakeup in the finals.

The Teremen are trailing in the standings but may out the Doughboys from the running in a game tonight that might be the deciding game of the league.

Godoy Presents Ring Mystery

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—Arturo Godoy, who failed twice to bump Joe Louis off his heavyweight throne, has the fight folks here in a dither about his intention of trying a third time.

Before he went home to Chile a couple of months ago Godoy signed a contract to meet Louis again on April 15.

But yesterday in Santiago Godoy announced that he was preparing to go to Buenos Aires to make a movie with his pretty wife, Leda, and hoped that his date with the bomber might be set back to next August.

Right away Nat Rogers, matchmaker for the 20th Century Sporting Club, disclosed that Promoter Mike Jacobs was negotiating with Bob Pastor to fill the April date with Louis and Al Well, manager of Godoy, moaned over the prospect of his protegee losing another chance at the title.

Well sent Godoy a cable and expostulated to the press his surprise at Godoy's preference for picture making at a time like this.

"He himself signed for the fight with Louis and knew the date was definite," exclaimed Well.

Lord Beaverbrook has more tele-phones than any other individual in England. Many are scattered around the yards of his two homes.

MINERAL WELLS.—The prospects of "army-life" was too much for a couple of wild hogs living near Camp Wolters, so they moved to the Fort Worth zoo.
The two came from a ranch near the $6,000,000 replacement project here. Lem Lamkin, ranch owner, knew that the army planned to build a firing range a few yards from where the hogs lived.

Baked Beans With Meat Balls Pleases the Men

Substantial Dish Made Quickly With Prepared Oven-Baked Beans

IF YOU ARE looking for a dish that will please the men, here is just the thing—Baked Beans with Barbecued Meat Balls. A robust dish if there ever was one bearing a wealth of good flavor. You will want to serve it when your husband brings the boss home for dinner or when his bachelor friend comes in to see what home life is really like.
You can serve it without a lot of hustle and bustle if you use prepared oven-baked beans. The oven-baked mealiness of them and the carefully mixed sauces make them taste just like the old-fashioned kind Grandmother used to make, and no doubt, the men will think you had them in the oven all afternoon.
Baked Beans with Barbecued Meat Balls: Combine 1 pound ground lean pork or round steak with 1 teaspoon salt and 1/2 teaspoon pepper. Form in balls about 1 1/2 inches in diameter, then brown in 1 tablespoon fat. Mix 1/4 cup tomato ketchup, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 1 tablespoon pure cider vinegar, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and 1 teaspoon prepared brown mustard. Pour over the meat balls, cover and simmer about 5 minutes or until the sauce is thickened and coats the meat balls. Heat 1 medium (18-oz.) can oven-baked beans, Boston-style, in a saucepan and top with the meat balls and sauce. Serves 5.

The War Today—Japan Stands Squarely Behind Eight Ball In Present Crisis

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Britain's heavy reinforcement of her great naval base at Singapore doesn't challenge Japan to combat, but it does at long last set up the blunt "no trespass" sign which has been gathering dust in John Bull's basement because of his heavy commitments in Europe. Nippon has declared this to be a belligerent act. If the taciturn J. Bull said anything he presumably would term it merely a defensive move, although to judge from the determination and finality he is displaying one might equally expect him to reply "so what!"
Whatever way you look at it, however, it in effect calls for a showdown of the Japanese hand. John Bull is prepared for an argument.
It isn't unlikely that Britain would get a quick response were it not for one circumstance. That is America's firm stand, not only as regards her own interests in the Far East, but as the all-out supporters of the British against the axis powers.
Nippon appears to be rather painfully disturbed to read in the writing on the wall that Uncle Sam regards her in exactly the same light as Germany and Italy when it comes to the question of war on Britain. America's decision to strengthen her naval bases in the Far East has brought the charge from Tokyo of "warlike preparations." The American and British moves, however, have made the Japanese pause for consideration, as is apparent from their disavowals of any hostile intentions.
Japan's chief concern undoubtedly is with our attitude. If she had to deal only with Britain, already hard pressed by the axis in the west, the picture would be far different.
The Japanese cannot afford to tangle with America. Quite apart from any military or naval operations, the United States could play havoc with Nippon by clamping a blanket embargo on to all our exports to her.
Since Japan is dependent on us for virtually all her essential war materials, we could just about stop her fighting machine altogether. The Japanese economic position could be rendered desperate by such a move and by the severance of the vast ordinary trade between the two countries.
As things now stand the British and Japanese are fairly well set for action. The position is so tense that it would be too bad if somebody accidentally let off a gun, for it might start hostilities. The situation is this:
The Japanese, taking advantage of France's collapse, have established a military and naval base in French Indo-China. They have a considerable land force there, and a large fleet is said to be cruising in those waters. This gives Japan a powerful position about midway between Britain's Singapore and the Philippines, and only some 600 miles from each.
Singapore, which is one of the most powerful naval bases in the world, is the gateway which guards the gateway between the Indian ocean and the Pacific—the lane between western Europe and the Orient. It is the guardian of the Malay Peninsula and the vastly rich Dutch East Indies which the Japanese covet so greatly to further their program of self-sufficiency.
A successful attack on Singapore would just about make Japan at least temporary mistress of the Far East.
Despite these circumstances I see no reason to change the view previously expressed in this column, that Japan isn't likely to strike at Britain unless very sure that Germany has the war all but won.

Father And Four Sons Become Eagle Scouts

ST. GEORGE, Utah.—Like father, like son. That old proverb is being almost overworked by the George T. Thompson family of St. George.
In 1925, the elder of Thompson's four sons—George, now 31—was awarded an Eagle Scout badge by the St. George troop.
The father soon became interested in scouting—and was made an Eagle Scout a few years later. Then Hebert Thompson won the coveted badge. Then Horace. And now the youngest son, Reed, has been made an Eagle Scout—the fifth in the family.
Loss of Mill Expensive
MARSHALL, Mo.—Mrs. W. G. Lloyd dropped a Missouri sales tax token worth one mill while driving down a Marshall street. She reached for the mill, lost control of her car and crashed into a telephone pole. The bill, not including the doctor's fee for mending her broken nose, cuts and bruises, totaled $100.

Rubinoff To Use $100,000 Violin

When Rubinoff plays his famed violin solos at the Municipal Auditorium on Feb. 26 in a concert of light music under the auspices of the Kiwanis club he will be using one of the most precious instruments in the world, a Stradivarius violin insured for $100,000.
To possess such an instrument has been the overwhelming desire of his life. Satisfying this desire for a "Strad" required a search of many years. Many old and valuable violins were placed at his disposal by music dealers and collectors but none were just right. When finally he tested the Romanoff-Stradivarius, as his "Strad" is known, it sent him into raptures.
The violin is elaborately engraved, bears the bejeweled coat of arms of the Romanoff family as well as the identification marks of Stradivari and the date it was manufactured—1731. Colored, deep brownish-red, its dull lustrous, perfect form and intricate development of detail mark it as representative of the best work of the master.
Oyster shells, mixed with sand and gravel, have been used to pave streets of Morgan City, La.

REA Inspector Nears Finish Of Work Here

REA Inspector G. L. Coglin is completing a checkup of the Caprock Electrical Co-Operative and will place things in order to put the entire system under supervision of the Big Spring office by Saturday of this week, according to an announcement by O. B. Bryan, a local manager of the co-operative.

Bryan said Coglin appeared to be well pleased with the engineering and construction work involved in the installation of the system and stated that the job was better than average. With the exception of minor points, such as the replacing of line poles, the project need not undergo any changes as a result of the inspection before final approval is given. Most of the changes are to be made by the construction contractors.

J. A. Derry, Region 10 REA engineer out of Washington, D. C., and R. S. Weber, field engineer out of Austin, were in the Caprock office Wednesday morning while making a goodwill tour of the various stations scattered through Texas. Derry is head engineer for an area including New Mexico, Arizona, and California in addition to Texas.

Both engineers were highly satisfied with the system, Bryan said, and complimented the local workers for the manner in which they have conducted installation of the electrical service.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor: It has been some time since my application for sheriff was "aired" in the column "here-n-there" and I am as crasy about publicly as Lindbergh and Wheeler and, too, living as near your plant as I do I do want to get back in print before your unknown contributor blows the shop into the land of small democracies.

It is a habit of the undersigned to agree with most everything printed in your paper. I don't know what the contents of the letter which the party failed to sign and so much wanted to see in print, but have an idea that it had something to say regarding news which has appeared in the daily Herald. If such is the case and my being too old for the selective service draft I do hereby offer my services in the home guard or as a body guard for threatened editors.

Rumor has it that Lindbergh did perfect the mechanical heart and that he has loaned several of them to the republican party and that he uses one of the most perfect while testifying before committees. May be the writer of the unsigned letter is using one at this time.

Should your mail box still be intact and this epistle reaches you please understand that this is being written after due, calm, careful consideration and that it carries no threats of any kind whatsoever regardless of the disposition thereof.

Gold Fish Crop Overflows House

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 20. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Stecker's goldfish are a problem. Just water them is no itty bitty job.

The Stecker's bought a home. Its previous owner suggested: "There are a few goldfish in the pool in the back yard. You'd better seine them out before the pool freezes."

Mrs. Stecker and a nurse, armed with flashlights and a seine, caught 50 fish and put them in a tub in the basement. Next morning they rescued 156 more.

Now there are two wash basins and a huge tank in the basement and three aquariums upstairs—all thronging with goldfish.

Britons Told To Leave Thailand

BANGKOK, Thailand, Feb. 20 (AP)—British residents of Thailand have been advised officially that the removal of women and children is desirable as a precautionary measure, it was disclosed today. The advice—presumably by the British legation, was circulated last night, it was said. The United States legation, however, made it known that no such advice has been given its nationals in Thailand.

Thailand's relations with Britain have become somewhat tense owing to concentrations of strong British and Australian army and air force units in northern Malaya, at her borders. A Japanese army spokesman declared yesterday that the arrival of several thousand Australian troops at Singapore was a "belligerent action" toward Thailand "which is cooperating with Japan in bringing a new order into eastern Asia."

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking green acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 2 pints a day. If the 12 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or painful passages with straining and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 12 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. ## Problems Of Baldness Plague Brave Britons

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The fate of the London bobby's pate under war-time helmets has become public concern. The diversion from wartime problems started, of course, with the inevitable letter to a newspaper in which a woman expressed fear that London's bobbies would be bald by the end of the war. A tonsorial artist chimed in to say the tin helmets which replaced the pre-war high crowned hats would not cause baldness, if properly worn. A hobby summed up the issue as follows: "I'd rather lose me 'air with the 'elmet than me 'ead without hit."

House Committee To Hear Transactions Tax Debate

AUSTIN, Feb. 20 (AP)—Tension ran high today for what amounted to a virtual trial by jury of Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel's prize money-getting plan—his famed 1.6 per cent transactions tax. Booked for a public hearing before the house of representatives revenue and taxation committee this afternoon, the drastic proposal, termed a "pyramided sales tax" by opponents, mustered the support of at least one lawmaker, Rep. Clinton Kersey of Bridgeport. Kersey, who adopted the bill after it had floated vainly about for lack of a sponsor, asserted he was "loaded with ammunition" to refute arguments against it. "The governor won't appear before the committee," the legislator said, "because, as he told me, he has already given us an overwhelming number of reasons why the bill should be passed. O'Daniel wanted the tax, he told the lawmakers, because $50,000,000 additional a year was needed for bigger old age pensions, other social security functions, eleemosynary institutions, education and retirement of a fund deficit. Recalling the identical proposal died in committee two years ago, many legislators expressed the

Woman Seeks Payment For Work For Nazi

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20 (AP)—A divorcee who asserted Captain Fritz Wiedemann owed her money for investigating his status with Adolf Hitler, described the Nazi consul general in a law suit today as head of the German espionage system in America. The complaint, filed in superior court by Mrs. Alice Crockett, an attractive brunette, sought $8,000 from Wiedemann, Hitler's former personal adjutant, in payment for an alleged visit to Germany. Mrs. Crockett, a Swiss native who said she once played in moving pictures under the name of Alice Gulden, asserted she went to Germany at the request of Wiedemann who wanted her to find out if he still was a Hitler favorite. "It's all bunk," said Otto A. Hoecker, the attorney whom Wiedemann said would do him talking for him. Hoecker referred to the complaint which made the following charges: Under a verbal agreement with Wiedemann, Mrs. Crockett left San Francisco June 9, 1939. She returned the following December after having spent $5,000 of her own funds, which she wanted returned, along with payment of an agreed salary of $500 a month for the six months she was gone. Hitler, Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels and Field Marshal Herman Goering all assured Mrs. Crockett that Wiedemann, consul general here since March, 1939, was probably doing his consular work and also his duties as "chief of the espionage service" of the German government in this country. Hoecker said Wiedemann's version of his relations with Mrs. Crockett shaped up in the following manner: She came to the consulate in the spring of 1939 and professed interest in the Nazi philosophy and wanted to work for Germany in this country. But Wiedemann told her he had no place for her. That summer, she wanted to go to Germany and asked Wiedemann for a letter of introduction to German movie industry leaders. Wiedemann tried to dissuade her, but reluctantly gave her a letter to a Mr. Paul, German film leader. In the spring of 1940, Mrs. Crockett wrote from New York that she was ill and needed money. Wiedemann charitably sent her $100. In November she asked for a $500 loan, which Wiedemann refused. "The upshot of it was this suit," Hoecker said, "and the business about propaganda and espionage was obviously inserted to prejudice the case."

ASCAP Must Pay $24,000 Fines

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—The directors of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers have agreed to a consent decree providing for payment of $24,000 in fines, thus ending the federal government's anti-trust action against the organization. Although ASCAP officials refused to comment, it was learned that the government had agreed to dismiss the criminal action now pending in federal court at Milwaukee, Wis., and to substitute a superseding civil action here.

Firm Charged In Wool Manipulation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The agriculture department has filed a complaint under the commodity exchange act charging Nichols and Co., Inc., Boston wool merchandising concern, with "manipulating" prices of wool top futures on the wool associates of the New York cotton exchange. The department asked that the concern's right to operate as a futures commission merchant on all contract markets be revoked. A hearing on the complaint was scheduled to be held before a referee at Boston March 19.

... Everyone!

Today finds us still talking about the grand crowd that turned out for formal opening of our new building Tuesday night... talking, too, about the many thoughtful friends who helped make our plant still more attractive to some 2,000 visitors by banking our office walls with a variety of beautiful flowers.

To EVERYONE... those visiting, sending flowers or calling to extend good wishes... we say thanks. We shall ever remember and be grateful for your friendship.

Daybook— John Winant Personifies Day's Trends

By JACK SINNETT
WASHINGTON—Occasionally some person emerges on the national or international scene who seems so typical of a "new order" that every one with the surprised tones of a man who has just made a great discovery, points to him and says: "Here is the very embodiment of changing times."
Such is the case of John Gilbert Winant, recently appointed United States ambassador to the court of St. James. "Gil" Winant, as his intimates call him, has been around Washington, London, and Geneva for some years, but it was only upon his elevation to this office that capital observers suddenly noticed that he seemed the personification of the changes that are taking place in politics, labor, social economy and diplomacy.

A glance back at some of Ambassador Winant's immediate predecessors might help explain this. There were the bankers and financiers, Joseph P. Kennedy (whom Winant replaces), and former Vice President, Charles G. Dawes. There were the editors and publishers, Robert W. Bingham and George Harvey. There was lawyer John W. Davis and industrialist Andrew Mellon; and there was the senator who was to become secretary of state, Frank B. Kellogg.

'New Dealer' Long Ago
Compare these with "The New Hampshire Lincoln"—gaunt, homespun Winant, who has been a republican almost from birth, but was a "new dealer" before the new deal came into existence. As member of the New Hampshire legislature nearly 25 years ago, he was pounding on labor reforms before anyone ever dreamed of the Wagner act. As three-time governor of his state (and no one had ever been elected twice before that), he hammered away at "new deal" social legislation with such vigor that President Roosevelt called him into the fold.

In 1934, the president named him to the Textile Inquiry board which was to investigate the great textile strike of that year. Within a few months, he was appointed assistant director of the International Labor office (an autonomous organization in the League of Nations). In that international capacity, he waged a war for unemployment insurance and old-age pensions and in no time at all President Roosevelt had him back as head of social security.

He might have strung along there forever, but the ILO called for him again. Besides, he had broken with his party to such an extent that he had registered his social security job in order to campaign against "AIF" London, and the latter's contention that social security was no more than "a fraud against the working man."

He was elected director of the ILO by what would have been a unanimous vote of 30-to-0, if it hadn't been for the failure of two directors to vote at all.

When war came, it found Mr. Winant primarily interested in what was happening to labor. One of his statements on the European conflict read like this: "On the outcome of the present struggle between Great Britain and Nazi Germany depends the future of labor and the labor movement in Europe. If Britain falls, the whole of western and central Europe will pass under totalitarian rule that will obliterate the gains made in 150 years of struggle and sacrifice, and place the American worker in the front line of defense."

He Likes Conferences

This is so much stronger a statement because the ILO called for him again. Besides, he had broken with his party to such an extent that he had registered his social security job in order to campaign against "AIF" London, and the latter's contention that social security was no more than "a fraud against the working man."
He is almost the antithesis of what a diplomat should be: He's a slow talker, and in debate has the habit of gazing down his shirt front for seconds before he makes a statement. He is a "conference" addict and holds the conferences interminably before he makes a decision.
But for all that, he is one of international labor's most respected men and a close friend of Ernest Bevin, who holds the post of minister of labor in Mr. Churchill's cabinet.
Capital "pro" kibitzers point to his record, emphasize the fact that he is another republican who has risen to the top in a

Editorial— New Trade With Latin-America Likely To Continue After War

Time and circumstances are drawing the two Americas closer together. Whatever happens as a result of the war in Europe, North and South America and the Central America that connects them, are being more closely united by new bonds almost every day.
Closing of European markets is forcing the American nations into trade relationships which might have taken years to develop under normal circumstances. Many of these require adjustments that may become permanent, will remain even when Europe comes back into the trade picture. For example, if the United States equips itself to smelt Bolivian tin, trade should become permanent in that metal between the two countries. If Brazil rehabilitates its rubber industry, this, too, might form a permanent trade link, no matter what happens in Europe or Asia. Many changes and adjustments are being made which, once made and found good, will be hard to dislodge.
Quietly but steadily, Canada is moving into the orbit of the western hemisphere. Most Americans of the United States do not realize that even today, as a result of changes made after the World War, Canada is an independent nation.
That independence will be even more marked after this war, again regardless of its result. Now Canada puts an exclamation point after both its independence and its hemisphere interests by exchanging ministers with Argentina and Brazil; Chile and other South American countries are expected to follow suit. These direct diplomatic links to the southern part of the hemisphere will serve to bind Canada still closer to its destinies, and give her a more active part in shaping them.
Just as it is only a question of time until it will be possible to drive a car on a single highway so one day all the peoples from Yukon territory to Patagonia will perfect the machinery of living together until it shall be an example to the world.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds— Old Favorite 'Strum Box' Has Disappeared From Movieland

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Maybe we don't go to the right places, but it seems a long time since we've heard one of those strum-boxes so popular in the twenties—the ukelele, or "uke."
Playing some old records the other day, we came across one called "Singing in the Rain," sung by one Ukelele Ike, who did the same in the early film musical called "Hollywood Revue of 1929." It was heavy on the "uke," and we got to wondering what's happened.

Well, Ukelele Ike is still around, but his ukes are laid away. Cliff Edwards, who once made the strum-box and his curious voice earn him plenty, doesn't play 'em any more—not much, and not often. About once, he says, in four or five pictures. The last time was in "Flowing Gold," but even there Ukelele Ike wasn't featured. It was Edwards, the comic.
"They're mostly memories," says Cliff. "I'm a changed man. Don't sing much any more, I'm a straight comic." He's been doing other things, too. Played a couple of voices—the voice of Jimmy Cricket in a "Pinocchio," the voice of a wounded soldier in "Gone With the Wind." Now he is playing (and you see him, too) an aviation mechanic, buddy of test pilot Richard Arlen in "Power Dive." He'll probably ride along in the next Arlen air adventure, "Forced Landing." And the uke? "She ain't what she used to be. Times have changed. A uke isn't music any more, or something."

Man About Manhattan— Blind Persons Can Spot Planes Better Than Folks With Sight

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK—People who are color-blind are supposed to be able to recognize camouflage better than others and consequently are being used by army experts to serve in this purpose.
Now I am told by Alce Templeton, the blind Welsh genius of the piano (he gives those devastating interpretations of "big shot" musicians), that a blind man's hearing is so acute he is invaluable in detecting aeroplanes. Not only one plane, but numbers of planes, and a smart fellow can easily pick out the various types of planes.

"This would be a wonderful thing in defense work," he explains. "Not only would it release men with normal vision for other duties; it would bring into play such people as myself who have hearing that is extremely acute, and who have been compelled by force of circumstances to make their ears take the place of their eyes."
Templeton says he put it this way to army officials:
"The first essential is a perfect sense of pitch. One plane approaching has only a single drone, or note; but two planes, in reaction, have different vibrations which any trained listener, or spotter, can pick up. A spotter with a fine sense of pitch can distinguish how many different types of planes—fighters, bomb-democratic administration, and say: "Keep your eyes on 'Gil'—an ambassador to the Court of St. James, he'll make history." The "anti's" just shake their heads and say: "Maybe so, but what's politics coming to?"

And that's true. When I think of the times I've let tickets die myself I feel like a vandal.

Movie managers give regular allotments of tickets. Sometimes managers of Broadway theaters will turn over their houses for an entire evening, or will arrange a special performance for the blind.
Recently the Lighthouse put out small advertisements asking people who had tickets for any sort of entertainment but who could not use them, to please forward them to the Lighthouse's offices.
"There must be hundreds of people," a Lighthouse spokesman said, "who would be glad to give their tickets to the blind but who have no idea the blind would want them or where they should be sent. If we could get the word around I am sure much good would come from it."

Magic Spring

Chapter 35
VISITORS
"Sort of like camping, isn't it, Cousin David. Like Boy Scouts."
"Yes. Were you ever a Boy Scout?"
"No, Cousin David. But I've seen pictures of 'em at camp. Gee, it looked swell."
"We'll have to see about you joining a branch in Ardendale," said David.
"I'd like to, but — but — I'd rather wait until I get to walking better, if you don't mind."
"Of course I don't mind, Peter. It's up to you. Anyway, at the rate you're improving, you'll be ready for the Scouts in no time at all."
They fell silent after that. The rain kept coming down, blown viciously against the side of the Inn by a driving wind. An hour passed, two hours. David nodded. Peter nodded. They even slept for a little while.
David roused himself.
"Too bad the men got away with our sandwiches," he said presently. "I'm getting hungry."
"So'm I," said Peter. "Listen, Cousin David, do you suppose they were holdup men?"
"They were probably up to some devilment," David said. "I've an idea that they were the two men who passed us at such a high speed. Remember?"
"Sure! But if they had a car that could go that fast, what would they want with ours, Cousin David?"
"I don't know, unless they wrecked theirs some place," said David. Then he sat up straight. "Good Lord!" he exclaimed. "I have been dumb!"
"What the matter?" said Peter.
"That leather bag with the padlock on it!"
"What about it, Cousin David?"
"It's the one our bookkeeper always takes to the bank when he goes for the payroll!"
"Gee! Gosh!"
"I thought there was something familiar about it!" said David.
"Those two men held up the Powers Lumber Company, Peter!"
"Gee! Just like in a movie!"
"I've got to get to town right away," David said. He sprang to his feet, and grabbed his trousers. "I'll thumb a ride." He slipped on his shirt. "I'll walk—I'll—"
"But Cousin David, it's still raining," said Peter. "Just listen to it."
"I can't help that, son! I've got to report what happened to us. They'll want to broadcast a description of my car!"
"You—you—mean you're going right now?"
"Yes, Peter, you'll have to stay here until I get back." David was

Fiscal Reform Bill Goes To Sub-committee

AUSTIN, Feb. 20.—The Humphrey fiscal reform bill was in the hands of a sub-committee today following a public hearing before the house state affairs committee at which spokesmen of the West Texas chamber of commerce described the measure as a means of applying well-tested business principles to the ever-expanding business of government.
The bill by Rep. Joe Humphrey of Abilene was sent to a sub-committee of five for further study along with a bill proposed by Governor W. Lee O'Daniel providing for establishment of a director of the budget and a state auditor appointed by the legislature. The committee is expected to make its report in about two weeks.
Appointed on the sub-committee were Reps. Dallas Blankenship of Dallas, Joe Humphrey of Abilene, Choice Moore of Bonham, Lester Boone of Fort Worth, and Bruce

Fiscal Reform Bill Goes To Sub-committee

Allen of Waxahachia.
No one appeared before the state affairs committee in opposition to either the governor's bill or the Humphrey bill. However, Rep. Joe E. Winfree of Houston, a member of the committee, criticized the provision for a civil service system in the Humphrey bill. He said he would vote for the measure if the provisions setting up a civil system were eliminated.
D. A. Bandeen of Abilene, manager of the West Texas chamber of commerce told the committee that the bill "creates a piece of machinery to better carry out the fundamental requirements of our state constitution."
Discussing the provisions of the bill which call for the formation of a governor's cabinet to supervise the financial policies and practices of the state government, Bandeen said:
"The cabinet enables co-ordination of administrative efforts. Here, for the first time in the history of the state, we can have meetings of the principal executives in adopting rules and regulations for co-ordinating all administrative efforts, and for better doing the administrative work of the state."
Bandeen outlined the functions of the proposed department of finance and control which would have charge of the financial details of the state government.
"The Humphrey bill," he pointed out, "provides for the submission of a complete financial plan."
"It provides for executive preparation of the financial plan, and of course for the legislative determination of it."
"Third, the bill provides for carrying out the financial plan and program after adoption by the legislature in accordance with the mandates of the legislature."
Dr. George Hester of Georgetown, professor of government in Southwestern university, who helped in drafting the bill, explained the centralized purchasing and civil service features of the bill. It was his opinion that at the end of the first two years' operation under the proposed bill enough data would be available to members of the legislature to furnish them with an intelligent basis for a departmental reorganization of the government.
Testifying in favor of the bill, Judge James D. Hamlin of Farwell, chairman of the WTCC public expenditures and taxation committee, emphasized that the measure represents the long-considered views of the West Texas chamber of commerce, service clubs, trade associations and many other groups.
Judge Hamlin laid before the committee a portfolio of endorsements of the Humphrey bill from various West Texas organizations, including:
Boards of commerce and boards of city development; Floydada, Dalhart, Fort Worth, Anson, Graham, Olney, Sweetwater, Hereford, Ballinger, Abilene, Childress, Big Spring, Fort Stockton, Alpine, Lamesa, Stephenville, Del Rio, Slaton, Snyder, Eastland, Decatur, Coleman, Pecos, Seminole, Breckenridge, Vernon, Iowa Park, Winters, Midland, McCamey, Moran.
Lions clubs: Crane, Abilene, Graham, Midland, Albany, Anson, Stephenville, Decatur, Winters, Roscoe.
Rotary clubs: Midland, Seminole.
Other organizations: Texas Trade association executives, composed of the Texas Manufacturers association and 29 other businessmen's organizations; Texas Agricultural association; Farm Bureau of Texas; the Sweetwater Club; the Midland County-City Federation of Women's Clubs; Winters Home Demonstration club; Ballinger city commission; Potter County Taxpayers association, and the Texas Real Estate association.
"In addition," Judge Hamlin reported, "taxpayers groups from 123 towns attended the 29 regional meetings held by the West Texas chamber of commerce during last November and December. At each of these meetings following explanation of the plan and bill and discussion of same, endorsement was voted by the group present and the plan be commended to the legislature and recommended for endorsement."

Lamesa Baptists Collect $20,000

LAMESA, Feb. 20. (Sp.)—Membership of the First Baptist church launched a campaign here Sunday to raise $20,000 toward a new building fund.
Result of the first day's effort was $20,000 in cash.
Church officials, gratified at the response, anticipated no great difficulty in raising the remaining amount which will give the church one of the most modern plants in West Texas.

been empty for years, from the looks of it.

"Maybe so, but I don't like it, Mike—not a bit."

"Give me that bag, Al. Here, you take the flashlight. Lucky, there was one in that car we stole."

"Even if there wasn't no gas," said Al.

Mike swore. "Not enough to go more'n three miles," he said. "We'll be low here until that rain and wind holds up. Then we'll have to beat it across country on foot. There's a state highway on the other side of these hills."

"But a heck of a walk," said Al. "Rotten luck, Mike—having that blowout with the other car."

"Don't talk to me about luck," said Mike angrily. "All we've had of late was bad."

"What you going to do now, Mike?"

"Have a look around," Mike answered. "I'd like to build a fire and get dry."

"I still think I saw smoke coming out of the chimney of this place," Al said.

"Don't be a fool! Who'd be out here on a night like this?"

"We are, ain't we, Mike?"

"Sure, but that's different. Come on."

In the lobby, David backed away. He put his arm around Peter, and wished with all that he had in him for a gun.

The footsteps drew nearer, nearer. They were right there in the lobby now.

"Well, I'll be—!" said Mike. "Stick 'em up!"

"Where have I heard that before," said David, trying not to be scared.

"Think you're smart, eh?" said Mike.

Al stared at David and Peter. His eyes went to the smoldering fire. "I told you so, Mike!" he said. "I told you I saw smoke coming from the chimney."

"Shut up," said Mike. "You talk like an old woman." He walked over to David, felt of his pockets.

"Lousy trick you played on us," he said. "Not having no gas."

"That's too bad," said David sarcastically, his eyes on the bag which Mike carried. "I'll have the tank filled for you next time."

"None of your lip!" Mike made a threatening motion with the gun. "Just pipe down. That's all you got to do."

Peter pressed himself tightly against David. He was trembling from head to foot.

"Get your knife with you, Al?" Mike wanted to know.

"Sure. Always carry it," said Al.

"Then cut one of those blankets into strips," Mike ordered. "I'm going to tie up these two fellows. We can't sit around keeping 'em covered."

"Sure, Mike!" Al busied himself with his knife and one of the blankets. "Better leave 'em tied up, too, when we go. So's they can't get to town and report."

"Bright boy," said Mike. "That's just what I'm going to do."

Al came over to where Mike stood with David and Peter.

"Want me to tie them up, Mike?" he said.

"No," said Mike. "You keep 'em covered and I'll do it. I know better how it should be done."

Al took the gun from Mike, stepped back, and pointed it at David and Peter. Mike picked up a piece of the torn blanket and started to bind David's hands.

David said. The jigger—there by you."

Peter reached out for the "jigger," and instantly there was a great rush of water there in the lobby of Freddy's Folly. A perfect geyser shot almost to the ceiling.

"What the devil!" Al yelled.

He whirled to look back of him, and David's fist landed on his chin.

The two men went into a clinch. "Doctor Warren!" Peter began yelling. "Polly!"

The front door now burst open. Warren came running in, Polly right behind him.

It was at that exact moment that Al's gun was fired accidentally.

"Why, you—you—!" David panted, finally getting the gun from the holdup man, and wondering why Warren didn't do something.

"David!" Polly screamed. "David Warren's shot!"

David sprang to his feet, now holding the gun and keeping Al covered. He saw Warren clutching his shoulder, saw blood trickling down between his fingers.

"I'm—all right," Warren said. "I'm all-right." He gritted his teeth. "Don't mind me—David, keep that other man covered, too."

David looked in the direction toward which Warren had nodded. Mike was getting up from the floor.

"Who—hit me?" he asked in a hoarse voice.

"I—I—did," said Peter. "With this."

He held up a stick of wood which he had picked up from beside the fireplace.

"Good boy," said David. Then, to Mike: "Get over there to that chair."

Mike did so, still unable to straighten up.

"Sit down," David ordered. "Now you, Al. Sit there by him."

"Listen, you," said Al. "If you think you can get away with this, you're—"

"Shut up!" said David. He turned to Polly. "Here, Polly," he said. "Keep them covered while I tie them up."

Polly took the gun. "But—Warren—he's bleeding terribly!" she wailed.

"Do as David told you," said Warren. "Then hurry!"

Polly stood straight and steady not far from the two chairs where Mike and Al were sitting. She kept them covered while David securely bound them with the strips of blanket Al and Mike had intended using on him and Peter.

"There!" he said. He hurried over to Warren. "Gosh, old man, you are bleeding!"

"I always bled a lot when I'm hurt," Warren said. "If you can just drive me into town."

"Sure!" said David.

"But David!" Polly wailed. "These men!"

"We'll have to take them, also," said David. "You've got old Doctor Ben's car, haven't you, Warren?"

Warren nodded. "Plenty of room for us all," he said.

Wherein Folks Of Big Dallas Get Red Ears

DALLAS, Feb. 20. (AP) — The smart folk of "Big D"—Dallasites, to use the ugly newspaper word for the people who live here, were a bit red of face.

Tuesday night a house full of first nighters were gently ribbed and satirized through three acts at the Little Theatre premiere of a new comedy by a Texan about Texans, John William Rogers' "Where the Dear Antelope Play."

Indian Gap is Anytown, Texas, today. Arabella Wirgin is any stylish, full-bosomed, go-getting clubwoman with an uplift urge, yearning for art, interior decorators and transplanted culture. Her husband called her a "culture carrier." And she organized everything from Aida, with Dallas union station as a backdrop, to her grandest idea of all, her society for the fruitful use of leasure!

Behind the comedy, the Texas dramatist speaks for regionalism in art, letters, love and old Texas houses with high ceilings. The first of four performances was an evening full of fun, good humor and fine acting. A full evening because, as one chic young Dallasite — there's that word again—chirped, you couldn't tell the acts from the intermission. The same kind of characters people the stage and the foyer.

North Texas State Teachers college at Denton will produce the Rogers play in May.

Hogg Memorial Park For State Asked

AUSTIN, Feb. 20. (AP)—Creation of a state park in Cherokee county as a memorial to former Gov. James Stephen Hogg is proposed in a bill awaiting action in the house of representatives.

The proposal, amended to eliminate provisions for a $25,000 appropriation for improvements and appointment of supervising commissioners by the governor, won approval of the house public lands and buildings committee last night.

The proposed park, covering 180 acres in the East Texas piney woods, is located two miles north-east of Rusk. On the site stands the homestead of Gen. Joseph L. Hogg, birthplace of former Gov. Hogg.

Both the Eagle, first daily newspaper in Brooklyn, and the New York Tribune, started by Horace Greeley, began publication 100 years ago.

84 Percent of Tax Roll Is Collected In Mitchell County

COLORADO CITY, Feb. 20. (SpI) Collections on current Mitchell county taxes during the tax-paying period just ended ran 84 per cent of the total tax roll as compared with 79 per cent during the period ending Jan. 31, 1940, according to figures obtained at the office of Bruce Hart, tax collector-assessor.

During the period from October 1, 1940 to Jan. 31, 1941, collections on the current county roll amounted to $50,170.23. During the same period a year ago the total was $45,402.18.

Neither total counts final half payments to be made before the end of June on taxes which were half-paid by the end of November.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

Lamesa Egg Drying Plant To Open Soon

LAMESA, Feb. 20. (SpI) — Eggs are rolling into Lamesa by the thousands these days as this city's egg drying plant prepares to go into production.

William Hessler, manager, has been making purchase arrangements over a wide area and the process of separating whites and yolks for dehydration soon will be underway.

The dried eggs find a market over all the nation and particularly in the east. They are used mostly in baking and baking preparations.

Lamesa's plant is locally owned, having been started 11 years ago as a powdered milk plant. In recent years it has been leased to Henningsen Bros. for egg processing.

Formerly, much of the dried egg volume came from foreign sources, but war conditions have concentrated the industry principally in the United States. One at Lubbock and one here are the only two in this part of the country.

Normally, the season for the plant runs from March 1 to late July, but last year conditions were such that the season continued longer than usual.
