This Fall not a person in Hansford County can say, 'I wish you would start plans earlier for our County Fair'. This year the County Fair Chairman, Robert Novak, and his fair committee really has things rolling for the biggest and best fair ever held in Hansford County.

The complete frame work for the organization of the 1954 were made in a Fair Meeting held in November 1953. This meeting was where all the different fair chairmen were appointed along with all of the Community Exhibit Chairmen.

These are as follows: General Fair Chairman - Robert Novak.

General Vice Chairman - Frank Davis.

General Fair Secretary - June Gibbs.

Agriculture Chairman - Bill Goldstein.

Livestock Chairman - Sonny Patterson, G. C. Brillhart and Harold Collier.

Poultry and Rabbits - Medlin Patterson and Dwight Hutchison.

The highlight of each fall fair is the wonderful displays of products made by each community. This will again be the main attraction of the fair. The Community Chairman are as follows:

The Fair Committee drew up the following recommendations last week:

1. The 1954 Hansford County Free Fair will be October 12 (Friday and Saturday).

2. Barnes be made available for livestock.

3. A committee of new work on booth building. The committee appointed were Joe Day, Wilson Buchanan, Bill Goldstein, A. L. Wilson and Billy Ray.

4. The Fair will be financed by selling space in Building and donations.

5. Size of booths will be 6x8x8.

6. All booths will be consistent in order.

7. 2 divisions for small grains-irrigated and dry land.

8. 6 of each items in Agriculture division.

9. 1 lb. coffee can of grain makes and entry.

10. Everything must be raised in this fair year. October 1953 to October 1954.

11. Fair catalog made up and mailed by August 10.

This is your report. With each person in Hansford County working in this the county should double the number of entries over last year. This would mean 4000 entries.

Chickens Should Be Kept Cool

The coming of hot summer days can mean poultry death losses and a drop in egg production unless some effort is made to help the flock 'beat the heat'.

By observing a few simple management rules you can do much to help keep chickens cool.

One of the most important practices is to give the chickens plenty of water. Since chickens cannot sweat, most of the moisture they give off is in their breath.

The more water they can drink, the cooler they will be. Birds not only need more water but should have more places to drink.

Some producers set out extra tubs and buckets of water since birds will pile up around regular fountains, making it difficult for others to drink.

Ventilate House Everything possible should be done to help ventilate the poultry house. Doors and windows should be kept open. It may be wise to remove the windows.

Air should be let in from all sides of the building to provide cross ventilation.

Some poultry houses have openings along the sides which are covered with wire netting and can be covered with feed sacks on cold nights.

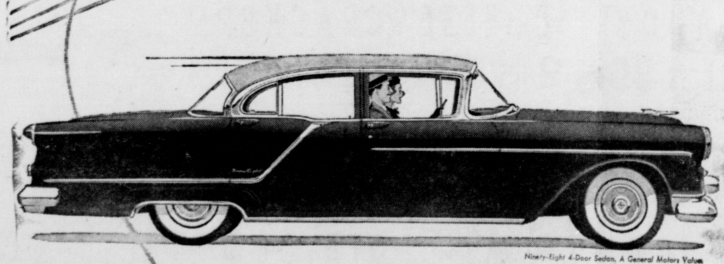

A panel hinged to the wall can be used to close openings.

Insulation keeps out winter cold and will also keep out summer heat. For hot weather, insulation underneath the roof is more valuable than in the walls.

Light colored reflect light heat whereas dark colors absorb them. So it is a good idea to paint your hen house or range shelter a light color.

Aluminum paint, white paint or whitewash makes a good covering for poultry houses.

Guard Discarded Refrigerators

Discarded refrigerators cannot be seen nor his screams heard. The abandoned refrigerator becomes a death trap. Those responsible for discarded refrigerators, in communities where specific arrangements are not provided for hauling them away and destroying them, can render the abandoned boxes harmless in one of several ways. The door may be removed or the latch stop may be taken off. In cases where the old cabinet is being used for some sort of storage, holes should be drilled in the cabinet and the gasket removed.

It is better, of course, to destroy the box altogether. Above all, parents are urged to warn their children of the hazards involved in playing around these death traps. It should not be hard to persuade any parent to do this when he realizes the dreadful danger involved. Now is the "season" for abandoned refrigerator accidents. May through September have proved to be the critical months, when children are out of school and playing outdoors. Citizens of this community are urged to give their wholehearted support to the "Discarded Refrigerator and Freezer Safety Drive, whose slogan is, "The child you save may be your own."

Chickens Face Summer Diseases

Growing chickens usually do well in warm weather if they can avoid certain diseases. The poultry shelter affords fresh air to be under in without the chillier blast of winter winds. Respiratory troubles are less severe. Sunlight and green forage adds to the general well-being of the flock.

The disease causing the most trouble in growing birds is coccidiosis. When young chickens are put out on range there is a good chance they will be exposed to coccidiosis. When birds are placed on land that has been poultry range before, the chances are increased. Overcrowding and damp litter invite coccidiosis.

Fodders and ponds provide mol. at conditions favorable to development of coccidia. It is wise to select a well-drained range and to move waterers, shelter and feeders regularly.

Preventive Drugs
Coccidiosis preventives can be used in feed or water. These preventives are drugs given at low concentration on a continuous schedule. To get the most out of the drugs, use them wisely. The objective of the poultryman should be to keep the coccidia (tiny parasites that cause coccidiosis) at a minimum even if drugs are being used.

Some poultrymen prefer to let the disease break out and then use a coccidiosis control. This method works fairly well if the control is applied promptly. Internal parasites have become a summertime problem for chickens. Worm eggs accumulate in old litter and need only moisture and shade to develop. Shaded wet area on range should be fenced off to or eliminated. Large roundworms can cause serious trouble when young birds are heavily infected. There are several good treatments for worms.

Fowl Typhoid
Fowl typhoid occurs suddenly during warm weather. The disease can be brought into a flock by anything that moves such as trucks, dogs, people or birds. All dead and sick birds should be removed and destroyed when fowl typhoid occurs. Sanitation is a major factor in preventing the disease. Certain bacterins have been used to increase resistance against fowl typhoid.

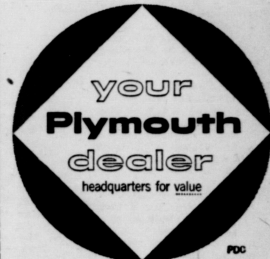

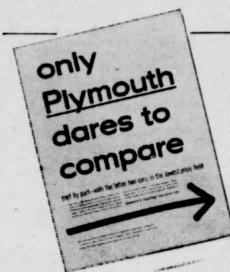

Blue comb, sometimes called pullet disease, is a hot weather problem although not all outbreaks occur during the summer. Here again, sanitation is important in preventing the disease. By doing routine vaccinations (fowl pox, Newcastle, etc.) early in the season rather than late and by not subjecting the birds to sudden changes, threat of blue comb is lessened.

Approve Loans For Wheat Here Stored On Ground

WACOS - The Texas Farm Bureau has expressed appreciation to Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taff Benson for the USDA's approval of distress loans on wheat stored on the ground.

Approval of such loans has been a major objective of the state farm organization for the past three months. President J. Walter Hammon said in a telegram to Benson.

"We wish to express appreciation for your action which will help alleviate storage space shortage and assure higher prices to wheat producers," Hammon said.

The USDA has announced that limited price support recourse loans for a temporary period will be made to wheat farmers where regular storage facilities are not available, and where it is feasible to store on the ground.

Reports from some plains states indicated that a shortage of wheat regular storage facilities are not available, and where it is feasible to put their wheat under the regular price support loan program. As a result, they might have been forced to market their wheat prematurely with an adverse effect on market prices.

Washington News Letter From Congressman Walter Rogers

May 22 1954
To The People of The 18th District
PENDING LEGISLATION

There is a great deal of legislation to be acted upon by this Congress before adjournment. Among the major bills which have been passed by the House but have not yet been acted upon by the Senate are the St. Lawrence Seaway Development, the Housing Act of 1954, and Public Health Grant-in-Aid Amendments of 1954. Other important items are listed below.

APPROPRIATIONS: The annual appropriations bills yet to be acted upon by the House are: (1) Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare; (2) District of Columbia; (3) Foreign Aid; in addition to the annual appropriations, there will probably be one or two supplemental appropriations bills brought before the House. Of the eight annual appropriations bills passed by the House this session, the Senate has passed only three namely, Independent Offices, Treasury and Post Office, and Army Civil Functions. The Senate is presently considering the agricultural appropriations bill.

SOCIAL SECURITY: The Ways and Means Committee has just approved H. R. 8366, Social Security Amendments for 1954. Under the provisions of the bill as approved by the committee, it is estimated that coverage will be extended to about ten million persons not now covered. In finally approving the bill, the committee reversed a previous decision to extend coverage to doctors, interns, student nurses, policemen and firemen. By the time you read this, the House will probably have taken action on the Social Security bill, as it is scheduled to be brought to the floor of the House on June 1st.

AGRICULTURE: The agricultural committee of both the House and Senate have had extensive hearings on general farm program legislation, including proposals on price supports and disposal of surpluses. This, of course, is one of the most important measures to be acted upon by this Congress.

TAXES: The Senate Finance Committee is presently working on the House-passed general tax revision bill, H. R. 8300. As I mentioned in a previous newsletter, this bill consists of 820 pages, in small print. The Senate committee has held hearings on the bill and has had it under consideration in executive session for the past two weeks. It is estimated that the committee will hold executive sessions on the bill for about two more weeks.

Proposed Constitutional Amendment: The Senate Judiciary Committee has approved a proposed Constitutional amendment "to enable Congress to function effectively in time of emergency or disaster." This proposed amendment would permit state governors to appoint members of the House if a disaster should create more than 145 vacancies.

June 4, 1954
To The People of The 18th District:

The Social Security Bill that recently passed the House of Representatives was passed under the "gas" rule. This was the second time this session that major legislation originating in the Ways and Means Committee was forced through the House of Representatives while Members stood handcuffed and gagged. The other time was when the voluminous tax revision bill was shoved through. One of the members of the Ways and Means Committee, appearing on television just before the tax bill came to the Congress, stated that the bill was being written by the Ways and Means Committee and that the House of Representatives would not be allowed to dot an 'i' or cross a 't'. That is exactly what happened. The bill was printed on March 9, containing over 800 pages (small print) and was voted on on March 18. This procedure simply means that sixteen members of the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives can nominate and control 435 duly elected Members of Congress, insofar as legislation before that particular committee is concerned. The Social Security Bill wasn't even printed when the House began considering the rule to debate the bill. An attempt was made to open the bill for certain types of amendments, but this was soundly defeated by a vote of 270 to 76. The great majority of the 76 were Southern Democrats. Men who have always believed in the real democratic process, and who realize that the "gas" rule practice is nothing less than steam roller politics, and that slightly expanded use of this practice could do tremendous damage to the legislative process, is so necessary in a democratic form of government. We sincerely hope that the Senate would hope that the Senate would remove some of the inequities of the bill.

Puerto Ricans Go On Trial
The Puerto Ricans, three men and a woman, are now on trial in Washington for the March 1 shooting in the House of Representatives. The woman undertook to make a speech when the case was called for trial, but was quickly hushed by officers of the court. It would be a good guess that she was going to make a speech on freedom for Puerto Rico. The poor gal doesn't seem to understand that the place to get water is at the well. Puerto Rico can have its independence if Puerto Rico wants it. The place to determine this is in Puerto Rico, not in the United States, even in the Congress or before a district court. If justice prevails, I would venture that it will be several years before this woman or her thick-headed pals have an opportunity to visit Puerto Rico or any place else. One of the witnesses who appeared in the beginning of the trial was my good friend, Congressman Ken Roberts, from Alabama. He was pretty tough of time. In fact, he was the last one to get out of the hospital. He is still on crutches and has a specially designed chair in which he sits. The chair is fixed so that it affords a special support for his left leg.

The Attorney General's Speech At Pasadena
I did not like the statement of the Attorney General to the effect that the recent segregation decision of the Supreme Court was a complete answer to the Communist propaganda criticizing racial segregation in this country. The Communist propaganda agents could very easily say that such a statement was an admission on the part of the Attorney General that the United States of America had been guilty of something before the Supreme Court made this segregation ruling. We should speak out on the telling the world about the shortcomings and viciousness of Communism, rather than trying to answer some false criticism through up by some expert Communist propaganda spreader. We are all going to wake up some morning and find out that Communist criticism and condemnation can not be satisfying by sacrificing our basic rights that distinguished Americanism from Communism. If propaganda is the weapon that is going to be used, it is time that we got on the offensive with it, rather than being on the defensive.

Plains Bankers Ask Grain Storage Boost
PLAINS BANKERS' 24
If bankers have their way there will be additional grain storage for the bumper sorghum crop being planted in moisture-soaked Panhandle farm land. Yesterday members of the Plains Bankers Association passed an urgent resolution directed to the attention of the Commodity Credit Corporation.
In positive language it requested that the CCC reopen acceptance of applications for guaranteed occupancy storage. The resolution said the present wheat production in this area is encouraging and conditions are unusually favorable for a high yield of sorghum "on the high-crope acreage ever seeded."

Bankers fear clogging of terminals following the wheat harvest. Some believe a wheat shortage of the sorghum crop would have to go on the ground unless additional storage is provided.
The resolution was presented at the 49th Annual Bankers Association convention by Art Bralley, vice-president of the American National Bank of Amarillo. The convention was conducted at the Herring Hotel. Bralley said that while new storage couldn't be built in time for wheat, it could be readied for sorghum if immediate action is taken.
From the investor's standpoint he said, there is a double attraction: (1) the rapid amortization authorized under the Commodity Credit program, and (2) the guaranteed occupancy storage agreement.

Featured speaker at the session was J. E. Walter, cashier of the Hale County State Bank, Plainview.
He defined profit as being the result of enterprising developments which "aid others as well as for ourselves."
To illustrate his point he used the example of a primitive community of 100 people living in a mountain valley. At the top of the mountain was a spring and each of these people spent an hour of their time climbing up the mountain to carry water.
Finally the most enterprising member of the community conceived the idea of building a water down the mountainside. He made a bargain with his people that he would let them use his water if they would give him 10 minutes of their time working for him.
That provided him with 16 hours of free work for himself each day, but it also afforded the other 90 people with 50 minutes they saved by having the water brought to them. This next step was to build a mill which converted the idea of saving of labor. The men who could make the best shoes specialized in the making of shoes. The man who made the best clothing devoted his entire time to making of clothes.

This scheme among the people of simple intelligence worked out to eliminate much of the drudgery in their lives. Walter concluded by asking what would have happened if envy and jealousy had reigned and the people had refused to deal with their most enterprising citizen when the water proposition originally was submitted.
"That is just as we are to be feared because it works for the benefit of all," he said.
Speaking of the role of government in our present economy he listed four functions:
1. To preserve peace.
2. To insure competition in a free and open market.
3. To provide the maximum of incentive so enterprise will not stagnate.
"After government has performed these functions it's up to us," he told the Panhandle bankers.

The business session was followed by a John Snyder barbecue at the Tri-State Fair Grounds. Panhandle Bankers Association elected new officers yesterday. Named were: H. C. Woolbridge, Jr., of the First National Bank, Claude, president; William O. Mullins, of the Amarillo National Bank, secretary; and J. E. Walter, of the Hale County State Bank, Plainview, treasurer.

We suggest women's clubs be actively prevented from meeting more than once a season.

Don't Name It

"Slim walking into the post office, saw a new sign which read: 'MAN WANTED FOR ROBBERY IN CALIFORNIA.' At which Slim exclaimed, 'Gosh, if that job was only in TEXAS I would take it!'"
That's the beginning of some publicity for John Randolph, author of Texas Brags and other BIG TEXAS literature.

We received thru mail an advance copy of "The Jokes on Texas" together with a lot of publicity for the new book.
I don't know where you can get the book—likely at Spearman Drug and Corner Drug Store here in Spearman, but I can say right now that it is interesting to me.

In appreciation of the free copy, I'm printing below the copy's lengthy publicity that John Randolph has sent this office, together with the fact that John lives at box 230 Temple, Texas.

If you just gotta read his new book and can't get it handily—write John.
Here is the publicity:
With this story and many more like it, all good-naturedly lampooning Texas and Texans, John Randolph today introduces to Texas his new book, "The Jokes on Texas."

"Texas Brags" Randolph's first book, has become a guide to Texans everywhere in pointing out Texas' glories. "The Jokes on Texas" is just the converse, with cartoons, jokes and stories on Texas' weather, geography, habits and inhabitants. Randolph describes the new one as a healthy companion, or call it an antidote, if you will, for "Texas Brags."

Rib-tickling from cover to cover. "The Jokes on Texas" was compiled by Randolph over a seven-year period, and published to prove to natives and to non-Texans that Texans can laugh at themselves as hard as they brag. The book is colorfully illustrated with cartoons from the drawing boards of outstanding Texas artists plus those of many non-Texans. The jokes are from that mysterious telegraphy which is the nerve system for the American sense of humor, and, as usually, Randolph says, "it doesn't matter to the Texan that he comes out on the short end so long as the situation has a twist that makes him smile." And he proves it with 64 pages of hilariousity.

Arthur Randolph is a Texan by choice who moved to Houston from his native Florida in 1938. As an advertising man he created the "Texas Brags" theme for a series of advertisements developed for a client. He put it into book form while in the Army, stationed at Marfa and later at Brownsville, in the Texas National Guard 124th Cavalry.

The volume went to press just as he was sent overseas, and problems to keep peace with the immediate and fantastic demand for it. The author saw his first copy in India.

The 124th Cavalry and Randolph's saw action as part of the Marse Task Force in Burma. He came home to write a narrative "Marathon in Burma." It gained distinction as one of the most elaborated and expensive ($65.00) single-volume unit histories of World War II, and one of the few written without the aid of supervision. Only a few copies remain, and Randolph will sell them except to members of the Marse Task Force. Since the war Randolph has voted his full time to the settlement of things Texas include a huge full time North America domestic outized Texas, another passport, and other items taken to Texas and Texas touch. His Texas Brags is ed in schools, used in firms to promote good upholding the virtues of the original version, and completed re-edited and brought-to-date, with new illustrations and more facts. It is a best seller. Randolph's column is keeping it moving Texas.

62 per cent of the earnings are "plowed back" into the business.
