MATADOR, MOTLEY COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, MAY 28, 1959 PRICE SEVEN CENTS

RAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Since the fetlocks of my hooves are wet with the dew of the star fields and the strange of space close in, alone, crowds my dreams, as if they might be around the contemporary who is still fighting for his first million, with some degree of bitterness that his earlier plans for them were but a figment of his imagination.

It is so easy to be critical that are given to omit the use of, except in instances where they conceal our own shortcomings.

The irony which often rides the truth across the sandy tracks of destiny leaves bewildering tracks in passing. Weakness may be betrayed by a display of strength, and beauty may be woven on the loom; of rearing circumstances, the flash of a star in the firmament may have traveled ten thousand miles in the presence of a judgment is without mercy.

Years in many empty whiskey bottles have been distilled in a catalyst of helpless hearts.

Tentative REA Phone Meet Set

Interest in REA telephone service north of Matador is active as shown by the number of applications being filed for service. A tentative meeting has been set for Thursday night, June 4, in the Flomot school gym, to further explain the proposed project.

Jimmy Wright, president of the Cap Rock Telephone Cooperative of Spur, was here Tuesday evening and explained the REA plan to a group meeting in the District Court room.

In discussing the plan he said the Whiteflat exchange, which would be handled through Matador, would provide service for customers south of the river. Customers north of the river would be serviced through the Flomot exchange, handled out of Turkey.

Two active in the proposed plan of rural telephones are Mrs. Bob Martin of Whiteflat and Mrs. J. W. Reed of Flomot. Both of the farm women are devoting time and effort to the project. They are rapidly increasing the number of applications for rural telephone service in the Whiteflat and Flomot areas.

NATIONS MOURN DULLES' DEATH

Nations of the world Monday paid tribute to John Foster Dulles. The Stars and Stripes were at half staff around the world for the former secretary of state who died of cancer Sunday at the age of 71.

Even the Soviets, whom Dulles firmly distrusted and who branded him a warmonger, joined in what undoubtedly is the most widespread tribute ever paid an American secretary of state.

Tributes of sorrow at the passing of the great American were wired Mrs. Dulles from world leaders and rulers. Many tributes were from diplomats and politicians who had their differences with Dulles, but came to respect him as a dauntless champion of freedom.

Burial was made yesterday in Arlington Cemetery. Flag on the postoffice here was at half staff three days, as it was throughout the world. President Eisenhower ordered the three days of mourning in tribute to Statesman Dulles.

"Dry Spell" Needed To Plant '59 Crop

Rainfall for May Now Exceeds 1958
LAND OF EXTREMES, West Texas is now too wet to plow. Farmers in Motley County are looking for a "dry spell" in which to get the 1959 crop planted. Although many fields had previously been planted, the hard rains and in some places, hail during the past week, have made it necessary to replant.

At noon yesterday the total rainfall for the month of May was 6.63 inches according to the records kept by Bob Stanley. During the month of May, 1958, the total rainfall was 3.65 inches, according to Mr. Stanley's records.

To date the total rainfall for 1959 is 8.88 inches (only 2.25 inches fell in the four months prior to May) as compared with 10.96 inches in 1958.

Friday was a day of heavy rains throughout the county. Matador recorded 3 inches, while south of Roaring Springs in the neighborhood of five inches were reported. Violent weather accompanied the rains here, including high winds and some hail.

A line of thunder storms formed late Monday which produced a tornado in the vicinity of McLean. During the night .32-inch precipitation was recorded here, accompanied by some hail.

Range Conditions Good
Ranchers report range conditions excellent throughout the area, with an abundance of water in tanks and water holes, and soaked prairies producing a fine crop of new grass.

Both farming and ranching conditions have changed abruptly to an improved outlook since the heavy May rainfall ended a prolonged drought that had extended since last September.

Texas Tech to get New Structures

LUBBOCK, Texas — Keeping pace with the rapid changes in our society is Texas Tech, where new educational facilities and opportunities are virtually "blossoming" this spring.

Never in the 33-year history of this rapidly growing state institution have developments come faster.

Currently altering the skyline on Tech's 2,000-acre campus is the steel structure for a $1 million building containing 72 faculty offices and 27 classrooms. Brick is being put on a new textile engineering building to be used primarily for research.

On the drawing boards are six other new academic buildings costing an estimated $2 million.

Many more are to come. The structures mentioned will take only some $3.25 million of more than $7.6 million in State College Building Fund bonds already sold by Texas in an effort to give Tech one of the outstanding physical plants among U.S. colleges and universities.

In the buildings already planned are centers for nuclear research and training and for giant computers which can speed all research. In storage at Lubbock and awaiting a campus home is a Bell Model 5 computer—23½ tons of "electronic brain" to be used by Tech faculty and students.

The other structures now being planned will include quarters and facilities for chemical engineering, architecture, mechanical engineering, natural sciences, and Tech Press.

Among new facilities in use this year is a foreign language laboratory incorporating audio equipment for training.

Matching physical growth is the maturing of Tech's academic program. Most significant development has been the Texas Commission of Higher Education's consent for continued growth at both undergraduate and graduate levels as conditions warrant.

With this general policy has come Commission approval of new master's degree in civil and mechanical engineering and new undergraduate programs in Latin American studies and entomology.

Also approved is separation of chemistry and chemical engineering and history and sociology into individual departments.

Homemaker's Hints

By Ruth Wilson

Trying to save money or cut your grocery bill? Then try some of the following suggestions.

1. Plan meals and make out a marketing list before a grocery shopping trip.
2. Check the newspaper for week end specials. Check for unadvertised "specials" in the store.

3. Meat generally takes the largest part of the food dollar so cook it properly to prevent shrinkage.

4. Choose flaked or grated tuna: it's a penny saver, and the flavor is the same.

5. Packaged, quick-frozen fish fillets are a thrifty buy. They are boneless, hence there is no waste.

6. Use evaporated or nonfat dry milk solids for drinking and cooking. One pound of nonfat dry milk solids makes 5 quarts of milk for approximately 40 cents.

7. Buy staples in large, economical sizes if storage space is available.

8. Prepared foods, (ready cooked) are more expensive than unprepared foods.

9. Commercial mixes are more expensive than homemade mixes.

Electric Times Is 1st Place Winner

The Electric Times, employees' monthly magazine edited by Jimmie Martin of the Public Service Department of the West Texas Utilities Company, was named first place winner in the 1959 Better Copy Contest, sponsored by the Public Utilities Advertising Association.

Cal Young, WTU President, has announced that WTU again has won outstanding honors in the field of advertising but in a new category. The company has won several first awards in this contest in recent years in advertising and window displays, but this is the first time to win honors in the magazine category. The awards were made May 9 at the annual PUA convention in Dallas.

The Electric Times is one of the pioneers in the employee magazine field and is now in its thirty-second year of publication. Jimmie Martin has served as publication editor for the past 14 years.

This is the second national honor to be awarded to the Electric Times in recent years. In 1951 the magazine was awarded the Freedom Foundation Medal for editorials and feature articles promoting a better understanding of the American Way of Life. One was awarded the company, a second to Martin.

More than 2,000 entries were received in this year's Better Copy Contest, which is the 36th annual contest conducted by the association and the oldest continuous advertising competition. The Electric Times was awarded first place in the top category which includes employee publications of all privately managed electric utilities companies with 100,000 or more customers.

The contest included newspaper advertisements, magazines, employee newspapers, direct mail, publications, display, posters, billboards, annual reports, radio and television and motion picture.

Bert Green Named Nominee for NCTE

Bert Green, Roaring Springs High School junior, has been nominated for the annual Achievement Awards program, sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE).

In its second year, the Awards program is being conducted throughout the nation to grant recognition to outstanding high school seniors for excellence in English. The writing abilities and literary awareness of each nominee will be judged by local state committees. The winners will be announced in January, 1960, by the NCTE, and the names of the Awards winners will be sent to every U. S. college and university with the recommendation that these students be considered for scholarship assistance.

According to J. N. Hook, NCTE Executive Secretary, the Awards program was initiated last year in response to President Eisenhower's statement that America needs its Emersons as well as its Einsteins. "There were more than 2,000 nominees for the first Awards," said Hook, "and we expect about 5,000 for this second round."

"The quality of the writing submitted by last year's winners and runners-up was very high," Hook asserted. "It constitutes a positive answer to statements that American youth cannot write effectively. These students, and thousands more, are learning to use the language with precision and vividness."

Founded in 1911, the NCTE is a professional, not-for-profit organization of teachers of English at all levels. Currently the circulation of the Council's five professional publications is over 51,000.

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

Termites Can Be Controlled
Don't get panicky if you think you have termites in your house. They aren't going to eat it down right away. First, make sure they are termites. It's easy to mistake ants for termites, therefore get a reliable person to help you make the identification.

If they are termites, take your time in deciding what to do as termites work slowly. You will have to know where they are getting into your home, so look for their mud tubes. Termites build these tubes as travel routes when they are forced to bridge over concrete, brick or other non-wood surface.

Use a flashlight and an ice pick and look for termite signs under porch steps, around inside cellar walls, crawl spaces, or outside window sills. Look for mud tubes coming out of the tops of hollow concrete blocks. Jab wood that is in contact with masonry or beams which are near the ground level. If the ice pick goes in readily, it is a sign of trouble.

Several chemicals which are effective and long-lasting in controlling termites if applied properly are chlordane, lindane and dieldrin. Use the oil or water emulsion concentrate forms of these materials or wettable powders. Dig a trench around the foundation of your home, dilute the insecticide with water, and pour it into the trench at a rate of four gallons to every ten linear feet.

If the termites are coming through a crack in a slab of concrete, it may be necessary to drill ½-inch holes, one foot apart and six inches from walls and pillars, through the slab. Then pour the chemicals into the holes.

Tackling a termite job is hard, dirty work. Even if you have the incentive, in case of slabs with imbedded heat pipes, better leave it to a reliable pest control operator.

FERTILIZER USE IMPORTANT

Determining your fertilizer needs will probably make the difference in whether your crop will show a profit or lose money. As very few soil tests are the same, it is best to have your soil analyzed rather than to follow your neighbor's soil test recommendation. Too, follow the recommendations, as you have paid money to get this information.

Several methods can be used to determine the fertilizer needs of the soil for a given crop. They are soil tests, plant tissue tests, field trials and deficiency systems. The ideal way is to use all of these methods together in determining fertilizer needs.

A soil test is the cheapest, most convenient way to determine fertility needs. It is also the most accurate way with the exception of extensive field trials. By determining needed nutrients and the proper ratio, soil tests can be used to determine how to make the most profit for the money invested. Before taking samples, contact your County Agent for information on how to take soil samples, and to get the forms needed to submit with the samples.

Field tests are the final tests in determining the value of the grade and amount of fertilizer used. Unfertilized strips of four to eight rows should be left across the field. Double the normal rate being used or decrease it by half the normal rate on several rows to see if a different rate would be more profitable. These strips will indicate whether the fertilizer pays, and in what rate it pays most. Don't

About Your Health

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health.
Henry A. Hollie, M. D., Commissioner

They used to call them "Food-handlers Schools". Today the title more nearly describes its purpose: "A Short Course in Food Preparation and Services." The courses are presented by Public Health Education Division instructors in any city in Texas on request of local authorities.

Managers, supervisors and all other employees of eating establishments are the primary objectives of the course. However the same principles apply to all public and private foodhandlers—whether housewife or canner.

The course is presented in four sessions of two hours each. Depending on local working conditions, the daily sessions may be scheduled for morning, afternoon or evening.

Discussions deal with the causative agents of communicable diseases: virus bacteria, protozoa and worms; the source of these organisms (sick people, people who are carriers, and sick animals); the mode of transmission from the source to susceptible persons; and the ports of entry.

Discussions bring out that there are at least 75 different communicable diseases existing in the United States today, of which 30 or so can be transmitted through insanitary food production, processing, distribution preparation and service.

Emphasis is placed on the fact that if people are properly vaccinated, and thereafter practice sanitation, personal hygiene, and food refrigeration, the majority of these diseases could be greatly reduced or stamped out. The Division of Public Health Education provides State Department of Health publications used in the course. If local authorities wish to provide additional publications they may do so.

Promotional activities include personal contact, radio and television announcements, newspaper articles, talks before public health committees of the restaurant association and other community groups.

There is no denying the importance of these sanitation courses to the health of restaurant patrons and everyone who buys food prepared by a human. Local areas may contact the Division of Public Health Education of the State Department of Health for further information.

When it comes to drugs, this armamentarium is something. Thousands and thousands, literally. All are readily available in this pharmacy to help preserve your health when needed—a public service which we are pleased to render.
