MHS Baseball Games Becoming A Reality

Baseball practice gets underway for the Muleshoe High School varsity baseball team on Monday, January 30.

But, before the practice begins at the old Babe Ruth Baseball Park, renovations are underway.

Not only will practice be at the Babe Ruth Park, all home games will be played at the park on South Main Street.

Coach Jeff Anderson, who moved to Muleshoe just over six months ago to become the baseball coach in the all-new MHS program, says several things are still needed.

Coach Anderson said a scoreboard is desperately needed. Paint (and persons to apply the paint) are needed badly, as are rakes and hoes.

The coach said city employees have already moved the fence back, and are hauling dirt for the outfield at this time. Dirt for the infield will be hauled in shortly.

"We need volunteers," said the coach, "to help us get ready in many ways. We also will need an announcer, or announcers for the games. There will be 10 home games from the 23-game schedule this year."

Coach Anderson said he is cautiously optimistic about the first year for MHS to have a baseball program. He said he hopes the apparent enthusiasm by prospective players and the town will continue.

At this time, 48 high schoolers have signed up to play baseball, but the coach said a few have already dropped out. He expects 30-35 to show up for practice on January 30. Nineteen players will end up on the roster for the baseball season. The first game will be played February 29, in Brownfield.

Coach Anderson was pleased that 26 freshmen had signed up. Only five seniors signed up, but if all seniors make the final roster, the team will only lose five players at the end of the season.

"I am encouraging the kids to sign up," added the coach. "It can't hurt to try out. I haven't seen anyone throw a ball or hit a ball yet. If they don't make it this year, they can still try again next year."

Postmaster Warns 'Fix Mail Boxes'

"Customers with curbside mailboxes have a special challenge when it comes to keeping them in top condition," says Muleshoe Postmaster Abel Arguello.

"The curbside boxes are subject to the weather as well as hazardous drivers, high weeds, parked cars and pranksters. Even so, most customers manage to keep their mailboxes in good shape for proper delivery of their mail.

"The responsibility for these boxes rests with the customer," says Arguello. "The curbside mailbox must be accessible to the carrier without requiring the carrier to leave his or her vehicle.

"There should be no obstructions, such as vehicles, trashcans, weeds or snow. The bottom of the box should be 3 1/2 to 4 feet above ground level, and the address should be clearly printed on the receptacle, facing the carrier, to assure more efficient delivery," says the postmaster.

"An old dented box with sharp cutting edges, or a box that is too small should also be replaced, or mail delivery may be withheld.

"If you have any questions regarding the placement or upkeep of your mailbox, please call the post office," says Arguello, "and thank you for your continued cooperation here in the Muleshoe delivery area."

Water Contamination Meet Set At Lubbock

Local government representatives are invited to attend a seminar discussing potential groundwater contamination caused by leaking underground storage tanks on Thursday, January 26, from 1 p.m. to 4:15 p.m. at the South Plains Association of Governments office, 1323 58th Street, in Lubbock.

Underground storage tanks, usually located at existing or former service station and convenience store sites, pose an important issue for many cities and towns that depend entirely on groundwater for their potable water supplies.

According to the Environmental Protection Agency, approximately 84 percent of the nation's underground storage containers are constructed of bare steel, which can easily corrode and cause chemical leakage into underground water supplies.

In December, the Texas Water Commission ordered the City of Hereford to remove a five-year-old underground storage tank because of possible gasoline seepage into a nearby water well. Potential problems associated with groundwater contamination from leaking underground storage tanks has been reported in Quanah, Seagraves and Anson.

Representatives from the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, the Texas Tech Water Resources Center and the Texas Water Commission will discuss regional groundwater quality and highlight the potential danger to potable water supplies caused by leaking storage tanks.

Procedures for detecting storage tank leaks and sources for help, should towns and/or cities encounter a contamination problem, will also be discussed.

Registration for the half-day seminar is $15 at the door, or $10 if persons pre-register by January 20.

Texas A&M futurist says by 2006 education will change radically

COLLEGE STATION — By the year 2006, high schools, colleges, and universities will be combined into a continuous educational process, according to futurist Dr. John Hoyle of Texas A&M University.

"It will no longer be feasible to maintain two separate institutions for public and higher education," Hoyle said.

The 21st-century administrator will deal with a changed student population of fewer students and higher numbers of minorities, Hoyle said. One in every three students will be a minority by 2006, he added.

Costs to attend a college or university will escalate, Hoyle also said.

"The older part-time student is a permanent fixture," he predicted.

The 21st-century administrator must have a vision for his or her institution, Hoyle said. The educational leader in 2006 should possess three types of skills — human, technical and conceptual — to free the potential of the faculty and students, he said.

Texas A&M medical graduates choose rural areas for practices

COLLEGE STATION — Increasingly, graduates of Texas A&M University's medical school are settling in places where there haven't been enough doctors before.

This follows a trend being tracked by the Texas Department of Health in which more doctors are finding that life in the big city isn't what it used to be — and patients in some of the wide open spaces are benefitting.

About 17 percent of the College of Medicine's 1981 graduates — the school's charter class — set up practices in counties designated by the state as "shortage areas." Shortage areas are locales where the ratio of doctors to residents is below a particular threshold.

According to a continuing survey by Texas A&M's College of Medicine, its recent graduates reflect a current trend among physicians toward practicing medicine in more rural, less urban areas of Texas and away from setting up new practices in large cities.

Many of the Texas A&M graduates enter primary care specialties such as family practice, internal medicine, obstetrics and gynecology, and pediatrics.

Another Tax Tip

MUST FILE A TAX RETURN?

Whether you must file a tax return generally depends on whether your gross income exceeds the income filing requirement amount for your marital status and age.

You may also be required, or want, to file a return if:

- you qualify for an Earned Income Credit.
- you have a refund due you. You're required to file to obtain your refund.
- you owe additional taxes.

Bear in mind that even though a federal return is not required, you may be required to file a state or local return.

Do you have questions about how the tax laws affect your return? Call your local H&R Block office. Better yet, stop by the one nearest you. They're ready to help you!

Creative Living

by Sheryl Borden

Information on cajun cooking, selecting an encyclopedia, and making a Mexican taco buffet will be featured on "Creative Living" on Tuesday, January 24 at 12 noon and repeated on Saturday, January 28 at 2 p.m. on KENW-TV. (All times are Mountain.)

Anne O'Malley, from World Book Encyclopedia, will share some guidelines for selecting an encyclopedia. She will be presenting eight key points which will prove to be very informative—especially if you're in the market for making this type of purchase for your family. Anne is from Chicago, IL.

Jane Butel is with Pecos Valley Spice Co. Jane lives in New York, but presents cooking schools in Santa Fe, N.M. each year on Tex-Mex cookery. Jane will review the history revolution of the taco and demonstrate how to fry tortillas three different ways. Jane will also demonstrate flavorful, authentic New Mexican beef taco filling, among several other fillings she's made.

The flashback segment will feature Christy Waters, the Marketing Home Economist with Southwestern Public Service Co. in Lubbock, TX. Christy will show three different table settings to make your table reflect the atmosphere of cajun cooking. These table settings ranged from very casual—using colored comic strips to cover the table, to a very formal setting—complete with silver and china.

On Tuesday, January 24 at 9:30 p.m. and on Thursday, January 26 at 12 noon, "Creative Living" will feature segments on deli meats for sandwiches, convenience foods, and batch cooking.

Sherleen Clausen, with Swift-Eckrich, Inc. in Oak Brook, IL, will share several recipes for lunch or dinner entrees using meat from the deli. The beauty of deli meats is that they can be sliced as thick as you want; they can be cured or even cut into strips, which are great on salads, in soups, or for other entrees.

Mari Lou Callahan, home economist with Hershey Foods Corp. in Hershey, PA, will demonstrate three different foods that all come from ingredients that are either in the pantry or in the refrigerator. Mari Lou will demonstrate how convenience foods can make meal preparation much more fun and really cut down on the time involved.

The flashback segment will feature Lauren Ryan, public relations manager with Dow

Consumer Products in Indianapolis, IN. Busy schedules usually hamper good eating habits, but now everyone—working couples, single parents, kids and older adults—can manage to eat properly by pre-planning, batch cooking and storing some meals in zip-to storage bags. Lauren will show how to become a "Sunday afternoon cook" and will demonstrate how to use microwaveable storage bags that can go directly from the freezer to the microwave.

"Creative Living" is produced and hosted by Sheryl Borden. The show is carried on more than 100 PBS stations in the United States, Canada, Guam and Puerto Rico and is distributed by Pacific Mountain Network, Denver, CO. Viewers can request copies of printed materials offered on the show by calling on KENW-TV's toll-free telephone lines between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. In New Mexico, the number is 1-800-432-2361, out-of-state: 1-800-545-2359 and Portales and Roosevelt County: 562-2112.

HOMESTEAD EXEMPTIONS

CAN LOWER THE PROPERTY TAXES ON YOUR HOME

A homestead Exemption lowers the property taxes on your home by lowering its taxable value. For example, if your home is valued at $50,000 and you receive a $5,000 homestead exemption, your home will be taxed as if it were worth only $45,000.

You qualify for a homestead exemption if you owned your home on January 1 and used it as your primary residence on January 1. It doesn't matter whether your home is a house, a condominium or a mobile home.

Exemptions are available to all homeowners on their school taxes. Additional exemptions are available to homeowners who are disabled or age 65 or over. Other exemptions may be offered to homeowners by school districts, counties, cities, and special districts. All taxing units offer exemptions to disabled veterans.

Apply to your local appraisal district office at the address shown

Bailey County Appraisal District

104 E. Ave C 272-5501

below for all exemptions you may qualify for. Application forms are available at this office. If you received a homestead exemption on your present home in 1988, you won't need to apply again for 1989 unless the chief appraiser requires you to reapply.

However, if you passed your 65th birthday or became disabled before January 1, file a new application to receive the additional exemptions. If you haven't received an exemption on your present home, or if you've moved to a new home, make a new application for 1989.

The deadline for applications is April 30, 1989. Contact your appraisal district before then if you need more time. For more information, get a free copy of the pamphlet, Taxpayers' Rights, Remedies, Responsibilities, at your appraisal district office or from the State Property Tax Board in Austin.

Importance Of Establishing An Emergency Fund

Could you pay your monthly bills if you were out of work and had no source of income for a month? Could you pay for an unexpected medical bill? Many Americans could not. If you are among this group, you should begin to understand the importance of establishing an emergency fund.

This is the third in a series of four articles dealing with financial planning and management.

The establishment of an emergency fund is part of savings. It should be the first agenda in your savings plan. The emergency fund is a sum of money set aside and available in liquid form for those unexpected expenses that could not be planned for.

Over time, you will want to create a special savings account just for emergencies. Many suggestions have been made about how much should be kept in an interest-bearing emergency fund account. Financial advisors generally recommend that the "emergency fund" be at least three times your monthly take home pay. Other financial advisors say the figure should provide income for six months or even a year.

You are the only one who can decide the amount needed in an "emergency fund." Consider how stable your income is and how fast you could cash in other investments if necessary.

Emergency funds should be available to you within a few days' notice, so keep those funds in a liquid account, such as a money market deposit account or passbook account. Your home is an example of a nonliquid investment since it may take weeks, months or even years to sell.

The next and final article in this series on financial planning and management will address the importance of keeping accurate records.

If you have any questions or would like additional information, contact your County Extension Home Economist.

Cornbread Goes Back Earlier Than Pilgrims

To trace the history of cornbread one would have to go back many centuries to the years before the Pilgrims ever set foot on our soil.

According to many food writers, cornbread as we know it today evolved from a simple bread made from ground corn by the native Indians. Ash cakes, as they were called, were pones of corn meal and water tossed into a fire to bake in the hot ashes. When done, the pone was removed from the fire, dusted off and eaten.

As centuries progressed, better cooking methods became available. The Indian ash cake was eventually replaced with the hoecake, which supposedly got its name from the cooking utensil used to prepare the cornbread. Some stories report that a stiff corn pone was placed on a flat hoe and held over a fire to bake. Preparing a batch of hoecakes for a family must have taken a long time, a lot of patience and a strong arm.

As wood-burning stoves became available, stove top or fried cornbreads evolved. These cornbreads were simple and hearty—heartily enough to go to school in lunch pails as mid-morning snacks.

To many Southerners, the best cornbreads are made from the simplest of ingredients and are cooked on top of the stove. These cornbreads include Sweet Milk Corncakes, Lacy Cornbread and Better Bite Hoecakes.

Sweet Milk Corn Cakes are corn pancakes made from corn meal, oil, egg, milk and a little sugar, if desired. These corn cakes are the perfect resting place for a spoonful of barbecue.

Lacy Cornbread is another simple favorite, made from a thin, watery batter of corn meal and water. About 1/8 cup of batter is poured onto a heated, greased nonstick skillet or griddle, browned on one side, then the other. The edges of the corn cake should be lacy and crisp. These are very thin and delicate when prepared properly.

Butter Bite Hoecakes are moist little rounds of scalded corn meal and boiling water, fried until crisp golden brown on both sides and served hot with butter. These are a traditional accompaniment to turnip greens, white beans, beef stew or soup.

Serve Butter Bite Hoecakes alongside Creamy Cheese Soup for a lunch or light supper that's sure to please. Creamy Cheese Soup is a quick version of the traditional time-consuming cheese soup where a white sauce is made. This version is prepared from instant potato flakes. A complete dinner can be ready in about half an hour. That's good news for busy families who still want good home cooking.

BUTTER BITE HOECAKES

1 cup Martha White Self-Rising Corn Meal Mix
1 1/2 cups boiling water
Combine corn meal and boiling water in bowl; stir to blend. In large skillet, heat 1/4 inch shortening over medium low heat until a drop of water sizzles when dropped in skillet. Spoon batter by tablespoonfuls into hot skillet. Fry until golden brown; turn and fry on other side until golden brown. Serve hot with butter. Makes about 10 hoecakes.

CREAMY CHEESE SOUP

2 1/2 cups milk
1 package (2 ounces) Martha White SpudFlakes
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon instant minced onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon seasoned salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper

1 cup (4 ounces) grated sharp Cheddar cheese

Cooked, crumbled bacon, if desired

Heat milk in medium saucepan; do not boil. Add Spud Flakes Flakes, butter, onion, salt, seasoned salt and pepper; simmer 10 minutes on low heat stirring occasionally. Stir in cheese until melted. Garnish with bacon, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

4-H Program Aimed At Developing Youth

A youth program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, 4-H is aimed at developing youth through the involvement of parents and other adults who organize and conduct learning experiences in a community setting.

The United States has about 60 million young people between the ages of five and 24, but only one out of three of these now belong to or have belonged to any character-building organization, said Kandy K. McWhorter, county 4-H program leader with the Extension Service.

4-H is an activity which parents and children can share, and this is what makes 4-H so special, said McWhorter. 4-H is one of only a few organizations which promote the parent-child relationship.

Other advantages can be gained from becoming a 4-H member. 4-H provides an opportunity for leadership developed by working with and helping younger members on various projects while learning from older members. Also, 4-H presents an opportunity to serve others in the community. 4-H has a strong commitment to service, which should be emphasized when children are young, McWhorter said.

To learn more about joining the 4-H family, contact the county Extension office.

Hat's Off! Our Teachers Are What Our Kids Will Be!!

Coach Jeff Anderson; wife, Kim and daughter Samantha

Jeff Anderson, who arrived in Muleshoe just over six months ago to take over a 'brand new' program for the Muleshoe Schools -- Varsity Baseball -- grinned when asked what does the program need to get off to a good start.

"We have some very good equipment," he said, "but our players will have to provide their own glove and practice clothing." We will provide the full game uniform, including shoes, but not practice shoes.

Coach Anderson, a native of Idaho, attended the University of Nebraska at Lincoln on a four-year athletic scholarship. He started out majoring in architecture, but ended up playing professional baseball for the Chicago White Sox. After two and a half years pitching, an arm injury that required elbow surgery and then a shoulder injury, he decided it was time to look at another career field. During his off time playing professional baseball, he was attending Lubbock Christian College, and was an assistant coach at LCC.

It was at LCC he met his future wife, Kim. She is an American native of Bangkok, Thailand. She lived in Thailand with her parents, who are missionaries. After completing high school in Thailand, Kim came to Lubbock to attend LCC, where she received a general degree in home economics. She spent her internship in marketing with SPS.

Their daughter, Samantha, was born July 18, 1988, one day before Coach Jeff Anderson reported for work as baseball coach at Muleshoe High School.

So, get ready to watch an exciting spring baseball program -- and volunteer to help Coach Jeff Anderson and his varsity players in any way you can to get the baseball project off to a good start.

Aren't you excited about the upcoming baseball season? Let's all help MHS baseball get off to a very good start by helping and attending all games possible!!

Eleven Kiwanians and two guest met Friday morning at the Old Corral. Guest were Jon Keith Turner, son of Keith Turner, and Chad Johnson, son of Reggie Johnson.

Since our sweetheart, Justine Hanes, has missed two weeks in a row, we are going to put out an APB (all points bulletin). We are going to get the City Police, Sheriff's Dept. and Hi Way Patrol to be on the lookout for Justine. If any of you guys see Justine, please bring her in for questioning. We want to know where she has been. Justine we miss you!

President, Keith Turner called the meeting to order. Merlyn Neil led the club in the pledge and the invocation was given by R.A. Bradley. Reggie Johnson said he had found a friend in his son, Chad, and gave the friendship coin to Don Martin to see if Don could find a friend.

The Kiwanis Club voted to give $50.00 to help on the new sound system at the Civic Center.

J. O. Parker brought the program. He has just returned from A&M where he was helping set up for a fire school in last part of February. We are very proud to have people from our Fire Department who are capable of being instructors at the fire schools in Texas. We are proud of our Voluntary Fire Department in their dedication and hours of study and practice to help keep this community safer. The Kiwanis Club is very proud of all of the volunteers in Muleshoe. We would be hurting without them. Thanks.

Roberts, Ricky Flores and David Quintana had two points each.

He added, "If we don't win a game for the first ten games, I don't care as long as the boys are learning."

When asked his philosophy in teaching, coaching and handling teenagers, Coach Anderson said, "I believe in being firm. I really don't feel that if you give them everything, they will ever learn what life is all about."

"I believe you have to be kind, but firm. If they're going to get something from me, they're going to have to work for it. They have to want to be out there for themselves. If they are not willing to work for themselves, I don't want them out there on the field."

STATE CAPITAL

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Texans heard a double-barrel blast of pleasing noise last week when crude oil pierced the $18 price range and lawmakers convened saying, "no new taxes."

The Big Four leadership—Gov. Bill Clements, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Speaker Gib Lewis and Comptroller Bob Bullock—all agreed new taxes were off the menu.

Lawmakers accepted it, since no faction between Austin and the White House can outmuscle that quartet, at least not on state capitol turf.

This unity against taxes is new and wasn't forged until just before the session began.

Credit Bullock with quietly drawing the line with his sword. And politics played a part. In December, Speaker Lewis hinted no new taxes, but hedged on a firm stand. After all, he still faced an opening-day vote on his fourth term, and there are many House members who will raise taxes in a heartbeat.

Statements by some of the speaker's lieutenants rode the grapevine all the way to the governor's office.

Spectre of Collision

Clements, the tax hater, vowed to veto any new taxes, period, and the spectre of a collision again raised its ugly head.

The veto threat made some budget shapers nervous, since lawmakers must trim $1 billion this session.

Hobby, the top budget architect, went so far as to call Clements' veto threat "irresponsible." Like any smart businessman, the lieutenant governor doesn't give away options.

This spectre lingered for a couple of days until Bullock emerged with a way $1 billion could be had by shifting funds on a one-time-only basis.

Breath of Fresh Air

Bullock also advised that no new taxes would be a breath of fresh air to the Texas economy and help spur diversification.

Bullock's budget advice is always respected, and besides, it made the Big Four score two to two on taxes, if anyone cared to count.

Bullock is running for higher office. Bullock is smart. He just helped a lot of Democrats get re-elected in 1990.

Tax Issue Closed

While the comptroller was helping solve the tax issue, Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said he wouldn't run against Sen. Phil Gramm next year, and Democrats, looking for a new challenger, thought of Bill Hobby.

Two years ago, Hobby declared himself out in 1990, but who else could take on Gramm? A new tax bill surely would remove that option.

Bullock has apparently found the $1 billion for lawmakers to spend. The tax issue, barring a catastrophe, is closed for now.

Rapid Growth Rate

The Texas Department of Commerce predicts the state's population growth rate will be more than double the nation's rate through 2025, with a projected population that year of 29.6 million.

The predicted Texas rate is 1.5 percent per year, compared to 0.6 percent per year for the nation.

Rapid growth here will be in minority population, especially Hispanics, according to the TDC spokesman, who said by 2025 one in two Texans will be from a minority group.

The southern tip of Texas, Cameron and Hidalgo counties, is expected to join the top ten most populous counties.

In an unrelated study, Southern Methodist University analysts predicted economic growth will be strongest in the Rio Grande Valley and Gulf Coast areas.

Slow growth will continue for Dallas-Fort Worth, Austin and San Antonio, while West Texas and Panhandle growth is uncertain.

Short Takes

• Speaking of collision courses, in the wake of Hightower's pull-out, the gubernatorial campaign camps of Atty. Gen. Jim Mattox and Treasurer Ann Richards think a great idea is for the other to run against Gramm.

• Mattox said he supports giving juries an alternative to the death sentence, such as a life sentence without parole.

• As the 15 members of the new elected State Board of Education took office last week, state leaders urged them not to unravel recent education reforms.

• Gov. Clements designated legislation to pay for new prisons through bonds as an "emergency" measure, with the goal of having voters approve issuing bonds as early as May.

• State Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas, was named president pro tem of the Senate. He is third in succession if the governor and lieutenant governor should die in office.

• William Kilgarlin, loser by three-tenths of a percent in the Supreme Court race, will practice law with an Austin firm.

• The U.S. Supreme Court accepted a lower court's decision to not require cabooses on trains in Texas. The decision preempts a Railroad Commission regulation.

PEST MANAGEMENT UPDATE

Parmer-Bailey Counties

MIKE D. BLANTON

Extension Agent-Entomology

Thus far, this has been another fairly mild winter. We have had high populations of greenbugs in much of our wheat since late October. Also, when the wheat was still young, we had heavy dew during the morning hours. This caused wheat leaf rust in many of the fields with thicker stands. These two stresses, along with the lack of moisture have caused much concern among producers on the outlook of their 1989 wheat crop.

The Russian wheat aphid (RWA) is also easy to find in most fields at this time. With the lack of cold weather, it is important to begin scouting wheat early this spring, possibly as early as late February. Symptoms caused by RWA feeding during cool weather are purple and white streaks on tillers. After a short period of time, these leaves roll up like a straw, sheltering the aphids inside. Heavy infestations of this pest in the early spring can severely inhibit plant growth if left untreated.

During the past year, the economic threshold (ET) has been based on South African research. This ET took into account only the growth stage and percent infested tillers. Dr. Tom Archer, Research Entomologist at the Experiment Station in Lubbock, just finished a study which establishes the treatment level (percent infested tillers) for RWA based upon the cost of control and the market value of the crop.

Example: If you have a market value of $150/acre and a control cost $8.00/acre, then the economic threshold would be 11 percent of the tillers infested with RWA. This means that the control cost will be less than the loss in wheat yield and value, thus justifying treatment.

On December 12, the Texas Department of Agriculture declared a Section 18 crisis exemption to allow the use of Lorsban 4E on wheat for control of Russian wheat aphid. Use restrictions are as follows:

- 1) May be applied only by certified applicators or persons under their direct supervision.
- 2) May be applied by aerial, ground or sprinker irrigation equipment. The latter must be fitted with properly functioning check and vacuum relief valves (anti-siphon devices).
- 3) Applications can be made at a maximum rate of 0.5 lbs. ai/ac. do not make more than two applications per season.
- 4) Do not apply product where run-off is likely to occur to aquatic habitats.
- 5) Do not apply when weather conditions favor drift.
- 6) Do not allow livestock to graze or otherwise feed wheat forage to livestock for at least 14 days following an application of Lorsban 4E.
- 7) Do not harvest wheat for grain within 28 days following application of Lorsban 4E.
- 8) Do not feed wheat straw to livestock for at least 28 days following an application of Lorsban 4E.
- 9) Federal regulations require that crisis exemptions expire 15 days from the date of initiation. However, the TDA submitted to EPA an application for a specific exemption to authorize the use of Lorsban 4E in winter wheat for RWA. TDA anticipates an affirmative decision from EPA prior to expiration of this crisis.

CORN BORER CONTROL TIME...ALREADY?

As most corn producers know, southwestern corn borer (SWCB) larvae overwinter in the corn stalk base or root crown, insulated by a frost plug in the stalk, and by the surrounding soil. One of the most effective borer control methods is a destruction of this winter habitat to reduce spring moth emergence.

A single plowing or shredding will expose larvae to cold and dry winter conditions while leaving sufficient residue to prevent soil erosion. Shredding might work better for many producers in this area since it does not bury plant materials.

This is particularly compatible with grazing and minimum tillage operations.

Be sure and set the shredder to cut directly at the soil surface to remove the protective covering the borer made for itself. Most larvae are destroyed when the cultivation or shredding is performed before mid-January.

Timely stubble destruction will reduce local infestations of first generation larvae. However, every producer must cooperate by destroying stubble to effectively reduce SWCB populations area-wide.

CHEMIGATION WORKSHOP SCHEDULED

The 1989 Parmer-Bailey Chemigation Workshop is scheduled for Thursday, January 26, beginning with registration at 9 a.m. in the Farwell Community Center. The program should be very informative for those producers who have chemigation units and those interested in this method of applying chemicals.

If you plan to attend this workshop, please contact my office at 481-3300 or the Bailey County Extension Office 272-4583, by January 24. This way, we will have an approximate number to give the caterers for the noon meal.

A healthy substitute is necessary to eliminate a bad habit

COLLEGE STATION — Eliminating a bad habit such as smoking or overeating leaves an emotional vacuum and a healthy substitute must be found — even after the psychological need behind a bad habit has been discovered, says a Texas A&M University psychologist.

Habits are simply "over-learned" responses to certain situations that over time have sunk below the conscious level of thought and have become almost automatic, explained Dr. Jack Bodden, a clinical psychologist with Texas A&M's medical school. But the ability to break a bad habit has nothing to do with an individual's character, so much as an understanding of one's self, says Bodden.

Bodden provides general guidelines to help people come up with a successful strategy for changing their bad habits:

- Set positive goals.
  - Be honest. Do you really want to change the habit? If you do, are the reasons enough to make you persevere?
  - At first set goals that can easily be attained. "Early success is critical, failure at an early stage almost always dooms any endeavor," explains Bodden.
  - Make changes when life is relatively stress-free.
  - Call on family and friends as a base of support. Tell them to notice when you do something good.
- The key to breaking a bad habit is discovering the original hidden motivation that triggered it, said Bodden. Unconsciously, the habit is still satisfying some need in the individual, even though consciously he or she may find the habit very upsetting, he explained.

Lack of funding prevents recovery of the second space capsule.

Continuous movement makes a big difference in T-L performance.

Does each tower on your pivot system move continuously? They do on a T-L. And, that's important, especially with the concentrated water patterns of low-pressure systems for irrigation-applied fertilizer, herbicides and pesticides.

With a T-L system, a constant flow of hydraulic power keeps each tower moving continuously in unison with others. Water application is more uniform and efficient. The drive system lasts longer without the stress of frequent stops and starts. In addition, the steady pull of a T-L gives better traction through wet spots and over rough terrain.

NEW LIFE

Nothing is more interesting than young new life. It represents all that is fresh and innocent, but more, it represents the unlimited potential of the future. How much many of us would give to have some of the vivacity and energy of the young and more yet, to have our future before us.

We can't have yesterday over again, but we can have a new life. We can be born again from above, fresh and new. God wills to give everyone this new life, abundant life, free of fear and anxiety. Go to Church this week and hear of the God who gives new lives for old.

Is something wrong with your life—an inner, restless dissatisfaction? The answer to every human problem comes only from God our Maker. He alone can forgive and resurrect.
Through the church God has committed the provision and proclamation of His forgiveness and redemption. Without a church relationship no one is securely related to God.
Everyone should be in the Church and the Church is everyone!

In Fashion

Many shops offer sizable bargains for fall and winter clothes at this time of year to make space for new spring wear.

The cardinal warning is that no savings are made by random buying at these sales just because the price is reasonable, or without a plan.

The first consideration is, will the item be in style in the coming season. Fad fashions come and go quickly. Only quality merchandise should be considered.

Children's winter clothes are a good buy provided they are large enough to accommodate the growing child.
