Rumors of Satanic Worship Plague Motley County

EDITOR'S NOTE: In view of all the rumors of a Satanic cult in the Motley-Dickens area the Tribune is going to reprint some information taken from THE EAGLE PRESS of Fritch and the Panhandle area. The Tribune is also printing a schedule of Occult Holidays, taken from the Mike Warnke Ministries. Mike Warnke, a former Satanist High Priest is now a Christian and serving Jesus Christ in ministry to help people be aware of the realness of Satan and the victory in Jesus.

FRITCH -- Lack of room in the Sanford-Fritch high school auditorium resulted in as many people being turned away as were admitted to the standing room only program on Satanism and the Occult last Monday evening. At least another hundred people stood up or sat on the floor of the 500 seat capacity facility to hear DPS Public Safety Officer, Wayne Beighle, explain why Satanism and the occult is on the rise and why parents and teachers should be concerned.

Officer Beighle said that it was obvious that the interest level on this subject was high when Geraldo Rivera's program concerning satan worship was the single, most watched TV program in the last year. And the overflow crowd at the local seminar further evidenced parental concern. Beighle said that he was beginning to rethink his stance on not allowing teenagers to attend his seminar because of the mis-information that they often receive and that they too, needed to be educated about the dangers involved. He said that in future talks he would consider allowing older teens to be present if they were accompanied by a parent.

Beighle explained that Satanism is legal and is protected under the first amendment until it spills over into criminal activity such as murder, kidnapping, rape, child abuse and vandalizing or trespassing. There is much more evidence of satanic involvement in this area of the 'Bible Belt' than parents or law enforcement would like to believe. He said that the recent news coverage of the murders in Matamoras has helped to awaken the public to the enormity of the problem.

Satanism is the antithesis of Godliness. It promotes evil as good and good as evil. It says that gratification of the flesh and ego is supreme. It offers indulgence, vengeance, power and control that frees a person from any guilt - if it feels good 'do it'. It sees man as an animal that is on a higher plane than the four footed kind with more ability for cruelty.

There are 60,000 symbols used in connection with the satanic worship, many of which are 'cross over' symbols - that is, they may be innocently used by the unknowing, but possess meaning for Satanists. Some of the common ones are the satanic goat head, pentagram, inverted cross, 666, or FFF, horned hand, hexagram and the broken cross of Nero.

Beighle categorized the three levels of involvement in Satanism as the 'crazies' such as Manson or the son of Sam, disillusioned adults, and finally the rapidly growing number of teenagers who are searching for something. These people may be at the 'fun and games' stage, they may be 'dabblers' but usually they end up with real spiritual and criminal involvement.

There is no prototype of the type of person who may be entangled in these activities. It is present in almost all schools and communities. "You can only know them by their actions," Beighle said.

But more and more the teenage involvement is coming from white, middle class children who come from dysfunctional families and those who possess low self esteem. Satanists have made the statement that "Kids are our business and business is good." Young people have no idea what they are getting in to when they begin to dabble with the occult. They may feel that real life is 'boring', they may be seeking thrills and the occult appears to be an avenue for rebellion.

"Teenagers today are the first generation to have total media exposure. No other group has been exposed to so much, so young. They have grown up without a potential future - they have no long term plans or relationships. They live only for today. They have the highest suicide, dropout and pregnancy rate ever."

"With the divorce rate so high and the loss of the family structure, children have too much unsupervised free time. And many of today's youth lack the ability to cope - they lack internal controls to handle problems so they withdraw, turn to drugs or alcohol and often to suicide. They are easy targets for cultists."

"We have passed from the age of agriculture to the mechanical age and now to the age of communication and yet we lack the ability to communicate within families. There is too much freedom from parental guidance and discipline. But the cultists are good listeners. They will seek out your child and listen to them - make them feel worthwhile and lure them into their rituals."

Some heavy metal music is part of the progression into cults with lyrical references to worshiping satan, human sacrifice, cannibalism, explicit sex and violence. Horoscopes and mind altering games such as Dungeons and Dragons often become an obsession offering evil power to the young. Occult magazines and books offer avenues to defy authority. Courses in witchcraft are currently being taught in dozens of universities across the county. The numbing use of drugs and sexual freedom encourage the youth to live for today, to take what they can.

"The life expectancy for a teenage cult member is one to five years," Beighle said.

"What begins innocently ends up in death and destruction. Fascination for cults and drugs go together. Cults offer the opportunity for rebellion. Almost all adolescents are attracted to 'magic' but when fact and fantasy begin to blur they become obsessed with a hatred for this world and a thirst for blood. Serious crimes committed by children were up eleven THOUSAND percent from 1950 until 1979 showing a real loss in moral fibre."

Beighle suggested that parents and teachers can combat this persuasive force by getting out of the denial syndrome and by becoming educated to what is happening. Then parents should teach Christian values in a positive home atmosphere and work with young people to build their self-esteem.

He also suggested: Spend time with your teenager. Listen to them. Listen to their music. Discuss cults with your children. Keep all lines of communication open. Constantly remind your children that you love them. Allow them to participate in family decision making. Watch for abrupt emotional changes. Monitor your child's behavior for preference to be alone, chanting, use of new vocabulary, obsession with music groups that use satanic masses or symbols in their recordings. But don't over-react because that may tend to drive the child further away from traditional values and toward the occult. Seek reliable counseling.

The subject of Satanism and the occult is confusing and often-times frightening. But Beighle said that people should not be intimidated by Satanism. "It may be widespread, but it isn't going to take over tomorrow." Education is the beginning of the solution to the problem.

THE OCCULT HOLIDAYS

Certain holidays have been observed by pagan and occult religions since ancient times. The rituals and traditions of these holidays were designed to appease various gods, insure a good harvest, or work certain kinds of magic. The religious practices of modern witches as well as Satanists have their roots in these ancient beliefs.

Historically, worship of the moon (or a moon goddess) predates the worship of the sun (or a sun god); therefore, the four major festivals of the various moon cults are the ones most commonly observed. They are as follows:

Halloween (Oct. 31) - Halloween, or Samhain, marks the end of the growing season and harvest and the beginning of the destruction and death associated with winter. The power of the underworld is said to be unleashed, and the spirits are freed to travel about the earth. This would be considered an ideal time for contacting supposed spirits of the dead. Halloween is the end/beginning of the witches year.

Candlemas (Feb. 2) - Candlemas, the Feast of St. Brigid, or Brigid marked the coming of spring, the growing length of days, and the end of the rule of death and destruction. Some moon cults celebrated

Friends of the Library Hosts Autograph Party For Local Author

Q.D. Williams, owner of the T-Bar Ranch, once part of the historic Montgomery Ranch in Floyd County, watches as John Lincoln signs his autographed copy of RICH GRASS AND SWEET WATER. Williams worked on the Matadors in 1942 on the Red Payne wagon.

A warm reception for John Lincoln and his recently published book, RICH GRASS AND SWEET WATER, was given at the autograph party hosted by the Friends of the Motley County Library on September 9.

Friends, "fraternity brothers" of the Matador Ranch, and fellow employees of Koch Industries' Matador Cattle Company attended the "come and go" affair at the library in downtown Matador.

In the conference room refreshments were served from blue splatterware tin plates and cups while the punch was served from a giant coffee pot. Red geraniums in a colorful water bucket and bluebonnets in a small coffee pot graced the red and white checkered tablecloth. Thirty-four autographed books were sold, with the profit going to the Friends book fund.

Five years in writing, the easy-reading, well-written book by the former president of the Matador Cattle Company mentions at length Jim Cross of Matador and his brother Marion of Montana.

Lincoln recalls how Jim learned to keep warm riding in the frigid Montana winters by coordinating his leg and body with the action of the horse, thus stimulating his blood circulation as if he was running.

Marion Cross, a cowboy by trade, ran a highly successful sheep operation until tapped by the management to move up through the ranks to become manager of the massive Beaverhead Ranch.

Many vivid descriptions of the Montana holdings emphasize that though the ranch has made many modern innovations, the wild west still exists in those lonely hills of timber, sagebrush, and tall grasses.

The "brotherhood" of former Matador cowboys is recognized and explored Highlighted is the role Rosie Deaton, a veteran of over fifty years of the Scots or the Kochs, played in guiding Larry Angell through the young manager's inexperience and in taming the wild Matador cattle.

Lincoln shares the inside story of when the historic ranch house was threatened by fire, thanks to the news media that was rushing to cover a distant fire in Cottle County.

The contributions of many local people, Dale Bumgardner, James Linton, and James Palmer, are documented while detailing the modern methods the Koch management implements in raising beef, efficiently and economically.

This book dispels the myths and sheds light on the little known organization that surrounds the town of Matador, affecting it politically, culturally, socially, and economically. Lincoln fills a void and earns a niche in Motley County history.

Near the beginning of the book, Lincoln alludes to the title:

"Some of the traditional methods have disappeared over time. Today, a cowboy may drive out to pasture in a truck; a cowgirl may do the same, hauling horses in a trailer from the ranch headquarters to the pasture where they will do their daily work...But it is basically the same task: following a cow to rich grass and sweet water."

On display at the meeting were several things she has done, including wood quilting, painted treasure box, small figurines, with a crushed pecan shell base.

She demonstrated painting on fabric, painting a small cloth covered photo album, during the meeting, and explaining the various brushes and techniques she uses. There was a question and answer time, among the members and Mrs. Cannon.

The new president, Mrs. Tori Gustafson, presided during the business por-

Baptist Women Observe Week of Prayer for State Missions

A Ladies Salad Supper at the First Baptist Church, Tuesday, Sept. 5 was in observance of Week of Prayer for State Missions. Speaker was Mrs. Janie Rando of Floydada.

Mrs. Rando is the wife of Rev. Lupe Rando, pastor of Primera Mission Bautista of Floydada, and brought an interesting program, with slides showing the work the couple had led last year and this year, in Juarez, Mexico. On both trips they were accompanied by members of their congregation in taking a pickup of food and clothing to the areas where they conducted revival services.

They were joined by many inner-city residents in conducting the revival, which resulted in large numbers responding with decisions for Christ. Mrs. Rando was accompanied here by the youngest of her three sons, Tim, who assisted with projection of the slides.

The speaker's life was itself an interesting saga. One of a family of 27 children, Mrs. Rando had achieved a dream of obtaining an education by graduating from the Valley Baptist Academy in Harlingen, after having been denied an earlier education by her father.

"My father did not think an education was necessary beyond the third grade," she said. "So I was taken out of school at an early age. Then our family moved to California, where school attendance was enforced for children until age 16. When I reached that age, I was again taken out of school." Later, when she became 18, and had returned to Texas, she enrolled in the Baptist Academy, having earlier been converted and dedicated her life as a missionary. Her life as the wife of a pastor who also is a dedicated missionary, has been one of fulfillment, she said.

Complete renovation of their church building and annex, and an increase in enrollment and attendance in Sunday School, Church and Vacation Bible School has been gratifying to the couple during their three years in Floydada, as they share their experiences with other churches and Baptist Worker's Conferences in this area.

Satanic Worship

the recovery of the moon goddess after having given birth to the new sun god six weeks before, which was the shortest day of the year.

Beltane (April 30) - Also known as Walpurgis Night or Roodmas, Beltane was for some a day to honor St. Walburga (Walburg is also an old Teutonic name for the Earth Mother, or Mother Nature); for others it was the festival for the god of the underworld. It also more or less coincides with the time of the year for planting, and the Celts offered human sacrifice at this time of year.

Lammas (July 31) - Lammas or Lugnassad roughly coincides with the beginning of the harvest season; fruits and vegetables would be ripening and farmers would soon be bringing in crops. In some of the old religions the priest-king was sacrificed in the fields.

The dates given may vary slightly, and those who observe the holidays may do so during a full or new moon close to the date.

Generally speaking, worship of a sun god as a primary deity developed later than worship of a moon goddess, and it was most prevalent in cultures that had the greatest emphasis on science or philosophy. The Druidic priests, for instance, were both astronomers and astrologers, and it is from the Druids that much of the contemporary occult tradition comes. The holidays they observed are basically the same dates we now use to mark the change of seasons. They are as follows:

Yule - Dec. 22 is the winter solstice, or the shortest day of the year; * it marked the rebirth of the sun god, and also the destruction of the winter season.

Vernal Equinox - Sometimes called Lady Day, March 21 is the date that day and night are equal with the days growing longer. Spring planting usually began at this point or soon after.

ST John's Eve - Also called midsummer, June 22 is the summer solstice or longest day of the year. This was the day in which the sun god had the most power.
Michaelmas - September 21 is the autumnal equinox, when day and night are equal in length with the days growing shorter. The celebration of Michaelmas, which occurs during the harvest season, typically utilized symbols of autumn such as acorns, colored leaves, etc.

* This, of course, applies to the Northern Hemisphere. In the Southern Hemisphere, it is the longest day of the year.

Modern witches are generally less concerned with making crops grow than they are with getting in tune with nature, recharging their spiritual batteries, and finding the best times to work spells. They usually observe the four lunar festivals, or Sabbats, rather than the four solar ones, although they may celebrate all eight or only one or two. In this case, Halloween and/or Beltane are the ones most likely to be observed. A weekly, bi-monthly, or monthly meeting is called an esbat; these are not usually occasions for rituals, and may be nothing more than get-togethers over coffee to discuss spells or other things. The majority of satanists observe the lunar Sabbats, but they may change the dates to coincide with a certain phase of the moon, or perhaps to make the celebration more convenient for coven members. If the satanist coven does human or animal sacrifice, they will definitely do so during these Sabbats. * In addition, the Satanic Bible notes that for an individual, his or her own birthday is the highest of holidays.
* It should be noted that most modern witches never perform either human or animal sacrifice.

A MESSAGE FROM THIS NEWSPAPER AND THE DPS TROOPERS

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I would like to nominate my Great-Grandmother, Edna Dillard, for Grandparent Of The Year. She is an Assembly of God Minister in Roaring Springs, Texas. She is 83 years of age and is good and well. She loves her family very much. She also is the leader of four generations. She loves God and Jesus very much. She's been married twice and has four children. She was born in 1909 by the last name of Ridener. She's been all over the country giving sermons. She also is the prettiest Great-Grandmother, that I know and love. These are the qualities that I think my Great-Grandmother should be Grandparent of the Year.

By,
Burton Brown

P.S. She cooks the best quail in the world.

Dear Barbara,

I just had to write you when I read the article Ava Crump wrote the Editor. I laughed and thought, "sounds just like our little town of Bethel Springs". The town needs a majority like her. If I had good eyesight, I would go to our town meetings and put my two cents in. We just have too many, "Let George do it" in town. Luck to her.

Booster Club Holds First Meeting

by Seven Alexander

The Motley County Athletic Booster club held their first meeting Monday night at 6:30 p.m. at Billie Dean's Restaurant. Joe and Billie Dean Smith furnished coffee and drinks for all the members while we viewed the tape of Friday night's football game on the 46 inch "big screen" TV in the Dining room.

Coaches Hodges and Moore narrated the film explaining each play with both the mistakes and the good plays made Friday night. The film review provided excellent information and entertainment for the meeting with those present getting answers to many questions.

The business meeting was opened by President Alvin Alexander and many old and new projects were discussed. Getting new signs for the football teams and cheerleaders is the first project planned with a sign painting party scheduled for Saturday afternoon at 3:00 p.m. at the Bus

Barns. Everyone is invited and encouraged to attend so we can get the new signs in all the yards early next week. The Booster club will be selling T-Shirt Ties for $5.00 each to help pay for the signs. The T-Shirt Ties are handmade and may also be used as pins, so order yours now.

Another Booster Club project is a new basketball scoreboard for the gym. Booster Club has been working with the Coca Cola Company for several months now to get a new scoreboard so we can move the old one to the old gym.

The meeting was closed and several members stayed at least a while to watch part of the Monday Night Football Game on the big T.V. Booster Club would like to give a special thank you to Billie Dean's for allowing us to meet in the Dining room and providing coffee to all the members.

Next weeks meeting will be Monday night at 6:30 p.m. at Billie Dean's and everyone is invited to join us.

Senior Citizens Report

by Iris Blevins

The bus was repaired and it made all of its regular runs. Several people went to Lubbock Monday, Thursday the bus went to Plainview with nine people riding. Each one reported an enjoyable day. Everyone did some shopping.

Week before last was a bad time for Mary Ann, our bus driver. She was either petting a broken-down bus or listening at us gripe while the bus was being repaired, and she was in school for a day. She came out smiling! Mary Ann, you are an excellent driver, and everyone really does appreciate your driving and every effort that you make trying to keep us comfortable and happy, while we are on the bus.

We were so pleased to have Mrs. Beulah Jameson visit us at the center last Friday and play 84 with us. We welcome you and everyone to drop in anytime and play a game with us. Iris attended her family reunion through the Labor day weekend at Whispering Oaks Youth Camp near Buffalo Gap, with more than a hundred people attending.

Lucille Pritchett is in the Methodist Hospital. She is improved a little at this writing. Her room number is 594 South. We had seven people to come to the center Friday evening to play games. Everyone was happy and we had fun.

PUBLIC NOTICE
BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED
CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS
SPECIAL ELECTION
NOVEMBER 7, 1989

PROPOSITION NO. 1
ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 102 proposes a constitutional amendment that would increase the salary of members of the legislature to one-fourth of the Governor's salary and increase the salary of the Lieutenant Governor and the Speaker of the House of Representatives to one-half of the Governor's salary. The annual salary of members of the legislature, the Lieutenant Governor, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives is currently $7,200. Under this provision, the annual salary of the Lieutenant Governor and the Speaker would be $46,716, and the annual salary of members of the legislature would be $23,358, based on the Governor's current annual salary of $93,432. The increase for the Speaker and the members of the legislature would take effect when the legislature convenes for its regular session in January 1991. The increase for the Lieutenant Governor would take effect when the term of that office begins in 1991. The salary increase for the Lieutenant Governor would not make members of the legislature ineligible to run for the office of Lieutenant Governor.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
"The constitutional amendment to limit the salary of the lieutenant governor and the speaker of the house of representatives to not more than one-half of the governor's salary and to limit the salary of a member of the legislature to not more than one-fourth of the governor's salary."

PROPOSITION NO. 2
ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 5 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the Texas Water Development Board to issue an additional $500 million of Texas water development bonds. The additional bonds are to be used as follows: $250 million of the bonds are to be used for water supply loans and facilities acquisition; $200 million of the bonds are to be used for water quality enhancement projects; and $50 million of the bonds are to be used for flood control. The legislature may provide that $100 million be used for subsidized loans and grants to economically distressed areas of the state for water and wastewater facilities.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
"The constitutional amendment to authorize the issuance of an additional $500 million of Texas water development bonds for water supply, water quality, and flood control purposes."

PROPOSITION NO. 3
ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 51 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the legislature to provide for the issuance of general obligation bonds to provide money to establish a Texas agricultural fund, a rural microenterprise development fund, a Texas product development fund, and a Texas small business incubator fund in the state treasury. The Texas agricultural fund would be used to provide financial assistance to develop, increase, improve, or expand the production, processing, marketing, or export of crops or products grown or produced in Texas by Texas agricultural businesses. The rural microenterprise development fund would be used to stimulate the creation and expansion of small businesses in rural areas. The Texas product development fund would be used to aid in the development and production of new or improved products in this state. The Texas small business incubator fund would be used to stimulate the development of small businesses in the state.

The principal amount of bonds outstanding at one time could not exceed $25 million for the Texas agricultural fund and $5 million for the rural microenterprise development fund. The financial assistance offered by both funds could include loan guarantees, insurance, co-insurance, loans, and indirect loans or purchases or acceptances of assignments of loans or other obligations. To carry out the Texas product development fund, the legislature could authorize loans, loan guarantees, and equity investments, and the issuance of up to $25 million of general obligation bonds for initial funding. To carry out the Texas small business incubator fund, the legislature could authorize loans and grants of money, and the issuance of up to $20 million of general obligation bonds for initial funding.

Bonds authorized under this amendment would be paid out of the first money coming into the treasury in each fiscal year that is not otherwise appropriated by the constitution, less any amount in any interest and sinking account at the end of the preceding fiscal year that is pledged to payment of the bonds or interest.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
"The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to provide for the recovery and further development of the state's economy, with goals of increasing job opportunities and other benefits for Texas residents, through state financing of the development and production of Texas products and businesses."

PROPOSITION NO. 4
ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 13 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the legislature, by general law, to exempt from ad valorem taxes property owned by nonprofit veterans organizations that are chartered or incorporated by the United States Congress.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
"The constitutional amendment to authorize the legislature to exempt property of nonprofit veterans organizations from ad valorem taxation."

PROPOSITION NO. 5
ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 11 proposes a constitutional amendment that would provide an exemption from ad valorem taxation for goods, wares, merchandise, other tangible personal property (including aircraft), and ores (other than oil, gas, and petroleum products) if the property is acquired in or imported into the state and is destined to be forwarded out of the state, regardless of whether the intention to forward the property existed when the property was acquired or imported into the state, if it remains in Texas for 175 days or less for assembly, storage, manufacture, processing, or fabrication. The proposed amendment would authorize the governing body of a county, municipality, school district, or junior college district to prevent the exemption of this tangible personal property from taxation by taking official action before April 1, 1990. A county, municipality, school district, or junior college district could rescind a decision to tax the property, in which case the exemption would become effective in the year of the rescission and the property could not thereafter be taxed.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
"The constitutional amendment promoting economic growth, job creation, and fair tax treatment for Texans who export goods to other states and nations by restoring and allowing, on a local option basis, an ad valorem tax exemption for certain personal property that is in Texas only temporarily for the purpose of assembling, storing, manufacturing, processing or fabricating."

PROPOSITION NO. 6
ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 4 proposes a constitutional amendment that would enable the legislature to provide, by general or special law, that members of a hospital district board may serve terms not to exceed four years. Currently, hospital district board members' terms are two years.

All elected and appointed officers would be required to take an oath or affirmation swearing to faithfully execute the duties of office and to preserve, protect, and defend the constitution and laws of the State and the United States. In addition, each elected and appointed officer would be required to sign a sworn statement that he or she had not paid, offered, or promised anything of value for a vote or to secure appointment to an office, as applicable. The written, sworn statement would be filed with the secretary of state. The information in the statement is currently contained in the oaths of office taken by elected and appointed officials.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
"The constitutional amendment to require that a member of the legislature, the secretary of state, and an elected or appointed officer, before assuming office, sign a written oath stating that the member, the secretary of state, or the officer did not engage in bribery to obtain the office."

PROPOSITION NO. 8
ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 24 proposes a constitutional amendment that would allow the legislature to authorize the issuance of up to $400 million in general obligation bonds. The proceeds of the bonds could be used to acquire, construct, or equip new corrections institutions, mental health and mental retardation institutions, youth corrections institutions, and statewide law enforcement facilities and to repair and renovate existing facilities of those institutions. The bonds would constitute a general obligation of the state. The bonds and interest on the bonds would be paid from the first money coming into the treasury that is not otherwise appropriated by the constitution, less any amount in a sinking fund at the end of the preceding fiscal year that is pledged to payment of the bonds or interest.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
"The constitutional amendment authorizing the issuance of general obligation bonds for projects relating to facilities of corrections institutions, youth corrections institutions, and mental health and mental retardation institutions and for the expansion of statewide law enforcement facilities."

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to organize and combine various state agencies that perform criminal justice functions."

PROPOSITION NO. 10
ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 4 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the legislature to enact laws requiring or permitting judges to advise juries that a defendant convicted of a criminal offense can receive credit for good conduct that results in a shorter prison term and that eligibility for parole or mandatory supervision can also affect the length of time a convicted criminal serves in prison.

If the permanent school fund were required to make payment as a result of its guarantee of bonds issued by the state, the fund would have to be reimbursed immediately from the state treasury. The amount of bonds guaranteed by the permanent school fund could not exceed $750 million unless a higher amount was authorized by a two-thirds vote of both houses of the legislature. If a school district were to become delinquent on a loan, the amount of the delinquency would be offset against other aid to which the district was entitled.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
"The constitutional amendment to provide for using the permanent school fund and its income to guarantee bonds issued by the state for the purpose of aiding school districts."

PROPOSITION NO. 13

PROPOSITION NO. 16
ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 34 proposes a constitutional amendment allowing the legislature to pass general laws authorizing the creation of hospital districts upon approval of a majority of the qualified voters of the district. The amendment would also permit the legislature to authorize the creation of hospital districts by general or special law in counties with populations of 75,000 or less and to authorize the commissioners courts of such counties to levy ad valorem taxes and issue general obligation bonds for the support and maintenance of such districts.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

PROPOSITION NO. 18
ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 44 proposes a constitutional amendment that would repeal subsection (e) of Article III, Section 50-d of the constitution. Article III, Section 50-d currently allows the Texas Water Development Board to issue and sell Texas agricultural water conservation bonds in an amount not to exceed $200 million, if two-thirds of the members of each house of the legislature approve. Under subsection (e), this authority will expire in November, 1989. "The constitutional amendment to eliminate certain time limitations relating to the issuance of Texas agricultural water conservation bonds."

PROPOSITION NO. 19
ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 59 proposes a constitutional amendment that would allow local governments to invest their funds as authorized by the legislature. Currently, the constitutional prohibition against a grant of public money to an individual, association, or corporation or against becoming a stockholder in a corporation, association, or company prevents local governments from making some kinds of investments. The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
"The constitutional amendment to abolish the office of county surveyor in Cass, Ector, Garza, Smith, Bexar, Harris, and Webb Counties."

PROPOSITION NO. 21
ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 74 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the legislature to enact laws authorizing the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board or its successor to provide for, issue, and sell an additional $75 million in general obligation bonds as college savings bonds. The maximum net effective interest rate would be set by law. Proceeds from the sale of the bonds would be credited to the Texas opportunity plan fund, which is used to make loans to students to attend institutions of higher education in Texas. The bonds and interest on the bonds would be payable from the first money coming into the treasury in each fiscal year that is not already appropriated by the constitution, less the amount remaining in the sinking fund at the close of the prior fiscal year.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
"The constitutional amendment providing for the issuance of general obligation bonds as college savings bonds to provide educational loans to students and to encourage the public to save for a college education."

NATIONAL FARM SAFETY WEEK

Sept. 17-23, 1989

Safety Can Help Save Your Farm

Farmers may get more fresh air than most office workers, but unlike office workers, they're also exposed to toxic gases, dust, pesticides and allergens. While farms are more tranquil than a typical city street, farmers often work in such close proximity with noisy machinery that they suffer a higher rate of hearing loss than the general public. While farm children generally aren't exposed to the same degree of drugs and gangs as their urban counterparts, they are literally steps away from heavy machinery, toxic pesticides and cars moving at high speeds on rural roads.

No matter what the age of the family members, the farm can be a hazardous place, for several reasons. First, farming is one of the most physically demanding of all occupations. Farmers must work long hours in all sorts of weather. The fatigue and bodily stress of farm work can result in accidental injuries in the short term and disabilities in the long term.

The farm environment contains plenty of heavy machinery, chemicals, dust, toxic gases, noise and other potential health and safety hazards. But farmers themselves generally receive little or no formal safety and health training. Most farms, since they have fewer than 11 employees, are not subject to federal safety and health requirements. In the event of injury or sudden illness, farm families are less well situated to receive emergency help. Individuals who suffer injury while out working in a field or some other isolated place may not be discovered until they are beyond help. Farms themselves are often far from a hospital, so it can take medical personnel much longer to get to a rural family than an urban one. On a related subject, many farm families have experienced financial setbacks in recent years. The dangers farming can present can compound financial problems if an accidental injury or death occurs. Farm residents lose nearly five billion dollars each year in accidents and fires, according to Council estimates. This money includes medical expense, property damage and time lost. Future losses from lower productivity and the nagging medical costs of a permanent disability can cripple a family's financial stability.

While many people feel that a farm is the ideal environment for families, the imminent dangers of rural life, coupled with the financial devastation accidental injury or death can produce, demand that farm families make safety and health top priorities.

To help make your farm and home as safe and productive as possible, the National Safety Council offers these steps for safe, healthy living:

- Be physically fit and ready for a safe day. Dress properly for the job, including personal protective equipment (hard hat, safety shoes, respirator, protective goggles, etc.) if the job or conditions call for it. Take work breaks to stay alert.
- Carefully read and follow recommendations in operator's or instruction manuals and on product labels.
- Train helpers for each job. Assign younger and older workers only those jobs they can accomplish safely.
- Keep children out of the work area. Don't let them ride on equipment.
- Keep machinery shielding in place. Turn off the power before unclogging or attending to operating problems.
- If your tractor has a rollover protective structure (ROPS), wear your safety belt to stay protected in case of overturn. If it doesn't have ROPS, ask your dealer to install one if available for your model.

- When applying pesticides or herbicides, follow label directions to the letter. Wear protective gear. Post warnings around treated areas. Safely dispose of empties and leftovers. Store chemicals in original containers, in a place secured from children.

- Inspect all equipment and facilities periodically, making needed repairs and correcting hazards without delay.

- When on public roads with either a car, pickup or farm vehicle, obey all traffic laws. Drive defensively, and be courteous to other drivers. Wear your safety belt.

- Prohibit small children from such potentially dangerous places as chemical storage areas, ponds, grain bins, workshops and animal quarters.
- Falls are the leading cause of death in the home, and are especially dangerous to older adults. Keep your home safe from fall hazards.

Clean up spills promptly and remove obstacles from the floor. Apply nonskid backing to rugs and nonskid strips to bathtubs.

- Install smoke detectors on every floor of your home. Test them regularly. Develop a home fire escape plan, and practice it with your family.

- Be prepared for emergencies. Learn first aid and CPR. Post emergency numbers at every phone.

Use Farm Machinery Safely

CHICAGO — Farm machinery, while safer than ever before, is still involved in a third of all farm accidents, according to the Chicago-based National Safety Council. Factors contributing to the problem include outdated or poorly maintained equipment and user error.

"Although major strides have been made in the design of tractors and other farm machinery," said Jack Burke, program manager for agricultural safety at the Council, "the latest and safest equipment isn't on every farm or ranch. Much of it is 10, 20, even 30 years old, and may lack now-standard safety features...and even those it once had. Wear and tear, missing shields, poor maintenance and even abuse may have compromised the protection originally provided."

Along with the condition of equipment, Burke is concerned about the abilities of many people who operate it. Compared to the typical 16-to-65 age range for industrial machine operators, he said, the range in farming is more like nine to 90, with higher accidental death rates being recorded at both ends of the spectrum. Relatively few receive adequate training, and long, fatiguing hours and harsh working conditions add further stress to farm machinery operators. And if an injury occurs, farm workers are usually farther away from prompt medical care than workers in other industries.

Social Security Tips For Motley County

It's important to remember that Social Security is a base on which to plan for retirement. It was never intended to provide 100 percent replacement of earnings or to guarantee everybody the same standard of living in retirement. In planning for retirement, a person should know how to build on that base. As a start, you should know generally how much to expect in retirement benefits from Social Security so you can plan how much you need from other sources. Also, a person should have some idea of how other types of retirement income will affect Social Security benefits.

It is estimated that a person will need about 75 percent of his or her pre-retirement earnings to maintain the same standard of living in retirement as he or she had before. The amount of social security benefits depends on a person's earnings over a working life. People earning the maximum covered by social security can generally expect to receive initial benefits which replace approximately 29 percent of pre-retirement earnings, and people earning at the minimum wage level over their working lives may expect to receive initial benefits equaling 60 percent of their pre-retirement earnings.

The replacement rate is higher for low earners because they are less able to tolerate a reduction in income. Higher earners are expected to have more resources to build a base of retirement income, including investments, savings, and private insurance. This brings me to the second important point to remember in building retirement income on the social security base. A person needs to know how other retirement income will affect social security checks. The following rules generally apply:

Investments, savings, etc. -- Since a person is expected to build on the social security base, other types of typical retirement income generally do not affect social security benefits. This means that a person can use investments, savings, and private insurance to build on the social security base up to any level an individual requires.

Most company pensions are actually figured to supplement social security benefits an employee may expect so these pensions will not affect social security benefits. But those people who receive a pension from work not covered by social security will probably find their social security benefit reduced. Another rule applies to the spouse receiving a government pension based on work not covered by social security and who also expects to receive a benefit on his or her spouse's work record. The social security benefit is reduced by two-thirds the amount of the government pension.

Earnings -- while earnings are not traditionally considered "retirement income," more and more people continue to work after retirement. There is a limit on how much a person can earn while getting all social security benefits. The annual limit increases with increases in wage levels. Currently, it is $8,880 for people 65 - 69 and $6,480 for people under 65. The rule does not apply to people 70 and over. Benefits are reduced if annual earnings exceed these amounts.

Keeping these facts in mind, a person can build a retirement income that will sustain his or her standard of living in retirement and assure that they are indeed the golden years.
