

Thought For The Week—

FOR QUITE A NUMBER of kiddies that WILL ROGERS always remembered at Christmas time—there ain't no Santa Claus this year. I just wonder what the Inimitable Will would think if he knew what a mad deluge of publicity is being waged in behalf of the living memorial fund to perpetuate his memory? In this writer's opinion Will would not be pleased—He played Santa Claus to children, earned thousands for the Red Cross and others—but he kept it secret—Should you be solicited for his memorial fund? *

DON'T NAME IT

By HONEST BILL

Just when the boys had turned in their football suits and it looked like there would not be anything worthwhile to write about—up blows a sand storm.

Certainly the sandstorm is worth commenting on by virtue of its mildness. Just bear in mind that if the county had not been covered in vegetation the sandstorm would have been a real disaster and visibility would have been cut to land one half per cent. Breath-ability would have been lowered eighty one and seven tenths per cent. Amicable-ability would have been obliterated.

Just another argument for the soil erosion control efforts of Messrs Bennett, H. H. Finnell and company—and while we are on the subject would like to mention a few more Hansford folks in the fight to secure Federal aid for soil control projects in this county. Heard over the radio the other day that Potter county had secured $30,000 for soil erosion control. Everybody is getting on the gravy train except Hansford. Why not sound off and let them know we want a little help in this county?

Did you ever get a horoscope? You don't get excited, it's not a contagious disease—leastwise it's limited to mental ailments. The writer has a horoscope—and it's ashamed he didn't get the information a little sooner in life.

I've been all wet in trying to make a newspaper man—I'm a great intellectual (another mental disease) and should be counting the money on the stage. Furthermore I should be at the head of a business (I guess as a sort of relaxation from my dramatic efforts).

But here is my horoscope: You are intellectual and of the type that makes brilliant speakers and writers. You have a great ability for planning and working out business problems when your in treat is aroused but it is hard to complete tasks and should guard against procrastination. You should be at the head of your own business as you are not dictated to, and you are a mechanical mind. You are emotional and have a variety of moods and possessed of a peculiar nerve system which makes you antagonistic to certain personalities. You are overly-anxious about making money but, nevertheless, prodigal. You demand companionship and recreation and are fond of children. Your sphere is the stage as you are a most clever imitator and can attain any heights professionally.

Those of you who are mislabeled in life, and got enough courage left to correct the error can find in the date of your birth the writer—a lock of hair, sign your name on xerophane paper with a goose quill, and think out the Ethiopian war for two days, and I will send you a horoscope to fit the situation—no charges.

All America is getting concerned about dwindling intellectual standard of the American people. Last week at the Lion Club, Supt. Wilson of the Graver schools gave the membership information about the low intellectual standards of our nation. Some of our college or government department that could find anything else to do, besides the stupendous task of segregating the intellectual impulse of our nation. Whether or not their data is correct, they have some very satirical information to give the public. Due to birth control, the average of intelligence is being lowered 2 points each year. At the rate of the present generation, the average intelligence standard of the nation will be lower in less than a hundred years, than the present intellectual standard of the negro race of our nation.

During the past 25 years the American people with intellectual and cultural background have limited their offspring to 1, 2 or occasionally 3 children, as average. The citizenship with favorable training, opportunities and ancestral background produced the large families of America. Supt. Wilson stated

POOR MAN FROM PERRY-TON PURCHASES LOCAL BUSINESS.

E. C. POER (pronounced poor) has purchased the City Drug store from R. H. Holland. Mr. Poer, who is tall and of the featherweight avedepois says he is Poer financially physically and mentally. P. A. Lyon says that a poor man moving to our city is nothing new—that we have a large assortment of such citizens. Mr. Poer has been connected with the City Drug store of Perryton for a number of years and is an experienced druggist.

DUCK SEASON OPENS WITH FAIR WEATHER AND VERY FEW BIRDS

With the weather fair and warmer and the duck and geese few and far between Hansford county officially opened the open season for hunting Wednesday of this week.

Few local hunters attempted to hunt on the opening day, since most of the migratory birds have left for points South and East. Several car loads of Borger hunters kept the tradition of banging away at the few ducks left in this section. No one reported having killed the limit, although Jimmie Davis made his brag that he intended doing so, just prior to the opening of this paper are to the effect that the ordinarily efficient hunter (Jimmie) failed to bring back a single water fowl.

METHODIST CHURCH MEMBERS HONOR DEPARTING PASTOR

REV. AND MRS. H. A. NICHOLS GIVEN OVATION BY LOYAL FRIENDS.

Members of the Methodist church of Spearman, and friends who had learned to love Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Nichols during their 6 years pastorate at this city, paid farewell to the Nichol's at a fellowship meeting held at the church annex Wednesday evening of this week.

At the social gathering, sponsored by the Missionary societies of the church, games were played and friendly visiting formed the program of the evening. Climaxing the social event P. A. Lyon presented Rev. and Mrs. Nichols with a beautiful reading lamp, as a parting gift from the membership of the church.

Offered an opportunity to say a few words, Mrs. Nichols choked up informing her friends that she loved them all and intended coming back in the Spring. Rev. Nichols reviewed the many pleasant hours the family had spent in their work in this city, paid a tribute to the ability and character of the incoming minister, Rev. Hitchcock and asked the church membership to give the new family the same cooperation and loyalty that had been accorded them during their stay in our city.

Truly the Methodist pastor and his wife have won a warm spot in the hearts of Spearman people. Both have been active in the up-building of the city during their stay here. Rev. Nichols has served in several official offices of the Lions club, worked ardently with the Red Cross and welfare organization, and has served as presiding officer of the united charities of this city for the past four years. Rev. Nichols was given a farewell tribute at the regular meeting of the Lion club Tuesday noon.

Mrs. Nichols has been active in both the Study club and the musical club of Spearman. Her work was greatly appreciated and both clubs presented her with a farewell gift at the last meetings of the respective organizations. Mrs. Nichols work with the missionary societies of the church has helped build up a state-wide reputation for the local church. She was presented with gifts from both the Belle-Bennett and Mary Martha societies this week.

Rev. and Mrs. Nichols go to Chillicothe as pastor of the First Methodist church of that city. The new assignment is a promotion in that the duties of the new church are much greater than at Spearman. The church has a membership of 425 and have a large church auditorium, a pipe organ, and larger physical plant than the Spearman church.

BOSS LION TODD GIVEN CHRISTMAS PRESENT BY CLUB

In token of their appreciation of his services as President of the Spearman Lion club the membership presented him with a military set at the regular meeting of the club held Tuesday noon.

President Todd anticipates the possibility of leaving Hansford county in the near future, and left Wednesday of this week for a visit with his father at Pacos, Texas. The club members presented the gift at this time as the members did not know that their club President would be in this city at Christmas time.

The gift was presented by Lion Bill Miller, who reviewed some of the services of President Todd and complimented the record of the past year.

Approximately one hundred dollars was subscribed in behalf of the Boy Scout program at the noon day luncheon. This amount included $25.00 formerly donated by the club for the Washington Jamboree. This sum was returned to the club, in view of the fact that the big event was not held last year.

'Alabama Kids' Benefit Play Well Received By Appreciative Audience

FUND SECURED TO PROVIDE CHRISTMAS PRESENTS FOR CHILDREN OF SPEARMAN

One of the last official acts of Rev. H. A. Nichols, before he departed to his new location at Chillicothe, was to present the Lion club a fund of $25.00 to be used in securing appropriate gifts for underprivileged children of Spearman. The fund was part of a permanent fund of the United Charities of this city. It is the plan of the club and Rev. Nichols to use this money sparingly and after sufficient gifts have been secured, the remainder of the money will be used for more substantial gifts of food and clothing. Anyone in this city desiring to augment the fund with donations are asked to present their donations to Bill Miller, secretary of the Lion club.

RED CROSS DRIVE NETTING MANY NEW 1936 MEMBERSHIPS

Reports from Red Cross Roll Call chairman, R. L. McClellan, indicate the roll call is progressing rather slowly in Hansford county. Total membership in this city amounted to 52 at noon Thursday of this week. Reports from other localities of the county had not been made this week. The total membership for the county quota has been set at 150. Anyone in this section who have not been solicited by the workers and desire to make a membership contribution are asked to deposit the membership fee with Clay Gibner at the First State Bank. Mr. Gibner is Red Cross treasurer for this county.

Paper To Be Published Early Next Week.

Due to the fact that Thanksgiving day comes on the regular press day of the Spearman Reporter, next week's issue of the paper will be published on Wednesday November 27. Advertisers are urged to prepare their copy for the paper with this in mind.

Judge and Mrs. Broadhurst and family will leave Friday morning for Maxwell, New Mexico, to spend the week end with the Judge's parents who reside there.

AAA APPLICATIONS FOR CONTRACTS ARE SIGNED

Information from Arnold Ferguson, President of the wheat allotment board is to the effect that 98 per cent of the possible AAA contract wheat producers of Hansford county have signed the government application for such a contract. The applications have been checked this week under the supervision and approval of the district agricultural agent, Parker D. Hanna of College Station. The applications are ready for approval of the state board, and after they have been approved by this organization the county will receive their allotment quota.

TWINS AT DAVE HESTER HOME.

Dave Hester, one of the city bosses, and famous throughout this section of the state for his smooth mouth softball team, caused considerable raising of eye brows and looks of amazement Tuesday morning when he came to town broadcasting to all his friends the news that he had twins at his home. He later explained that the twins were calves, one of each sex, born earlier that morning. County Agent Lester Boykin declares Hester came to his office and wanted to know if his old cow had violated any of the production rules of the AAA. He was considerably relieved when he found out he didn't have to plow under either of the calves or shoot the mama cow.

SPEARMAN LIONS PLAN CHRISTMAS FOR ALL CHILDREN

At a meeting of the directors of the Spearman Lion club held Friday night of last week at the office of Judge J. H. Broadhurst, it was decided the club would play Santa Claus to children of Spearman.

Directors of the organization decided that the problem of a real Christmas to the children of Spearman, was not a problem of providing toys for the underprivileged children, but rather a matter of making happiness for the entire child population of the city. Plans worked out at the meeting call for assembling of all the discarded play things of the various children of this section, and redistribution to the child population of the city. All the children of Spearman are asked not only to contribute their discarded toys and play things, but to recondition these articles so that they will be appropriate gifts.

In the past the Lion club members have attempted to revamp gifts before distributing them to children of this city. This year the program is much larger, and the Directors of the club believe that the children will get a real enjoyment out of reconditioning their gifts to make them appropriate. Girls who donate dolls are asked to prepare new dresses, and give the old dolls a touch of color that will change their personalities. Boys giving any of their discarded toys are asked to paint or mend their gift and make them appropriate as new gifts. Boy Scouts of Spearman will aid the club in their program, and the school will cooperate in the assembling of the gifts.

THIS IS WILL ROGERS WEEK IN HANSFORD MEMORIAL PROGRAM

PEOPLE URGED TO HELP IN DRIVE FOR MEMORIAL TO GREAT AMERICAN MAN.

Aviation, which Will Rogers did as much as any American to popularize, is paying the expense of the Will Rogers memorial campaign according to W. J. Miller chairman of the Hansford County campaign. All funds will go into the memorial.

Mr. Miller's countywide set-up will swing into action this week, a week set aside to make the drive a success. The REPORTER and the First National Bank and the First State Bank are receiving agencies for the fund.

Schools, civic clubs, and churches are being asked to cooperate in the campaign. What Will Rogers thought of aviation is described in the following article by Captain Frank Hawks: MY ASSOCIATION WITH WILL ROGERS:

It was on January 18, 1931, I was sitting at my desk studying some maps for a prospective flight to Alaska. I had always wanted to see the frozen north.

The telephone rang. It was a long distance call from Houston Texas my home town. Jesse Jones wanted me.

"Frank" said Mr. Jones Will Rogers wants to know if you will fly him on a tour of mercy for the drought sufferers down here Can you do it?"

"I'm sure I can," I responded. Will wanted to go fast and he knew that I had a fast airplane one that would travel at 250 miles per hour. I explained that my ship would not be suitable as it was a single seater.

"Can't I get in alongside the gas tanks," he said. "I want to go in that fast ship with which you have been making all of those records."

It was a cold day when we started, and we had to fit Rogers out with some flying gear. Big fur lined flying suit, boots, which he called "muckluks," helmet, goggles, and of course a parachute. Will remarked later. "I think that everything the Navy didn't want they put on me."

While we were standing in front of the ship having our pictures taken, Will turned to me and asked what the rip cord was for on the parachute. I explained that in the event he had to jump, all he had to do was to jump—count five—and then pull the rip cord. That then every thing would be alright.

"What do you count five for," he asked, "to see if you are conscientious?"

A howl went up from everybody. "Why," continued Will, "why do they put that cord way over here?" He pointed to his left side and stressed his difficulty in getting hold of it, because of the heavy flying gear in which he was dressed. "Why don't they put it over on this side?" said he, and pointed to his right side where with his right hand he could much easier get hold of the ring.

I explained to him that in the military and naval services, a parachute was compulsory; how the flight surgeons had studied the aviation and in collaboration with the parachute manufacturers it was agreed that, when a man was falling through the air he just naturally would reach for his heart. In explaining I continued to point out how a man in reaching for his heart would naturally fumble across the ring and pull it.

"Boy" said Will, "if I ever have to jump, and reach for my heart—I'll choke my self to death."

Everybody was in spasms. The pictures were taken and we were off. Off on a great schedule which lasted for three weeks. All of that time I was constantly in Will Rogers company. We romped together, ate together, flew together. He dragged me out at every performance, and I had to try to entertain for about 20 minutes while he rested up. Our jumps were about 50 to 150 miles and we were playing three and sometimes four shows a day in different cities and towns.

In seventeen days Will and I played 54 shows.

Will Rogers was a good air passenger. He read most of the time. Never seemed to be interested in the flying or the weather surrounding us. He placed all his confidence in me, figured that I knew my business, and would get him to his destination. We were blessed with good weather most of the tour, but now and then we would have some difficulties of which he was never excited, except three times.

Once we were flying from Muskogee, Okla to Miami, Okla. and there were low clouds which at times would take on the resemblance of fog, being so near

V-8 LEADERSHIP

On October 31 of last year, Henry Ford announced his intention to build a million Ford V-8s in 1935. We are pleased to report that this goal was reached in exactly ten months instead of a full year.

One million cars and trucks is an impressive total. But figures by themselves mean nothing. It is what they represent that counts. Selling a V-8 at a low price has brought a new kind of automobile within reach of the people. Producing it has provided steady work for hundreds of thousands of men in the Ford plants, in associated industries and on the farm.

These million Ford V-8 cars and trucks have helped to make things better all around. In the first ten months of 1935 the Ford Motor Company paid out in the United States alone, $140,119,326.00 in wages and $523,111,389.00 for materials.

"THE GYPSY ROVER"

"The Gypsy Rover" is in 3 acts and is built around the character of Rob, later known as Sir Gilbert Howe, of English Nobility. Rob is stolen when an infant, by his nurse, Meg, who later becomes the wife of Marto a gypsy. Rob grows to manhood among the gypsies believing Meg and Marto to be his parents.

It happens one day, while riding with her fiancée, Lord Craven Lady Constance Martendale becomes lost in the woods. They wander to the gypsy camp where Constance and Rob meet and fall in love at first sight Craven objects to Rob's attitude, but in a very funny comedy scene with Marto and Sinfo, he is made to tell Sir George, who later comes in search of Constance, that Rob is a charming fellow. In act two Rob goes to the home of Constance, and serenades her. They plan to elope but are overheard by Craven who informs Sir George and plans are made to capture Rob, this is successfully accomplished and Rob is thrown into prison, but later escapes.

Two years elapse and Rob has come into his estates, his identity having been proven by Meg. He becomes a successful composer, a friend of the Prince and a social lion. Constance has remained true to her love for Rob and on his return to England, he woos and wins her for his wife. As Rob says, The Good fairies have led me to the beautiful country after all, and our story, Constance, can end in the proper way. They live happily ever after.

There are also pretty love affairs between Nina and Capt. Jerome, Zara and Sinfo, and many comedy scenes by Sinfo and Marto. Space prevents giving more than a thread of the plot.

THE LIBERAL HIGH SCHOOL CURRICULUM

A. B. Reinertsen
 The topic, The Liberal High School Curriculum, is one of a large field. To discuss it searching and minutely would take one better qualified than I. Nevertheless I, with my knowledge of the newer trends, shall try to treat the subject from the viewpoint of a bystander rather than as an intimately acquainted with this important subject. Consequently, I must flaunt more personal opinions and the needs as I see them by my contacts with the work a-day student.

The High School Curriculum is a vast subject. Surely we are not satisfied with the present set up. Something vital is lacking. As in the world at large we, in education, are groping as it were for new light, new ideas. Something that will better prepare our students for life. Dr. Brooks, Dean of Men at A. & M. College, lamented the fact that the students entering college are not properly equipped to enter college. In the first place he asked, to quote Dr. Brooks, if it were asking too much if the High School Student be literate, and wished that high school teachers explore the idea that the college was to be an extended country club. To me that was a serious indictment and coming from a man like Dr. Brooks should command attention.

Then, to when we listen to other sections of the country, we hear similar remarks. Dr. Robert Hutchins, President of the Chicago University, in an address, made this remark: That science and education as tools have failed us utterly. We need to go back to the philosophy of our forefathers. Then too, we are concerned up something that we have left behind in our hurry to be modern. Then too, we are concerned about the other demands that need revisions.

Away with the old, give us the new, something that will make the courses easy and light. Our methods are old-fashioned. By a series of concentrated reflexes we must build up a course that will produce a brilliant and well rounded individual unawares. Fort of slip up on the blind side and have the student educated before he realizes what has happened to him.

Unfortunately this is not a new way. Ever since man has had to struggle for his food we have looked on for a way out. The lines of least resistance have always appealed to us all. That is human nature to want something for nothing.

The worthwhile things in life are exalting values. They demand a precious toll of efforts, energy time, and money. We get out, exactly what we put into life. A God given law was given to Adam and Eve when God said that by sweat of your brow shall ye eat your bread. I wonder if we are not forgetting one of the fundamental laws of life when we try to insert some of these supposedly new ideas in our curricular revision program.

The various schools of psychology are not agreed as to the method of approach. If they were, the solution would not be so difficult to find. The behaviorist builds up his theory on impulses. Then there is that group that lauds environment. Then there is that group that wants to make heredity the essential element in development. Lately the gland specialists has come into prominence. All these again have been superseded by the psychiatrist. I do not wish to belittle any of these important fields of scientific study. They all have their sphere in which they would function. However, I do not think anyone taken alone, or all of them taken together, can adequately solve the problem. I am not interested in only preparing a student for college. If that were the aim of a high school education, we could by a series of hurdles have the practice until each barrier were jumped. To me there is something more important than examinations and grades. I am interested in producing the well rounded individual who can take his place as a citizen of the community. State and land.

There are those that have the conception that to be liberal minded is to do as we please. This is not true of education alone. This is the obsession of the day. Mussolini wants to do as he pleases in Africa. And when the League of nations tells him no, Ill Duce, you cannot swallow up Ethiopia just to satisfy your own selfish lust for power and expansion, he immediately swells up and tells the world that he and Italy are going to do as they please. Likewise Japan submits a formal ultimatum to the world that she too will devour Manchuria and develop and confiscate those resources to satisfy her own capricious aims. Thus we can go down the scale until we come to the classroom and the home. Some theorists make so bold as to parade the view that to be a modern educator we must let the child do as he pleases. If he wishes to stay out of school, well and good. Or if he wishes to sing while class is going on he should be permitted. Some even go farther and say that if a boy causes all this disturbance it is an index as to latent power. The more annoying an individual can be measured by words like big, bigger, and biggest. Our reformatories are crowded with that sort of genius. Certainly very few of the inmates have low IQ's. We can all appreciate the dilemma that such a program would promote. It would be nothing short of chaos. The term liberty does not mean that sort of freedom to me.

A more polite and eloquent fad is advanced in the idea that we, the teachers must teach according to individual needs of the students. This is a beautiful thought. Immediately we are seized with the thought and we embrace it in its entirety. How smooth such a school would run if the ideal individual could be formed to fill the position. Think of it, a teacher that was acquainted with all the various fields of thought or a school that was acquainted with all the various fields of thought, or a school that could have as many individual teachers as there were students. In the final analysis that is what would be required. Why?, because the law of Individual Differences would demand just such a set up. Certain phases of this theory have a place in our program. But surely every teacher who is doing his or her duty is practicing tolerance along his line. Now I have briefly rehearsed some of the present theories that are making the rounds. All have a place and each should dovetail the other. But I do not believe that even this will solve of education riddle. We do not need more students with more catalogued facts.

As I stated before I am intensely interested in something more than just mere grades and a diploma. I am interested in moral character. I sincerely believe that we can all meet on common ground and say that is what we need more than anything else today. The prayer of the world today is God give us men and women who have the faith and courage and character to do unto others as we would have them do unto ourselves.

I firmly believe character can be developed if we consider three important institutions; namely, the home, the church, and the schools.

The home should be a place we live and rest. Where we can discuss the affairs of the day impartially and by the aid of quiet and peaceful surroundings come to a happy conclusion as to a plan of procedure. The home should also be a source of encouragement, where friendly wise council can be given without prejudice. A place where love reigns supreme. The functions of the home is to promote a calm understanding between parent, teacher, and student. Those three working in close harmony, can achieve much in development of character.

Then the church enters in to the picture by teaching obedience and tolerance. I am not talking about sectarian or denominationalism. No teacher has the right to exalt his pet idea in matters of politics religion or life. But surely the educational psychology of Jesus Christ is not trite or fossilized as some would have us believe. The bible is still the Book of Books and His word reigns supreme. Christ himself says, Without me, ye can do nothing. That is clearly stated and what more proof do we need than the last few years of just this statement. We have ignored the Bible in nearly every field of endeavor and as a consequence men are saying that science and education as tools have failed utterly.

Supreme Court Judge Faucett says this. That of all the boys that he had to sentence in the state of New York only 4 per cent had ever belonged to a Sunday School. We can take that for what it is worth. The church can teach obedience to laws physical and spiritual and also to teach the difference between right and wrong. There is not any middle ground on a decision of right or wrong, but a clear cut stand is needed.

THE REAL BOGEYMAN

From all the reports that come out of Europe about the war situation, it seems to us that the main reason why England, France and a lot of smaller nations are trying to keep Italy from grabbing Ethiopia is not so much sympathy for the Ethiopians as that to let Mussolini get away with it would set a bad example to Germany.

Europe didn't worry when Japan grabbed off Manchuria. That is a long way from London and Paris, and one of the Great Powers toes were trodden on. But Ethiopia is close to home, and Italy is one of the neighbors. If they let neighbor Italy go out and pick up new territory wherever it wants to, how are they going to stop Germany when Hitler's government gets ready to annex a slice of the Ukraine, or take over Czechoslovakia?

German rearmament is giving all the rest of Europe the jitters. Sooner or later, statesmen believe, the Germans are bound to make another armed drive for a place under the sun. And that's another reason why the other powers are trying to conciliate Mussolini with one hand while trying to curb his territorial ambitions with the other. They want his support when the time comes to make another stand against Germany. Hitler is the real bogeyman of all Europe.

"CIVILIZATION'S SYMBOL"

The annual Roll Call of the Red Cross is under way. A banner the red cross on a white field, has been aptly named "Civilization's Symbol." First used as a warning flag in war, it has become the emblem under which the armies of peace are enlisted in the never-ending warfare on disease and disaster in civil life.

It is a banner under which every citizen should enroll. To display the Red Cross emblem in the window is evidence that those who dwell in that house do not care for themselves alone, but are sharing the burden of caring for the afflicted.

The record of the Red Cross comes as near to being a record of unselfish humanitarianism as can be found anywhere. Whether it be the emergency created by a major disaster, such as fire, flood, shipwreck or tornado, or the more prosaic work of safeguarding public health, producing garments for the poor and needy, printing books for the blind, or any of the scores of other helpful services which the Red Cross constantly renders, it must at all times be prepared to meet the call upon it. Its funds come from the voluntary contribution of all the people. The Annual Roll Call gives every citizen an opportunity to show his patriotism in the broadest and truest sense. In giving to the Red Cross he gives to the service of all mankind.

THE PENSION BILL

The pension bill which the Texas legislature has placed on the governor's desk is a compromise between the desire to pension everybody who had reached the age of 65 and the feeling on the part of some members that the benefits should be administered on a pauper basis. It lacks very much of being an ideal pension measure, but it is a far more satisfactory one than seemed likely, earlier in the session, to be brought to passage.

The most satisfactory feature of it is that it adopts what is called the "needs standard" as a basis for payments. In a state with so many negroes and Mexicans, the failure to provide a means for taking the standards of living of these pensioners into account would have been a very serious blunder.

The most unsatisfactory feature of it is that the way is left open for making the pension question a political thing in 1936. We shall probably see many candidates for legislative and state offices appealing for votes by promising pension systems much more liberal than that provided.

There are many who will criticize the bill for its omission of specific provisions for raising the revenue to pay for its operation. That is a defect, but it is not as serious as some commentators regard it. If the legislature were to adjourn without enacting a revenue bill it would virtually nullify the pension measure, but there is no reason to believe this error will be made.

The legislature has acted wisely in making a conservative approach to old age pensions. There are problems in this connection that can be solved only by the trial and error method. It is easier to have reasonable limitations at the start, and liberalize the pension plan later, than to make it too liberal and face a necessity of establishing restrictions.—Wichita Daily

Christian Science Notes

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ Scientist, on Sunday, November 24.

The Golden Text is: "The Lord is good unto them that wait for him, to the soul that seeketh him".

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Stand fast therefore in the Liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage".

The Lesson-Sermon includes also the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Truth, Life, and Love are the only legitimate and eternal demands on man, and they are spiritual lawgivers, enforcing obedience through divine statutes.

Mutual Understanding Important

We hear much of the importance of membership loyalty. Members are not the only ones who are sometimes disloyal to their organization. Officials also may be disloyal. They may not only injure their own associations but may tend to handicap the cooperative movement as a whole by their unfortunate attitude. Other agencies working for the welfare of farmers may also fail to give cooperatives the support which they deserve. These conditions may seriously affect the welfare and accomplishments of agricultural cooperatives.

Lack of cooperation among its own officials has wrecked many a cooperative. It is impossible for many associations to accomplish their greatest good because officials within the organization are working at cross-purposes. Many directors find it difficult to work together in harmony. Factions among directors are always harmful. When officials reach the point where they are more interested in what they can get out of an association rather than in what they can put into it their usefulness to the cooperative movement is lost.

Much may be gained by cooperation among cooperatives. This cooperation may assert itself in a variety of ways. Studies made by the Cooperative Division have revealed many cases where several cooperatives were competing for volume in the same territory. This competition from within the group is often more damaging than from outside agencies. There seems to be little excuse for competition among cooperatives for volume.

Cooperatives have many common problems and much can be gained by working together to solve them. The Texas Cooperative Council indicates that cooperatives in this State realize the importance of working together for common interests. It furnishes an opportunity for farmers from all areas, regardless of the commodity produced, to speak as a unit on mutual problems.

It is often found that by setting up overhead organizations,

THE STATE OF TEXAS

COUNTY OF HANSFORD

By virtue of an alias execution issued out of the 108 District Court of Potter County, Texas, on a judgement rendered in said court on the 22nd day of December, 1931, in favor of H. F. Burgess, defendants, Number 8743, do the docket of said court, I did on the 2nd day of November, 1935, at 10 o'clock a. m., levy upon the following land, real estate, and mineral rights, situated in the County of Hansford, State of Texas, as the property of said defendant, J. P. Burgess, to-wit:

One-sixteenth interest in all mineral rights, same being one-half of one-eighth interest in and to all of the oil, gas and other minerals in and under, and that may be produced from the following described land situated in Hansford County, Texas, to-wit:

The East one-half of the Northwest Quarter (E1-2NW1-4) of Section Number 185, Block Number 2, G. H. & H Ry. Co. situated in Hansford County, Texas, as shown by map or plat of said Block of record in the Deed Records of Hansford County, Texas, to which reference is here made, together with the right of ingress and egress at all times for the purpose of mining, drilling, and exploring said land for oil, gas and other minerals and removing the same therefrom.

And also an undivided nine-twentieths interest in and to all of the oil, gas and other minerals in and under, and that may be produced from the Northeast Quarter (NE 1-4) of said section Number 185, together with the right of ingress and egress at all times for the purpose of mining, drilling and exploring said lands for oil, gas and other minerals and removing the same therefrom.

And further executed said writ by levying on the following described property as the property of the defendant, H. S. Durham, to-wit: One-sixteenth interest in all mineral rights, same being one-half of one-eighth interest in and to all of the oil, gas and other minerals in and under, and that may be produced from the West 1-2 of the Northwest Quarter (W1-2 of NW 1-4) of said Section Number 185, above described, together with the right of ingress and egress at all times for the purpose of mining, drilling and exploring the said land for oil, gas and other minerals, and removing the same therefrom.

And on the 3rd day of December, 1935, the same being the first Tuesday of said month, between the hours of ten o'clock A. M. and four o'clock P. M. on said day at the courthouse door of said county I will offer for sale and sell at public auction, for cash, all of the right title and interest of the said J. P. Burgess and H. S. Durham in and to said property.

Dated at Spearman, Texas, this 6th day of November, 1935.

Sheriff of Hansford County, Tex.

cooperative associations may accomplish many things which would be impossible if undertaken individually. In such cases it is very important for nationals and regionals to work in complete harmony toward the same ends. There should be complete understanding of the functions and prerogatives of each association in such a working relationship. Each should attempt to confine its activities within the limits prescribed. In such cases it should be clearly understood that the primary purpose of the overhead organization is to serve the member agency. On the other hand, the member agency should not restrict the activities of the overhead organization by failing to give it the support it deserves.

Improvement in the social and economic conditions of farmers are the chief objectives of agricultural cooperatives. In this way their aims do not differ from those of a number of other agencies operating in each of the states. It seems logical that these agencies should correlate their efforts toward a common purpose. There appears to be no ethical or legal reason why farmers should not set up their own associations to market their products or purchase their supplies or services. If these associations follow accepted and recognized business practices there would seem to be no just basis for complaint against them. On the other hand a sound and successful cooperative enterprise should be welcome in any community on the same basis as sound and successful private agencies.

An attempt has been made in this paper to indicate the diversity of conditions which farmers' cooperatives must operate. The ties of the associations, times must be in conformity with them. The possibilities of cooperation are not necessarily the handicaps and necessities of agricultural cooperatives, usually not safe to generate. Nothing is more important than a clear understanding of the objectives should be set and how best to set up an association to plish these objectives.

This is the time of the year when half of the people are going away from home to the other half are getting ready for the same purpose.

Do You Ever Wonder

Whether the "Pain Remedy You Use" is SAFE?

Ask Your Doctor and Find Out

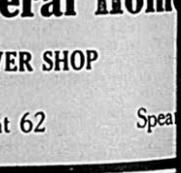

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family Well-Being to Unkown Preparations

THE person to ask whether you are taking for the relief of your pain is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that by the discovery of Bayer Aspirin "pain" remedies were against by physicians as bad stomach and, often, for the stomach. Which is food for thought, seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods for the relief of rheumatism and neuralgia. And the end of millions of users has it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest, member this.

You can get Genuine Aspirin at any drug store—by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make point to do this—and see to get what you want.

IT WORKED FOR ME

Women should take only liquid laxatives

MORE people could feel fine, be fit and regular, if they would only follow the rule of doctors and hospitals in relieving constipation. Never take any laxative that is harsh in action. Or one, the dose of which can't be exactly measured. Doctors know the danger if this rule is violated. They use a liquid laxative, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all. Reduced dosage is the secret of aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use a little less laxative each time, and that's why it should be a liquid like Syrup Pepsin. Ask your druggist for a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if it doesn't give you absolute relief, if it isn't a joy and comfort in the way it overcomes any sluggishness or biliousness, your money back.

Haggai and Zechariah.

Scripture Lesson:— Haggai 1-2-8; Zechariah 4-6-10.

Haggai 1:2-8.

Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, saying, This people say, Thy house is not come, the time that thy house should be built. I have called the word of the Lord by Haggai the prophet, saying, Is time for you O ye to dwell in your ceiled houses, and ye will not build my house, sayeth the Lord of hosts.

For ye have said, We have sown much, and we have increased, yet we eat, but we do not have enough; ye drink, but we are not filled with water, yet we have not strength, sayeth the Lord of hosts.

Ye have said, We have built, yet we dwell in our ceiled houses, because we have not seen the glory of the Lord, sayeth the Lord of hosts.

Ye have said, We have built, yet we dwell in our ceiled houses, because we have not seen the glory of the Lord, sayeth the Lord of hosts.

Cooperatives

(This is the last of a series of articles on Cooperatives. It is our belief, that if you have read each article, you should now have a picture of the work that is being done locally.

their unsettled condition, often are not interested in cooperative. It is also important to recognize that growers in some communities look with favor upon cooperative activity, while in other communities they may have little confidence in any form of cooperative enterprises. The understanding of farmers regarding the purposes of agricultural cooperatives and their general uses toward the movement greatly affect the possible accomplishments of these organizations.

Facts Are Essential

Someone has said, "Opinions are interesting but facts are vital." How true this is of agricultural cooperatives. Nothing is more vital to the success and progress of cooperation than accurate information on all its phases. Most business enterprises now proceed, insofar as possible on the basis of carefully analyzed facts. Cooperative associations can to advantage apply to their business operations the same methods which are employed by other successful enterprises.

Much time and effort could be saved and much disillusionment and discredit to the cooperative movement might be avoided if there were less ill-advised action in setting up agricultural cooperative associations. The best time to think about the failure of a cooperative association is before it is started. Many cooperatives are doomed to fail before they are organized because of the impossible conditions under which they attempt to operate.

A careful analysis of the conditions under which a cooperative organization must function offers an opportunity to determine the need for an association and also the type of organization which will best meet the needs of the area in which it is to operate. Such a procedure should greatly strengthen any organization. This survey should include detailed information on all the factors which might affect the operation of the proposed association; for example, the method by which the commodity is now being handled by private agencies and the adequacy of the services rendered by those agencies. The present methods of marketing should be thoroughly understood, as well as the channels through which the products move to market.

It is also necessary to know the characteristics of the commodity as they affect the method by which it is handled and the costs of handling. The costs of marketing under private agencies should be known with some degree of accuracy, as well as the margins and profits which are being obtained. Some careful study should be made of the possibilities of reducing the cost and improving upon the services which are already being rendered.

The volume of business available in the area in which the association is to operate must be determined as accurately as possible. It is important to know not only the total volume but also to have a reasonable estimate of the quantity which will be handled by the association. It is not safe to assume that a cooperative will handle the total available in any area. Where a number of private dealers are engaged in marketing the product, it is reasonable to assume that at least some of the more efficient will continue in business. This will limit the cooperative to its proportionate share of the volume of business available.

It is usually best to make few if any promises to members with respect to what the association will do for them. In other words, the association should not be oversold to get members. Many organizations have been handicapped because they could not live up to the exaggerated promises made by its organizers. It is better to talk about what the association has done rather than about what it is going to do. It is essential that members understand that they are going into a business organization to be owned and controlled by themselves. Its accomplishments will depend to a large extent upon what its members put into it.

The success of cooperative associations depends much upon the interest of producers in them. It is regretted that these organizations are sometimes sponsored by individuals with selfish motives. Again associations are sometimes brought into being by appealing to the prejudices of growers. It is important for growers to not only realize the need for a cooperative organization but to actively engage in its organization and to assume responsibility for its success. In the absence of a favorable attitude on the part of growers, it is better to postpone setting up an organization until such time as the producers may be actively interested. In the meantime, if it is thought advisable, educational work can be carried on to better acquaint growers with the improvements which might be brought

PRINGLE PTA DISCUSSES EDUCATION

The methods of teaching the Three R's on any subject is not so particular, the idea is to get the thought to the pupil. That he is living to day and not preparing for a future life, said E. W. Harper, Supt. of Plemons school Friday November 15 when he spoke to the members of the Pringle Parent Teacher Association.

Speaking broadly on American Education, Mr. Harper, continued that citizenship is the most important subject to be taught and in speaking of curriculum changes advised the cutting down of the subjects in High School rather than adding to.

Methods in teaching depend on situations, equipment and supplies. Teachers must be organized were among other thoughts left with his audience.

AFTER 100 YEARS
IT WAS DONE

A 100-year-old challenge of Texas history has been accepted at last.

It happened at Gonzales several days ago during the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the firing of the first shot of the Texas Revolution.

Proudly the citizens of Gonzales hoisted a flag labeled "Come and Take It" just as their ancestors did a century before in defiance of a Mexican army's command to surrender their brass cannon.

The next morning, the Centennial celebrants were amazed. The flag was gone and a note was pinned to the staff. It read:

"We did."

I flew a course away to the west where it was passable, but finally when I had to ease over to the east to get into Miami, the fog in the river bottom made conditions too dangerous for me to take any chances with my valuable passenger. I milled around and around trying to find a hole to pierce thru to the airport which was to the north of town, but couldn't make it, so I picked a field to the south of town on the main highway and landed, hailing a car. I thumbed a ride for Will so he could get on in and start the show, told him as soon as the fog lifted I would fly over and land at the airport and hurry on to the theatre.

In about an hour the fog lifted enough so I could get on over to the airport. On landing I was met by the committee members who were dumbfounded to find that my famous passenger was not with me and was already in the theatre giving his act. I never saw a more disappointed crowd. The next bit of bad weather flying we encountered was on a flight from Bartlesville to Okmulgee. We were flying to our last show of the day and this being the night attraction was most important. The weather was terrible and the nearer to Okmulgee we came the worse it got. I was flying between two layers of clouds amidst a downpour. There was a scud of clouds near the ground which had sufficient holes through which I could get down whenever I wanted to. I thought if the weather got worse I would retrace my course and set down and put Will in a car.

By dead reckoning I soon figured that we were nearly at our destination and I started to spiral down through the clouds. In doing this it is quite natural to look over one's shoulder to the rear, and in doing so I took a look at Will. Obviously he was worried. I had explained nothing to him, and he probably wondered how in the world we were going to make it.

After letting down and making the landing at the airport Will got out and began being most complimentary to me about having made it all right. He thought that we couldn't get through. I thanked him and then started to kid him a little. I told him I saw him wiggling around in his seat, of course he did not think I was watching him.

After the tour Mrs. Hawks and I went to his ranch in California for a two weeks vacation.

There was one thing Will Rogers wanted to eat when it came meal time. He loved chilli and he would rather slide up to a counter for a bowl of chilli than eat at the finest cafe in town. Many a time he and I would sneak away at his command, let's go get a bowl of chilli.

Will was most temperamental. If a drink was offered he might take one and again he might not. If he did take one that would probably all he would indulge in occasionally he would take two but the second was usually well watered.

His generosity was only exceeded by his sympathy. He was always giving away money as he saw fit. Sometimes he would give $50. to 500. at the town.
