THE SPEARMAN REPORTER, SPEARMAN, TEXAS 79081

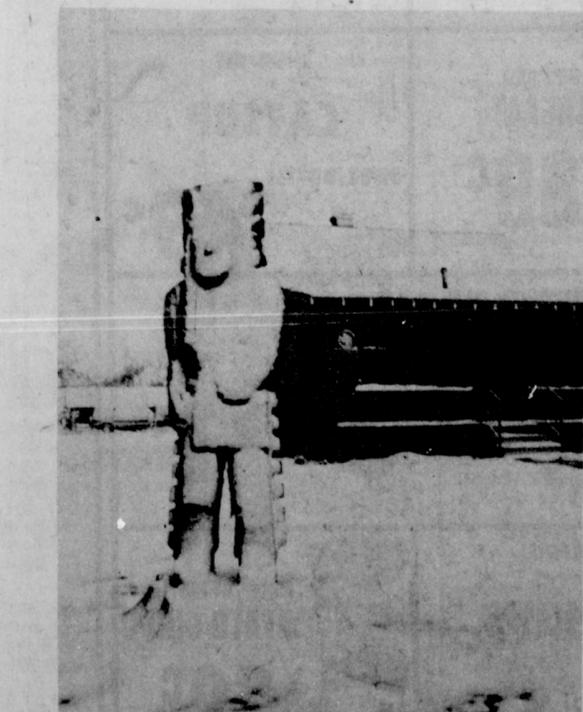

THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1979

Spearman residents awoke to a beautiful snow which fell in the area Tuesday morning. About 4 inches fell in Spearman, with heavier snow in Gruver and North Part of Hansford County.

April snow should make the wheat grow! This snow definitely will help crop prospects for the county. This is another snow scene in the Spearman area.

Elijah the Wooden Indian braved the snow very well. Although his face is plastered with the white, wet snow Elijah soon melted "out" and was in perfect shape by Wednesday morning when the sun came out!

Meals On Wheels Program Successful

Meals on Wheels has been delivering hot, well-balanced meals to Spearman residents for one year and has been declared a definite success by all involved with the program. In that period of time an average of eight persons per day and a total of twenty-four households have been served.

The service is offered to anyone living within the city limits who has need of a hot noon meal on weekdays, Monday through Friday. If meals are not needed every weekday, recipients may order only for the days needed. Special diets can and will be accommodated. The cost is $1.50 per meal. If a participant is in need of financial assistance, arrangements may be made. The meals, prepared by the hospital staff, must be ordered the Friday before the registrant wishes to receive them.

To sign up to receive this service, or for additional information, call Candy Boxwell at 3450 or Marsha Murphy at 3972. Delivery will be between 11:30 and 12:30, weekdays only, by members of one of the sixteen participating church and service organizations in Spearman.

Ethel K. Maupin Services Held

Memorial services for Mrs. Wesley E. (Ethel K.) Maupin were held in the Chapel of the Creveling Mortuary in Imperial, Nebraska, at 10:00 A.M., Wednesday, March 28, 1979 with the Reverend Bob Call, minister of the Imperial United Methodist Church officiating. Internment was in the Mt. Hope Cemetery at Imperial.

Mrs. Maupin, who was 91 years of age and a resident of the Imperial Manor since September 1977, was admitted to the Chase County Hospital shortly after midnight Friday and died about 12:30 P.M., Saturday, March 24th.

Solace in music was offered by Mrs. Willard Rouze at the organ who also accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Bawerle as they sang "In the Garden" and "The Old Rugged Cross."

Casketbearers were her son, William L. Maupin, her grandson, Wesley C. Maupin; and nephews John Williams, Robert Kirkpatrick, Howard Kirkpatrick, and Merle Kirkpatrick.

Mrs. Maupin, a noneganarian with a verve for living far surpassing many her age, was born January 14, 1888 in Wilcox, Nebraska, the oldest of seven children born to Humphrey and Hattie Kirkpatrick. She received her early schooling in Tonganoxie, Kansas, and in Franklin, Nebraska. She taught school in Franklin County before being married to Carl Saatoff March 31, 1908. They farmed near Monte Vista, Colorado many years before his death March 8, 1951.

Wesley E. Maupin and Ethel were married April 25, 1953 and the two enjoyed their golden years traveling and at their farm homes in Gruver, Texas, and Monte Vista, Colorado. Mr. Maupin died in April 1968. Mrs. Maupin continued to live at their home in Monte Vista until she moved to Imperial, Nebraska, where as a resident of the Imperial Manor, she enjoyed her remaining years in excellent health and a penchant for getting the most out of life.

Ethel was a charter member of the Sargent Community Church in Colorado; a member of the Sargent Missionary Society; and at one time, an active member of the Order of Eastern Star at Center, Colorado. She had been named "Senior Citizen of the Month" while in Monte Vista and in November 1978 was named "Good Friend of the Month" at the Imperial Manor.

Survivors include her children, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Maupin of Gruver, Texas; five grandchildren, Wesley C. Maupin, Gruver; Mrs. Merilee Maupin Nuttall and Mrs. Sherilee Maupin Kerschen, both of Leadville, Colorado; William C. Fryatt, Jr., Bakersfield, California; and Bob Fryatt, Berger, Texas. Seven great grandchildren also survive, Megan Nuttall, Leadville; Tamme Wynn and Wylee Maupin, Gruver; Weston and Lisa Fryatt, Bakersfield; Cynthia and Christabel Fryatt, Berger.

Several nephews and nieces also survive including Robert Kirkpatrick, Silver Springs, Maryland; Howard Kirkpatrick, Seattle, Washington; Merle Kirkpatrick, Imperial, Nebraska; John Williams, Gruver, Texas; and Mrs. Verne (Eva Kirkpatrick) Oehlerich, Seattle, Washington; Don and Earl Kirkpatrick and Helen, Vancouver, Washington; Virginia Benson, San Diego, California; and many, many friends gained through her beautiful life. She was preceded in death by her parents, five brothers and a sister.

The family has requested that any memorials may be made to the Imperial Manor in Imperial, Nebraska; the Gruver United Methodist Church, Gruver, Texas; the Sargent Community Church, Colorado or to any favorite charity or cause.

A memorial service was conducted for Mrs. Maupin at the Thursday evening Vesper Service at the Imperial Manor by Father Zygmund Rydz of the St. Patrick Church in Imperial.

God gave us our memories so that we might have Roses in December."—James Barrie.

Family Histories Needed Now For County History Book

The Hansford County History Book project committee wishes to remind everyone that the deadline for submitting family histories is April 15, with a possible extension of a month, due to a late mailing.

The letter was sent to over 3,000 persons who have been or are now residents of Hansford County. The committee is awaiting the arrival of three hundred more letters to complete the mailing.

If you have names of out-of-town friends and relatives who should be represented in the book please call or send them in to the museum at 30 S. Townsend St.

As a present or former resident of Hansford County, you are eligible for 500 words of free space to tell your story in the family history section of the Hansford County History Book being compiled as a nonprofit endeavor by the Hansford County Historical Commission.

Along with your story, you also may submit up to 3 photos (preferably black and white) for NO CHARGE. The committee will try to use at least 1 picture (your first choice) per family and will use more if space allows. On the back of each photo submitted, please write the following: 1-Caption-can include date taken, people in picture, special occasion, and location; 2-Order of preference in case all 3 cannot be used. Since the photos will be handled many times before being returned to you upon completion of the book, it is recommended you send black and white photocopies of any old or irreplaceable photos.

Family stories are just one of the many items to be featured in the forthcoming collectors' item. The planned general history section will narrate the county's growth and development from its beginning to the present through written copy and photos, accurately describing the changes in agriculture, industry, education, and other subjects of historical significance. The addition of histories of individual businesses, churches, organizations, and communities make the book even more comprehensive.

Histories are being sought from newcomers as well as Oldtimers and from present residents as well as those who years.

If you or other family members need more than 500 words, additional space may be purchased at the rate of $10.00 per hundred words. In addition, space will be available for you to say "I love you" in a special way with words and photos to a parent or other loved one-deceased or living.

Your family story and pictures should be sent in as soon as possible, but no later than April 15. Tell it as if you were telling it to your children or grandchildren in reminiscence, and others will enjoy reading it, too!

Send your materials to Hansford County Historical Commission, 30 S. Townsend, Spearman, Texas, 79081. By submitting these materials, you are helping to create the Hansford County History Book, a one-of-a-kind family heirloom to pass from generation to generation. being 8 1/2 x 11 in size, the book will contain several hundred pages of content bound into a durable hardback leatherette cover featuring the logo which depicts the county's history and development. If space allows, some personal cherished items will be included, such as a chart for recording your family tree.

In order to make copies of this book available, it will be necessary to collect in advance to printing. The books will be sold for a limited time only during the pre-sale for $35.00 each plus $1.75 sales tax. Add $2.25 for postage and handling per book ordered if you wish your copies mailed. Gift certificates are available for special upcoming occasions. To order your copies of the book, make your check or money order payable to the Hansford County Historical Commission.

Scouts & Nature

A few years ago it was considered the "in" trend to bend boy scouthood toward the urban dweller, who, it was said, needed help so badly. Thus the Boy Scout Handbook was written with a view of making it more applicable to big city boys.

It hasn't worked. The 1972 handbook was designed to be more relevant to urban youth and referred to such settings as asphalted basketball courts and hikers with skyscrapers in the background. Etc.

Since then, scout membership has declined from 6,500,000 to 4,500,000—an alarming plunge! City slickers, it seems, don't always fit into the traditional pattern of outdoor-living which scouts have traditionally been trained in. And so now the handbook will return to what has long been successful in scouting—the outdoors and fundamentals. William Hillcourt has voluntarily done the manual's rewriting, and his new handbook again stresses maps, trails, knots and wilderness survival techniques. (It can be obtained from scout headquarters at North Brunswick, N.J.)

Hillcourt, who became a scout in Denmark in 1910, admits boys lose something of the romance of scouting when confined to cities. So scouting is going back to nature. All America wishes this fine youth-building organization renewed success, as it reenters the outdoors, a course which has made it for so long a valuable part of the nation's moral heritage.

Too Much Pomp

The near pageantry of the signing of a peace treaty by Israel and Egypt in Washington could have been premature.

Coverage by all three U.S. commercial television networks was a bit much. Not even the signing of treaties with our own major western allies is given such concentrated coverage.

In the final analysis, whether the Carter-brewed peace treaty leads to peace or war in the Middle East depends on whether other Arab countries accept Egypt's splitting away from the formerly solid Arab front.

No doubt the Washington signing was of historical significance. But of equal significance is whether Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Syria and other more militant Arab countries can be persuaded to opt for peace so long as Israel retains conquered territory of Jordan, Syria and Arab Jerusalem, and while no provision for a Palestinian homeland is made.

So far, that appears unlikely. Too much hoopla, then, over splitting Egypt away from the Arab bloc, may therefore be unjustified.

Anwar Sadat, Egyptian President: "Let there be no more bloodshed between Arabs and Israelis."

Menachem Begin, Israeli Prime Minister: "No more war. No more bloodshed. Peace unto you. Shalom, salaam, forever."

Mark Hatfield, Senator (R-Ore), on oil picture: "Low oil stocks in the U.S. will inevitably lead to increased rationing of supplies by oil companies, higher prices."

Brock Adams, Transportation Secretary: "Modest cuts in automobile use to save energy will overwhelm the nation's mass transit system."

Bud Shuster, Congressman (R-Pa): "The American people have a right to know that it is the Republicans who support a constitutional limit on federal spending."

George Meany, AFL-CIO President: "Firms are engaged in 'profit-gouging' at the expense of the working man and woman."

Springtime Storms Increase Lightning Damage Danger

AUSTIN--Four out of five human deaths or injuries from lightning occur in rural areas, the Texas Department of Agriculture warns, and, as spring approaches, the likelihood of the violent electrical charges increases. Isolated buildings and equipment in rural areas are interconnected by a network of water pipes, electric wires and metal fencing to make them irresistible conductors in lightning's search for a path to the ground. Barns are particularly vulnerable as they are often the tallest structures around and regularly contain highly combustible material. Burning country homes and buildings are also at the mercy of limited rural fire-fighting equipment. A farmer perched high in the cab of a tractor or rancher straddling a metal corral fence join the ranks of highly susceptible targets. Like humans, animals are not nearly as often hit directly by lightning as they are electrocuted by ground currents radiating from a tree or other object. An estimated 80 percent of all accidental livestock losses have been attributed to lightning. Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown pointed out. Cases of electrocution as the result of current passing from land to animal have also been documented, including one Utah incident in which more than 500 sheep were killed instantly when the pasture in which they were grazing was struck. The ability of electrical current to travel from object to object explains the fact that most people and animals struck by lightning bear no visible scars.

Some good seems to come along with most of nature's evil and such is also the case with lightning, as it causes some of the nitrogen in the air to combine with part of the oxygen, forming nitric oxide gas. The gas, eventually dissolved in precipitation, comes back to the earth as soil-enriching nitrate at an estimated rate of hundreds of millions of pounds yearly. "While lightning presents an obvious danger, both in rural and urban environments the wise person can protect himself and his belongings," explained Brown. "Lightning rods are the best preventive medicine, but once lightning has struck, check for fire damage immediately."

In case of a storm, get inside, stay low and away from metal objects, water, electrical equipment and telephones. A car is a good place to be; a boat is not. Your chances are still a million to one of being hit by lightning, but if that statistic doesn't offer enough comfort, remember the wise words of a longtime expert: "If you heard the thunder, the lightning didn't strike you. If you saw the lightning, it missed you." And if it did strike you, you would not have known it."

HANSFORD COUNTY HISTORICAL COMMISSION

30 S. Townsend Spearman, Texas 79081

Are YOU leaving YOUR CHILDREN and FUTURE GENERATIONS a WRITTEN RECORD of their FAMILY? Will they appreciate their ROOTS?

If you don't leave this legacy to your children and grandchildren, WHO WILL?

Would you welcome the opportunity to include a story of your family as well as photos in a history book for NO CHARGE?

If YOU don't take action now to preserve your family's story, chances are very great that no one else ever will, either. As a present or former resident of Hansford County, you are eligible for 500 words of free space to tell your story in the family history section of the Hansford County History Book being compiled as a non-profit endeavor by the Hansford County Historical Commission.

Family Story Plus 3 Photos

Along with your story, you also may submit up to 3 photos (preferably black and white) for NO CHARGE. We will try to use at least 1 picture (your first choice) per family and will use more if space allows. On the back of each photo submitted, please write the following: 1) Caption—can include date taken, people in picture, special occasion, and location; 2) Order of preference in case all 3 cannot be used. Since the photos will be handled many times before being returned to you upon completion of the book, we recommend your sending black and white photo-copies of any old or irreplaceable photos. These can be easily obtained from a photographer or photography studio.

Book Contents

Family stories are just one of the many items to be featured in this forthcoming collector's item. The planned general history section will narrate the county's growth and development from its beginning to the present through written copy and photos, accurately describing the changes in agriculture, industry, education, and other subjects of historical significance. The addition of histories of individual businesses, churches, organizations, and communities makes the book even more comprehensive.

Who Is Eligible?

To produce such a book for the education and enjoyment of future generations, materials are needed for the family story section from Newcomers as well as Oldtimers and from present residents as well as those who formerly lived in the county. Each eligible living family unit is entitled to the free space whether they have lived in Hansford County 1 day or 80 years. REMEMBER—A NEWCOMER TODAY IS HISTORY TOMORROW! So, if you have living sisters or brothers, aunts or uncles, cousins, grandparents, parents or other relatives who have lived in Hansford County at one time or presently live here, be sure they write their family story and submit photos, too!

How To Include Your Ancestors

By encouraging your living family members to write their own family stories and use their 500 free words, you help insure your family will be well represented in the book. Each family unit can tell something different about their ancestors in addition to their immediate family. For example, pretend you have 3 married sisters and 1 married brother, all of whom have lived in the county at one time. This means you five children can write something about your parents, grandparents, early family life, etc. in each of 5 stories. In this way, each of you can still devote the major part of the story to your own marriage, children, career, family activities, hobbies, and other items of interest. Of course, if your parents and grandparents are still living, they can use their free space, too, to give further depth to the total family picture.

Additional Space Is Available

If you or other family members need more than 500 words, additional space may be purchased at the rate of $10.00 per hundred words. In addition, space will be available for you to say "I love you" in a special way with words and photos to a parent or other loved ones—deceased or living—in the form of a memorial or tribute.

How To Write Your Story

Your family story and pictures should be sent in as soon as possible but not later than April 15, 1979. Tell it as if you were telling it to your children or grandchildren in reminiscence, and others will enjoy reading it, too! This letter contains tips for writing your story, including sample stories and a list of items you may want to include.

A straight panel of lace in front accentuated the fullness of the skirt. The full tiered skirt tapered to a chapel length train. The neckline of the dress was in a Queen Anne style, bordered with Alecon lace and seed pearls and a Basque waist fitted from bodice to hips. The sleeves of chanta lace were full to forearm with a tight extended cuff, which was secured with eight tiny buttons. Her hat was of matching chanta lace.

Our Heritage of Faith... notes from Faith Lutheran Church

This Sunday is Palm Sunday. It is the day we remember the triumphal entry of Jesus into Jerusalem. As he rode on the back of a small donkey through the streets of Jerusalem he was greeted with the shouts and praises of the people. "Hosanna! Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord, even the King of Israel!"

The praise and honor that met Jesus left in a very short time. Soon the cries of the crowd were "Crucify Him!"

We should consider how our voices are heard by God. Do the songs and words we say reach the ears of God as "Hosanna" (grant salvation now)? Or do our words and actions, our very lives tell God "Crucify Him!"

As we enter this time just before Easter, the Resurrection of Jesus, let our words to God be "Hosanna, Grant Salvation Now O God."

Faith Lutheran Church will gather together to worship Thursday evening at 7:30. We are looking at the life of Abraham, our father in the Faith. The title of this Thursday's sermon is "That's A Laugh." All are invited to come and worship, with us.

Sunday mornings we meet together at 9:00 for worship and this week we will be celebrating Holy Communion. The Christian Education hour follows at 10:00. Any and all people are invited to come join us for worship and fellowship at 11th and Bernice.

Help prevent poisoning accidents—practice a few household safety rules.

Each year 100,000 young children swallow dangerous household products. Most of these accidents could have been avoided.

Start today to practice these nine household rules:

- ..Keep all household products and medicines out of children's reach, and, preferably, lock them up when not in use.
- When these products are in use, always keep them in sight—even if it involves taking them along when answering the telephone or doorbell.
- ..Store internal medicines separately from other household products.
- ..Keep items in their original containers—never in cups or soft drink bottles.
- ..Properly label all products, and read the label before using.
- ..When giving or taking medicines, always do so with the light on.
- ..Avoid taking medicines in front of children—children tend to imitate adults.
- ..Refer to medicines as "medicines"—not "candy."
- ..Clean the medicine cabinet periodically, and dispose of unneeded medicines when the illness for which they were prescribed is over.

- ..Use safety packaging properly—close the container securely after use.

Poison prevention is just one of the main topics of the Extension parenting workshop—Coping With Those Curtain Clumbers—to be held April 17 in the Spearman Methodist Church Fellowship Hall and April 18 in the Gruber Church of Christ Fellowship Hall.

9:30 a.m. - Noon, workshop participants will be involved in activities wherein they can experience methods of positive guidance and ways they can help their children learn through play.

These workshops, sponsored by the Family Living Committee, are open to all regardless of race, sex, religion, or economic level. Babysitting will be provided for workshop participants.

Exhibits for viewing and packets of information helpful to the young parent will be available.

Intensive Grazing Systems

RANGE - Referred grazing on blue grama pasture on Joe T. Venneman Ranch

Winter snow has provided some moisture and spring grasses should get a better start moisture wise than they have during the past few years. These conditions should be good for starting an intensive grazing system, according to Gary Briggs, Range Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service in Pampa. An intensive grazing system is a method of grazing in which the rest periods for pastures is longer than the grazing period. This type of grazing is also known as High Intensity - Low Frequency (HI-LF), one herd, or short duration systems.

The concept of intensive grazing systems is relatively simple," states Briggs. "Livestock is grouped into one herd and systematically rotated through a series of pastures. The number of pastures usually varies from 4 to 12. The length of the grazing period for each pasture is based on the amount of forage produced in that particular pasture. Generally, a pasture is grazed for 20 to 60 days and then rested for 4 to 12 months. The rotation system should be designed so a pasture is not grazed at the same time every year."

"There are many advantages associated with an intensive grazing system, reports Warren Proctor, District Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service in Spearman. "The chief benefit is that this system will allow rangeland to produce more total pounds of beef at less-cost than with any other type of grazing. There is more uniform grazing distribution with this system, thus, more efficiently utilizing all forage in the pasture. Livestock is forced to use weeds and other less desirable plants as well as the high quality grasses that they normally use."

Also, because there is only one herd in only one pasture, there is a substantial reduction in labor, especially during winter feeding periods when cows are calving, or other times when livestock need to be watched closely. This system provides flexibility in herd management during drought, since the rancher has a better opportunity to analyze forage on hand versus rate of regrowth in grazed pastures. Finally, this system of grazing causes an improvement in range condition thus making the land more productive.

"While it is well known that a well-managed intensive grazing system will greatly improve productivity, there are many things which should be considered before implementing such a system," emphasizes Briggs. Extra fencing may be needed as there should be at least four pastures in the system. A short duration system will require more and better watering facilities per pasture.

Since livestock is more concentrated, they will need to be watched closely for signs of stress. Kind, timing, and amounts of supplemental feed will need to be monitored. Stocker operations may require continuous supplemental feeding in some cases. There may be some livestock movement problems and possible problems with dogged calves, but these can be minimized with proper pasture layout. It is probably better to begin an intensive grazing system with younger cattle as they seem to respond more efficiently than older animals that are used to less concentrated conditions.

According to Briggs, "A well managed intensive grazing system should help each rancher to run more cattle at less expense while improving the range condition."

CLORIS LEACHMAN STARS IN "NORTH AVENUE" COMEDY

She answers the phone. "Leachman here," then waits not quite a moment. "Blah, blah, blah," she says, cutting amenities short. "What do you want?"

Cloris Leachman is in makeup at Walt Disney Studio where she is starring in "The North Avenue Irregulars," a comedy against crime. Leachman stars with Barbara Harris, Susan Clark, Karen Valentine, Patsy Kelly, Virginia Capers and Edward Herrmann in the film about a minister and some women who take on the mob.

What the caller wants doesn't really matter. "Leachman," whose reputation for being late to the set is excelled only by her candor, will not say yes to the request if she cannot keep the appointment. There are just some things Cloris won't do.

She will, however, remember on a Friday on the set that she is leaving for Europe the next morning and needs a passport for her daughter.

She will bring bags of potatoes and onions and celery, ask lightly for a hot plate, a knife, a large pot, some water and a few condiments and peel and peel for hours before her "snack" for the crew of a hundred-plus begins to simmer. (She will also simmer it for two days, then show up in an old robe and slippers on a night off to serve it).

In Disney's "The North Avenue Irregulars," Cloris portrays Claire Porter, a divorcee whose madcap is slightly askew. Her poodle's bows match her own outfits which match her Lincoln Continentals which, in turn, match the radio mikes she contributes to The Crusades.

Off camera, the character's snappy crepe de chine dresses give way to the current fashionable Unironed Look, and Cloris speaks softly, almost reverently one morning of having visited with every tree in her yard the night before.

Her health food habits are always the topic of someone's conversation around the set. Star Patsy Kelly, veteran character actress and wisecracking co-star of comedies during the 30s, calls Leachman "Chlorophyll."

But talent there is, incontrovertibly. An Oscar as best supporting actress in 1972 for "The Last Picture Show," and four Emmys, two of which were for her portrayal of Phyllis Lindstrom on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" (From which her own series evolved) are evidence of the talent.

"I don't create the characters," she says. "They find me. I get clues to them from their wardrobe, their hair, their dialogue, if they've an accent. They come to me."

Because of her diversified roles from flouncy Phyllis to gray Nurse Diesel in "High Anxiety," Leachman is freer than many actresses. "I don't have to depend on other people seeing a role and thinking of my type. And I give something a little different to each role."

In "The North Avenue Irregulars," she gives more than free soup in the comedy also starring Michael Constantine and Ruth Buzzi. Bruce Bilson directed for producer Ron Miller and co-producer Tom Leetch. Don Tait wrote the screenplay from a true story by Rev. Albert Fay Hill. Buena Vista will release.

COMMUNITY PUBLIC SERVICE
Your Electric Light & Power Company

By Jim Stoert Grand Farm Editor

The Hereford Brand-Sunday, March 25, 1979

The ancient law of supply and demand has always been an integral part of our economic system.

Witness the petroleum situation... Fossil fuels are a non-renewable resource growing more scarce each day.

And as the world's oil supplies dwindle, the price of this commodity goes up, and up, and up.

Yet, while the supply and demand situation normally holds true, we have a situation in America today that is a throwback to the downfall of former great civilizations.

One of our basic economic units, the family farm, is fast disappearing from the American scenario.

Taking the place of fertile expanses that gave the land sufficiency are ever-expanding jungles of concrete and asphalt and steel, the housing developments, shopping centers and highways of a modern society that may one day outrace its basic food supply.

With the number of family farms growing scarce, their great value should be realized as it grows with each day the world population expands, wouldn't you think?

Despite knowledge of this fact in rural America, the urban leagues of this nation have not realized a basic truth etched in history... The pilgrimage to the cities brought on by the displacement of the working farms can only end in disaster.

We've all heard of the glory days of the Greek and Roman empires.

Greece, the very heart of democracy in the Western World, saw her governmental system emulate dissolve into dictatorship.

Foreign conquest followed swiftly.

The Greek philosopher Plato saw the reason for this, and wrote even before the final downfall of Greece, lamenting the status of the stewardship of the land.

"When Attica was still intact, what are now her mountains were lofty, soil-clad hills; her so-called shingle plains of the present day were full of rich soil; and her mountains were heavily forested. There were many lofty cultivated trees, while the country produced boundless pasture for cattle. The annual supply of rain was not lost, as it is at present, through being allowed to flow over the denuded surface to the sea."

Plato's words were penned 23 centuries ago... The Greek soil still washes away, remaining too poor to support the mountain forests that one day held the water and prevented erosion.

The mighty Roman empire sprouted from a republic of farmers, who worked hard on their holdings, and responded to the call to arms at first to defend their homeland.

It was the taste for empire and the forgetting of the importance of sustenance from the land that played a major role in Rome's downfall.

The Romans eventually adopted shoddy land use practices as they expanded their conquests... Small land holdings were combined into massive absentee-owned estates, the owners reasoning that the land could be more efficiently worked in large sections by slave labor than in smaller lots by family farmers.

There was a grievous error in this thinking... A human ingredient vital to a civilization was overlooked.

Those who own the land they work care far more about it, and maintain it much better than mere slaves of the land.

Grain production fell off as the Romans took new territories, and soon the republic was looking to its conquered lands for its own sustenance.

Farmers driven from the land were pouring into the cities of Rome, where there was no work... only public spectacles in the arena, and welfare.

Corrosion of the empire was underway... Those who did not have to work with their hands were making jest of those who did... It was easy to laugh at first, until there was no bread.

By the end of the second century A.D., the Romans were so desperate for farmers to tend their lands once more that a law was passed giving anyone anywhere in the empire the right to take possession of abandoned fields, even if they belonged to the emperor himself, so long as they worked the land.

As author George Reigler wrote, "There were few takers, partly because most such land was beyond the restorative capabilities of most farmers, and because it was still easier and more respectable for Romans to go through the motions of civil service, be 10 percenters in commerce, or even take welfare than to work with one's hands."

We know what happened to Rome... What is left of that once mighty empire now?

Some of these mistakes sound mighty familiar, don't they? Will America squander her most precious resource through mistakes in law and land use?

According to Robert C. Cook, former director of the Population Reference Bureau, in little more time than it has taken you to read through this column, nearly 50 acres of irreplaceable productive farmland were consumed through housing or other development.

In the ten minute period that consumption was taking place, 1,600 people became members of the earth's population.

In the time it took you to read the last sentence, six new people were born.

And as this growing load appears, to make its drain on earth's finite resources, we have to wonder, can we really afford to give up good farmland and gifted family farmers?

We have seen the pilgrimage to our own cities, the welfare rolls might rival those of Rome, right here in our own nation.

Propagandists following the directives of the power-hungry make light of the importance of the farm, and those who tend the land are held up to ridicule and often, outright abuse.

The goal seems to be massive corporate farm holdings once more, and perhaps, even a one-empire system, with only a handful to tend the soil.

But how long will the legions march, the Senate debate, or the artisans and inventors carry on, once those who care for the land are gone?

New FmHA Farm Loan Rate

WASHINGTON.--Details on loan programs affected by higher interest rates announced March 21 by Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland were given today by Gordon Cavanaugh, administrator of the Farmers Home Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Cavanaugh said the 9 and 9-1/2 percent interest rates on most programs will be effective beginning March 28. The interest rate for most loans was 8-1/2 percent.

Insured real estate loans will be made at 9 percent. These loans include farm ownership, emergency and economic emergency real estate loans, individual recreation, grazing association, irrigation and drainage and Indian land acquisition loans.

Interest on regular insured operating loans will be 9 1/2 percent. The new interest rate will apply also to natural disaster emergency and economic emergency operating loans used to pay for livestock, equipment, feed, seed, fertilizer and to make minor improvements to buildings and real estate.

Interest on loans to "limited-resource" farmers will remain at 3 percent for initial farm ownership loans and at 5 percent for operating loans.

FmHA's natural disaster emergency loans for production losses will continue to be made at the 5 percent rate. Home mortgage interest, set at 9 percent in early February, will remain the same.

Cavanaugh said he did not expect further increases in interest rates this year.

Bergland said Wednesday, "Interest rates are an important mechanism to help control inflation. The cost to the government for money has increased substantially in the past year. Continuing present rates would result in major losses to the government."

Consumer Food News

COLLEGE STATION -- Budget buys at Texas grocery markets this week include fryer chickens and potatoes.

Also, look for specials on canned and frozen produce, according to Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

This week's price-quality trends are the following: POULTRY--Feature prices appear on whole fryers and parts.

Buy extras and freeze for summertime menus, since today's prices will be real bargains compared to mid-summer prices.

Eggs also have bargain prices, since a two-egg serving costs only 16 cents if a dozen eggs costs 96 cents.

FRESH VEGETABLES--Potatoes are probably the most economical vegetable on the market today. Also, watch for price drops on lettuce and fresh Florida corn.

Other economical items are cucumbers, dry onions and squash.

Look for feature prices on carrots, bell peppers and green onions in some markets. Reasonable prices appear on radishes, broccoli, rutabagas, mushrooms and greens.

FISH--Although prices seem high, fish is more economical than red meat as shown in cost-per-serving comparisons. DAIRY--Features include buttermilk, skim milk, yogurt and sour cream.

GROCERY MARKET AISLES--Look for special prices on canned fruits and vegetables, along with pasta products, tuna and peanut butter.

FROZEN FOOD CHESTS--Specials include vegetables, fried chicken, pizzas, ice cream.

FRESH FRUITS--Best buys include bananas, pineapple, apples, avocados and oranges.

BEEF--A few features include arm and boneless chuck roasts, ground beef, chuck and sirloin steaks and liver.

PORK--Specials may appear on quarter loins cut into chops, loin-end chops and roasts. Also, consider semi-boneless hams and 5-7 pound canned hams.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: Dry beans, dry peas and lentils are food bargains.

"Sentry Genes" Confined

DALLAS -- Existence in humans of "sentry genes" that are nature's protection against cancer cells has been confirmed at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School here.

Dr. Donald J. Capra, Professor of Microbiology, said in an interview that the preliminary evidence has been gathered "in mice and men" to show that a special group of genes control immunity to cancer. His research was supported by an American Cancer Society grant.

Dr. Capra said his colleagues and other researchers now believe that a "fault or deficiency" in a particular group of recognition genes is responsible for failure of the body to fight off the disease or prevent cancer from starting.

Recent research in this area, he said, indicates that the "sentry genes" are located in the "I region" of the 16th chromosome in man and the 17th chromosome in the mouse. Lymphocytes (cells active in the immune process) from human spleen tissues and from similar mouse cells are being studied simultaneously. The mouse cells are more dependent for genetic experiments because they are derived from highly inbred strains while human cells are always from a mixed ancestry. Molecules which stimulate the special cancer immunity are extracted from the spleen cells to discover their structure and function. They are also used to make "anti-sera" which could either block or enhance their activity.

The next step and one that might be decisive in solving the cancer problem is to identify the flaws that occur in the special group of anti-cancer genes. The door is now open to that possibility and, as Dr. Capra put it, "Science is now sitting in the front row with great expectations, as the curtain is about to go up."
