A DOZEN FARM BUSINESS RULES

Every farmer should know his real financial condition at least once a year and there is only one way to determine accurately our financial condition and that is to take inventory. The inventory should usually be taken the last of the year. A detailed list of all property should be made and a fair valuation put on each item. The land, livestock, implements, tools, harness, teams, personal farm property, etc., should all be listed at a fair price. The cash on hand, the amounts due him and the amounts he owes should all be itemized.

When each subsequent inventory is made the depreciation, breakage and losses of property should be carefully estimated. All property should be valued as before and the assets and liabilities at the beginning of the year. This is the only way to find out just how much we have made or lost during the year.

2. By all means have a bank account and pay all bills with checks. Money makes tracks into the bank and out of the bank. The records on the stubs of the checks and the cancelled checks are very valuable records.

3. It's a good idea to carry little blank books in the pocket at all times in which to make numerous notations.

4. Misunderstandings between farmers and between farmers and other classes of people are frequent. Verbal contracts are dangerous as they often feed the courts. Personal agreements without some kind of writing to back them up are always dangerous. Transactions that involve labor, money or material should always be put in black and white.

5. It is possible that you may be justified in accommodating a close friend by endorsing a note but never sign a note for Tom, Dick, or Harry. In fact it is foolish to even give a note to a stranger for anything or for any purpose.

6. Never send money by mail to pay debts or to friends. Money may be safely forwarded by check, draft, express money order, postoffice orders and telegraph. Bankers, postmasters, express agents, and telegraph managers will gladly furnish such information as you may require.

7. I never make an investment of any importance or engage in any new enterprise without first consulting at least one good banker. Bankers always gladly assist me in business. Of course, bankers are not infallible and they do not know everything, but their experiences and opportunities enable them to nearly always offer valuable suggestions.

8. The most important document in ordinary business transactions is the deed by which we acquire title to real estate. Deeds should always be submitted to a lawyer for his examination and approval.

9. All contracts should be reduced to writing and subscribed to by all parties to the agreement. It may be written upon a scrap of paper but it should always be reduced to writing and properly signed.

10. A will is a very important legal document. Wherever possible a lawyer should draw the will and see that it is properly signed.

11. Property is liable for any taxes which have been assessed against it which are unpaid. This being true every man before purchasing a piece of property should be sure to see that all taxes have been paid up to date.

12. Line fences cause much hard feeling and every farmer should know the law and obey it. The line fence question is regulated by law and not by what any individual considers to be justice.—G. H. Alford in the Progressive Farmer.

You Can be Relieved of This Load

Most men work hard for what they have, and therefore they should not spend it foolishly. Winter time demands added expense for clothing — but there is no reason why it should drag anyone in debt, if they will invest wisely.

We have values in our store that can be bought at a moderate price but have wearing qualities that pay twice their cost. This is the kind of purchases to invest in.

SUITS FOR MEN AND BOYS

Many practical and well appearing patterns in stock, styled along the newest lines and made to stand hard wear. Look at what we have, before you buy elsewhere.

Ready-to-Wear For Ladies

Beautiful fur-trimmed coats in all the new colors with linings in harmonizing shades. Each one can find just the one to suit her.

A complete line of ladies and misses dresses that are up to date, and made in wool, and silk materials.

Also, Sweaters, Slippers, Hose and Underwear for the ladies are in stock.

PHOENIX and HUMMING BIRD hose can't be beat in price or quality — and can be had in several different colors.

15,886,000 BALES OF COTTON

Cotton slumped $6.00 a bale when the government estimate of this year's crop was made public Monday morning. The government's estimate was 15,386,000 bales, an increase of 160,000 bales over the estimate of two years ago. With the big freeze, floods, etc., which took a toll of half million bales it was indeed a blow when the government estimators predicted an increase rather than a decrease in the report. The total ginning report of 11,898,000 bales was about in line with trade expectations. According to the government report Texas is to produce 4,100,000 bales of cotton.

REPLY TO AN ARTICLE IN OCTOBER 30 ISSUE

To The Herald:

Title: A New Religious View-point (an hungry soul seeking spiritual food and no one to feed them).

The first question. Do you suppose the time will ever come when some one will appear in Texas with a heart big enough, and a mind keen enough, and a vision broad enough, and a spirit brave enough to try to harmonize all our conflicting religious views?

Answer: No. It would be impossible to harmonize for they all have very little truth. They are in Babylon. Had they the truth they would serve God with one accord. Paul says study to show thyself approved of God. A workman that need not be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth, and it can not be understood until rightly divided, and oh, how blessed when understood. No fear, all joy (2nd Tim. 2:15.)

2nd question: Do you think the time will ever come when we will all be big enough to cast our religious prejudice out of our hearts and give true Christianity a chance to prove its value here on earth in Texas?

Answer: No. Christianity can not prove itself. It takes the world of mankind to prove it, and how can they not knowing God's word of truth. He is of the fallen Adamic race. Nor will he until God's kingdom is established on earth. That is why He taught us to pray.

Dan. 2:44, says: In the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom, which shall never be destroyed, and the kingdom shall not be left to other people. But it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms. It shall stand forever. These kingdoms referred to as to be destroyed are financial, political and ecclesiastical, and they shall teach no more every man his neighbor. (Jev. 31:33-34.)

3rd question: Do you think there is any use to hope for that day when denominationalism will get out of God's way and allow thy kingdom come on earth as it is in heaven?

Answer: No. Denominationalism will not get out of God's way. He will destroy it and all creeds. And truth will take its place. If the world knew the truth they would worship God with one accord. (Phil. 2:1-2). Instead of the shepherd feeding the sheep now, the sheep are feeding the shepherd, and the shepherd is fleecing the sheep. Dan. 2:44 as in second question and Dan 12: 1 and 4. And at that time Michael (Christ) shall stand up. (Take over the power and reign). The great prince which standeth for the children of thy people, and there shall be a time of trouble such as never was since there was a nation even to that same time, and at that time thy people shall be delivered. Every one that is found written in the book. But those Oh, Daniel, shut up the word and seal book. Even to the time of the end. Many shall run to and fro and knowledge shall be increased.

Physical facts prove to the world that we are living in that great day. The beginning of that great day. When before was such opportunities for knowledge, and more dissatisfied and worldly, running too and fro? Never was such before. Christ is destroying the devil's organization on earth. He is about to clear the ground for his kingdom upon the earth who will head, 2nd Tim. 4:3. For the time when they will not endure sound doctrine but after their own lust shall they heap to themselves teachers having itching ears (loving flattery). Again I call your attention to Mal. 2:6-7. And ye shall hear of wars and rumors of wars see that ye be not troubled for all these things must come to pass but the end is not yet.

For nation shall rise against nation (world war) and kingdom against kingdom, and there shall be famine and pestilence and earthquakes in divers places. All these are the beginning of sorrow.

God is talking to His children. Those who are consecrated to do His will even unto death, the elect. The church of the living God whose names are written in heaven. Mal. 24:21-22. For then shall be great tribulations such as was not since the beginning of the world this time no nor ever shall be and except those days should be shortened there should no flesh be saved. But for the elect sake those days shall be shortened. Are you of the elect Thy kingdom come Thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven. The devil's organization must be destroyed. Then we will have everlasting life in peace and happiness upon the earth. It was made to be inhabited Isa. 45:18; Eccl. 1:4. No more tears, no more sighing for the former things have passed away. Isa. 25:8; Rev. 7:17; 21:4.

THANKSGIVING MOTIF USED AT LOVELY ROOK PARTY

The approach of the Thanksgiving season was the inspiration for the adornment of the lovely rooms at the home of Mrs. Walter Pike on last Thursday afternoon, when she entertained the members of the Rook club in a delightful and charming manner. Colorful poinsettias and shaggy chrysanthemums gave their beauty and were used effectively throughout the rooms. At tables, where appointments were dainty and appropriate, twenty guests found their places and engaged in the series of Rook games played. Interest was high through the play, and at counting time, it was found that Mrs. L. E. Freeman had won visitors high score for the afternoon, and Mrs. E. M. LaBef and Mrs. Henry Williamson tied among the club members for top score.

The chosen theme, was further carried out at the refreshment hour, when the hostess served an unusually delicious luncheon in two courses, consisting of turkey, dressing, cranberry jelly, and other dishes appropriate at Thanksgiving.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PARTY AT CURRIE HOME THURSDAY

With the Hallowe'en note sounding in all the party features, the affair held in honor of Mrs. T. S. Currie's Sunday school class at her home on Scurry street, Thursday afternoon of last week was an especially pretty affair. The party was planned in honor of the birthday anniversary of Miss Allen Bunker, a member of the class, it being the custom to celebrate in this fashion on the birthday of any of the members. Each member brought a friend, and in a pleasing atmosphere they enjoyed various kinds of games and contests.

Delicious refreshments in two courses were served at the close of the afternoon, and each one present received a pretty favor carrying out the Hallowe'en theme, filled with delicious candies.

Those expressing delight at being present at this happily planned affair with Mrs. Currie were: Misses Pauline and Allie Lena Sullivan, Grace Hatchett, Allen Bunker, Mary Dallas Collins, Virginia Whitney, Doris Graves, Anna Mae Homan, Louise Jordan and Estelle Hutto.

LOVELY BRIDGE PARTY FOR CLUB MEMBERS

Gorgeous fall flowers, richly hued and fragrant, were prettily used in the entertaining rooms of the Joye M. Fisher home, on South Scurry St., on last Thursday afternoon, at which time Mrs. Fisher was hostess to members of the Pioneer Bridge club. The lovely home made an ideal setting for this gay affair, at which time three tables of players were guests. At counting time Mrs. Shine Phillips had made top score among the club members, and Mrs. Julian Eckhaus of LaFayette, Ind., mother of Mrs. Fisher, made visitors high score.

Unusually delicious refreshments were served at the close of play, consisting of a luncheon, served buffet style.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY WITH AN ARMISTICE PARTY

Harry Jordan was the host to a group of little friends on Wednesday morning, Armistice Day, who were invited to celebrate with him his eighth birthday anniversary. The patriotic colors of red, white and blue were featured in the decorations of the party, and each little guest wore a badge of these colors.

Various games and contests were played, at the conclusion of which the little guests were ushered into the dining room, where the birthday cake centered the table. After the candles were blown out, refreshments were served. Favors were passed to each one.

SOCIAL DANCE AT ELKS HALL SATURDAY EVENING, NOV. 7

Unusually delightful was the dance on Saturday evening, which was given at the Elks Hall, with music furnished by the Blue Melody Boys. Members of the younger and older social sets, attended this affair and a royal good time seemed to be in order. Out of town couples from Stanton, Midland and Colorado were seen on the floor.

We surely need a community charity fund for there are going to be many appeals for aid this winter. A drive for funds to meet all worthy calls should be made.

FIDELIS CLASS ENJOYS DELIGHTFUL HOSPITALITY

The Fidelis Class of the First Baptist church, with Mrs. L. S. Patterson as teacher and Mrs. Hob Everett as president was charmingly entertained at the home of Miss Spencer Leatherwood, Tuesday evening, from 8 until 11 o'clock.

From the first amusement feature of the evening, with the introduction of "Mother Goose and her Children," up to the "Funniest and Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life," interspersed with such solemnity as "The Chinese Prayer," and "Poor Kitty," not mentioning the "Fortunes of the Bottle," mirth and merriment prevailed throughout the evening, suggesting the free abandonment of reserve, such as this class enjoys on the occasions of their social gatherings.

Refreshments of hot chocolate and slices of fruit cake capped with whipped cream with cherry decorations were served to the following members and guests of this class.

STRIPLING-NEWTON

The wedding ceremony which united in marriage Hayes Stripling and Miss Florence Newton of Fredericksburg, Texas, was performed at the home of the bride's uncle, Postmaster Wilkins, at Ackerly, Texas, last Friday evening. This romance, was the culmination of a six weeks' courtship, while the young lady was at Ackerly on a visit to her uncle. Following the ceremony, the happy couple left on an auto tour through the Panhandle, returning to this city Tuesday morning, where they will be at home at 203 Gregg street.

Mr. Stripling is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Fox Stripling, and is a native Big Spring boy. He has many admirable traits of character and is held in high esteem by all who know him. He is holding a position as salesman with the Wooten Wholesale Grocery Company in this city.

Mrs. Stripling is a newcomer to our section of the state, but we welcome her to our city, where we hope she makes many new friends.

Congratulations and best wishes are extended this happy young couple.

DINNER PARTY AT HOTEL COLE

Messrs C. W. Cunningham and Shine Phillips entertained the employees of their drug stores and friends with a dinner party last Sunday noon at the Hotel Cole. In celebration of their sixth anniversary in business. The merry group assembled in the dining room at one o'clock and were served a tempting menu, of turkey and all of its accessories, in three courses.

Those present at this delightful affair were: Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Shine Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Hob Everett, Dr. and Mrs. G. S. True, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Sullivan, Mrs. Jap Bradley, Chas. Frost, Cecil Bell, Mrs. F. L. Bell, Miss Florence Free and Dr. G. T. Hall.

1922 BRIDGE CLUB GUESTS OF MISS THELMA FOX

Miss Thelma Fox was hostess to members of the 1922 Bridge Club on Saturday afternoon, when she delightfully entertained three tables of guests at bridge.

The appointments for the tables were dainty, and in the series of games, which held the players interested high, Mrs. Chas. Dublin, had the distinction of making top score of the afternoon.

Delicious refreshments, temptingly served in two courses, proved a delightful aftermath of the play.

In the last issue of the Herald we stated that the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Petty was claimed by death. It should have been the infant of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Petty. We are glad to correct this error.

Everybody must have been hunting for the "Lost World" last Monday night, judging from the crowds that besieged the Lyric theater and the number to be noted on our streets.

ROBERTS-PADGETT NUPTIALS

A very lovely wedding was solemnized at Coahoma, Texas, Sunday morning, at 9:30 when Miss Mamie Padgett became the bride of Joe Roberts Jr., with Rev. W. D. Green, officiating.

The home of the bride's parents was the scene of this affair and the rooms were effectively decorated with white wedding bells, and chrysanthemums. The bride was beautifully attired in a wedding gown of powder blue, with white fur trimmings, and with accessories in harmonizing shades. Her bridal bouquet was of chrysanthemums. Miss Annie Bell Roberts, sister of the groom, attended the bride, and Bernard Lay, attended the groom as best man. Mrs. J. G. Mathews, played the wedding march from Lohengrin. The ceremony was performed in the presence of relatives, and a few intimate friends.

Mrs. Roberts is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Padgett of Coahoma, and is well known throughout our section of the county. She was a member of the 1923 graduating class of the Big Spring High School, and attended school at Simmons University for two years. She is loved by a large circle of friends, who wish her much happiness.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Roberts of Coahoma and has made his home there for the past eighteen years. He is manager of the Holden-Morgan Grocery Co., and has many true qualities of manhood.

Following the ceremony, the happy couple left on their bridal tour.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Roberts were out of town guests at the wedding.

EPISCOPAL CLUB ORGANIZED ON WEDNESDAY EVENING

Following the special Armistice Day services at the Episcopal church on Wednesday evening, the group present was invited into the home of Rev. and Mrs. F. H. Stedman, where they were delightfully entertained. At this time an organization to be known as the Episcopal Club was perfected, and it is unique in that everyone is invited to become a member, no dues are assessed, and no denominations are barred in membership. Its purpose is to furnish a good time in a wholesome atmosphere, and meets every Wednesday at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. and Mrs. Stedman have opened the rectory for the meeting to be held and the social hour and refreshments will be in charge of certain committees each week.

The next meeting will be held at the Rectory next Wednesday evening and every one interested in becoming a member is invited to come. A cordial welcome is extended every one.

THANKSGIVING THEME USED AT DINNER PARTY FRIDAY

The favored theme of Thanksgiving time was carried out in the menu and place cards, at a dinner party on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. C. W. Cunningham, which was given in honor of the Expert Class of the Christian Endeavor of the Presbyterian Church. At a beautifully laid table, the guests found their places, and during the service of a three course dinner, a round table discussion about Christian Endeavors held sway. Plans for the year were made, and it was expressed to make this class 100 expert.

Those expressing delight at being present on this occasion were Misses Irene Knaus, Allen Bunker, Virginia Barnett, Virginia Whitney, Ruthe Miller, Frances Sullivan, Elza Jeanette Barnett, and Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Owen.

MEETING OF SUSANNA WESLEY S. S. CLASS

The Susanna Wesley class met at the home of Mrs. C. F. Morris on Wednesday. A very interesting business meeting was held and splendid reports of the work being done by the class were given.

After the business session the meeting was turned over to the hostess who had arranged unique entertainment of games and contests for the afternoon. Dainty refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. Class will meet with Mrs. Fawcett on Runnels street the first Wednesday in December.

SILVER TEA TO BE GIVEN AT THE B. C. RIX HOME

A Tea will be given by members of the Episcopal church next Friday evening, Nov. 29, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Rix on Main St. A silver offering will be taken at this entertainment. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

This entertainment is similar to the ones that have been held previously, but it is to be given at night, instead of in the afternoon, as the other ones have been. A delightful time is being planned, and it is hoped that a large crowd will be present.

THE PRICE OF COTTON

According to the Census Bureau there was consumed 15,635,674 bales of American cotton and linters from August first, 1924, to July 31, 1925. There was a carry-over of 1,160,455 bales July 31, 1925. This carry-over added to the Government estimate of the 1925 crop September 23rd of 13,930,000 bales, makes a total supply for the next twelve months of 15,090,455 bales, or 545,219 bales less than was consumed last year. Consumption is increasing at a rapid rate. The American mills alone consumed 193,942 bales more in August, 1925, than they did in August, 1924, or an increase of 25 per cent. Many can not see more than 13,000,000 bales for this crop, and some think 12,000,000 bales will be all that will be gathered. The commissioners of agriculture of the cotton producing states met in Memphis, Tenn., on September 14, and tabulated their estimates, which was 12,937,000 bales. It will be remembered that these commissioners have the best opportunity and are the best informed men we have on crop conditions, and their late estimate is nearly 1,000,000 bales less than that of the government. West Texas is advertised as having a bumper crop, but it is very spotted. Some parts have a fair crop while others are almost a complete failure. Where is the increasing demand going to get its supply for another twelve months? But if we produce as much this or any other year as the world needs, why give it away? Public opinion, the strongest power in this country, thinks this crop of cotton is selling entirely too cheap. Many farmers who thus believe are holding their entire crop for higher prices. Commissioner Terrell estimates one-third is being held. Banks are in good shape to make advances on cotton so it can be held off the market. Under supply and demand conditions, if only five or ten per cent of this crop was held off the market for some united price, say 30 cents, and it publically known, that price would be reached in a few months. If 25 per cent was thus held the price would reach 30 cents in a few weeks, the more there is withdrawn the quicker the desired results.—Cotton Protective League.

IN THE NORTH WARD DISTRICT

The grounds of our North Ward school are quite well kept. Evidently teachers and students were both interested in the Clean-up Campaign to judge from the neat surroundings. Also the North Ward reports on the activities of pupils were encouraging.

Topographically, this part of town is at great disadvantage. But the past few years have seen many improvements. Quite a number of well kept yards showed creditable civic pride, the North Ward had not responded so well to the request of the City Federation to make a general clean-up as the other two larger districts. One thing that deserves extra mention was the extremely neat and well kept appearance of the many Mexican premises. No matter how small the yards they are quite neat, and most of them were bright with flowers.

On the whole Big Spring presents a much tidier appearance than it did during the summer. We feel sure that much real foundation work has been accomplished by the teachers of all our schools in inculcating more of pride and interest in their surroundings in the minds of their many pupils.

Mrs. Edwards also read Longfellow's poem on Angelo.

The next meeting will be Nov. 24 and the subject will be "The Old Masters" (continued): Raphael, Correggio, Titian.

General discussion: For which of the "great five" do you care most and why?

NOTICE IN PROBATE

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Howard County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to cause to be published once each week for a period of ten days before the return day hereof, in a newspaper of general circulation, which has been continuously and regularly published for a period of not less than one year in said Howard county, a copy of the following notice:

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To all persons interested in the estate of W. H. Davis, Deceased, W. E. Patterson has filed an application in the County Court of Howard County, on the 26 day of September, 1925, for Temporary Administrator and was duly appointed temporary administrator on the 9th day of October 1925, and that if such appointment is not contested at the next regular term, then the same shall become permanent, which said application will be heard by said Court on the 7th day of December, 1925, at the Court House of said County, in Big Spring, Texas, at which time all persons interested in said Estate are required to appear and answer said application, should they desire to do so.

Herein fail not, but have you before said Court, on the first day of the next term thereof, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness my hand and official seal, at Big Spring, Texas, this 9 day of October 1925.

J. I. PRICHARD, Clerk, County Court, Howard County, Texas.

FARMERS URGED TO STOP COTTON SALES

Austin, Tex., Nov. 11.—Texas growers "have everything to gain and nothing to lose by stopping sale of their cotton for 20 or 30 days," George B. Terrell, Agricultural Commissioner said Tuesday. He predicted "Good cotton" within that period would command a premium. His statement follows:

"The government crop report made public Tuesday, together with the two previous reports has caused a break in the cotton market of about $30 a bale, or a loss on the total crop amounting to more than $400,000,000.

"A good cotton crop has been produced in nearly all the states, and it is evident that more than 14,000,000 bales have been produced, but it is extremely doubtful whether that much marketable cotton will be gathered because of the recent overflows and floods in nearly every part of the cotton belt.

"People should not be penalized for producing a good crop when the world is clamoring for cotton and can use 15,000,000 bales of American cotton. There will not be that much spinable cotton produced in the south and the price should have held firm around 25 cents.

"Good cotton will command a premium, and such cotton should not be sold on a declining or unsteady market.

"The December ginning report will indicate what the total production will be and the owners of good cotton will profit by stopping the sale of cotton entirely until the December report is issued which will undoubtedly show less than 15,000,000 bales and corresponding advance in price. The owners of good cotton have everything to gain and nothing to lose by stopping sale of cotton for 20 or 30 days."

It is truly amazing that the people of the U. S. stand for the stuff the cotton gamblers pull off. The little fellow is hounded because he risks losing or winning a small amount with dice or cards but Wall Street gamblers can manipulate the cotton market as the crooked gamblers operated the fixed gambling devices and rob the poor dupes of hundreds of millions of dollars each year. They not only rob the suckers but they manage to rob the producers of cotton by beating down the price until the cotton is out of the farmers hands. There is no more reason for the price of cotton to fluctuate from day to day than there is for the price of coal, wood, dry goods and groceries to do so.

ON THE JOB, BOY
 The job, boy, and master are the things that mechanical things have given to the world, as it's long until just the ordinary work hand is going to hold on the shelf. It's just time until even the farm has to be the master of the gasoline motor, put down a McCormick understand all the intricacies of the tractor. Yes, the plow stock, the bull-plow, walking harrow and cotton planter is doomed.
 You have got to learn a new way to harness an overboard and hitch it to a machine; not so much muscular strength as of brain power, boy, mixt with your daily endeavor to think! think! and think! the forces of nature are your servants, to do bidding. Speed is the motto of the age; break your mother's strings; get out of the chimney and quit your making peg whittling on briar root pipes, horse ar-handles and hand-saw blades; but rather get the mechanical bird and play with the stars; give the River a run, get in the iron-clad pilot of a merchant freighter, open markets and blaze out new lanes; live in the realm of invention; think out a new machine; think it to a bunch of gang and break up the plantation for about holes through mountain ranges and tie continents together; don't sit down and about the drouth and short but occupy the office of rain dam the rivers, stop the deserts, irrigate the deserts and them blossom like the Valley of the Nile. Hurry up boy, and get the job, it's your choosing you live in a hovel or castle; move on yourself, else the fellow will beat you on the opportunities are falling fast, in all history was there such a time for men, cunning fingers, nations of the earth are looking for a man who can kill the tuberculosis cancer germs, therefore, you up a laboratory, for some-imprisoned in Nature there's a lotion, go find it boy, and will write immortality on your skin. We said hurry up boy, don't you get it into your head that all the big jobs have been taken; all the big fortunes have been made, and all the new discoveries have been worked to a finish, my, my, boy, rub your eyes and focus your vision, the seas have not been fathomed, neither has the earth been scratched; radio, telephone, airplane, wireless telegraphy, electricity are just some crude tools that the gods have lent us with which to unlock the door to the temple of real knowledge, and then, O God, wonder of wonders. The State and the Nation needs a man who can solve this political riddle, and say boy, God is looking for a preacher who can preach His gospel in its purity, keep his fingers off of dirty gold; but rather let the grace of God be your weapon for the salvation of men, instead of politics and statutory laws. Lots of big jobs waiting for you, boy. Get you a sledge hammer and batter the door down.—Albany News.

PAY UP YOUR SUBSCRIPTION
 One of these days you will receive a notice that your subscription to the Herald has expired, since this is about the time of year that many of our subscriptions fall due, and when you receive this notice, we will appreciate it very much if you will remit promptly. This $2.00 may not mean much to you, but we have over a hundred back subscriptions, that if paid, would mean a whole lot to us.
 We do not cut off your paper, when your subscription runs out, but many times we carry them over, waiting until it is convenient for you to pay us.
 In many cases forgetfulness or procrastination is the cause of a bill not being paid, so these notices that we send out are just to remind you that two dollars is due. Upon receipt of the second notice that your paper has expired we will take it for granted that you do not wish to take the Herald any longer, unless you remit, or notify us that you do want it, and we will take your name off our mailing list.

 "Yes," he exclaimed dramatically,
 "It was in the dead of night. Outside was a roving elephant bent on destruction. I crept out and shot it dead in my pajamas."
 "But, colonel, how did the thing get into your pajamas?" drawled one of his listeners.—London Weekly

BALDERDASH
 Paris News: And now the medical students of the University of Pennsylvania are trying to find an elixir for bald heads in the fat of a horse's neck. They say there never was a bald-headed horse. Why not try an elixir from Mary's little lamb?

It was said, probably by a bald-headed man, that when the hair begins to shed from the scalp like leaves from the trees, it shows that the brain is maturing. If this is the way it is, some brains never mature.
 We are not talking about the ladies, who are seldom or never bald, that anybody knows of, but about men who live long lives and die with their thatches thick upon them. Instead of looking for an elixir of life for hair, the medical students at Pennsylvania University ought to search for some way to beautify scalps which are objects of circumdenation. Finding a way to make plain scalps decorative will be to advance the happiness of bald men, who are usually taxpayers, therefore entitled to consideration. A bald head for example, that looked like a sunburnt would be gratifying to the owner and a pride to his family. Or a bald head that looked like a ponderosa rose would be fine and desirable. It ought to be within the range of science to accomplish this.
 Science claims to be progressive, but its tendency is to fritter too much time away on unimportant objects.
 Einstein spent any number of years in figuring out the variations of light reaches, calculating minutely the arcs induced by stellar attraction. Yet his discoveries have affected nothing more serious than astronomical controversy. Many scientists are like that. They grow on abstractions until they grow bald-headed themselves, and finally die without having done anything to be remembered for. Let one of them desist from theoretical labors and invent a beauty parlor that can do something for bald-headed persons.

DANDRUFF CAUSES THE HAIR TO FALL OUT—AND THE HEAD TO BECOME BALD Dandruff is a germ disease and known as a scaly form of Tetter or Eczema. This microbe lives on the oily substance of the skin and robs the hair of its proper nourishment, causing it to fall out and the head to become bald. Get rid of dandruff before it is too late. Wash the scalp well with hot water and soap, dry with a soft towel and apply Hooper's Tetter-Rem (Don't Scratch), rubbing it in well. Then steam the head with hot towels. Ask your barber for Hooper's Tetter-Rem scalp treatments. Hooper's Tetter-Rem is positively guaranteed for all scalp and skin diseases. Two sizes, 75c and $1.50. Sold and guaranteed by CUNNINGHAM & PHILIPS

BETTERMENT Railroads entering Dallas plan to spend eight million dollars on betterments in that city during the coming year, according to a news item dated Dallas. The Texas & Pacific will spend $1,250,000 on terminals, while the Sunset lines and the Santa Fe also plan large expenditures. Abilene could do with a little improvement in the local railroad yards. For instance, it would be a big improvement to the beauty of the town and the safety of the public if the Texas & Pacific would remove every track west of Pine street, except the mainline. Water towers also should be removed from the vicinity of the passenger station, and bring to an end the blocking of crossings by trains. The road has shown a disposition to cooperate with the towns it serves in years past, and perhaps something could be done to better local conditions if a concerted effort were made.—Abilene Reporter. Big Spring could also stand a little cooperation from the railroad company in the way of installing improvements. The matter of filling in around the depot so passengers would not have to wade thru mud during rainy spells in order to go to and from passenger trains. Adding a light or two to the east of the passenger station so passengers may not break a leg or a neck in walking over tracks and switches before they reach the depot. Cutting the weeds and deepening the ditch along the northside of the railroad tracks to prevent stagnant water serving as breeding places for mosquitoes are improvements that would be welcomed. A crossing west of the T. & P. railway shops so that cattle could be landed at the stockpens. Stockmen south of Big Spring say they will go to other shipping points before they will try to drive their herds thru the city to reach the only available railroad crossing leading to the loading pens.

WEDNESDAY LUNCHEON CLUB The Wednesday Luncheon Club met Thursday and carried out an Armistice Day program, with W. W. Rix as toastmaster. After the introduction of visitors, the outstanding committees were called upon for a report. James Wilson reported having received from Highway Commissioner Joe Burkett, a letter of appreciation for the club's endorsement of the work on the highways in our county. S. H. Hall reported that the road out to the Lomax community had been granted and work on same was to start shortly after January 1st. W. W. Rix was then told to take charge. He explained that the Armistice day program planned for Wednesday had been postponed because many members could not attend Wednesday but that it was not too late to show that we had not forgotten those who met the great test eight years ago. He said it was fitting that business men pause in their hurry and rush to pay this tribute to those who had passed on or had gone thru hardship and suffering for the safety of the world. He explained that Judge James T. Brooks had been scheduled to make the Armistice day address but had been called out of the city and S. H. Morrison had been drafted for this task. After pleading that it was presumptuous of him to attempt to fill the shoes of a real soldier and patriot, Mr. Morrison, started in on the story of the United States and made one of the finest talks you ever heard. He pointed out that on down thru the years, and in nearly every generation since 1776 there was a war to test the heart and soul of our people and in not a single instance did they falter. He said with such a heritage it was no wonder that the flower of our land were so ready to make the great sacrifice to preserve the peace and welfare of the human race when the world war brought the crisis. We can never repay them for their trials and hardships but we can reverence and honor them and this we ever will do. With all standing, and with Howard E. Goodpaster as leader, the members sang America. All standing and holding aloft a flag, Chairman Rix, recited a beautiful ode to the flag. This was followed by the membership repeating the American Legion's Pledge to the flag, with Homer McNew as leader. To carry out the Armistice Day feature, a large flag occupied a place at the head of the table and a small flag was displayed at each plate. In closing Mr. Rix announced that R. Q. Lee, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, would deliver an important address in our city Saturday, Nov. 21, and urged all who could to hear him. He said a committee would be around to see

LETTER REGARDING OUR STATE PARK

San Antonio, Texas, Nov. 5, 1925.
Mrs. J. I. McDowell,
700 Scurry Street,
Big Spring, Texas,
Dear Mrs. McDowell:

We are just in receipt of yours of the 3rd, with reference to the Park movements, that are going on, in different parts of the State. The local people, in a number of communities, where the parks have been donated, have raised sufficient funds to clean up the parks, put them in shape, and make them ready for use. The State is not doing anything at all, so far, under the new administration. We had a bunch of trusty convicts, from the State penitentiary, that we were using in preparing the parks for service, but the Prison Commission claims that they couldn't spare any of the men, for this work, until the present crop was made and gathered. On account of so many convicts being pardoned, they didn't have enough to cultivate and gather the crops.

The Legislature failed to make any appropriations for the parks, and so we just had to abandon the park work, temporarily. There doesn't seem to be any question, but what there will be a special session of the Legislature in January or February, and we have the assurance, from the Governor, that our Park bill will be submitted, and they will use their best efforts to secure the necessary appropriations, to carry on the park work, and we have every reason to believe that this promise will be carried out. The Governor invited the National Conference on State Parks, to hold their annual conference, next year, in Texas, as per copy herewith enclosed.

We are asking the State Federation, at the Convention at Austin, next week, to O. K. the park bill, as one of their bills, to be fostered in any call or regular session of the Legislature, and we have every reason to believe that this will be done, without any opposition. The Federation has been standing by our program ever since we started it, and most of the district clubs passed resolutions of indorsement last spring and summer. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce is throwing their support to us, and also some 50 or 60 smaller organizations. We know that anything that the State Federation and West Texas Chamber of Commerce fosters, will be put over.

As to the critics, we expect to find plenty of them everywhere. Even if the parks are cleaned up, necessary buildings, water, bathing facilities, and in fact, everything that it needed, has been done, you will still find people in Big Spring, as well as all other towns, will say that it wasn't properly done, and your club didn't get its money worth. The State paid too much for what it got, besides 4 or 5 other excuses. We are used to those things, and if always comes from the people who pay the least, or nothing at all, and those who don't know anything about it, and don't care to know. On the other hand, they are an asset to the community, because they make those of us who are doing things, try to do it a little better and a little more economical, and so they are not altogether undesirable burdens, after all.

Personally, I don't believe that your Federation can have spent $2,000.00 in any other way that could bring half the good to Big Spring, than this park will bring. It is going to be one of the most attractive propositions in all West Texas, and it is going to be the cause of a large number of tourists coming by Big Spring on their way to El Paso and California.

The present condition of the Glacier to Gulf Motorway to Big Spring, and the Bankhead to El Paso, makes this route about seven hours shorter running time, than the Old Spanish Trail.

We have every reason to believe that your park will bring you more tourist business, every year than $5,000 spent for publicity, so it is bound to be a good investment, and in addition to this, the local benefits will be worth a great deal more to the town, than the cost would be.

Hoping that you will be able to attend the convention next week, and lend your support to the Park Board. I am

Yours very truly,
Texas State Parks Board,
D. E. Colp, Chairman.

If we are going to produce between fifteen and sixteen million bales of cotton in spite of drought, floods, hail storms, freezes, frosts, boll weevils, boll worms, fleas, lice and other drawbacks how many bales would have been produced had this been a favorable crop year. Though the world needs a 15,000,000 bale crop the price has dropped about $30 per bale because the government crop estimators guess we are going to make about 150,000 bales more than is needed. You can surely look for 10, or 15-cent cotton if a big acreage is planted next year.

A PRAYER SERVICE NEEDED

We heard a story a few days ago that carries a fine moral, a moral we'd like to see a number of our readers around Seminole heed. It was about a preacher who said at the close of his sermon. "Let all in the house who are paying their debts stand up." Everybody in the church, with the exception of one man, stood up. The preacher seated them, and then said: "Now let everybody who is not paying his debts stand up." Then the one man who had remained seated, a care-worn fellow, wearing last spring's suit, slowly arose to his feet. "How is it, my friend, that you are the only one in town unable to meet your obligations?" asked the preacher. And the man replied: "I run a newspaper, and the brethren who stood up are all my subscribers and haven't settled for their subscriptions." And the preacher hurriedly said: "Let us pray."--Seminole Sentinel.

The Transportation of Stomachs

By CHARLES E. MIXER

MY DEAR EDITOR:
Since your departure for elsewhere with your bonny bride, some two years ago our correspondence has been of the ebullient and fever sort, I fur-nishing the ebullient and you the fever, intermittent at that.

It was about this same time a year ago that that arch-enemy of man's comfort, dyspepsia, laid his grip on me and may the plague take him, continued to tighten it. I resorted, of course, to our friends the doctors—of whom I had many, and many of whom you know—too many, no doubt, and too often, and the help I got was nil.

Well, one evening I sat warming my shins before the open fire, dreaming of what might have happened had I married Ethel, as you urged. As I mused my great idea grew and flourished in my mind. As you have destined yourself for the noble profession of medicine, I at once made you confidant in the creation of my brain, and now you will, no doubt, be interested to learn the details of its results. If you have not already heard of them, my idea was no less than the transportation or exchange of stomachs, in which I saw a hope for a new and healthy existence in my old role of gourmet. To carry out my thought I needed the help of one we both knew, the distinguished surgeon, Doctor Dickson, and of another person, whom we did not know. You will know of the doctor's wonderful operations, and I knew him to be the very man for this one, if such existed. I found him, and with considerable diffidence communicated my scheme. Before I had fairly finished he jumped to his feet and exclaimed: "By Jove! I believe it possible; but how can you find the other man?" I admitted that this might be difficult, but thought I knew a suitable subject. "See him," he said, "see him, and if he will consent, I will."

You know that before I retired from business, with enough to last several lifetimes, I was president of the Island Sound Steamship company. Among the passengers I knew one Jerry Kelly, a scrapping, robust, rosy-checked fellow. I knew him quite well as I had often given him odd jobs when the boats were not in. I sent for him, as I had something for him to do. I had him shown into the dining room, where the sideboard displayed a fine joint of beef, some cold cutlets, and a few other things. "Have you had supper, Jerry?" "I believe I have, sor," he said. "You believe you have? Well, suppose you tuck in this, and then say you know you have."

"With great pleasure, sor." The wax he closed with that beef would have made a reputation for a tackle on a college eleven and I, looking on, green with envy, said: "Have you a big appetite, Jerry?" "So big, sor, that I niver saw the end of it."

"Is it always with you, Jerry?" "I niver yet lost sight of it," he mumbled, with his great mouth full of beef.

"Just one more question, Jerry. Do you ever have a feeling of distress after your meals?"

"Yis, sor; I do that, for it's the big meals I like, and it's the small ones I do be gettin' some days; it's after them that I have that same feeling of distress that there wasn't more of it."

"I reckon you are sound, Jerry, in stomach and wit. Don't spare the beef, for I have a big job for you to consider, and no mistake."

"What is it, sor?" he asked.

"Well, Jerry, you have a fine stomach, and I haven't. I have plenty of money, and you haven't. I propose to exchange."

"Aw, don't be joshin' me, sor!" said he.

And then I told him of the wonderful things Doctor Dickson had done. Would you believe it? He seemed to fall in with my idea.

"It's a risky job when all's said, and what is it worth, sor?"

"Twenty-five thousand," said I.

"Whew!" said he, "and how about Nora and the children, if—"

"Jerry," said I, "here it is; before we start with the doctor I make my will, in which I leave you twenty-five thousand dollars in case I go; if I live, I pay it to you; if you go, I pay it to Nora; do you see?"

"Faith I do, sor, and for the sake of Nora and the kids, and your faith in your big doctor, begorra I'll try it, so I will."

Well, when the doctor heard all this he was game, and carried out his part at the Park hospital before a select few of the profession. As to the result—well, I am writing this and shall soon resume my role as gourmet.

Jerry is also all right all round, though he says he has no appetite, poor chap, and is cheerful as a sparrow. No wonder, from his standpoint, for, attend to this! Directly he got about he went to a friend of his, even tougher than he was, and succeeded in driving the same identical bargain with him for five thousand! So, if all goes well, Jerry will have a better stomach than he ever had, and twenty thousand dollars in the bank. What will eventually become of my old stomach, I can't at present tell; perhaps I may be able to inform you later.

Mystery of the Severed Hand

By M. E. DATCHELDER

IT WAS at the beginning of a new administration at Washington, rumors were afloat that attempts had been made upon the lives of some of the highest government officials, and the police were on the alert. Then it was that the whole secret service of that city was thrown into a violent commotion by a mystery so baffling that scores of skilled men and women who worked as detectives in citizens' dress, were unable to get at the bottom of it.

Because the entire secret service was unable to ferret out the mystery the facts have never until this time been made known, and not even now would they appear in print were it not for a combination of circumstances almost as unnatural and as unreal as the crime itself.

One morning in the early winter there was a startling rumor that a gardener employed in the Botanic grounds had found a woman's hand in a barrel of water which had been placed in the sun-line for the benefit of his plants. Located at the first news by the man, he ran to the nearest police station and told his strange story, without taking time to remove his working apron. An officer accompanied him back to his green-house and secured the mutilated member.

It was evidently the hand of a young lady of great delicacy and refinement, not too small, but beautifully formed, with delicate vein-tracing, perfect lines, and long, tapering fingers, with exquisite shell-like nails, once pink and rosy, but now cold and almost as white as Parian marble.

The members of the secret service had followed up every clue, but each had proven futile when sifted to the bottom.

There was, however, one link which might form a part of the mysterious chain; but this link was now missing. A few days preceding the finding of the hand, several testified to having seen a young lady walking early one evening in one of the small out-of-the-way parks of the city. She was described as tall and graceful, modestly but fashionably dressed, and at one time she drew off her glove as it was noticed that she had a remarkably beautiful hand. She had been found in the park by a tall, dark, foreign-looking man, who, after a short conversation, left her. From that evening no trace of the man or the woman could be found.

After weeks of labor, the police were compelled to give up the case, and reluctantly admit themselves defeated. Finally "The Mystery of the Severed Hand," as it had grown to be known in police circles, was almost forgotten save by the old gardener, who always afterward examined the contents of his orchid barrel.

A German woman lay dying in one of the wards of the charity hospital. As the end approached, her mind seemed troubled and she sent for a clergyman, who, on reaching her bedside, heard from her lips this strange confession:

"I was born in Germany. As a child I attended school, and when old enough went out to service. One day I went to a fortune teller who was in the village where I lived, and a secret which she told me led me, years afterward, to commit a dreadful crime. When my parents died I came to this country, where I worked in several families. Some years ago I entered the household of a wealthy Washington family where there was only one daughter, a beautiful girl, scarcely eighteen years of age. My duties were those of maid and companion to this young girl. We grew to be fond of each other, so that she confided in me more, perhaps, than in her own mother."

"One night after she had returned from a reception at one of the foreign legations, she told me she had discovered that the man to whom she was engaged to be married had a wife in Spain. She had met him several times secretly, and had grown to love and trust him. She took on awfully, and wished many times that she was dead. A few days afterward her wish was realized, for one morning we found her dead in her bed. She had taken an overdose of sleeping powder, which I carelessly left in her room. I alone was permitted to prepare the beautiful dead for the grave."

"About this time a little niece of mine came to this country with her mother, my only sister. She was a bright, interesting child, and would have been beautiful but for a terrible birthmark on the side of her face."

"When I looked at this child there came to me the secret which the fortune teller had confided to me long before—a charm which, it was said among the workers in the Black Art, would remove just such a mark as was on my niece's face. I must have brooded over it until my brain became feverish and my thoughts inhuman."

"It was I who cut off the hand found in the Botanic grounds, believing that the blood of an innocent young girl, applied nine times at midnight, would remove the ugly birthmark."

The Needed Word

"Nothing my father and mother could say would induce me to marry Chester Tallboys; but—h'm!"

Our fair young heroine was confiding in her dearest friend. "It would require only a few words from Chester himself to persuade me."

SCHOOL SHOULD TEACH CHILD HOW TO LIVE

Heretofore I have expressed my doubts as to the value of the recent educational survey. I still am somewhat skeptical as to its lasting results even if its essential recommendations are put in force, for many of them are not practical, idealistic and visionary. Yet, there is one in the volume on the course of study in the common schools which I have always stood for, which the survey stresses and urges to be put in force in the grades at least. I never did believe that the chief aim in school work in the grades was to make preparation for adult life, but rather to learn how to live, to grow and to become a well-rounded physical and mental boy or girl. If this is well done for the youths, life's preparation will take care of itself.

The yearnings of the youth are for the present, not for the future; now, today, is about all he is really concerned in and cares but little for adult life or adult occupations, Good physical health, sane habits, social adjustment to his surroundings and a joyous and happy childhood are greater boons to him than all the schemes to prepare for adult life.

Let him learn to live now, to be considerate, obedient, learn to work and economize and to fully appreciate present opportunities; to grow year by year to his full capacity, physically and mentally. If this is well done for him at home and in school he will take care of after life and will not fall.

The course of study suggested by the survey stresses this cultured side of life of the youth and frowns on so much cramming with unrelated stuff and so-called preparation for adult life. To use a common term, learn in youth for learning's sake. Stress the cultured side of his nature and less about money-making and ambitious worldly fame. If the suggestions of the survey concerning the course of study in the grades are carried out well, they alone will have made the educational survey worth while.—D. B. Smith, in Dallas News.

POTLUCKER VERSUS BOOTLEG LIQUOR

In our boyhood days on the farm the most delicious dish that we remember was potlicker with corn-bread crumbed in it. Every farmer had his patch of turnip greens and his table was supplied with turnips, greens, and potlicker, and while this liquor was entirely different from the modern popular bootleg liquor, it seems to us that it answered the necessary needs of life better than the modern stuff, and we are sure that it did not raise as much hell in the neighborhood as the other kind does.

Now, the question arises, why not establish a school or department of government, headed by experts in dietetics to teach the use and value of more potlicker in lieu of bootleg liquor? We have government experts to pass on all other questions, and pay for them at State expense, and surely the question of the right kind of liquor to use is of paramount importance at this time, as it means so much to the wealth, health and happiness of the people.

Now come on with your suggestions, criticisms and interpretations of this potlicker paragraph.—State's Marketing Bulletin.

Make Friends For Texas

Phebe K. Warner

A few days ago I was standing in the lobby of a big office building in a northern city. A friend and I had taken refuge there from the snow storm while we waited for the street car. The door opened and in stepped a man to whom I was introduced by my friend.

"From Texas! Well, Well! Way down there." And with his next breath he said, "Do you happen to live any where near Tulla? They tell me land's worth a $100 an acre down around Tulla now. But there wasn't much around there when I saw it. Don't seem possible. Oh, that was about 1904 or a little better. I never dreamed it would settle up so fast. It was beautiful and I liked what I saw of Texas. But I think the next time I go to Texas I'll go about five hundred miles further on."

"You mean a thousand miles further on don't you?"

"That's it. The Rio Grande Valley. I want to go there when I start out again. I want to see what that part of the State looks like and learn the truth about it. Must be wonderful from what folks say."

By that time the street car had arrived; yes, they still run street cars in those towns but they have an awful time to keep out of the way of the automobiles.

A few days later I met an old school friend of years ago. "Well, well! Still down in that God forsaken country are you? Nah, I wouldn't have a farm down there if somebody would give it to me. I dropped my wad down in that Rio Grande Valley. Nobody needn't tell me about the glories of the Rio Grande. I know all about them."

Next day I was waiting at the depot for a belated train. The ticket agent took pity on me and invited me into the office where there was a fire. The thermometer had registered 7 above 0 the morning before. Yes it was October. And the snow was about two inches deep, coldest it had been in October since 1869 so the old timers said, and the atmosphere was still rather snappy.

"I understand you are from Texas? Do you happen to know anything about the country down around Friona? Yes I was down there about 1919 but I guess things have changed since then. I've often wondered how that country turned out. Yes, I went down on one of those home seekers' excursions. Wasn't anything there then but a box car and some kind of a little eating house. Somebody got us in an automobile and stepped on the gas and we went away out somewhere I don't know where, don't even remember the direction. But I thought I never saw such beautiful land. But when those fellows wanted me to sign up for a section or two at $20.00 an acre away off there from nowhere I just wouldn't sign. But I've often wondered how things came out down that way. One of my friends bought a whole section of that land. Then he bought a tractor and shipped it down there and mugged around a few years. But he didn't know how to farm down there, so he fooled around a while, lost all he had because he couldn't raise enough to pay his interest and notes on the whole section. Of course he's cursed the country ever since. But I never blamed the country for his loss. He just went in too deep, thinking he'd get rich quick. Hadn't any notion of going down there to stay any way. Yes, we fellows around the depots hear a lot about these new countries. Just now we sell more tickets to Florida than any where else. I suppose they will be coming back from there in the spring."

A few days later I met a sure enough real estate man. He had been in the business ever since he was a boy, and hadn't starved in the business either. And he began to tell me about one of his renters who got the Rio Grande Valley fever. "Pulled up stakes and went down there and bought 160 acres of land. Paid $350 an acre for it. Raw land with the brush still on it, and that fellow couldn't raise enough stuff to pay the interest on his notes. So he lost every thing and is wandering around some where in Missouri now, a hopeless man."

It now seemed time to take the floor in defense of my country. "I'm not the least surprised at this story. And what's more I believe every word of it. I've heard the same tale of woe hundreds of times. And if you had time to go about over the country you would probably find thousands of others in the same fix. But that's no proof there is anything wrong with Texas, the Panhandle, the Rio Grande Valley, the South Plains, or any other part of the State. Just how many people ever came to Illinois or any other state in an early day and paid $350 an acre for land and came out even on it." The trouble is with the buyer and the seller, and not the country. Too often neither one has any interest in the country. Both trying to get rich by fooling the other fellow. Not always but too often. And it is this kind of business that has held our country back a generation or more.

What Texas needs today more than any thing else is honest friends. Friends who have not been deceived in any way. Friends who will broadcast her good qualities to the world from every railroad station and every lobby where people meet and ask about Texas. But you can't make friends for any body or any cause by deceiving people. And you do not always have to tell a lie to deceive a person. More people have been robbed in Texas by not telling all the truth than by over estimating the truth. You don't have to over estimate the truth in West Texas, East Texas, the Rio Grande Valley or any where else. The truth is good enough for any body. But when you lead a man to think he can get rich in a few weeks and never come here to do any real down right work, just sit around until some body else raises the price of his land for him, it is rather risky business although a great many have made money that way. But they haven't been of much value to the country. And one of the worst things we can do for our big new country is to have a lot of knockers scattered around all over creation.

HUGE POTASH DEPOSITS OF TEXAS AWAIT DEVELOPMENT

Something like a year or more ago the Chronicle dealt editorially at some length with the question of the desirability of developing the potash deposits of Texas.

It is only in the comparatively recent past that the existence of valuable deposits of the potash of commerce has been conclusively established.

It is scarcely necessary to say that potash is one of the most important products of the earth; indeed, it is one of the essentials in the economic and agricultural life of the nation.

Before the last great war we were dependent on Germany for our supply of potash, and notwithstanding Hon. Edward Atkinson, one of the most distinguished and practical of political economists, had 20 years before warned the people of the United States against the danger of the supply being cut off, they made no preparation for such a contingency and, in consequence, the prediction of Mr. Atkinson was tragically fulfilled.

Potash is the chief constituent of the fertilizers which are in almost universal use and, necessarily and inevitably, the use of fertilizers must constantly and steadily increase. The use of fertilizers is practically universal in the north-eastern, southeastern and middle-southern states, and their use is rapidly increasing in Texas.

The department of the interior has made tests of the Santa Rita well No. 1, in Reagan county, and cuttings taken from 1495 to 1415 feet show a yield of 9.27 per cent of potash, equivalent to 11.45 per cent of soluble salts. Further tests in wells Nos. 2 and 3 confirm the results in well No. 1.

Before the war of 1914-18 this country imported 270,000 short tons of pure potash, 93 per cent of which was used in fertilizers, and just in proportion as farming becomes intensive and reduced areas are used to produce larger crops will there be an increase in the use of fertilizers.

Dr. J. A. Udden, a Texas geologist, has found potash which will compete with German potash, because, like the latter product, it does not have to be refined or treated by expensive processes. It is like the potash which comes from the Strassfurt deposit, which is pure salts.

Dr. Charles W. Dabney, a Houston geologist, says the geological condition in Western Texas and Southeast New Mexico resembles those of the Strassfurt region and that as to the supply there need be no apprehension. The salt bed is known to be very thick and to extend for at least 650 miles from north to south, from Central Kansas through Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas, to the Pecos river valley, and to average from 150 to 200 miles from east to west, and where such vast deposits of salt are found potash must also exist.

Samples taken in Texas have frequently yielded 9 per cent potash, and selected pieces have yielded as much as 25 per cent in the soluble salt, which is richer than the average of German salts.

A bill sponsored by Senator Shepard appropriating $500,000 for each of the five years to explore and develop the potash will come up before the next session of Congress.

LET'S PREACH AND PRACTICE MORE "WINTER FARMING"

As was said in last week's Progressive Farmer, our farmers all over Dixie must do more "winter farming." That is to say, instead of depending on summer seasons and the often inadequate summer moisture to grow our food, feed, and money crops, we must begin to utilize the always plentiful winter moisture and the opportunity for growth which our mild Southern climate offers to the hardy crops in late fall, in winter, and in early spring. We must have crops growing from October to April as well as from April to October. More grain crops and "cover crops" of clover, rye, vetch, etc., must be used. "Green fields in winter are the sign of a good farmer," should become as much a proverb as "A dry June makes a good crop year." As Mr. Melver Williamson says, feed is one of the most serious items of expense in farming and our feed crops should be largely grown in winter. "More winter farming" needs to be taken up by agricultural leaders and preachers in season and out of season just as "diversified farming" and "crop rotation" have been preached. The truth is that winter farming offers about the best opportunity for getting both the crop diversification and the crop rotation that we so much need.—The Progressive Farmer.

THANKSGIVING PROGRAM

TO BE GIVEN AT Y.M.C.A.

A delightful program of songs, readings, vocal and instrumental selections will be given at the Y. M. C. A. on Thanksgiving evening, Nov. 26 the proceeds from which will go to the Gymnasium fund. At the conclusion of the program, the boys of the gym classes will give a demonstration of some of the work they are doing, and when we see what they have done without the needed apparatus, and are made to realize how much to their advantage it would be to have this much needed equipment, we will give them our undivided support to help them raise funds to secure it.

The price of admission will be twenty-five cents, and since the sum goes to aid your boys, why not come out in great numbers and help this worthy cause. Unless we boost the young fellows, while they are still young, what will they amount to when they reach manhood?

Do not forget the hour, time and place, and be there.

Where—At the Y. M. C. A.
When—Thanksgiving evening at 7:30.

What—A delightful program, followed by gymnasium demonstration.

Price—Twenty-five cents.

Keep your eyes RIGHT. People come to us for 50 and 60 miles around. There's a reason. We give you the BEST at the LOWEST price.

"Kootchie Put Buttons to Sleep"

By HAROLD KINSABLY

(Copyright.)

THE east wind had failed to put in an appearance that evening, and the thermometer registered 95 under the stately elms of the Boston common.

The family had gone away for the summer, and Buttons and the butler were out for an airing.

Buttons was a sleek, fat pug, with a knowing eye and oily manner. They called him Buttons because the harness he wore about his forequarters was studded with shining ornaments.

As the two strolled proudly through the Beacon street mall fate favored Buttons and the butler. There was a cat on the common—a pet cat without an escort. This cat belonged to one of the wealthy families who at the tail end of winter board up their city residences and go to the country to spend the summer and save their taxes. The owners of this particular cat had speeded missionaries to the four corners of the globe to evangelize the heathen, but their pet puss they had turned into the streets.

The instant Buttons spied her he gave chase and drove her for refuge into a small tree. Then he stood below and barked furiously, until the sympathizing butler shook the tree and gave him another chance. This time the cat barely succeeded in reaching a low perch on the iron fence, from which with terrified gaze she watched her tormentor.

"Why do you torture that cat?" an grilly asked a quiet gentleman who sat on one of the shady benches holding a yellow-haired, little girl on his knee.

"Oh, me and Buttons is having a little fun," answered the butler. "Buttons is death on cats."

The quiet man said nothing, but got up, helped the frightened cat to escape to a safe hiding place, and then resumed his seat.

That night puss went to bed without a supper, while her owner presided at the one hundred and eleventh anniversary of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and punctuated the courses of a fish dinner with rare vignettes of port.

The next evening the same heat hung heavily over the Beacon street mall and Buttons and the butler were again taking an airing and looking for fun.

As Buttons neared the scene of his former encounter he pricked up his ears and sniffed the air for a scent of game. Presently his anxious eye was attracted by something his pug nose had failed to detect. On a bench near by sat the quiet gentleman whose acquaintance Buttons and the butler had made on the previous evening. The same yellow-haired little girl was seated near him, intently watching the rings of cigar smoke he puffed high into the evening air. Between the two a huge inflated paper bag was surging to and fro. It was this paper bag that had caught the eye of Buttons. It interested him. Drawing himself all up in a heap, he proceeded with cautious, measured step to justify his curiosity. As he slowly approached the curious object, his low, fretful growls seemed to rouse it to renewed gymnastics. This frightened Buttons and caused him to turn tail and flee. His curiosity had, however, got the better of him, and, returning to what he deemed a safe distance, he began barking furiously.

"Cat, Buttons, where's the cat?" came from the butler, who was leisurely bringing up in the rear, unconscious of Buttons' find.

With renewed courage the pug rushed toward the paper bag. He had almost reached it when the quiet gentleman gave the bag an opening twist, and, as a furry head with a pair of fiery eyes shot out, he exclaimed:

"Hi, hi, Kootchie!"

The earnestness with which Kootchie hid, hied became instantly apparent by the piteous howls that rose from out of the murderous clanging snarling mass of flying fur and silver ornaments. And the speed with which Buttons' companion hastened to the rescue proved that even a Boston butler can get a move on. Before he could interfere, however, the quiet gentleman took a hand in the game.

"Stand back," he demanded, in tones that showed he would brook no interference. "Buttons is death on cats. Kootchie is death on pugs. You like fun. I like fair play."

In less than twenty seconds a crowd of loungers, newsboys, nurse girls and pedestrians hurried to the scene. In the confusion somebody thoughtfully told a policeman to ring for the "hurry-up" wagon. But before it arrived the butler was permitted to carry home in his arms what there was left of Buttons.

"Cheese it, der cop!" shouted a newsboy, as the butler picked up his limp and disfigured companion. And, as the crowd scattered, everyone was amused to see a fine, gray, stumpy-tailed cat make its way to the yellow-hatted little maid on the bench.

As the latter lovingly stroked her shivering coat she remarked proudly, "Kootchie is my little pussy cat. Papa say, 'Kootchie, put Buttons to sleep.'" And the policeman winked with ghouliah satisfaction when the father spoke up, "Kootchie is a regular California cyclone. She is a young wild-cat a friend in Tiger valley sent me. I'm fond of pets, you know, and as she felt a bit homesick this evening I brought her out here to give her a picnic."

AMERICAN NAUTICAL COLLEGE SCENE OF "MIDSHIPMAN"

The first authentic, authorized photoplay depicting the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis is "The Midshipman," produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer under the supervision of the Navy Department, which is coming to the R. and R. Lyric theater on Monday and Tuesday, November 16 and 17.

In order that "The Midshipman," based on Carey Wilson's story, might be a faithful representation of the American nautical college, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur appointed Admiral Shoemaker, Rear Admiral Nulton and members of their official retinue to aid Director Christy Cabanne.

The choice of a suitable player for the leading role of Midshipman James Randall was left to the judgment of the Navy officials and they finally picked Ramon Novarro from a large list of popular motion picture stars submitted to them.

Upon completion of the final details of the filming, a special producing unit numbering 250 technicians, electricians and cameramen was dispatched from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios in Culver City, Calif., to Annapolis to begin the preliminary work. The cast headed by Novarro, soon followed.

During the entire five weeks that the company was engaged in the filming of "The Midshipman," the members lived at Carvel Hall, which hostelry is famous as the stopping place of George Washington and is now the center of Washington and Baltimore social activity during June Week. To reach the Academy the players just had to cross the street.

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company surrounded Mr. Novarro with a cast that boasts of such lustrous names as Harriet Hammond, Wesley Barry, Margaret Seddon, Crawford Kent, Kathleen Key, Pauline Neff, Harold Goodwin, Maurice Ryan and William Boyd.

Public Service and Public Opinion

SUCCESS in public service depends upon public opinion. Public Service—heat, power and light, etc.—is a part of the prosperity of a community. Public Service vitally concerns every person and every industry in the city, or in the town, where it is located. Public Service is, in fact, personal service. We all know that the quality of personal service which we receive depends largely upon the degree of our personal co-operation and consideration for those who serve us. Mainly an unfriendly attitude toward public service, and you injure every individual in your community, you hamper development, you balk business.

Unfriendliness toward public service is in reality unfriendliness toward the public itself. Constant criticism—without understanding; knocking—without investigation—all tends to react against your own interests.

Public Service is not defending itself. It needs no defense. It is patent that public service, by its very nature, is more interested in doing the right thing than are its critics.

The successful manager of an electric light and power company knows positively that the public's best interest is paramount. One of the greatest contemporary writers in the United States says: "I do not know more in their efforts to build up towns and cities, local interests and industries, than those of the public service companies. They are co-operating with the cities all over the country to create more industry. They are helping in every way possible to build better and bigger business in the towns where they are located."

Public Service and Public Opinion are interdependent.

CATTLE FOR FEEDING

EXPERIMENT BOUGHT

The forty-five Hereford steer calves to be used in the 180-day feeding test at the U. S. Experiment farm were brought in from the Dickson ranch in Glascock county this week. They have been weighed and marked and will be placed on a regular fattening ration soon.

This is the third annual feeding test held with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the Extension Department of the Texas A. & M. College and the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, cooperating.

Due to a request of the packing representatives the calves selected for the test this year are much smaller than the ones used in the former tests.

No trouble to answer questions; if we don't know we'll find out for you if it can be done. Chocolate Shoppe.

WEST TEXAS TO GET BIG PLAY

With oil company earnings indicated at the highest point since 1920, and with West Texas oil possibilities furnishing one of the brightest spots on the map, wildcaters generally report business better at this time than in the past five years.

The higher earnings have given the companies a comfortable margin above dividend requirements and reserves necessary to conservative conduct of business.

This surplus they are showing, as the year draws toward an end, a marked disposition to reinvest in wildcat projects such as has not been seen for years.

Formerly it has been hard to interest these companies in projects very far removed from producing fields, in the main. Such wildcat investments as were made were usually in the form of small blocks of close-in acreage, cheaply priced, as "protection."

Now however, the companies are buying large blocks of acreage in entirely wildcat territory and making plans to drill them to test oil producing possibilities.

It is not proving difficult to get a test on acreage anywhere in West Texas which offers even a fair shot at success.

Growing appreciation of land owners removed from producing areas of the value to them of a test of oil possibilities such as is beyond the means or desire of the owner to make, has led to a cooperation with the companies which is helping this along.

This is reflected in the very reasonable prices made to oil companies, or individual operators who subsequently deal with the companies, where actual drilling in the not-far distance future plays a part in the transaction.

This condition was foreseen and acted upon by some companies in acquisition of large holdings in non-productive areas in which efforts to interest them have been largely futile for five years. It is now reported, however, general, with the present stimulation of development activity as the result.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

DOUBLE HONOR IS ACCORDED DRAUGHON'S BUSINESS COLLEGE

Draughon's Practical Business Colleges, Abilene and Wichita Falls have recently been accorded an unusual distinction by being accredited by two of the largest business training organizations in the South—the Southern Accredited Business College Association and the Consulting Accountants Association and the only schools in the Southwest to enjoy this double distinction.

The Consulting Accountants' Association is composed of probably the greatest array of business training talent ever brought together in the South. Its hundreds of members in responsible positions throughout the Southland will recognize Draughon's diplomas as the best possible recommendation.

The Southern Accredited Business College Association, which has accredited the courses offered by Draughon's is the strongest organization of its kind in the South.

Draughon's also has an affiliated Employment Department with connections in many different states which aids in securing good positions for pupils.—Abilene Reporter.

FAST BLACK

A colored citizen, after a visit to a hen roost, heard that the sheriff was after him. Hastening to the railroad station, he demanded a ticket on the fastest train, to the end of the line. "Our fastest train left ten minutes ago," said the agent. "Well, gimme a ticket," said the colored man, "and show me which way she went."—Br.

HIS GUESS

"What kind of a store is that fellow over at Toad Rock running?" asked a motorist.

"Well, he has Ford parts for sale," replied the attendant in the filling station at Ten Degrees, "buys butter, eggs and poultry, deals in real estate, paints houses, marries folks in his capacity of Justice of the Peace, runs the post office, sells stamps, hams, molasses, etc., and takes boarders upstairs. I reckon you'd call it a drug store."—Kansas City Star.
