Lives Months In House Of Man He Slew

Denver Attic Yields A Strange, Half-Starved Figure

DENVER, July 31. (AP)—Trapped in the tiny attic of a house that children believed haunted, a wispy, half-starved man has admitted, Detective Captain James E. Childers said today, being to death the aged home owner, and then living furtively in a cubbyhole of the house for nine months.

He was captured yesterday in the small brick house of Philip Peters, 75-year-old retired railroad auditor, who was found beaten to death in a blood-spattered room last October 17.

"I killed him because he caught me robbing the ice-box," Captain Childers quoted Cornish as saying.

Investigating children's tales of a phantom, eerie sounds and ghostlike lights in the modest home in a quiet North Denver residential section, police saw the front door open slowly. A pale face appeared in the opening.

Childers and Detective Fred Zarnow smashed down the door and entered in time to see a tattered trouser leg disappear into a hole leading to the attic.

Zarnow shot a flashlight beam through the tiny opening and saw Cornish cowering in the left, about four feet square and too low for a man to stand erect.

The detective selected Cornish by the wrist and dragged out the man, barefoot and weighing only 75 pounds.

Childers said Cornish told him he discovered the cubbyhole by accident while prowling the Peters home last fall, and decided it would make an ideal spot to "hole up for the winter."

For many days and nights, Cornish related, he lived in the attic, his presence unknown and unsuspected by Peters.

He had the run of the house for short periods daily, when Peters would visit his wife at a hospital.

"He lay in wait among the spiders and watched his victim like a spider himself," said Childers.

He quoted Cornish as relating: "Every night I'd listen at the attic hole until I heard him snoring. Then I'd crawl down and go through the ice-box. I'd take just enough so it wouldn't be too noticeable. I'd carry it back up to my nest and eat it."

"I used to shave, ev en, with the old man's razor," Cornish told of spying on Peters several times as he put money into a cigar box, but was unable to learn where the box was hidden.

"Well, this particular afternoon (last Oct. 17, when Peters was killed) I was awfully hungry. I went down to the ice-box and found a roast. I started eating it right there, squatting by the box."

"I didn't hear the old man come in, but suddenly there he was in the kitchen door. He started for me so I grabbed up an old rusted gun which lay on a cabinet. It broke when I hit him. I knocked him down."

Habeas Writs Rejected By High Court

President Has The Authority, Board Lawfully Set Up

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—The even alleged Nazi saboteurs lost today in their effort to escape jurisdiction of President Roosevelt's military commission by appeal to the supreme court.

Chief Justice Stone announced that the court denied the prisoners' motion to file writs of habeas corpus.

Only seven of the eight accused saboteurs sought the writ.

The court's opinion found: "1. That the charges preferred against petitioners on which they are being tried by a military commission appointed by the order of the president on July 2, 1942, allege an offense or offenses which the president is authorized to order tried before a military commission."

"2. That the military commission was lawfully constituted. "3. That petitioners are held in lawful custody, or trial before the military commission, and have not shown cause for being discharged by writ of habeas corpus."

The opinion then said: "The motions for leave to file petitions for writs of habeas corpus are denied. "The orders of the district court are affirmed. The mandates are directed to issue forthwith."

The court's announcement explained: "The court has fully considered the questions raised in these cases and has reached its conclusion upon them. "It now renounces its decision and enters its judgment in each case, in advance of the preparation of a full opinion which necessarily will require a considerable period of time for its preparation and which, when prepared, will be filed with the clerk."

The military trial of the eight accused Nazi saboteurs had resumed for final arguments this morning without waiting to hear whether the supreme court would interfere with the proceedings.

Attorney General Biddle of the prosecution and Captain William Hummel of the defense counsel told reporters that they expected to begin final arguments of the secret military trial immediately.

U. S. Air Force In Britain Is Active

LONDON, July 31. (AP)—United States army air force headquarters, strengthened by the arrival of four high-ranking officers, hummed today with activity which spoke of eventual full-scale American participation in the aerial offensive against Germany.

The arrival of the staff officers, who included Brig. Gen. Frank O'D. Hunter, commander of American fighting plane units in this theater, and the debarkation of a new contingent of Canadian troops, stirred fresh speculation that an Allied invasion of the continent might be in the offing.

House Shattered By Plane—Two aviation cadets and a woman occupant of this house at Houston were killed when the cadets' training plane plunged through the side of the house and on down inside. Ellington Field officials identify the cadets as William R. Simpson, Jr., 24, of California, Pa., and Leland F. Scholl, 23, of Indianapolis. Beneath the wreckage of her bedroom was found the body of Mrs. C. B. Baldwin, daughter-in-law of the home's owner, R. W. Baldwin.

Howard county will operate under a budget reduced by $21,000 in 1943, according to the approved fiscal guide filed with County Clerk Lee Porter.

Total resources were down from those estimated for this year, but the setting of a tax rate on Sept. 14 by the county commissioners court will be the final word on what may be expected in the way of revenues.

Labor Fuss Closes Plant

PONTIAC, Mich., July 31. (AP)—War production was halted today at the Pontiac Motor division of General Motors Corp. here after pickets turned away day shift employees, and a CIO union leader said the employees were joining a mass demonstration in connection with a CIO-AFL organizational dispute over retail food store workers.

A spokesman for the management said the plant was shut down when CIO picket lines were established at all entrances at 7 a. m. and the workers turned away.

Tucker P. Smith, regional director of the United Wholesale, Retail and Department Store Employees (CIO), said the Pontiac workers responded to an appeal to join a parade designed to convince state and federal authorities that an AFL "blockade" of food deliveries to retail stores should be lifted.

Members of the retail clerks' union (AFL) have been seeking to organize employees of independent food stores in the Pontiac area, and have enlisted the aid of AFL teamsters in shutting off deliveries to all stores whose owners have not signed AFL contracts.

Smith estimated that 3,000 Pontiac workers would join about 1,000 retail store employees in today's demonstration.

Allied Fliers Take A Heavy Toll Of Japs

Enemy Transport Set Afire, Many Planes Downed

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, July 31. (AP)—In the biggest burst of aerial warfare since the Coral Sea battle nearly three months ago, American fliers in Curtis Kittyhawks yesterday shot down nine Japanese raiders over Darwin, and downed one or possibly two Japanese over New Guinea, while heavy Allied bombers, 100 miles north of New Guinea set raging fire to a Japanese transport and shot up its destroyer escort.

One American plane was shot down at Darwin but the pilot parachuted to safety.

The American fighters tore into the attacking force of 37 heavy bombers and 23 escorting zero fighters over Port Darwin, knocking down seven of the fighters and two bombers at a cost of only one defending plane.

The Japanese formations were completely broken up in this Allied performance, described by a headquarters communique as a piece of "brilliant interception."

The big raid upon the northern port came in the afternoon after a light, ineffective morning attack.

In other thrusts at the commonwealth high-flying Japanese bombers made the first attack of the war on Port Hedland, small freight port southwest of Broome, in western Australia, causing slight damage and one casualty, and made a futile, single-plane night attack on Horn Island, in the Torres Strait.

Keeping up their own offensive operations, Allied heavy bombers pounded on the destroyer-escorted Japanese transport 100 miles off Gana Mission, Papua, and scored five direct hits, leaving the vessel spouting flames visible for 30 miles.

Then the destroyer escort was machine-gunned from low level and anti-aircraft guns silenced.

The transport, described by today's communique as a medium sized cargo vessel, was the fifth enemy ship damaged or sunk since the Japanese invaded the Papuan Peninsula last week.

Heretofore one transport was sunk and two others and a destroyer were hit by Allied bombs.

From all yesterday's operations three Allied planes were missing.

Japs' Plane Loss Heavy

CHUNGKING, July 31. (AP)—The Japanese in two separate attempts to raid Hengyang airbase yesterday lost four bombers and three new zero-type fighters under the guns of fighters of the U. S. air force in China, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters reported today.

In addition, today's headquarters communique said a number of Japanese aircraft probably were destroyed.

Nazis Checked On One Front, Rostov Situation Grave

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, July 31 (AP)—Armored trains of the Red army rolled into the shell-torn steppes of the Don bend today, bringing up fresh reinforcements for the defenders who already had reported checking the German onslaught west of Stalingrad.

The new troops were rushed straightway into the battle which has raged for a week in the great loop of the Don, front dispatches said.

But while the Russians there were said to be holding the Nazi advance, even thrusting it back at some points, the situation below Rostov continued extremely grave, with the Germans admittedly still able to roll on at points south of the Don.

(The German high command said that its forces had crossed the lower Don on a 150-mile front and that some of its spearheads were 112 miles south of the river, with the important railway station of Kuschchevitz captured by a Nazi division.)

The Soviet armies along the Don were fighting under exhortations of their leaders and the whole Soviet press to "die but don't retreat" and to live up to the traditions set by Russia's greatest warriors of the past, the latter a theme set yesterday by Joseph Stalin himself.

Dispatches from the hard-pressed front south of Rostov and Tsimlyansk said the Russians had lost further ground and reported a grave threat developing between Bataisk, 15 miles south of Rostov, and the Sea of Azov.

Although there was no indication that the main Caucasian army of Lieut. Gen. D. T. Koslov yet had been thrown into the fight, Red Star reported that in the Don bend, battle-loving cavaliers from the Soviet Bashkir republic on the western slopes of the Urals had dealt the Germans a heavy blow in a surprise night attack.

Led by Col. Mingaly Shalmurov, a veteran of 25 years of military operations who lost his life in the charge, the hard-riding descendants of the warriors of Genghis Khan were said to have driven the Germans out of a village with heavy losses.

Red Star said a full division of the Bashkir cavalry had joined the Don bend battle.

It was there that the Russians reported repulsing the German attack in a see-saw battle south and southwest of Kletskaya, 80 miles from Stalingrad, where the Germans hurled flying wedges of troops walled by tanks into the fight.

From the Voronezh front the Russians also reported repulsing the Germans in fighting for bridgeheads on both sides of the Don.

Field Marshal Fedor von Bock used the phalanx or flying-wedge attack to strengthen the Nazi bid for Stalingrad, but Russian accounts said it resulted disastrously.

Fresh Soviet gains were reported also in the bitter battle of Voronezh, but the Red army lost ground again in a Caucasian engagement below Rostov.

There the Germans were supported by large air squadrons and, although suffering heavy losses, succeeded in moving forward, the mid-day communique acknowledged.

RAF Resumes Day Raids On French Coast

LONDON, July 31. (AP)—British fighters swept across the channel in the direction of Boulogne this morning in a resumption of day-light raids on the occupied French coast after a night of scattered German bombing attacks upon Britain.

Nazi planes also were active over the channel during the forenoon and heavy anti-aircraft fire was audible for several minutes on the outskirts of London, which had two quick alarms during the night—the fifth and sixth of the week.

The gunfire sent shoppers in the capital scurrying for cover, but ground watchers spotted no enemy planes over the city.

Eight towns in the Midlands were hit with high explosives and incendiaries by the German night raiders who followed the usual practice of lighting up the target area with flares before unloading their bombs.

One Midlands town had its first real raid of the war. In a second, a well-known church was damaged, and in a third low-flying planes machine-gunned the streets.

The Berlin radio said strong German bomber formations again raided Birmingham during the night.

Eight of the raiders were shot down by British defenses and a ninth was destroyed over its base in occupied France by an RAF fighter, a communique said.

Accused Man Kills Self

ABILENE, July 31. (AP)—Two hours after he was to have been arraigned on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the federal government through food supply invoices, V. R. Allen's body was found in the driveway of a funeral home yesterday.

Also charged in federal court yesterday by U. S. District Attorney Clyde O. Eastus were Robert Bean, market man at the Allen grocery, and Technical Sgt. Marshall Ray Peterson, mess sergeant at Camp Barkley station hospital.

The Brooks Field provost marshal's office today was questioning two soldiers believed to have been in the car when the incident occurred.

Ickes-Henderson Duel Is Squelched

WASHINGTON, July 31. (AP)—An apparent verbal duel between Price Administrator Leon Henderson and Interior Secretary Ickes has been headed off by the Office of War Information, in accordance with its recent offer to help "harmonize" the views of government officials.

The thrust was made (by Ickes) but the parry (by Henderson) was stayed.

It started when Ickes took sharp issue with a nationwide gasoline rationing program which Joel Dean, OPA rationing executive, said he and Henderson had endorsed and submitted to President Roosevelt.

Asserting that nationwide rationing "won't help the east now," Ickes said: "I don't think Dean is an expert

Wellesley College President To Head Fem Naval Reserve

WASHINGTON, July 31. (AP)—It's Lieut. Cmdr. Mildred H. McAfee, U. S. N. R., if you please. Within the next few days Secretary of the Navy Knox is going to let out the secret that he, the admirals and Commander-in-Chief Roosevelt have agreed on Miss McAfee, Wellesley college's 42-year-old president, as head of Uncle Sam's sallorettes.

President Roosevelt yesterday signed into law a bill creating a feminine naval reserve, designated as women appointed for volunteer emergency service—and promptly dubbed the "waves"—to release men for active sea duty.

So now Uncle Sam's military-minded nieces have a choice of volunteering to be a "wave" or a "Waco," the feminine equivalent in the army.

The new naval service will include 1,000 commissioned officers and about 10,000 enlisted members. The corps will be shore-bound sailors and the law prohibits their being sent outside the country.

Reports from Wellesley grads are that potential "waves" have drawn, in "Miss Mac," a ship-shape choice as director.

For one thing, Miss Mac, in addition to being scholarly, witty and human, is very good-looking. Of medium height, she wears her crisp dark hair clipped in loose curls about her head. There's directness in her eyes.

At Northampton, Mass., President Herbert Davis of Smith college announced that the sallorettes' first officers' training unit would be established there early in October. The course will last four months.

War Has Served As Impetus To Beauty Parlor Trade In Town

War has made a lot of people forget a lot of everyday habits, but it has only served as a reminder to feminine souls to stay as pretty as they are. Despite the higher cost of living, taxes, defense bonds and other results of a war, the girls still include in their budgets the price of a shampoo and set at their nearest beauty parlor.

In local shops, owners and operators maintain that their business has increased over last year and that women are more conscious of their appearance than ever before.

With men manning guns in near and distant spots, many who stayed at home and settled for a home done hair-do are now working in public offices and trek at least once a week to the beauty parlors to be "beautified."

Many owners have found it necessary to hire more operators and there is seldom such a thing as just dropping in to get a hair set. Appointments, usually a day in advance, are necessary now.

Supplies and equipment are limited to shops these days and some places require patrons to bring their own bobby pins. Combs are hard to buy and there is an inkling in the future of a shortage of ammonia and peroxide (which make those straight locks curly, fellers.) But beauty parlor owners refuse to be worried, yet they feel that with ingenuity, substitutes, and new inventions, they'll always be able to provide some sort of coiffure for their customers, who find beauty not a luxury, but a necessity these days.

A FIGHTING NATION NEEDS SWIFT TELEPHONE SERVICE

If ten seconds could be cut from every call over this company's telephone lines, the saving of talking time would amount to more than 4,000 hours every day.

This would free 4,000 hours for speeding the war calls that flow in tremendous volume over our lines... through your telephone office... through every important telephone office everywhere in this country.

Since we can't expand our offices to meet the war load, because materials needed for new telephone equipment are the materials most vitally needed at the fighting fronts, we must ask your co-operation. Could you cut ten seconds or more from each of your calls? Would you mind planning your conversations ahead so that no time is lost in completing them? You'll find that business and social calls often can be made more quickly in off-peak hours—from 12 noon to 2 p.m., from 5 to 7 p.m., from 9 p.m. to 9 a.m. These things can be an important contribution to Victory. Thank you!

War calls come first!

Yanks And Dodgers Make Rout Of Races

Brooks Win, Browns Bow Third Time

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
Fans probably don't pay a great deal of attention to the baseball standings these days because the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers are making runways of the major league pennant races.

Some newspapers in the spirit of good clean fun and to promote interest in the standings of the clubs even have turned them upside down, putting the two Philadelphia clubs on top, or have separated the Yanks and Dodgers from the rest of their leagues.

Maybe it will be a surprise, therefore, to point out that the Dodgers have won 70 games and lost only 29 for a percentage of .707 and stand a good chance of becoming the first team in 33 years in the National league to finish above the .700 percentage level.

The record was set by the Chicago Cubs in 1906 when they won 116 games and lost 36 for .763. They also were above .700 the next year and the Pittsburgh Pirates topped that level in 1902 and 1909.

In the American league the great Yankee clubs of 1927 and 1930 and the Philadelphia Athletics of 1931 are all that have ever turned the trick.

Even though the season has two months to run there no longer is any doubt that the Dodger team is the best in the senior circuit.

It added another scalp last night with a 9-2 conquest of the Chicago Cubs, who were crushed with a six-run rally in the fifth inning.

This increased Brooklyn's lead to 8 1/2 games over the idle St. Louis Cardinals. The Yankees also were idle, but their American league margin was increased to 12 1/2 games as the Boston Red Sox dropped a 4-3 decision to the Cleveland Indians.

This dropped Boston again into a virtual tie with the Indians for second place.

The Washington Senators captured their third straight from the St. Louis Browns 11-6 and cooled off the Browns' second place hopes effectively.

Pinky Higgins drove in six runs as Detroit downed the Philadelphia Athletics 11-5 in the first game of a doubleheader but the A's slipped their way to a 7-6 triumph in the nightcap.

The Cincinnati Reds were held to four hits by Earl Naylor and Ike Pearson and lost a 4-2 verdict to the Philadelphia Phillies in a night game. Bucky Walters gave six hits in losing.

Ray Robinson's Win Streak Threatened By Angott Bout

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—The longest winning streak in modern fight history—Ray Robinson's run of 121 in a row—collides with Sammy Angott in Madison Square Garden tonight, and there's more than an outside chance that the collision won't do it a bit of good.

Although the skinny Harlem hammer is 1 to 2 in the betting to stay on the track that has left him all-victorious ever since he first drew on a glove as an amateur—especially since he already holds a decision over Angott—Sammy is a specialist at upsetting guys in return matches. And tonight Angott has one distinct edge—a style of bashing heads that Ray definitely does not like.

Sammy likes to fight from a half crouch, crowd his way in close and then buff his opponent about the mid-section at short range—the shorter the better. Robinson, on the other hand, is a long, lean stringbean who wants to stand off a way and pitch his high hard ones.

This corner believes Sammy, who has never failed to reverse a decision in a return match with any fighter who has once beaten him, can do it again this time, and will gallop home with a decision. In spite of the "sugar man's" speed and two-handed shot-making.

Sammy's lightweight crown won't be on the line in this one—it is "stashed" away until he meets Allie Stolz again.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLEERTON, JR.
Wide World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, July 31—If Sammy Angott gets tagged by Ray Robinson tonight, he'll probably look around for the knockdown timekeeper before he falls. According to Manager Charley Jones, the thing that kept Sammy from being counted out when he ran into Ray's right at Philadelphia a year ago was that he fell right in front of that official. The noise of the hammer pounding the canvas right at his ear brought Sammy back so successfully that he almost won the scrap.

Tea for two—When the Seattle Cricket club found competition a bit light, Publicist Syd Hardt wrote the papers as follows: "Will you invite any teams wanting games to come out to Graves field and play us? ... Oh, yes, and tell them to bring their own sugar for the tea."

Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, who has 50 horses in his stable at Saratoga, has to hire a nag the other day to pull the buggy he's using to conserve gas.

Today's guest star—John Cronley, Oklahoma City Oklahoman: "Such nonsense originated in Chicago's Tam O'Shanter, pro golfers striking in a war benefit tournament in refusal to aid fans by wearing numbers. Oh, well, the numbers of Tommy Armour and Joe Kirkwood have been up a long time as far as competitive golf goes."

Service dept.—Look out Joe DiMaggio: Herb Scheffler, who played last year for Greensboro, N. C., built up a 22-game hitting streak for the Chicago Cubs, Ill. Planesmen before he was stopped by Ernie Rudolph of the St. Joseph (Mich.) Autos. Then he started another by hitting in the next three games. He has a .423 average. Commandos went through the Mississippi state semi-pro tournament without a loss, linking the 35th Field Artillery Lions from Camp Shelby 11-1 in the final Wednesday. The Great Lakes (Ill.) navy station is having a tough time keeping its athletes. Latest to go is Pitchin' Paul Christian, former Missouri football player, who has been transferred elsewhere in the ninth naval district.

New Method Used In Fighting Fire Bombs

New instructions in fighting fire bombs have been announced as the result of research by technicians in the United States and England. Marvin Hall, state fire defense coordinator, has announced.

Declaring that "all civilians should become familiar with the new and safer method of fighting incendiary bombs," Hall furnished revised fighting procedure to Fire Chief Ole Cordill.

Instead of the fine spray formerly used, it is now recommended that a jet of water be played on the bomb. In this way it may be knocked out in less than a minute, thus saving valuable time which can be used in attacking other bombs nearby before they can start serious fires. Sand is not to be used except where water is not available or where the glare of the bomb can be seen by enemy fliers.

These were suggestions given by Chief Cordill: Bring equipment to scene at once and shoot jet of water directly at bomb to put out of action quickly. Use jet to quickly quench fragments and remains of bomb and any fires that may have been started. Make sure all fires are out before you leave. Use coarse spray only when scattering of metal must be avoided and sand only if it is where bomb may likely start a fire or if water is not available.

The desired jet, said Chief Cordill, can be obtained from a garden hose, any type of water fire extinguisher, stirrup pump, etc.

Ship Captain Taken On Sub

The first reported instance of the seizure by a German submarine of an American ship's captain as a prisoner of war was disclosed by the navy yesterday in announcing the sinking of another U.S. merchantman in the Western Atlantic.

With the loss also of the Brazilian freighter Tamandara, announced by the Brazilian government yesterday, the Associated Press unofficial tally of submarines sinkings of united and neutral nations' craft in the area rose to 404.

"You are a prisoner of war. I want you to come aboard. I am very sorry," survivors of the American vessel quoted an English-speaking U-boat commander as having said to the American as his ship was foundering in the South Atlantic on July 8.

"We'll treat him well. He'll be aboard only about 11 days," the commander replied to pleas of the 48 survivors to let their captain accompany them in lifeboats.

The submarine's torpedoes killed three crewmen.

Rebs Drop Sixth Straight Tilt

The Dallas Rebels are equal, but will try hard not to equal their season's record for consecutive losses when they play San Antonio in a Texas league game tonight.

When the Rebels were defeated last night, 3 to 1, by the Houston Buffs, it was their sixth straight loss. Once before this year they dropped seven in a row.

Dallas fans hoped for a while last night their boys were going to get out of the doldrums. There was only one out in the ninth and the bases were loaded.

But Henry Polly, the Buff mound man, struck out Albert Bass and made Mel Steiner pop out to center. The Rebels wound up with a total of four hits.

The Beaumont Exporters won their third straight from Oklahoma City, 6 to 3. Shreveport's Exporters, working behind the good pitching of Doyle Lade, downed the Tulsa Oilers, 3 to 1. The San Antonio Missions easily walloped the Fort Worth Cats, 8 to 2.

"They take their Chances"
WINSTON CHURCHILL
The British Prime Minister tells Commons that the newspapers were more fully informed on the battle for Egypt than the government itself.
The reason: "War correspondents were allowed to roam all over the battlefield, to take their chances of being killed. This is what the press has always asked for and this is what they got."
Associated Press reporters took plenty of chances as they have from the start of the African campaign when as AP correspondent, Godfrey H. F. Anderson, was captured by the Italians.
AP man Harry Crockett suffered injuries when he dived under a truck to escape Nazi dive bombers.
AP veteran Edward Kennedy, Pulitzer Prize winner Larry Allen and many others stayed on the job night and day to send ALL the news to this and 1400 other Associated Press newspapers.
They take their chances. Yes, but it's all in the day's work, the kind of work that has kept AP newspapers first at the front for a century!

Heroes Don't Want To Be Paraded

Now that Big Spring has been treated to the presence of one of our war heroes, we think that we can now speak out against, for the young officer as well as ourselves, this practice of parading our war-born heroes the length and breadth of the nation as a bunch of foolisms.

But what happens when a young man goes up in an airplane and risks his life to come out winner over the enemy? He puts back to his field of carrier a more seasoned fighter, a more valuable man to the military, which properly recognizes him for his heroic deeds. And then he is jerked up for a parade all over the states.

Most of these results are sort of negligible anyway you take them, but there is one we believe that is quite on the wrong side of the ledger. We see parades after parades of war heroes and unconsciously come to develop a superhuman concept of our men. That's not so and these gritty young men don't mind admitting it. Rather, they would tell us to take off our rosy glasses, stop an excess of this business and buckle down to serious war-winning work. We can all be heroes that way.

Hollywood—Gene Autry Left Three Films To Be Released

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD — Verdict of one of our war heroes after escorting one of our best-known glamour stars to the big ball in their honor: "She was awfully nice, but—gee! she must be at least 35!" (He is 21.)

The good-hearted secretary saw a little boy wandering the halls of 20th's big administration building, peddling magazines.

Philip G. and Julius J. Epstein, the twin writers newly made co-producers, will be in an unprecendented spot. As half-producer, each can take only half-bow. If a double-Epstein movie turns up with a weak ending, good beginning, which half-producer will get the half-bow? And when the producing trade's occupational ailment strikes, will each have a half- ulcer? There ought to be a song ("Said Philip G. to Julius J.") about all this.

Gene Autry's enlistment in the air corps may be a body blow to the small fry, but there's consolation: Republic still has three new Autry's yet unreleased.

Gene Tierney, on why she decided to start saving money: "I woke up the other morning so tired, and I had to get up to go to work. I decided right then and there I'd save—so that some day I could wake up at 5:30, turn over, and go back to sleep."

The night club set of "Between Us Girls" was "painted" with a substitute for war-conserved paint. Cameraman Joseph Valentine flooded a flat-white set with colored lights for the quickest "paint job" on record.

Tyrons Power gets still another film chore before saying goodbye for the duration. The picture will be "Crash Dive," filmed with navy cooperation at New London, Conn. It'll glorify the submarine forces.

Chapter 41
MISSING PAPERS
Raeburn glanced at Delia Stewart. "I did get the envelope from her," he said, "but I lost them a block from Haderacker's office."

"Someone hit me over the head. When I came to, they were gone." Raeburn looked at John Nason and his eyes were hard and hot. "You wouldn't know about that, would you, Mr. Nason?"

"Perhaps I'll come back to you," Raeburn's gaze moved to Murdock. "Your wife and I made a bargain. I don't know whether she tricked me or not. I had to take a chance." He looked at Joyce. "You didn't tell me I would have to deal with so many people."

"You wouldn't have come." "Perhaps not—but we've wasted enough time, haven't we?" "I'll keep my promise if you'll keep yours," Joyce said.

"Agreed. But I'll have to insist that you fulfill your part first." Raeburn swung the automatic back and waited.

The Cable
Joyce asked for a cigarette and while Kent gave her one and held light, she had time to think. She had taken the chance. If he wanted that envelope badly enough he might agree. And he and the delectable Esther Williams in the Andy Hardy picture. The remarkable Fredric March make-up as "Mark Twain." Metro has been looking around for successors to Norma Shearer. After giving her two such sillies as "We Were Dancing" and "Eier Carboard Lovin'" they must feel confident she will need a successor. It's funny how banal and irksome—in these times—the old "sophisticated" stuff has become, and how leaden the old light-smart-bubbly quips of inconsequential people as glorified in these celluloid wastes.

had agreed. "If you'll take me to Ward Allen's apartment," she had said, "I'll see that you get it. But not unless you'll tell me the truth about why you came here from Caragua—why of all it."

There had been more to the argument than that, but she had kept her nerve, insisting that only by taking her to this apartment could he get the envelope. So they had come. She had warned him that Ward and Delia would be here, and Ward had opened the door and they found Thorndike and Delia on the love seat. They had stayed there too, when Raeburn took the automatic from his pocket, and the explanations were still in progress when the others had arrived.

"All right," she said, and met Raeburn's gaze. "I told you I'd see that you got the envelope. I can't do that, but I have something just as good."

She heard someone gasp beside her and then Murdock had snatched the roll of pictures from her hand.

"Joyce!" he said. He unrolled them, looking only at the first print. "Where did you get them?" "I have them taken at home."

"You had them all the time." He was angry now. "You—"

"I'll take those, please," Raeburn said. Joyce heard him, but continued to her husband. "It was when Delia came to me and told me about the man who wanted them. It looked as though she'd have to give them up, so I had them photographed. . . . You're always doing things like that so I thought I'd better, too."

She saw his anger fade and something else touched his glance that might have been respect or simply resignation.

"In any case," Dean Thorndike said, "it's lucky for us. Good girl." "Bring them here."

Raeburn gestured with the gun. Murdock stood up. "Don't hand them to me," Raeburn said. "Just put them on that stand."

Murdock tossed the photographs on the stand and Raeburn moved sideways, his eyes on Fenner. He reached for the roll, separated the four prints. With alternating glances, he found the one he wanted; then, suddenly, something happened to his face and there was a new brightness in his eyes.

He looked at Hester and then his glance kept moving until it found the telephone stand. He backed to it, his gun still leveled. Fumbling for the instrument, he put it to his mouth.

"I would like to send a cable," he said. "Can you connect me with the proper office?" There was a moment of silence.

"Hello. . . . Will you take a cable, please?" Raeburn was watching Hester now, as well as Fenner. "To Vasquezella: San Baria, Caragua." He spelled out the words. "Have documentary proof. Hester never legally married to father. Forwarding papers registered airmail. . . . Sign that: Raeburn."

schools, became important in business and agriculture. Over a period of time they consolidated their gains until at the time of the invasion of Holland, they very nearly controlled the country itself.

He looked at Ward Allen. "Mr. Allen knows something of that. So did Perry Clarke. And by that time we were all aware of our danger. We set out to re-establish ourselves and found that they were more solidly entrenched than we had suspected. There were Nazi sympathizers in the army and police forces; they owned a broadcasting company and a newspaper. When we—"

those of us whose country it was—became too aggressive there were economic reprisals and threats. Only very recently have we been able to bring some of the real agitators to trial. However—"

His glance moved across the room and he shrugged. "The details are unimportant; and to understand the rest of it I must tell you something of this estate of ours."

He went on to describe the property. "Strategically it is the most important location within several hundred miles. A few well placed guns and planes—the polo field was made to order—and it would become a key point for an invader."

"I did not know my father had left it to Mrs. Clarke until he had died; I did know why this syndicate of Nazi sympathizers wanted it." His smile was twisted as he stopped speaking for a moment.

There's A Trick To Peeling And Showing As Little As Possible

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK—This Greek had a word for it too. His name was Spyros Skouras. . . . When George, the King of the Greeks, came to New York, Spyros Skouras gave a dinner for him at the Astor hotel. . . . Mr. Skouras is president of Twentieth-Century Fox. . . . Why did Skouras choose the Astor? "I'm sentimental," he confessed. "I used to be a busboy there."

It is Gypsy Rose Lee who tells this tale on Joan Crawford. The strip dancer had it straight from her sister, June Haver, in a letter the other day. . . . While Joan was filming "They All Kissed the Bride," she wanted her to appear in a scene that showed her changing her clothes in an office building after being out all night. . . . Joan reneged. . . . She felt the scene would offend her family trade fans. . . . Alexander Hall, the director, scratched his head. . . . Then he sent next door to the "My Sister Eileen" set and asked June Haver to come over for a moment. . . . Hall explained Joan's reluctance. . . . "Honey," said June, "the trick is to peel and show as little as possible. It's a cinch. Gypsy taught it to me and I've been getting away with it for years."

You have to hand it to John Pierce for doing a great job with those operetta revivals at Carnegie Hall. When he put on "The Chocolate Soldier" they hoped it would go two weeks, and the ticket takers compelled the "Soldier" to hang on an additional week. Then, in a week's time, he produced "The Merry Widow," and the critical opinion is that again Pierce has done one slick piece of producing and directing.

Pierce is no novice at musical shows and the dance. He will never be president of the USA because he was born in Mexico City. But he knows show business, and he knows how to impart this knowledge to others. It was Pierce who "coined" the Johnny-one-note number for "Babes in Arms," a novelty that has been used extensively ever since by directors everywhere. He put 25 dancers in a straight line across a stage and had them all do different steps. . . . Pierce got going early in life. At 18 he staged and directed "Billie" for George M. Cohan. He has danced, directed, and taught dancing in Hollywood and in New York.

His greatest disappointment? . . . That came in the tough days, when he was trying hard to keep from being hungry. . . . He was trying so hard that he forgot to look in his mailbox one morning—and overlooked a letter from Bill Grady offering him a job with Cochran in London. . . . When Pierce finally retrieved the letter from the mailbox and rushed over to Grady's office, Cochran had called—and there went a chance to work with one of the world's great producers.

However, Pierce didn't starve. Shortly after that he ran into one of those Hollywood "breaks" and went to the films. He's been doing okay ever since.

FDR Rates As Expert In Military Strategy

By JACK STEINNETT
WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt probably can be rated now as one of the world's foremost amateur military experts.

While associates say Mr. Roosevelt makes no pretense of being an expert (he got quite a laugh out of Hitler's "intuition" telling him to take direct command of the German army in Russia), as supreme commander of American armed forces he has to know plenty about what it takes to wage war all over the world.

Since early summer of 1940, when the Nazis' conquest of western Europe scared the country into a big defense program, the President has had extraordinary schooling in military problems. Since Pearl Harbor that schooling has been intensive.

He has almost daily discussions with the top men of the Army and Navy, frequent meetings with the Pacific War Council and conferences with military missions from Russia, Britain and China.

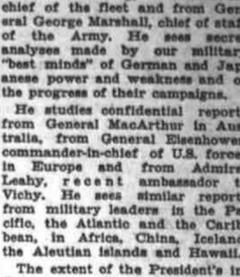

He gets the "lowdown" on war plans and developments from Admiral Ernest King, commander-in-chief of the fleet and from General George Marshall, chief of staff of the Army. He sees secret analyses made by our military "best minds" of German and Japanese power and weakness and of the progress of their campaigns.

He studies confidential reports from General MacArthur in Australia, from General Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of U.S. forces in Europe and from Admiral Leahy, recent ambassador to Vichy. He sees similar reports from military leaders in the Pacific, the Atlantic and the Caribbean, in Africa, China, Iceland, the Aleutian Islands and Hawaii.

The extent of the President's influence on military decisions is a government secret. When, and if, members of the joint Army-Navy board disagree, the President's suggestions undoubtedly have considerable weight because of his position as supreme commander. His ideas on grand strategy by the United Nations, based largely on information obtained from his military advisers, obviously have much influence with Winston Churchill and Josef Stalin.

Small Cargo Planes Now Advocated

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Senate advocates of a fleet of giant cargo planes to speed war deliveries set as their immediate goal today the expanded production of smaller air freighters now under construction for the army and navy.

Chairman Lee (D-Okla.) of a military subcommittee seeking support of a resolution to set up a separate board to produce 70-ton flying boats said the smaller cargo planes should be built "in far greater numbers" than projected. Lee termed the testimony yesterday of Henry J. Kaiser, West Coast shipbuilder, "a real shot in the arm" for the committee, particularly Kaiser's assertion he could produce the first big whipl "within 10 months" after receiving plans, if "given the green light and a steady flow of materials."

"In the meantime, we are hopeful that something will happen to stir aviation authorities of the army and navy out of excess caution, and to the desperate daring needed in this grave hour."

"As a starter, the smaller cargo planes now under construction should be multiplied many times."

Colorado Cancels Frontier Roundup

COLORADO CITY, July 31 — There will be no spurs that jingle in Colorado City this September except those worn during the routine work day of the genuine calf ropers and bronc busters. The sixth annual Frontier Roundup, dates for which had been announced for September second and third, has been called off.

The decision to skip the Roundup in the 1942 season was reached in a meeting of the directors here Wednesday night. Cooperation with the country's war effort, conservation of tires, and probable shortage of contestants, many of whom are in the service, were the reasons advanced by the Roundup association secretary, Jack Richardson, who made public the association's decision.

No Brotherhood Picnic This Year

The annual Railroad Brotherhood picnic scheduled each August will be called off again this year as it was in the summer of 1941 and this time it looks like it is to be cancelled "for the duration."

Inability of railroad men to take time off for social events plus the more serious problems of war, make the picnic inadvisable, officials declared.

Five Million Fans See 'GWTW' Twice

The film is to return to the Ritz theatre here next Monday and Tuesday, showing at 11 a. m., 3 p. m., and 8:30 p. m. on each of those days.

Workers Wanted At Flying School

L. T. Lee of the Civil Service, stationed in Big Spring to arrange civilian employment at the Big Spring bombardier school, spoke to the American Business club Friday noon at luncheon at the Settles hotel on the need for more workers at the school.

He pointed out that the administrative jobs were proving hardest to fill but that applications for all types of jobs were being accepted. Applications may be obtained at the postoffice or United States employment office, Lee said, and he urged club members to assist in locating people to fill the jobs.

Committee headed by Harvey Wooten and George Zachariah and composed of Bob Murray, Dr. J. H. Parrott and Walker Bailey was named to meet Monday night at the Settles hotel at 8 o'clock with Lee and make an effort to find men and women for the jobs available.

Stag party and chicken barbecue for 5 o'clock Friday night August 7th, at the Settles hotel was planned. The club voted to help furnish punch to girls scout attending the August 27th roundup.

Hugh Duncan urged members to join with the Texas Defense Guard where several openings are now available.

Christmas Cards To Be Patriotic

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—It's a little early, but we thought you'd like to know what kind of Christmas cards you'll get this year.

The familiar red, white and green will give way to the patriotic red, white and blue, the greeting card industry announced today.

Furthermore, fat old Santa Claus will be replaced by skinny Uncle Sam's bewickered countenance, and the cards, even though Christmas stands for "peace on earth and good will toward men," may contain the warlike slogans: "Trap the Jap," "Paste the Paperhanger," "Muzzle Mussolini."

Eastbound Planes On New Schedule

Effective Saturday, the east-bound airline (and airmail) flight from here will be shopped up four hours.

Changed from flight No. 6 back to flight No. 2, the schedule will call for the eastbound American Airlines plane to put in at 5:08 p. m. and depart at 5:16 p. m. The flight has been landing here at 9:03 p. m. and leaving at 9:11 p. m. The westbound flight (No. 1) is unchanged, arriving at 7:44 p. m. and leaving at 7:54 p. m.

Postmaster Nat Shick reminded airmail users that the schedule change would necessitate a 5 p. m. mail closing at the postoffice. He urged those who used the fast mail service to take note of the change. The airmail from the star route operating from Monahans will still get here in plenty of time.

Stray Dog Problem Is Here Again

Tie up Towser or the city is going to turn the dog catcher loose on him again.

This was the word from City Manager E. J. McDaniel following growing dog complaints Friday.

Following one attack on the wandering canine problem, dog owners in general cooperated by keeping their pets on premises, he said. But now reports are coming in that Rover is being given the run of the neighbors yard and best flower-bed once more.

If these persist, continued the manager, the city will be forced to put the dog catcher back into action again. On his last swing around the city, the catcher impounded enough that disposition had to be made of well over 100 unclaimed dogs.

Gloria Nell had her purse and money back Friday and a negress who admitted taking them had plenty of time to think it over in the city jail.

Nancy Jones entered a plea of guilty in corporate court to a charge of petty theft. Charges against Margaret Harris, negress, were dismissed and she was released. Officers said they admitted taking the coin purse from Miss Nell's bag in a downtown store Thursday afternoon, removing the money and discarding the purse in an alley.
