GOING AFTER RIBBONS

John Hoff was in from north Hutchinson county the first of the week, and while here made a few inquiries about the coming Fair. Mr. Hoff says he intends to win the prizes offered for the best Indian corn, milo maize and Kaffir, shown at the Fair. We know of several good farmers who intend to compete for these honors, and Mr. Hoff will have to step right along if he carries off these ribbons. But they have been having worlds of rain in north Hutch. this year, and their soil is as fine as can be found. Hansford county farmers will have to do their best or the prizes will go across the line. Judge Townsend has charge of these departments and he knows how to bring out the best.

Victor Ogle and Miss Gertrude Tomlinson, two popular young people of the Kimball community, were married at Guymon on August 24. The happy young couple will make their home in the Kimball community.

Work of Construction Begun on Spearman's New School

Bone Construction Company Have Begun the Erection of Spearman's New $75,000.00 School Building—1923-24 Term Opens September 17—All Teachers Employed

Spearman is to have that new school building. Every day brings new evidences of that fact. The Bone Construction Company of Amarillo, have a crew of men, under Foreman Coffee, here on the job and they are going about the work making a beginning in a business like way. Monday morning was the day set for the beginning of construction, but the Board of trustees of the Spearman Independent School District were that morning presented with two petitions, which were acted on before any work was done. One petition asked the board to not construct the building so that it would face the northwest, but to set it straight with the world. The other petition asked the board to negotiate for lots near the Glover residence, in the south part of town, and to have the new building constructed thereon. The board acted favorably on the last petition which killed the other one. The board secured about eight acres of land at the new location, which they believe will be better for the school, in that it will give plenty of room for playgrounds and be away from the danger of passing automobiles. Excavating for the basement was the first work on the job and this will be completed by Saturday night. Mr. Coffee, foreman of construction, has a crew of men ready to go and the work will be rushed as speedily as is consistent with superior workmanship.

Superintendent Wilcox informs us that everything is being whipped into shape for the beginning of school on Monday, September 17. The teachers have all been employed and have been notified to appear next week. Following is the faculty of

Spearman school for the 1923-24 term:

A. H. Wilcox, Superintendent, Vocational Agriculture.

O. L. Savage, Principal, History and Athletics.

Miss Ethel Deakin, Mathematics.

Miss Alma Siler, English.

Miss Dells Landers, Sixth and Seventh Grades.

Miss Anna Whittenberg, Fourth and Fifth Grades.

Miss Almira McComas, Third and Fourth Grades.

Miss Erma Bentley, Second and Third Grades.

Miss Ethel Crawhorn, Primary.

Miss Voda Baldwin is teacher of the Hansford school and Miss Apperson will teach the Micou school.

Students wishing to register or discuss the work for the coming year will find the Superintendent at the school building next week, any day. Prof. Wilcox informs us that he is particularly anxious to meet those boys who are expecting to take Vocational Agriculture, and he is also anxious to meet all the boys who are interested in athletics. He wants the latter to meet him at the school building on next Monday afternoon. It is intended to organize a good football team at the beginning of the term. There is no reason why Spearman Hi should not have a winning football team this year. The material is here and with the proper coaching they can be organized into a mighty good team. Prof. Savage, the athletic coach will be here Monday afternoon, to take charge of the football boys.

Hurrah for Spearman Hi—the best school north of the Canadian river in Texas, and as good as any south of the river.

Taking a Great Interest in the Needlecraft and Culinary Departments of the Coming Fair.

Mrs. J. H. Buchanan, superintendent of the culinary and needlecraft departments of the Hansford County Fair, was in the city Thursday, and reports that interest in these important departments is waxing warm and she expects some strong competition and splendid exhibits at the Fair. Mrs. Buchanan requests the Reporter to announce that articles for exhibition in these departments will be received at the offices of A. F. Barkley in Spearman, beginning with Saturday September 15, and will be cared for at this place until such a time as they can be moved to the new garage building of R. W. Morton, which will be used by the ladies during the Fair. The management of these departments are fortunate indeed to secure such a splendid place as the Morton Garage building will afford, for the display of the exhibits in these departments. The building is brand new, is spotlessly clean; there are large show windows and the location is ideal. Departments "G" and "H", Culinary and Needlecraft, will attract much attention at the Hansford County Fair, September 20 and 21.

OPEN SEASON

The Mail Order Houses are going to knock the smaller town merchants for home runs just as long as they can. That time will stop, however, when these same merchants stiffen their backbones long enough to fight back with weapons of 3 per cent newspaper advertising and thus stop the flow of dollars that are now going for catalog purchases with firms hundreds of miles distant. To set around with a "My-Gosh-Isn't-It-Awful" look on their faces, waiting for relief from this situation is not a manly practice, to say the least, and if these fellows had a spark of fight left in themselves they would be ashamed to be walked on in this manner. These mail order firms flood with their catalogs those communities whose business men are "piker" advertisers while, in contrast, converted 3 per cent newspaper publicity would have a tremendous influence in driving these monsters into the holes from which they came. The open season has arrived and you may now shoot on sight. May we help to load your gun?—Quanah Tribune-Chief.

POLAND CHINA HOGS BRING GOOD PRICE

The M. A. Shuler Sale at Spearman Last Saturday Was Well Attended—Pig Club Boys Have a Big Day.

The sale of registered Poland China sows and gilts held in Spearman last Saturday by M. A. Shuler, of Blue Valley Farm, at Gray, Oklahoma was a quite successful affair and the offerings brought a good price, considering the fact that they sold for strictly cash and that the hog market is off considerable at present. One of the top sows sold for $69.00, and many others brought a good price. Mr. Shuler was well pleased with the sale. His hogs are as fine as can be found in the southwest, but he did not expect them to bring fancy prices at this time, owing to the dull market and scarcity of money. The Pig Club boys had a big day at this sale. They brought their pigs in to be judged, and besides having a world of fun, were given much valuable advice about the raising of pure bred hogs, by Mr. Shuler, Auctioneer Jonny Jones, Doc Major and others. The pigs were judged and prizes awarded as follows:

First Prize	By Major and Sparks	$10.00
Second Prize	By Earnest Spivey	.Pig
Third Prize	By Major and Sparks	$5.00
Fourth Prize	By Lee Black	$5.00
Fifth Prize	By Major and Sparks	$2.50

Much interest is being manifested by the Pig Club boys and it is planned by the originators of the movement, Major and Sparks, to hold this test yearly at the County Fair hereafter. The pigs in the contest last Saturday were certainly fine and show that the boys are really learning something about the care of hogs.

They will also send a representative here during the Fair, if it is possible. The Best of Shoes for Less Money

COTTON PROMISES GOOD
YIELD FOR NORTH PLAINS

These late rains give assurance that the few Carson county farmers who have ventured in cotton growing this year will have a splendid yield. The Herald mentioned a few weeks ago the splendid prospects for a cotton crop on Ed Deahl's ranch, west of Panhandle. This week Mr. Deahl has an exhibition at the First State Bank a fresh stalk taken from his sixteen acre field, which indicates a big yield. Twenty-two bolls show up on the stalk that will mature before frost and these are all large healthy bolls.

There are other fields of cotton in the county that promise good yields, and if the price continues around 23 cents per lint pound and seed at $18 to $20 per bale, it will mean a considerable cash item in farm returns to the farmer who has a few acres in fleecy staple this year.

There is every reason why cotton can be grown successfully in Carson county, provided the right methods are used. Those who have experimented with cotton on the upper plains of the Panhandle tell us that it is necessary to climate the seed if the best results are to be obtained. Then, by using proper care and judgment in the planting and cultivating of the crop the yield will be as certain as it is in the already proven cotton sections of the state and the crop can be matured at a less cost per acre than in the central portion of the State.

For several years the cotton crop down in the state has been a hazardous undertaking for farmers on account of the destructive boll weevil but it is the judgment of cotton farmers of the plains that the boll weevil will never thrive in this high and dry altitude thus making a cotton crop more certain but until there is a check on the ravage of the boll weevil the demand for cotton will likely exceed the supply and high prices will prevail. So it appears that cotton farming can be made profitable in Carson county if intelligently managed. Why not begin now to make plans for at least a few acres of cotton on every farm in Carson county.—Panhandle Herald.

CONTRACT IS LET FOR PLEMONS SCHOOL BUILDING

H. W. Pitts, Sam Hedgecock and Mrs. W. Whittenburg, trustees of the Plemons Independent School District have let a contract to Geo. Ernest, Panhandle City contractor for the construction of a $2500 frame school building. Material is being transported in trucks from Panhandle and Ernest expects to have the building complete within the next fortnight. Approximately $1,000.00 is available from the state school fund for the construction of the temporary structure which will care for additional classes due to an increase in students for the 1923-1924 terms.

It is the plans of the trustees to call a bond election during 1924 to vote on a large bond issue for the erection of a permanent brick school building which will care for the educational requirements of the district for many years in the future.

FIRST BALE COTTON SOLD HERE MONDAY

The first bale of cotton for this season was brought in Monday by W. C. Stanton and sold to Smith Brothers for 25c per pound. The seed was sold at the rate of $30 per ton, and a premium was raised among the business men amounting to $82 in cash and merchandise, making the total amount received by Mr. Stanton $204.24. The ginning was donated also, which might be added to the above figures.

This bale of cotton weighed 1430 pounds in the seed and ginned out 449 pounds bale of lint, which is considered a very good turn-out for early cotton.—McLean News.

WHAT A BLESSING TO THE WORLD IS ELECTRICITY!

And what tremendous hardships the world would suffer, if this modern force were lost to us! Such a suggestion is silly, of course, for the world is not going to do without Electricity. In the natural progress of events, we are going to use more and more of this magic "White Coal" someone has been pleased to call it, and people and whole communities are going to be blessed and benefited accordingly.

One of the important developments of the past half-dozen years has come with the introduction of electricity onto the farms of this country. Before that time, while cities were going ahead, using electricity in their industries and in their homes, farm homes were struggling along without its magic influence. With the invention and improvement of the individual farm electric plant, however, thousands and thousands of farm homes have come to know the advantages of electric lights and electric power, running water and the other conveniences that stamp a home as modern.

The Deico-Light company, pioneers in the farm electric plant industry, who operate the largest factory in the world for the manufacture of these electric plants have just announced a new plan, which is bound to be of vital importance to every farmer and his family who have been longing and planning to have electricity in their own home.

This plan provides, it was explained, for the installation, complete, of an electric plant and battery, wiring of the house for ten lights, ten complete drop lights installed, with cables in place and a special electric switch for connecting up motor and other electric appliances.

While in the promotion of this plan they have specialized in several of the popular models, any of the models can be secured under this broad, comprehensive arrangement, it is stated. The arguments in favor of this plan of purchase, it was pointed out are that the farmer knows, at the beginning, just what it will cost to have electricity in his home. Everything is covered in one transaction. He does not have to calculate the cost of wiring his house then the cost of installation and the other items that enter into getting electricity into the farm home.

Here it is all worked out before hand and a low price named for everything complete, ready to snap a switch and turn on the lights. For those who desire, there is a plan for financing the purchase of the entire installation, it was explained, so that only a small cash payment at the beginning is required. The whole plan, it was emphasized, is calculated to make it easy for the farmer to have electric lights and the other conveniences of electricity.

The appreciation of the benefits of electricity for the farm has spread amazingly since the Deico-Light Co., seven years ago began the manufacture and distribution of farm electric plants. The increase, it is estimated, is 2,000 per cent of the number then in use, and there is plenty of evidence that this will grow in still greater proportion, during the coming months. Plans like this one just described will help, for plan like this make it easy for everybody to have electricity. Of course everybody will have electricity, some day, for it is a modern improvement which is being adopted everywhere. But its advantages are so great that it is important for those on the farms to get electrical conveniences as quickly as possible. The Deico-Light company is helping to this end by providing this simplified plan of distributing its products and it is easy to understand their prediction that many additional people will begin enjoying the benefits of electricity this fall.

THE CHICKEN AND THE PEA

When the chicken gets too big for his shell he breaks out with a cheerful chirp, leaves the shell behind, and keeps growing.

But look at the English pea. He swells up in his shell until you think surely it must burst, and then he shrivels—and begins to rattle.

In his workday world, a few are chickens who refuse to be limited by the restrictions of a small shell—and the majority are peas who grow for a time, become content with their size, settle down to peace and contentment, and the first thing they know they have shrunk until they rattle.

Of course, both the chicken and the pea come to the same end—but we'd rather be a chicken than a pea. The pea may fancy that his rattling is a big noise, but when the chicken crows the pea's rattling fades into insignificance.

Dropping the figures of speech, a few men may be born to grow larger than their fellows, and a few may be born to shrivel and rattle in whatever job they may find themselves, but the great majority come into the world with two good hands, a head, and several other incidental organisms, and nothing more. Nature has provided for certain physical growth, but the size of a man in the affairs of life has but little to do with his weight. As some one has said: "From the chin down a man is worth $3 a day; his income depends upon what he is worth from the chin up."

If a man breaks the shell of a small job and becomes a factor in the adjoining fields, it is his own doings; if he swells up, and then shrivels and begins to rattle, again it is his own doings.

"If you do no more than you are paid for, how can you expect to be paid for more than you do?"

If a man gets too big for his job, a bigger job will be found for him. But if he comes to think that he is big for his job, the chances are you can hear the rattle without straining your ears.—Southwest Machinery

THE "AGINERS"

Meetings have been held in Coke and Runnels counties to protest against the building of a dam across the Colorado river, to conserve water for irrigation. Lawyers have been employed to tie this enterprise up in the courts and thwart the project.

There was a time when meetings were held by these people and begging committees appointed to ask charity.

It has not been so long ago since they asked the legislature for money with which to buy seed for planting because of lack of moisture. They will do it again if they succeed in destroying this enterprise. Although there is enough water that goes down to the sea each season through the channel of the Colorado river to irrigate 200,000 acres of rich land and insure them against want, they are "agin" it.—Sterling City News-Record.

The "Aginers" never built a town or community. The man or men that always pull back never benefit mankind. It takes men with vision and unconquerable courage to do real big things in this life. It is usually the man without vision who becomes the "aginner" in all enterprise promotion. Of course there is a possibility of men becoming visionary and mistake their visions for real constructive inspiration, but as a rule the word vision is applied to men with real foresight for the future. You will find men in all communities that are incapable of vision of the constructive kind and they usually become drawbacks to the community's progress.—Snyder Times.

A FINE ADDRESS
BY MR. FUQUA

Tells the Kiwanis Club of Amarillo
A few interesting things, and Gives some Good Advice.

W. H. Fuqua, president of the First National Bank of Amarillo, made a very interesting speech to the Kiwanis Club of that city one day last week, and volunteered some mighty good advice. A part of his address follows:

Mr. Fuqua expressed the belief that the farmer is not getting his due and that for some reason the cost of production and the retail price of farm products are too far apart. He said there had been charges of excessive freight rates, but that he would not care to hazard a statement whether it be that, overpaid labor or poor management of farms or other reasons.

"Cotton will be the king within ten years," declares Mr. Fuqua in touching upon foreign business conditions. He told about the advent of France into the woolen industry and how it was under selling the greatest factories of Great Britain. He said that Germany is realizing that a major operation is necessary—in other words it is going to the gold basis and will play an important part in the commercial affairs again. Assertion was made that the cost of raw materials is not as essential. He declares that cotton that costs $125 a bale is manufactured by Germany today into products that sell from $600 to $1,200.

Prediction was made that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon would not issue any long term certificates until bonds are back to par, and that may not be until the war debt is paid. He added. He said there will not be any output of money until Wall Street is satisfied that the "waters are more tranquil."

Mr. Fuqua voiced encouragement over Panhandle conditions because of the August rainfall. He said the rains would make great grass, help kafir and sorghums, make much forage and increase the quality of grain.

"Wheat is an aristocratic, lazy man's crop, I have declared for 20 years," he continued. "It takes about six weeks work to make a crop of wheat, and the rest of the time is spent using gasoline, rubber tires and drinking cold drinks."

"Kafir and milo maize are the money crops of this country. Grain sorghums will make money and will make this country come into its own. They are the happy mediums between corn and oats. It takes manpower to make them."

"When you are not making money, you should save some money. You possibly can be a little reckless when you are making money. But if you are not making money, save some by elimination of overhead expenses."

Touching again upon the discrepancy between prices paid the farmer and those paid by the consumer, the speaker related an incident about shoes and hides. He said he purchased an $18 pair of shoes for $15 in Wall Street recently. A few days afterward he sold twelve hides for $16.80 and came to the conclusion that something is wrong.

"We should do more of our work ourselves," said Mr. Fuqua. "We and our families should do more work. Don't ride around so much and have so many teas in the afternoon. Get down to work and make an honest and square living."

"Men don't give enough time to their country, community, city and state. We are willing to elect somebody else on meager pay and let them make laws that we have to live under and who may eventually wreck the ship of state. We won't pay the price to take care of affairs as they should be taken."

"We have the advantage of any other city in Texas. This country can promise less and have the appearance of an orphan in the summer and can come back and do more in less time than in any other country I have known."

D. 1923, in a suit numbered on the docket of said court number 526, wherein J. F. Weatherly and wife Maggie M. Weatherly, are plaintiffs and John W. Mead, Mrs. John W. Mead, Albert M. Huston, Mrs. Albert M. Huston, the unknown heirs and legal representatives, of each of such four named defendants, and the unknown heirs and legal representative of James Huston, are defendants; said petition alleging that on July 1, 1923, they were lawfully seized, and possessed of survey number 39, Block Y, certificate number 1-23, Morris & Cummings Original Grantee, John W. Mead, patentee, by Patent No. 515, shown in volume 23. That on said date defendants and each of them entered upon said land and ejected plaintiffs therefrom and now withhold the possession thereof. Plaintiffs further allege a chain of title from the State of Texas to themselves, through various deeds, and that they are the owners and entitled to the possession of said land.

Plaintiffs further plead specifically, that they have had and held possession of said tract of land, under color of title from the State of Texas, with peaceable, continuous, and adverse possession for a period of more than three years, and that they have likewise held such possession for a period of more than five years, paying taxes thereon and that they have likewise had such peaceable and adverse possession for more than ten years, enjoying and using the same so as to mature the title under the three years, five years and ten years statutes of limitation.

Plaintiffs pray for title and possession of said land that their title be quieted and that any and all claims, interest or estate in said lands, had or claimed by defendants, be divested out of them and invested in plaintiffs.

Herein fail not, but have you then and there before said court, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness M. E. McCormick, Clerk of the District Court of Hutchinson County, Texas.

ENTERTAINMENT OUTLINE GIVEN FOR EXPOSITION

An outline of the entertainment for the Amarillo Tri-State Exposition September 25 to 29, has just been announced by R. D. Rogers, chairman of the committee. His committee has been at work for several months in lining up a program that it is believed will please the thousands of visitors that are expected to go to Amarillo for the exposition.

A fire works display by a nationally known firm will be one of the features. Details of this display will be announced later, but it is declared that the Panhandle has never seen a fire works display that equals it. A mammoth American flag, so realistic that it is surprising, is the grand finale each night for the works display.

Petite Marguerite, heralded as the dainty miss with a nerve of iron, will be one of the real attractions in entertainment. She will be here the afternoon of September 25 and give an exhibition, suspended by her hair and glides on a wire from the top of one building to another. This stunt probably will be performed from the American Hotel to the Mission Theatre. While she is suspended in the middle of the block, Marguerite will sing a song. To the person who mails in the name of the song that she chooses to sing by September 22, her manager will give a cash prize of $25. This selection of a song should be mailed to the entertainment committee of the fair, care John B. Gilvin, secretary-treasurer. A real one-ring circus. There will be mules, dogs, and monkeys in an entertainment that will please adults and children. "Spot," the greatest of all bucking mules, will be in Amarillo in all his glory.

Other entertainment features will be announced with full details in a few days. Practically all the amusements features have been contracted for, according to Mr. Rogers.

Automobiles have become so common in California, Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota that you could put the entire population of those states into registered motor cars within their borders. In California there is actually a car for every three and eight-tenths persons. The world is certainly on wheels in those Western States.

It is proposed by the American Farm Bureau Federation that the government assist the farmers to withdraw two hundred million bushels of wheat from the market and store it for a year with the aid of the intermediate credit facilities that the new national law provides. It is argued that that would raise the price of wheat on the farm to as much as $1.10. The danger with such a plan is that it would cause more wheat to be raised than the present conditions demand. Next year it might be necessary to store three hundred million or four hundred million bushels in order to keep up the price, and so on until the market broke ruinously under the burden of the ton stored wheat. If the farmers would plant only what they can sell at a profitable price, there would be no need of withdrawing any wheat from the market, but as yet there is no way to find out just how much each man should plant.

FIFTY PERCENT PROFIT IN PORK

Feeding results obtained from 14 Kentucky farmers show a wide range in the cost of pork production on the average farm, and, consequently, a wide range in profits obtained. The average net profit obtained by these men, however, slightly exceeds 50 percent. This work was carried on in co-operation with the Kentucky Experiment Station and county agents. The cost per cwt. was $3.50 to $7.75, with an average cost of $6.16. The net profits per cwt. were $1.16 to $6.50, the average profit being $3.15 per cwt.

Of the 14 demonstrators, Louis Hamilton in Washington county produced pork the most economically. On Feb. 3, 1922, he began feeding 19 Duroc-Jersey hogs. They were kept on feed 30 days and made a total gain of 1,045 pounds (55 pounds per pig) at a total cost of $3.50 per cwt. Forty-five bushels of corn valued at 50 cents per bushel; 100 pounds of tankage, valued at $3.25 per cwt.; 50 pounds of mineral mixture valued at $2.50 per cwt., and rye pasture valued at 1 cent per pig per day were used. The pigs had the run of an 8-acre rye-field, and were kept on a full feed during the whole period. With the exception of the mineral mixture, which was self-fed, the entire ration was hand-fed. Mr. Hamilton favors hand-feeding because it minimizes the waste of feed, which nearly always occurs with self-fed hogs, and does not entail shelling the corn. Of course, if compared with hand-feeding, when the feed is thrown out and is tramped in the mud, the self-feeder undoubtedly is a great feed-saver. As to the labor involved by the two methods, there is not a great deal of difference.

W. F. Wilson in Pulaski county made a good record with 28 Hampshire pigs, which were fed 30 days. They gained 1,030 pounds, or 36.7 pounds each. They were fed 63 bushels of corn, valued at 75 cents per bushel; 75 pounds of tankage, valued at $4 per cwt. and 1,000 of skim milk, valued at 32 cents per cwt. They had the run of a mixture pasture of red and sweet clover, which was charged at 1 cent per pig per day. The total cost per cwt. of gain was $6.26, and the net profit on each 100 pounds of gain was $2.84. The pasture again played a prominent part in producing cheap pork, but the results are not so marked as they would have been had skim milk not been used. Pastures do not lower the feed requirement a great deal, when skim milk is used as a supplement.

It is advisable to sow 3 or 4 bushels of rye per acre. This establishes so heavy a sod that little injury to the yield results when grazed, and furnishes a maximum yield of pasture. Thousands of hogs are fed in drylots and barren fields which could be covered with a vigorous growth of rye. Rye grain, like barley and wheat, should be ground before it is fed to hogs. Feeding any of these whole or hogging them down is a wasteful method, because of the pig's inability thoroughly to masticate them. Also, during rainy seasons much of the grain is tramped into the mud and never eaten.

Barley is favored by many hogmen for it is a good grazing and grain crop. It yields about twice as much per acre as rye or wheat, and is a better hog feed when ground. It does well with tobacco and clover in a three-year rotation. But, due to the fact that it can be grown only on fertile land and does not do well after corn, it is not grown so widely as rye. Because barley is a larger yielder than rye it should be grown on good land such as will produce 50 to 60 bushels per acre, and rye on thin land. It is grown quite generally throughout a great deal of the Burley tobacco region, and should commend itself to many tobacco farmers who are also raising hogs.

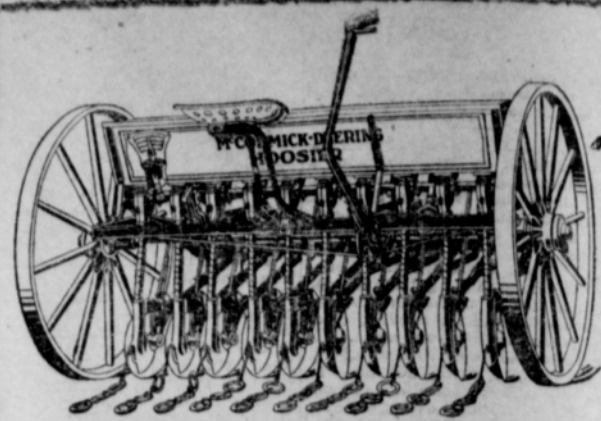

The clover, as well as other pastures, should not be expected to balance a corn ration, when they have neared maturity. The hog's digestive capacity is not adequate to making a good use of any but young, tender pastures. On many pastures in Kentucky and other states a drylot ration requires to be fed, because the pastures are coarse, and do not assist in furnishing the protein necessary for a balance. For this reason it is advisable always to include a protein supplement in the ration. Wherever possible, legume crops should be used for pasture, inasmuch as they perform the double service of furnishing hog pasture and improving soils.

Some of the demonstrators used mineral mixtures, and some did not. Such mixtures, if properly selected, are a help in balancing the ration, but there are still many hogmen who use poor mixtures. Slack coal and charcoal commonly are included in the average mineral mixture; if they are beneficial, investigators have not been able to explain why. Slack coal undergoes no chemical change in passing through a pig's digestive tract; it is even thought by some to be injurious, in that it scars the intestines and opens up harbors for disease germs.

Charcoal is said to absorb gases in the digestive tract, but no explanation has been advanced as to whether this action is either beneficial or harmful. Moreover mineral mixtures should be furnished the bone-building material, which is largely calcium and phosphorus, only small amounts of which are present in slack coal and charcoal. Hence, unless a mixture includes ingredients that furnish these elements, it is not well-balanced. The following are good mixtures to keep constantly before hogs, especially pigs: 40 parts of raw bonemeal, 40 parts of ground limestone, and 20 parts of salt; or 10 parts of wood ashes, 10 parts of 16 per cent acid phosphate, and 5 parts of salt.—GRADY SELLARDS, Kentucky Experiment Station.

Carnegie was a pretty wise old gazabo. He wasn't vaporizing when he said, "from shirt sleeves to shirt sleeves in three generations." He was speaking pearls from a treasure trove of human nature.

One would think that the sons of millionaires could spend their money in such a way as to equip themselves for intelligent leadership. Alas such is not the case. The second generation of the rich are but the froth on the boiling pot of progress—the froth to pour over the sides or be blown off to get to the worthwhile body. Our leadership constantly comes from below.

Of course, this condition is hard on the boys at the top, but it makes it mighty fine for the fellows at the bottom; it makes the fellows down below realize that they can climb, and find room at the top. And while they are climbing they can see the evils at the top and declare that when they get there, they'll not be victims of such folly. Once in a while such good resolutions are remembered.

The world is progressing, and two or three hundred years from now we may find a second generation inheriting nothing more than a good name and a worthy example. Rich men will leave as monuments, not derelict sons, but public institutions. When that day arrives, if it ever does, ability and industry will come into their own.—Ex.

MONEY

Money is a peculiar, elusive fickle, mysterious young domestic. She smiles upon the just and the unjust, and there's no way of telling with whom she'll next become infatuated—or disgusted. Like love, money makes fools of wise men and wise men of fools. She frequently scorns those who pursue her most diligently, and smiles upon those who treat her with utter indifference.

Money has made America the richest country in the world, and money has made Russia and Germany miserable and poor.

Those who haven't money are always talking about what they would do if they had it, and those who have it spend most of their time thwarting the schemes that are cooked up to take it away from them.

At forty, Henry Ford was earning a salary of $125 per month, carrying his lunch in a tin bucket and spending his idle hours in scheming—to make money? No!—to bring into fruition his dream of a horseless carriage; to bring into fruition a seed planted in his mind by a self-propelling thrasher engine when he was only twelve.

At sixty, Henry Ford was the owner of a personal fortune of $750,000,000 and head of a $100,000,000 corporation.

Henry Ford is one of those who treats money with utter indifference. His work is his ideal, and the making of money an incident, or a natural consequence. He does his work with his right hand and makes money with his left, and we may take it for granted that he doesn't let his left hand know what his right hand does.

In Germany, the mark, once worth about twenty-five cents, is now worth so little that a million can be bought for a dollar they have to be printed in large denominations in order to be worth the paper they are printed on. In Germany, the people dump cartloads of money on the merchants' and beg for "just anything" in exchange for it. The activities of money in this modern age can teach a lesson to those who listen. Money is valuable only when it has something of value behind it. Money is a promissory note on the assets of the country issuing it, and when money is coined or printed in quantities exceeding the value of the assets, it then begins to depreciate in value, with a ration that is as constant as the excessive quantity increases.

Also, money is beneficial or detrimental to the individual in proportion to what he has back of it. Money doesn't make the man; it develops him and reveals him in his true light.

Furthermore and lastly, the man who makes the getting of money his life's work, whether he gets the money or not, he seldom gets anything else out of life. Yea, money is a fickle lass.

THE SECOND GENERATION

Charles Schwab said the other day that he didn't like to employ rich men's sons "because rich men's sons won't work for me like I want my employes to work."

This comes from a man who has no sons. It comes from a man who has made millions for himself and millionaires of his employes. Rather, while making millions for himself, he has given his employes an opportunity to make millions for themselves, just as, years ago, Andrew Carnegie gave Schwab an opportunity to make millions for himself.

Of course, there are exceptions, but most sons of rich men haven't the incentive to work. They know they have all the money they need, without work. They are permitted to do as they please and, as someone has said, "most people, when permitted to do as they please, make a mess of whatever they do."

Most millionaires are self-made men. They have started from the scratch and fought every inch of the way. They have known the valleys long before they reached the peaks. Once well up toward the summit, they begin to contemplate the hard travel they have endured, and the hardships weigh heavy upon the imagination. Immediately they say: "I don't want my children to have to go through what I have gone through," and so saying, nine times

GOOD SEED WHEAT PAYS

Eight bushels increase per acre from good seed as compared to the yield from ordinary seed on the same farms, under the same conditions, is shown in the following testimonials: County Agent Roy E. Gwin, Columbus, Kansas, writes: "Last fall Mr. W. H. Shaffer sowed part of his field with a pure variety of wheat that gave him an average yield of 31 bushels per acre, while the balance of the field, sown with ordinary seed, yielded 21 bushels per acre." C. R. Young, county agent at Dakota City, Nebraska, says: "In 1920 good pure seed wheat which out-yielded the wheat from the common seed of the county by 9 bushels per acre."

Our records show that last year eight Texas farmers sowed a total of 968 acres of wheat; 460 acres were sown with an extra good seed and yielded 17 bushels per acre; the balance of 508 acres was sown from the regular bin supply and yielded 10 bushels per acre.

J. A. Ruth, of the Oklahoma Milling Company, at Kingfisher, says: "Last year we furnished our farmers with several carloads of Turkey Red seed wheat, and our County Agent advises that this wheat yielded at least 5 bushels more per acre than that from the ordinary seed."

County Agent C. H. Stinson, Pratt, Kansas, reports that one of his co-operators who used good Turkey seed last fall, produced 23 bushels per acre, testing 63 pounds, while a neighbor across the road sowed "just wheat" and harvested 11 bushels per acre, testing 56 pounds.

Twenty per cent of the seed sown in the Southwest is said to consist of cracked, immature or injured kernels that will not grow. County Agent Roy E. Gwin, of Columbus, Kansas, says: "Our better farmers, who reclean their seed and sow only the purest, obtain yields of at least 3 to 5 bushels above the general county average."

One per cent of rye lowers wheat one grade; two per cent lowers it two grades, and so on down. There is no mixture more serious than rye. It darkens the flour and produces a coarse, heavy bread. It is almost impossible to remove rye from wheat when it once becomes mixed, and because of its greater winter-hardness rye tends to increase from year to year.

In mixed seed there may be one predominating variety that is well suited for local conditions, but it is out of the question to assume that two or more varieties mixed are uniformly desirable. Crops from this kind of seed do not ripen evenly and when sold grade as mixed, with some reduction in price.

Those desiring to locate pure or certified seed should see their county agent, or write to their state agricultural college.

The Southwestern Wheat Improvement Association has already located a lot of good seed, as well as the districts needing seed. In those districts where seed is needed, arrangements are being made so that the local mill, elevator or county agent will have on hand a supply of suitable seed, which can be bought or exchanged, usually on a cost basis—not very much above the regular market price.

If you have more seed than is needed, or if you desire good seed and are unable to obtain it through your county agent, be sure to write to the undersigned.

TURN ON ELECTRIC LIGHTS IN YOUR HOME

"Ready to turn on the lights!" That, it is declared, is the thought back of the new, Installed-Price Plan of selling Delco-Light, the well-known farm electric plant, which the Company has just announced.

The announcement of this plan is especially directed to those who live in farm homes, it is stated. "We want to make it easy for the farmer to have electricity in his home, and to know beforehand, just what the whole thing will cost him," declares officials of the Delco-Light Company, in response to questioning about this remarkable plan.

Briefly stated, the plan is to furnish a standard model Delco-Light plant and storage battery, to install it complete, wire the house for ten lights, put in ten drop lights, complete even to the electric bulbs in the sockets, put in a general power outlet anywhere in the house the owner may choose, in short to furnish a complete Delco-Light installation. "Ready to turn on the lights," as stated above.

Low prices are assured, on all models and, in addition, financing of the purchase is taken care of, where necessary by an easy payment plan which calls for only a small cash payment. The Delco-Light Company is well-known for its effort at spreading the benefits of electricity in the country, and many thousands of farm homes today know what these benefits are, thanks to the kindly influence of these known Delco-Light plants. It is safe to predict, with the aid of a plan like this and with so many thousands able to enjoy the advantages of electricity, accordingly, that great number will take advantage of the opportunity which the Delco-Light Company offers, to buy their own Delco-Light plants this fall and join the other thousands who are already enjoying this modern convenience.
