of C. Directors Discuss Experimental Farm And Co. Agent

The meeting of the board of directors of the Spearman chamber of commerce held on Wednesday morning, a most interesting one from many angles. The directors discussed among them the need of an experimental farm, for governmental supervision, control, for the north plains; need of a county agent for Spearman county; and the need of help of government employees in the fight against wheat rust which is damaging the wheat of the north plains country. B. V. Converse, wheat farmer, present and brought to the attention of the board the necessity of importance of a systematic being waged on the wheat rust. While these pests have done little damage so far, wheat rusters state that there is no doubt what they will do next year or following years if they are not stopped now. Wheat raisers also state that something entirely different from anything heretofore known has affected the wheat this year. It is a new disease or a new pest and the C. of C. is anxious to fight a battle against it before a major damage is done. President Gower will appoint a committee of work with a committee of the chamber of commerce to investigate the experimental farm proposition.

She ran behind a car which was standing still at the "stop" sign, just as a car driven by Mrs. Harbison was making the turn to go west. Floydene was struck by the car driven by Mrs. Harbison and one wheel passed over her, causing a fracture of one bone in the left leg, three inches above the ankle. She was rushed to the office of Dr. Gower and given immediate attention. The fracture was reduced and other injuries treated. On Monday Floydene was taken to the Northwest Hospital at Amarillo for further investigation and observation. The specialists there report that she is doing as well as could be expected.

Thomason Brothers Big Annual Sale Starts Tomorrow

Thomason Brothers are advertising their big annual sale, starting tomorrow, Friday, June 13. In former years it has been the policy of this store to hold this big sale in May, but this year they have waited until June, just before harvest, believing that their customers would be better served by the change in date.

This year's sale is known as "Thomason Brothers Pre-Harvest Sale" and from preparations being made by the regular force of the store, Rubie Howell, Manager, it will be the biggest sale ever put on by this popular firm. Manager Dodson is again using the firm's well-established policy of selling $5.00 worth of goods for $4, giving a one dollar discount on each $5.00 worth of goods sold.

It will be worth while to visit the Thomason Brothers store during this big sale.

CRG Grain—Combines Will Be Humming Within Ten Days

HAIL LOSSES ARE LIGHT

So Far Only A Few Farmers Have Reported Hail Losses And These Are Very Little

The harvest season is rapidly approaching in the Spearman country. This year's crop has been made with practically no rain at all, hence the yield will be far below normal. However, the total yield for the entire country will be well along toward the big yield of 1926, with the exception of barley and oats. There is none of the latter two crops this year, or at least, not any to speak of. The increase in acreage sown to wheat will make up in a large measure for the short crop. Also, the wheat will be of a fine quality this year which also will tend to make amends for the shortage.

Grain dealers predict that the market will break rather low, and as a result much wheat will be stored for a better price. Storage facilities in Spearman and on the farms are entirely inadequate however, so the rush of shipping will be about as usual. Much of the grain will be shipped to terminal points for storage and sold when the farmer believes the price is right.

The busiest places in Spearman at the present are those that sell combine and tractor parts. Farmers are putting their machinery in shape for the mad rush. The harvest season this year will be short, and there seems to be an over supply of "harvest help" on hand now to take care of the crop. Hail losses reported so far are very small in this immediate territory, though much damage is reported south of the Canadian. The North Plains Mutual Hail Insurance Association made a few adjustments this week, but all were light. Other insurance firms report light damage to a few crops.

Claude Cooper has been selected from among the several applicants to take the foremanship of this shop and supervise the work. He comes from Yukon, Oklahoma, where he was shop foreman for four years for the Chevrolet dealers, the Yukon Motor Company. Mr. Cooper was chosen because of his pleasant manner and because of his popularity among his customers, his dealer and his shop boys at Yukon. Bill McClellan, manager of the McClellan-Chevrolet Company, states that he is more than pleased with Mr. Cooper's progress in whipping the shop into line and by the increased good will of the Chevrolet owners, which has been evidenced since Mr. Cooper's arrival. You will find him gladly at your service anytime he can be of any assistance in your mechanical troubles.

Two new Chevrolet school trained mechanics have recently been added, in the persons of Buck Smith and Cecil Vian. Mr. Smith has had five years of experience in Chevrolet service and has his diploma. He is a very efficient workman and comes from the Bowers Chevrolet Company of Hollis, Oklahoma. Mr. Vian comes with two and a half years Chevrolet service experience and fresh from the Chevrolet school at Oklahoma City, which he attended last week. He was formerly with the Capital Chevrolet Company of Oklahoma City.

You will need no introduction to the other members of the shop, as they are all home boys and capable of giving splendid and dependable service. Lufe, Leonard and Albert DeArmond, with the new members, compose the repair department and Earl Pittman is the good natured fellow who looks after your wash and grease jobs. You will find all of these boys interested in your needs and ready to render you satisfactory service.

Floydene Hays Injured By Auto Saturday

A most deplorable accident occurred just off Main Street, between Hastings Drug and the First National bank on Saturday evening at about 6:30 o'clock. Floydene Hays, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hays, was crossing the street, going north to the Russell store. She ran behind a car which was standing still at the "stop" sign, just as a car driven by Mrs. Harbison was making the turn to go west. Floydene was struck by the car driven by Mrs. Harbison and one wheel passed over her, causing a fracture of one bone in the ankle. She was rushed to the office of Dr. Gower and given immediate attention. The fracture was reduced and other injuries treated. On Monday Floydene was taken to the Northwest Hospital at Amarillo for further investigation and observation. The specialists there report that she is doing as well as could be expected.

Floydene, nine years old, is one of the most popular little tots in the town and her many friends will be glad to learn that she will soon be well and able to run and play again. It was one of those unavoidable accidents, deeply regretted by everyone, and in which no blame is placed.

CROP IS SHORT HELP IS PLENTIFUL

Grain is Ripening Early This Year—Combines Will Be Humming Within Ten Days

HAIL LOSSES ARE LIGHT

So Far Only a Few Farmers Have Reported Heavy Losses and These Are Very Little

The harvest season is rapidly approaching in the Spearman country. This year's crop has been made with practically no rain at all, hence the yield will be far below normal. However, the total yield for the entire country will be well along toward the big yield of 1926, with the exception of barley and oats. There is none of the latter two crops this year, or at least, not any to speak of. The increase in acreage sown to wheat will make up in a large measure for the short crop. Also, the wheat will be of a fine quality this year, which also will tend to make amends for the shortage.

Grain dealers predict that the market will break rather low, and as a result much wheat will be stored for a better price. Storage facilities in Spearman and on the farms are entirely inadequate, however, so the rush of shipping will be about as usual. Much of the grain will be shipped to terminal points for storage and sold when the farmer believes the price is right.

The busiest places in Spearman at the present are those that sell combine and tractor parts. Farmers are putting their machinery in shape for the mad rush. The harvest season this year will be short, and there seems to be an over supply of "harvest help" on hand now to take care of the crop.

Hail losses reported so far are very small in this immediate territory, though much damage is reported south of the Canadian. The North Plains Mutual Hail Insurance Association made a few adjustments this week, but all were light. Other insurance firms report light damage to a few crops.

Thomason Brothers Big Annual Sale Starts Tomorrow

Thomason Brothers are advertising their big annual sale, starting tomorrow, Friday, June 13. In former years it has been the policy of this store to hold this big sale in May, but this year they have waited until June just before harvest, believing that their customers would be better served by the change in date.

This year's sale is known as "Thomason Brothers Pre-Harvest Sale" and from preparatory made by the regular of the store, Russ Howell, Raney-Floyd, Mrs. Ral others, it will be the best ever put on by this store.

Manager Dodson is the firm's well-earned of selling $5.00 worth for $4, giving a 25 percent count on each $5 goods sold.

It will be worth the Thomason Brothers this big sale.

Star Harbison, B. W. James left last week for El Paso. Mr. Harbison business, leave James at El Paso, with his brother home Tuesday.

FARM MACHINERY DEMONSTRATION AT ACKMAN, COLO.

Last Saturday afternoon a farm machinery demonstration was held at Ackman that was well worth the time the farmers in that section of the county took to see the various farm implements in action—everything pulled by tractors.

A few years ago tractors and other modern farm machinery would have created considerable excitement, as well as doubt as to what could be accomplished by machinery in that vast expanse of non-irrigated country.

At this demonstration meeting C. B. Reeves recently from Spearman, Texas, had a Gleaner Baldwin Combine Harvester on exhibition which attracted much attention.

the nature farming region between Lewis and Dove Creek—and miles beyond.

When the Gleaner Baldwin combines were developed and introduced they were heralded as the greatest improvement in harvesting—threshing machinery ever made. These newly designed and scientifically constructed machines were a long step toward the ideal—a harvester-thresher incorporating the capacity of much larger, more expensive combines, with automotive type of construction, making a lighter, stronger, less costly combine—something suitable for the non-irrigated sections west in this and Dolores county.

Improved design in farm machinery is seldom accorded such an enthusiastic reception. Gleaner Baldwin combines have been filling a long-felt need of the average farmer. They provide him a combine he can afford to buy and afford to operate at little expense.

It's a good time to buy a home when the crop off one acre in one year can buy four or five acres of rich farming land. This can be done now in southwestern Colorado—Cortez (Colo.) Journal-Herald.

A Farmer Who Needed Relief

John Manley, Enid, who presided at the National Wheat Pool Conference in Wichita May 26, read the following item which, John says, was received by an Enid banker from one of the bank's customers:

I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it impossible for me to send a check in response to your request.

My present financial condition is due to the effects of federal laws, state laws, county laws, corporation laws, by-laws, brother-in-laws, mother-in-laws, and out-laws that have foisted upon an unsuspecting public.

These laws compel me to pay a merchants' and capital stock tax, excess tax, income tax, real estate tax, property tax, auto tax, gas tax, water tax, light tax, cigar tax, street tax, school tax, syntax and carpet tax.

In addition to these taxes I am requested and required to contribute to every society and organization that the inventive mind of men can organize.

The government has so governed my business that I do not know who owns it. I am suspected, expected, inspected, disrespected, examined, informed, required, commanded and compelled until all I know is that I am supposed to provide money for every known human need.

Up at Dalhart there has been so many advertising grafters hit town, and the local merchants have had so much grief with the fellows who come in and promote some cheap scheme which costs lots of money and brings nothing in return.

Even if we had a referendum on prohibition some people would be too drunk to know what they were voting for.

When the politicians speak of "the people," they mean those millions of us who have lots of peep but very little pull.

Experience of large fleet owners reveals the unusual reliability and economy of the new Ford

A SIGNIFICANT TRIBUTE to the value of the new Ford is found in its increasing use by Federal, state and city governments and by large industrial companies which keep careful day-by-day cost records.

In most instances, the Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests of every factor that contributes to good performance—speed, power, safety, comfort, low cost of operation and up-keep, reliability and long life.

Prominent among the companies using the Ford are the Associated Companies of the Bell System, Armour and Company, The Borden Company, Continental Baking Corporation, Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, General Electric Company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Kellogg Company, Knickerbocker Ice Company, Morton Salt Company, Pillsbury Flour Mills Company, The Procter and Gamble Company, and Swift & Company.

Each of these companies uses a large number of Ford cars and trucks. The Associated Companies of the Bell System use more than eight thousand.

Modern business moves at a fast pace and it needs the Ford. Daily, in countless ways and places, it helps to speed the production and delivery of the world's goods and extend the useful service of men and companies.

Constant, steady operation over many thousands of miles emphasizes the advantages of the sound design of the Ford car, its high quality of materials, and unusual accuracy in manufacturing. Beneath its graceful lines and beautiful colors there is a high degree of mechanical excellence.

An example of the value built into the Ford is the use of more than twenty ball and roller bearings. They are hidden within the car and you may never see them. Yet they play an important part in satisfactory, economical performance. Their function is similar to the jewels of a fine watch.

Throughout the Ford chassis, a ball or roller bearing is used at every place where it is needed to reduce friction and wear and give smooth, reliable mechanical operation.

At many points, as on the transmission counter-shaft, clutch release, fan and pump shaft, and front drive shaft, ball and roller bearings are used where less costly types of bearings might be considered adequate.

Additional instances of the high quality built into the Ford are the extensive use of steel forgings, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, Rustless Steel, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valve torque-tube drive, three-quarter floating rear axle, and the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield.

The Ford policy has always been to use the best possible material for each part and then, through large production, give it to the public at low cost.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., St. Louis, Mo.
 Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

ARTICLE XXXVI

Editor's Note—This is another in a series of 52 stories on poultry raising written by the well known national poultry authority, L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis. The entire series will appear in this paper. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and them out for future reference.

TAPEWORMS TAKE THE MEASURE OF YOUR FLOCK?

Evil Reputation of These Parasites Will Be Well Deserved if They Are Allowed to Get a Good Start in a Poultry Flock.

Tapeworms are probably among the worst offenders of the thirty or more species or varieties of parasites that find parking space in a bird's intestines. They may cause serious loss in any flock once they get started, so it is well to know what the signs of their presence are and what the best means for getting rid of them. Tapeworms are very common in poultry and some varieties do not cause any particular trouble. There are at least two kinds, however, that will cause plenty of trouble if allowed to gain headway. These worms are small, seldom over five inches long, but bury their heads in the walls of a bird's intestines, but, apparently, only to anchor themself. The greatest damage they do is to deprive the bird of its nourishment by absorbing most of it themselves. The bird eats as much as they ever get more, but it does little good. A careful observer will see his fowls are gradually losing weight and get pale from no apparent cause.

The only sure way to detect tapeworm is to kill one or more of the fowls most seriously affected and conduct a post-mortem examination, or "post" any that die. Cut open the ones selected for examination and slit the intestines from end to end. If the intestines are held under water, it will be easier to detect the worms if any are present. Tapeworms are easily recognized, being flat, made up of jointed segments. They are white or gray in color. There may also be round worms present. Round worms are a serious enough problem to be featured in an independent article which I have written for separate publication.

Tapeworms must have an intermediate host, or they cannot spread to other fowls. Tapeworm eggs will not hatch in the intestines of chickens. The eggs of tapeworms are passed with the droppings of infected chickens and may be eaten by flies or earth worms. They hatch inside the fly or earth worm, and then chickens eat them and the worms will develop and grow in the chicken. Flies are the most common hosts. If, therefore, fowls are confined to yards which are kept free of droppings and decayed matter, there will be less trouble from tapeworms. If all such materials are removed some distance from the poultry runs, flies will be attracted elsewhere.

Kamala is known to be the most effective remedy against tapeworms in poultry, and is recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. It is best given in the form of individual dose pills—the grain being a dose for an adult chicken. This medicine is very convenient as no fasting is necessary before giving it. Caution should be used, however, as some cases of poisoning have resulted from giving Kamala. The usual practice is to try it on a few of the less valuable birds about 48 hours before the rest of the flock. If the test fowls show favorable results, the rest may be treated with reasonable assurance of safety.

In the case of tapeworm infection, as with most other poultry diseases, sanitary measures are of prime importance. Clean up runs and houses and keep them clean and well disinfected with a good dip and disinfectant. Remove all droppings or other by attracting materials every morning and remove it to a safe distance. Cover all runs with a heavy coating of hydrated lime, which should be plowed or spaded under often, and a quick growing grain planted.—Copyright, 1929, by Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S.

Early Preparation Increases Protein in Wheat

"The soil and climatic conditions have almost everything to do with the protein content of wheat," says H. M. Bainer, director, Southwestern Wheat Improvement Association. Continuing he says, "Or course the farmer is unable to control the climate, but he can control his soil conditions to a large extent. It is definitely known that nitrogen is the principal constituent of protein and that the protein content of wheat varies in direct proportion to the amount of available nitrates in the soil. Anything, therefore, that can be done to increase the available soil nitrogen will increase the protein in wheat. The two most practical ways of increasing the soil nitrogen are through early preparation of the seedbed and by rotation of wheat with legumes.

Early preparation puts the soil in a splendid physical condition. It keeps down the weeds and gives the heat, sunshine and soil moisture a chance to manufacture and accumulate such nitrates and other plant foods as are required to produce high protein wheat. This early work will not only increase the protein from 1 to 2 percent but will increase the yield from 3 to 7 bushels per acre. On the other hand, wheat ground prepared late, usually grows a heavy crop of weeds, before it is worked, which uses up the moisture and nitrates and by the time the seedbed is ready for wheat, too little time is left to accumulate the nitrates that are needed.

"Where the rainfall is sufficient, some of the best legumes to grow in rotation with wheat are alfalfa, sweet clover, cowpeas and soybeans. Where the rainfall is limited, sweet clover is the best legume to use. Properly inoculated legumes have ability of increasing the soil nitrogen, with the result that the following wheat crop produces an increase in yield of 5 or more bushels per acre with from 1 to 3 per cent more protein."

BOOMS

A community festival is not necessarily dependent upon the wholesale selling of lots. A town can boom when there is shown a more cooperative spirit to boost all things and hold fast that which is good.

A town can boom when its force of education, culture and morality bear fruit in well-doing.

A town can boom when business is placed on a fair level of competition, when greater service is rendered, and a more thorough method is used to establish growing patronage.

A town can boom when there are more get-together meetings, more neighborliness and more genuine friendship backed up by deeds as well as words.

A town can boom when it takes on a cleaner aspect: when paint, soap, broom and mop are applied to its physical properties and a cleansing of the hearts of its people takes place as well.

A town can boom when orderly society is recognized and when greater opportunities are given to its people in the enjoyment of their material and spiritual blessings; when its institutions are supported by its own people who are conscientiously active to prove their loyalty.

AUTO-ATTRACTION

"I wonder how many men will be made unhappy when I marry?"
 "It all depends upon how many times you marry."

We don't believe it!

It is a common expression in the shoe business, and especially with those concerned in the making and selling of shoes built only for "eye appeal", that the average person is not as much interested in buying shoes that will give long service as in the kind that are made in style alone.

Here's an example—The International Shoe Company, makers of our "Star Brand" shoes, are by far the largest producers of shoes in America. This phenomenal business has been built on well-styled, solid leather shoes that wear—AND WEAR!

You would not buy an automobile with an engine made of pewter that would turn into a molten mass of metal if the radiator went dry. Certainly not! You want an engine that will stand up—and you want shoes that will stand up. That's why you buy "Star Brands."

Listen to this, please. The greatest tribute anyone can pay to our shoes is that they wear well. We are proud to sell that kind and if there is any glory in selling shoes built strictly for "eye appeal" without due consideration to quality, we will let the other fellow have it.

The people that come to our store want good looking shoes, and we have that kind to sell, but they want good wearing shoes too, and we try mighty hard to give them what they want.

conversions during the week. The congregation was favored Sunday evening by some special songs by a quartet consisting of Orville

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Dr. J. E. Nunn

General Topic:—Jesus on the Cross.

Scripture Lesson:—Matthew 27:
33-50.

33. And when they come unto a place called Golgotha, that is to say, the place of a skull,

34. They gave him wine to drink mingled with gall: and when he had tasted it, he would not drink.

35. And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments
among them, casting lots;

36. And they sat and watched him there.

37. And they set up over his head his accusation written, This is Jesus the King of the Jews.

38. Then are there crucified with him two robbers, one on the right hand and one on the left.

39. And they that passed by railed on him, wagging their heads.

40. And saying, Thou that de-stroyest the temple, and buildest
it in three days, save thyself: if thou art the Son of God, come down from the cross.

41. In like manner also, the chief priests mocking him, with the scribes and elders said,

42. He saved others; himself he cannot save. He is the King of Israel; let him now come down from the cross, and we will believe on him.

43. He trusteth on God; let him deliver him now, if he desireth him: for he said I am the Son of God.

44. And the robbers also that were crucified with him cast upon him the same reproach.

45. Now from the sixth hour
there was darkness over all the land until the ninth hour.

46. And about the ninth hour
Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani? that is, My God, My God, why
hast thou forsaken me?

47. And some of them that stood there, when they heard it,
said, This man calleth Elijah.

48. And straightway one of them ran, and took a sponge, and filled it with vinegar, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink.

49. And the rest said, Let be;
let us see whether Elijah cometh
to save him.

50. And Jesus cried again with a loud voice, and yielded up his spirit.

tory. The disciples are looking on struction of all their hopes. The matchless life with an even more matchless death.

Golgotha, v. 33

"And when they were come unto a place called Golgotha, that is to say, the place of a skull." Both the Hebrew Golgotha and the Latin Calvary mean "the place of a skull," so called because it was the site of public executions, or perhaps because caves in the hill side gave the appearance of empty eye-sockets, making the hill

look from a distance like a skull.
There is such a resemblance in the hill on the north of Jerusalem, about two hundred yards from the Damascus gate, which many modern scholars regard as the real Golgotha, but the eyesockets are modern. The traditional site of the crucifixion is the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, inside the present walls of Jerusalem.

Crucifixion

"And when they had crucified him." Crucifixion was a Roman method of execution reserved for slaves and outlaws. Cicero, who knew it well, called it the most knew and shameful of all punishment. The hands, and usually the feet, of the victim were nailed to the cross, sometimes before the cross was erected, sometimes after.
Generally the victim was only a little above the ground, not so high as our pictures ordinarily suggest. Stalker says: "The most revolting feature of death by crucifixion was that the torture was deliberately prolonged. The victim usually lingered a whole day, sometimes two or three days, still retaining consciousness; while the burning of the wounds in the hands and feet, the uneasiness of the unnatural position, the oppression of overcharged veins, and above all, the intolerable thirst were constantly increasing."

"Jesus, The King of the Jews."
"And they set up over his head his accusation written." It was written on a white tablet which the condemned always wore suspended from his neck on the way to the cross or else it was carried before him by a soldier. Now it was nailed to the cross above the head of Jesus. "This is Jesus The King of the Jews." Pilate himself wrote the inscription, in bitter mockery of the Jews. They felt the sarcasm, and a deputation of chief priests went to Pilate asking him to change the title to read,
"He said, 'I am King of the Jews.'" With a sneer the Roman governor answered them shortly,
"What I have written I have written." (John 19:21, 22). The inscription was written in three languages, that all beholders might read it: in Latin, the language of power, in Greek, the language of culture; and in Hebrew, the language of religion. Thus was typified the service that Christianity was to perform in the fields of civilized government, of mental development, and of spiritual enlightenment. Thus also was indiced the world-wide reach of the religion of Jesus Christ. And thus was set forth the central fact that Jesus was in truth a king, the King of kings, whose kingdom will out-last all earthly kingdoms, and never pass away.

"He Saved Others." v. 42
"He saved others; himself he cannot save." These councillors spoke better than they knew.

Jesus indeed had saved others, a vast throng of men and women and children; and in refusing to save himself he was opening up salvation to all mankind through all the time to come. Christ could not save himself, and be true to his divine mission. "He is the King of Israel." This was said in mockery, echoing the inscription above
the head of Jesus. "If he now come down from the cross, and we will believe in him." They would not have believed on Jesus because of any such sign. Jesus had worked many miracles greater than that, and they had refused to believe. The miracle of the resurrection was infinitely greater than would have been a descent from the cross, and yet men do not believe on Christ because of his crowning miracle.

"Darkness Over All the Land."
"Now from the sixth hour,"
not sunrise, Jesus was crucified about the third hour, 3 a. m., and had hung on the cross three hours.
"There was darkness over all the land until the ninth hour." Until 3 p. m., lasting three hours. This darkness could not have been caused by an eclipse, for, as it was the passover, the moon was full. It was supernatural darkness, the world sympathizing with the wee of its Creator.

"And about the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice." Showing that even after six hours of the most fearful agony that man could endure and live, our Lord retained a goodly measure of strength. Jesus was crucified at the time of the daily morning sacrifice in the temple, and died at the time of the daily evening sacrifice, those sacrifices being typical of the death of the Lamb of God
for the sins of the world. "Saying,
My God, My God, why hast thou forsaken me?" Christ quoted Ps.
22:1. In that awful hour, with the weight of the world's sin pressing down upon his soul, the one final horror of it all to the Son of God was the sense of separation from his Father.

"It Is Finished." John 19:30

"And Jesus cried again with a loud voice." He shouted in triumph the sixth word from the cross (it is literally a single word in the Greek), "It is finished!"
(John 19:30). "It is finished!"
has truly been called the greatest word ever uttered. Not merely his suffering was finished, his life
on earth, but his mission was accomplished, human salvation was finished with a perfect sacrifice,
the old era was finished and the era of the New Covenant was begun. Immediately afterward the Saviour uttered the seventh word from the cross. "Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit!" (Luke 23:46). "And yielded up his spirit." "His last cry 'with a loud voice' was not like that of one dying. In the language of the early Christian human, it was not Death which approached Christ,
but Christ Death. Christ encountered Death, not as conquered,
but as the Conqueror."—Alfred Edersheim.

The Great Earthquake, vs. 51-53

A violent earthquake at the time of Christ's death testified still further to the sympathy of even the inanimate creation with its Creator. By the earthquake the heavy curtain which separated the Holy Place of the temple from the Most Holy Place was rent from top to bottom, signifying that now to all men, and not only to the high priest once a year, the way
was open to God (Heb. 10:19-20).
The centurion, in charge of the soldiers, had doubtless witnessed many crucifixions and had seen many men die, but he had seen no death like Christ's. What he saw moved him to glorify God and to exclaim (Luke), "Certainly this was a righteous man!" and (Matthew) "Truly this was the Son of God!" He was not brought to the conclusion by the earthquake or the preceding darkness,
but by the bearing of Christ
through all the six hours of suffering, and most of all by the way in which he died.

Phillips Pipe Line Company to Build Largest Pipe Line in the World Soon

Phillips Pipe Line Company, a wholly owned subsidiary of Phillips Petroleum Company, announce the completion of all plans for the construction of their recently authorized $15,000,000 pipe line. This will be the largest gasoline pipe line ever built, having a total length of approximately 1,000 miles and is the first in the Mid-continent field.

Surveys for this construction have been completed, pipe purchased and delivery being rushed for actual laying. Construction operations have been separated into six sections to facilitate completion by around January 1, 1931. The construction program will require a hundred inspectors and the labor of over 1,000 men. 500,000,000 pounds of pipe will be required which will be fused cold. The pipe will be fully concealed, including river crossings. The pipe covering will be between 4 and 36 inches.

The line will run northeast from

Borger, Texas through Oklahoma and Kansas to Wichita, thence on to Kansas City and direct to St. Louis. Ten pump stations, equipped with either electric motor driven centrifugal pumps or Diesel type including safety and fire devices, each of 300 pounds pressure will insure a uniform and constant flow through the line. Distributing terminals are provided at Wichita, Kansas City and St. Louis. The line is so designed and the operation so arranged, in connection with terminal storage facilities, as to permit the transportation of large quantities of different grades of gasoline, one following the other, without loss or intermingling. All construction incorporates the latest safety devices.

Terminal facilities at Kansas City have been arranged to permit of extension of the line north and east. Facilities at St. Louis include dockage on the river to permit barging gasoline as far north as Minneapolis and St. Paul where the Phillips Petroleum Company has a large distribution unit for the northwest territory. The St. Louis dockage also permits of water transportation to Memphis and New Orleans and via the Ohio River to Louisville, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh.

In addition to adequate storage facilities at all terminals, complete provision has been made for peak load demands. All terminals will be fully equipped to handle the gasoline by pressure and gravity flow, thus making prompt and economical shipments to adjacent territory by truck or combination truck and rail haul. Modern tank wagon truck and truck trains consisting of one or more trailers will be used.

Bulk stations will be placed approximately fifty miles apart for the entire length of the line, to serve adjacent territory. Phillips gasoline will be "pulled out" of the line into these bulk stations for distribution by tank wagon, truck train or rail in the same manner as at the Wichita, Kansas City and St. Louis terminals, eliminating the previous necessity of pumping into tanks and pumping out, with its attendant loss.

The line has been designed as a closed system, eliminating the possibility of loss by evaporation or fire hazard and will be divided into twenty mile sections, each policed by a line walker who will inspect his section once each day. A telephone line from which 1,300,000 pounds of copper and 25,000 poles will be required will parallel the entire system, interconnected with the ten pump stations. Line walkers will carry extension telephone rods, affording them instant communication with the nearest pump station in making reports.

The long experience of the Phillips Petroleum Company in transporting crude oil and natural gas by pipe line has been applied to the engineering presented by this natural and refinery gasoline pipe line. Many surveys and over two years' time was devoted to the proposal before it was presented for final approval.

When completed this line will serve as a main artery of the Phillips' system of distribution of finished gasoline to a large marketing area where the company has already over 8,000 retail outlets, and is expanding retail facilities. Crude will be refined at its source of supply in Texas and transported as finished gasoline to the consumer under Phillips control all the way, as compared to the present methods of transporting crude to the refinery and re-shipment of refined product with the accompanying losses. The line itself will hold 10,080,000 gallons of gasoline.

SOCIAL EXPERIMENTS

Professor A. G. Barry, sociologist at the University of Wisconsin, is quoted as saying that America seeks her social Utopia through legal enactments more than any other country on earth, and has made her statute books the vehicle of social experiments.

Some laws are social experiments, but the state of affairs may not be quite as bad as pictured. The great bulk of the population does respect law. The exceptions are heard about, with the great mass of the population goes about its business holding law in order as the basis of freedom.

It is unfortunate, however, that legislatures do not repeal obsolete laws. They neglect sometimes to erase from the books laws inconsistent with later enactments and they are too inattentive to the need of recodification. To clear up such glaring inconsistencies would be another noble experiment.

Watch Late Chicks Through Growing Season

Remember last winter! We had pullets in our flock that waited until January to start laying? Perhaps they were late May or early June hatched, but how old were they when they came into lay? If it were January or later—they were eight months old! Think of it—eight months! We had carried them through the time of the year when it costs the most to house and feed them. Before they hit their stride in egg production, egg prices tobogganed—and we couldn't get out of the way.

Just why didn't those pullets start laying during November instead of waiting until January? True, they were late hatched. Allowance has been made for that or the question would be, "why didn't they start laying during September or October?" Plenty of pullets reach production in five months time—but these took eight months. Why? Well, checking back into the past one wouldn't need many guesses to hit upon the things he failed to do to get them into laying at five or six months.

Instead of watching those late hatched chicks closely through the growing period, we sort of let them coast. On the level now, isn't that true? We put a lot of faith in pasture, grasshoppers, worms and grain. We leave it up to nature to do a lot of the feeding.

Now what are we going to do about it this year? Let's give them every chance to go ahead. Let them have the things they need to develop their egg-producing systems, body frames, tissues, muscles, feathers and vital organs. Watch them closely. See that they are kept free from contaminated or unclean soil. Keep them from running and mingling with the early hatched chicks. Make sure that their houses are well-aired at nights and that they have shade on the hot days.

Think about their feed. A lot depends on how we feed. Still more on what we feed. By all means full-feed. Nothing delays late-hatched chicks more than stinting on the feed. Good feed and plenty of it hustles them along. Keep the mash hoppers filled with a growing mash that promotes a steady, even development. Feed them a good clean scratch grain mornings and evenings, and keep plenty of cool, clean water near the mash hoppers.

Follow this system and our late-hatched chicks will be well-developed, fully-matured, and fit for the job of laying as early as November. We'll be gathering eggs at the time we can put real money into our pockets. This year, our late May and early June hatched chicks instead of being profit takers will be profit makers.—Purina Poultryman.

NOT BREAKING DOWN

Our country prospers in spite of democracy. With the breakdown of popular government in our great cities, and the crafty politician rewarded everywhere while the true statesman is appreciated only by small groups of intellectual beings, how can we maintain a successful democracy?

Such remarks as these are common these days. People are becoming just a bit cynical over our various governments, local, state and national and are wondering whether Democracy is the final goal of all political evolution.

While such observations may be based upon existing conditions, it is always well to look back into history and see if ours is the only age ridden with self seeking politicians.

Is our government of today in a bad way? Reports of excessive campaign expenditures, of graft, and of politician politronery would so indicate, but most works of history do not fail record similar conditions of days past. Some of the national heroes who are now regarded as among the greatest of our statesmen were not above ordinary cheap politics in their own day. Log rolling, political bargaining, appeals to class prejudice and the whims of the masses were common phenomena in the political life of our country before the time of Abraham Lincoln. Many a leading statesman of that time gained his position by demagoguery. Economic and social problems were not subjected to cool calculating reason but to mass and class prejudice.

Democracy as it functions in our land today seems crude and imperfect, but our American system is not endangered thereby. Such things have always existed, but throughout the past fundamental principles of popular government and liberty for individual have prevailed, and there is no reason to feel that the principles are to be abandoned in our own time.

Men whom we denounce in the heat of partisanship today as demagogues and mountbanks may accomplish much that is good which will endure and enable posterity to look back to them as statesmen whose achievements may well be emulated.

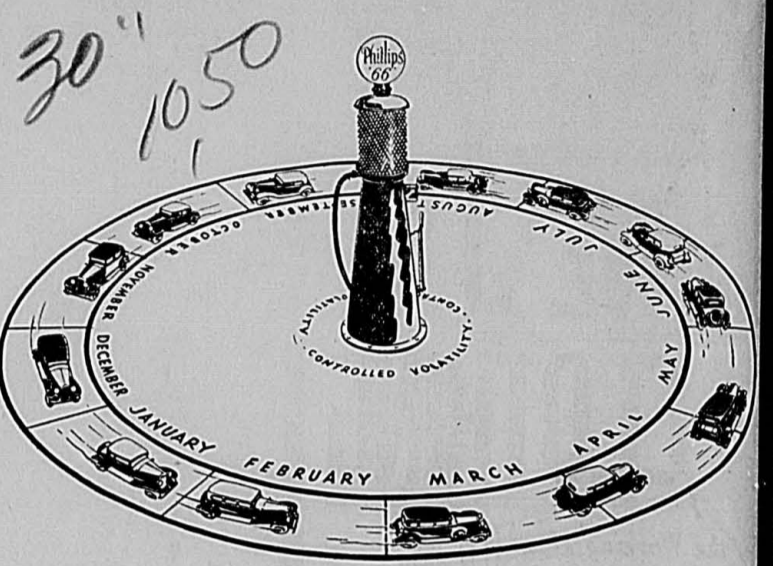

THE FINALE

"Mrs. Brown: 'I hear the vicar thinks your daughter has a real genius for reciting, Mrs. Smith.'"
Mrs. Smith: "Yes. All she wants he says to me, is a course of electrocution, just to finish 'er off like."

They're talking about cheap money, but that's something rather difficult for most of us to understand.

National patriotism is but the lengthened shadow of community spirit.

COUNTIES SHOULD BE RE-IMBURSED FOR ROAD PAVING

Counties that have voted bonds aid in paving national highways, should be reimbursed by the state, a statement made by Governor Dan Moody, in his address to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, last week. In opinion of H. E. Hoover, who represented Canadian at the convention, the view expressed by the governor seemed to receive the approbation of everybody present. Governor Moody took the position that building public highways, when financed by the federal government, state government and counties, is an unjust burden on counties. The traveler is the one who should pay the bill. Mr. Hoover said the Governor only recommends that the state of Texas fix gasoline and car taxes sufficiently high to finance building and maintaining of international highways through the state. When this is done, those counties that have already voted bonds should be reimbursed. Mr. Hoover attended the first session of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in Plainview where he addressed the old settlers.—Canadian Record.

CREATING PROSPERITY

The modern business structure of the country makes advertising an important cog in prosperity. Industries are large and must appeal to great masses of people to operate successfully and efficiently. Over production is the great economic danger of the time. Greater consumption is the key to prosperity. Herein advertising plays its all important role. If all American business stopped advertising for a period of six months, we would have business chaos a condition that would lead to the worst financial depression in the history of the nation. People soon forget. Great industries would lose their markets. They would lose ground to thousands of small industries. The public would have no guarantees of quality and every phase of life would be more or less disrupted. All of this would mean unemployment to a degree that cannot now be conceived, with a general business and possibly social and governmental collapse as a result. One may infer from this, therefore that advertising is doing a great job—carrying our business life over a difficult period with a very minimum of distress. It is keeping consumption to the highest possible point and thereby enabling industrial leaders to keep factory wheels turning.

Big business recognizes this. National advertising is on the increase. Small business may wisely follow suite, and see that the proper use of printers ink is one vital necessity right now for business prosperity. The fellow who boasts that he never was sick a day in his life never swallowed the chewed end of a nickel cigar. It's hard to turn the wheels of progress by pounding on them with a hammer. Mr. Average Farmer broadcasting from Station YFBL—Yours for better livestock. I guess I should be ashamed of myself but I had to laugh when my neighbor's cow got into the granary one night last week and almost fouled it. It wasn't really funny, but the had been arguing with me just that day that cows don't need any grain while on pasture. It tickled me when his cow showed him that she would like to have the grain. A cow may not know what she needs but when she shows that she wants grain, even if she has been on pasture all day, she means it. And she shouldn't be treated with a little handful of nubbins, but should have a well balanced ration just as in winter, though not quite so much, of course. Feed probably wouldn't help much if the cow gives only a half a gallon of milk each night and morning, but if she doesn't give any more than that she isn't worth milking anyway. The cow that produces enough to pay for the milking, however, should have a balanced ration with a protein concentrate. A good ration that has been tried out and proved as a profit maker is composed of 400 pounds of ground corn, hominy or barley; 300 pounds of ground oats; 100 pounds of wheat bran, and 100 pounds of linseed meal. This mixture should be fed one pound for each six pounds of milk if the pasture is good and in larger amounts if the pasture is poor. And don't forget to keep one eye on the pasture; it may be pretty short and not furnish as much feed as you think. If you need any feeding hints just drop a line to XYZ, Box 420, New London, Wisconsin. Station YFBL—Your For Better Livestock—signing off.

MRS. MIRIAM A. FERGUSON
Husband can't run for Governor, so she is running for him.
Ferguson Passes From the Picture

Another history-making case was decided last week when the Supreme Court of Texas held that James E. Ferguson was not eligible to hold any office in this state. He was impeached and removed from office in 1917 and the judgment in that proceeding, in conformity to the Constitution, declared him to be forever disqualified to hold office in this state. In 1925, while Mrs. Ferguson was governor, the legislature enacted what is known as the Amnesty Act, undertaking to restore his political rights. Later, during the first Moody administration, this Amnesty Act was repealed. Since that time, and indeed since the passage of the Amnesty Act, there had been doubt as to Ferguson's political rights. Early in this year he announced as a candidate for governor. Recently he filed a petition with the Supreme Court, under the authority granted by the Love bill passed at a recent session of the present legislature, asking for a mandamus requiring the State Democratic Executive Committee to certify his name to the various county chairmen as a candidate. The committee filed an answer setting up the contention that the Amnesty Act was unconstitutional and invalid, and even if it should be held valid that it had been repealed. The Supreme Court, or rather one of the judges of the supreme court and two special judges appointed by Governor Moody to act in the place of two of the judges of that court, who were disqualified by previous connection with the impeachment proceedings, held that the Amnesty Act was unconstitutional and invalid and that Mr. Ferguson was disqualified to hold any office in Texas. Immediately upon the announcement of this decision, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson again announced as a candidate for governor. She appropriated Jim's platform in toto with the exception of one plank. Jim had declared that if elected governor, he would veto all liquor legislation, wet or dry, that might be enacted. Mrs. Ferguson, on the other hand, promises that if she is elected she will favor legislation to strengthen enforcement, and to specifically declares that she will recommend the passage of a law making it unlawful for any person to hold office in this state who drinks bootleg liquor. In other words, she proclaims herself to be an uncompromising dry. On all other matters, however, she says that she will seek the advice and counsel of her husband. The decision of the court has definitely settled a debatable legal question. It has definitely determined that when a state official in this state is impeached and removed from office, his political rights can not be restored by the legislature. He is forever barred from holding any office under this state. The effect of this decision, it seems to us, is to remove Jim Ferguson from the political field in this state, unless at some time he should run for the U. S. Senate or for Congress. In 1924 he was denied a place on the Democratic ballot, whereupon his wife became a candidate and was elected. There are those who seem to believe that she will be a formidable candidate in this campaign. We are unable to share that view. All Texas know that while she was the nominal governor in 1924-25, Jim Ferguson was the real governor. He exercised the power of governorship without bearing the responsibilities of the office. His influence over the governor in the exercise of the pardoning power and over the state highway commission in awarding road contracts was exercised in such bold and shameless manner as to amount almost to a scandal. It is not likely that the people of Texas will again vote to bring about another period of "irresponsible government." Thus Jim Ferguson passes from the picture.—Lynn County News.

is called community spirit.

"The kingdom is within us. Now is the time for a greater sense of responsibility and more earnest co-operation in the general welfare. There is little need to wish for more industries, more trade and more population unless all of us work together in common purposes to gain commonly desired objectives. The hope for too quick a result is not practical. But the most reassuring fact is that in whatever degree our people co-operate in the public interest, the community will proportionately move forward; and in whatever degree the spirit of our people fails, ground will be lost.

A Parting Shot at Some of You WHEAT FARMERS

The hail season is ABOUT over. Some of you tell us that it is ALREADY over; that it's no use to insure now. Next year you are going to help us fight this hail battle 100 per cent strong. Well, now let's reason together.

For 43 years we have been interested and making regular trips into the Texas Panhandle. The last 12 years we have been right here playing ball with you—first trying to raise cattle. Then, when "crowded out of crowfield" by you farmers we have been trying to raise wheat.

Our years of experience in this country have led us to the conclusion that it is not safe to prophesy about the weather. We don't stone false prophets down here, but you have heard some mighty mean things said about those who do prophesy.

You may be right. It may not hail any more until after harvest. But really now, that's not the question.

If you were sending your premium note money back to New York and New England there would be merit in your contention. But since you are called upon to set aside only a small percent of your harvest money and deposit it in your home banks, not only for insurance this year, but to make strong and dependable your insurance next year, don't you think it good business to make at least a small investment now? It may not hail any more this year but it is reasonably certain that it will hail some next year. Then why not lay aside of your substance today to provide for the storms of tomorrow?

This is our final argument for your share of 1930 patronage. In submitting this case to you, the jurors, may we not ask the question:—Mr. Farmer, Mr. Banker, is this not good business?

Don't wait for us to come to see you. Call at the home office in the McLain building, write or telephone in your order.

THE SPIRIT OF OUR PEOPLE

Every city, town, village and hamlet, as well as every person, longs to achieve. Some communities are blessed with attainments in art, music, drama, and with great institutions of learning. Others point with pride to a highly developed industrial and commercial system. Many stress the beauties and wonders of natural resources or majestic scenery. Climate and living conditions have been featured in community advertising. But there is one thing all may possess in common. It is the possibility that any community may distinguish itself. That possibility is the spirit of the people, or what

Ownbey-Bort

Miss Beulah Ben Ownbey and A. R. Bort, both of Gruver, were happily united in marriage at their home in Gruver on Sunday, June 1. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Jasper Bouque, pastor of the First Christian Church, in the presence of members of both families and a few intimate friends. Immediately following the ceremony the newlyweds left for a two week honeymoon trip to New Mexico. Both the bride and groom are well known in Spearman. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ownbey, pioneer citizens of Hutchinson county. She was bookkeeper for the Spearman Hardware before accepting a position in the First State Bank at

The newlyweds will reside on the farm with his parents until their new home is completed, and he will continue his farming operations with his father.

MR. J. A. KAIN

"Too bad I did not hear of Konjola long ago. It could have saved me much suffering. My stomach was the cause of my trouble," said Mr. J. A. Kain, 122 Oriental road, Waco. "Anything I ate caused pain, gas, bloating. My whole system was run down, my vitality was low and I was gradually losing my strength. I had no ambition and was worn out all the time. So many medicines had failed me that I had almost lost hope. Then came Konjola. After taking four bottles my appetite increased; I found I could eat anything without trace of indigestion in any form, and my whole system has taken a new life. I have plenty of ambition to do my work, and will always recommend Konjola as a real medicine."

Konjola is not a "Cure-all"—there is no such thing, but when taken for from six to eight weeks will produce amazing results. The countless thousands of indorsement of Konjola have proven that it makes good in even the most stubborn cases.

Konjola is sold in Spearman at Hastings Pharmacy, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.
