PLAN SALE WATER WORKS OR MAKE IMPROVEMENTS

City Council Will Advertise City Water Works For Sale to Highest Bidder and Bond Issue Same Time

The voters of Spearman will soon have an opportunity to again vote on the proposition of selling the city water works system, or of voting bonds of the city in an amount sufficient to make the necessary improvements, additions and extensions.

The Spearman city council at a regular meeting held on Tuesday night of last week, passed a resolution which in effect means that this body will advertise for bids on the Spearman water works. This action is taken in order that the highest possible price may be received for the property. The council believes that the best interests of the town would be served by the sale of the plant, and that the proposition of selling it was turned down at a former election because of the fact that it might be possible to get a better price for the property.

At the same time the water plant is advertised for sale, the proposition of issuing bonds in the sum of $50,000 will be put before the voters of the city. This money will be used, in case the voters do not wish to sell the plant, in making the necessary extensions, improvements and additions. Another well will be needed, and plans are being discussed for the lighting of a White Way, street lamps at important corners, and all city buildings, including the city hall.

The call for bids and notice of election on the sale of the plant and the bond issue will appear in next week's Reporter.

"Detouring Wives" Offered By Hazel Hurd Players

The next play to be offered by Hazel Hurd Players at Spearman will be "Detouring Wives," a society comedy drama from the pen of Allen Wischert, author of numerous stage successes. The title in itself is enough to make a tired man throw away his bedroom slippers and gather his family together for an evening at the theater and its a play for the whole family, too. Let us give you a little more detail.

A Hindu Prince, seeking revenge upon a man for the death of his sister, has come all the way to this country to accomplish his idea of proper retaliation. Another man, who has made a million out of pickles. His son whose life and light is centered upon a certain chorus girl. The millionaire's daughter, with whom anyone might easily fall in love, and "Final" finally did. The little chorus girl, wanting a husband that will stand up for her. A lady, who yearns for millions and finally attains them in a novel way. Casper Lambert, not desiring such a good name.

Now that we have mentioned money, characters, names, finalities and pickles, let's mention the young fellow who invented new ways of making additional millions out of pickles—"Final"—that is his name. He said his Paw said: "Well, that's all." And, put them all together, you have a good measure of mixed pickles designed to tickle the worst of pickles that ever grew. Hazel Hurd Players next appearance at Spearman will be on Monday night, October 7.

Stopped The Boxing Bout

A boxing bout advertised to take place recently at T. N. T. park, was held for the reason that Sheriff Wilbanks notified the park manager that these exhibitions were a violation of law. The management of the park stopped all preparations for the bout immediately after learning from Sheriff Wilbanks that such performances would not be tolerated in this county.

SPEARMAN IS PREPARING FOR NATURAL GAS THIS WINTER

Three Big Ditching Machines Are Running Full Time and Large Crew of Workmen Are Hastening Job of Laying Mains

Residents of Spearman may burn natural gas this winter if they wish. It won't be long until this commodity will be on sale here by the Okla. Gas and Electric Company. Of course there is quite a bit of laying up to do before this gas can be burned. In the first place there is a meter deposit. Then the piping must be fitted up with proper plumbing. But to get away from the old job of hunting up and "ditching" the kindling, filling the scuttles, carrying out the ashes, and soot, smoke and filled-up pipes—none of these is sufficient to cause a fellow to want to sell the gas fixtures just as quick-

They then played the final match which was won by Bundy. The doubles are to be played next and promise plenty of excitement and interest for the tennis fans.

The Canadian Baptist Association is composed of the counties of Hansford, Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Hemphill, Roberts and Gray. Judge Sewell of Follett was re-elected moderator. Rev. Shelby of Perryton, clerk, and Rev. Geo. W. Stewart of Miami missionary. Because of the big task before the missionary, the board saw fit to raise his salary $300 per year. The association passed a resolution offering $100 reward for the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Johnny Holmes at Borger.

The Spearman Baptists and others who helped entertain the Baptist Association, wish to thank the good people of Spearman who so kindly threw open the doors of their homes to the delegates, and assisted in so many other ways.

Spearman Visitors

Uninjured In Wreck

A party of six persons, five women and a small boy, all of Spearman, driving to the Tri-State fair in a light sedan, escaped injury last night when their car turned turtle into a bar pit, near St. Francis, it was learned here yesterday.

A defect in the steering gear, which had been damaged in a former wreck, was said to be responsible for the accident.

Mrs. C. B. Reaves, her small son, Charles, two daughters, Misses Johnnie and Emma, and Misses Kuba Norman and Ruth Murphy, teachers in the Spearman schools, were in the car.—Amarillo News.

Lynx Play Stratford Here Friday In First Home Game of Season

High School Eleven Is Looking Good, and Indications Point to a Victory Over Stratfords Best In This Week's Game

The Lynx, football team of the Spearman schools, will fight it out with Stratford on the local gridiron, Friday, to-morrow, beginning at 3:00 o'clock. This will be the first game of the season on the local grounds. Coach Jarvis and Assistant Coach Gunn claim that the local team is in good trim for the battle. They played Dumas to a 13-0 victory and White Deer to a 7-0 defeat. Now they are anxious to pull out ahead of Stratford, that they may have the best two in three.

The entire school, in particular, and the town and community are showing much interest in the coming game. A petition is being circulated today, among the business men, asking that every place of business in town be closed for the game, that all the clerks and other helpers may attend the game. Spearman Hi really has the material this year for a real football team, and with the support of the town there is no reason why the boys should not win a majority of their games during the season.

HUTCHINSON COUNTY UNDER MARTIAL LAW

One Hundred Officers and Men of National Guard Take Control Monday Morning

BORGER, Tex., Sept. 30—Under sombre skies martial law rode into Borger today on a seven-car troop train carrying 84 Texas national guardsmen. Thus climaxed the state's investigation in the assassination of District Attorney John Holmes here Sept. 13.

Alighting from the train at 8:38 o'clock this morning, Brigadier General Jacob Wolters announced within two minutes that Borger and Hutchinson county were under military rule. Snappily, the guardsmen lined up against their coaches as the general read two proclamations by Governor Dan Moody, and issued two general orders.

Heavily-laden clouds only a few hundred feet from the ground, had, in a fashion, advised the townspeople of the arrival of the train from Fort Worth. Smoke from the engine was visible against the sky several minutes before the train arrived. By the time it had stopped several hundred persons had gathered about the railroad station.

In the proclamation, which General Wolters gave to newspapermen, only one mention was made of the crime which led to an investigation and the declaration of martial law—the slaying of Holmes. In that instance the governor said: "That witnesses who have been questioned concerning law violations, including the assassination of the district attorney have been threatened and driven from the county."

All Officers Disarmed Within slightly more than half an hour after issuing the proclamations the military had taken over the combination city hall, police and fire station. All officers were disarmed, and two officers of this three-year-old oil town were arrested. Sam Jones, deputy constable, and Clint Millhollan, policeman, were ordered held for investigation.

While the Borger city hall was being occupied, another detachment of guardsmen and Texas rangers hurried to Stinnett, the county seat 12 miles away. At 10 o'clock it was announced that martial law had been declared at Stinnett. Sheriff Ownby received the proclamation which informed him he had been relieved of all duties except those of tax collector. Mayor Glenn A. Pace of Borger, arrested yesterday, charged with having caused a witness in a murder case to leave town, was waiting for his preliminary hearing when military took over the courthouse. He waived preliminary hearing and his bond was reset at $3,000. It was signed by several persons, including John R. Miller, first mayor of Borger, and Pete Borger, a brother of the man who founded the town.

The case against Pace is to be presented to a grand jury which convenes regularly on Oct. 14. Occupation of the town was accomplished quietly and quickly. There were no demonstrations, although hundreds of curious tramped about, following the moving center of activities. They gathered at the depot, at the police station and then at the American Legion hall, which is to be barrack the guardsmen. Guards were stationed at vantage points and patrolled the streets.

Sheriff and Police Chief Changed General Wolters established headquarters in the city hall, across the hall from the mayor's office. Ranger J. W. Aldrich was appointed police chief of Borger in place of J. W. Crabtree, and Ranger Sergeant J. B. Wheatley assumed the sheriff's office, supplanting Joe Ownbey.

The series of arrests expected by townspeople failed to materialize. Only four persons had been jailed three hours after troops arrived. One intoxicated was taken in a hotel by a guardsman; the others were Jones, Millhollan and a drunk man arrested on Main Street.

Preliminary activities over, troops and Rangers prepared for a cleanup. Undercover men sauntered into the

Texas-Louisiana Power Company Will Improve System In Order to Take Care of Increased Business In Spearman

The Texas-Louisiana Power and Light Company, which furnishes power and light for Spearman and a number of neighboring towns, have found it necessary to rebuild the distribution system here in order to properly take care of increased business.

McLAIN & McLAIN TO PUT UP BIG MODERN BUILDING

One of Largest and Most Modern in City—For Business Concerns and Office Rooms

Gradually the wooden buildings are being pushed off Main street and their places are being taken by new and modern brick buildings. The latest old relic of the past to fall before the onward march of progress is the little office building of McLain & McLain. This building was sold out of the way on Wednesday of this week, and this Thursday morning work was begun on what will be one of the biggest buildings in Spearman. It is to be 50x100 feet, two stories. The lower story will be occupied by business concerns and the upper story will be occupied as offices. Already, state McLain & McLain, who will own the building, they are besieged by applicants for office and store rooms in the new building.

This fine building will be modern in all respects. The blue print would indicate the front is to be particularly attractive. It will be a great addition to the appearance on the east side of Main.

C. W. McBride is the contractor on the job, and the material will be furnished by the White House Lumber Company. Excavating for the foundation is going along at a rapid rate today, and a part of the building material is being assembled.

This is the second 50 foot front business house for the east side of Main to be completed during the present fall season. The Harbison Furniture Company having just completed its fine new home.

Wonder District Exhibit On Display at Alva

The Wonder District Agricultural exhibit of the north Texas counties, the Oklahoma Panhandle and Union County, New Mex., will be carried to the Alva, Oklahoma, fair on Monday next week where it will be shown for the fourth time this season. So many new farmers coming into the Wonder District are from western Oklahoma that the committee thought it advisable to present the farming opportunities to the hundreds of fair visitors who will see the farm exhibits of the Alva fair from October 8 to 11.

The reception accorded the Wonder District exhibit at Lincoln Nebraska this year was far beyond the expectations of the exhibitors. The dry weather of that state causing the corn to burn before maturity has caused many farmers to start thinking of the possibilities of the great southwest as a really agricultural opportunity. Hundreds of acres of wheat in Kansas were never harvested on account of falling rain just as the wheat was ripening kept the farmers out until many acres were a total loss. Many tenants with a small amount of cash are becoming interested in this area as past experiences of their neighbors here have shown that they can pay for a farm in the Wonder District with the rents they pay elsewhere.

A survey of sales within the ten counties represented in the Wonder District shows a total of some four hundred thousand acres sold since August first this year. Many people registering at the fairs already visited have expressed the fact that they will be visiting the district during October and November.

As a matter of fact hundreds of people who have passed through this area each autumn on their way to California, Arizona and into southern Texas have always looked upon it as a desert place. The shows placed at the state fairs are doing a wonderful service in changing the minds of these tourists concerning the wonderful agricultural possibilities of these counties.

Every person in the Wonder District is urged to attend the Alva, Oklahoma fair and view the products of farmers living here.

Lesson BY DR. J. E. NUNN

FOR OCTOBER 6, 1929

General Topic:—Recognizing Our Debt to Others.

Scripture Lesson:—Mark 12:28-34; James 2:14-17.

Mark 12:28. And one of the scribes came, and heard them questioning together, and knowing that he had answered them well, asked him, What commandment is the first of all?

29. Jesus answered, The first is, Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God, the Lord is one:

30. And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength.

31. The second is this, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. There is none other commandment greater than these.

32. And the scribe said unto him, Of a truth, Teacher, thou has well said that he is one; and there is none other but he:

33. And to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbor as himself, is much more than all whole burnt-offerings and sacrifices.

34. And when Jesus saw that he answered directly, he said unto him, Thou art not far from the kingdom of God. And no man after that durst ask him any question.

James 2:14. What doth it profit, my brethren, if a man say he hath faith, but have not works? can that faith save him?

15. If a brother or sister be naked, and in lack of daily food,

16. And one of you say unto them, Go in peace, be ye warmed and filled; and yet ye give them not the things needful to the body, what doth it profit?

17. Even so faith, if it have not works, is dead in itself.

Golden Text:—Not looking each of you to his own things but each of you also to the things of others.—Phil. 2:4.

Time and Place:—Christ's conversation with the lawyer took place in the temple Tuesday, April 4, A. D. 30, in the last week before the crucifixion. Some think the Epistle of James was the earliest of the Epistles and others that it was written late in the life of the Lord's brother. He was probably martyred about A. D. 62 or 63 (not to be confused with martyrdom of James the apostle, the brother of John in A. D. 44.).

Introduction
Recognizing our debt to others is our social obligation. Man is a social being. That "No man liveth unto himself, and no man dieth unto himself" is a well known social axiom. We are dependent on others from birth to death. For the food we eat, the clothes we wear, the books we read, the music we hear, the hundreds of good things we enjoy, we are deeply indebted to others. It follows, then, that selfishness is man's greatest social sin. He who withdraws from society, lives within the narrow walls of his own little self, has no interest in the great outside world with its heartaches, its needs, its aspirations.—such a one has not the spirit of Christ. Unselfish service is the law of the Christian in society, for "Whosoever would become great among you shall be your minister; and whosoever would be first among you, shall be servant of all."

Working Together
Sir John Lubbock, the great student of ants, noticed one day that all his ants were in their nests except one, which was out hunting alone, about six feet from home. So he took a dead blue-bottle fly and pinned it to a piece of cork, putting it down right in front of her. She tried at once to carry off the fly, but found it immovable. She tugged and tugged, but in vain. Then she went straight home and into her nest, where she remained less than half a minute, coming out with twelve friends who trooped after her to the food she had discovered. All working together, they tore up the fly and carried it off in triumph.

Now if even those tiny insects learned the advantage of working together, surely we human beings should make the same lesson ours. That is what is taught us by the story of Nehemiah and his wall-building. Neh. 4:15-21. We studied the event fully in the lesson for September 8.

"There is No Self-Made Man."
"Now there is no self-made man. Every successful life is the product in large part of what others have done and what others have done. Edison works his triumphs through his ability to set others to investigating for him. Professor Lowes of Harvard has written a wonderful book, "The Road to Xanadu," showing how Coleridge, in the almebic of his marvelous memory, built up those works of genius, "Kubla Khan" and Rime of the Ancient Mariner," out of his omnivorous reading. Every merchant prince has been able to organize an army of eager toilers. Christ is the best model of success, and he trained his disciples to work with him and carry on his work after him. Paul, the most remarkable of his apostles, had a host of co-workers. We are in debt to those who work with us and for us, and in turn we must cooperate with them. Thus we shall go onward together."

The Debt of the Strong to the Weak
"We then that are strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, and not to please ourselves." In one of the tenderest chapters of the Bible, Paul, the strong man, says that the strong should bear the infirmities of the weak. We are not under obligation to please ourselves, but to please our neighbors; and not to please them in any way that will weaken them, but to please them "unto edifying," that it, unto their upbuilding. And for this work we have the best of all examples, "For Christ also pleased not himself."

The duty of caring for the weak is at the base of all such laws as the Eighteenth Amendment. Some may be strong enough to avoid the temptation of strong drink, but many—the great majority—are not strong enough, and the strong must look out for the weak, and not selfishly seek to please themselves.

The Debt of Lovely Service. Phil 2:5
"Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus." Perhaps, if Paul could be said to have a favorite among all the churches he established, it would be the First Church of Europe, that in Philippi. Among its members were Lydia and the jailer and probably Luke. The Philippian Christians were always sympathetic with Paul's purpose and loyal in advancing his plans. The apostle's letter to them is "the Epistle of Joy."

Our extract from this lovely piece of writing is an exhortation to continuance in the same Christian fellowship which they had enjoyed from the beginning, "being of one accord, of one mind, in lowliness of mind each counting other better than himself, not looking each of you to his own things, but each of you also to the things of others." Paul especially commended this attitude because it was Christ's, who descended from his divine estate into the lowly hut of man, who took the form of a servant and suffered for our sake the terrible death of the cross. That is the kind of service which we are to render, in his spirit and with his strength.

The Debt of Justice. Col. 3:12; 4:1
Paul once more, writing to the members of the church which he founded in Colossae, in Asia Minor,—Christians who were "God's elect, holy and beloved,"—bade each of them "put on a heart of compassion, kindness, lowliness, meekness, long-suffering." He went on to illustrate this Christian attitude in the cases of wives and husbands, fathers and servants, with relation to their husbands and wives, their children and their masters.

"Slowly the general conscience is coming to recognize our duty to others more and more clearly, and its application is becoming more decisive with each generation. All masters and employers of labor, in their mills and warehouses, are bid to base their relations to 'hand' and servants on the one firm foundation of 'justice.' Paul does not say, 'Give your servants what is kind and patronizing.' He wants a great deal more than that. Charity likes to come in and supply the wants which would never have been felt had there been equity. An ounce of justice is sometimes more than a ton of charity."

Alexander Maclaren.
The Debt of Giving. James 2:14
James the Just—not the first martyr of the apostles, the brother of John, but James the oldest brother of our Lord, the head of the church in Jerusalem who presided over the first church council—wrote a "keen and sagacious Epistle which has been well called "the Gospel of Common Sense." Hear him urge the duty of charitable giving.

"What doth it profit, my brethren, if a man say he hath faith, but have not works? It is useless for a man to claim that he has Christian faith, if his life does not prove it. Saying that a man has a thing does not give it to him. Can that faith save him? Faith such as that? More theoretical faith apart from life? 'James never questions that faith is the instrument of salvation, but he insists that if faith is real it will manifest itself in works. Faith is trust and devotion and obedience and love; a 'faith' which is mere assent to a creed is not worthy thy name. A faith which does not produce works cannot save, it is 'dead,' it is 'barren'—this is the truth which James seeks to establish in this famous section of his Epistle."—Prof. Charles R. Erdman.

"Faith Without Works is Dead"
"If a brother or sister be naked (poorly clothed) and in lack of daily food," "What was the faith worth which could witness suffering and not be stirred to help. The Gentile disciples had, we read, done their best to alleviate the distress of the churches of Judaea. St. James's language, addressed to the Jews and Jewish Christians of the dispersion, would seem to imply that they had shown less forwardness, and had wrapt themselves up in the self-satisfaction of professing the orthodox faith of the sons of Abraham, while the Gentile converts whom they despised were setting an example of self-denying charity."—Dean E. H. Plumpire. And their leader in this charity, we must not forget, was Paul, who emphasized the doctrine of justification by faith.

"Even so faith, if it have no works, is dead in itself." "It is as a body without a soul. It is not only dead as regards the effects which it produces on others; it is dead in itself. How can such faith save?"—Principal William Patrick, D. D. Over against this "dead faith" we have to set the "dead works" named in Heb. 6:1; 9:14. Either is dead without the other. "Archbishop Whately illustrated this by saying that faith and works are like the two oars of a boat; pull either one alone and the boat circles about and makes no progress; pull both together, and the haven of eternal rest is sure to be reached."—Charles F. Deems.

Others
Lord, help me live from day to day In such a self-forgetful way, That even when I kneel to pray, My prayer shall be for others.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo.
Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

THE CASH VALUE OF CLEANLINESS

Sanitation, by Insuring a Healthy, Productive Flock, Pay Actual Cash Dividends, Says Dr. L. D. LeGear.

Little Johnny, in his bath, with tears full of soap and soul full of rebellion, undoubtedly has no use what ever for the doctrine that cleanliness is next to Godliness. To him it is just a pain in the neck—a devilish invention of grown-ups to keep a boy from his rightful occupation of play. Left to himself, he will most certainly have as little as possible to do with that particular kind of Godliness.

Most grown-ups recognize the desirability of personal cleanliness and of common sense sanitation in their homes and places of business. It is more comfortable to be clean after one has reached maturity and too inconvenient to suffer the expense of illness that result from unsanitary surroundings. When it comes to their poultry however, that is quite a different story in all too many instances.

The same man who would recoil in horror from a filth-encrusted dish placed before him on his table allows his fowls to eat and drink from utensils that are no less an offense to decency because they are in the poultry yard instead of a dining room. He will howl his head off if Junior tracks a little mud onto the living room rug, but he will allow droppings, decomposed food material and other offensive litter to accumulate in his henhouses until they smell to high heaven. He is scrupulously careful about the lawns near his house, but his chicken yard looks like that lower corner of the "south forty" after the last batch of city picknickers had done their worst to it. Then he wonders why his fowls are such poor layers, look so droopy and dispirited and so readily take on all the ills that chicken flesh is heir to.

The discoveries of Dr. Gorgas in Panama and Dr. Noguchi, who recently died a martyr to science in Africa, have shown how certain kinds of mosquitoes transmit the germs of yellow fever. This suggests that such parasites as lice, fleas, mites, ticks and bedbugs, which so often infect chickens, may also be carriers of disease. There is reason for believing that such is the case, but whether they do or not, such parasites cause a heavy drain on the vitality of the fowls. That means decreased ability to block the progress of disease should infection occur from other sources. The simplest kind of sanitary measures will make poultry houses and yards very unhealthy for germs and parasites, so why they should be tolerated is past understanding. Simple cleanliness is the first essential of sanitation. Poultry houses should be made so they can be scrubbed out occasionally and they should be regularly sprayed with coal tar dip and disinfectant.

No animal or vegetable matter should be allowed to remain exposed in yard or house until it begins to decay. All such material should be removed and burned or deeply buried. Be particularly careful so to dispose of fowls or animals that have died from one cause or another.

Drinking vessels and feeding equipment should be watched carefully. All fountains, troughs and hoppers should be so constructed that the fowls cannot get in them with their feet or roost on them, thereby befouling the contents with dirt or droppings. Fresh water should be given at least once a day. All feeding and watering equipment should be thoroughly scrubbed out, scalded or disinfected at frequent intervals.

Droppings are perhaps the most dangerous of all possible sources of infection. They are almost invariably breeding grounds for disease germs and also frequently harbor intestinal worms. These may be picked up by fowls not already affected thus spreading the evil. Furthermore, nothing could be worse for fowls than to be compelled to roost just above a filthy droppings board. The odors and gasses arising from droppings are extremely unhealthy. Continued breathing of air so contaminated weakens the lungs thus making easy the progress of any disease which may be contracted later on. Both roosts and droppings board should be frequently cleaned and disinfected, as well as the whole house. It is also advisable to cover the droppings board with wire netting so the fowls cannot get into the droppings with their feet.

Birds that show signs of disease should always be put to themselves and treated until it is safe to return them to the flock. If any considerable number of them show signs of the same trouble, they should all be taken out of the flock and a wholesale cleanup should be made; clean out and disinfect all houses and equipment; clean up yards and in every way attempt to remove all possible sources of infection.

Not all of the possible sanitary measures can be discussed in an article of this kind, but some of the most important ones are described above. A good dip and disinfectant used regularly and conscientiously will go a long way toward making disease impossible in your poultry flock, not forgetting the most effective of all—God's own great sterilizers, fresh air and sunshine. It is not as easy to keep things sanitary as it is to let them go to pot, but it does keep down disease and THAT PAYS.

Hens that are healthy, robust, strong, free from parasites and disease are better layers, better breeders and are worth more on the market than those that are neglected and compelled to get along as best they can. Maintaining sanitary conditions may mean work, but it is neither difficult nor as trying as fighting disease and it is infinitely more profitable.

DURABLE

The admiration which Bob felt for his aunt Margaret included all her attributes.

"I don't care much for plain teeth like mine Aunt Margaret," said Bob one day, after a long silence, during which he had watched her in laughing conversation with his mother. "I wish I had some copper-toed ones like yours."

UNUSUALLY EFFICIENT

"Now," said the professor of chemistry, "under what combination is gold most quickly released?" "Marriage," declared the bright student.

CHARACTER IS MARKETABLE

A good name has a high market value. Character is salable merchandise.

If you would have this impressed more forcibly than we can put it, talk it over with any of the bankers here in Spearman. From their long experience in passing on loans they have learned that the moral risk is frequently to be given greater consideration than the financial statement.

Some men there are who would not see another lose through an act of theirs. Others there are without such fine sensibilities, or such a well developed sense of honor.

Those in this latter group are often questionable risks while those in the former group are always safe.

Which class of men, therefore, can usually get credit when credit is really needed. Most any man is apt to want a substantial loan at some time in his life, either in an emergency or when presented with a real opportunity. It is then that he learns the value of his good name.

If you would belong to this class of men who are always granted loans when loans are needed, then take scrupulous care of your reputation. Pay your small bills, deal fairly with the other fellow, hesitate always to take a petty advantage, and you will have a character with high value.

NOBLESSE OBLIGE

"Mother," said little Mable, "do missionaries go to heaven?"

"Why, or course, dear," her mother replied.

"Do cannibals?"

"No, I'm afraid they don't."

"But mother," the little girl insisted, "if a cannibal eats a missionary he'll have to go, wont he?"

THE MEN HIGHER UP

She was doing her best to make full use of her leap-year prerogative.

"I am a poor girl, as you know,"

she said, "but if devotion of a true and loving heart goes for anything with you—"

"Oh, it goes with me, all right,"

"but I'm afraid it won't go with the grocer and butcher."

COWS RECORD IS MADE IN DRY PERIOD

Care Before Freshening Often Determines Production of Dairy Cow

Experience has shown that the next milk record of a dairy cow is made during the time she stands dry. If a cow is well cared for and well fed during the time she is dry, she is going to produce well during her next lactation period.

Many dairymen leave a cow to shift for herself during the dry period. They fail to realize that this is an exceedingly important time and a cow will produce more if she is not only in a good thrifty condition at calving time, but also carries a fair amount of fat. During the first few months of milk flow, a good dairy cow will change this body fat into milk fat, thus increasing her yield.

Feed then, is important for dry cows, as well as cows in milk. A cow about to freshen needs protein and minerals for the unborn calf, and a cooling, laxative ration to keep her system in condition. Under late fall or winter conditions, the best ration for a dry cow is a good legume hay and corn silage, with enough of a suitable concentrate or grain mixture to get her in good condition by calving time. The mixture which seems to be most popular of all among dairymen for feeding at this time is one of equal parts by weight of linseed meal, wheat bran, ground corn, and ground oats. Hominyfeed ground barley, or ground sorghum grain may be substituted for the corn.

A cow should receive from 2 to 4 pounds of this concentrate mixture a day with good legume hay and corn silage, unless she is in a run down condition. With poor roughage this should be increased to 5 to 8 pounds.

About ten days before calving, the ground corn should be withdrawn from the mixture, and not over 4 to 5 pounds a head daily fed. During these few days before freshening, it is extremely important that a cow be fed lightly and with a ration that is laxative and which has no tendency to produce a feverish condition.

BRAVE

Speaking of the man who walks right up to the cannon's mouth, there is L. C. Rosa, of the Spearville News, who writes:

"We are willing to lend what assistance we can through this column for better babies. We have never seen one yet but what could be improved."

A friend commends the move to make prison surrounding attractive. "In time," says he, "they will look so much like home that people will really succeed in keeping out of them."

The riddles of life are often penetrated by rays from the light of alert minds.

The quick and the dead! Guess the modern, automobile day interpretation should be "move quickly or be dead."

GETTING USED TO CRIME

Said a business man recently: "Do you notice how many items about robberies and hold-ups the newspaper are printing now, and how little space they usually give them? They are becoming so common that they don't attract much notice any longer."

He went on to speak of one recent newspaper issue, which reported half a dozen such deeds, the same having occurred in a single locality on a single date, apparently perpetrated by different people, and each one only very briefly reported.

Newspapers feature the usual things. Crimes are becoming common events, hence are no longer unusual, so that they attract less interest than formerly.

In the smaller cities and towns,
crimes are not so common, and such occurrences still startle and shock
people somewhat as in former years.
But in the larger cities these happening are becoming so numerous,
that unless they have some unusual and sensational features, editors may not feel the public will be interested in them.

People who complain that the newspapers print too much crime
news, may find that problem solved
by crime becoming so common that the newspapers will no longer give any considerable space to such events.

It is about time for the American people to realize what a terrible thing it is for crime to become so ordinary that it attracts little attention. These outrages against peaceable and honest people can be stopped, if the people say they must stop. Legal technicalities or political influences or anything that makes pursuit of crime difficult will have to be abolished, so that we can show
the crooked and yellow crowd that the people are determined to put them where they belong.

Hutchinson county is under martial law. National guardsmen are in complete charge of the county.
Whether the majority of the citizens of the county like it or not they are living under martial law.

Governor Moody declares that the troops will be stationed here until the "area is purged of all lawlessness," or until they are removed by his successor in office." So it appears we will have soldiers with us for a considerable period of time.

There is nothing we can do about
it. The situation has been taken out of the hands of Hutchinson county—officially. Undoubtedly the troops will remain here until those in charge are convinced the county has been "purged of lawlessness."

Undoubtedly the publicity given
the town during the period of occupation will be harmful. Undoubtedly trade from the outside will be hindered by the presence of troops. The county will be on edge during the time the soldiers are stationed here.
There can be little progress made in any manner.

Therefore, the citizens of Hutchinson county are interested only in aiding the soldiers in their work, in order that they might be permitted to leave as soon as possible. If there is lawlessness here, we are interested in its abolition. If military law can accomplish it, then it will have been a good thing. The sooner it is accomplished the better it will be for the community.

Those citizens who are interested in a cleaner and better town and county should give their best efforts, whenever possible, in assisting the military, in order that martial law

might not be extended any longer than is absolutely necessary.— Borger Daily Herald.

A SPENDING AGE

Hon. W. H. Fuqua, president of the First National Bank of Amarillo, is reported in an address before the Caprock Bankers' Association as observing that there are very few people who now save a portion of their earnings, and not ten per cent of those on salaries who are putting anything away.

It is probably true that there are more demands on the modern family
for expenditures than ever before,
which has resulted in fewer of them
actually putting money in the banks
than was the rule a few years ago.
People of today are surrounded by more kinds of devices which are meant to extract their money.

Perhaps the thing that is taking more money out of the banks, or rather keeping money out of the banks, is the installment buying
which has so rapidly increased.
Whether or not this method is sound
business, and good for the country
yet remains to be seen. To the old timers, like Mr. Fuqua, it does not sound good. To this generation, installment buying has meant that more people own their own homes than ever before. They may buy a house and pay it out almost like rent.

However, the present generation is probably stretching its credit to unwarranted extent and it is for this that a warning has been sounded. Installment buying of books a few years ago has been increased to automobiles, radios, clothes, shoes, furniture, in fact most every kind of merchandise that is being offered on the market today. When a family mortgages its future earnings to such an extent that the necessities of life must be neglected, then there is danger ahead. Illness may take away all of these so-called luxuries which have been bought on the installment plan, and thus the family greatly injured by this method of buying.

Bankers, like Mr. Fuqua, are not objecting to this wholesale extension of credit, but they warn that an excess credit may be bad in the long run.—Canyon News.

LINEMEN COUNT

Football days. What a thrill one can get watching a fast back race
with the ball around the end, or a shifty end scoop a long pass out of the air and race across the goal line
for a touchdown.

It is these ball carriers who always win our applause, and mighty important they are, too. But how often do any of us stop to realize that their sensational work is made possible
only through teamwork, co-operation, and the hard plugging of the men in the line.

The fastest backfield in the world
can do little if there are no strong guards, or powerful tackles to hold the line and give them time to get started. The greatest open field runner can be stopped in his tracks
without good interference or support from other members of the team whose names appear but little in headlines.

Real sports fans know this to be true in football. Careful observers know it to be true throughout life.

The good work of an organization,
a club or a community depends not alone upon the activities of its leaders whose work attracts public attention but upon the loyal support they receive from linemen—the fellows who work hard on committees, who are always ready to give help for the sake of the cause rather than for the publicity to be secured.

Spearman, like all other towns,
needs more linemen, fellows who are ready to run interference for the others, who are satisfied to stand in the background and give their whole-hearted support and help.

Just as a few sports followers recognize the value of linemen, so a few citizens will give credit to those whose activities lead not to publicity.
The opinion of these intelligent persons is all that really counts after all.

"We're still waiting for the political genius who can explain how to increase the price of everything we sell and lower the cost of everything
we buy.

It is remarkable how a line of reasoning based upon a sound hypothesis may parallel actual facts. But if the hypothesis is inaccurate the theory built upon it is apt to wander far afield.

Our quarrels with the world are chiefly due to misunderstandings within ourselves. When at peace with that which is within us we are apt to nurture no fault with the world that God gave us.

KEEN DRIVING MARKS RACES IN ARGENTINA

Winner Is Aided By Clever Gear
Changes; Another Refuels While
In Motion

Road racing is becoming more and more popular in Argentina, and the present season has brought out some remarkable performances by stock models. American cars largely predominate.

A typical road event was the 350
kilometer race at Venado-Turto for stock cars, in which all but three of the entries were of American make.
The course was 20 kilometers around an irregular circuit of dirt roads,
with four bad corners.

A most remarkable performance at the turns was a factor in the victory
of the four-speed Graham-Paige, which finished well in the lead. Its pilot approached each corner at high speed, then shifted to third. By thus utilizing the superior acceleration of the lower gear, he passed the cars
that were obliged to remain in high gear.

Several novelties in race driving were noted. One pilot, taking his cue from refueling flights, filled up with gasoline doing 70 kilometers per hour,
and in the next round his mechanic was seen to climb out on the hood and fill the radiator.

Plans are now on foot to enlarge
the circuit and to run more races.
Similar events are held frequently at Cordoba. The annual Buenos Aires-Cordoba race remains the most important motoring event on the calendar.

A POPULAR NECESSITY

Remember the day when only father could use the telephone? Even if the family felt that they could afford one it took careful and skillful handling to get results. Moreover people were slightly afraid of this new fangled invention. They could not understand it.

Now the telephone has become a household necessity and a most popular one at that. It is often misused, but who cares about that? And no one thinks of trying to fix their own instrument—the telephone company has repairmen and trouble men for that job.

Daughter now uses the telephone.
She finds it necessary to her social aspirations. She would miss out on many a good time if her friends
were unable to get her by telephone.

Father transacts his business over the telephone. He knows that it is indispensable in his business and finds it equally as valuable at home. He can rest assured that it will protect his family while he is away from home and his business when away
from his office.

Grandmother, unable to go visiting whenever and wherever she wants,

finds the telephone a priceless treasure that keeps her from being completely shut in and makes her days
less lonely.

But it is Mother to whom the telephone is the most valuable of all. She does much of her shopping over it.
It saves her many steps. As she goes about her household tasks it keeps her in touch with outside events and in many, many ways makes her life
more enjoyable.

The telephone is meant to be a luxury as well as a necessity. There are no reasons why it should not be both. If it is inconveniently located we will be glad to place it wherever you desire to have it placed and at a very low rate we would be glad to install an extension just where you need it most.—Western Telephone Company of Texas.

THE OPEN SCHOOLHOUSE DOOR

When the schoolhouse doors open
here in Spearman for the fall term,
our people not merely give every boy
and girl a wonderful chance to make good, but they say once more that American democracy is a real thing.

Some people think that the United States bows down before wealth today, and has forgotten the generous democracy of the fathers. That open schoolhouse door answers that question. It says to the rich and to the poor: "Here at least you all stand alike, and all are entitled to an equal chance. Here we welcome the boy with the ragged coat just as warmly
as the one with stylish clothes."

It grades its pupils, not by the luxury of their homes, but by the willingness of the child to work and learn. The boy who earns his own clothes by selling newspapers or mowing lawns, may stand higher than the one who is driven to school in a luxurious automobile.

While the opportunities offered are equal, not all can take equal advantage of them. It is a tragedy of school life, that the child whose parents talk only broken English, or who converse only about the things they cannot wear, will not usually learn so fast as the one from the home where politics and community progress are discussed.

But the boy from that more favorable home does not necessarily get ahead faster. His football or his dances may distract his mind from his arithmetic and his English. The boy from the back street may be slow, but grim perseverance walks away with a lot of prizes. But anyway, American's generous heart demands that in this free school, there shall be no social classes, and democracy shall rule unchallenged.

PRACTICAL HOUSES

It is a fine thing to put up artistic homes having a touch of classic or romantic beauty. We are very anxious here in Spearman to see more such homes erected on our streets,
which shall add distinction to our community, and make it still more attractive to newcomers whom we shall value. But however our new houses are built, they should be so put up as to be practical and adapted to every day needs.

For instance, a friend remarked in regard to a house he had occupied in a certain town, that it was a "peach," as respects artistic qualities. It was admired by the neighbors, and added to the appearance of the street.

"But inside," he added, "the living room was so poorly lighted that you had to turn on the light in the middle of the day if you wanted to read."

In that house with all its charm,
the builder overlooked one vital essential. All the fine effects of its design could have been saved, if they had just put in more or bigger windows in the living room. It costs practically nothing to avoid such errors,

which so frequently impair the value
of a dwelling.

People who are longing for publicity, can always get it by taking hold to do useful work for their home towns.

The world began to rise from barbarism when printing was discovered, and a business begins to rise from its difficulties when its managers discover the use of printers' ink.

A modern oil boom town has all the aspects of a gold strike in the old frontier days. In some ways it is more picturesque because of more violent contrasts. It springs up like magic, overnight, and the spirit is in many instances as frenzied and wild as in the roaring days of the forty-niners.

Civilization is essentially an interdependent existence. No man may stand alone. Self reliance is a very good thing in its place but it is not to be confused with independence—something which does not exist.

We can't always accept a situation as a matter of course. There was that jolly old soul, for instance, who while on a little jaunt of his own boarded a train.

"Conductor," he asked while in a deep study, "how far is it from San Antonio to Austin?"

"Eighty miles," replied the conductor.

"Well then," still unconvinced, "how far is it from Austin back to San Antonio?"

"I just this minute told you," said the trainman somewhat impatiently, "that it is eighty miles from San Antonio to Austin and it is of course the same from Austin to San Antonio."

"Oh no you don't," protested the jolly one, "There is no matter of course about it. It's only one week from Christmas to New Years, but it's a damned sight longer from New Years back to Christmas."

PRODIGAL RETURNED

One morning the "Black Maria" arrived at the police-court to take to jail the prisoners who had been arrested the previous night. As they filed into the van the policemen were much amused to hear an old woman shout out to a young prisoner in front:

"Now, then, come out of that; you've got my corner!"

Needless to say, the old lady obtained her accustomed seat. Then, as the door closed to and the policeman stepped up behind, she put her face to the bars and said to him in delightfully dulcet tones:

"Home, James!"

ARE YOU THE MISSING CYLINDER?

How exhilarating it is to drive a perfectly tuned motor car. What a wonderful feeling of power it gives one to feel that magnificent motor quently lift one over the hills and heavy grades ahead.

Likewise how thrilling it is to work in a community in which everything is in perfect adjustment. How elated we become while engaged in any community enterprises when everyone is contributing his share to the job.

On the contrary how exasperating it is to drive your car when a cylinder is sputtering and missing; and how unpleasant it is to try to accomplish anything for the community when some of its citizens absolutely refuse to work with the others. In other words it is as impossible to scale the high hills on the road of progress with a few citizens knocking as it is for a motor car to scale the rocky mountains with one or more cylinders missing.

WHY YOU NEED YOUR TONSILS

Modern science has accomplished wonders. And in the brain of man marvelous thoughts have been born. But man and science put together will never achieve the miracles that Nature performs daily, as a matter of course.

Consider the human body. Neither science nor man has ever succeeded in making a machine that anywhere near approaches it in delicate construction and perfect coordination. True, we cannot always understand why Nature does certain things, nor why she has implanted into the human body certain organs. Tonsils, for instance. To us, they appear useless. And yet, isn't it logical that Nature noted for precision, put them there for a definite purpose? Did you ever know her to work in a haphazard manner?

Whether or not you approve of tonsils, the truth is that they perform a very necessary and thorough job. The tonsillar tissue forms a complete ring around the throat. Practically everything that enters the body through the mouth has to pass this ring, which picks up everything of an infectious nature and destroys it. A marvelous safeguard.

But what has happened when the tonsils are swollen and inflamed—when the doctor says: "They must come out." The explanation is simple. It simply means that the tonsils have encountered a too powerful infection and in order to put forth the greater effort necessary to conquering it they require a greater supply of blood. They become literally gorged with blood and naturally they swell up and become redder. Sometimes this infection is so severe that the tonsils cannot cope with it and the tonsillar tissue is injured. Pus forms in the deep openings called crypts. Then they are called "diseased tonsils" and most likely you will have them out.

Such a procedure is as sensible as taking out of the barrel the few spotted apples on top, without going down to the bottom of the barrel and finding the one spoiled apple that is causing the trouble. "Diseased tonsils" are the result of some faulty body condition that must be located and treated. They have been overlooked in a way that Nature never intended. They are not the "breeding grounds of germs."

So you see, the tonsils, like every other organ of the body require normal physical condition if they are to function properly. They need healthy blood circulating through them, and healthy blood is produced only by clean living, proper foods and sufficient exercise and sleep. Tonsils are traps. And as traps they must trap something. That something is the ordinary poisons that enter the mouth. Introduce any foreign element, such as nicotine, alcohol, drugs, etc., and you will soon have a fine case of chronic tonsil inflammation.

Don't blame the tonsils. You wouldn't expect a mousetrap to catch a bear!

CAREFUL

"Will the vaccination-mark show, doctor?"
"That depends entirely on you, madam!"

JOLLY

Lady: "On a submarine? How jolly! And what do you do?"
Sailor: "I runs for'r'd, hum, and tips her up when we wants to dive."

Often we speak of "the average person." Fact is there is no such thing in human existence. Each of us, in feature, temperament or other qualities, possesses an individuality all our own. None of us have ever existed before. Nothing precisely like either of us will ever be.

Saturday Night

By O. K.

The Canadian Baptist Association in session at Spearman last week, offered a reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Johnny Holmes. Those Baptist preachers, and 99 per cent of the preachers of all denominations, will usually be found on the side of right. The most tiresome and disgusting thing imaginable is the prattle of a nimble-tongued who speaks disparagingly of preachers.

That miserable old bill board has been removed from the east side of Main. They should be removed, by city ordinance, from the incorporated limits. A bill board is an unsightly-obstruction; wholly unnecessary, useless and no account.

If you were to ask a dozen different men the question: "What is Spearman's Greatest, need?" you would receive the following answers: Six would be: "A new and modern hotel." Five would be: "Better telephone service." And the other would be: "Clean the mud off the pavement."

Out of the chaos, the awakening, the general reckoning at Berger and over all of Hutchinson county will come some big fat fees for lawyers. Berger made her bed; now she must lie on it. But the sympathy of right-thinking people everywhere is with the good people of that town, who are trying to build businesses, schools and churches, along right lines. The time of reckoning has arrived, and the bill must be paid. Lawyers will get the biggest slice of the pie.

That was a jim-dandy good meeting of the chamber of commerce last Thursday night, and the Lions held forth jubilantly next day. Tail Twister Walter Beck was snatched out of town, and missed the Lions meeting. He was invited to attend federal court at Amarillo, and quite willingly accepted the invitation. We should make arrangements with Federal Judge Wilson, who is a mighty fine old man, to so arrange his court that it will not interfere with the meetings of our Lions club. Lion Tamer Hoskins was present but was all out of sorts. He delivered a powerful address at P. T. A. meeting the night before, and was not feeling very gay. But it was a great meeting, nevertheless.

About thirty years ago J. H. Walker was principal of the public school at Roby. That was not much of a job. This writer was one of his students—that is, we attended school on the days that Pa didn't have anything for us to do. After the death of J. T. Robinson, land commissioner of Texas, Prof. Walker, who had served for 21 years as chief clerk of the land office, was appointed land commissioner. In stepping up from chief clerk to land commissioner, his salary is reduced $800 a year. There are no better men in Texas than Prof. Walker, but he will never be a rich man. He don't want to be rich; he only wants to serve, and have enough to get along on decently. That was the way with poor old man Robinson, whom grafters and "sidewalk strategists" hounded to his death.

Tiff Thomason, who has sold merchandise to Hansford county folks for a quarter of century, was here from Texhoma Tuesday, just looking around. Mrs. Thomason came also, but their boy is big enough to go to school now, and was left at home. Thomason Brothers' three big stores, located at Spearman, Texhoma and Boise City, are very much worth while institutions, owned and operated by home people for home people and to the mutual advantage of owner, operator and customer. Tiff is not only a prince of merchants, but a bully good fellow, also.

Frank Sewell, banker, Arthur Nield, real estate man for the past twenty-five years, came from Texhoma, along with Bill Youstler, lumberman for twenty years at Guymon, to talk over Boy Scout matters with Lee McClellan, Prof. Word, Bill McClellan, Al Barkley and others. Other men of affairs in this part of the world who consider the Boy Scout movement worthy of a part of their time and attention are Van Stewart, publisher of the Ochiltree County Herald at Perryton; C. L. Matheson, abstractor at Guymon; A. W. Fanning of the Goodwell College and Boss Neff, old-time rancher of Hooker. The Tex-Oklia Council, Boy Scouts of America, is well organized, well officered and is doing great work.

The most utterly futile, as well as disgusting thing we know of, is the effort of the sidewalk strategists to regulate the newspapers. Poor, miserable, misguided failures at everything they ever undertook, yet they know exactly how to run the other fellow's business. Miserable because of their insignificance, they seek to bring unhappiness to others. If Lindsay Nunn of the Nunn-Warren publications, Gene Howe of the Hawk-Howe publication, Warren Zimmerman of the Liberal News, Giles Miller of the Guymon Herald, Van Stewart of the Ochiltree County Herald, Sam Braswell of the Clarendon News, Clyde Warwick of the Randall County News, and others who are struggling along as best they can, could only have the advise and admonitions of these mental giants—gosh, wouldn't they make a splash.

The Reporter clan drove out to the fine country home of Farmer and Mrs. Henry Keith in the afternoon. The Reporter kids were quite a nuisance to these good old people, who have such a well-kept yard, filled with flowers rare, rich and luxuriant. The young Mr. Keith and his bride of a few weeks, were busy getting machinery ready to begin sowing wheat next day—but it rained. Mr. and Mrs. Keith gave the women folks some beautiful flowers. Our three year old boy had much fun with the big turkey gobbler and the six year old daughter attempted to make a turkey hen "spread out her feathers" like the gobbler, which is entirely contrary to the natural bent of a well kept turkey hen. Young folks could learn much from the turkey hen, if they had the time.

Lower Rates On Two Lines

Washington, Sept. 12.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized the Aetna, Topeka & Santa Fe and the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroads to reduce freight rates on grain and grain products from Kansas City to the Gulf 7c per 100 pounds.

The reductions went into effect Tuesday, the commission said.

Permission was granted under the recent commission decision permitting Southwestern roads to meet the reductions put into effect by the Kansas City Southern on August 15.

Four other roads have been authorized to meet the reductions, but they have not filed their revised tariffs. When these are filed the reduced rates will go into effect on one day's notice.

Millions Could Be Saved By Following Instructions

Detroit, October 1.—Millions of dollars could be saved annually by the automobile-owning public through a more strict observance of the factors that control the gasoline mileage offered by the average automobile, it was revealed in a survey on fuel economy completed today by the Chevrolet Motor Company.

A gain of from two to five miles per gallon of gas could be effected, on the average, it was shown, if the motorist paid strict attention to the elements that govern fuel consumption.

The matter of economy has always been a factor of the uppermost importance with Chevrolet in the design of its cars. Having brought mileage to the highest point ever recorded in a six cylinder car, Chevrolet sought to corral in this survey, many seemingly unimportant details, which through carelessness or indifference on the part of the driver, add down the mileage that might be obtained through more intelligent handling of the car.

Manufacturers have been doing their utmost to make gains in the direction of greater mileage and now it is felt that with greater cooperation from the driver, motorists may save millions of miles yearly at no extra fuel cost if the matter of fuel economy can make a sufficiently strong appeal.

Just how this attention to fuel economy brings its rewards is illustrated in records of performances coming in to the company's offices, which show that although the Chevrolet six is expected to run approximately 20 miles to the gallon, motorists in various sections of the country are getting, 23, 24 and 25 miles through just a little added attention to the matter.

The majority of items to be watched are rather obvious to the average automobile owner, but through an inadequate appreciation of their importance are commonly overlooked. The survey sets down specifically a number of factors, which, if observed should increase your mileage to five miles to the gallon. They are:

1. When standing or waiting for a change, don't race your motor.
2. When you are to make a stop more than a minute turn off your motor.
3. Don't drive at excessive speeds unless the occasion demands. High speed travelling burns more gas.
4. Remember that the faster you drive the more gas you consume. So when you find that you are about out of gas and are heading for a gas station, take it slowly and your chances for negotiating the distance will be greater.

5. When starting watch the choke. Don't drive with the choke out a moment more than necessary.
6. Be sure that your brakes are not dragging. This cuts down your mileage. Get your brakes inspected frequently.
7. Have your valves ground when they need it.
8. See that the idling adjustment on your carburetor is set at the proper point so that the mixture is not too rich. If it is not at the proper point it gives you inefficient idling performance and wastes gas.
9. Don't fill your gas tank full to the cap, some will escape through the vent in the cap.
10. Don't ride the clutch.
11. Watch gas line for leaks at joints. Check it periodically to see that fittings are tight.
12. Be sure that spark is in fully advanced position.
13. Avoid excessive use of brakes in traffic.

FADISM

Observance of these suggestions, the survey points out, will save money for the motorist and, adds considerable mileage to your driving and reduce the number of necessary stops at the gasoline station.—From the Chevrolet Motor Company, Roy C. Hayes, Publicity Director.

THE DAIRY COW NEEDS VACATION

Dairymen sometimes find it difficult to dry up high producing cows within a reasonable time before freshening. To get the most profit from dairy cows, however, it is essential that they be given a rest of from 6 to 8 weeks between lactation periods.

One of the best ways to dry up a high producing cow is to put her in the stable for a week or two, and feed her largely on timothy hay. One milking a day should be omitted for about a week and then milk her every other day until she goes down in milk flow to about 10 pounds per day. Milking may then be stopped and no harm will result.

Many farmers give but little attention to the feeding of cows during the dry period. They do not appreciate that this is an exceedingly important time and that proper feed during this period is necessary for the best results when the cows freshen.

Experience has shown that a cow produces more milk and butter fat if at calving time she is not only in a good thrifty condition, but also if she carries a fair amount of fat. During the first month of her milk flow, a good dairy cow will change this body fat over into milk fat, thus increasing her yield. It is important that a good balanced ration be fed during the dry period if the cow is to carry that fat at calving time.

After a cow is dry, a good grain mixture to feed her is one composed of 200 pounds of corn meal and hominy feed, 200 pounds ground oats, 200 pounds wheat bran, and 100 pounds of linseed meal. About a week or ten days before freshening, take out the corn meal and cut the amount of grain feed to 1/2 the normal allowance. 8 to 12 pounds of grain daily would be a normal allowance while the cow is dry, and 4 to 6 pounds the proper allowance for about one week before she freshens.

WHAT YOU INVEST

"You'll get out of this organization just what you put into it. You must invest effort and interest to collect dividends of pleasure and satisfaction."

Most of us have heard something like this upon joining an organization. Bromide that it is, it is fundamentally true. Everywhere in life we reap returns commensurate with effort expended.

It is true of an organization. It is equally true of a community. The satisfaction, pleasure and pride you take in your town are determined largely by the interest, thought, and unselfish service you devote to its welfare.

Invariably those who dislike Spearman and find it an unsatisfactory town in which to live are those who do nothing for the improvement of the community. Conversely those who are enthusiastic boosters for the town are those who derive the greatest amount of pleasure and satisfaction out of living here.

There's nothing like living in a live, progressive town, and there is no way of learning to see the good points of your community boosting its assets at every possible opportunity.

The League welcomes all visitors for we cannot be a success without the backing of true church friends.

Missionary Society

The Ladies Missionary Society of the Methodist church met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. Q. Thorne nine miles southwest of town. Seventeen members were present. The lesson, which was very interesting, finished the New Africa study book. The meeting next Wednesday afternoon will be held at the home of Mrs. John L. Hays.

Missionary History

Miss Lochie Rankin, the first Missionary sent out by our women, died September 13. She retired in 1928 after 50 years of service in China. Miss Althea Jones of Houston, Superintendent of childrens work, was killed in an auto accident in May. Julia Stephens was appointed to fill this vacancy. Mrs. R. E. The W. M. U. met with Mrs. A. L. Rippy this week with 10 present. A very interesting lesson was had on the subject of tithing, led by Mrs. Baley. This was followed by several business transactions. A letter was read by the president, from Mrs. A. H. Wilcox, now of Montezuma, N. M., to the ladies of the society. We are glad the Wilcox's are doing well and like their work at Montezuma. The Baptist Association last week was well represented by most every church in the Association. A very interesting program was rendered by the ladies of the different churches on the afternoon of the last day of the meeting. The Association will meet at Perryton next year. The W. M. U. will meet next week with Mrs. Fred Brandt.

MARTIAL LAW

remaining hotels of questionable standing. They admitted there was less crime and vice now than at any time since Borger was founded in 1926, probably, they said, because the lawless had known martial law was coming and left town.

Clem Calhoun, sent here by Governor Moody as a special investigator, was qualified as district attorney. Calhoun, formerly of the Abilene district, had been an ardent supporter of a thorough investigation. He promised to exert every effort to enforce the law and said he had not been prompted to accept the appointment by political aspirations.

Calhoun immediately will set to work gathering evidence for presentation when district court convenes Oct. 14.

Whether his work would concern city and county officials was not learned. The governor in his proclamations criticized the officials for failure to enforce the laws. He accused them of a conspiracy with law violators, and mentioned affidavits testifying to the passage of money to officers for protection from law enforcement.

He charged that responsible citizens of Hutchinson county lived under a menace which prevents them from informing on law violators. He reiterated his statement that one peace officer is an ex-convict, and added that since it "is now imminent danger to the inhabitants and property" he felt it his duty to declare martial law.
