

"BREAKING IN NEW FORD NOT SO TEDIOUS NOW"

Precision manufacturing and an unusual degree of importance which the Ford Motor Company attaches to the inspection of Model A cars has gone far to eliminate the tedious process known as the "breaking in" of a new automobile.

On the windshields of the new Model A are directions which suggest a driving speed limit for the first 500 miles of 35 miles per hour. This is in marked contrast to the old line of instruction which cautioned against a speed of more than 20 or 25 miles an hour for at least 1000 miles.

Excess heat is the most destructive agency which may affect an automobile, particularly in the first several hundred miles it is driven. Friction is mainly responsible for overheating, and a piston that is fitted too tightly may seize and in turn score the cylinder wall. This means an expensive repair job.

Careful machining of engine parts, such as cylinder blocks, pistons, camshafts, crankshafts, etc., the proper fitting of bearings, accuracy in the cutting of gears; multitudinous checks during the process of assembling the Model A and rigid inspections combine to produce an automobile which is ready for the road when delivered. For this reason, it may at once be operated to the limit of speed prescribed by the motor codes of a great many states, without going through customary "breaking in" period.

WALKING AS A SPORT

With the passing of Edward Payson Weston a few weeks ago the period when walking was regarded as a good sport came definitely to an end. It would be difficult to raise great public interest today in walking marathons, in hiking as a competitive enterprise. Today we must have sports that are sensational. This is a hardboiled era, not greatly different from the times that preceded the fall of the Roman empire. We will assemble by the hundreds of thousands to watch a few super athletes exhibit their prowess, but we show little inclination to develop sports that are for the many.

Walking was once a source of recreation for all and a sport available to large numbers. That a few like Weston had attained amazing power in this, does not change the fact that it was once a pleasant reaction for the many and today almost a lost art for everyone.

Of course the writer realizes that the pendulum in all things swings from one extreme to another. The day may come when groups will go out on hikes, when everyone can be interested in walking as a sport, and when the open road will be something more than an invitation to burn gasoline and wear out tires.

GIVES CAUSES OF SUMMER SLUMP IN MILK YIELD

Flies and hot weather no longer can be blamed for the sharp summer drop in the milk yield of dairy cows, according to Dr. W. B. News, assistant chief in dairy cattle feeding at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. "Experiments have traced the chief cause of the slump in production to a lack of feed and particularly a lack of enough protein in the feed," he said.

"Good pasture grass is the best feed for milk production, but pasture alone is not enough for cows giving large amounts of milk. Hence, if they are not supplied with some grains, such cows are likely to lose weight fast. Early in the spring, grass is high in protein, but as it ripens the proportion of protein becomes less.

"Good feeders therefore supply their best cows with grain throughout the pasture season. In early spring a mixture of ground corn and oats is satisfactory, but as soon as the grass begins to ripen a mixture containing from 14 to 16 per cent total protein may consist of 150 pounds of linseed meal, 450 pounds of ground corn and 400 pounds of ground oats. A similar mixture might be 200 linseed meal, 300 pounds of corn-and-cob meal and 200 pounds wheat bran.

"A mixture containing about 20 per cent protein may be made up from 400 pounds linseed meal, 400 pounds of ground corn and 200 pounds of ground oats.

"Liberal feeding during the pasture season helps not only to maintain the milk flow at a high level but also to keep the cows in much better flesh so that they are in good condition to produce milk when the barn feeding begins."

LAWN CROSSERS

A friend offers this little comment: "Among indifferent, inconsiderate, stupid people I reserve a prominent position for the fellow who cuts across the well kept lawn belonging to someone else."

More he has to say on this same subject, for this friend loves his well kept lawn and garden, and resents bitterly the disregard for his rights exhibited by many people.

One man starts, then others follow. Soon a path begins to develop across the corner. Then others more careless than the first break off shrubbery, vines and bushes that were secured at expense and tended with the greatest care. Soon a beautifully landscaped lawn looks much the worse for wear, and the time saved by these jay walkers is of no consequence whatever.

If you agree with what is said above, if you have become aggravated at times over the indifference and disrespect shown your property by people in general, then exercise the greatest care yourself. It is easy to become an offender such as we have described above. It is difficult to pass any sort of law to correct such trivial abuses. But they will disappear when people are educated to exhibit a little more respect for others.

VALUE OF ROMANCE

Ennui, morbid introspection, and a sense of the futility of existence overtakes one occasionally. You wonder what it is all about—this ambition to accumulate money and trouble, this turmoil and grind of a mechanical age, this absence of a common body of ideas and ideals to which one may dedicate one's efforts.

When such a mood captures your spirit, there is one avenue of escape. Go to your bookcase at home or to the public library, and find therein a bit of delightful romance. Delve into the works of one of the old masters, such as Dumas, or Scott or any one of hundreds of kindred writers.

Again life becomes a glorious adventure. Things that seem squalid disappear. There are brave deeds done in the King's service, and when the hour to retire approaches you may find yourself reluctant to return to this commonplace existence with its fiscal problems and stupid routine, but still you will return to it with a pulse that beats a little more rapidly and an eye a little quicker for the beauty and color that life can present.

NEEDED INSTRUCTION

From now until Fall almost every editor in the country is going to be called upon at least once to write the details of a drowning. A child gets beyond its depth, a reckless fellow attempts too long a swim, a treacherous current, a strong undertow—these and thousands of others contributing causes will be mentioned. Though every story will be different all will point to these few definite conclusions:

First, well regulated beaches with competent guards should be provided in almost every community. The boys and girls will go swimming, regardless of father's and mother's instruction to the contrary. Better that they go where there is some provision for meeting emergencies.

Second, more general instruction on the best life saving methods should be disseminated. One community that has suffered heavily in years past imported an expert swimmer from outside to instruct boys and girls in life saving methods and to help them improve their swimming technique. This work, according to reports, has been directly responsible for saving of three or four lives.

Occasionally good swimmers are drowned, through carelessness or recklessness on their part, but most drownings are due to the inability of the victims and their companions to handle themselves well in the water.

If we couldn't raise a fund here in Spearman to import a swimming coach to give the boys and girls proper instructions, it may be that some good local swimmer would undertake to give this much needed instruction. How about it? Is anybody ready to take charge of such a worthy enterprise?

THE BANG OF BURNED OUT BEARINGS YOUR MOTOR CAN ESCAPE IT

If you've ever listened to the anvil chorus under the hood when a bearing burns out, you realize the damage that poor oil can do to a motor. Replaced bearings cost real money—a great deal more, in fact, than the cost of a year's supply of good oil.

Isn't that reason enough why you should always insist upon a brand of oil which has stood the test—a brand backed up by an organization which has spent years specializing in the lubrication needs of every type of motor?

Such are the brands offered you by the Continental Oil Company. You may be sure that an oil sponsored and sold by this organization is the right oil for your car.

You protect the bearings—and your pocket-book, too—when you ask for these brands at service stations and garages.

some reason, human beings seem able to recognize ro- when they see it. an lie right under our noses will miss it; instead, we look field, to some place where we ver go, and spy it there. old-time Mississippi river boat era is generally considered of the most romantic, colorful in our history. It is gone for- the river today carries more of freight annually than ever e, but it does it by barge and at, and the gaudy packet ships ark Twain's day are little better memories. s most of us, seeing how mod- efficiency has killed this par- kind of romance, take it for- ed that this is a prosaic age. all the while, right in front of eyes, there are happenings in- more romantic and dazzling than the whole saga of the storied river. In Detroit, for instance, a great bridge is being thrown across the river to join Detroit with Windsor, Ontario. Its towers rise skyward diz- zily; the huge cables that will bear the weight are cunningly-woven af- fairs of countless small wires; its foundations go far below the surface of the ground. It was little more than yesterday that this grandfather of all bridges was first suggested; tomor- row (figuratively speaking) it will be open for use. Far to the southwest, in Boulder Canyon, engineers are preparing to construct a dam. This dam will pro- tect a whole inland empire from floods. It will add thousands of acres of fertile land to the nation's half dozen coal mines. Where nature put a desert and a waste there will short- ly be a rich farm land and a great source of power for industry. These are just two examples; one could quote a dozen more, at ran- dom. They are extremely significant—far more so than we imagine. For they are our romance. What are they—ordinary bridges and dams? Not at all. They are sym- bols; symbols of modern man's tri- umphs over matter. The earth, that used to be so vast and dominating, has grown small and weak. Man has conquered it. There is nothing he can not do to it. He rearranges it to suit himself. By the strength of his ma- chines and the cleverness of his brain he is beginning to prove at last that he is what he called himself, Lord of all Creation. It is not ignoble for us to take pride in the things we make of stone and steel and concrete. They prove our capabilities—which are limitless. They give grounds for hope that some day we shall be able to do equally well in the tangled, tragedy- strewn field of human relations.—Lubbock Daily Journal.

"STICK TO YOUR LAST"

A story is going the rounds of a colored man who was brought into court charged with stealing chickens. He had pleaded guilty and received sentence when the judge asked how it was that he had been able to lift the fowls right under the window of the owner's house when there was a savage dog in the yard. "I wouldn't be no use, judge," said the culprit, "to try to 'splain dis thing to you a-tall. Ef you was to try it like as not you'd get your hide full of shot an' you wouldn't get no chickens, nuther. Ef you want to engage in any rascality, judge, you better stick to the bench, wha you am familiar."

FLY SWATTING

There is an old adage to the effect that a louse born in the morning is a grandmother by night. The com- mon house-fly, is no less prolific. One fly now can multiply to more than a million within the next few months. Obviously when we should do our fly- swatting early. But more effective than swatting individual flies at this season, in the editor's opinion, is effort to eliminate breeding places for flies. If there were no garbage, carrion, and filth scattered about there would be no flies. Everything flung carelessly out the back door to decompose may be- come a breeding place for the world's worst disease carrier. Open dumps, derbis scattered along the roadside, and plain filth scattered about is everybody's business, for disease carrying flies have no respect for boundary lines. It behooves all of us, therefore, to see to it that our town is kept clean and free from fly hatchery. Let us all take extreme care about our own property, and then insist that our neighbors exercise the same degree of thoughtfulness.

CAN YOU TRUST MEN?

You don't know whom you can trust these days, do you? Every fel- low out for himself, willing to cut under you for his own personal gain. Well, lets get out of here. Go somewhere where you can trust your fellow man. But it's a bad night to go out. Dark, stormy and windy. What's the high line overhead? Oh, merely a high tension wire with enough electricity to kill hundreds of persons. But you didn't think any- thing of walking under it. You knew the lineman had made it safe. Now we'll get in a taxi and ride to the station. Got to hurry, if we're to catch the train. This fellow certainly knows how to drive. Takes a steady hand to keep out of a crash, but we'll not worry about that.

Bump! Big hole in the street. Terri- fic strain on the springs and the car. But nothing breaks. Sweating men at forge and lathe had done their work well. The others who fastened the nuts and bolts when the car was assembled did their work. Well, here we are at the station. We crawl into our berths and go peacefully to sleep. The train plows on through the dark storm. One man at the throttle holds the lives of hundreds in his hand. Water streams against the glass through which he peers out at the right of way. One signal missed and destruction awaits. Yet some other man, a nonentity in the cosmic scheme, has seen to it that all signal lights are burning. And so it goes. Every day we trust our lives to our fellow men, men in far-off places, men whom we never see, men who in the routine of their bread-winning are their brothers' keepers. Oh, yes, there are some men you can trust!—Pittsburgh Press.

POVERTY; NO EXCUSE

The National Catholic Welfare Council, surveying industrial condi- tions in the United States, comes to a conclusion that may eventually be- come the battle cry for the wage earners of the United States. This conclusion, briefly, is this: Poverty in the United States, ex- cept in rare instances, is inexcusable. No slogan like that has ever been voiced before. Until now, people have taken it for granted that there would always be great masses of desperate- ly poor folk—until the millenium, at all events. But the Catholic Welfare Council, noting that the average U. S. worker produces more than $5000 worth of goods per year, disagrees; and it probably will not be many years be- fore, that slogan is shouted loudly, from one end of the land to the other.

$2.00 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE In Texas and Panhandle Strip of Oklahoma; $2.50 per year elsewhere.

Entered as second class matter November 21, 1924, at the post office at Spearman, Texas, under the act of March 3, 1879.

Sheriff Wilbanks and his helpers are clamping the lid down tighter and tighter on booze peddlers and speakeasies. And it is well. Booze and speakeasies won't mix during the winter months, and during the summer months efforts to combine the two inevitably lead to disaster. As a rule, people use better judgment in winter than in summer. When a man is too hot or mad, his mind doesn't click properly. When he is too hot, mad and drunk he should be locked up.

The presence of so many strange peddlers indicates that prosperity is just around the corner. At least, prospects are good enough to give these peddlers a foundation for selling talk. The peddler knows that people will buy better on good prospects than they will after the crop is harvested. Notes are taken for all except the peddlers' commission. He puts this in his pocket and forgets you in a minute. Better stick to the home town agents, salesmen and representatives. They sell the same or better lines, and they don't forget.

Want to be happy, then avoid the stranger with a big scheme, the peddler, the harrier who cries about the merits of his wares from the curb. Be loyal to the old home town, to your neighbors and friends. Keep your body clean and your mouth shut, usually. Happiness is within you. It can't be put in there—it just grows.

A hint to General Motors.—If General Motors engineers would build the horns that they all would honk in the same key, and the breaks so they would squeak in the same key, the noise now produced by these instruments of torture would cease to be noise and would cease to torture. It would be melody—harmony—a succession of modulated tones which would be pleasing to the ear instead of nerve-wrecking discord.

As we understand it, a philosopher is the kind of a guy who will not holler when a heavy letter of the home team comes out a home run, with two on, or doesn't care to hear Al Nelson sing "Society Boy."

BACK SEAT DRIVERS

(After Kipling)
I've taken my cars as I've found 'em,
And the passengers, too, in my time;
I've hauled 'em from Dun to Beech-sheba,
And the way I've been hauled is a crime.

Acquaintances, friends and relations
Have all used me as chauffeur pro tem.
Have advised and instructed and counseled,
And I've learned about driving from them.

The first in the list was a sweetie,
I had in a long-ago day;
We were peacefully driving one Sunday
In an automatic one-jumped coupe.

"Look out!" she exclaimed, "there is some chicken."
And quickly I tried to concert,
But, dougling a duck I was hit by a truck.
And I learned about driving from her.
Cousin Jants was most charmed to acquire me.

With the knowledge that he'd make his own.
Glad to tell me what he knew and most certain
He knew all there was to be known.

"To the right—no, the left, you big dumb-bell.
Great Scott! Use your brake!"

"There's a car coming, see"—and my heart climbed a tree,
But I learned about driving from him.

But I now do my driving with others,
I'm no longer in the cut-over class.

And I pass on the wisdom of ages
In return for their rubber and gas,
I counsel in matter of speeding,
Their styles and technique overseas,
And from the back seat I give them a treat.

And they learn about driving from me.—Eric Motorist.

TAX THE LOAFER

Theoretically the perfect tax would be a tax on inaction. The proper man to tax would be the loafer, not the worker; the idler, not the used hand; inactive capital, not active capital; lack of enterprise, not enterprise.

Such a tax would not be practical, but it would be a just tax.

Our present taxes are based on an opposite theory.
We tax theft, action, capital enterprise.

We levy taxes in proportion to ability to pay, which means that the harder a man works, the more we tax him; the more staidly he becomes, the more we soil him; the more efficient he grows, the more we knock him down.

If a man saves his money and buys a home, he is taxed; if he wastes his money in extravagant living, he is not taxed.

None of our taxes encourages production by the simple process of discouraging idleness, shiftlessness, inefficiency.

The devil himself could not do a better job of hobbling the race.—Fort Atkinson, Wisconsin, Journal.

DURANT MAY PRODUCTION

Shipment of motor cars and trucks during May from the Durant Motors plants in Lansing, Mich., Oakland, Cal., and Toledo, Ontario, totaled 34,004 units and the company expects June with several thousand unfilled orders for two important new models, in which quantity production is just now getting under way.

The figures are released by E. T. Hildkins, General Sales Manager of the Company.

Durant schedules call for quantity output of these new cars—the Six-Six, Six and Six Seventy. The new models have for their outstanding feature a double high gear 4-Forward speed transmission providing silent operation in both third and fourth speeds. Advantages claimed for this gear set are greatly reduced fuel and oil consumption, 41 per cent increase in engine life and ability to shift smoothly and effortlessly at 50 miles an hour and faster.

During the latter being received by the factory from dealers all over the world, and by the rapidly increasing number of orders for cars, the buying public is alive to the advantages offered by the Durant silent third and double high transmission.

WHY LUMBER?

When one of your customers questions the wisdom of advertising, tell him the story of lumber.

Here is an excellent example of the gradual breaking down of a fundamental industry; Lumber manufacturers figured they did not need to advertise. There would always be a demand for lumber, they thought.

But the seemingly impossible thing happened. Substitutes for wood came into existence. The manufacturers of the substitute materials began to advertise.

Somehow, people conceived the false idea that the lumber supply was being rapidly exhausted and that lumber should be conserved by the use of substitutes. The lumber industry continued to be silent.

Instead of telling the world that trees should be cut when they ripen and that the plan of reforestation provided for a continuous supply of timber as large as that which was standing, the lumber industry remained aloof, ignoring what was happening. It was not until the market was defeated that the lumber men awoke to the true situation. Now the manufacturers are forced to spend vast sums annually trying to combat the calamitous result of their own inertia.

Naturally, the manufacturer is not the only one to suffer. The lumber retailer shared in the misfortune. He may not have believed in advertising ten years ago, but today he is a real convert. When it came to a question of survival, he was glad to have the good old raft of advertising to cling to. Advertising alone offers hope for recovery.

This is the true story of the lumber industry, the truth of which is shown by the full-page advertisements of a lumber trade association in the national magazines. These advertisements are truthfully prepared to counteract the false impression gained of the lumber market.

These facts are worth telling your dealers also as applying to other products.—Meredith's Merchandising Advertising.

Set it down to yourself, as well as create good precedents as to follow them.—Bacon.

Take on that other 80 this Year

If you have a young fellow who is rapidly growing into manpower, put a new McCormick-Deering 15-30 Tractor under him and watch him step out. He won't be limited for long with the old quarter-section—or what have you? Youthful vision and the husky 15-30 will soon expand the boundaries of your farm factory—and expand the income too! That's where this modern power counts big. It enables you to farm more acres in less time and with less labor. It earns the luxuries of life, and saves you the time in which to enjoy them. It makes a hit with the whole family by putting all of your farming operations on the modern, fast basis. Ask us to demonstrate one of these powerful tractors on your own farm and your own work.

Far-reaching improvements have recently been built into the McCormick-Deering 15-30 Tractor. There is now an even greater reserve of power. The new manifold design makes for exceptional fuel efficiency. The new oil filter joins forces with the air cleaner and fuel filter to protect engine from dirt and dust—and at the same time the McCormick-Deering is powered by a 4-cylinder, upright engine with ball-bearing crankshaft.
Two other sizes: the McCormick-Deering 10-20 and the all-purpose Farmall.

Farm Bill A Law

Minus Debenture

Washington, June 15—President Hoover with a stroke of the pen today placed in effect the new Farm Relief bill which his administration had drawn to alleviate the ills of agriculture. Climaxing months of campaigning, inauguration activities and congressional controversy, the president with ceremony appropriate to such an event, wrote his name across the farm measure and thereby placed it on the statute books.

His signature was affixed in the presence of a group of congressional leaders which included Vice President Curtis, Speaker Longworth, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and other farm leaders of the house and senate. The new bill embodies the authorization for the appropriation of $500,000,000 to be used by the federal farm board, which will consist of nine members.

Late yesterday the senate finally accepted the bill without the export debenture plan, which was steadfastly objected to by the president. The tariff, the other major question of the epochal session of congress remains before the senate.

AGAIN THE PEDDLER

A sure sign of prosperity in a country is the influx of peddlers, agents, door knockers, salesmen and "gyp" advertising grafters. About the only redeeming feature of "hard times" is the fact that we are not bothered with these kind of "birds."

A short time ago this country was worked by some oil salesman and hundreds of gallons of very inferior lubricating oil was sold. We understand that legal action is now being taken by some of the many "victims" to recover their money.

The man who is wise is the man who buys from his merchant and business man. If there are any adjustments to make, Mr. Home Merchant is right on the ground to make things right. He is here to stay. He has got to please you and give you a dollar's worth of value for every dollar spent with him.

Who pays the taxes to support your schools and other public institutions? Is it the peddler and the mail order house? Yet there are some people who buy from the peddler and mail order house and cause their home merchant at every opportunity.

The "gyp" advertiser is also in this country. The Herald now has two hotel directory jobs in our office, one for Perryton and one for a neighboring city. We are getting a good price for the job but at that we are getting but a small per cent of what the merchants pay for their small ads in the directory and we will bet dollars to doughnuts that the merchants who bought the space will not get a five per cent return on the investment in these directories. The Herald believes in selling straight legitimate newspaper advertising which is given up by all advertising authorities and writers to be the cheapest and most productive of all forms of advertising. Direct-by-mail advertising comes next, but authorities all agree that this is the most expensive form of advertising. Directories, menus, programs and the such are classed as "gyp" advertising yet thousands upon thousands of dollars are mulched every year from business men who are sold this "stuff" under the guise of advertising.—Ochiltree County Herald.

TO KILL A TOWN JUST QUIT TRYING

A drowning man doesn't have to make deliberate effort to drown himself.

All that is necessary for him to do is to quit trying to swim, to quit trying to keep his head above water and in a few minutes he will drown. It isn't necessary to deliberately destroy a town and the business in it to cause it to cease to be a town. It isn't necessary to do a single thing deliberately that will injure the town in any way, to cause its business to dwindle away and its merchants to suffer.

All that it is necessary to do is nothing—just nothing. All that it is necessary for the merchants and business men and citizens of the community to do is to just do nothing. It is the surest way to kill a town and rob it of aggressive enterprise—to get into the rut of doing nothing.

PEACE WINS OUT

Citizens who follow news of the world pretty closely are no doubt glad to discover that peace is now having her inning. The Mexican revolution has fizzled out, and the disturbances in China are about at an end. In both cases the regular governments won out. The only wars of late years have been civil wars, and now they seem to be about vanished, with no more looming on the horizon. The dove of peace is busy, and the talk everywhere is of disarmament, limiting navies, scrapping big guns, abolishing poison gas, bombing planes and sneaking submarines. The very powers which have been suspected most of evil and secret designs are now the loudest in their shouts for to be willing to go even farther than the nations with clean records to prevent war. All of which is just about as satisfying as anything we can think of just now, and all of which forecasts at least one great blessing to be thankful for when Thanksgiving day again rolls around.—Moore County, News.

Advice is like medicine. It is very objectionable to some people.

Don't be too hasty in making your mark in the world. You can't always rub it out.

SHAMROCK PAPER ADVANCES NOVEL SETTLEMENT IDEA

"On account of the advantages afforded new-comers by towns and cities of the Texas Panhandle, it seems only right the counties should charge so much a head for everybody moving in. Say make an outsider plunk down $500 to open a dry goods store, $250 to open a grocery, $1,000 to farm, depending on how much profit his line of business paid. Charge a person moving in to go to work on a salary of $150 a month about $10, a person running a newspaper $2.50 and so on down. People in East Texas and other hard-hit sections would at once suspect there was something good about the Panhandle since it cost money to move in. They would make a trip out here and investigate and once here they would never go back and live among the boll weevils. We could well afford to let farmers in at about $100 per family. Have Texas Rangers to patrol the Oklahoma border south of there to the border of Mexico and to the west and north. Shake down every man, woman and child crossing into West Texas and make them fork over the privilege tax, or rather give a promissory note. In five years this country would be thicker settled and more prosperous than Southern California. Amarillo and Wichita Falls would be bigger than Los Angeles or Detroit and Shamrock and Memphis would be bigger than Tulsa and Dallas. There would be enough money derived from the tax within five years to erect a 50-foot concrete and steel wall around the entire of West Texas and to buy a mammoth electric sign to hang in the center of it reading, "Heaven on Earth." All further revenue could be used in maintaining missionaries in East Texas, trying to save the souls of the few remaining folks who were barred from admission as being undesirable citizens.—Shamrock Texan.

PROBLEMS IN TEACHING

Chancing to meet a small-town school teacher this week, mention was made of a sympathetic feeling for teachers, due in part to personal experience. This reply was made: "There are no problems in teaching, if the teacher is fitted for it by intellect and education." This furnishes food for thought.

Perhaps the teacher was right, but consider: is not each pupil a separate problem? No two pupils act alike, think alike, learn alike. Professor W. A. Franklin declared in a published interview last winter relatives to the failures of many ninth grade pupils who had come to the preparatory school of the Panhandle A. & M. College that he gave standard achievement tests to 53 students soon after the beginning of the last fall semester and found 15 of them correctly classified, while six were qualified to carry on work above the ninth grade. Of the remaining 32, about two-thirds were not ready for the ninth grade classes although all had certificates of promotion from the eighth grade; 12 of them he found should still be doing work in the eighth grade, 12 in the seventh grade, five in the sixth grade, two in the fifth grades and one in the fourth grade.

This statement by Professor Franklin would indicate there must be problems in teaching.

In every school there are as many "live" problems every day in the week as there are pupils in the school. The teacher who is best able to solve these problems will be the best able to graduate students who will qualify to continue work in the higher grades.—Stratford Star.

Lesson BY DR. J. E. NUNN

FOR JUNE 23, 1929

General Topic:—The Habit of Thankfulness.

Scripture Lesson:—Psalm 103:1-18.

1. Bless Jehovah, O my soul; and that is within me, bless his holy name.
 2. Bless Jehovah, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits.
 3. Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases;
 4. Who redeemeth thy life from destruction; who crowneth thee with lovingkindness and tender mercies;
 5. Who sitteth thy desire with good things, so that thy youth is renewed like the eagle.
 6. Jehovah executeth righteous acts, and judgments for all that are oppressed.
 7. He made known his ways unto Moses, His doings unto the children of Israel.
 8. Jehovah is merciful and gracious, slow to anger, and abundant in lovingkindness.
 9. He will not always chide; neither will he keep his anger forever.
 10. He hath not dealt with us after our sins, nor rewards us after our iniquities.
 11. For as the heavens are high above the earth, so great is his lovingkindness toward them that fear him.
 12. As far as the east is from the west, so far hath he removed our transgressions from us.
 13. Like as a father pitieth his children, so Jehovah pitieth them that fear him.
- Time:—If David wrote the psalm, we may date it about B. C. 1055; if it was written after the return from exile, about B. C. 450.
- Place:—In either case, Jerusalem.
- Golden Text:—Bless Jehovah, O my soul.—Ps. 103:1.

Introduction
We turn aside today to study one of the most beautiful of all the Psalms. It is a glorious poem of praise. It is fitting that we should be reminded of the mercies of God so that we may praise him with all our hearts. There are too many of us who go on from day to day without opening our hearts in thanksgiving to him who is our God. Our young people and children need to develop the habit of praise. No life can be a big life without this praise spirit.

The Habit of Praise
"A thankful heart is not only the greatest virtue, but the parent of all other virtues."—Cicero.

"It is interesting to note what the psalmist put first and made fundamental among his benefits: 'Who forgiveth all thine iniquities.' He does not begin with material goods, but with the spiritual state of his soul in being forgiven and cleansed."

Someone inquired of Archibald Brown, "Wherever can you find an instrument of ten strings with which to praise God?" (Ps. 92:3). He answered, "Here they are: two eyes to see God with; two ears to hear God with; two hands with which to work for God; two feet to walk with; one tongue to praise God with; and one heart with which to love him!"

"Bless Jehovah, O My Soul," v. 1.
"Bless Jehovah, O my soul; and all that is within me, bless his holy name." "Soul" means "myself." "All that is within me" is not said in opposition to outward service and in favor of interior religion solely; but the psalmist calls upon himself to serve God with all his powers, both of inward thought and desire, the emotions and reason and will, and also of outward expression, in speech and deed. "By name" is meant, similarly, not merely outward worship as by the reverent use of God's name in prayer and song, but the name of God stands for all that God is to his children, his holy character and personality; in short, the Holy Trinity. David Livingstone was in sore straits and threatened with starvation when Stanley sent him men and supplies; the great missionary explorer in his diary inserted this same verse to embody his gratitude to God. Often we need to rouse ourselves to give thanks so prone are we to neglect praise and give ourselves to empty fears." c. 2.

"Forget Not All His Benefits," c. 2.
"Bless Jehovah, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits." So deeply in earnest is the psalmist that once more he stirs up his soul to praise the lord. Especially does he warn himself against forgetfulness of benefits received from God. How many times we have prayed God in great agony for some signal relief, as the recovery of a dear one from dire illness; and when our prayers were answered it has seemed that we never could forget that blessing, but all our life would be one hymn of thanksgiving. But, alas, we have soon forgotten the benefit, and life has slumped down into the pit of discontent and faithless worry. "Come, let us read our diaries, and see if there are not choice favors recorded there for which we have rendered no grateful return. The name of ingrate is one of the most shameful that a man can wear; surely we cannot be content to run the risk of such a brand."—C. H. Spurgeon.

The Sin of Ingratitude
"I have read somewhere a fairy story that tells how once a traveller was wandering through a wood, when he came upon a clump of the little blue flowers that we call forget-me-nots. He bent over them surprised and delighted at their beauty, but wondered more when the little flowers began to speak to him. They told him that if he plucked a handful of them, and carried them on through the forest, they would disclose to him untold treasure. He snatched some of the blossoms and went hurriedly on his way. Presently he came to a rocky defile, and there right in front of him opened a doorway that led him to a cave filled with all manner of gold and precious stones. When he saw the wonderful treasure that was within his reach he rushed eagerly forward and threw away the now despised and seemingly worthless flowers, but in a moment the doorway closed before his eyes and he had no spell wherewith to open it. Thus was he taught the sin of ingratitude and the shame of selfishness."—Prof. G. Currie Martin.

Why Be Grateful? vs. 3, 4, 5
"Who forgiveth all thine iniquities," Henry Drummond calls attention to the fact that in this and the following verse "David has given us in a nutshell the whole of the main facts of the sin." "Iniquities" points to the stain of sin; "diseases" indicates the power of sin. Thus also these two verses give us the three facts of salvation: forgiveness for our sins, healing from our diseases, and redemption from the power of sin. When the soul becomes sensible of its sins, its chief pressing need is for God's forgiveness is the very first and the chief of the benefits for which we are to bless Jehovah. "Who healeth all thy diseases." Bodily diseases, so far as is best for us, the Great Physician is sure to help; but spiritual sickness is the main disease, and that he is sure to cure, if we ask him.

"Who crowneth thee with lovingkindness and tender mercies." "Crown" is a metaphor drawn from the common custom of wearing wreaths and garlands on festive occasions (Eccles. 32:2). Compare Ps. 8:5." "Who satisfieth thy desire with good things." "God satisfieth the reasonable desires of his servants, giving them all things richly to enjoy" (1 Tim. 6:17), and "satisfying the desire of every living thing" (Ps. 145:16)."

"Jehovah is merciful." v. 8.
"Jehovah is merciful and gracious." This verse is a question from the wonderful divine name which the Lord gave to Moses, proclaiming: "Jehovah, Jehovah, a God merciful and gracious, slow to anger, and abundant in lovingkindness and truth" (Ex. 34:6). This verse in Exodus is "the text, so to say, of this psalm." Hebrew adjectives are intensive: "Very compassionate and very gracious." "Slow to anger, and abundant in lovingkindness." "Slow to anger" implies that God does not get angry. The wicked provoke him to righteous wrath, and in time our sins may rouse against us an anger which cannot be stayed; but that wrath is withheld as long as possible by our loving Father.

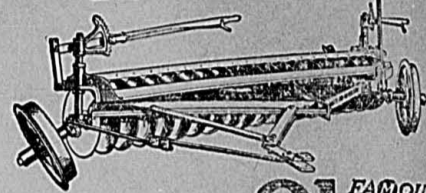

Our Sins Far Removed. v. 12
"As far as the east is from the west, so far hath he removed our transgressions from us." To the ancients, "east and west were the extreme points of known distance. It was in the temperate zone of the northern hemisphere that history began and civilization spread. Accordingly the stretch of ancient geography was wider between east and west than between north and south, and the ancient maps of the world were oblong. At the utmost limits, mountain pillars upheld the world, or the edge of its oval disc fell sheer into the water of the nether deep upon which it floated. One can realize the wonder and relief of such a man as this writer, as his conscience follows his imagination across the whole enormous breadth of the world. There, where the mountains of dawn or the sunset hardly break the skyline with their faint and shadowy ranges—there, over the edges of that flat earth where all things end there, and no nearer, are his sins.—Rev. John Kelman, D. D.

Who Made Wheat Farming Profitable?

It took a western farmer, Charlie Angell of Plains, Kansas, who knew conditions, to finally perfect the implement that would make western wheat farming profitable.
Now there are dozens of implements patterned after or resembling the genuine Angell "One Way" Disc Plow—the plow that grows bigger crops and cuts the cost of preparation by one-third.

We believe most farmers will prefer the original and genuine Angell "One Way" Disc with its proven record of success. Let us show you this successful plow.

ORDINANCE NO. 42

ORDINANCE PRESCRIBING RULES FOR THE DISTRIBUTION OF GAS AND RULES FOR GAS FITTINGS; AND DECLARING A VIOLATION OF ANY OF THE PROVISIONS OF SUCH ORDINANCE TO BE A MISDEMEANOR AND PROVIDING A PENALTY THEREFOR:

Section 1; (Rule 1). In piping new uses the gas company will decide here gas meter shall be located and the fitter shall erect a meter loop 18 inches square at the proposed location of meter.

Section 2; (Rule 2). Provisions must be made to place meter on a solid support where it can be conveniently read and protected from the weather. Meters shall not be located near sidewalks, or show windows, rear furnaces or ovens, locked in compartments, or placed in other positions where they will be inaccessible to adjust. Under no conditions shall plumbers, fitters or other parties disconnect any meter, connect to, or disturb piping or inlet side of meter after once set.

Section 3; (Rule 3). To accommodate different tenants the company will set as many meters as there are separate consumers in a given building connecting the meter to one service pipe, providing the service is large enough to provide an ample supply, and that the loops or pipes leading to the different tenants are extended to the proposed locations of the meters.

Section 4; (Rule 4). Risers must not be scattered but must be dropped together in alignment to the room where meters are set. They must be kept at least three inches apart and extended not less than twenty inches from the floor.

Section 5; (Rule 5). Elbows, street ells, and not tees, shall be used on all meter inlet connections. All connections or disconnections of meter for any purpose will be made by employees of the gas company only.

Section 6; (Rule 6). All gas pipes must be graded from meter to riser, free from traps or sags and properly supported with screws and gas pipe hook or hangers. When it is impossible to prevent a trapped gas pipe, a suitable drip shall be provided, consisting of a nipple and cap located in an accessible place.

Section 7; (Rule 7). In no case shall valves or unions be placed between ceiling and floor or in an inaccessible place so that the stuffing box of the valves cannot be replaced. All unions shall be of an approved ground type.

Section 8; (Rule 8). Where globe valves are used on fire connections, the stems must be packed with asbestos packing. Soft seat valves must not be used.

Section 9; (Rule 9). In running a line through a flue great care must be taken to see that pipe and fittings are free from defect.

Section 10; (Rule 10). Lead pipes must not be used under any circumstances.

Section 11; (Rule 11). Use as few elbows as possible. Elbows not absolutely necessary will be condemned. When impossible to get through an obstruction such as a beam, offset the pipe rather than use an elbow.

Section 12; (Rule 12). Air mixer must not be placed in airtight ash boxes, but where a free flow of air can reach them at all times. Use adjustable mixers.

Section 13; (Rule 13). The burr left on inside of gas pipe, must in every case be reamed out.

Section 14; (Rule 14). All outlets or risers where fixtures are not placed must be securely capped.

Section 15; (Rule 15). All drops and openings for lights must project at least one inch beyond plaster of walls or ceiling, and must be securely fastened to joists or studs or to notched or cross pieces fastened to joists, or upright studding.

Section 16; (Rule 16). Unions and reducers, not bushings, shall be used except to connect stoves or fires.

Section 17; (Rule 17). All gas pipes must be tested with air pressure on a mercury or spring gauge showing ten pounds by the City Plumbing Inspector or Gas Inspector, or other duly authorized representative of the City. This pressure shall be maintained for 15 minutes without falling. Gas will be turned on by an authorized agent of the company only, after such test has been properly made and report of same filed with the gas company. If meter stop is closed, do not open under any circumstances. Application must be made to the Company for gas to be turned on.

Section 18; (Rule 18). Where pipe runs through a stone or brick wall, opening around the pipe must be cemented.

Section 19; (Rule 19). Place a damper in all stove pipes or chimney throats. The table following shall govern the sizes of pipe to be used for fuel and illuminating purposes:

No. Fires	Maximum length in feet	Size in In.
1	30	3/4"
1	100	1"
1	300	1 1/4"

Section 22; (Rule 22). Property owners or contractors shall pay to the Inspector a Fee of One ($1.00) Dollar for inspection of connections of not more than five (5) openings, and Ten (10c) Cents for each additional opening. Fee to be paid to inspector when inspection is made.

Section 23; Before engaging in the business of gasfitting every person, firm or corporation shall give to the City of Spearman a bond in the sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) to be approved by the Mayor and the City Council, conditioned that such party will faithfully comply with the terms and provisions of this ordinance and all the rules and regulations made in pursuance thereof, and will indemnify and hold said City harmless against all cost, expenses, damages and injuries sustained by said City by reason of carelessness or neglect of said gasfitter in operating under this ordinance and the rules and regulations made in pursuance thereof; such bond shall be executed to cover a period of one year and shall remain in full force

for summer fallowing
ROCK ISLAND

SANDERS CYLINDER DISC PLOW

Land may lie fallow for eighteen months, it may be grown solid with quack grass, sunflowers and weeds, and yet a Rock Island "Sanders" Cylinder Disc Plow will put it in shape for seed.

These "Sanders" Cylinder Disc Plows are changing tillage methods, reducing plants cost and raising profits in the wheat belt.

The special curvature of the disc blades—the Sanders cup shape—and the vertical set of the disc, which revolve together, reduce friction and move the soil in the same direction but about one-third as far as the regular disc plow. The discs cut off the vegetation the complete width of the ground. Sizes to cut from 6 to 12 feet wide, 2 to 6 inches deep, creating the seed bed that holds moisture. You'll notice the difference between the work of a Sanders and others.

The construction of Rock Island "Sanders" Cylinder Disc Plows is rugged. They not only do hard work, but stand up under it. Notice the frame—it looks like a railway rail—its strong, but simple.

Come in and look over this plow that is working 25 to 40 acres per day for your Neighbors.

Borger Will Visit Spearman On First Goodwill Trip

Borger, Texas, June 20.—Borger business and professional men, between 75 and 100 strong, will visit Spearman on Saturday, June 22 on the first annual goodwill and trade trip sponsored by the Borger chamber of commerce.

The party will leave Borger at 8 o'clock Friday morning on a 400 mile journey into the North Panhandle plains of Texas and the Oklahoma Panhandle and will return Saturday afternoon. Ten towns in the two states are to be visited.

Saturday Spearman will be visited between 12 noon and 1:30 p. m. The party will arrive at the first mentioned hour, with Mayor Glenn A. Dix Color Film New Screen Epic

A love theme as tender as the story of Romeo and Juliet, enacted against the majestic background of the little-known American Southwest with all the brilliant coloring and beauty of the country revealed on the screen, coming to the Lyric theatre. It is Richard Dix's new epic of the American Indian, "Redskin," Monday and Tuesday, June 24 and 25.

"Redskin" is the drama of a race of people clinging to old traditions yet seeking to adapt themselves to the new. It is the struggle of youth against the caution of age; of youth seeking release from the chains of tribal customs. It is the romance of a boy and a girl of rival tribes, separated by generations of ill-feeling between their ancestors, who learn to love and rise above the restrictions of their environment.

Richard Dix plays the leading role, with beautiful Gladys Belmont, a new-comer to the leading parts, opposite him. Dix has a dramatic role and the picture is a perfect vehicle for him. Hundreds of Indians appear in the picture and some of them play small parts. The cast contains many well known names such as that of Tully Marshall.

The color effect are marvelously real and beautiful. The scenic backgrounds are inspiring and the gripping drama is well conceived and particularly well acted. It is a new epic of the American screen.
