Dr. Dean C. Dutton, the "Blue Bird Philosopher," will be in Spearman November 13th to 17th inclusive.

Those who heard Dr. Dutton in a short talk at the Club Cafe last summer will remember how his talk impressed—how this man convinced his hearers as one far above the average.

The idea that it would be a fine thing to have Dr. Dutton come to Spearman for several days' work among the boys and girls of this country.

And that is why he is coming. There will be no admittance charge to the lectures and talks.

Everyone is invited to hear this wonderful worker, free of charge. It is merely a donation by men of this community who are intensely interested in the welfare of the boys and girls.

The Parent-Teachers Associations of the county are taking an active part in the work of advertising the meetings, and if the weather is at all favorable, large crowds should greet Dr. Dutton at each and every session.

The lectures, so far as is known, will be held in the auditorium at the high school building, though it may be arranged to hold one or more night sessions at the Baptist church.

These announcements will be made as early as possible at the arrival of Dr. Dutton.

International Sunday School Lesson

By DR. J. E. NUNN

FOR NOV. 10, 1929

General Topic—World Peace Through Mutual Understanding.
Scripture Lesson—Isa. 2:2-24; Acts 17:22-28; John 4:20, 21, Isa. 2:2. And it shall come to pass in the latter days, that the mountain of Jehovah's house shall be established on the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it.

3. And many peoples shall go and say, Come ye, and let us go up to the mountain of Jehovah, to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and ye will walk in his paths: for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word of Jehovah from Jerusalem.

4. And he will judge between the nations, and will decide concerning many peoples; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up word against nation, neither shall they learn war anymore.

Acts 17:22. And Paul stood in the midst of the Areopagus, and said, Ye men of Athens, in all things I perceive that ye are very religious.

23. For as I passed along, and observed the objects of your worship, I found also an altar with this inscription, TO THE UNKNOWN GOD. What therefore ye worship in ignorance, this I set forth unto you.

24. The God that made the world and all things therein, being Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands;

25. Neither is he served by men's hands, as though he needed anything, seeing he himself giveth to all life, and breath, and all things;

26. And he made of one every nation of men to dwell on all the face of the earth, having determined their appointed seasons, and the bounds of their habitation;

27. That they should seek God, and happily they might feel after him and find him, though he is not far from each one of us:

28. For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain even of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring. John 4:20. Our fathers worshipped in this mountain; and ye say, that in Jerusalem is the place where men ought to worship.

21. Jesus saith unto her, Woman, believe me, the hour cometh, when neither in this mountain, nor in Jerusalem, shall ye worship the Father.

Olden Text.—They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain; for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of Jehovah as the waters cover the sea.—Isa. 11:9.

Time and Place: Isaiah prophesied in Jerusalem, B. C. 755-679. Paul's address before the Areopagus, in Athens, A. D. 51. Christ talks with the Samaritan woman near Sychar, December, A. D. 27, in the first year of his ministry.

Introduction
 The present times have two great—pre-eminently great—subjects of thought. They are two reforms: prohibition of the liquor traffic and abolition of war. Both world problems, to be solved satisfactorily only by the co-operation of all nations. As to the first, our own country has gone farther than all other nations and is leading the way. As to the second, we must sadly admit that most other nations are far ahead of ours. Last week we studied the first problem; this week we study the second. Toward the solution of it we have given us the words of 3 wonderful thinkers: Isaiah, the greatest prophet of the Old Testament; Paul, the greatest of the New Testament; and Christ, the Supreme Leader of the ages, the Son of God, the Saviour of men.

Isaiah's Vision of Peace, Isa. 2:2-4
 Our lesson today contains three passages from Isaiah. In the first (2:2-4) he pictures the time when the religion of Jehovah shall be acknowledged by all the nations, when they shall look to him for guidance, when he shall settle disputes between them, when his will shall be their law. When the day comes, there will be no need of swords and spears to protect the nations from one another. The study of warfare will be obsolete. In the next passage (11:9-10) the prophet pictures the reign of peace among animals. The wild beasts shall be tamed and a little child shall lead them. In the third passage (19:23-25) we have a picture of peace between the Jewish people and their two great historical enemies, Egypt and Assyria. The three nations shall all worship Jehovah.

Isaiah's Greatest Sentence, v. 4
 "Nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war anymore." "If one were asked to write down the six most often repeated sentences in the first thirty-nine chapters of the Book of Isaiah, he would include this sentence in his list. If one were asked to write the three most famous sentences of Isaiah, the son of Amoz, I suspect that this sentence would have to be one of the 3. There are some who think it is the greatest sentence which Isaiah ever wrote."—Rev. Charles E. Jefferson, D. D.

"A Little Child Shall Lead Them" Isa. 11:6-10
 In this famous passage Isaiah sees the reign of peace, which he had prophesied as existing among men, extended to the animals. He sees the fiercest and most powerful beasts, the lions, leopards, bears, and wolves, having lost their fierceness and become gentle, playing with and lying down with the tamest and most defenceless animals, lambs, calves and kids. He sees the wild beasts so tame that the little child can lead them. Deadly serpents also, such as the asp and the adder have become harmless. "They shall not hurt nor destroy," and the reason for this beatific condition is that "the earth shall be full of the knowledge of Jehovah, as the waters cover the sea."

The Areopagus, Acts 17:22
 In his visit to Athens, in the course of his second missionary journey, Paul had a splendid opportunity to declare unity of the human race, and splendidly did he use it. "And Paul stood in the midst of the Areopagus, 'Areopagus' means 'Mars Hill, Mars being the Greek name for the Latin Mars, the god of war. 'The Areopagus' is probably here not the hill itself, a summit west of the Acropolis where there was hardly room for a crowd, but the hall of the Areopagus, the historic council before which Socrates was tried and condemned. "And said, Ye men of Athens." This was the classic opening for an Athenian oration. "In all things I perceive that ye are very religious," Paul's hearers would take this as a tactful compliment, for it was a common saying that in Athens there were more gods (statues of the gods) than men."

The "Unknown God."
 "I found also an altar with this inscription, TO AN UNKNOWN GOD." So "religious" were the Athenians,—in reality, so superstitious—that they could not rest easy after filling their cities with altars to every god they could hear about, in their own nation and every foreign land, but, for fear that some god whom they had not heard about might be omitted, they had reared an altar to him. "The God that made the world and all things therein." This was the "unknown god" of their altar. We must remember that the address is of course, greatly condensed. "He being Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands." Doubtless Paul expanded every phrase of the wonderful sentences. He was surrounded by the most marvellous temples ever erected, temples of which the Athenians were inordinately proud.

The "Oneness" Of The Human Family
 "And he made of one every nation of men to dwell on all the face of the earth." God made all men of One, that it, of himself, the universal Father; and he made men with a view to populating the earth, which he had previously fashioned with loving care as a home for men.

"For in his we live, and move, and have our being." Whether consciously or not; we are surrounded and upheld by the divine Being. "For we are also his offspring."

From the doctrine of the Fatherhood of God springs logically and immediately the doctrine of the brotherhood of man, which Paul was so forcibly preaching.

"Looking at man's moral and religious nature, we find the most striking indications of original and fundamental unity pervading the race. In all there is a sense of the distinction between right and wrong; in all there is an emotion of approval of what is judged to be right, and of condemnation of what is counted wrong; in all there is a conscience, which is constantly either 'accusing or exculpating' his possessor in reference to his deeds; and in all there is a sense of obligation, a reference to a supreme power, from whom that obligation proceeds, and to whom that responsibility is due."

Christ's Teaching of Spiritual Unity, John 4:23-24
 "The hour cometh, when neither in this mountain, nor in Jerusalem, shall ye worship the Father," Christ foresaw the coming of a time when the Samaritan temple on Mt. Gerizim, which had been in ruins for a century and a half, and the glorious temple on Mt. Zion in Jerusalem, should be all one, since true worship of the Father does not lie in such externals. "God is a spirit; and they that worship him must worship in spirit and truth" and not in "temples made with hands." In the days of Ezra and Nehemiah these mongrel Samaritans had sought to be included with the Jewish people; a proposal which met with strong rebuffs. They resented the affront; built a temple of their own at Gerizim to rival that at Jerusalem; claimed for their mountain a superior holiness to that at Zion, and even defiled the Jewish temple by scattering bones there at the time of the passover. The Jews therefore had no dealings with the Samaritans, and held that salvation was only for themselves. But the Lord Jesus brushed all this aside, as a man might a cobweb swinging across a garden pathway. What were these distinctions to him, so long as those who sought the Father did so in spirit and in truth? The flock was more to him than the folds, the army than the device on the banner of any single regiment, and so it will be with us, in proportion as we partake of his spirit." Rev. F. B. Meyer, D. D.

Tennyson's Vision of Peace
 It is the fashion in some quarters to sneer at the men and women who have visions of universal peace, and to call them visionaries but the optimist is a safer leader than the pessimist, and he can sing with Tennyson:
 For I dip into the future, far as human eye could see,
 Saw the vision of the world, and all the wonders that would be—
 Till the war-drum throbb'd no longer and the battle flags were furled
 In the Parliament of man, The Federation of the world."
 —Tennyson.

"Were half the power that fills the world with terror,
 Were half the wealth bestowed on camps and courts,
 Given to redeem the human mind from error,
 There were no need of arsenal or forts." Henry W. Longfellow.

Motorists who would enjoy carefree winter driving are switching to Phillips 66. Their cars start "right now"—warm up fast—pick up quickly. These motorists get, too, an instant flow of able-bodied power and mileage that's gratifying—all at no extra cost. The secret of Phillips 66 is controlled volatility which makes each gallon you buy fit the season and the climatic conditions of the locality in which you buy it. For best results try a full tank of Phillips 66 or 66 Ethyl.

ARE YOU PAYING FOR EGGS

Reason so many poultry don't make money in the business is that they don't know what it costs them to do what it costs them to do. A nationally known authority in discussing the widening margin between the cost of making eggs and the price you are asked what it costs to produce a dozen eggs. Right there is the place to get it. Whether you are going to write along in raising chickens. You count every day anyway, don't you? And you know how much you are using and just what it costs. By dividing the total cost for a week or a month by the dozens of eggs laid the same period, you will be able to answer to what you are getting for a dozen eggs. The difference between that figure and what you get for the eggs will tell you what you are making on each egg.

Engineer Told Area Unable to Build Road

STINNETT, Oct. 28.—The fact that Hutchinson county is not financially able to build a new highway from Four Corners to Stinnett through Sanford was related to Gibb Gilchrist, State highway engineer, by county judge H. M. Hood, the latter said here this morning on his return from Austin.

Amarillo and Potter county have actively pushed the plan for a new road to the wheat lands through the oil section of this county but missing Borger. Recently it was announced that the state highway department had designated the route through Sanford to Stinnett.

Judge Hood made the highway engineer the proposal that a graded road along the right of way be built from precinct road funds.

While in Austin, the county official also consulted with Gilchrist concerning the state's taking over the present paved section of highway 117 in Hutchinson county for maintenance. Gilchrist advised that the matter would be taken up before the next meeting of the state highway commissioners on November 15 and probably would be acted favorably upon at an early date.

Concerning sale of $150,000 bonds voted by this county to pave the remainder of highway 117 within its boundaries, state school board members have indicated they will purchase them, judge Hood said. A copy of county commissioners court proceedings and other information on the bond issue was requested. The school board will meet November 15. Judge Hood thought the bonds would be sold.

THE STOCK MARKET CRASH

Our readers and fellow business men here in Spearman we trust will not let the recent collapse of the New York Stock Exchange convince them that the country is headed for hard times.

This stock depression, while disastrous to some individuals, is not likely to have any profound effect upon the general business life of the country. Quotations on the various stock exchanges do not rise and fall in accordance with the investment value of the stocks listed. They react rather to market manipulations and to the whims and notions of the stock buying public. The market responds to a general public state of mind rather than to careful investment considerations.

Rather the sudden collapse of the market may have a beneficial effect upon general business here in Spearman. The number of people in all walks of life who have been playing the stock market of late is amazing. People who scarcely knew the difference between a bond, preferred stock and common stock a few years ago, nowadays discourse of playing with margins, of selling short, and of the recent history of all of the most active stocks listed on the exchange.

This has unquestionably drawn much money out of other channels of business. Men have speculated with stocks instead of buying new cars, new furniture, or any one of countless other commodities on sale in our city.

Furthermore the recent drop in stocks will teach the country a well learned lesson, namely, that stock that cannot carry itself on a good investment basis is inflated and will eventually crash. Neither real estate nor stocks can long remain at a price so high that they cannot earn a good rate of interest.

COMMERCIALIZED ATHLETICS

The finding of the Carnegie foundation with reference to commercialized sports in colleges have apparently had little influence in reducing attendance at football games. But the feeling is growing, nevertheless, that sports are being taken altogether too seriously in our institutions of higher learning.

People who think are coming to realize that a college should be something besides an institution that directly or indirectly can finance a championship football eleven.

We enjoy high school and college football. But much of the real charm of the game for the editor comes in the fact that it is played by amateurs.

When it comes to non-refueling records we expect the janitors to gather in the laurels.

American reading public has been literally deluged with biography in recent years. People are reading the life stories of Voltaire, de Medici, Cesar and always from the viewpoint of many different writers seeking to know more of the man.

Changed taste in reading is accounted for in many ways. It is probable, however, that the most satisfactory explanation is the fact that readers are more amazed, spectacular characters out of history than out of fiction.

Well written book on Napoleon will always attract readers. Napoleon has always been intrigued by the spectacle of a little, yellow-skinned, unattractive man who has made himself a pinnacle of power before or since in the modern world. Perhaps readers too are unimpressed, and having dreams and ambitions of their own, they want to know how he did it.

Time will probably be wasted by students of literature, as a period of biography is earlier times are known when the novel, or the poetry flourished. This reading is probably to be avoided. It will give people an insight into history and a knowledge of the background of our civilization.

PASTURING WHEAT IS HELPFUL

At the only time that pasturing wheat is helpful is when it is too much early growth. Rank growing wheat draws moisture from the soil, it removes an amount of moisture and food, often leaving very little for the crop to live on, says H. M. Bainer, Director of Southwestern Wheat Experiment Station. Continuous pasturing would I advise pasturing of limited growth or even no growth. Experimental results show any gains in wheat other than from pasturing but they frequently show a yield of one to several bushels per acre.

It is always a great temptation to pasture wheat, especially when there is a shortage of feed for hogs and growing livestock. It is better to pasture wheat in a field problem and bring in a return but in the long run it is likely to do more damage to the soil than the feed value it gives. The claim made by growers is that the wheat they get is just that clear gain, is usually not unless the wheat shows a rank growth and needs a Best results, wheat should be wintered with sufficient to overcome winter-killing should cover the ground to protect the roots, hold the soil and prevent the soil from drying at this time some of our western wheat has made all growth than is needed of this will be benefited by pasturing, but the acreage will be better not letting livestock touch the wheat any times a reasonable amount of grazing may not be but the danger lies in turning livestock on a crop that is too small, or when the ground is wet will give more injury than the value of the pasturing. Grazing too long gives the crop a set-back, and less winter hardy, late maturity, low in yield and poor quality.

$2.00 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE in Texas and Panhandle Strip of Oklahoma; $2.50 per year elsewhere.

Entered as second class matter November 21, 1919, at the post office at Spearman, Texas, under the act of March 3, 1879.

SOUTHWEST TO WITNESS MOST SPECTACULAR DRAMA

Residents of this section of the southwest have ringside seats for and stock in what promises to be the greatest show in America since the opening of the Cherokee strip.

With a definite announcement that the Santa Fe will extend the Elkhart branch to Colmor and run rack passenger trains over the Elkhart cutoff that will then be created, and a new Santa Fe line built from Amarillo to Las Animas with three other powerful railroads competing against the Santa Fe for supremacy in freight facilities in the great wheat belt that lies between Dodge City and Amarillo, with bumper wheat crops in the offing and market protection practically assured by the creation of the Federal Farm Board, the southwest is stripping for action and is setting the stage from torments to the back drop.

One act of the magnificent drama has already taken place of course with the introduction of power machinery and intelligent farming to the region, but the crowd of spectators has been small and it has taken the railroads to ring up the curtain on the second act with the eyes of the continent focused on the play. The Santa Fe has always been supreme in the middle west and southwest and its moves and maneuvers are not only indicative of what is really taking place out here, but it can catch the public attention quicker than any other road.

The railroad race to gain an advantage in handling the wheat crop is one of the most intriguing and spectacular elements of the situation and the Santa Fe although untried for several years is as usual ready to protect its interests. The extension of the Elkhart branch to Colmor has been held up until gulf connection on its own system could be established, for without them the entire line would be drained by the Burlington when the extension crossed the Fort Worth and Denver. The proposed Santa Fe line between Amarillo and Las Animas will provide the necessary connections, give all the shipping points along the Elkhart branch the gulf rates on export wheat now enjoyed by Texhoma and other towns on the Rock Island and boom the wheat industry in this region to a considerable extent. A gulf outlet has always been the goal of shippers along the branch. The completion of the Elkhart branch to Colmor means shortening the main line of the Santa Fe, a reduction of the grade and a big time saving on these schedules of transcontinental trains. The track from Dodge to Felt will have to be rebuilt to withstand the heavy traffic, but in Santa Fe counsels where far sight and vision regularly lead to prodigious expenditures that is a minor consideration. The fast trains will take hundreds of thousands of passengers through the whole will become familiar with this region which is second to none in resources, but which has enjoyed little widespread advertising up until the last year or so.

Constantly improving methods of farming are making three stalks and five stalks of wheat grow where one grew before the maximum production is not yet in sight. Gradual steps are being taken that insure big crops every year. Moisture is being conserved, seed beds are being improved, better seed is being planted through methods of experimentation, selection and treatment.

Nor is wheat the only consideration by any means. Row crop culture is progressing as rapidly as wheat. Bigger acreages are being planted to maize, kaffir and broom corn. Stockmen are learning new principles of feeding and remarkable increases in hogs and cattle may safely be expected. More dairy cattle and poultry are being introduced by wise farmers who see the danger in single crop farming. Power farming and huge acreages have had a tendency to keep down the population, but human nature will more than offset this factor when the real facts regarding resources and opportunities are generally offset. Population will flood into the country on the heel of rail expansion and the newcomers ready to pay their way will not be denied.

Agricultural expansion will be accompanied by industrial expansion that will range from the carbon black plants already established at Borger to the brick kilns soon to be established at Hugoton. It is no secret that copper and other minerals have been found in abundance in the Oklahoma Panhandle. The gas already found in Southwest Kansas and the two panhandles will before long be used to smelt the ore and bring about further mineral development. The gas itself will do more for the permanent development of the country than oil, although there is plenty of oil in the region that remains untapped. The oil play in the Texas Panhandle several years ago was but a hint of the real industrial drama that is beginning out here at present.—Elkhart News.

Would Preserve Home Of General Sam Houston

Houston, Texas, Nov. 5.—Fear over the constant danger which surrounds the historic homestead of General Sam Houston was expressed here this week by Lynch Davidson, former Lieutenant governor of Texas.

In a statement made here by Mr. Davidson he made a plea that immediate steps be taken to preserve the Houston home and other valuable shrines from the destructive elements of time and peril of fire. His statement supports completely the stand taken recently of Judge Tom McCullough of Dallas who recommended that all of the historic points of interest in the state should be protected against dangers and defended for the generations to come.

Both Mr. Davidson and Judge McCullough are members of the Texas Historical Society, whose duty it is to encourage widespread interest in the historic spots consecrated to the memory of the early builders of Texas.

One plan to guard the old Houston homestead was to keep watchmen on the spot day and night. Another plan advanced is to shield the shrine against danger of conflagration by a protection of structural tile, brick or some other effective fireproof material.

Mr. Davidson, in his statement said in part: "General Houston's life is the life of Texas and the history of Texas.

Our patriotism would measure very small did we not pay tribute to his memory in every respect possible, and certainly his old homestead should be made a shrine at which each coming generation could renew and invigorate their patriotism."

It is believed that once the general public can be encouraged to make General Houston's home a permanent shrine other important historical buildings may be included in a statewide movement of preservation for these priceless monuments.

At the end of the month the mere job of writing the checks takes so long that a man often wonders how his family found time to do all the shopping.

We begin by fooling others and end by fooling ourselves.

We applaud the effort and the art when a woman of forty tries to make herself look like a girl of twenty, but no one is fooled.

It would be easy to find good jobs for a lot of $4500 men if they didn't have their minds set on $10,000 salaries.

We always admire the recklessness of the fellow who dares to order a meal in a swell restaurant without looking at the prices on the menu.

Engineer Told Area Unable to Build Road

STINNETT, Oct. 28.—The fact that Hutchinson county is not financially able to build a new highway from Four Corners to Stinnett through Sanford was related to Gibb Gilchrist, State highway engineer, by county Judge H.
M. Hood, the latter said here this morning on his return from Austin.

Amarillo and Potter county have actively pushed the plan for a new road to the wheat lands through the oil section of this county but missing Berger. Recently it was announced that the state highway department had designated the route through Sanford to Stinnett.

Judge Hood made the highway engineer the proposal that a graded road along the right of way be built from precinct road funds.

While in Austin, the county official also consulted with Gilchrist concerning the state's taking over the present paved section of highway 117 in Hutchinson county for maintenance. Gilchrist advised that the matter would be taken up before the next meeting of the state highway commissioners on November 15 and probably would be acted favorably upon at an early date.

Concerning sale of $150,000
bonds voted by this county to pave the remainder of highway 117 within its boundaries, state school board members have indicated

they will purchase them, Judge Hood said. A copy of county commissioners court proceedings and other information on the bond issue was requested. The school board will meet November 15.
Judge Hood thought the bonds would be sold.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo. Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

ARTICLE VII

Editor's Note—This is another story in a series of 52 stories on poultry raising written by the well known national poultry authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis. The entire series will appear in this paper. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

BEATING TROUBLE TO THE DRAW

Poultry Raisers Find That the Least Expensive Trouble Is That Which Is Never Allowed to Happen—Preventive Measures Cost Little Compared With What They Save.

In the boisterous days of the old Wild West, the fellow who was quickest at getting his gun into action had the best chance for long life. Consequently, it was not surprising that men spent hours practicing the art of beating the other fellow to the draw. Their lives might some day depend on it. Today, far less effort is invested in preventive measures would save the lives of thousands of fowls that now are sacrificed annually. For one thing, too little attention is often paid to weeding out the unfit. Chicks that are obviously deformed or hopeless weaklings should be killed at once. Weaklings contract diseases that healthy, well developed chicks would throw off easily, thus making easy the spread of trouble among the rest of the flock. It is most certainly false economy or none at all to save some of the fowls one of ten sees in flocks otherwise fairly well cared for. Another way to beat trouble to the draw is to adopt every possible means for eliminating vermin of every description. Lice, mites, ticks and all other such pests sap the vitality of fowls to a point where they easily become prey to all sorts of diseases. Constant vigilance is needed to guard fowls against these tiny enemies. They should be inspected periodically and dusted with a Good Lice Powder if there are any parasites on their bodies. Lice Powder should be added to the dust bath and let the hens use this at will. Their quarters should be thoroughly cleaned out at frequent intervals and every nook and cranny should be sprayed with a strong solution of dip and disinfectant. Whitewash is another preventive that is not used nearly so much as it should be. It is well to apply it at least twice a year and put it on hot. If two or three ounces of dip and disinfectant is mixed in each gallon of whitewash it will be very effective in killing mites and other insects. It should be forcibly spray-

GOOD FEEDING IS IMPORTANT

Feeding is perhaps the most important thing to be considered in dairying, yet in most cases it is the thing least considered. Balanced rations are necessary to get the most out of a cow. In such rations she must be supplied with the nutrients necessary to keep up her body and produce milk. She must have protein for making blood, muscle, and the production of milk; and carbohydrates and fats for the maintenance of her body, and to supply energy. Carbohydrates and fats may be supplied from home grown grains, but the protein in such grains are not sufficient, nor of the right kinds, for the cows needs. The feeding of a balanced ration depends on the weight of the cow, her production, the percentage of butter fat in her milk, and the kinds of roughage available. The weight of the cow and the amount of her production govern the amount of grain to be fed. The butter-fat percentage and the kinds of roughage available determine the richness of the mixture a cow should receive. If a farmer is feeding legume hay, which is reasonably high in protein, his grains mixture need not be so high in digestible proteins, approximately 12 to 14 per cent is sufficient. However with non-legume hay a mixture of 18 to 22 per cent digestible protein is necessary to make up the difference in roughage. After a feeder has classified his roughage, he must then get a grain mixture to meet the requirements. Home grown grains are more economical and should be used whenever possible, with a high protein supplement, such as linseed meal, to obtain a balance. A ration suitable for high producing cows, when feeding a roughage of clover hay, may be made up from 200 lbs. ground corn, 200 lbs. ground oats, 100 lbs. wheat bran, and 100 lbs. linseed meal. Feed one pound of this mixture for each 4 or 6 lbs of milk produced. With timothy hay the wheat bran should be increased to 200 lbs., and 300 lbs. of linseed meal used. Feed same amounts.

Dr. Powell, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist will be at Dr. Gover's offices in Spearman on Wednesday, November 13. Glasses fitted, tonsils and adenoids removed.

There's only one place for a knocker, observed one of our friends, and that is on the outside of the door.

FARM ORGANIZATION

When the subject of farm organization comes up for discussion the editor usually hears someone remark: "You can't get the farmers to work together. Co-operation among farmers will never succeed."

But the facts, we feel, indicate the error of this notion. It may be difficult to enlist farmers into an organization, but it is often equally difficult to secure the right amount of co-operation among the business men of a community. Steadily and surely agriculture is becoming an organized industry in America. The fruit growers of the West with their phenomenal success in recent years have blazed a trail that will eventually, we feel, lead to a more prosperous condition of American farms.

We have today wheat pools, tobacco pools, dairy co-operative, truck farmers organizations, and literally hundreds of shipping associations of all kinds scattered throughout the country. Through these agencies the Federal Farm Board is working to stabilize the agricultural industry. Better times are in store.

We are not seeking, of course, to paint an extremely optimistic picture. We realize that the job of getting farmers to work together is often a discouraging enterprise. But the rewards are great and those who are enthusiastic are urged to plug along, and eventually they will have the satisfaction of seeing their aims realized.

For those who find it difficult to put their story over we like to emphasize one point of view that directs almost every successful business man. Failures in any worthy activity should not paralyze action. They should merely point the way to greater achievements than were previously imagined. Every great movement and every worthy achievement has usually come only as the product of many errors and disappointments.

Expensive Economy

Recently a newspaper editor wrote, "This week we wished the services of a carpenter for a day and knowing that our regular contractors were all busy we turned to the telephone directory to call up a handy man of our acquaintance whom we knew to be in need of work. A second attempt was made and we found another man without a telephone. Not being able to leave the office to look for we were on the point of the job for a few days friend of ours dropped in unentered to help us out. paid more than a telephone have cost for two months. There we have another little tragedy. A man I work and a job he might if he possessed a telephone undoubtedly he has missed opportunities just like this he still goes along thinking he is saving money by not telephone installed. It is of being unable to afford phone. The question is Afford To Be Without Western Telephone Texas, Fred Lusk, Local

TO THE WAR HEROES

The sounds of battle all have ceased
The smoke and din have cleared,
No more the screeching shot and fire
That human heart have feared.

Again the soldiers marched away
This time to home and rest;
They left behind a field of mounds
In memory of the test.

Out there beneath the sod they sleep
And some in graves unknown;
They fell in death on bloody fields
Where since the grass has grown.

They fought and died that we might live
In peace that reigns supreme,
God gives us strength to carry on
The work of which they dreamed.
