Hightower Says Loan Level For Grains Must Be Raised

STATEMENT BY CONGRESSMAN JACK HIGHTOWER
January 7, 1980
(Vernon, Texas)

I am not going to be involved in second-guessing the President's decision to cut grain sales to Russia back to the 8 million metric ton level. I do urge the President that if the situation is grave enough to take action of this magnitude, that it is grave enough to warrant protecting the economic base of the sector that produces the food and fiber of this country. I also believe that if the situation is this serious, we should cut off all trade goods that are sold to Russia. Either we mean business or we do not mean business. I realize that there is nothing that will have the effect on Russia that cutting the grain sales has, but it is important that the American farmer and rural America feel that the entire nation is in this together.

has to sell his grain or put it in the government loan that is at a level less than one-half of the farmer's out of pocket expense.

We already have more grain in reserve than is needed. There are today 17.5 million tons of feed grains and 6.25 million tons of wheat in the reserve. Add the 17 million metric tons headed for Russia and any kind of crop next year and we will have problems finding a place to store the reserve. Additional grain in reserve will aid only if we can bring about additional use through gasohol and export development.

I will continue to use every resource at my disposal to ease the immediate burden this places on the American farmer.

MARKETS
Wheat	$3.40
Milo	3.50
Corn	2.41
Soybeans	4.20

The export markets have been the one bright spot in the over-all farm picture during these past few years and Russia has certainly been the central figure in that picture. If Russia is going to be involved in aggression of the type we have seen in Afghanistan, it does not make any sense to feed them to make them stronger.

The question we face is, what do we do to save the farm economy that has teetered on the brink of disaster even before the news of this weekend? First, the President must raise the loan level for wheat and feed grains to 90 percent of parity. The House passed version of the 1977 Farm Bill provided for that in the case of any embargo. In conference with the Senate, that provision was weakened by limiting the mandate to an embargo because of domestic shortages. The administration has the authority to raise the loan and it must be done.

I have always supported an all-out push for gasohol as a way to extend our oil supply. It is not going to use the 17 million metric tons of grain that was scheduled for export to Russia today or even this year. The farmer will be wiped out if he

Gasohol plant nears reality

Marion Garland

Dwayne Te Beest

Progress continues to be made in the development of the Northwest Texas Grain Products Coop, a concern which will be devoted to production of grain alcohol and related bi-products according to Marion Garland of Sunray, one of the original organizers of the Coop. Mr. Garland was in Spearman Monday to make a report on this project on the local radio and through this newspaper.

According to Garland, 2,850,000 bushels of grain (corn, milo, or wheat) have now been committed by over 200 grain growers from Groom to Dalhart and from Dumas to Booker. Co-op directors, who include Dwayne TeBeest of Gruver and R.C. Porter of Spearman, have set a goal of 3 1/2 million bushels as the point at which a feasibility study will be initiated.

Proposed financing of the plant, which is presently projected to cost $30 million with an annual production capacity of 20 million gallons of alcohol, is an 80%-20% arrangement, wherein an investment bank will provide $24 million and the farmer-members put up the remaining $6 million. An investment banking firm with which the coop has been in contact, Stephens, Inc. of Little Rock, Ark. advises that they have commitments of over $400 million to be invested in alcohol plant construction, subject to a favorable feasibility study by a reputable firm. Congressional concern over development of new sources of energy have led to recent passage of legislation setting aside $800 million for guaranteeing loans to build alcohol plants, and forbidding using petroleum or coal for feedstock in the plant. Such a guarantee insures availability of funds for the 80%, Garland said, but he hastened to add that the 20% to be put up by the farmer members is not government guaranteed. The return to the member will be in the eventual 100% ownership of the facility by the membership, and the year by year added return to the farmer for his grain in processing it through the alcohol plant. Projections based on current prices for alcohol and the related bi-products show conservatively a 50% to 100% return above market prices for the grain. Garland stressed that the embargo action by the President virtually insures that grain prices will do well to recover to recent levels during the two years time required to get the plant into operation, whereas the price of inputs into grain production will undoubtedly rise substantially in that period. Principal of these inputs is fuel, and the principal output of the proposed plant being fuel, (alcohol), also, the gain on processed grain will be more than 50-100%. "It looks to me" he said "like this is the only way available to most of us to survive" by tying the price of what we raise to fuel prices, which are going to continue to go up-they always have".

Moving to the mechanics of what is required to become a member of this group, Garland explained that in the pre-construction phase, a member will put up 20 cents per bushel for a minimum 10,000 bu. contract. 5 cents of this ($500 per 10,000 bu contract) is put up at the time membership application is Plan ahead to eat slim at meals away from home. Whether eating in restaurants, fast-food establishments, cafeterias or a friend's home, eat only the amount of food that you can afford calorically.

Many Americans are eating meals away from home on a regular basis due mainly to rising consumer incomes, continual increase in working wives and a demand for family eating at a modest price.

An awareness of restaurants and types of foods served can help when planning for these meals away from home.

Select a restaurant that serves a variety of lower caloric foods.

One which features salads and broiled meats would be a better choice than one featuring gravies, sauces and rich desserts.

Some fast food restaurants, which account for 26 percent of the away-from-home eating market, save time, but may cost the average consumer more calories than he or she can afford.

For example, a three piece chicken dinner at a well-known fried chick restaurant may contain 830 calories--this count includes the fried chicken, mashed potatoes, gravy, coleslaw and a roll.

The extra crispy chicken contains even more calories--950 for the three piece dinner.

Three slices of a thick crust pizza contain around 600 calories compared to about 490 calories for the thin crust pizza.

Quarter-pound cheese hamburger on a bun provides about 520 calories; French fries, 210 calories; and chocolate milk shake, 364 calories.

Two pieces of batter-fried fish provide about 431 calories; three hush puppies, 134 calories; and coleslaw, 133 calories.

Nutrition Today-Weight Control Tomorrow is the title of an informative letter series, free to those who call (659-2030 or 733-2901) write (Box 997) or come by the County Extension office in the Courthouse to enroll.

The series will feature such topics as why people overeat, how to determine amount of weight to lose, and how to plan meals to control calories and behavior changes needed to maintain normal weight.

Divorce Laws Help Marriage?

It has sometimes been assumed that reasonable divorce laws encourage divorce. Some churches seem to take this position, indirectly. Dr. Robert E. Lee, of Wake Forest University, the author of many books on the subject, says the reverse is true.
Lee, author of a new three-volume work on North Carolina Family law, also believes that as the number of de facto marriages increases (unmarried couples living together) a body of common law affecting them will grow up.

And as marriages assume, more and more, the nature of a contract rather than an iron status, its attractiveness may be enhanced, rather than the reverse.
Lee, former dean of the Wake Forest Law School, thinks a rapidly pressing question today is whether the courts and state legislatures can allow unmarried couples living together to enjoy greater freedom of contracting than married couples are allowed.

The subject is timely, of vital importance and affects the future of the nation. No editor knows all the answers, but most Americans would agree that marriage is the basic foundation of our society, and that it should be made as attractive as possible.

The young today are comparing the traditional with modern substitutes. How to encourage couples to marry is a timely concern--and those like Dr. Lee believe reasonable divorce laws, which recognize that mistakes are made and should be correctable--that those who made them not be doomed for life--want the young to opt for marriage.

Forage Testing Guides Feeding Value

Do you know the protein level of the hay you're feeding livestock? Few producers do. Most think a bale of hay is a bale of hay, points out Layton Barton, County Agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Individuals can guess protein content of hay from physical characteristics but may miss the actual value by several percentage points. Low quality hay can be distinguished easily from high quality hay, but true feeding value can only be estimated. This is where a forage test comes in, emphasizes Barton. A forage analysis is a chemically determined value of the hay's protein content. A forage test provides a protein feeding value that can be used to determine feeding and supplementation needs for each class of animals fed. For example, 6 percent crude protein hay does not compare in feeding value to hay with 12 percent crude protein. Each type of hay should be fed differently. Different levels of protein might indicate types of animals that could be fed with the two hays, notes Barton. A 6 percent crude protein hay is low in quality not only because the protein is low but its digestibility will likely be low. Young stock, like steers and heifers, may not be able to physically eat enough of this hay, even with protein supplementation, to meet their nutritional requirements. Instead, such hay should be fed to dry, mature cows and should be supplemented with a protein source. Six percent crude protein hay will not provide the mature cow with enough nutrition to maintain herself without additional protein. Twelve percent crude protein hay is a good quality hay that has a good level of protein and will probably be good in digestibility, points out Barton. This hay will probably meet the nutritional requirements of a steer or pregnant heifer. Since hay is high in protein and digestibility, an animal will be able to eat more and meet its requirements. This same hay would need to be supplemented with protein if fed to cows with calves since they have high nutritional needs. Hay varies widely in feeding value, adds Barton. Hay from each cutting is different from every other cutting. However, hay for a single cutting is similar in protein content and digestibility. Once feeding value of a bale or two from a cutting is determined, the general value of all bales from that cutting should be similar. Since feeding values of different types of hay are going to vary widely, a forage test is essential to help determine if supplemental protein is needed and how much. A forage test of each different type hay to be used this winter will pay dividends in better animal nutrition, contends Barton. NOTICE: The Boots and slippers square dance club will be dancing January 10th, at 8 p. m. at the Golden Age Center in Gruver, with J. D. WILBANKS, Calling... *****

All Breed Bull Sale Set

Plans are underway for the Second Annual All-Breed Bull Sale March 8, 1980 in Cheyenne, Oklahoma, 12:30 p.m. at the Roger Mills County Ag Pavilion. The sale is sponsored by the Roger Mills County Cattle-men's Association. Last year's sale was a great success, with 34 bulls of eight breeds selling at an average of $1151. This year, consignors are offering up to eight breeds, both purebred and cross, to discriminating commercial stockmen.

Anyone interested in consigning to the sale or wanting further information should contact G.M. Kahoa, sale manager, Kahoa Cattle Services, Cheyenne, Oklahoma - Ph. 405-928-2795.

Food Stamp Users Hard Hit By Inflation

Overall income in the United States increased five times faster than incomes of food stamp householders over the past four years, according to Carol Tucker Foreman, assistant secretary of agriculture for food and consumer services. While overall incomes increased 40 percent during this time, incomes of food stamp recipients went up only 7 percent, she said. As a result, food stamp households are being especially hard hit by inflation. According to a recent survey, food stamp households have an average monthly income of about $320, compared to an average monthly household income of about $1,500 in the general population. Moreover, the poor have little to fall back on. Sixty percent of people on food stamps have no liquid assets, and 95 percent have assets of under $1,500, Foreman said. The cost of necessities has risen faster than the cost of other items—rising by 34 percent over the past four years, according to a price index for necessities. During the first nine months of 1979, the cost of medical care went up 9 percent, food by 9.6 percent, housing by 15 percent and energy by 45.5 percent. The needy spend 90 percent of their income on necessities (food, shelter, medical care and household utilities), while other Americans spend only about 60 percent of their income to buy necessities. According to Donald West of Washington State University, food stamp shoppers buy less costly food, more economical cuts of meat, fewer bakery products, and about half as many snacks as other shoppers. Despite automatic cost-of-living increases in food stamp benefits, food stamp users have suffered from inflation in recent years—and they suffered more than the general population, Foreman said. Fertilizer Supply Unpredictable

Transportation and credit should be the two biggest factors determining the supply of fertilizer to local farmers, reports Layton Barton, county Agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. However, there are many unpredictable factors that influence the fertilizer production and distribution system which make it difficult to forecast fertilizer availability at any given location next winter and spring, Barton points out. Local shortages of fertilizer may develop because of the failure of the transportation system to replace dealer inventories rapidly enough during peak demand periods, Barton explains. Therefore, farmers should consider early fertilization where possible. Another difficulty this year is the high cost of credit. Financing early fertilization may be hard for farmers, notes Barton. Those who have income from this year's crop that can be invested in fertilizer for the 1980 crop will want to consider potential advantages, Barton suggests. Fertilizer dealers may have problems replacing inventories or building up local storage because of the high cost of credit. Reports from the fertilizer industry indicate an adequate supply of fertilizer for the 1980 crop year. Little, if any, reduction in anhydrous ammonia is expected during the coming winter. Production capacity is adequate for other nutrients also. It appears the supply of most fertilizer materials will be adequate for 1980. However, costs are expected to increase, and transportation may cause problems, says Barton. Repeat Performance Who was that blonde I saw you with last night? The redhead I was with Thursday night. made, and serves to provide the seed money for organizational expenses and to pay for the feasibility study. At the time the study is received and presented to the entire membership, a decision will be made by that membership on whether to proceed with pre-engineering and development studies leading to actual ground-breaking for the plant (to be located at the most desirable site according to the feasibility study). If the decision is negative, that is the end of it-but all who put up money make that decision together. If the decision is to go ahead, the present temporary board of directors will resign, and the entire membership will elect a permanent board, and each holder of a 10,000 bu contract will put up an additional (15 cents) ($1500 per contract) to proceed with pre-engineering and planning studies. Anyone desiring to drop out at this point may do so, and is not obligated for the additional 15 cents/bu assessment, although the original 5 cent payment cannot be refunded.

At the time for actual groundbreaking, after successful completion of engineering & planning, the investment firm will put up their 80% and the membership will put up the balance of 20% which will amount to about $8,600 for each contract, which will then be the total liability of any contract-holder. "I want to point out again" Garland stressed "That this type of investment carries a high degree of risk-nobody has ever built a purely-fuel-alcohol plant in the United States. "This plant will be under the control of local people," Garland said, "There has been concern to a number of prospective members over the proposed relationship with Grain Products International (G.P.I.) because final control would have been vested in G.P.I. The board of directors shares this concern, and has determined that the coop will under no circumstances enter such an agreement".

"We believe this plant will work, and work well; but it boils down to this-a chance to survive in an economic climate where it is government policy to encourage cheap food because there's always a surplus-and on the other hand, it is government policy to develop alternative fuel sources at almost any price-because there's a shortage, and will be as far ahead as we can see.

"And grain alcohol also has other practical uses-plastics, to name one, cosmetics for another. The prospects are awesome."

"To wrap it up", Garland concluded "an alcohol plant is going to be built in the Panhandle-and farmers are going to build it!"

Tips from Stanley

Refitting A 'Swollen' Door

Until the Surform plane came along, refitting a swollen door was a task that many homeowners shied away from. Manufactured by Stanley Tools, each Surform blade has hundreds of razor sharp, preset steel teeth which makes planing easier than ever. The Surform plane lets a do-it-yourselfer plane a door edge like a pro. At hardware and home center outlets for about $8.00.

To make a non-closing door fit once again, start by holding the door against its jamb. Mark high spots on door's edge using a heavy, soft pencil.

Tap the pins from the hinges and take the door down. Either clamp it rigid or have a helper hold it while you reduce (plane) the door's edge. Using Surform plane No. 296 with long, even strokes, plane off the desired amount of wood. For maximum stock removal with the least effort, hold plane at a 45° angle to direction of stroke as shown.

To obtain a smooth finish with a Surform plane stroke the tool parallel to direction of stroke, as here.

ESTIMATED FARMER INVESTMENT AND EQUITY IN A GRAIN PROCESSING COOPERATIVE

BY BUSHEL:

To build a 20,000,000 gallon plant
At a cost of $30,000,000.00
Using wheat, corn or milo
Requires 7,000,000 bushels grain per year (at least 51% furnished by members)
Seed money required: $1,400,000.00
Farmer participation: $0.20 per bushel (one time cost)
$2,000 per 10,000 bushels
Based on approximately $25,000,000 investment tax credit available on $30,000,000 plant ITC for the first year of operation is:
Investment Tax Credit: $0.3571 per bushel
$3,571 per 10,000 bushels

100% Financing: $30,000,000.00 as follows:
$24,000,000.00 Long Term (15-30 Years)
$ 6,000,000.00 Farmer Equity (20%) in the form of a note to be repaid from plant earnings over a 5 to 7-year period, and in the amount of:
$ 8,571.00 per 10,000 bushels.
Grower agreement: 5 years.
Farmer's plant equity ownership: $42,857 per 10,000 bushels

NOTE: It should be recognized the farmer's equity could vary substantially either higher or lower depending upon the actual cost of the plant, the type of plant built (either wet or dry milling) and the financing that is available.

Food Stamp Dollars Boost U.S. Economy

Food stamp shoppers bought over $6.4 billion worth of food with food stamps this year, according to Carol Tucker Foreman, assistant secretary of agriculture for food and consumer services. This means that the poor spent $3 billion more on food in 1979 than they would have without the food stamp program. Food stamp dollars benefit

U.S. food retailers and farmers, while helping to feed the nation's hungry, Foreman said today.

In a report on the economic effects of food stamps, the agriculture department said spending for food as a result of the stamps increased the income of food processors and distributors by about $1.4 billion.

Farm income increased by nearly $1 billion because of the increased spending brought on by food stamps in 1979, according to the report by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service. Overall, the value of food stamps issued in 1978 was 3.9 percent of the total sales of food through retail stores for home use, USDA reported. Foreman said a $1 billion cut in food stamp benefits next year would cost farmers $140 million in income. Food distributors-including processors, packers, wholesalers and retailers-would lose about $210 million, and food expenditures would decrease by $350 million, in spite of the fact that stamp users would substitute some of their own money for the stamps cut.

Baseball fever will soon spread fast.

Letter To The Editor

Letter to: Congressman Jack Hightower Rm. 120, Cannon Bldg. Washington, D.C. 20515

Dear Congressman,

I understand from Bill Nelson that you would like to have the counsel of producers on how to frame the government effort to minimize damage to the farm economy resulting from the Russian embargo. I rise to offer such counsel.

Vice President Mondale yesterday announced the administration's desire to minimize the blow to farm income, not insure a profit. He said that for the government to buy up the 17 million tons of grain already purchased by Russia would achieve this purpose.

I disagree. To illustrate why, imagine that instead of the action he did take, the President had said "We will honor commitments already made to the Soviets, but we will sell no more grain to them from this day, until they change their aggressive attitude" (and it'll probably be snowing in Hell when that happens!) Don't you think the loss for the foreseeable future of a market this size would affect grain prices? Sure it would.

To be conservative to the point of ridiculousness, let's say it wouldn't drive the market down over the long run, more than two bits a bushel. Since the average wheat producer grows about 10,000 bushels, he has his income decreased by $2500 as a result of this action. If every one of the 80 million families in the country "sacrificed" equally to implement this policy, it would mean a 200 BILLION dollar cost to the nation-because we refused to sell 2 billion dollars worth of grain to the Soviets. This is ridiculous, of course. In fact, the first commentator I watched after the announcement said "The bright spot in this for consumers is that food prices should drop slightly, because of lower grain prices."

To get to specifics. Government purchase of grain is not like a sale to a consuming country-the government can buy grain, but it does not consume grain. The grain is still there, hanging over the market in all its depressive magnificence-UNLESS an impregnable dam is built around it. I submit that authority for government to buy grain should be accompanied by a requirement that it may not dump it below the mandatory release price. Additionally, to put a meaningful floor under prices (the present wheat loan level of $2.35 is 38% of parity, as you know) the loan level on wheat should be set at $3.50, at least-I'd prefer $4-Corn at $2.75, and milo at $4.75 per hundredweight.

I am convinced production of alcohol will be the long term salvation of basic agriculture, but the short term is what worries me to distraction.

Sincerely,
R. C. Porter

January Days

The last half of January contains, perhaps, as many important birthday anniversaries as any other like period of the year for Americans. Daniel Webster, one of the nation's great orators, a Cabinet officer, a Senator (from Massachusetts), was born at Franklin, New Hampshire, on the 18th in 1782.

Robert E. Lee, considered by many the most able military strategist in the Civil War, was born on the 19th, in 1807, in Westmoreland County, Virginia. Edgar Allan Poe, one of the nation's greatest writers, was also born on the 19th, in Boston, in 1809.

"Stonewall" Jackson, the most daring tactical military leader in the Confederate armies and perhaps in U.S. history, was born on the 21st, in 1824, at what is now Clarksburg, West Virginia. Fred Vinson, 13th Chief Justice, was born on the 22nd in 1890, at Louisa, Kentucky.

Douglas MacArthur, one of the most able strategists of World War II, was born on the 26th at Little Rock, Arkansas. (The 26th is also Michigan Day, the 29th Kansas Day.) William McKinley, 25th President, was born on the 29th at Niles, Ohio, in 1843.

Thomas Paine, who gained fame and popularity writing in the cause of the American revolution, was born in England on the 29th in 1737. (He lost much of his popularity as Samuel Clemens was to do in later years.)

Franklin Roosevelt was born on the 30th, at Hyde Park, New York, in 1882--the only President ever elected to four terms (the nation's 32nd). He is credited with doing much to bring the nation out of the depression of the early thirties and with the successful direction of military strategy in World War II.

Parents, Youth Partners in 4-H

4-H brings parents and their children together in a partnership that can lead to many worthwhile experiences.

4-H is a program for youth aged 9 to 19 and is administered by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of the Texas A&M University System.

Through 4-H, parents get involved with their youngsters by helping them with one or more of over 100 projects, points out Peggy Winegarner, County 4-H program coordinator with the Extension Service. Be getting involved with projects, parents help their youngsters learn basic skills and information and help them to fulfill an obligation. The "partners" then build on these successes in areas of project work, leadership, community service and many other character-building experiences.

By spending time with their sons and daughters in 4-H, parents can overcome problems commonly referred to today as the "communication gap" or "generation gap." 4-H projects serve as a beginning to start the parent-youth partnership. This relationship can grow through mutual understanding and trust between parent and child.

With an understanding relationship, parents and 4-H'ers learn to share the joys of winning and the disappointment of losing and to jointly work out solutions to problems as they arise, says Mrs. Winegarner.

To learn more about the 4-H program, contact the County Extension office, located in the Courthouse.

Robin Denham Gives Testimony At Rotary

ROBIN DENHAM, shown here with Mark Cunningham, has been accepted with The Continental Singers and will tour the United States and West Germany, France and Holland this year. Her group will be singing in Spearman June 22. Club this week.

Robin Denham gave her testimony at the Spearman Rotary Club on Monday noon, January 7, in the Garden Room of the Cattleman's Restaurant. Robin, who is the daughter of Donald Denham and a sophomore at West Texas State University, told of some of the things that have been happening in her life recently.

Glorietta, New Mexico last summer for a week of college students, and that while there made a deeper commitment of her life to the Lord. She began praying about missions and the Continental Singers. She received no leading of the Lord toward a summer in missions, but everything seemed to open up for spending next summer with the Continental Singers, a non-denominational Christian singing group. In October Miss Denham auditioned for the Continental Singers in the Activity Center at WTSU. When she was accepted and realized how much it would cost her, she knew that she would need a job to help pay for it. The very next day, a lady called her and offered her a typing job.

She will spend two weeks the end of May in California learning the songs. Her group will tour the United States and three countries in Central Europe—West Germany, France, and Holland. Her group will be singing in Spearman on June 22. The tour ends August 24.

Miss Denham has to raise half of her expenses—$2295. To date she has raised $843 of that. God gave her a scripture verse to claim, Exodus 15:2, "The Lord is my strength and my song, and He has become my salvation; This is my God, and I will praise Him, My father's God, and I will exalt Him."

Miss Denham said that she will be proud to represent Spearman, Texas on the tour next summer. She concluded her presentation by singing, "Ordinary People."

It was moved and carried to refer to the Board of Directors the matter of making a contribution to Robin's expenses on this tour.

Visiting Rotarians were Gilbert Mize and Jimmy Rhodes of Perryton. Other guests were

Dr. Bill Baker, Lloyd Buzzard, and Robin Denham of Spearman.

Members absent were Kim Brock, Kerry Henton, Jim McLain, Brice Palmer, Jim Shirley, Vance Snider, and Tim Woodington.

As of December 1, 1979, there were 18,374 Rotary clubs with a membership of 853,000 in 154 countries and geographical regions. Also, there are 3,212 Rotaract clubs with a membership of 64,240 in 78 countries and 3,573 Interact clubs with a membership of 78,606 in 73 countries. New clubs since July 1, 1979 are 111 in 34 countries. New Paul Harris Fellows since July 1 are 2,869. The grand total of Paul Harris Fellows is 43,504.

St. Vincent, previously a member of the West Indies Associated States became independent in October 1979, raising a total of Rotary countries to 154.

Ed Freeman led in community singing, including "Happy Birthday" to Archie Burress. Lenis Simpson led in the pledge of allegiance to the United States Flag. Gary Sims offered the blessing on the food, John R. Collard, Jr. presided and led the business sections of the meeting.

Golden Spread Center News

The Golden Spread Center is open to everyone fifty-five years of age or older without discrimination as to sex, color, race, ethnic background, national origin, religion, church membership, denominational preference, political party, or handicap. There are books and magazines, puzzles, games of every kind, a pool table, a piano, a sewing machine, a color TV. It is a most pleasant place and you will enjoy a visit.

Nutrition Today-Weight Control Tomorrow

About 40% of the men and women in Hansford County over 30 are overweight. This means they are 10 percent or more above ideal poundage for their height, body build and age.

Even more alarming, 30 million Americans are overweight and 15 million Americans are obese to a degree that actually shortens their lives.

Their is significant correlation between obesity and ill health including cardiovascular disease, hypertension, diabetes and arthritis.

Nutrition Today - Weight Control Tomorrow is the title of an informative letter series to be conducted by Peggy Winegarner, County Extension Agent. The purpose of the new series is to help people analyze their eating behavior; learn how to determine overweight, normal and underweight; learn how to plan nutritionally adequate meals with low calories; and learn why people overeat and how to change eating behavior to lose weight and maintain normal weight.

"Too many people are turning to fad diets, pills and gadgets in an effort to take off unwanted pounds," Mrs. Winegarner declares. "These often lead to poor nutrition, economic loss and bad health."

"It takes a steady balanced diet and regular exercise to take weight off and keep it off," she adds.

Woodville Jarvis Honored Christmas Football On 80th Birthday

Last month, as happens every year, college football teams played throughout the holidays in various bowl games which were enjoyed by millions (mostly adults) as these games were beamed into millions of homes by commercial television.

The colleges represented in the bowls enjoy a financial "take" of some hundreds of thousands of dollars (in the major bowls) and sponsors of the game on television, plus the networks, plus others, realize a nice profit from these attractions.

Games are played even on Christmas Day, which means college players involved miss the week before Christmas, and that day, with families. The week before the game is consumed with daily practices.

If the players enjoy playing football more than having their holidays with their families, well and good. But it might be kept in mind that this is now big business. No sourpuss editor (of which we know none of course) should wish to spoil everyone's fun.

But must these young men miss their holidays? Could there be more consideration in the scheduling, for the college players? Obviously, the whole thing is aimed at the commercial market and the enjoyment of adults, though it's also school sports.

"The strongest man is the one who stands most alone."

Sunday afternoon, January 6, the children of Woodville Jarvis honored him with a party marking his 80th birthday. The occasion was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E.N. Pack. Refreshments of cake, homemade ice cream, punch, and coffee were served. The cake was decorated with landmark dates in Mr. Jarvis' life--his birthdate, wedding, and the births of his children and grandchildren.

The Hostages

One of the characteristics of a free press is its freedom to go overboard on coverage of emotional news copy. The seizure of U.S. hostages emphasizes the point.

For well over a month now the major networks have devoted about half their evening news time to this one story. It's a big story. And it involves about sixty people. But there have been other stories during the hostage incident which were even more important, and threatened the lives of many more Americans--or actually claimed lives.

The hostage story, however, is one which captured the American imagination. It united the country to a considerable degree. It helped President Carter, politically, and hurt Senator Ted Kennedy. In all the time since the seizure, however, as this is written, no hostage has been tortured. They have, in fact, been held as select prisoners, with better food and conditions than normal prisoners.

In entering the foreign service, Americans assume some risks. Some of our foreign service personnel in the field have been killed in recent years, as part of that accepted risk. These incidents have been relatively quickly forgotten, however. But the internment of the hostages in Iran has dominated the country's news, and thinking.

The news media has admittedly done a fine job in reporting the plight of the sixty hostages and has played the story for every last drop of emotional impact and drama. All well and good, but if the hostages are in the end freed--as seems likely--millions will have devoted considerable time each day to worry, frustration, agitation and action over the situation. And most of this will have had little influence on events.

The principle involved, it's true, is vitally important. But more time might appropriately be devoted to analyzing the Carter Administration's foreign policy, which invited this incident and attacks on other U.S. installations, which actually cost lives. That might result in changes which would ensure that this outrage doesn't recur.
