Meet the Van House Family
Mr. Dick Van House, Motley County Principal

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Van House with children, Leslie and Josh.

Dick Van House, the Principal of the Motley County Independent School District, has been very busy this fall due to his new job as the principal. Before the job moved him, he was a teacher and coach, and Van House worked as an assistant principal. He had participated in the history of the school.

Mr. Van House has been a teacher in Motley County High School and has also been a coach for the football team.

Mr. Van House has graduated from A&M High School in 1968, and South Plains College in 1971-73. He received his Bachelor of Science in P.E. and History from Tarleton State University in 1980. He added a Master of Science in Health Education and Training from Texas A&M University in 1984.

Mr. Van House has taught and coached in Motley County's schools, including Motley County High School and Motley County Junior High School.

Hospital Board Meets

The Motley County Hospital Board met Tuesday morning at 8:00 a.m. at Billie Taylor's restaurant on Lubbock, and invited all Lions to a joint meeting with Paducah and Roaring Springs Lions on Monday afternoon when a volunteer will be present to discuss the new library.

Vance Price, 79, of Turkey had a farm accident that claimed his life, Thursday, November 1, around 3:30 p.m. He and two other men were working trucks with suspended pickets on the Hill Shimmon farm, northeast of Turkey, where the victim was pronounced dead.

Paramedics from Turkey arrived at the scene and pronounced him dead. He was transported to Lockney General Hospital, but he was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident.

Funeral services for Mr. Price were held Thursday, November 15, at 2 p.m. at Matador Church of Christ. Burial was in Dreamland Cemetery.

The public is invited to bring cameras to the funeral to help preserve these moments of how it was yesterday.

CPR until medical personnel arrived. Wanda Johnson and her family were in Ranger, said Edwards came up on the Lions Club. He is currently assistant fire chief in Eastland. A licensed pilot, he has assisted in searches for missing people and has been on the scene where the woman was having some kind of seizure and was not breathing. Edwards saved her life by administering CPR until medical personnel arrived.

"In the Masonic Lodge, this award is present as well as Mr. Edwards’ family at the presentation." The Golden Trowel Award was presented to Terry Edwards for saving the life of Wanda Johnson on July 22 in Breckenridge. The woman had no earthly idea and was totally unaware of Edwards’ heroic actions. "Don’t forget that Mark Whitaker and the grandparents of Mrs. Edwards played a great role in bringing the woman back to life and feeling better. Welcome back, Ed."}

Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy.

COACHING

Mr. Van Hoose is the Principal for Motley County Independent School District this year. He is originally from Amor, Texas and attended school there. He attended college at South Plains and Tarleton State University.

Mr. Van Hoose met his wife, Sharon, at Plainview. She is a housewife and they have two children, Leslie, 12 and Lucas, 10. He has coached at O'Dell, Lockney, Plainview, Dumas and Lockney before coming to Motley County. He feels he is the best place to be for him.

Mr. Van Hoose stated that he has been the varsity coach for the last 15 years and he feels successful as can be as a school and community. "I am very happy.

When asked what he thinks of Motley County, he said, "I love it, I was raised in a small community and I feel at home. The people are very friendly." He thinks Motley County students are absolutely the best he's ever been around.

Contact Social Security Before Retiring

If you're planning to retire around the first of the year, here are some tips to simplify and streamline your Social Security. Don't wait until you retire to file a claim. Instead, file 3 months before your birthday and the payments will start on time. Applying early will give you more time to consider your options and think through your needs. The sooner you claim, the higher your payments will be. If you're not sure if you want to claim Social Security at 62 or need more time to make a decision, you can apply for a delayed retirement credit. This will allow you to delay claiming Social Security and receive a higher benefit later. The best time to claim Social Security is when you reach full retirement age, which is based on your date of birth. If you claim before full retirement age, your benefits will be reduced. If you claim after full retirement age, your benefits will increase. The longer you wait to claim Social Security, the higher your benefits will be. But keep in mind that if you delay claiming until age 70 or later, you will not receive a cost-of-living adjustment for the years you wait. You can also choose to take a spouse's Social Security benefit if you are married and your spouse has full retirement age. The benefit you receive will be based on your spouse's earnings and your own earnings. If your spouse dies, you may be able to receive Social Security benefits based on your deceased spouse's earnings. If you have been married for 10 years or more, you may be eligible for a higher benefit based on your deceased spouse's earnings. If you are receiving Social Security benefits and you have a child who is blind or disabled, you may be eligible for a higher benefit based on your earnings.

Windbreaks for Conservation

Windbreak trees available through the US Department of Agriculture's Natural Resources Conservation Service. Windbreaks are planted to protect crops, livestock, and wildlife. They also help to reduce soil erosion, control water runoff, and improve air quality. Windbreaks can be used to reduce wind erosion, improve soil moisture, and provide habitat for wildlife. They can also help to reduce the spread of disease, improve groundwater quality, and reduce the amount of soil lost to erosion.

In the Great Plains region, windbreaks are often planted to protect crops from wind erosion. They can be used to protect wheat, soybeans, and other crops. Windbreaks can also be used to protect livestock from wind erosion. They can be used to protect cattle, sheep, and other livestock. Windbreaks can be used to protect wildlife from wind erosion. They can be used to protect birds, mammals, and other wildlife.

The weight of an average farm price for U.S. cotton through September of this year is 8.5 cent per pound, reports Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock. PCG calculated the year-to-date average from revised price and volume factors. For August and September, the report said, the average price was $166.10 per bale, the same as the month before and not much different from the year-ago average of $166.33 per bale.

The total acreage for cotton in the United States has been revised to 866,000 bales instead of the 166,000 bales estimated in the current program. This revision brings the estimated total for the year to 8.5 million, meaning prices and crop production will exceed federal government expectations. The final payment rate will be announced before the late January deadline.

LEGAL NOTICES

Amended Notice of Change Request;

Statement of Intent

Notice is hereby given that DICKENS ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE, INC. ("Utility") intends to establish a new loan facility and create and charge a new loan finance charge, for qualifying large power loads of over 2000 KW. The loan finance rate is included in a separate factor for recov- ering power costs associated with the use of the customer's load. The Utility intends to charge the power cost recovery factor applicable to all other customers to accu- rately reflect the cost of power and KW's used in customers' utilization of the load on the system. The changes are being proposed to be effective as soon as may be permitted by law, and shall become effective upon the execution of a loan agreement by the Utility and the lender. The changes are applicable to all areas, all customer classes, and all customers served by the Utility. For many years, large high load factor customers have paid a disproportionate share of power costs. The proposed new loan facility will, by reason of the large load factor, be charged a lower rate of interest than the customers who cause the utility to incur billings to all classes of affected custom- ers. The amount of power cost that will be incurred in the future cannot accurately be predicted. Persons who wish to intervene as appropriate parties in this proceeding should notify the Commission of Texas by December 31, 1990, of their interest in the matter and should be received by the Commission of Texas. A statement of tariff and schedules and a statement of changes in rates for the period following December 31, 1990, as approved, if, and to the extent that, the Commission of Texas shall provide notice of the matter. A statement of the proposed change is available at the offices of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400, Austin, Texas 78757.

Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 454-0225 or (512) 454-0227, or by writing to the Commission at 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400, Austin, Texas 78757.
