MON SAGE SAYS LINE DIVIDING TEXAS AND OKLAHOMA IS THE BUNK

When a good time was had by members of the Spearman Chamber of Commerce and members of the Spearman territory...

Mayor Wallace G. Hughes of Spearman was principal speaker, delivered an eloquent and inspiring address on "Community Spirit."

Water Hughes of the University of Oklahoma is the speaker recalled that only a few years ago each community...

Three thousand criminal cases, involving practically every violation of law known to the criminal statutes of Texas...

I have also had occasion to work with and observe practically every character of peace officer in the performance of their duties in connection with law enforcement.

I feel that this experience gives me a fair background of the duties of the District Attorney's office, and a realization of the responsibility that goes with this office.

I am also in sympathy with a public opinion that demands of officials that they should and must literally and morally obey the laws that they themselves swear to enforce and uphold.

Dig! Dig! Dig!—We Must Get Results

The theme of the community page appearing in this issue is one that will bear much careful thought and study.

Do you share and urge others on by example until one and all are doing their utmost for this splendid town and surrounding territory.

There's a large jovial man driving a closed car. There is a small spectacled, sandy complexioned man beside him.

Why does that pretty blonde in the rear seat of the next car bit her fingers? She is in pensive mood, not conscious of those who see her.

A certain modern boy wonders how his father learned all about the things he tells him to do.

People who pass in automobiles— An old man sitting as upright as a tin driver in a child's toy truck.

Their First Love

Here's a tough guy in the next car. His cigar tightly clenched in his teeth and sticks straight out like the jib boom of a ship.

A Young Genius

Now comes a lad in a light car of strange appearance. He built it over himself, probably. On the running board there is a brake lever with a brass handle.

Now comes a frequent sight—a young man and a girl sitting extraordinarily close together.

That huge hunk of flesh in such a small coupe! No wonder the little car groans.

JUST A LITTLE FRIENDLY RIVALRY

All Over Now And Everyone Busy And Back Of The City Officials

VOTE SHOWS INTEREST

Spearman Folks Are Interested In Their City Affairs—A Healthy Sign

Spearman folks go about their politics in an enthusiastic manner, but with an unselfish spirit and with thought only for the betterment of the city.

Robert E. Meek and R. C. Sampson were returned to office for a full term as city commissioners, defeating their opponents by handsome majorities.

The official tabulation of votes in Tuesday's regular city election shows the following result:

Robert E. Meek	285
R. C. Sampson	257
R. H. Prewitt	78
Delon Kirk	67

Only three names appeared on the ballots, those of Messrs Meek, Sampson and Prewitt. A petition had been presented to Mayor W. D. Cooke asking that the name of Mr. Kirk be placed on the ballot but the mayor declined to accept the filing and issued a statement in which he called attention to the law which provides that petitions for the nomination of candidates for city offices shall be filed not less than 10 days before the date of the election.

Little attention had been paid to the campaign until Monday, when proponents of the four candidates busied themselves in the behalf of their respective choices and it was a rather spirited one day campaign. But all seemed in good humor and nothing occurred to indicate other than a sincere interest in the welfare of Spearman.

Now that the election is past and the city officials have been chosen to serve until April, 1931, there is nothing to indicate that the entire citizenship of Spearman is not behind the administration and anxious to lend a helping hand whenever needed.

A good ambition is to become one of the ancestors they will brag about in the next century.

JASPER BOGUE, Evangelist is district evangelist for the Panhandle, under the State Missionary Society of the Christian churches, needs no introduction to Spearman, as he has held several meetings here.

The music of the meeting will be conducted by local talent, with E. L. Schneider, Mrs. Walter J. Black, Mrs. Louis F. Meers in charge, and others to help in the way of choir, solos, duets and quartets, the music will be of a high order and attractive.

Services will be held each evening at 8:00. You are urged to plan to attend.

The Morse Monitor Makes Its Appearance

Volume 1, Number 1, of the Morse Monitor made its appearance in Hamford county last week. The first issue of the Monitor was devoted to the agricultural and industrial interests of this section and carried many interesting facts about Hamford county.

Morse citizens should be proud of this splendid paper of which H. E. Castleberry is editor.

The first issue of the Monitor was printed in the Reporter shop, and was a 24-page edition.

Large Crowds Attend County League Meet Here Saturday

SPEARMAN WINS FIRST IN CLASS B CONTESTS

Medlin School Scores High In The Rural School Division of League

The Interscholastic League meet for Hamford county was held in Spearman last Friday and Saturday, under the general supervision of Superintendent R. L. Snider of the Spearman schools, assisted by the various teachers of the county.

Every school in the county had a number of contestants to participate in the various events, and almost every school represented carried off a number of prizes.

The prizes awarded were pennants and medals, which were furnished by the Spearman chamber of commerce. The local P. T. A. served lunch at the noon hour on the school grounds.

Spearman won first place in the class B contests, registering a total of 474 points. Gruver was second with 132, and Morse third with 66.

The Medlin school carried off high score in the rural school division.

In the Senior track events Windom of Spearman was high point man with 28 points; Walker of Spearman, second, 17 points; Vernon, Spearman, third, 16 points; Cluck, Gruver, fourth, 15 points.

This is the first Interscholastic League meet that has been held in the county in a number of years, and efforts are being made to make it an annual affair.

Spearman Wins First Game From Morse

The Independent baseball organization of Spearman met the first nine from the little city of Morse on the local diamond last Sunday afternoon and defeated them in the first game of the season by the score of 8 to 3.

The game was fast and interesting from the start to finish and the local boys looked good. They promise the fans of this national sport much wholesome amusement during the coming summer months.

These two teams meet again this coming Sunday on the Morse diamond. Go over to this fine little city and witness a good game of baseball.

Vernon Will Sell The "Caterpillar" Line

G. N. (Pete) Vernon, popular barber of the Hays Barber Shop, has an ad in this issue of the Reporter for the Plains Tractor and Equipment Company of Amarillo, of which he is the representative for this section of the country.

Mr. Vernon will handle the Holt combine and Caterpillar tractor, for which his company is agent, and will devote the greater part of his time to the sale and service of these implements.

He is not overlooking the matter of parts, and will stock the same in the Hays building, west of Hastings Pharmacy. Mr. Vernon and the line he represents, are both well known in this district and he will no doubt be pleased with the results of his effort in this line of business.

JOHN LANNERS LIVES ON LAND BOUGHT IN 1891

Real Pioneer Has Neither Auto-Mobile Nor Tractor On Big Ranch

In 1891, the state of Texas allowed John Lanners to purchase four sections of land in the southeastern part of Sherman county at $1.00 an acre on 40 years time at 3 per cent interest.

Mr. Lanners has lived on the land since that time and is believed to be the only resident of the Panhandle residing on land which he purchased directly from the state.

John Lanners, a resident of the Panhandle since 1879 when he came south from Dodge City, Kan., is one of the most interesting characters in the Panhandle.

The picture above is said to be the only one ever made of this noted Plainsman. Hundreds of old timers know John Lanners, for he has been attending cattlemen's conventions in Amarillo since they started.

Oldtimers assert that Lanners has never been seen without the handkerchief tied around his neck. Lanners boasts of the fact that he has never owned an automobile nor a tractor, although he has been farming several hundred acres for more than 20 years.

"An automobile just takes up time," says this veteran of the Plains. "When I get ready to go anywhere I catch a ride with somebody and when I get ready to work my crops I don't stop until the work is finished. I raise feed for my mules and although a tractor don't eat when it is not working, I don't have to buy any feed at all for my mules."

Lanners has one of the best bunch of grade Herefords in the Panhandle and feeds them every winter on feed produced on his ranch.

The veteran Plainsman served three terms as sheriff of Sherman county in the early days and made a phenomenal record handling affairs in what oldtimers still refer to as "John Lanners' way."

"I can remember when there was not a fence between Texhoma and Amarillo," said Lanners while in Amarillo attending the cattlemen's convention. "Those were the good old days, but these present days are not so bad and this is still the best cow country in the world."

LOYALTY

Loyalty between the individuals of a community is what transforms an ordinary town into a fine city. Loyalty enables men and women to co-operate and bring to community problems the force of organization. Loyalty keeps the money earned in the home town circulating in the home town. Loyalty makes everyone interested in the welfare of the community, and focuses onto the problems of the town the combined intelligence of its citizenry.

Miss Phillips: "If there were Mr. and Mrs. Sniegelritz and the baby, how many were there?"
Pupil: "Two and one to carry."

LETTING HIM OFF EASY

They tell of a producer who, after bringing a couple of quick flops to town, took up a career of dodging creditors and cussing out the uncertainties of show business. On his way home the other night, brooding over his recent misfortunes, he was accosted by a thug. The stick-up specialist thrust forth a gun and told him he'd put it to work at the first outcry. "A pistol, eh?" exclaimed the victim, relieved. "How you frightened me. I thought it was a summons!"

MR. AVERAGE FARMER BROADCASTS

"Howdy, folks, howdy; Say, for months I've wondered just how I could reach you all, when suddenly, like the first snow-drop, up springs this opportunity to broadcast from Station WFBL—YOURS FOR BETTER LIVESTOCK."

They tell me that these air waves radiate to all your homes, and are easy to tune in; in fact, they are all clamoring for admittance as they realize the importance of these messages for you and "yours" out in the barn and hen house.

"From time to time I'm going to talk about this business of feeds and feeding. You all know who I am—just a Mr. Average Farmer. For years I've been disappointed with the little profits which I received from my livestock. Something was wrong. What was I to do?"

"Well, I took a short 'ag' course ordered a lot of good 'ag' bulletins, and then proceeded to carry out some of this information. My neighbors thought my policy of breeding, weeding and feeding was a joke at first, and maybe it did look strange and different from the methods carried on by our great grandfathers. Despite a lot of laughs I kept on and in a few years the results of my new methods were noticeable. My neighbors came over, looked at my cows, hogs and sheep, and before they left, congratulated me. I was happy; success was achieved after the trial period.

"I became the most popular man in the neighborhood. 'How did I accomplish all this?' 'What was this stuff about balanced ration?' 'What made my cows produce so well?' 'What made my hogs grow so fast?' These were only a few of the many questions asked of me.

"I couldn't tell all these good neighbors my methods and it worried me too, for why, so I figured should I keep this knowledge to myself, when they might also benefit by it, and so when this chance came to let you in on some good feeding hints, I pounced upon it as my Biddy does after these Spring worms.

"Well—all that's just to introduce me to you folks, and I'm just what my name says—a Mr. Average Farmer. I hope you are going to like me, and I shall try my best to help you with some of these pesky feed problems. I have a lot of good hints for spring feeding, and wish that I might tell you about them now, but they tell me my time is up. Will tell you about them in the next two weeks, when I broadcast again. Anyhow, I've introduced myself to you all, and that's that. Goodbye friends, and don't forget the next talk. Station WFBL—YOURS FOR BETTER LIVESTOCK."

A BENEFACTOR IN DISGUISE

Larkson: "I'm going up to the jail. I want to talk with the bandit who took my car."

Parkson: "What's the use?"
Larkson: "Maybe he'll tell me how he got fifty miles an hour out of her."

ANOTHER FIRST KISS ONE

He: "Honest, baby, you're the first girl I ever kissed."
She: "You demonstrated that."

BRIBIFEROUS

"I gave my wife a $500 fur coat for Christmas."
"To keep her warm?"
"Hell, no, to keep her quiet."

WISH IS GRANTED

"I wish, Matilda, you would agree not to talk when I'm driving in traffic."
"We can discuss that as we go along, Adolphus."

DR. RICHARDSON WRITES ABOUT CHILDREN

"Jealousy is one of the most evil and commonly encountered traits in all walks of life and so must constantly be reckoned with in all human relationships," writes Dr. Frank Howard Richardson in his article on Child Education, which appears in the current issue of Holland's The Magazine of the South.

Dr. Richardson goes on to say "One of the greatest services that parents can render their children is to bring them up that jealousy will play as little a part in their lives as is humanly possible. For jealousy, in some degrees, is a very human trait; and few of us there be who are at all times wholly free from some tinge of it."

"One of the outstanding things about jealousy—one that should give parents pause—is the fact that it rarely develops after maturity. The man or woman who is jealous was a jealous boy or girl; he has suffered from this tormentis no glory in being allowed to talk. What they want is to be heard from talking. That gives them a high degree of satisfaction and gives color to their claim that free speech is not allowed in this country.

There is only one intelligent way to handle such people. That is to let them talk, preserve order in the crowd that is listening to them, and pay no attention to what they say.

of farmers to form organization to better their living conditions. These same students of what took place in the past are also familiar with the general public reaction to the first of these efforts. Farmers were then branded as radicals because they advocated their rural free delivery, federal land banks, a United States department of agriculture and other such like measures. These doctrines were branded as dangerous and many years passed before the general public was ready to accord the farmer even the right to organize.

Holding a Consultation

IT is getting along about bed time—the paper read and lessons prepared—so we see the Joneses engaged in conversation.

They are talking about shoes—commenting on the splendid service they have had from the last pair each of them bought—but it will soon be time to buy again.

These good, sensible people have long ago learned that it pays to buy good shoes. This does not necessarily mean that they pay a high price, but there's one thing they do insist upon and that is quality—the high quality that is found in International Made "Star Brand" Solid Leather Shoes.

Our "Star Brand" shoes are famous for their long wear—and good looks too—and the interesting thing about this happy combination is that our prices are so moderate, for we could not begin to sell such fine shoes—such true values at prices so attractive were it not for the many manufacturing economies and other advantages passed along to us by the International Shoe Company, the makers of "Star Brand" shoes.

Yes, Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Sis and Bud are coming back to see us. They are coming back for shoes again because they bought good "Star Brand" shoes the last time.

Suppose you come too.

A MATTER OF CONTRAST

Life in the United States brings some queer contrasts every so often.

A few days ago William Howard Taft, former president and former chief justice of the United States, was buried in Arlington cemetery. High honors were paid him. His body lay in state in the national capital and 10,000 filed through to pay their last homage to one of the nation's foremost citizens.

Now it happened, by some ironic twist of fate, that on the very same day a Chicago gang leader named John Oberta, nicknamed Dingbat, was buried in Chicago. Oberta had met his death through a gangland machine gun, murdered in the typical Chicago style; and Chicago's gangland gave him a very swell funeral.

There were 15,000 people out for Oberta's rites. His coffin cost $15,000, and was covered with a blanket of orchids. Four automobiles full of flowers went to the cemetery with the hearse. The funeral procession was two blocks long.

All of this, happening at the same time that ex-President Taft was being buried, was rather startling. It made a strange spectacle; a gangster getting a funeral nearly as spectacular and costly, and even better attended, than a president of the United States.

The whole thing is eloquent about the state of things in our modern civilization. It will be a valuable item for historians some day.

Our standards are so mixed up, so confused, that an underworld gang chieftain is one of the important men of the country. While he lives he has vast power, riches and fame. When he dies he gets a $15,000 casket, and his obsequies vie those of a president.

That's America in the year 1930. When, do you suppose, will we wake up and adopt a better kind of standards?

PHYSICAL PROGRESS

It is a good thing for a nation to improve morally and spiritually. It is a good thing for a man to improve physically. The other things that follow an active mind and a healthy body. None will quarrel with the bold statement that there is some difference of opinion as to the present state of the American people morally and spiritually, but the opinion that they are better mentally and physically is too plain to support even a doubt. One illustration will suffice to bear out the latter assertion. In the days of old—the rare old, fair old, dumb old days beyond recall—teeth were permitted to decay until they fell out of their own accord or had to be extracted to stop the pain caused by exposed nerves. Then the dentist was a man to be avoided. Just men and women of peculiar mental caliber will not permit themselves to be taken to a hospital until the angel of death is virtually tapping at the door, there is a time when the dentist's major performance was on the teeth of humans racked with torturing pains. None cared how crooked or black the teeth were, if there were no aches to disturb one's slumbers and spoil one's meals. How much more intelligent is the modern viewpoint! Many parents of all classes intelligently guard the teeth of their children from infancy, taking measures to guide them into their proper position and preventing decay. The toothbrush is in almost universal use. In the schools the child is taught dental cleanliness and is subjected to frequent dental examinations. And countless adults no longer postpone visiting the dentist until a sharp pain sounds the alarm of dental trouble. The nation's reward is that toothache is becoming rare and clean, even teeth are becoming a national characteristic.—Lubbock Avalanche.

YOUR BOY'S FUTURE

"I believe in supporting the independent home merchant," said an intelligent woman in the editor's hearing the other day. "To do all my buying at chain stores would be to contribute to a system that will limit the opportunities for my son."

In these remarks, we feel, she has sounded the broad, social significance of the anti-chain store movement that is gaining impetus daily. In those two sentences she has challenged the present trend of the times and has raised some important questions. "What does the future hold for the boys and girls of today. Can they look forward to the time when intelligent application to work will enable them to become independent business? Or can they look forward to nothing more than a position in some great organization controlled from afar?"

Our country is great because of the opportunity it affords. It has been built-up by countless small business men who own and control their own businesses, who are therefore interested in their communities, the state, and the nation. The opportunity of owning property and managing business institutions in America regardless of the social and economic stratum into which one is born is the greatest thing we have offered to civilization.

International Sunday School Lesson
By DR. J. E. NUNN

FOR APRIL 6, 1930
Topic:—The Law of the Lesson:—Matt. 16:13-14

...was built by Herod the Great, and named in honor of Emperor (Caesar) Augustus. This Caesarea was also named in honor of Augustus by Herod Philip, who added his own name to distinguish it from the Caesarea on the coast. It was finely situated on a rocky terrace 1150 feet above sea level, at the base of Mt. Hermon. Just north of the town is the source of the Jordan, gushing out of the ground in a plentiful flow.

“The Son of Man?” v. 13. “The Son of man,” Christ’s favorite name for himself, emphasizing nature as typical man, taking up man’s sins in himself, that he might make an atonement for them. His wonderful works were enough to mark him the Son of God. No one else has ever lived whom it was necessary to call “the son of man” in order to make men realize his kinship with our humanity. The title, derived from Daniel, Ezekiel and the Psalms, was a recognized name of the Messiah, and this was the main reason why Christ used it. As his death drew near, it became necessary for him to assert his claims to Messiahship clearly, and establish them so firmly in the minds of his disciples as to lay the foundation of his church and his kingdom.

“And they said, Some say John the Baptist, Elijah or Jeremiah.” v. 14. “And they said, Some say John the Baptist...” John had been murdered, but it was the common opinion that he had come to life again in Jesus. The uneasy conscience of Herod Antipas, who had put John to death, led him to share this opinion (Matt. 14:1, 2). “Some, Elijah.” Elijah was a great worker of miracles, as Christ was; he stood boldly for the true religion and against all iniquity, as Christ did; John the Baptist, Christ’s herald, was to come “in the spirit and power of Elijah, and, finally, Elijah was carried mysteriously to heaven without death and burial, and so might easily be expected to return again. And others, Jeremiah, or one of the prophets.”

“Who Say Ye I Am?” v. 15. “He said unto them, But who say ye that I am?” That was the main question for Jesus. He had been teaching them and they had been working with and observing him for two years and a half. Was it all a success or a failure? That question was a searching test for each one of the Twelve. It is a searching test for us as well. The opinion of Christ that others hold will not answer for us. Each one must be fully persuaded in his own mind. What we think of Christ determines our degree of success in this life and our eternal destiny.

“Thou Art the Christ.” v. 16. “And Simon Peter answered...” Peter’s quickness and boldness, which sometimes got him into trouble, never showed themselves to better advantage than at this time. He knew, and knew that he knew. “And said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.”

Christ, the Son of the living God.” This is the sum and substance of Christian theology. It would be impossible for a Christian statement to be more comprehensive, satisfactory, and inspiring. Jesus, Peter declared, was the Messiah, the Christ (for both mean “the Anointed One”), the Redeemer foretold by the prophets.

“Upon This Rock I Will Build My Church.” v. 18. “Thou are Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church.” Jesus usually called Peter by his name, Simon; on this occasion he recurs to the name he had bestowed upon him prophetically when Andrew brought him to Christ (John 1:42). Peter (both Greek and Latin in origin) means “rock,” as in our “petrified,” turned to stone. Cephas is Aramic for the same thing. Not upon Peter, the fallible, clumsy and blundering disciple, but upon Peter’s confession of Jesus as the Christ, the Son of the living God. “And the gates of Hades shall not prevail against it.” Hades is a Greek word meaning “unseen;” it means the realm of departed spirits, the invisible world, a synonym of death. From the custom of holding court at the city gates, the word “gates” came to mean authority of power. Therefore Christ said here that against his church, thus founded, the power of death would not prevail; it would stand forever.

Jesus Foretells His Death. v. 21. “From that time.” From the time of Peter’s declaration. “Began Jesus to show unto his disciples...” His work had become intensive. The Twelve must be made ready to carry on his work after his death. “That he must go unto Jerusalem.” There in the heart of the chosen people, the seat of the temple of the living God, the divine sacrifice for the sin of the world must be made. “And suffer many things of the elders and chief priests and scribes.” The three classes making up the Sanhedrin, the Jews’ supreme court which condemned Jesus to death. “And he will be killed.” Only a blood atonement would serve as a sacrifice for the sins of humanity, and Christ knew the absolute necessity for this. “And the third day he will be raised up.” This was in fulfillment of prophecy and as the chosen sign in verification of Christ’s deity. “the sign of the prophet Jonah.”

Peter Rebukes Jesus. v. 22. “And Peter took him.” Peter led Jesus to one side, having at least enough modesty to wish to make his protest privately. “And began to rebuke him.” He began, but Christ did not allow him to go very far in his egotistic though affectionate folly. “Saying, Be it far from thee, Lord.” Literally, “God pity thee,” that is, “God give thee a better fate.”

Self Denial and Cross Bearing. “If any man would come after me...” Follow me, be my disciple and my companion. “Let him deny himself.” Not his higher self, but his lower self. “And take up his cross, and follow me.” Luke 9:23. “Our Lord meant not only follow him, if need be, along the paths to a violent and disgraceful death, but also day by day on the road of lowly and difficult service.”

“What Doth It Profit?” v. 26. “For what shall a man be profited if he shall gain the whole world...” Christ is purposely overstating the case for the worldling never does gain the whole world, but only a very small part of it; and the more of it he has, the less he seems to have, and the greater is his discontent. “And forfeit his life?” His real life, his eternal life, that for which the world exists, with all its experiences and wealth. “Or what shall a man give in exchange for his life?” One’s being, one’s soul, is that by which alone one can enjoy any pleasure or use any possessions. “Nothing can be given to use to recompense the loss of heaven; and if our souls be lost, there is nothing remaining to us whereby we can be happy.”—Jeremy Taylor.

The Second Coming of Christ. The chapter closes with a prophecy of the second coming of Christ, his return in glory with the angels, his judgment upon all men in accordance with their deeds; the establishment of the kingdom of heaven. The next chapter of Matthew’s Gospel is largely devoted to the wonderful transfiguration scene, in which Christ bore witness to himself by allowing his deity to shine out in splendor before the dazzled eyes of Peter, James, and John; in which also Moses and Elijah, returning to earth, bore the witness of the Law and of Prophecy; and in which, as a mighty climax, the Father bore witness by the voice from heaven. “This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him.”

DALLAS LADY IS GLAD TO PRAISE FAMED KONJOLA. Neuritis And Stomach Troubles Soon Vanished By Power Of New Medicine.

MRS. E. M. FITZGERALD. “I never had the least idea Konjola would help me as it did,” said Mrs. E. M. Fitzgerald, 4533 Worth street, Dallas. “My stomach gave me a great deal of pain and trouble. Gas accumulated in my stomach after meals and the pressure against the heart cavity caused that organ to beat wildly. Neuritis attacked my side and my right arm and shoulder. Those pains were often so severe that I could not do my housework. I did not sleep at night and became very nervous.”

Konjola works with the important functionary organs of the body, drives the poisons from the system and regulates the organs of digestion and elimination. In this way glorious and abundant relief is brought about. It is recommended that Konjola be taken from six to eight weeks for best results.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., St. Louis, Mo.
Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

ARTICLE XXVII

Editor's Note—This is another story in a series of 52 stories on poultry raising written by the well known national poultry authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis. The entire series will appear in this paper. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

TO BUY OR NOT TO BUY NOT HOW EXPENSIVE? BUT HOW EFFICIENT?

Poultry Raisers' Equipment Need Not be Costly to Get Results; Homemade Devices Serve Admirably.

A man fed from solid gold table service will be no better nourished than if his food were taken from dishes of the heaviest and cheapest earthenware, neither will he rest any better in a bed made of mahogany than he would in a bed made of pine. By the same token, poultry get along no better if raised with the aid of expensive devices rather than something far cheaper. As a matter of fact, homemade devices serve just as well in many cases as anything one can buy.

Of course, there is ample justification for buying factory made equipment made of such materials as galvanized iron or earthenware. As a rule, it is more sanitary and also more durable. It is often essential, however, to keep the investment for equipment as low as possible. If so, the right kind of homemade equipment will serve just as well as the most expensive factory-made article. Moreover, with but little more effort, if any, it can be kept clean and sanitary. As an example, I have some nests made from ordinary soap boxes that have given satisfactory service for more than ten years continuously.

Troughs, which are undoubtedly the most generally used of all feeding appliances, are also easily made by the home workman. A number of excellent factory-made troughs are also available if wanted. The familiar V bottom trough made entirely of wood is, I believe, the most commonly used for feeding wet mash as well as the easiest to build. It is very good, too, because feed cannot lodge in the corners. Whatever material or style of construction is used, a grating of some sort should protect the food so the fowls can reach it easily, but cannot roost over it or get their feet in it. All feeding troughs and water vessels should be up off the ground or floor, on platforms or racks, so the chickens cannot scratch litter and dirt into them.

The reel hopper is best for dry mash feed. This can be made by making an open box 12 inches wide, 7 inches high at each side, and any length required up to 12 or 14 feet. Have the ends of this box project up 7 or 8 inches and hand a reel in the center of these end pieces four inches square, which will prevent the chickens from roosting on it and will keep them from getting into the box or hopper with their feet and still permit them to eat the mash feed. On the top of each side have a lip project into the box at least 3/4 of an inch. This will keep the chickens from wasting the feed. It should be upon a platform where the hens can jump up and eat from each side.

In addition to the various kinds of troughs and hoppers which can be of homemade construction, there are several very practical styles of homemade drinking equipment which are more or less satisfactory. Drinking vessels should be made of tin, galvanized iron, glass or crockery. A wooden vessel or trough is not easily cleaned or sterilized; therefore, should not be used for either water or milk. An ordinary pan, bucket or pail or can can be used for a drinking vessel or excellent sanitary drinking fountain can be bought from any dealer in poultry supplies. If homemade equipment is used, be sure to protect it in some way so the fowls cannot get in the water with their feet or turn it over.

For watering poultry, the best plan is to build a platform 24 inches square and have it up 20 or 24 inches from the floor. Make a round hole in the center of this platform just large enough to let a tapered galvanized pail or bucket half way down in the hole, and the chickens can jump up on all sides of this platform and drink. A platform can be made 2 feet wide and 6 feet long, if desired to accommodate three pails. Plenty of pure, fresh drinking water should be available at all times, convenient for the hens to find.

Space is lacking to describe even briefly the various other accessories which may be desirable in the poultry yard. All of them may, as a rule be made at home of simple material and at very little cost if so desired. Not only does the maker of such equipment effect a worth-while saving, but I know from personal experience that he gets a whole lot of genuine personal enjoyment out of making his own equipment. He has the additional satisfaction of knowing his percentage of profits will be greater because his investment has been kept as low as possible.—Copyright, 1929 by Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S.

LIEB ITEMS

Mrs. C. E. Lieb and Iris Lieb motored to Amarillo Thursday, returning Friday.

A number of the pupils of the Pringle school went to Borger to enter the interscholastic league meet Friday afternoon, and came home with two winners. We are real proud of the contestants as Pringle only entered in five events. Chesta Lieb won first place in the three R contest, which consists of reading, writing and arithmetic, and Wilson McCloy won first place in Arithmetic. These boys have a chance to go to Canyon to the district meet. We hope that they will be as successful at Canyon as they were at Borger.

The following are getting up a play to be put on soon at Pringle for the purpose of helping buy that long talked-of piano for the school and church. We need a piano bad and maybe when we get enough cash there will be one purchased. The date is April 11th. It is a play full of laughs, "Two Days to Marry." The characters are: Joe Roden, Jeff Webb, Fred Thomas, Marshall Chisum, Doris Webb, Ozella Weatherford and Iris Lieb.

Woodville Jarvis made a business trip to Amarillo Saturday.

Mrs. M. W. McCloy, Maudie Weatherford and Iris Lieb are leaving Wednesday morning for Childress to attend the P. T. A. Annual District Conference.

Miss Maudie Weatherford entertained a number of the young people's Sunday school class Saturday evening at her brother-in-law's Mr. and Mrs. Howard Roden.

A number of games of 42 were played. Then came the best part of all the refreshments, consisting of two kinds of sandwiches, coffee and apples.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Webb, Henretta Barrett, Chesta Lieb, Ozella Weatherford, Marshall Chisum, Maudie Weatherford, Cecil Webb, Joe Roden, Iris Lieb, Woodville Jarvis and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Roden.

Everyone reported a very enjoyable evening.

Mrs. R. M. Dulin is getting along nicely at this report.

Mrs. Roy McNutt returned from Hot Springs, New Mexico, Friday. She reports that Lloyd Henderson is doing nicely and will return home soon.

Mrs. B. F. Cooke returned last week from Texline where she had been at the bedside of her mother. She reports that her mother is still awfully low.

Mrs. Charlie White of Stinnett visited her sister, Mrs. Travis Womble Friday.

Mrs. Wiley and children are visiting Mrs. Wiley's brother, Russell Marable, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Henderson and children visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Forester Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Doris Webb is going to teach school while Miss Maudie Weatherford is attending the P. T. A. district conference.

Mrs. M. W. McCloy took her father, Mr. Braly to his son's home in Borger to spend a few days.

PARENTIAL OBLIGATIONS

The men of today had advantages in their youth that are being denied to present day boys. Life for them was not all play. They had many duties to perform before they were allowed to rush off to the swimming hole or the back lot ball diamond.

There were chickens to care for, wood to cut a large garden to weed, and perhaps a horse or a cow that had to have regular attention.

These many duties developed habits that have been of inestimable value in later life. They learned to work and to care for the job in hand before rushing off to play. They acquired with these duties that has helped them to meet the problems of later life.

Life in a small community like Spearman has changed tremendously, however in the last two decades. Smaller homes, with modern conveniences have eliminated the duties that used to fall upon the boy. Now he has little to do in addition to his school work and such activities as arise from that source. The result is a lack of training in some of the essentials of success.

To find a substitute for this loss is something worthy of serious consideration. This need is partially supplied in boy scout work and other activities, but the real job falls back upon the parents.

The father and mother of a growing boy should contrast his way of life with the way they lived at his age, and see if they cannot find something to replace what the modern mode of life has destroyed.

Scrubs Eat Their Heads Off

"One day at the National Dairy Show, a city-bred chap and his best girl came along to see the exhibit on dairy-herd-improvement association work. I judged that he was a city-bred chap from some of the remarks he made, and that she was his best girl from some of the remarks they both made.

These young folks became very much interested in one of the pictures that showed some scrub cows pasturing in a beautiful field of clover. The cows were headless and the picture was entitled: "They ate their heads off."

After studying the picture for some time, the young man remarked: "I don't get that. I don't see how cows can eat their heads off."

"Oh," replied the young lady,

"don't you understand that? It means that they don't produce enough milk to pay for their feed."

"Well," remarked the young man, "that is pretty good, isn't it?" And then they passed on.

When they were gone, one of the department specialists remarked: "That young man had better freeze on to that lady—he needs her!"

Cows that eat their heads should be fed neither up down; they should be put on very good way to avoid the loss of a surplus of dairy products this country is to dispose of producing cows."—The Farmer

Come In and See Us About the John Deere Combine

The purchase of any Combine represents a large initial investment. It isn't an every day purchase. Four mighty important questions to ask yourself before you buy a combine are—"Has this machine the capacity to save the grain in heavy crops?—Will it clean the grain to my satisfaction—deliver it in best condition for market or storage?—Will it give me continuous low-cost service?—What will it be worth three or five years from now?"

The John Deere Combine is built by an organization with nearly a hundred years experience in building and servicing high quality farm equipment—a record that has made the name John Deere famous in every farming community. Into it are built strength, durability, capacity, power, grain-saving features—every quality that assures satisfactory service over a long period of years.

Ask John Deere users about their combines—Come in and learn more about this better machine. You will want a John Deere in your harvest field this year.

SPRING HOUSECLEANING—MADE EASIER

Again the limit of a woman's "trials and tribulations" has been reached—spring housecleaning time.

If ever she needs assistance it is now. Mere man sees little that he can do for her. No one can direct the proceedings but herself. But there is one assistance he can and should give—an extension telephone.

For a rental of only a few dimes a month you can have an extension placed in the kitchen, bedroom, or upstairs hall—wherever it is needed most. Then madame can order from down-town stores immediately and conveniently. A can of wax that she forgot yesterday; the steak for the family dinner; or a much needed scrub brush can be secured without extra steps. But even more important—when the telephone rings she need not drop whatever she is doing and rush up or down stairs or across the house to answer it.

An extension brings the telephone right to her elbow.

Never does a woman need complete telephone service more just now! And what a pleasure it will afford her in the hot summer months, as through their hole year—ern Telephone Corporation, Lusk, local manager.

INCOMPETENCE

Any business man will tell you that he fears the competition of incompetent individuals more than the competition of men who know the business. It is the man who has no knowledge of costs, and who produces an inferior article, and who is inadequately financed, who creates most of the difficulty in all industry.

In most business, however, the incompetent individual is sooner or later forced to close out. He cannot last indefinitely, and when he finds it necessary to seek his livelihood in other walks the business he damages is relieved.

The farmer also has a similar problem. But in his business the incompetent individual tends to force the intelligent operator out. The force that operates to clean up business fails to function in the agricultural industry, because no man, however incompetent he may be, is likely to starve on the farm. He can get a meagre living for himself and family from the soil and produce at a loss, an amount that creates the agricultural surplus which now proves so distressing.

It is these incompetent individuals who produce dairy products at a loss and, who cultivate fields at a loss but thereby add to the surplus, who are in a measure responsible for part of the agricultural difficulties of the present.

It seems unfortunate that these incapable operators should drive the intelligent farmer out of business, but so it works. For the intelligent farmer goes into other lines of work where his brains and energy can be made to return a larger income than he can now get as a member of the most important business in the nation.

The man who always wears a smile, who is friendly with children, who greets the poor and the rich with the same hearty "good morning," who is at home with young men as well as elderly men, who is not prone to criticize, who enjoys a good joke and attend to his own business, is the man whose life is a benediction to the community in which he lived and whose death casts a pall of sorrow over everybody.
