The Fidelity Oil Company, with headquarters in New York City, is another big company that plans to do development work in this portion of West Texas.

It is stated that this company plans to open offices in Texas and to begin active development work on their holdings in West Texas. Makes Wonderful Recovery

Charles Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Nelson, was a pleasant caller at the Herald office Tuesday, just to prove he was not dead or anywhere near it, as has been reported several times during the past eighteen months, As most of our folks remember Charles was injured in July, 1921, when diving into a concrete tank at the W. R. Cole place, southeast of this city. When he was rescued from the tank after making a dive he was almost completely paralyzed. Physicians, after an examination, reported his neck broken and said there was little hope of his recovery. Tuesday he made his way alone from an auto parked in front of the Herald office to the editor's desk with the assistance of n pair of crutches. He stated that if he kept on improving as he had lately he expected to throw away his crutches in a very short time,

Charles has been confined to his bed from July 7, 1921, until about sixty remedies for their alleviation. days ago. During the past thirty days he has made his greatest improvement and has gained five pounds in weight.

He gives Guy E. Longbotham, Chiropractor of this city, credit for saving his life. Instead of his neck having been broken, he stated that there were two displacements of the vertebra and Dr. Longbothan has been giving him chiropractic massage to correct this

He is certainly proud to be able to be out, even though on crutches, and his many friends are pleased to note his wonderful improvement.

to salvage the tools around the Home and Contents Destroyed by Fire

The residence of Mrs. Minnie Edwards on West Fourth street was totally destroyed by fire about three o'clock Tuesday morning, together with all the household goods. Mrs. Edwards and children were awakened barely in time to escape with their lives. One of the children strangling from the smoke aroused Mrs. Edwards, who immediately awoke the other children and rushed them from the house. At this time the kitchen and dining room were a mass of flames which were rapidly spreading to all parts of the home and making it impossible to save any of the household effects.

The fire department made a quick run to the scene but the flames had gained such headway that it was impossible to accomplish anything.

The loss of her home and all household goods is a hard blow indeed to Mrs. Edwards.

EDUCATION is a matter of experience not of observation. Thirty years ago a professior of economics in one of our leading universities made the statement that 90% of all the money invested in advertising was lost, and attempted to prove his observation by the statistics of commercial failures.

That professor is today one of the most famous educators in the country. He is famous because he grew by experience to repudiate his youthful observation. He now reverses the faulty findings of his youth and today declares that 90% of the commercial failures are due either to the failure to advertise or to false or faulty advertising.

If your advertisement says you have all wool goods and you've only 68% wool, the time will come when you will be found out. When that time comes all the advertising in the world won't save you. The public will call your middle name "Fake" and view you with mistrust.

. The streets of Bagdad are lined with beggars, men who tried to live by trick and failed. Back of these beggars who crowd the curb are long lines of little stalls where tricksters ply all the arts of trade. Everyone views the other with suspicion and every customer looks upon the tradesman with suspicion. There is no such thing as a stabilized commodity among them. There are no great department stores in Bagdad, no great clothing merchants, no hardware houses that carry the trademark stamp that assures you that what you get is all

Here in this country, our manufacturers, men of character, put integrity into their product. They advertise the product for just what it is that, no less and no more. So you go into a store here or a thousand miles from here and ask for the commodity that YOU KNOW. You know about it. You don't even have to have it unwrapped; you are willing to take it in its original package with the seal unbroken; trade unsight, unseen. This you do because it has been advertised.

Every merchant who does not advertise or who cannot advertise honestly will always conduct a business of Bagdadbooth proportions. He will always be a little shop keeper, I doing a dinky little business. He's the fellow who always offers you "something just as good."

Just as the local merchant will always remain the little merchant, if he does not advertise honestly, so does the manufacturer remain a little manufacturer, conducting a little business, if he attempts to distribute a commodity without advertising. Advertising will build his business in proportion to the public need which he meets and the reliability of his own state-ment about that which he has to sell. No business can grow great without advertising and it will grow great only in proportion to the amount and character of the advertising which it does. No business can grow great without honest advertising.

YOU-you and me, just average buyers. What shall we buy? Shall we buy of the Bagdad merchant and take the stuff without the sterling stamp?

The intelligent purchaser buys through his merchant the commodities that are NATIONALLY ADVERTISED because he knows that experience has taught the business builders that a false statement about their goods means death

Your Bagdad merchant will size you up and charge you what he thinks he can get. You can dicker and barter with him. He's a many priced man. He begins on a high price and reluctantly comes down step by step to meet you.

That's what your little shop keeper who does not advertise will do. He is not a fixed price man. That is what he does with the substitute, the "just as good" article.

Go to the reputable merchant, ask for the nationally advertised commodity, the manufacturer has stamped the price where you can see it, and there you get PROTECTION. If you are an intelligent buyer you will buy of the local merchant that advertises because he is the fellow who is willing to stand or fall by the public printed statement he .. makes.

Be WISE and buy the nationally advertised commodity from the local advertising merchant and leave it to the foolish to buy at Bagdad .- By Richard Lloyd Jones.

New and Successful Industry Has Been Developed of Late Years in the Pacific Northwest, Shortage in the cranberry crop in other parts of the United States last year has focused attention upon this new industry of the Pacific Northwest, which promises to furnish strong competition for the product of the eastern part of the American continent, as described in Popular Mechanics Magazine. After years of experimentation and selection and the development of artificial growing areas the states of Washington and Oregon have come to the front as producers of cranberries in large commercial quantities.

Lewis and Clark, in the log of their trip across the continent in the early part of the Nineteenth century, mention the fine flavor of the wild cranberries purchased from the Indians along Columbia river. Cultivation of the wild cranberry bogs was not attempted until about thirty-five years ago, and continued the a desultory to oner until recentiy, when a successful means of preparing growing ground was developed.

Preparation of cranberry ground in the Pacific Northwest is an expensive undertaking, the cost being around $1,-000 an acre. A wild marsh is selected, drained by ditches, cleared of trees and brush, then the turf is removed by what is called the "scalping" process, laying bare the peat of the bog. Over the peat is spread a four-inch layer of clean white sand. Planting is the next proceeding. Vine cuttings are used for this purpose and are pressed through the sand into the peat with a dibble or planting tool. The vines are planted ten inches apart, which makes about .. to the acre.

WILL DEVELOP JET INDUSTRY

Company Formed to Work Large Deposits Recently Found in Wayne County, Utah.

What is believed to be the first jet deposit to be developed in the United States is now being successfully mined in Wayne county, Utah, where recently mineralogists discovered the largest commercial body of the mineral known to exist in the world. Singularly, discovery of the jet was accidentally made by a party of miners engaged in assessment work for a copper company. The work of mining the jet began late in the summer of last year and, with financial backing assured, is expected to develop into great proportions. At the present time the work of mining the mineral is more or less crudely done, but it is the intention of the owners of the decidedly valuable deposits soon to install modern ma-chinery and develop the industry into the largest of its kind in the world.— Baltimore American.

They park their partly smoked weeds on the outside. The Chinese never offered any objection to the cloud-filled conference rooms. For the French, M. Niagara's Future City.

An idea which has occurred to many ninds since the last "harnessing" of Niagara falls was clearly put by a speaker before the Engineers' society of New York. It is that most of the electric power obtained from the falls will be used within a few miles of its place of origin instead of being transmitted to distant cities. In other words, it is believed that at and near the falls will be situated the future industrial center of America. It would be theoretically possible, it is stated, liway lines are said to be opposed to transmit power from Niagara as far plan of Lieut. Gov. Davidson to as San Francisco, but the cost would be prohibitive. It is much cheaper to locate factories near the falls,

LIBRARIAN MADE GOOD GUES

Mystifled at First, He Finally Realized Just What Volume the Lady Was Looking For.

The recent death of John Kendrick Bangs has recalled an incident that happened recently in one of the branch libraries. A woman entered one evening just before closing time and after wandering almiessly about without finding anything that seemed to please her, finally came to the desk to consuit the librarian concerning her need She said that a friend of hers had recommended a book as being especially good, and would the librarian please tell her where it was kept. The name of the book, she said, was "The House Built on the Sticks,"

The librarian looked puzzled, Visions of certain Biblical references to houses built on the sands came to mind, but this one was unfamiliar to her, so she set about questioning the woman to find out more about it. No, the woman didn't know what it was about, but she did remember the author's name, Bangs. Immediately there came an Illuminating idea, and the librarian went to the shelf and took down Bangs' "Houseboat on the "Styx," and sent a satisfied_patron home to enjoy her newly found treasure.-Indianapolis

ODD PLEAS MADE TO JUDGE

Defendants in Berlin Court Evidently Were Not of the Ordinary Type of Malefactors.

A strange request has been made in a Berlin court by a blacksmith, Paul Walter, who has been passing himself off in Berlin as Prince Pless. He and four friends were on trial for burglary and the blacksmith demanded:

"I request that I be condemned to death; if not, then send me to prison for life, so that I shall be rendered harmless to society."

When the surprised judge said he could not grant such a request Waiter said:

"Well then, put me under police supervision for 20 years and I think you will see I won't do anything wrong again, but will reform myself. If I don't, then sentence me to death next

The judge sentenced him to prison for 18 months and passed sentences varying from three months to two and s half years on the others. All the prisoners then thanked the judge, and the blacksmith added that he and his friends gladly accepted the sentence. -New York Tribune.

Best Way to Warm His Hands. During a severe winter, a science ecturer was delivering an address to very small audience.

Presently a shabbily dressed man entered the hall. It was apparent that the man appreciated the lecturer's remarks, for he had not been listening many minutes before he began to applaud vigorously.

"Setting" Colors.
All colors cannot be set by the same method. Salt, for instance, is extremely effective in setting blues. pinks and some reds. A large tablespoonful is required to a gallon of lukewarm water. Black cottons or blackand-white checks need stronger salt water to be effective, and sometimes little turpentine may be added to the water. Sonk the materials in lukewarm water. Soak browns, deep yellows and tans in a solution of one cupful of vinegar to a gallon of lukewarm water to set the color. When the lighter shades of yellows and tans become faded, the color can be restored by adding strong coffee to warm rinsing water.-From the Designer.

Car Needed It Most.

The little librarian sat at her desk surveying the row of solemn-eyed Italians before her. Tony had brought all his little brothers and sisters to see the "teacher." "My goodness," she said, "how many of you are these altogether?" "Eleven," said Tony, and the entire row grinned broadly, exhibiting beautiful pearly teeth. "What beautiful teeth! I suppose you all brush them well every night?" A nervous shuffling. Tony cleared his throat. "Well," he said earnestly, "we did have a brush once, but father needed it to clean something in the car and after that it wasn't much good."--Chicago Journal.

A Curie of Radium.

Mme. Curie's modest autobiography omits mention of one single honor that more than anything else will help make her name immortal. The official scientific designation of the unit of radionerivity is named in her honor the "curie," and the degree of radioactivity is expressed in millicuries, centicuries and so on up the metric system scale. In selecting Mme. Curie's name scientific bodies have followed the well-established custom that accounts for the introduction of such words as ohm, watt, amperes, etc., into our language all of them the names of inventors or discoverers.-Delineator.

HAS DISCOVERED NEW FORCE

Londoner Gives Interesting Description of Manner in Which He Made Important Find.

A simple carbon rod has been dis covered by A. E. Baines, a leading gal-vanometrist of London, which if held in the hands five minutes will recharge the human system with nerve energy that lasts 12 hopra. He says it is nothing new, but, on the contrary, was known to the ancient Egyptians. He sald the secret of it was lost many centuries ago. Mr. Baines said that years ago while he was standing in the British museum before a painted limestone sculpture of Kharfra, an Egyptian king of the fourth dynasty, who built the second of the great pyramids of Gireb, he noticed the figure was holding two small rods shaped some-thing like the grip on a bicycle. There-after he began a series of long ex-periments to discover the substance rhich the king held, but he failed in his search until one day when he was trying to improve the microphone, for which he prepared several carbon pen-cils which had been hardened by a special process of his own. He said that quite accidentally he touched one of these carbon pencils and was sur-prised to find that his galvanic deflection swung from positive to negative. This led to further experiments, and be finally found that the ordinary are carbon, when hardened by his proc gave out a force which could not be distinguished from nerve force. The bars are about six inches long and are capped at the ends with celluloid. Mr. Baines asserted the carbon rods have been of great aid in treating cases of nervous breakdown, deafness, anemia and many other complaints. He declared he did not know what the new

Her Testimony Showed That the Dog Had Deliberately Disregarded Orders She Gave Him.

Judge Oscar Hallam, in his address before the South Dakota Bar association, told this good one:

"I recall a case of assault and battery, against the Koltski family, and in the course of the examination it developed that the Koltski family dog had taken an active part. Mrs. Koltski, when on the stand, was asked if she didn't instigate the activities of the dog. She insisted that she did not. The attorney said: 'Didn't you say, "Sic 'em, Caesar?" for that was the dog's name. She said, 'No, I did not.' "The attorney said, 'You said some thing to the dog?" "She replied: 'Well, what if I did?'

"He insisted: 'Tell us what you said to the dog." "She answered: 'Why, I said, Don't sic 'em, Caesar."''

Unsuspected Knowledge, The Woman has a young college graduate friend who is just entering the business field. Louise has poise and educational background, which she disguises beautifully by means of a pair of big blue eyes, homemade pink cheeks and a mop of bobbed brown curls. She does not know whether to call her latest experience a compliment or the reverse.

Yesterday Miss Isabel, the chief's stenographer, eashed into Louise's office, notebook in hand, and made for the big dictionary, gasping in Ber flight: "What on earth does m-o-d-u-s o-p-e-ra-n-d-l mean?"

"Method of procedure," said Louise peatly from her desk.

Miss Isabel sniffed faintly and dived into Webster. In a moment she was out again and looking dazed.

"It does mean method of procedure!" said she. "How on earth did you know that?"-Chicago Journal.

America Need Reminders

One hundred years after a group of wise and brave men meeting in Independence Hall created for the American boy the glorious holiday, the Fourth of July, we celebrated the birth of this nation in a great centennial exposition in Philadelphia. The good people of this city of brotherly love now propose with commendable patriotic enthusiasm that the nation build and hold another great American exposition in that same city in 1926 to record the progress, and glory in the triumphs, of this nation in its century and a half of matchless life.

It's a fine idea. We need reminders. We have too few holidays to remind us of the lofty ideals of the builders of this nation. And the too few we have are accepted as merely a release from labor. They lead too few of us to the patriotic shrine. In our individual quest for gain we too often lose sight of the common aim which is the common gain. In our search for individual wealth we too often forget the COMMONWEALTH. That was a great word in 1776. It is a word shunned as socialistic by the avaricious today. avaricious today

We need reminders that we may not lose out of merica that which is America. We have been a America that which is America. We have been a generous and hospitable people. We have opened our doors and welcomed the European malcontent—he who was persecuted by foreign crowns. We have made welcome the coverous who came to get from us but not to give We have made welcome the coverous who came to get from us but not to give. We have made welcome the foreign-minded who had no idea of becoming American-minded, who took advantage of our hospitality and came to "do us" rather than to do with us.

We need reminders lest we forget and forgetting. Condemnation of the government is not left to the "Reds" alone. Nor is it solely the socialist's obsession. Both major parties play checkers on the board of government in Congress. They maneuver for party advantage forgetting to plead for principle divorced from party consideration.

The farmer finds fault with the government. The laborer finds fault with the government. We find fault with ourselves. We are the government.

The immigrant talks in the fatherland tongue, reads the fatherland press, thinks in fatherland lovalty and the immigrant talks in the latherland loyalty and the fatherland press, thinks in fatherland loyalty and hopes to return with American money to live on fatherland soil. Irving Bacheller recently reminded us that the big outstanding fact about America was that "to save from the domination of men whose god was in their beliles our fathers made bloody footprints in the snow." prints in the snow.

We need reminders, lest we ourselves kill the very thing that was born on the Fourth of July in '76. How much we need it is eloquently told in a recent issue of "Life," a humorous magazine which treats this serious subject in a close to serious way when it editorially asks: "Who Killed the Last American?" and answers thus:

"I," said the Budget. "I did it with my financial wheedle. I killed the 'ast American."

"I killed him," said finishevism. "I killed the last American, I permeated his social structure with my virus; I did it with my little Trotsky.

"I was the one who killed the Last American," said immigration. "With my hordes I overcame him; I overwhelmed him unerly and completely—I, with my steamship graft!"

my steamship grait."

And all the bells tolled for the Lay American, who gasped to himself and grouned with his dying breath:

"Twas I who did it! I let myself be killed. And all because I didn't know how to save myself."

Of anything that comes my way, I've been inclined to taste. . . . It's been my privelege to see that nothin' goes to waste. . . . an' when a feller boosts me, from the bigness in his heart. I tell him that I'm "much obleeged." . . . I allers

If I get in a mud-hole—an' my neighbor TIPS pulls me out, I'm apt to do the same fer him it's only turn about. . . . I never let a favor pass without a recompense, as any other man would do. that's got a lick of sense. ..

But, when it comes to givin' "tips" there's a principle at stake. . . . Their blame extorted hand-out is a holdup an' a fake! I try to pay my hired help the wages that's their due, but as to furder dividends, I'm a tight-wad through an' through!

They bait me in the varnished kyars, an' places where I . . They flatter me from every hand-you never seen the beat! They even call me "Senator" when I am off the change!

HOMEY PHILOSOPHY for 1923

O NCE we saw a play called The Servant in the House. The servant was a crude but indisputable sufferer who was honest and who brought home to the other characters the spirit of the Redeemer. Once he said to one of the other men: "Did you ever 'ear of 'ell?" and the other man said "Yes," "Then go there," cto ted the man of mystery. And thus the skilled writer put over a thought that if he had been honest he would have been forced to suppress. It would never have done in this best of literature, to allow a man to tell another man to go to hell. Shocking? The holier than thous would have been in arms, and the consors would have got busy, those men who would regulate our lives and teach us that hyprocrisy and not range,—and that's why I'm so plain dealing is the chiefest aim in devilish slow in partin' with my life. Heigho.

American Farmer Has Weathered Worst Storm of Economic Adversity

"The reduced volume of application for Farm and Livestock Loans clearly reflects the improvement that has taken place in banking and agricultural conditions generally. The acute phases Texas. of the crisis of 1920-21 are now happily past," says Managing Director Eugene Meyer, Jr., in his annual report of the U. S. War Finance Corporation, just

"The farmer and stockman are not yet completely out of the woods, but, in spite of local difficulties here and there, and unsatisfactory markets for some commodities, their position on the whole has been greatly strengthened.

"They are still suffering from a burden of debt, the aftermath of the crisis, and some thousands of banking institutions in the country districts are still in an over-extended condition, But probably at no time in our history has there been so rapid and extensive an improvement in our economic condition as during the past eighteen months,

"The repayments received by the corporation have demonstrated in a strikeconomic adversity. As early as January in 1922, repayments on agricultural and livestock loans reached a total for the month of nearly $2,000,000. By March the amount had increased to $9,-500,000 and from then on fluctuated between $9,000,000 and $12,000,000 a month, until, in October and November they averaged more than $15,000,000. "Altogether, more than $109,000,000, or 41 per cent of the amounts advanced. ricultural and livestock loans. These repayments represent voluntary liquidation and a considerable number of them were made in advance of due dates.

"The peak of applications - the largest number-was reached in the latter part of December, 1921, when in one week 499 applications were received from banking institutions and livestock loan companies for amounts aggregating more than $13,000,000.

"Until late in February they averaged more than 300 a week for amounts ranging from $7,000,000 to $11,000,000.

Let's Work Together During 1923

And while we are engaged in beguiling prosperity, let's also endeavor to promote harmony. If the doors of our hearts are open harmony will always seek admittance. It doesn't like to wander around without a home and its home is in the head and the heart.

Harmony will do wonderful things for us in the run of a year.

And along with harmony comes good fellowship its twin brother.

Good fellowship promotes harmony, and harmony promotes good fellowshipand when the two pull together it is difficult to resist or check them.

By all means let us have good fellowship, too.

But that Isn't all. Harmony and good fellowship prothoughtfulness, and consideration, and a willingness to do for others as well us with his presence for a time. But when we perform a kindly act for others it leaves a warm glow in the region of the heart that heart that should never grow cold.

We must have all of these, too, In fact, there are many things we might have and do. in this community in 1923 things that work for improvement, and prosperity, and sociability.

Perhaps you can suggest a few. In passing, we might suggest that 1923 will be better if pade, instead of being marred. Making a community is not difficult. It only requires intelligence and a will to accomplish.

Marring a community is even less difficult. In fact, it is not difficult at all. It only requires that spirit of indifference that is so often found where it should not be.

We'll do something, of course_but

Thus we have, in many communities, as many different farmers and as a result no buyer can enter that market and pay as high a price for mixed lots as he could if he was assured that he could fill an order for a certain staple without making a close inspection of all cotton over a

They realize that community selection will not only benefit the growers butwill promote the use of purebred seed. Some of these men have spent the greater part of their life in developing better cotton. They are willing to take their chances with competitors in having their seed selected by growers in any community where it has been decided to use but one variety.-Farm

If Story le True, This Englishman's Middle Name Must Surely Be Good Luck.

Lying on a path 18 months a leather wallet containing over $140 was found by the loser after being unnoticed by hundreds that passed each day, writes an English correspondent. A dining-car conductor on the Great Western railway, who lives at Southall, left home one morning in June, 1920, and went to Old Oak Common, near Acton, where the dining cars are stored. From Acton station he walked through a private path used by the railway staff and leading to Old Oak carriage sheds. Later he went to Paddington station and worked the dining-car train to Plymouth. When he returned to London he discovered that he had his wallet. He had not lost the faintest idea where or how he had lost it, and although he made inquiries he could find no trace of it. The other morning he walked up the same private path on his way to work, as he has done scores of times since he lost the wallet, when he stopped for a moment, and looking on the ware ground just at the side of the path he was amazed to see his wallet lying there. He picked it up, and was further amazed to find that the contents had not been touched. The wallet was weather-besten and the notes were solled as though they had been scaked in rain, but when he found them they were dry. The path is used by hundreds of men every day.

INVALUABLE AID IN COOKING

British Journal Points Out How the Use of Thermometer Will Help the Housewife.

Every housewife is aware that the actual cooking of a dish is a very important factor of success or failure. A "hot oven" and a "moderate oven" are often referred to, and testing by holding the hand inside for a few seconds is a method frequently employed.

But there is no real dependency on such haphazard methods, since one person can bear much more heat than another. Therefore, in an efficient household a kitchen thermometer to register cooking heats should be considered as necessary as a clinical thermometer. There are two varieties of kitchen thermometers to be had. The cheaper kind is of white china, and can only be used for oven cooking. A more durable make, of brass, which costs a little more, can be used for testing frying fats, etc., and will not break so easily. An iron leg supports the thermometer, so that it stands upright and can be read at a glance when in the oven. Every degree of heat from low to high temperature is registered. and at the side the standard temperatures for cooking are printed.-Manchester Guardian Weekly.

New Harbinger of Spring. There was a drumming roar above the city the other day, rising and waning and passing into distance. "Listen to her," said the man in the street, "that's the first plane I've heard for months. Sounds kind of good." His companion was equally pleased. "You know what that means, don't you?" he rejoined. "Means it's spring, that's what it means. We used to depend on the robins, but now a very different sort of bird files when the weather gets decent again. Look at her, would you?" LITTLE SHORT OF MIRACLE | WHEN SECF-LOVE IS WOUNDED

Then is Called Into Play the Ugliest of All Human Passions, That of Jealousy.

Jealousy is the ugliest of all human passions—and the one which makes the greatest misery in the world. It is the outcome of egotism, the twin elster of vanity, and its prood are all the sorrows of the human race. But what is realousy when an-

It is the bitterness which arises either when someone else posse that which we destre and cannot obtain, or the fear hat what we possess may be taken from us by another. The very fact of our feeling fear shows that we know this other possesses a power stronger than our own-and this is a reflection upon our personal merit, and therefore a wound to our self-love, says Ellinor Glyn in the London Times.

Men and women are jealous when another approaches one they lovetheir natural egotism is wounded by the inference that this other has not realized their own worth, and dares to dispute their sway-jealousy being roused to fury should the one they love respond to alien glances, because the wound to self-love is deeper still in that case, and toe poison sinks into the very being.

But jealousy between the sexes is a more pardonable fault than any oth; er form of the virus, because it goes back to the instinct of self-preservation and, in the broader sense, racepreservation, and although its indulgence produces misery and crime, its origin is not altogether base or wholly egotistical.

"The next night found our troupe in Chanute. My telegram that night read: Chanute receipts $21. Made a wonderful impression here."

"Several hours later I was at the Chanute depot with my troupers when the telegraph operator handed me a telegram. It was from my 'angel.' The sage said: 'Make one more impression-then come home."

Electioneering Expenses in France. Whereas electioneering in Great Britain is nothing like so expensive as it used to be, the tendency in France is all the other way, for there is no limit imposed on the amount a candidate may spend. In an article advocating the need of a law to restrict election expenses M. Jean Barnard remarks: "My old friend Floquet told me that in 1891, when he was first elected for the Eleventh arrondissement of Paris, the election cost him only 1,500 francs. At the general election of 1891, when he was defeated. Floquet spent 25,000 francs, and I had to spend even more than that when I stood for the same constituency in 1910. My-opponent's victory on this occasion is said to have cost him 200,-000 francs, and I believe that estimate to be by no means exaggerated."-Manchester Guardian.

Improved Pumping Machin On I is Isle, the municipal play-ground of Detroit, there is a peculiar pumping machine which was improvised for the purpose of draining the water from the canals on the island. These canals are drained and cleared of refuse each year in preparation for the skating season. Endless chains pass over these sprockets and through the box. On the chains, at atervals of 14 inches, paddles are at-ached.

Few Sales and Large Profits

The substitution of "Few sales and large profits" for the "Large sales and small profits" way of doing business in our cities is accountable, in a large measure, for the widespread in price between that which the producer receives and the consumer pays. Plainly speaking, there are too many retail merchants. In some lines of trade their numbers could be reduced more than one-half without injuring the service the consumers desire and are willing to pay a reasonable price for. There are so many retailers of foodstuffs that competition ceases to exist. The volume of trade enjoyed by each one is so small that he must charge unseemly prices to enable him to pay his rent. Not one in fifty is making more than expenses. Many are making sacrifices at home in order to keep their business out of the hands of the Many efforts have been made to trace shipments from the producer to the kitchen table of the consumer. All have resulted in practically the same conclusion. It has been learned that while transportation rates are excessively high, the amount taken by the railroads, when shipments are in car lots, accounts for only a comparatively small portion of what the consumer pays. Generally speaking, the legitimate jobber and wholesaler does not take more than his cost of doing bush ness justifies. Neither does the retailer. But when it comes to the final distribution of farm products, there are altogether too many trying to pay high rents and support families from a small volume of business. There would be more prosperous retailers if there were fewer of them.

As this condition exists in nearly all cities, the figures for the city of Dallas and other publications. may be used as a fair illustration. Within the incorporated limits of the 000 persons, or 35,000 families. There, 28. are 2,655 business concerns handling foodstuffs of one kind or another, not including the 264 drug stores, the most of which sell lunches. This is one for every 65 persons or for every 13 families of 5 each. There are 1,035 grocery stores in the city, nearly all of which sell fresh meats. In addition there are 212 markets in which meat is the leading line, but the most of which handle vegetables and fruits. Restaurants number 716, which probably accounts for the fact that the farmer who sells eggs at 20 cents a dozen, pays the restaurant man 35 cents for two along with two small strips of bacon, when he spends the day in town.

If a man starts a new business in the city and makes a dollar, and that fact becomes known, he will have, figuratively speaking, a competitor on every corner within another month. Such being the case, by what right does the city man criticize the farmer because he doubles his cotton acreage the year following one of fair prices?

Under present conditions, there are too many farmers. There are also too many distributors of farm products. There are also too many loafers and office holders. Agriculture, being the basic industry, should be the first to be placed upon a profit-paying basis. Until this is done, no other line of trade, business or profession can hope to enjoy substantial prosperity. If there were less distributors, consumers and producers both could enjoy more satisfactory prices. Farmers then would become larger buyers of those commodities which they do not produce. This would increase the demand for labor in various forms, thus adequately taking care of any surplus which might result in reducing the number who are now trying to exist from the profits of a small retail business Farm and Ranch.

State Expenditure of State Monics

Last week Farm and Ranch publishd an article by Commissioner Terrell, which bore on a matter of economicnot political_import.

There is no reason why Federal Fido and State Kitty shouldn't lie down amicably side by side, and imbibe milk from the same saucer. But of recent years Federal Fido, it is charged, has developed something of a grabbing disposition, has crowded poor kitty off to one side and has spilled a lot of the precious milk in the melee.

It would seem, on the whole, sensible for most of the taxes for State uses to go to the State treasury instead of to the National coffers. Too many Federal officers are being paid to enforce the laws of the several commonwealths. Too much Federal politics dice. The average citizen does not care how much fun the politicians have with this game, but he is intent on economy, efficiency and intelligence in the use of his annual premiums. Moreover, however fallacious his conclusion may be in fact, he has a pleasant sense of security-he holds the delusion that he may actually be of some importance in the world-when he has his money in hands within the are of his immediate influence.-Farm and Ranch.
