HIGHLIGHTS IN ADDRESS OF CONG. JONES

What visitors termed as the most outstanding "Appreciation day" staged in honor of Congressman Marvin Jones, since his return to the district from the national congress, came to a termination Tuesday afternoon with an interesting and instructive address delivered by the honored guest at the high school auditorium.

Perhaps none of the series of fete days so far has been attended by such a large number of out of town guests, and leaders of the Panhandle country.

Following a half day of activities in entertaining guests, a large portion of Hansford County's population adjourned to the high school auditorium Tuesday at 3 p. m. to hear the address of Congressman Marvin Jones.

Opening his address with a tribute to the people of his district, and compliments to his many personal friends in this section, Congressman Jones gave a running story of the government of this nation for the past dozen years.

Following the inspection of the Irrigation farm's well the tour made the farm of Dr. S. B. Hale, operated by Claude and Dasil Shees.

At the noon day banquet, the vegetables were furnished by the Hale Irrigation farm, and the quality of the food coupled with the interest shown in the two irrigation farms of the county, drew many favorable comments from the visitors.

That the large crowd was handled efficiently and creditably by ladies of the missionary society for the banquet was evident by the many complimentary comments of the visitors.

Mason King, outside man for the News-Globe of Amarillo, was the efficient and witty toastmaster (often referred to as Roastmaster) at the banquet. Speakers who expressed their appreciation and that of their people at the noon luncheon included the following:

President of the Hansford County Chamber of Commerce, R. V. Converse, who delivered the address of welcome. Grover Hill of Amarillo, who responded to the address of welcome. Carl

FIRST CONFERENCE GAME TO BE PLAYED HERE FRIDAY OCT 25

Spearman Lynx players face their first conference opponents here Friday, October 25 when the undefeated Canadian high team played on the lynx field.

Coach Gunn is working his men daily in an effort to whip them in shape to win their first conference contest. The team has never before faced such an important game this early in the season.

Following the above statement the speaker carefully outlined the activities of the new deal government, listing the benefit payments, the finance legislation, and other farm special legislation.

Congressman Jones praised President Roosevelt highly, and stated that the President was the first chief executive in more than a half century who knew of the problems of the farmer, and worked to correct unjust conditions.

He made it emphatic that the government was not giving the farmer any special favors, but merely placing the farming industry on a par with commercial activities of the nation.

COUNTY OFFICIALS
SIX COUNTIES ASK
WPA RULE CHANGE

County Judges and Commissioners of Hansford County, Ochiltree, Sherman, Dallam and Lipscomb counties met with Congressman Marvin Jones, WPA director, Austin Merredith, WPA engineer Willis and several Amarillo visitors, following Congressman Jones' address Tuesday, for a discussion of unfavorable rulings of the work progress administration. Judge Broadhurst called attention to the fact that the ruling stated specifically that no tenant farmer or farm owner could participate in the WPA program.

A roundtable discussion brought out the fact that the ruling was probably made to cover down state sections where the landlord furnished tenants. The ruling works a hardship on this section of the country, in that it leaves many who need and must have government aid, without a chance to work. It further hurts the WPA program in these Panhandle counties because there is not sufficient classification to justify scarcely any program of improvement.

Government officials admitted that the ruling appeared unjust for this section, and all present pledged their aid in an effort to get the ruling changed.

Brotherhood Meet
At Baptist Church
Monday, October 21

The regular meeting of the First Baptist Church Brotherhood is to be held at the church Monday evening October 21, beginning at 8 p. m.

A very interesting program of entertainment is promised by the program committee, and the refreshment committee headed by Marion Glover is talking about serving plank steaks as refreshments.

LYNX WILL PLAY GUYMON TEAM FRI.

Coach Elma Gunn and his Lynx Football team will journey to Guymon tonight (Friday) for a contest with the Oklahoma high school football team.

Many local fans are expected to make the trip with the team, as considerable interest is being shown in the local record of our team. While the last two games played resulted in defeat, Panhandle and Borger winning, it is generally conceded that the local players showed excellent football tactics, and the defeats were not nearly so emphatic as was expected by local fans.

Hansford So Far Has No Centennial Farm

Hansford county farmers, if they would be Centennial demonstrators, must contact County Agent Lester Boykin at once. There is no entrance fee, while district prizes are $75, $50, and three of $25. State prizes: $250, $125 and six $25. So far the county has no Centennial demonstrator.

Demonstrations must be along designated highways and be typical of extension work previously done in the county. In Hansford county this would probably include poultry raising, livestock culture, and feeding, contour and terrace farming, etc.

Demonstrations are intended to give visitors to the Texas Centennial next year a full idea of the state's agricultural, stock and farm diversification resources.

Resettlement Body Will Help Farmers

The Texas Resettlement Administration will aid farmers in buying work teams, milk cows, chickens, and hogs, as a part of the wider program to be carried out this year, R. E. Catherton, rural supervisor of this district said.

Loans will be made only to those who have enough grain to feed the livestock, and purchases will be made locally, if possible, under supervision of the Resettlement Administration.

Loans will be made only to clients unable to get assistance from other financial agencies, and then recommendations must be made through the Texas Relief Commission, the Farm Credit Administration or local Resettlement Advisory Committee.

Appointments for the Hansford county Resettlement Advisory Committee, to be made by Catherton and Lester Boykin, Hansford County agent, have not been completed as yet.

BRADHURST IS PROMISED EARLY START WPA WORK

County Judge J. H. Broadhurst and Editor W. J. Miller of the Spearman Reporter, met last Thursday with the state highway commission at Dallas, Texas in an effort to get highway work started on highway 88 in Hansford county.

Completion of highway 88 is to be under the highway department, the WPA project for this work having been applied for by the state department.

In addition to asking for an early start on the road work, the Hansford committee asked for information relative to completing the right-of-way and work on 88, West of Gruver to the county line. While no definite contract has been made, officials encouraged the Hansford committee to believe this road would be completed to the Hansford line. The commission indicated an early start on roadwork.

However, at this time due to the WPA ruling regarding farmers and tenant farmers working, it is doubtful in local circles if this county could muster a sufficient crew to do highway work.

Following the conference at Dallas, Judge Broadhurst made a trip to Austin, in an effort to get the WPA ruling changed regarding working farmers on the WPA projects in the Panhandle. He met with several prominent state officials, and convinced them of the injustice of the ruling. This trip made the second trip to Austin that Judge Broadhurst has made in an effort to gain work for Panhandle farmers. He has worked single-handed on the proposal for the past several weeks, and has enlisted the aid of county officials all over the Panhandle in the fight for a change in the unjust ruling. He was informed at Austin that the ruling would of necessity have to be changed out of Washington, and was advised to get in touch with Congressman Marvin Jones. On his return to Spearman, Mr. Broadhurst phoned county officials over the North Panhandle, and arranged a conference with Congressman Jones here Tuesday of this week. Mr. Broadhurst and other county officials are well pleased with the results of the Tuesday conference.

Following the Dallas meeting, Bill Miller left Mr. Broadhurst to visit with his father, N. J. Miller at Collinsville, Texas. He returned to Spearman Sunday with Judge Broadhurst.

METHODIST CHURCH HOLDS ANNUAL BANQUET

Members and friends of the local Methodist church met last Thursday night in the annex of the church. This is a yearly affair. The aim is to discuss the year past and give plans for the new year which is approaching. To give a financial report and plans for closing out a successful year in all lines. More than a hundred were in attendance at the banquet. Those who made the evening seem short because of the fine musical renditions were: Mrs. G. L. Boykin, playing the violin; Mr. Ferguson, playing a horn and Miss Ruby England who accompanied all numbers on the piano. The musicians were encored many times. The versatile, resourceful and witty toastmaster was none other than G. Lester Boykin. He never ran short of fine jokes which kept the large crowd in good spirits. The speaker of the evening was Rev. Joe McReynolds, pastor of the first Methodist church of Borger. He held the audience spell-bound for an hour or more with his fine humor and worthwhile thoughts. He exalted the church and spoke at length on the high ideals found in the lives of real home makers. Several others made short talks. The meeting was declared by all who were there to be the best ever held by this church. The ladies had prepared an abundance of food that would make a king satisfied. One thing which was noticeable was the absence of English peas and mashed Irish potatoes—this is something new under the sun. The menu committee has the thanks of the entire meeting for the splendid menu. A rising vote of thanks was given to the ladies for the preparation and serving of such appetizing and abundant meal.

WILL WAR TOUCH US?

We don't believe that there is much chance of the United States being seriously affected by the war between Italy and Ethiopia. There is no such emotional reaction, so far as we can see, as there was in the beginnings of the Great War, when everybody in America was taking sides vehemently.

If the expected war is confined to a conflict between the Italians and the Ethiopians, it is difficult to see how any American interests would be seriously imperiled. All the trade that we have with Ethiopia you could put in your hat. Our exports to Italy have been steadily declining for years and there is no occasion to worry about them.

The real possible danger to the United States would be another general European war. That is not outside the realm of possibility. It may not come as a direct result of the present exchange of beligerent gestures between Italy and Great Britain, but all of the folk who make a study of international relations seem to think that, soon or later, some incident will set off the fireworks and involve all of the great powers in another catastrophic conflict.

The thing that brought us into the last war was the assumption by the belligerent powers of the right to dictate to us where our ships might and might not navigate the free seas, an assumption which culminated in Germany's declaration of unrestricted submarine warfare. It is conceivable that a situation might develop in which the free passage of American commerce through the Mediterranean and the Suez Canal would be threatened or prohibited by some other nation. It would not take very many incidents, such as the deliberate sinking of American ships, to stir the American people to the point of going to war again.

We hope nothing of the sort will happen. We do not think it is likely to happen. But we must not lose sight of the fact that no nation can remain completely isolated from all the other nations of the world, and that anything which upsets the international situation may easily affect us too.

SO WE COOK OUR FOOD

An ox or a horse can seize and masticate thoroughly a dry, hard ear of corn. Most any of the farm animals may attack a cured bale of hay and with powerful teeth and capable salivary glands reduce the tough, dried grass to fit the stomach and be readily digested.

The hen picks up ripened grains, hard as wood—swallows them whole and doubtless enjoys the flavor she has a battery of small pebbles in her interior, to grind her cereal with pleasing deliberation. It is all very interesting when we have time to think of it.

But, man cannot do thigs as the catle, horses and hogs do hem. We may eat a few things raw, with benefit. Our pioneers ate raw turnips freely in the days before the young orchards had arrived at the fruit-bearing stage. We find raw fruits exceedingly palatable and beneficial and even necessary to our well-being. We may eat dried or wholly-air-cured meats such as "chipped beef" if it be shaved thin and yet masticated well. It is tonic for the digestive tract and a blood-builder as well.

There are faddists today who think man should abolish cooking!

The common sense of it is that vegetables and meats of all kinds need treatment before being eaten. Tough fibers must be made tender. Hard growths must be softened. Hidden food-principles must be set free that we may appropriate them to our use without over-taxing the digestive machinery within us. The process of cooking becomes one of greatest importance to the human family.

Let me mention, a possible error which is over-cooking. Too ardent frying, boiling, roasting is also wrong. The artist in cookery knows when to quit! Much of our diet is spoiled by "cooking it to death." Don't do it.

International Sunday School Lesson

By DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic:—The Message of Jeremiah.

Scripture Lesson:—Jeremiah 7: 1-11; 21-23.

1. The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord, saying,

2. Stand in the gate of the Lord's house, and proclaim there this word, and say, Hear the word of the Lord, all ye of Judah, that enter in at these gates to worship the Lord.

3. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Amend your ways and your doings, and I will cause you to dwell in this place.

4. Trust ye not in lying words, saying, The temple of the Lord, the temple of the Lord, are these.

5. For if ye thoroughly amend your ways and your doings; if ye thoroughly execute judgment between a man and his neighbor;

6. If ye oppress not the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow, and shed not innocent blood in this place, neither walk after other gods to your hurt;

7. Then will I cause you to dwell in this place, in the land that I gave to your fathers for ever and ever.

8. Behold, ye trust in lying words, that cannot profit.

9. Will ye steal, murder, and commit adultery, and swear falsely, and burn incense unto Baal, and walk after other gods whom ye know not;

10. And come and stand before me in this house, which is called by my name, and say, We are delivered to do all these abominations?

11. Is this house, which is called by my name, become a den of robbers in your eyes? Behold, even I have seen it, saith the Lord.

21. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Put your burnt offerings unto your sacrifices, and eat flesh.

22. For I spake not unto your fathers, nor commanded them in the day that I brought them out of the land of Egypt, concerning burnt offerings or sacrifices;

23. But this thing commanded I them, saying, Obey my voice, and I will be your God, and ye shall be my people, and walk ye in all the ways that I have commanded you, that it may be well unto you.

Golden Text:—Obey my voice and I will be your God, and ye shall be my people.—Jer. 7:23.

Introduction

The question, "How may we know God's will?" is an important and sometimes a very perplexing one. Jesus threw down this challenge to men, "If any man willeth to do his will, he shall know of the teaching," etc. (John 7:16, Revised Version.) If any man resolves at all costs to follow the light, the truth that is plain, more and fuller light will be given. Hosea, in the dim light of Old Testament times, said, "Then shall we know, if we follow on to know the Lord." (Hos. 6:3). "Horace Bushnell in great perplexity, and wrestling with doubt, began with this, "It must be right to do right," and came into the light. In taking leave of his pupils at Yale College to enter the ministry, he laid down for them two rules for their guidance: (1) "Be perfectly honest in forming your principles of action," (2) "Never swerve in conduct from your honest convictions. If between them both, you go over Niagara, go!"

"Amend Your Ways and Your Doings"

"Stand in the gate of the Lord's house, etc." Jeremiah is commanded to go into the temple court to go where the people are, where they throng the House of God, bringing their offerings. Going to the Temple (to church) is all right and proper, if one goes with clean hands, or penitent spirit. "Amend your ways and your doings, and I will cause you to dwell in this place." Jeremiah's message reminds us of Isaiah's words spoken about one hundred years previously: "When ye come to appear before me, who hath required this at your hand, to trample my courts? Incess is a nabomination unto me; your appointed feasts my soul hateth" (Isa. 1:12-14, Revised Version). But Jeremiah always holds open the door of hope: "If ye thoroughly amend your ways and your doings—will I cause you to dwell in this place."

Trust Not in Church Membership

"Trust ye not in lying words, saying, The temple of the Lord, the temple of the Lord, are these." There is no magic words, "The temple of the Lord!" The modern equivalent would be: "The church, the church. Don't we attend church regularly? Don't we repeat the Creed every Sunday? Don't we commune regularly each month? Aren't we safe?" But Jeremiah says these are "lying words," if we do not thoroughly amend our ways, if we do not "thoroughly execute judgment (justice) between a man and his neighbor" if we oppress "the stronger, the fatherless, and the widow." Jeremiah is not discounting the Temple (the church) but he is condemning those who substitute the church for right living.

National Suicide

Judah was committing national suicide and didn't know it. Didn't her national heritage veling in the allurements of strange gods and new things, and so insensible was the nation to the seriousness of conditions that the faithful prophet was powerless to arouse the people. Our age is witnessing the passing of many ideals dear to our country's history, and there is genuine, not altogether selfish, alarm as to the consequences. The glamor of the new has peculiar fascination for the unthinking, and our immediate danger is that we may lose appreciation of the virtues that have made us a great people. "Let's be 1935," says a young woman in defense of the practice of other wise respectable women going into the saloons, drinking, and getting drunk with the men. Well, that may be 1935, but we may well be advised that our country was not made in a day, and the friends of the nation may well call us back to first principles, lest we pass beyond the pale of intercession. We are not forgetting that America has no iron-clad, incontestable insurance policy on her future.

A Well-Nigh Hopeless Task

"Is it any use longer to preach to this recalcitrant people, or pray for them? The prophet's despair and the divine exasperation are blended in the message (ver. 16). Why, even the children and the women are doing their bit in the shameful idolatries. "Does it provoke me to anger?" says Jehovah. Well it might—but it is themselves that suffer most. The message becomes almost bitter; it fairly thunders the divine indignation (ver. 21 ff. "It is obedience that I want—obedience! obedience! Eat your burnt offerings. What do I care? Offered by your guilty hands, unclean from those other heathen sacrifices, they are worse than worthless in my sight."

The Importance of Church Obligations

It is quite fair to say that obedience is and must be better than any observance of forms. It may be a part of obedience. If at any time God has said, and said to you "Repent and be baptised", or, "Do this in remembrance of me," or, "Rest from your labors on my day and worship me in my house," are not these commandments binding on you? Are you obeying God's voice if you do not observe these ordinances? Are you walking in all the ways which he commanded you, if you neglect public worship, if you do not come to the Lord's Supper, or if you take no part in the distinctive labors of the Church? Religious ordinances, Church duties, are part of a good life, since they are imposed upon us, for our good by the authority of God himself.

EASY MONEY

This publication is reprinting a boxed editorial from the KANSAS CITY PACKER.

While the editorial policy of the paper does not agree with the apparent (to the editor at least) purpose of the editorial, namely to criticize the administration, we print this to bring to the minds of the people that they are the government. Any reflection on our national administration is a reflection on the individual unit, the people.

While the editorial is overdrawn, there is some thought-provoking ideas. See them.

America is a big country. Its resources are almost unlimited. Its people are stout hearted, enterprising, aggressive. They are accustomed to doing whatever undertake in a grand manner. They like colossal gestures. They like them so much that they often cast direction to the winds and lose their sense of balance.

They've lost it now. America has earned the blue ribbon as the world's record boob spendthrift. Wonderful spending has in the past few years become the popular pastime. Both private citizens and government have thrown themselves wholeheartedly unreservedly into the giant game.

It began with the world war. Our people and our government developed the ability to spend freely. They devised ways of spending never before heard of dreamed of. The accelerated gait has been light-heartedly maintained ever since.

During the comparatively brief period of the war we probably spent as much or more than all our allies combined. We did it with a grand flourish. We believed it was the best to force the issue and rush the war to an early conclusion. That was good logic for that time. It would have been all right. But having become drunk with spending we forgot to stop. If we had adopted a reasonable economic policy then, it might have been different. Maybe we could have forced the bill.

But we did not. We continued to borrow and spend, almost from the day Armistice was signed. Now, individual citizens as well as city, county, state and national governments, are heavily burdened with IOUs.

(There has been one notable exception. That was the policy of economy and thrift, applied to national finances, under the college administration. The late New Englander deserves a debt of gratitude, even if his influence was futile, and his work toward reducing the national debt in vain. But he won't get it, that's all for gotten now, and his influence never gained any headway outside of Washington anyway.)

Nor is the end in sight. We are now in the heyday of our spending orgy. We are still mortgaging our individual income expectations. We are still piling up debts for future generations to pay. And no one is bothering to say CAN WE PAY.

Let's take a random example. Congress has just voted $4,880,000,000, most of it for work relief. Relief is imperative. But probably not more than one third that amount would be needed for direct relief. Very likely worthy unfortunates would be better taken care of, and better fed under direct relief than they will be under work relief.

It is true that work relief has its advantages. But can we and should we try to afford it when we are already loaded with debt? Should we try to do something in accordance with our ability to pay when the time comes for the payoff.

Now what do we see? Newspaper cartoons of greedy citizens fawing on the steps of the US treasury, struggling for handouts. Every community from villages to metropolises, casting about to grab off its share of the four billion dollars, as possible. Each community goading its leading citizens to get up an early yard work late so that they may get their share of the money.

They look upon it as a pork barrel. Its customary to raid the pork barrel. No one thinking of the final pay day. No one considers that he, or his children, or his grandchildren, will have to pay it all back in taxes. The public inclination everywhere is to get all the government money possible, regardless of future consequences.

That's only one example. Unwise spending is the universal tendency. Citizens buy what they do not need, because they can get it on the installment plan. They think they can pay it out of the weekly check. Our governments do the same thing, blindly depending on unnumbered decades to come. It is all predicated on a beautiful theory. We think we can buy prosperity back by going deeper and deeper in debt. We've forgotten that always before we've had to produce prosperity in the natural way by sweat and thrift and economy. That's all in the past, we say. We are committed to travel on the new and untried route of experimentation and extravagance.

We've decided to borrow more when we should be paying back. We've been spending, as a nation and as citizens, like drunken sailors since the beginning of the war. Little protest has been heard from citizens. Excessive, unwise, almost universal spending has been the daily vogue for the past 18 years. Yet we continue to borrow.

Look at Congress. Look at our state legislatures. Grinding out pork barrels. Making sop for the greedy, thoughtless citizens who crave something for nothing. Everybody's in on it. Rich and poor alike. Give us more, we say.

 An interesting program is being prepared as a part of the entertainment for Halloween. It shows will contain wonderful things to be seen.

BAND NEWS

The band is making better progress now that nearly everyone has their instrument. Even Coach Smith has to admit he's heard the band. The director is at present making arrangements of the band so maybe we'll have some fun at some of the later ball games.
 Mr. Smith is doing a good job of keeping the roll and absentee list straight.
 The rehearsal room may be moved from the gym to the auditorium. The high school teachers are in favor of that action (What! Morris objects?).
 As band officers will be elected in the near future, the band members should be thinking over prospective nominations.

PEP SQUAD GOES TO BORGER

The Pep Squad attended the football game at Borger Friday night. They yelled and cheered the Lynx team on throughout the game. Between halves they cheered on the field, formed an arch and gave fifteen rah's for Lynx.

LYNX OUTPLAY BORGER BUT LOSE 9-0

Spearman Lynx, doped to lose by four touchdowns, played the class A Borger Bull Dogs Friday night at Borger. By virtue of a blocked punt and an intercepted pass, the Bull Dogs were victorious by a score of 9-0. Blocking and tackling with dead end precision and outplaying their opponents in every department of the game. The Lynx proved to be no easy mark for their touted rivals. It was one of the best games played by the Lynx this year.
 Forward passes played a prominent part in the game and both teams intercepted 5 passes. A. J. Curtis was injured in the second quarter, but he will be able to play against Canadian a week from Friday the first conference game of this season.
 The Lynx play Guymon at Guymon Friday afternoon.

Misses Mable Jones and Mary Gantt entertained with bridge Saturday evening in the home of Mrs. Floyd Sumrall. Those playing were Misses Lois Baley, Sibyl Bailey, Faye Files, Evelyn Roach, Ruby England, Vera Lawrence and the hostesses.

FIRE PREVENTION (Editorial)

The week of October 7 to 11 has been designated as Fire Prevention Week. In observance of this all people should correct fire hazards around their homes. The loss of property by fire each year is tremendous, and many lives are lost. It has been said that fire is man's best friend and his worst enemy. If it is properly used, it is beneficial, but improperly used it is very destructive.
 Rubbish around heating pipes often causes combustion. Hot ashes, carelessly disposed of, sometimes cause fires. Improperly insulated wires are dangerous. Check up on your homes and yards now to see that none of these hazards exist. Make your homes as safe from fire as possible.

FRESHMEN HOLD CLASS MEETING

The freshmen held a meeting Monday morning and elected Floydene Hays as candidate for Carnival Queen. Charles Patton Archer is campaign manager and L. M. Womble and Leon Yates are representatives. They want everyone to vote for their candidate.
 At this meeting they also checked their books and spoke about examinations, which will be given this week.
