

Gophers - Get 'UM

College Station, May—Don't get your dandruff up the next time a pocket gopher causes a heaping mound of dirt to mysteriously appear on the front lawn.

Poisoned grain, which is available from most county agents, will control the pests and that "ugly mound" in the yard is the cue to take action.

Salamanders, which are more commonly called, are killed only when in their six-inch deep runways, explains anew Bulletin by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Any stick or rod about the size of a hoe handle can be used to push a hole through the ground and into the passage way.

Actually, you see their only real damage—a conspicuous dirt mound. Heavy population in pastures can cause some loss by tearing up the turf. Gophers are most active after a rain or while the ground is relatively wet. County agricultural agents in areas where the pests are prevalent keep a supply of poisoned grain on hand. They also can furnish bulletin L-192, Thinned Down on Pocket Gophers, which contains handy illustrations of the gopher, don'ts and precautions of do's open to question.

Endrin—Best-Yet Cotton Insecticide

College Station, May—Endrin, a newcomer to the insecticide world this year takes the cotton insecticide spotlight. Entomologists report that it comes as close to an all-purpose cotton insect control as anything yet tested.

A close relative to dieldrin, endrin is now widely used to control bollworms, fly weevils, thrips, cotton leafworm, cotton fleahoppers and legume bugs.

Endrin appears for the first time this year in the official Texas cotton insect control recommendations. U. S. Department of Agriculture researchers have tried it under a wide variety of growing conditions in Texas, Louisiana, South Carolina and Mexico.

In Texas, endrin is recommended for boll weevil and cotton leafworm control at rates of one-fourth to one-third of a pound to the acre. Bollworm treatments call for applications of one-third of a pound per acre.

This welcomed new control, however, does not control pink bollworms, alphas and spider mites. And like other insecticides, specific caution users of endrin to adhere closely to the directions of the manufacturer. It is toxic not only to cotton pests, but also to man and warm-blooded animals.

15th Annual Cotton Congress To Meet In Corpus Christi

College Station, May—"Cotton's current problems" has been the theme for the 15th annual meeting of the American Cotton Congress which will be held at Corpus Christi June 3-5. From 300 to 400 representatives from every cotton producing state and several foreign countries are expected to attend.

The Congress is sponsored by the State-Wide Cotton Committee of Texas and other states and national organizations with Burris C. Jackson of Hillsboro as general chairman. Chancellor M. T. Harrington of the Texas A. & M. College System chairman of the program committee, announces the program will cover the more outstanding problems of the industry.

Speaking of history, I was in Montgomery, Alabama, for a few hours the other day. You will remember that this was the first capital of the Confederacy. However, we know that the people there held no grudges, but caution is a tremendous electric sign which reads, "Union Station."

UNCLE SAM, TRUSTEE Did you know that Uncle Sam was trustee of a group of islands in the Pacific Ocean, spread out over a territory larger than the United States. If you took all of the islands 2,144 of these islands are in 96 distinct groups are divided into three market demands, price supports programs, and production problems related to cotton.

The first session is scheduled for 9:30 a. m. June 3 in the Plaza Hotel. Featured speakers will include assistant Secretary of Agriculture, J. Earl Coke; American Cotton Manufacturers Institution, President A. L. Dur and of the National Cotton Council and Lamar Fleming, chairman of the board, Anderson Clayton Company. Other officials and the Arkansas and Gulf Compress companies are serving as hosts at different functions planned for the visitors.

Chancellor Harrington extends a special invitation to all cotton producers and especially those in the immediate area to attend the meetings.

Washington News Letter From Congressman Walter Rogers

May 19, 1954 TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 18TH DISTRICT:

I saw an 1854 map of Texas this morning, and it was very interesting. At that time the entire Panhandle of Texas was a vast cañon country. Bexar county of Bexar County, Bexar San Antonio is located in which it took in almost the entire west of the state. Immediately west of San Antonio there was a large tract comprising Uvalde County.

The counties in Northeast Texas were all pretty well fixed, although there were very few towns. The major railroad came close to Texarkana and swung south. It came close to Quitman in Texas, and very near what was then Waco Village. It extended on in a westerly direction and in the vicinity of El Paso, there were hardly any towns mentioned on the map west of Waco Village. Just think of the tremendous change that has taken place in 100 years in our own back-yard.

This is just a few reminders of our own history of our citizens. If one thinks we are not living in a changing world, he has but to take out his pocket watch and carry it with him on a trip to Texas.

Japan took over most of the islands by military operations in 1914 from the control of Germany. Germany had purchased the Marianas and Carolines and the Philippines since 1900. The United States took over the islands in their strategic location. This importance was pointed out by the United States in this country World War II, and this country is very fortunate in having control of this territory. Actually, we took these islands by force of arms and could have kept them. However, with the United States and the United Nations created the trusteeship region of the Pacific. The future status of the island is now the subject of hearings before the Congress, and I thought the people might like to know what was meant when we speak of the Trust Territory of the Pacific. It is an island of the that they may be in the news in a big way in the next few years.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED TO THE STATES' RIGHTS CRUSADE? I had sincerely hoped that this Congress would not pass any legislation designed to further centralize the government of this country in Washington, and I am in far more disappointment. Although much talk is indulged about states' rights and what the states and the people should be allowed to do for themselves, the legislation being presented to Congress seems to be doing just the contrary. We are today discussing a bill that creates another advisory council to advise with the President. It seems that each day brings up a suggestion for some other type of council, board, bureau, agency, or committee to advise some department, agency, committee, board, bureau or council, and the confusion is increasing. It will not be long until there will have to be a separate investigating committee set up to determine who is to advise who to what, who is to take the advice, and most important, who is to pay for it. We already know the answer to the last one of these items, that is, the one who is going to pay for it. Too bad we can't do away with all of the rest of these proposed councils, committees, departments, and agencies that furnish advice on

BY LINDON B. JOHNSON
RAIN IN TEXAS: When I had the pleasure of spending a weekend in Texas recently, I was overjoyed to find that practically every section of the State has now been blessed with rain. Some areas received the first abundant rainfall they have had in several years.

Some weeks ago I expressed the hope, based on information from the Weather Bureau, that the Texas drought would shortly be broken. That has happened. All of us are thankful.

But the relief brought by the rain must not blind us to the fact that Texas still has a water problem of major magnitude.

ACTION ON WATER: Some of the friends with whom I have discussed this matter say, "Everybody is talking about water. Is anybody actually doing anything? If so, what?"

It is a fair question. I am happy to report that from the Federal angle—with which I, as your Senator, am concerned—a great deal is being done and a great deal is being planned. I want to tell you about some of these activities.

RESERVOIR PROJECTS: Throughout Texas, Congress has authorized 20 major reservoir projects for construction by the Army Corps of Engineers. Each of these projects was conceived as part of an overall plan to benefit the entire river basin in which it is located. Harassed floodwaters stored in these reservoirs will be made available for industrial and municipal use.

These reservoir projects form an important part of the long-range solution to the Texas water problem.

STATS OF DAMS: Thirteen of the 20 authorized dams have been completed or are under construction. They include Addicks Dam and Barker Dam in the Buffalo Bayou Watershed; Belton Dam and Reservoir; Benbrook Dam, near Fort Worth; one dam of four authorized on the Neches and Angelina River basin; Garza-Little Elm, between Dallas and Denton; Grapevine Dam; Horne Creek Dam and Reservoir, near Coleman; Lavon Dam, in North Texas, on the East Fork of the Trinity; San Angelo Dam; Texarkana Dam and Reservoir; Lake Texoma; Whitney Dam and Reservoir.

Thirteen projects, when all are complete, will have a total controlled water storage capacity of 14,474,500 acre-feet. Their drainage area is 77,172 square miles.

OTHER PROJECTS: Seven other projects in Texas have been authorized by Congress. Among them are three additional dams in the Naches-Angelina Rovers Watershed. The list also included Canyon Dam and Reservoir, on the Guadalupe River; Lake Brownwood Dam and Reservoir, near Houston; Ferrells Bridge Dam and Reservoir, in East Texas, near Jefferson.

FUTURE PROJECTS: In addition I am pressing for authorization of other needed flood control and water conservation projects in Texas.

A few days ago, for example, I appeared with several Waco citizens before the Flood Control Subcommittee of the House Public Works Committee to urge authorization of a dam on the Bosque River, near Waco. This is one of several recommended multiple-purpose reservoir projects for flood control and allied purposes on the Brazos River and its tributaries.

This project has been given Number One priority by the Corps of Engineers. I am hopeful that we can get authorization for it.

CANADIAN RIVER: For several years I have worked hard on behalf of the Canadian River Project. We obtained authorization in 1950 for this project, which will supply municipal and industrial water to 11 cities in the High Plains region of Texas. The State Legislature last year authorized formation of the Canadian River Municipal financing for construction of the project.

The proposed reservoir will cover 26,300 acres.

UPSTREAM WATER CONTROL: Little dams as well as big dams are necessary. I am continuing to seek action on legislation which would encourage the building of small, upstream dams. These dams trap water near where it falls. They would give protection against the flash floods which do so much damage and carry away so much of our valuable topsoil.

MANY-SIDED PROBLEMS: The problem is one that has many angles. It is one to which I have given attention throughout my years as a public official. One of the first things I did when I entered the Senate in 1949 was to ask the Bureau of Reclamation to make an appraisal of the overall water supply problem of Texas. The Bureau's report of its findings, released last year, helped to focus attention on the necessity of doing something to assure an adequate and permanent water supply in the State.

As J. E. Sturrock, general manager of the Texas Water Conservation Association said recently, a working partnership between the Federal Government and the State is essential in connection with this problem. The challenge is tremendous. So is the opportunity.

PERSONAL: Any discussion, however brief, of the Texas water problems would be incomplete without a tribute to an outstanding leader in efforts to find a solution. I am talking about Guy C. Jackson, Jr., of Anahuac, president of the Texas Water Conservation Association and a member of the executive committee of the Intra-Coastal Canal Association. His work is as valuable as it is unceasing.

Incidentally, Guy is secretary of the Fraternity of the White Heron, an organization which has the single function of staging every year a truly Texas-size fish fry. The tenth annual fry will be held June 19 at Fort Anahuac Park. I have been honored by an invitation to address the Fraternity on that occasion. I am looking forward to the celebration.

A proposed Constitutional amendment to retain the supreme Court at its present number of Federal judges at 75 years compulsory has been approved by the Senate.

"Brush Country" Battle Showing Good Results

Scores of Texas farmers show a keen interest in the control of range invading brush and trees and an increase number have already taken up arms in this battle of the "brush country."

J. H. Dean of Forest and W. L. Lee of Parks in Cherokee county have joined these ranks and the County Agent C. M. Heald reports that Lee is killing 1 inch trees for only two and a half cents each. The pair last fall treated four to 12 inch gum, oak and hickory trees with 2.4.5-T. Today they report ninety to 100 percent kills and no sprouting from the stumps.

Lee obtained his two cent kill with one quart of 2.4.5-T in six gallons of diesel oil. "This kills them off," he says.

After chaining 200 acres in 1952, J. C. Morehouse, who is a rancher west of Benjamin in Knox county, can account for 25 percent more grazing. The new and heavier grass stands also help reduce erosion.

The brush country of McMullen county is progressively becoming a thirder of the past, says William K. Hodgin, county agent. Brush in the county is being cleared at the rate of 100 acres a day, he estimates.

A close relationship between grass and the number of dead post oak trees was observed recently by touring farms on the Tom Miller ranch in Young county. Miller says his stocking capacity is 450 percent greater on acres aerially sprayed in the spring of 1951 with 2.4.5-T.

The Miller post oak demonstration was made much more significant by non-controlled post oak stands just across the fence where the land was virtually barren of grass, adds county agent R. O. Dunkle.

—The Spearman Youth Program to the citizens of this area. This is an organized effort to bring character building entertainment to the youth of Spearman and area. It is an ambitious program requiring Adult supervision.

To insure the success of this program it was deemed wise to employ an experienced adult to take over the General Management of the program. Our High School Coach, Mickey Clabaugh has been employed as the General Manager. A campaign to secure contributions for the expenses of this program is underway at this time. If you have not been contacted, and are willing to contribute to this program, please mail your contribution to Joe Day at Spearman, Texas.
