TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

The breeze smelled of rain and within a few minutes scattering drops began to fall on the yellow leaves beneath the Locust trees. At the next moment there was no breeze. Soon the ground was soaking, and a soft wind arose, stirring the long green limbs. Presently they were dancing and holding hands in gratitude. It was but a light shower and soon the great banks of white clouds were breaking. Distant birds were singing, but the long limbs continued dancing, as if they could hear soft music.

The freight train came to a shaking halt at the long fill that led to the river. It was like a dog pausing to shake off fleas. A score of tramps leaped out the box car doors, from under the rods and a few from flat cars. They wasted no time as they assembled onions, potatoes and a package of cheap coffee. One or two of the ragged and dirty men took salt and pepper from their pockets, as the main ingredient was unwrapped from a soiled newspaper. It was a beef leg joint bone, with assorted ribs and a few flabby pieces of meat. Two men had arrived from the river with rusty buckets filled with water and a fire was going. The "Hobo Jungle" began to take on a delightful odor of cooking stew. Coming from the other side of the tracks was a member who knew a little bakery, and he carried a tow sack half filled with stale bread.

The weary day had settled in its pink cradle of horizon. A few big stars were peeping from the blue curtain of twilight. There was a slight scent of rain and a Bob White quail called in the distance. The boy and girl rode side by side on the moonlit prairie. They could see the yellow lights of the house and soon could hear the moaning bass violin and laughter. When they arrived many horses and buggies were tied to the slack wire fence. As the boy lifted the girl to the ground, she fell into his arms and he kissed her. She put her arms around his waist and he kissed her again as they walked into the house where yellow lamplight and music was dancing with romance. They walked into the yard and listened a few minutes to the creaking windmill, then held hands tightly as a falling star streaked across the horizon.

Matadors Report For Workout

Thirty-eight young hopefuls reported Monday for football workout for the coming season. About six additional candidates are due to report later.

Monitored by coaches Ray Sefcik, V. V. Scott and Kirby Hatley, and in preparation for their first scrimmage with Jayton, boys are working this week without pads on a two-a-day basis. Workout times are 8:00 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Two scrimmage games are scheduled: Aug. 23 at Jayton, and Aug. 30 here, with Crosbyton. Both games will start at 7:00 p.m.

The season will start September 6, with the first game at Paducah, starting at 8:00 o'clock.

The "B" Team is scheduled to play Silverton's "B" team, there on September 12, at 7:30 p.m. following a scheduled game there between the Motley and Silverton Junior High teams at 6:00 o'clock.

Junior High "B" scrimmages will be held 30 minutes before Varsity Junior High when possible, it was announced.

Matador Lions To Present Jamboree

Matador Lions Club will present a variety program of country and western music, Saturday, August 17 at 8:30 p.m. in the Matador High School Auditorium.

The program will feature local talent, as well as several performers from neighboring communities.

Admission will be $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for children. The program is being sponsored by the Lions Club as a fund-raising project, and the entire proceeds will go toward Lions community improvement projects.

The idea for this type of program was borrowed from Paducah's highly successful "Crossroads Jamboree," which has been presented monthly for the past year by several groups of Cottle County amateur musicians and has entertained crowds often in excess of 500 persons.

The show was started when several groups of musicians who had been getting together and playing for their own enjoyment, decided to invite the public to their "jam sessions," charge an admission fee and use the proceeds for worthwhile community projects. Several of the regular performers on the Paducah show have consented to help the local Lions with this first show here.

Direction Of Street Is Changed

Effective Monday, Aug. 19, the direction of Matador's only one-way street will be changed to go north, instead of south.

The change affects only one block. This is on Bundy street between Burleson and Hazel streets, passing between the old and new school buildings.

The change was approved by the City Council at the request of Motley County School Board, in order that parents bringing their children to school can let them out on the curb side and they will not have to cross the street in front of oncoming traffic. The new building faces west.

The one-way street going south was established in about 1960 and extended from Hazel Street to Walton Road.

President of the USA Gerald R. Ford

WASHINGTON — President Nixon resigned Thursday night, saying he did so to heal the wounds of Watergate and to give America "a full-time President" in Gerald R. Ford.

He urged Americans to rally behind Ford, who assumed the powers of presidency at 11 a.m. CDT Friday, the effective hour of Nixon's resignation.

Nixon said he would have preferred to fight the virtually certain impeachment that awaited him in Congress, "no matter the personal agony that would have been involved."

But he said the interests of the nation demanded that he step down, to end the diversions of scandal that preoccupied the White House, and the impeachment pro-

At Marker Dedication

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Stanley spent last week end at Mt. Vernon with their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stanley, and attended dedication of a historical marker placed on Rutherford Drug Store, Sunday, August 4.

Fred Stanley presently owns the controlling interest in the pioneer drug store. Charles Rutherford, an heir, still retains an interest in the store.

The marker, placed by the Franklin County Historical Survey Committee, Mrs. G. W. Rutherford, Mr. Charles Rutherford and Fred Stanley, reads: "Oldest business in Mt. Vernon, opened in 1869 by John Griffith Lock Rutherford (1851-1936), Texas -- born great grandson of American Revolution General for whom a Tennessee County was named. Young Rutherford began by handling a small line of drugs in the Ruth Patillo & Co. Mercantile Store, went into a store of his own at present site in 1877. Postmaster of the town (Lone Star, renamed Mt. Vernon), 1874-82, he seems to have housed post office in store. Son Griffith Wright Rutherford carried on business after 1914. Now in second century, an heir retains interest in store. (1974)."

Nor did he present in his farewell address any defense against the charges he faced in Congress.

In fact, Nixon made no specific reference to the three articles of impeachment sent to the House of Representatives 10 days earlier by the Judiciary Committee.

They charged Nixon with obstructing justice in the Watergate cover-up, abusing the powers of his office and refusing to obey congressional demands for impeachment evidence.

Nixon said that throughout the Watergate scandals, he had felt it his duty to persevere. But within the past few days -- since he admitted withholding damaging evidence about his own role in the case -- it became evident "that I no longer have a strong enough political base in the Congress to justify continuing the effort."

In Ford, America will have for the first time a president by appointment, not election.

cess that kept Congress from other duties.

Full-Time Congress Cited

"America needs a full-time president and a full-time Congress, particularly at this time with the problems we face at home and abroad," Nixon said in a nationally televised and broadcast address.

Ford watched on television at his suburban Alexandria, Va., home, then stepped outside and pledged his best efforts for "what's good for America and what's good for the world."

He announced Henry A. Kissinger would remain as secretary of state and said together they would work "in the pursuit of peace as we have achieved in the past."

Nixon said he hoped world peace would be a lasting monument to his 5½ years in the White House.

Ford said Nixon "made one of the great personal sacrifices for the country and one of the finest personal decisions on behalf of all of us as Americans."

America has many problems, Ford added, but "they can be resolved and will be resolved by the cooperation of the Congress, with the President and those that work with him."

Acknowledges No Misdeeds

Nixon noted that Watergate was implicit in much of what he said, but he acknowledged no misdeeds, saying only that some of his judgments had been wrong -- and that he made them "in what I believed at the time to be in the best interests of the nation."

Nor did he present in his farewell address any defense against the charges he faced in Congress.

STUDIES ABOUT THE BIBLE

The twelve apostles of Christ were eyewitnesses to the death, burial, and resurrection of Jesus. They preached this very strongly at the meeting in Jerusalem as recorded in Acts Two.

Beginning with verse twenty-five, Peter quotes Psalms 16:8-11. Then he adds verses twenty-nine through thirty-two as follows.

"Brethren, I may confidently say to you regarding the patriarch David that he both died and was buried, and his tomb is with us to this day. And so, because he was a prophet, and knew that God had sworn with an oath to seat one of his descendants upon his throne, he looked ahead and spoke of the resurrection of the Christ, that He was neither abandoned to Hades, nor did His flesh suffer decay. This Jesus God raised up again, to which we are all witnesses." Acts 2:29-32.

The twelve apostles and hundreds of others knew Christ personally through His trial and crucifixion. These same people knew Him personally after His resurrection. Paul has some forceful words to offer on this subject.

For I delivered to you as of first importance what I also received, that Christ died for our sins according to the scriptures, and that He was buried, and that He was raised on the third day according to the scriptures, and that He appeared to Cephas, then to the twelve. After that He appeared to more than five hundred brethren at one time, most of whom remain until now, but some have fallen asleep; then He appeared to James, then to all the apostles; and last of all, as it were to one untimely born, He appeared to me also. 1 Cor. 15:3-8.

Jesus the Christ, the Son of God, is King of kings and Lord of lords. He conquered death for you and for me. L. E. O'Neal Reddy's consumer tips on...

washers

Plan Ahead
Sort clothes according to type of fabric, color-fastness, degree of soil and garment construction. You'll save both hot water and electricity by doing similar items together. Accumulate a full load before running your washer.

Be Selective
Choose the cycle that is precisely appropriate for the clothes you are washing. Is a "hot" temperature setting really necessary? Except for heavily soiled items, most loads will come clean in either a cold or warm wash. Look into cold wash detergents.

Use the least amount of detergent that will get your clothes clean—most loads require only an ounce or less! Overloading causes extra strain and wear on your equipment; check the manufacturer's recommendations for load weight. Balance your load by alternating small and large items.

For Safety Sake
Be sure control is "off" before reaching into your washer. If one is necessary, use only a heavy duty extension cord. Be sure your washer is grounded. Keep dry cleaning agents, color remover and Fiber-glas out of your washer. It's a good idea not to wash clothes containing cleaning fluids in your washer.

Remember, Reddy supplies the energy—but only you can use it wisely!
