

US Moves To Smash Ultra Nationalism

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—Wholesale arrest of the big shots who master minded Japan's whole war effort has been ordered by the United States government in a move to smash Japanese militarism and ultra nationalism entirely.

Along with this, the government has directed that if democratically minded Japanese start armed revolt against their overlords, General Douglas MacArthur's occupation forces are not to interfere—except to protect themselves and serve other occupation aims.

The action on arrests was disclosed tonight along with White House release of a four-week-old statement of Japanese occupation policy formulated by the state, war and navy departments.

Approved by President Truman the instructions were sent to General MacArthur by the joint chiefs of staff before the formal surrender of Nippon which took place Sept. 1.

The declaration reveals for the first time that the United States is supreme in directing Japanese occupation policy, although where possible actions are agreed upon with the other Allied powers beforehand.

On the point of the cleanup of Japanese leaders it is expected here that a wave of arrests will be forthcoming in Japan in the next few days, based on a second Allied war criminal list.

The statement was made public by the White House as a result of recent controversy, at the state department and at the capital, over who is formulating the occupation policy and what it is.

The declaration calls for sweeping changes in Japan's economic, political and social systems—changes which include proposed "dissolution" of the great family monopolies which dominated Japan's trade and industry.

Defeated Nippon's industrial capacity for making war is to be wiped out by a process of removing or destroying industries not needed for essential peacetime supplies.

Envisaging a possible Japanese revolution, the declaration contains this passage:

"Changes in the form of government initiated by the Japanese people or government in the direction of modifying its feudal and authoritarian tendencies are to be permitted and favored. In the event that the effectuation of such changes involves the use of force by the Japanese people or government against persons opposed thereto, the supreme commander should intervene only where necessary to ensure the security of his forces and the attainment of all other objectives of the occupation."

As to the question of inter-Allied control of Japan, the declaration says this:

"Although every effort will be made, by consultation and by constitution of appropriate advisory bodies, to establish policies for the conduct of the occupation and the control of Japan which will satisfy the principal Allied powers, in the event of any differences of opinion among them, the policies of the United States will govern."

Release of the declaration, officially titled "U. S. initial post-surrender policy for Japan," was made after Gen. MacArthur's recent estimate that occupation forces could be cut to 200,000 troops six months hence and criticism of that estimate by Washington officials who said that they, rather than the occupation forces, were determining Japanese policy.

The whole thing adds up to revolutionizing Japan from its wartime existence of a militarist, feudalistic empire into a more or less democratic island country stripped of its far-flung conquests and its stolen wealth.

Reviewing The Big Spring Week—

Joe Pickle

Ouch! All it took to turn September into May was a review in this column a couple of weeks ago, undertaking to show that statistics proved cooler weather comes quickly after Sept. 15, and that 90-plus temperatures were the exception rather than the rule. What happened? Five of the first six days turned in 91 or better readings with a top of 100 (honestly, this is rare) on Tuesday.

While this has been a boon to most cotton producers, a rain soon would be of undoubted value to feed acreage and ranges. We are tempted to predict drought in order to assure downpours.

Last week one of the members of the Texas State Guard company lost a canteen, cartridge belt, etc. as the unit left for training

Japs Ordered To Reveal Financial Setups, Fortunes

Account To Give Allies Insight Into Methods To Pay For Conquest

By The Associated Press
TOKYO, Sept. 22—General MacArthur demanded today the unlocking of Japan's long secret financial setup, including the emperor's fortune as the government in Washington made it clear there soon will be more big developments to render Nippon incapable of ever again waging war.

The supreme commander for Allied powers issued a far-sweeping order, considered a prelude to inquiry into the wealth of munitions makers and merchant princes.

The MacArthur order for a financial accounting by Japan was wide in scope.

It was intended to give the Allies precise information and a tight hold over financial agencies and the methods which enabled an essentially poor country like Japan to underwrite eight years of war.

The order was just another crack from the occupational whip in an action-packed day which saw these other developments:

1. MacArthur ordered the arrest of Gen. Nobuyuki Abe, lately deposed governor of Korea and former premier closely aligned with the conquests in China.

2. He told the Japanese naval police force, which had hoped to keep 11,269 men under arms, to demobilize before Oct. 31.

3. Vice Premier Fumimaro Konoye stepped into the controversy edging around Hirohito by declaring the emperor's abdication would be "disastrous" to a Japan facing starvation and mass unemployment.

The big industrialists whom occupation authorities now propose to drag down from positions of power and influence themselves were contributing to Japan's woes.

Domei agency reported the house of Mitsubishi was releasing war-mobilized workers from heavy industry without any decision on reconversion.

Only the house of Mitsu appeared to have a plan to meet the dire days ahead this winter, and was reported concentrating on the civilian fields of lumbering, agriculture and real estate.

MacArthur's order for a financial accounting demanded an answer to the questions concerning private financial transactions within a week, and the government's within two weeks.

MacArthur further required a record of all laws and decrees pertaining to compulsory savings and freeing of gold and foreign assets.

Brushing Up On Regulations
(Once an ordinance is on the books, it may be forgotten. This and subsequent articles will serve as a refresher... Ed.)

City Dog Ordinance—It is unlawful for any person who owns, controls or is in charge of any dog to permit it to run at large, within the corporate limits, except that person is in charge. The dog must be vaccinated against rabies annually by the duly licensed city veterinarian. A dog license must be secured annually.

Dogs found running at large within the corporate limits will be taken to the city pound and there kept for 72 hours unless sooner redeemed by owner or person in charge of dog. Unless the person shows or can show by certificate that the dog has been vaccinated against rabies and has or secures licenses for such dog, the animal shall be disposed of in a humane manner.

Upon vaccination of a dog, the veterinarian issues a certificate which is required for application for a dog license. The license tag ($1) should be placed on the dog's collar for identification in event it is picked up.

Persons permitting dogs to run at large within corporate limits, except with owner or person in charge in control of them, could be confronted with a fine up to $100, according to terms of the ordinance.

Did He Suffer In Silence?
By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—The row over Japanese occupation policies, and disclosures that the Japanese code was solved before the Pearl Harbor attack, today sharpened political attention on two republicans. They are:

Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Washington will continue to list him among presidential possibilities despite anything the 65-year-old general may say about retiring when his Japanese occupation job is done.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. He apparently is being groomed by supporters for re-election and a subsequent presidential bid as the man who

Oil Workers Sticking To Strikes Over Nation

Autoworkers Ask For Strike Vote

DETROIT, Sept. 22 (AP)—A strike vote in 96 General Motors Corporation plants throughout the nation was asked by the United Automobile Workers (CIO) today in a petition to the National Labor Relations Board.

The union's demand for a 30 per cent wage increase topped a list of issues which Walter P. Reuther, PAW-CIO vice president, said were in dispute. Reuther estimated that 325,000 workers would be affected if a strike is called.

The labor department at Washington received the petition this afternoon and officials indicated the vote, if approved, would be set for October 24. It has been estimated the cost of taking the ballot would be approximately $150,000.

Although only the 96 GM plants are under contract with the UAW-CIO, a union spokesman said strike action in those would force a shutdown of the corporation's other 40-odd branches. The possibility that some of those under contract might not favor strike action, he added, is "not being contemplated."

A company spokesman said General Motors would not make a statement at this time on the strike vote petition.

Reuther said he believed the notice was in full compliance with the Smith-Connelly act, which provides a 30-day "cooling off" period between the petition and the actual strike vote.

The UAW-CIO action was taken as more than 90,000 workers were made idle by strikes which have halted automobile production in several Detroit plants and have stopped delivery of gasoline into the city.

General Motors, biggest of the auto industry's "big three," was chosen by the UAW as the "most strategic" for presentation of the union's postwar wage and other demands. Reuther recently said that if a demand is won from GM, it is virtually won for the entire industry.

Filing of the strike vote petition spiked reports that one of the other members of the big three—Chrysler Corporation or the Ford Motor Co.—might be struck first.

Old Settlers Hold Over Reunion For Encore Of Pleasure
Old settlers—some 500 strong—had such an old fashioned good time at their annual reunion Friday that they continued a part of it to Saturday.

That part was the old time dancing at the CCC barracks recreation hall in the city park extension.

The group was a little short on competition for the old fiddlers' contest scheduled for the afternoon. Highlight of the reunion was the old fashioned picnic luncheon with barbecue and all the trimmings. A cold drink concession was also available. The majority of the time was spent with the old timers visiting and other types of amusement.

The group unanimously decided to retain the same officers to serve for another year. They include Jim Winslow, president; Mrs. John Tucker, vice-president; and Mrs. Maggie Richardson, secretary-treasurer.

TO RETAIN WORKERS
NEW-YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—The textile apparel industry will employ 90 to 100 per cent of its peak wartime total of workers with the return to normal peacetime production. This was disclosed in a survey of mills, finishers and manufacturers conducted by John A.

TO APPEAR IN SENATE
AUSTIN, Sept. 22 (AP)—Guy C. Jackson, Jr., president of the Texas Water Conservation association, will leave from Houston by plane Monday for Washington, where he will appear before the irrigation and reclamation committee of the senate in opposition to the creation of the Missouri Valley Authority and all other federal authorities.

Republicans, meanwhile, were counting—and democrats discounting—the political effects of charges that high Roosevelt administration officials knew in advance that the Japanese planned a military attack on the United States.

Dewey became a focal point in this development when he confirmed receipt of a letter from Gen. George C. Marshall during the 1944 campaign reportedly advising him that the United States had solved the Japanese code before the assault on Pearl Harbor.

Marshall has made no comment. An assertion by Herbert E. Brownell, national GOP chairman, that Dewey decided not to tell what he knew about Pearl Harbor in the campaign seemed to set the stage for claims that the New York governor gave up a good chance for the presidency by his silence.

Republicans generally think that claim will be made by Dewey's supporters if he runs for reelection in New York as appears likely.

BALKANS TANGLE BIG FIVE IN DISPUTE, WATERWAYS CROP UP

By JOHN A. PARRIS, JR.
LONDON, Sept. 22 (AP)—The troublesome Balkans appeared tonight to have snagged the Big Five council of foreign ministers in a serious conflict, and differences on another issue—control of Europe's waterways—cropped up between the U. S. and Russia.

The Balkan question, hanging presently on the Hungarian peace treaty, was sidetracked temporarily when the ministers abandoned the subject at an informal session which closed the 11th day of deliberation—without complete accord on a single big issue.

Russia, disclosed to have signed a trade agreement giving the Soviets control of half of Hungary's economy was understood to have interrupted the Hungarian peace treaty talks by questioning the right of China and France to participate.

The Soviet objection, it was reported, was based on the grounds that the Potsdam agreement restricted peace talks to the countries which signed the armistice—the Big Three.

Russia and Britain did agree to withdraw their troops from Iran within six months of official V-E day, as pledged at Tehran. Russian Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov is reported to have assured the other foreign ministers that Russia already is removing Red army forces from that country.

The American plan was understood to provide for establishment of an international control consisting of the Big Four—Russia, England, France and the U. S.—plus the countries along the shores of these waterways: The Kiel Canal at the base of Denmark, the Rhine, Danube, Elbe and Oder rivers.

Russia is reported opposed to the internationalization idea, and argued for a plan under which the four occupation armies handle goods on the rivers they control.

The American view is that it is necessary to cut across European occupational lines immediately to keep traffic moving and unplug materials bottlenecks before winter.

Bible Fund Slowly Steadily Growing
The high school Bible class fund eased past the $1,400 mark Saturday with contributions continuing slowly but steadily.

A $50 gift from Hilltop Drive Inn by H. O. Fowler, manager, gave impetus to the fund campaign. Other contributions included a $20 anonymous donation, $10 each from Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Collins and the Business and Professional Women's club, and $5 each from Mrs. Bailey and Wynona Bailey.

Minimum goal for the campaign is $2,000. Checks or cash may be left with Joe Pickle, treasurer, for deposit to the fund and acknowledgment.

STRATOCRUISER FEATURES
SEATTLE, Sept. 22 (AP)—The Stratocruiser, the peace-time version of the C97 military transport, incorporates many of the engineering features of the famous B-29 Superfortress and can accommodate up to 114 passengers, Boeing Aircraft company officials revealed here today.

Gas Rationing Necessary In Some Areas

HOUSTON, Sept. 22 (AP)
The number of the nation's oil workers off the job passed 22,000 today as the head of the CIO Oil Workers Union urged its members to hold up further strike action pending outcome of a mediation conference Tuesday in Chicago.

Motorists in midwest and Texas coastal refinery cities where strikes were in progress entered the weekend with dwindling gasoline supplies. In some places voluntary rationing operated.

More than 16,000 workers were striking in Texas alone. Ten Texas plants already were closed, and the time for closing an eleventh, the Shell Deer Park refinery near Houston, was set for midnight. Thousands more workers in the Texas coastal section had voted to strike.

The Oil Workers International Union is pressing demands of 52 hours pay for a 40-hour work week. Its head, O. A. Knight, made this statement in Fort Worth:

"I am hopeful that at the Chicago conference we can come to an understanding so that workers can go back to their jobs with the assurance there will be no reduction in their earnings."

A shut down of the Sinclair refinery in Houston stopped deliveries to Sinclair dealers and a gasoline shortage began to develop here. Ohio's gasoline and fuel oil supply suffered another setback as CIO oil workers struck at the Lima refinery of Standard Oil company.

A voluntary gasoline ration program for essential users operated in Toledo. There was a somewhat similar program in Detroit, with most of that city's gas stations limiting customers to five gallons. They were considering restricting sales to essential users.

Spokesmen for service station operators in Cleveland reported motorists purchasing gasoline "at a near-frantic rate."

No gasoline was available in Port Arthur, Tex., filling stations. Seven plants were strikebound there and essential users operated on reserves.

Negotiations at Port Arthur between union and management to release stored refinery supplies were stalemated.

The voluntary ration programs involved issuance of ration cards by the International Oil Workers Union when necessary for fuel is proved.

An assertion that two cars crashed the picket line at the Texas Company plant in Port Arthur yesterday and that one picket suffered bruises, came from J. D. Ford, local union official. He did not identify the picket, and the company made no statement.

At Tulsa, Okla., H. L. Campbell, OWIU district representative, said there would be no stoppage of work in that section until at least after the Chicago conference.

Most Houston Sinclair stations said they expected to be out of gasoline by night. They reported heavy sales.

At Beaumont union employees were on record for a strike at the Magnolia refinery.

Down the Texas coast at Corpus Christi, Lee Brown, secretary of the CIO refinery workers local, said about 325 union members at Sinclair refinery there would strike at 8 a. m. Wednesday.

Robert D. Blair, president of local 342, OWIU, said that strike votes yesterday at Sinclair and Taylor Refining company Corpus Christi plants were overwhelming in favor of a strike. Taylor employs 165.

Nimitz To Visit In Texas On Navy Leave
WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—Pacific Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, due back in this country soon on his first visit since the end of the war, will go back to his native Texas before returning overseas.

The navy department announced today the commander in chief of the Pacific fleet and Pacific ocean areas would be in Dallas on Oct. 12. It was not known how long he would remain in Texas nor whether he would go elsewhere in the state. A celebration for him is planned here during the first week of October.

'Over 21' To Overjoy Ritz Audiences Today

The writer-director team which gave us that smash success, "A Song to Remember," namely Sidney Buchman and Charles Vidor, has once more teamed to bring to the screen the Broadway stage comedy, "Over 21," co-starring Irene Dunne, Alexander Knox and Charles Coburn and coming to the Ritz Theatre today.

It is just the sort of vehicle, we are told, in which Irene Dunne shines at her loveliest best. It's light and gay and sophisticated, which enables her to display her well-known charm, beauty and comedy delivery.

Alexander Knox, fresh from his triumph as President Wilson, is reported to have a role which rivals Miss Dunne's in laugh-provoking smartness. In this great divergence from his usual characterizations, Knox's performance is said to be perfect.

Much has always been expected of the veteran Charles Coburn. He has never failed to deliver. This time, as an irascible newspaper publisher, he is again drawing laughs galore, according to preview snappers.

When Max Wharton (Alexander Knox) leaves the New York Bulletin to join the Army and learn at first hand what the men think about the world to come after the war, Robert Gow (Charles Coburn), the paper's publisher, is frantic. Without his star columnist the paper will fall. Polly Wharton (Irene Dunne), Max's wife, a novelist and commentator, steps into the breach and writes his column under his by-line, after she has set up housekeeping in a tiny Florida bungalow where Max can spend his few hours off from Officer Candidate School.

But that is just one of the humorous difficulties that Polly encounters as she tries to do everything in her power to help Max get his commission. He is very worried about it since he's over 21 and he feels it's a young man's army. However, he does manage to pass and everyone is made happy when Polly assures Gow that she will continue to write for the paper while Max is away, and thus save the paper from failure.

Jeff Donnell and Loren Tindall are also in the cast as Lee Patrick, Phil Brown, Cora Witherspoon and Charles Evans.

German POW's Get Training To Aid Policing Fatherland

FORT GETTY, R. I., Sept. 22 (AP)—The army lifted the lid today from one of its top secrets—the training of German prisoners of war to help administer and police their own country.

For the first time, newsmen were permitted to see in operation a psychological reconversion attempt by which the United States government hopes to develop a future generation of Germans which will know and prefer the democratic form of government.

All the students volunteered to take the course. The students, army officers said repeatedly, are anti-Nazi. Last April, Col. Smith said, General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower directed that between 2,000 and 5,000 Germans be given the course and that is the task of the army school center.

DAILY STORY FROM THE BEST-SELLING BOOK
By BENNETT CERF

A TALE that may take a few of our high-powered salesmen down a peg concerns the visit of a man in quest of a bottle of catsup to Jones' Grocery Store.

The shelves of the entire store were solidly lined with bags of salt—hundreds upon hundreds of them. Mr. Jones allowed as how he had a stock of catsup, but had to go down to the cellar to fetch a bottle.

The customer went with him and there, to his surprise, found another huge stock of salt stacked on all sides. "Say," commented the customer, "you certainly must sell a lot of salt in this store!"

"Nah," said Mr. Jones with resignation. "I can't sell no salt at all. But the fellow who sells me salt! Can he sell salt!"

Speaking of selling ability, the late Arthur Kuden, advertising tycoon, had a single framed quotation hanging in his office. It was made by the 1936 world's champion hog caller: "You've got to have appeal as well as power in your voice. You've got to convince the hogs you have something for them."

'Irish Eyes Are Smiling' At State This Weekend

Damon Runyon and Gregory Ratoff, as producer and director, have infused into the story of a ballad writer of 30 years ago an intimacy and charm rarely achieved in musicals on a more spectacular scale and in modern setting.

Not that the backgrounds and costumes aren't gorgeous in Technicolor. They are. The music is plentiful and the two production numbers are attractively mounted and filled with talented performers. But there is a warmth to the story and personalities to which audiences will respond just as they will undoubtedly do to the singing of "Mother Machree" or "Let the Rest of the World Go By."

The cast is an unusual combination, and a successful one. Two comparative newcomers, June Haver and Dick Haymes, play the romantic leads. Miss Haver is a slight and vivacious blonde whose dancing is at present somewhat more accomplished than her singing or acting, but who shows promise of offering competition in all departments with a little more experience. Dick Haymes, who plays the young Ernest Ball, has an awkward, wistful appeal in addition to a pleasant and popular crooning style. Two veteran actors support them with amusing performance: Monty Woolley playing the unscrupulous promoter with the scholarly air and Anthony Quinn as the man who makes his living betting on sure things.

Mexican Peso Is Worth More Melted

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 22 (AP)—The Bank of Mexico has discontinued issuing silver money because the new United States silver price makes a peso worth 27 cents instead of the normal face value of 20 cents.

As a consequence, several hundred millions of silver pesos overnight became worth one-third more than face value.

No decision has been announced but money experts say the Bank of Mexico must reduce the silver in the peso so it won't pay to melt the money for the pure silver content.

The Mexican peso now contains 12 grammes of pure silver worth 27.36 cents. Deducting the cost of melting, shipping and insurance, there probably would be a 20 per cent profit in the sale abroad of Mexican pesos.

Olo Roemer, Danish astronomer born in 1664, discovered the measurement of the finite velocity of light, and foresaw nearly all the modern precision instruments.

DAMON RUNYON NOVEL—Made into a technicolor musical, the boisterous novel by Damon Runyon, "Irish Eyes Are Smiling" brings to the New State Theatre today and tomorrow the rough and rowdy fun in the heyday of gay Broadway.

If further identification of the tunes and remembering the words of the title song, "Boy of Mine," "A Little Bit of Heaven" and "I'll Forget You," there's the sudden appearance of Maxie Rosenbloom as Stanley Ketchel. Leonard Warren and Blanche Thebom of the Metropolitan Opera are also on hand to render the songs in classic style.

The music is the film's asset, and its appeal will not be confined to the older generation. The songs are now familiar and traditional Americana, although few will recall that one American wrote them all. However, audiences will go out of the theatre humming the

New Separation Center Causes Shake-Up In Orders At Local Post

Servicemen at the Big Spring Bombarrier school were notified Saturday that most of their orders to separation centers were cancelled and that they would be given top priority for 32 new army air forces separation centers.

Under the previous system, the field had sent to separation centers 294 officers and 224 enlisted men. Remaining on the eligible list are 235 officers, 274 enlisted men and five WACs. The WACs and 121 of the enlisted men are eligible under the "over 35" provisions, while others come under the re-adjustment regulations.

For discharge purposes, the army air forces has divided the nation into 32 areas. All personnel at the Big Spring base at present eligible for discharge were included in telegrams sent out Friday night. Now, the base awaits more quotas from the 32 areas.

First quotas were received Saturday, listing 33 officers and 34 enlisted men. The officers will go to Lincoln, Neb.; Chanute, Ill.; Sioux Falls, S. D. and Randolph, Amarillo and Sheppard Fields in Texas.

Enlisted men were listed to go to Ellington and Randolph Fields in Texas; Chanute Field; Portland, Ore.; Lowry Field, Colo., and Gowen Field, Idaho.

Staff members of the bombardier school's personnel section worked nearly every night last week to effect the changeover on schedule successfully.

The post's "Daily Bulletin" Saturday announced, "Accommodation dates at AAF Separation bases are expected within a few days and the personnel effected by preceding cancellations will receive priority for listing at earliest practical departure dates."

The bulletin also stated, "enlisted men with 80 or more points and enlisted women with 41 or more points are now eligible for separation from the service."

Naval Carriers Too Big To Go Through Panama Canal Locks

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—The Navy's new 45,000-ton aircraft carriers, biggest warships afloat, are too hefty to pass through the Panama Canal. In order to reach the Pacific they must round Cape Horn or sail east.

Confirming this today, naval sources said it is not a case of a man building a boat in his basement too big to take through the door. It is simply recognition that the canal, as a controlling factor in naval construction, is outmoded.

The three behemoths are the Midway, already commissioned; the Franklin D. Roosevelt, launched but not commissioned, and the Coral Sea, still under construction. Supplemental locks, begun before the war but not completed, will eventually permit the carriers to get through the canal.

Interpreting The News— Liberation Of Jap Women May Be Good Thing -- Certainly Can't Hurt

By JAMES D. WHITE Associated Press Staff Writer SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22 (AP)—One of the more important stories out of Japan is mentioned only incidentally.

It is the report that American policy proposes, among other things, to institute woman suffrage in Japan.

No more fundamental change in Japanese life could be imagined, because it's pretty well agreed that a nation's place in civilized society usually corresponds roughly to the way it treats its own women.

That's only one index, of course. But it's true that Japanese women are little more than servants without personal rights.

If Japanese women get the vote it could mean, in the long run, the liberation of exactly half the Japanese race. And there are a lot of people who know both halves who will tell you that the women of Japan are by most counts the better half.

In Japan a girl has nothing to say about whom she marries. If her family is poor they may turn her over to a brothel-keeper in return for a loan, or to an industrialist as a factory worker.

She cannot own property. She cannot leave a bullying husband or prevent his spoiling his sons rotten or selling his daughters. She carries her husband's luggage and otherwise serves him all-ways.

For two reasons. One is the common assumption (most frequently encountered in the Orient these days but not by any means peculiar to the Orient) that it's normal and right for women to play an inferior role. The other is the Japanese superman-warrior myth which feeds its ego upon the slavish attention of the servant-wife.

Japanese women are usually gentle and cheerful.

If Japanese women are trained in gentility, they also have been kept ignorant of nearly everything but home-making and child-production and such frills as the tea ceremony and flower arrangement.

But if the women of Japan are allowed to make their fair contribution to Japanese life, it's difficult to see how Japan and the world could lose by it.

Mexicans Expect US Competition To Pace Industry And Price

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 22 (AP)—Mexican bankers expect United States competition to deflate Mexican prices and to set the pace for industry here.

In its September economic survey the Banco Nacional de Mexico comments that the United States held inflation to 27.3 per cent "while among us exactly the reverse has happened." Bank of Mexico index figures, the report says, show prices of 32 essential articles "increased two and a half times above those of 1919 which was not a time of cheap living."

Consequently, the survey reports, merchants, manufacturers and investors are moving cautiously because they expect "the national demand will turn toward the United States market until prices here are reduced to the level of those in the United States."

FOR FLYING TIGERS WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—Senator Chandler (D-Ky) agrees with Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault that his Flying Tigers deserve government benefits, the same as members of the U.S. armed forces. Chandler plans to introduce a bill to bring this about.

Kamikaze Pilots DID Return Without Loss Of Precious Jap Face

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 22 (AP)—Two former members of the Japanese suicide air force said today that Kamikaze pilots sometimes returned from unsuccessful missions, without disgrace.

The two, now farmers near Yokohama, told American army correspondents that American fighter plane opposition minimized the effectiveness of the Kamikaze corps in the late stages of the war.

The two 19-year-old ex-pilots said assignments to the Kamikaze corps originally came on orders and that the emperor's fliers had no choice in the matter. Later, they continued, it became popular to volunteer for the corps.

The Kamikaze fliers received the same pay as ordinary pilots, but they received slightly better treatment and the promise of two grades' promotion—posthumously.

Only Neutral Port In Far East Unscratched But Nearly Starving

HONG KONG, Sept. 22 (AP)—The tiny Portugal colony of Macao, only neutral port in the Far East during the war, eased through the conflict with hardly a scratch, visitors from the city said on their arrival here today.

A food crisis caused some deaths and one raid hit the airdrome area. The small colony, pinned to the China coast a few miles south of Hong Kong, became a haven for refugees from all parts of China. Thousands of persons from Canton, Hong Kong and Kowloon squeezed into the port city where there already were a quarter of a million people—100,000 per square mile.

One resident of Macao said the food situation became so bad in the second year of the war that "corpses were strewn the length and breadth of the city."

Lowest Beef Grades On Point-Free Sale

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—The three lowest grades of beef will be sold without ration points on Oct. 1, food officials said.

These grades, known as canner, cutter, utility, are used principally in canned and processed meats, hamburger, sausage and boiling meat. They make up about 20 percent of the beef supply.

The low grades of beef will remain technically on the rationing list, although their ration values will be reduced to zero. This makes it much simpler from an administrative standpoint, officials explained, to restore them to ration control should it become necessary.

Action on the three lowest grades of beef, they said, reflected an increasing supply of beef, particularly of the lower grades. Marketings of cattle from western and southwestern pasture and range areas are increasing sharply to follow the normal fall marketing pattern.

Farmer Drives Self To Doctor After He Amputates His Hand

JOLIET, Ill., Sept. 22 (AP)—Robert Lamping, 34, amputated his right hand two inches above the wrist with a penknife yesterday after it had caught in a combine.

Dr. John Cody operated on Lamping, cutting three additional inches off the injured member. Cody said Lamping had lost much blood but was in good condition today.

Swift And Sellers Tangle With Texas Corporation Purpose Clause

Intimates of Attorney General Grover Sellers say he virtually exploded when he found that the packers, Swift & Company, had been authorized by law to do what he had been suing them to prevent them from doing.

A little research into the background of this matter brought up some interesting facts, including another of those "uncontested" bills which went through the last legislature.

The Swift & Company case dates back to the early part of this century. According to an opinion of the third court of civil appeals at Austin, prior to 1915 Swift and other packers "became involved in the ownership of a large number of cottonseed oil mills, violating the Texas anti-trust laws." A judgment was entered under which three trustees were named to operate the Swift mills and gins.

In 1938 W. A. Keeling, the then trustee, suggested that the decree could be complied with by Swift causing a Texas corporation to be formed, and conveying all the properties to it, Swift to own the stock of the Texas corporation. The court approved this procedure. The Consumers Cotton Oil company was then formed.

All of this had happened before the Sellers suit was filed. In the Sellers suit the state alleged that (1) the ownership was unlawful because thereby Swift & Company dominated the other company and thereby engaged in the cottonseed oil mill business without a permit; and that Swift, a meat packing company, was exceeding the powers of its state corporate permit to engage in the cotton business.

The judgment of the court of civil appeals was final in this case, and held substantially that all the circumstances laid out by the state failed to prove that Consumers was a dummy corporation.

Not many days later, on April 17, 1945, the Texas house passed an uncontested bill, an amendment to the corporation purpose law. To understand the bill it is necessary to look at the law under which Swift & Company was originally authorized to do business in Texas. It reads:

"To construct and maintain establishments for slaughtering, refrigerating, canning and packing meat and to lend or advance money by such establishments on any class of livestock."

"To buy livestock, poultry and products of ranch, farm, dairy and creamery, and the by-products thereof, and manufacture, process and sell such products and by-products; to buy manufacture and sell feeds, fertilizers, insecticides and fungicides."

In September, the $150,000,000 Swift & Company surrendered its "slaughtering" permit and obtained a new permit, utilizing the purpose clause of H.B. 375 for the first time. It's now authorized by its corporate permit to operate cotton oil mills and gins or any other thing which the attorney general tried unsuccessfully to prevent it from doing. Seemingly the only thing it surrendered in surrendering its original charter, was the right to "lend or advance money."

Wilda Watts Selected Band Queen; Coronation Set Oct. 12

Wilda Watts will be queen of the Big Spring high school band for 1945-46, it was announced Friday by Frank E. Wentz director of the band.

Elected by popular vote of the high school students, Miss Watts is a senior in high school and a member of the High Heel Slipper club.

Other candidates were Mattie Jean Green, Nancy Hooper and Patsy Sue McDaniel.

In planning for the activities of the band for the ensuing school year Wentz declared that the duties of the band queen will be that of official hostess for the organization. He stated that tentative plans were underway for entertaining the members of visiting bands, and at that time the queen will be hostess.

Wentz continued that another phase of her responsibilities will be at football games and other events in which the band will participate, the queen will act as "good will ambassador" for the school.

Performers for the marching band for the year will be Gypsy Barnwood as majorette, and Joy Barnaby and Jo and Mae Barnaby, twirlers.

The director announced that coronation plans have not been completed, but that the queen will be crowned in ceremonies at the half of the Lamesa game on October 12.

Plans are now for a 54 piece marching band with a 40 piece concert band. Wentz stated that he had plans now to enter the organization in contests, one being the tri-state meet at Enid, Oklahoma.

Several concerts are being arranged, the first of which will come during the Christmas season, a practice which he hopes will come first of a series of annual affairs.

Wentz was graduated from Texas Technological college, and while there was director of the R.O.T.C. band. He headed the McKinney high school band for a year previous to coming to Big Spring.

Officer and band council elections will be held this week.

Girl Editors Arrange Final Issue Of Paper Sent Over World To GIs

EDITORS . . . Jane Steagall (standing) and Elaine Kollins Sewell, co-editors of Oregon State Yank, locate their correspondents on a world globe. Circulations is 4,000.

By JOY MILLER AP Newsfeatures

WICHITA, Kas.—A newspaper that started out as a 1943 Christmas card now has a 4,000-plus circulation.

Its co-editors, with half the United States between them, have no editorial offices, advertisers, paid subscriptions, or salaried employees, but they receive from 30 to 40 appreciative letters daily.

The unique publication is the Oregon State Yank and the editors are Elaine Kollins Sewell, Wichita, and Jane Steagall, Portland, Ore.

It all started in 1943 when Elaine, just married and out of school, decided to send Christmas cards to Oregon State men and women in service. But Elaine wanted something different in the way of Yuletide greetings.

Putting her journalism activities at Oregon State to use, she hit upon the idea of a four-page, one-issue newspaper with gossip and news about school friends.

Handicapped by living more than two thousand miles from her alma mater's campus at Corvallis, Ore., Elaine enlisted the aid of a former classmate, Jane Steagall, assistant advertising manager at Lipman-Wolfe's in Portland.

The first issue was printed offset in Wichita—Elaine planographing it herself—and mailed to 1,500 servicemen, all former Oregon States, whose names had been supplied by interested friends.

The publication was to end

there. "Then letters started pouring in," Elaine explained, "from all over the United States and fighting fronts of the world. Every letter was a plea for more Yank. So we gave it to them."

Although the girls had paid for the first issue themselves, a matter of $150, financing the paper thereafter was simple. Practically every letter praising Yank and requesting more of the same included checks to help out.

Within the next two issues—published quarterly—the paper had grown to eight pages and was sent to 1,700 servicemen. The publication was moved to Portland, where it was printed and color added. An OSC alumnus who owned an engraving company donated the cuts.

The first anniversary issue in November, 1944, boasted a mailing list of 2,500. The format was enlarged to 16 pages, with two colors. More than 50 pictures added interest to each issue. The style of news-telling was breezy, informal. The only serious note was the page, "So Proudly We Fall," dedicated to those Oregon States killed in action.

As the publication grew in size, so did its reputation. News, financial assistance and recognition deluged the two editors. Their picture was featured on the cover of the Oregon State Alumni Magazine, west coast broadcasters commended the paper, and the governor's committee appointed to write the history of the present world war asked for copies for their official records.

High spot in the paper's career was this year's homecoming celebration at Oregon State, which was designated as "Oregon State Yank Weekend." With alumni urged to stay at home because of the convention ban, campus leaders went ahead with the events: planned inter-sorority singing contest, rally dance, talent show and football game. Entire proceeds were turned over to Yank, netting more than $1,000.

Now that the war is over, the Oregon State Yank will be put to bed after a final 16-page Christmas edition with the motif victory and homecoming.

Special features will include a discussion of postwar college plans for returning servicemen and women and a boost for the big Oregon State "Reunion After Tokyo," home coming celebration which Elaine enthusiastically expects to attract thousands of servicemen back to their alma mater. The homecoming date depends upon when the men return, but Elaine hopes it will be within a year. And by that time Oregon State Yank—the successful attempt of two girls to cheer up their friends in service—will have become history.

TEEN TALK

AP Newsfeatures Dear Judge

The school finally has achieved a solid beat, especially the chem class, because the most out-of-this-world man turned up there to take the place of our old teacher who left to get married. Yep, it's murder how much interest there is going to be in chem this semester.

Bet Arline Linke is grinding her ivory now that she switched to Katharine Gibbs, the business school. She'd be in a tizzy about our new specialty de luxe.

Did I tell you that "Linky" is torn between tennis and a business career. She spends most of her spare time on the courts out at Forest Hills and she really has become a sensation. The other day a sports columnist mentioned her as being one of the up and coming tennis players to watch.

What sports are you planning to go in for this year? I think hockey might be fun. Do you think it develops the legs too much?

Wonder how Mary Ann Gigerich of Dubuque is making out with the teen-age club she planned to start. Any girls around there interested might like to scribble her.

Mary also wanted to have a platter party. It must be easy for her to be popular, she always seems to have such good ideas.

We are all going to the dogs here. That is for our accessories. One of the new tricks is to make a belt out of four dog collars which can be found in the dime store. Little puppy dog collars make cute bracelets. Two of the medium sized ones make a good choker.

The kids have added something new—the swoon comics, Dick and Gene Wesson. A Brooklyn group recently organized a fan club in honor of the Wesson Brothers and now the bobby soxers mob the lads wherever they go.

Here's news! Kay's brother just flew over from Paris and says the latest style note is pastel-tinted hair. He says the girls over there are wearing their hair as high as they can—and that it is tinted green, purple or other shades.

Red Cross Chapter Appeals For Women To Aid In Producing 333 Girls' Dresses

WANTED: 333 women in Howard and Glasscock counties to make one dress; or 111 women to make three dresses.

This is the sign the production department at the Red Cross chapter headquarters feels like hanging out this week.

It has a fair-sized job to do, for 1,000 yards of material are on hand to be converted into a quota of 333 dresses for girl war refugees. Sizes range from eight to 14.

It's no job at all if a large number of women will help, pointed out Mrs. Moree Sawtelle, executive secretary of the chapter. On the other hand, if only a few answer the call, it could prove a Herculean task.

If there is any doubt that the garments are appreciated, Red Cross can dispel them with a flock of letters received from French people, expressing thanks for sweaters and garments made previously by this chapter.

Among them are these excerpts: Madam Kervar . . . Friziac, Morbihau—The sweater came at a most opportune moment for her 14-year-old son, "for we are dependent for everything at the moment."

M. and Mrs. Barrat—"After a delay, quite independent of our wishes, we come to thank you for the clothing distributed in Nantes. . . . Please transmit our thanks to the people who worked."

Madame Droual, Friziac—Sweater for 11-year-old son and gown for 5-year-old daughter "have truly touched us, and believe me we are very grateful for them since in our own country we find so little trouble finding what our dear little ones must have."

Madame Eleenne Huysman, Malo les Bains—Though separated from her husband and four children, she wrote: "We thank you with all our hearts for the gesture you have made."

Madame Verve Pendello Cotcau, Friziac, Morbihau—"In a few months I shall have the pleasure of dressing in it (the clothing) my "Annie" who is now one month old."

Steers Trampled On By Cisco Boys 12-0

Big Spring's auspicious start in the 1945 grid wars was rudely shattered Friday evening when the Cisco Lobos upset the Steers, 12-0, at Steer Stadium before approximately 2,000 fans.

There was no fluke about it, for the Lobos won the hard way. While the Steers showed the effects of illness which fouled a third of the squad last week, it was doubtful if they could have turned the trick with full strength.

That the weakened condition of the Steers might have had a bearing on the score was indicated in the fact that midway in the first quarter they took over on their own with runs of 20, 21 and 20 yards by Miller, Webb and Cochran, respectively, and succeeded in hammering to the Cisco four before the attack bogged down.

That seemed to give the Lobos the measure of confidence they needed. As the quarter closed, Mac Harrelson passed to Bert Maxwell who tossed it to Elbert Tipton for a 14-yard gain. Jim Sauls and Harrelson picked up a first down on the Big Spring 37 and Harrelson hit Stanley Williams for 20 yards. Tipton hit right tackle for seven and sailed through right guard for the score from the three. Harrelson missed.

Cisco carried to the Steer 19 shortly afterwards but Bobby Hollis, sub tackle, who was the star for the Steers, slammed Harrelson for a 12-yard loss.

Cisco carried the fight in the first but not until they had apparently become mired on the Big Spring 40 did the Lobos hamstring the Steers for good. Harrelson heaved a 10-yard offering squarely into the arms of Williams, who bolted into the clear and easily outdistanced baffled Steer backfield men. Again Harrelson missed his try for point.

Momentarily, the Steer aerial offense clicked with Cochran hitting Webb for nine, Donald Williams for 11 (on an interference penalty that created a fumble). Larry Hall made a great catch on Jackie Barron's pass to pick up 15 more to the Cisco 25. Successive sour passes ended the threat.

In the fourth Big Spring couldn't cook up any drives for holding on to the ropes. Tipton and Harrelson carried to the Steer nine once when an offside penalty stopped the drive. Cochran shook loose for a 12-yard center for the Steer's only gesture and by the end of the game Harrelson and Sauls had banged back to the Steer 18.

Coach John Dibrel substituted freely, but his charges, possibly due to illness, didn't have the stamina for the evening. Instead, the heavier Lobos, who used few subs, manpowered more steadily as time wore on.

With Horace Rankin, the team's best passer, out, the Steers' air game was erratic. Barron was over throwing and Cochran was short. Cochran improved in his kicking, but lack of distance hurt the Steers. Weakness showed up in the line, too, for most of Cisco's gains came there.

Wasting no time to try to correct some of the mistakes, Coaches Dibrel and Conn Isaacs held a two-hour workout Saturday morning. There will be long sessions this week in preparation for the Lubbock invasion Friday.

District 3-AA Teams Fare Poorly Friday

District 3-AA stock dropped off a bit on the basis of play Friday evening.

Odessa, the team which now is favored by the dopesters to take the conference diadem, only got by El Paso 12-6 on a wet field. Odessa had a pronounced advantage, but they couldn't root the border boys as they did Lubbock last week.

At the same time, Lubbock bounced back from the Odessa debacle to tie San Angelo 13-13; or rather San Angelo did well to tie Lubbock. Statistics favored the Westerners heavily and San Angelo had to capitalize on a blocked punt late in the fourth to turn the trick.

Big Spring was surprised by the Cisco Lobos. The heavier visitors staved off an early Big Spring threat and then methodically battered the Steers into submission.

Midland entertained the Pampa Harvesters and did more than a host ought to do by yielding 25-6 when Randy Clay returned the boot for 90 yards. The Bulldogs hustled until the fourth quarter when Pampa showered down with two passes by touchdowns and one by falling on a kickoff over the goal. Midland scored on Bobby Cole's 40-yard run.

Lamesa spotted Brownfield to a 12-0 lead in the first half and could only muster nine points on a 40-yard touchdown punt return by

Neiman and a safety.

Amarillo buffeted a jittery Abilene Eagle team 33-12 but the margin shouldn't have been that much. The Sandies buffaloeed Abilene for four touchdowns before the Eagles could recover with a drive that carried to Amarillo's 10 at half time. Abilene came back with a 60-yard drive and was headed for another when a flat-zone interception was turned into an Amarillo score. The Eagles punched across another and scored still another on a 35-yard jaunt which was nullified by a clipping penalty.

Cage, Grid Title Procedures Fixed By District Dads

District 3-AA's executive committee moved Saturday to have available information for settling a tie which might occur in its football championship play.

At the same time, the committee voted to settle the district basketball championship by tournament and agreed on a double-round-robin schedule for an unofficial championship.

Site of the tournament was restricted to a school which has a regulation court—an action which might freeze Big Spring out of the picture. The schedule play will be emphasized, according to the committee.

In the past officials have not kept the number of 20-yard penalties, first down and yardage gained. The committee instructed all officials to keep such records to help determine the championship in event of a tie at the conclusion of the playing season.

Attending the session were V. Z. Rogers, Lamesa, superintendent, chairman; L. E. Dudley, Abilene superintendent; R. L. Williams, Sweetwater superintendent; W. C. Blankenship, Big Spring superintendent; Bryan Dickson, San Angelo superintendent; W. A. Miller, Odessa principal; Frank Monroe, Midland superintendent and secretary of the committee.

Tigers Wipe Out Browns In Race By Decisive Win

By GAYLE TALBOT

DETROIT, Sept. 22 (AP)—Tired of being cuffed about and accused of "backing" into the American league pennant, the Detroit Tigers put on a noble display of power for more than 30,000 home fans today as they battered the St. Louis Browns, 9 to 0, behind Hal Newhouser's four-hit pitching and retained their game and a half lead over Washington.

There was joy in the Tiger clubhouse after the final out. The leaders figured that just about did it. The Tigers can clinch the flag tomorrow by winning the series final from the Browns if the Senators should drop their closing pair to the Athletics in Philadelphia. Or, they could assure themselves a tie by winning while the Nats broke even.

Newhouser, notching his 23rd victory of the campaign against nine defeats, hurled one of his finest games of the year as he scattered the four St. Louis hits over as many innings. The Browns got only two runners to second and none as far as third.

Newhouser's bat also figured prominently in the victory that revived the Bengals' spirits after three straight losses. He pounded in a run with a long triple in the second inning and then blasted his starting opponent, Bob Muncrief, from the hill with a two-run double in the third frame, in which the Tigers scored seven times.

The loss, incidentally, eliminated the Browns from the pennant scramble.

Eddie Stevens Featured In Sporting News Item

Sporting News—the baseball fans' Bible—gives Eddie Stevens, who broke into professional ball with Big Spring in the old West Texas-New Mexico league, a big plug in the current edition.

J. G. Taylor Spink fixes Eddie up in fine style, declaring that his lazy drawl tips him off as a Texan, "but there's nothing lazy about him when he goes into action on the diamond."

A sportswriter once declared Eddie to be from Houston, so the big first sacker for Brooklyn straightened it out for the record—it was Galveston.

Eddie, according to Spink's article, made his debut in baseball via the soap coupon route. He and his brothers—Mal and Harold—bought enough soap for 30 coupons and got a baseball bat as premium. The ad had slightly exaggerated the quality but it was a bat.

Eddie pitched the first ball on the bat tryout, Harold swung, and the 30-coupon bat was no more.

Eddie got his first experience in organized baseball as a pitcher after pitching for the American Legion junior team in Galveston. His brother, Mal, who used to be a bang-up good player in the W-T-NM league, saw another Jimmie Fox in his younger brother. He wrote to Jodie Tate and Tink Riviere at Big Spring and got a try-out for Eddie, and he stuck. The salary—$75 per month.

Fans remember how he shifted to first base—partly on advice from Uncle Billy Disch, grand old man of baseball at the University of Texas and who used to scout for the majors. He was only a kid, big and gawky. His fielding was a trifle shaky and his batting was spasmodic. But by the time Eddie polled three over the rightfield wall in a single evening, he was a fixture. He was the team's long distance hitter and polished up his fielding a lot. Next year he shifted to Lamesa with Tate and Riviere.

The league blew up and he was sent to Johnstown, Pa., but the draft board called him. He was called up three times and was turned down as many times. Eddie figured examinations were a regular routine and stayed out of ball that summer.

In 1944 Brooklyn asked him to report to Bear Mountain and he wound up with Montreal, hitting .271, driving in 102 runs, and figuring in 113 double plays. Included in his hits were 16 homers. He reported to Brooklyn Aug. 9 and through Sept. 6 had hit .302. He likes National league pitching. Eddie scored 17 runs, got 32 hits and batted in 17 runs in that time. In the past week he figured in five double plays and initiated two of them.

Aggies Show Flyers How To Take To Air For Football Game

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 22 (AP)—The Texas Aggies launched their 1945 season here today with a decisive 54 to 0 victory over the Ellington Field Flyers, scoring all their touchdowns via the ground, but gaining plenty of yardage by aerials.

The Aggies' ground game was marred by ten fumbles, nine of them stopping drives that seemed to be bound for touchdowns.

Preston Smith, Bryan high school all star, making his debut in Aggie colors racked up four touchdowns and kicked one conversion for a total of 25 points.

Bob Goode, lanky Bastrop freshman, contributed two touchdowns. Other Aggie scores were made by Tom Daniel, quarterback letterman from Kerrville, Harold Zeltman, Dallas, and Warren Settegast who blocked an Ellington punt behind the line to score 2 points for the Aggies.

The Flyers were held to a net yardage of minus 19 and no first downs. The Aggies chalked up 310 yards on the turf and made 17 first downs.

The first time the Aggies got the ball it was a score. Ellington was forced to kick and Peewee Smith took the ball on his own 20, handed it on a reverse to Bob Goode, who went 80 yards behind perfect blocking.

Courtney Bows To Garden City

GARDEN CITY, Sept. 22—Six man football play got off to a start here Friday in district No. 6 with Garden City besting Courtney 22-12 in a non-title clash.

Baker and Calverley were the big stars for Garden City while Cross shone for Courtney, although he did not score any of the visitors' points.

Baker tallied in the first period and Calverley added two points by placement. Smith came back to count for Courtney after a 35-yard run by Cross set up the counter. Calverley ran one over for Garden City and again converted by placement. Cross shook loose for 30 yards to set the stage for Fisher's touchdown.

Calverley led the game away with another touchdown for the home team.

The game was the only one in the district. Friday Forsan goes to Coahoma for a district contest and Sterling City will be in Water Valley in a south-zone title game.

More than 200,000,000 pounds of rubber grade carbon black, an important ingredient in tires, were produced in the first half of 1945.

Longhorns Rally In Last To Take Game Off Troop Carriers

AUSTIN, Sept. 22 (AP)—Freddie Brechtel, 160-pound navy transfer from Rice and Southwestern, led the way as the Texas Longhorns rallied in the last six minutes to defeat the massive Bergstrom Field Troop Carriers, 13-7, in the season's opener here today. Brechtel, replacing the injured Byron Gillory who did not play, gained 139 of Texas' 240 yards rushing and passed for 88 of the Steers' 93 yards gained through the air. His beautiful 22-yard pass to Munroe Harrelson, a TCU letterman last season, netted Texas' first touchdown in the second quarter and Brechtel's conversion gave the Longhorns a 7-0 halftime lead. Bergstrom Field came to life in the third quarter and marched 63 yards for a touchdown, with Walter Davis plunging over from the 1-yard line after a pass interference ruling had given the Fliers a first down on the Texas 27. Owen Eric's extra-point kick was batted up in the air by a Texas lineman but dropped over the crossbar to tie the score at 7-7.

SMU Easily Hands Blackland Army Airfield A Defeat

DALLAS, Sept. 22 (AP)—Big, powerful and versatile Southern Methodist hammered Blackland Army Airfield into a 51-0 defeat without half trying here today as the Mustangs opened the football season before 6,500 listless fans. The weather was hot, Blackland had no defense and SMU substitutes played most of the game as the Methodists, balked by a fighting Blackland line in the first period, broke out with a rash of touchdowns in the second. SMU was slow and easy-going in the initial quarter, apparently bothered by the excess heat, but the Blackland boys, outmanned and out-conditioned, gave down after ten minutes of play. Those who have been saying the Mustangs have no speedy backs found out otherwise today as the little fellows skipped on touchdown runs all the way up to 85 yards. SMU rolled up 19 points in the second period, two touchdowns in the third and three in the fourth. They got 17 first downs but it was the last period before the Fliers could make the required 10 yards, doing it twice, on passes completed against third-stringers. Blackland ended up with a minus 12 yards on offense while SMU made 362, with 213 on the ground.

Arkansas Scores In Last Quarter Win

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 22 (AP)—University of Arkansas' husky Razorbacks struck back in the final quarter to score twice and hand the Barksdale Field Sky Raiders a 12 to 6 defeat today in a contest, marred by many penalties before a crowd of about 7,000.

On the short end of a 6-0 score as the third quarter ended as the result of a 17-yard pass from Robert Schatzel, former Miami, Fla., high school player, to Ken Baker lanky Texan, the Razorbacks roared through land and air in the fading minutes to snatch the advantage.

Colorado Record Begins Fortieth Year Of Service

COLORADO CITY, Sept. 22—This week the Colorado Record, weekly paper of Colorado City, observed its 40th anniversary under ownership and management of the Whipkey family with the publication of Friday's issue.

The date also marked the 20th anniversary of the present owner and publisher, Walter W. Whipkey, who bought controlling interest Sept. 18, 1925, from his father, the late Fred B. Whipkey, and his uncle, A. L. Whipkey, both pioneer newspapermen.

"Uncle Fred," Record columnist, died here Dec. 24, 1942, and his brother, "Uncle Abe" retired from active association with the printing end of the paper two years ago. The two Whipkey brothers came to Texas from Pennsylvania where each in his early boyhood served apprenticeships as "printer's devil."

Together they established the West Times, first newspaper in West, Texas, and the old Corsicana Courier for which they were reporters, editors, printers, typesetters, press men, the advertising force, and crusaders in the spirit of the times. Once, after a particularly heated fight for prohibition, they were handed in effigy by the election-winning anti's.

Nagasaki Bombing More Spectacular Than At Hiroshima

TOKYO, Sept. 22 (AP)—America's atomic bombing of Nagasaki Aug. 9 wrought "more spectacular" destruction than the first atom bomb at Hiroshima, said Brig. Gen. James B. Newman Jr., head of the war department's atomic bomb mission to Japan. There were no measurable signs of radioactivity in the area, however, he reported.

Newman returned from Nagasaki after studying effects of the second and more powerful bomb, and left 17 scientists and medical officers there to complete their observations. General Newman said, "the Japanese now estimate their death toll at 35,000 to 40,000 with some 80,000 injured."

GI Says Pyle Raised Head To See If He Could Help Wounded

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—A Tennessee GI who says he forced the suicide of the Jap sniper who killed war correspondent Ernie Pyle, declared today that Pyle was shot when he raised his head to see if he could help two wounded men.

T/Cpl. Edward Macaulay Divine, 42, of Chattanooga, here for hospital treatment, said in an interview he wanted to correct an impression that the correspondent was killed on Ie Shima because he thoughtlessly raised his head after taking cover from the sniper's fire.

"We found two of our boys had been hit by that first machine-gun burst," said Divine, who claimed he was near Pyle at the time.

"I raised my head to see if there was anything I could do. Then I saw that Pyle had raised his head, too, with the same intention. After Pyle was shot, Divine said, he ran forward to get the Jap sniper and finally trapped him in a house.

"When I got to the house where he was hidden," Divine said, "I set it afire with matches—that was all I had. When the fire was blazing in three places, there was an explosion of a hand grenade inside. That was the end of the Jap."

Long declared that in a vision seven years ago he saw a hand write figures which he interpreted as indicating the world would be blotted out at 5:33 p. m. yesterday.

Falling fulfillment yesterday, he added, the end may still come a week from today, or possibly not until October, 1946.

American Business club members have begun renovating the reading room of the community building of the West Side park, officers of the organization said Saturday.

In modernizing the room, members foresee a need for magazines and books for youngsters to read. Accordingly, they appealed to the public to contribute these items for use at the park. They may be left at the office of R. B. Reeder, across the street west from the courthouse, or Thomas Typewriter Exchange, 107 Main, officers said.

Park grounds have been cleared recently and attendance has continued at a high level. A caretaker is on hand at the park to supervise activities for children.

And nobody can give the answer, it seems, except the nine men of the U.S. supreme court, who may some day be asked to decide once and for all just who is the final authority on declaring holidays.

Three years ago Thursday Shine Phillips' book, "Big Spring—Biography of a Prairie Town," first went on sale. In that space of time, it has gone through eight printings and is now ready for the ninth. Publishers think enough of its stamina they have never lowered the list price. The book has gone all over the world and Shine gets five or six fan letters every day. "Big Spring," doubtless lifted off captured Yanks, adorns the library at Frankfurt am Main. It was one of the few books smuggled out of Corregidor and carried on the march of death.

Picked together, the latest "rumors" about the status of the local post tend to substantiate indications of a change in status. For what they are worth, here they are: Bombardier cadets, with exception of those who have resigned, may be moved to Midland the last of the week. Training may button up Wednesday with paper work closing out the next day. Instructors would go but all other personnel would stay. This would mean continuance of the post in some other capacity, for the time being at least.

Look for a system of neighborhood parks to find a prominent place on the list of things city officials will consider as soon as labor and materials are available. There is a feeling that these are among best bets to combat juvenile delinquency and to carry recreational facilities to the people.

Those looking for signs that business was off pointed to postal receipts. Last week Postmaster Nat Shick pointed to the record—a probable $5,000 gain for the quarter.

The high school Bible fund still needs your support. More than $1,400 now is in hand. If only those who have said they planned to give would come on in, the remaining $600 would be raised. Incidentally, 60 are enrolled in first semester classes and school officials believe the figure will rocket the second half of school.

Editorial - - Leave It To Record On Bro. Kagawa

Herald Special Writer
By FRANK GRIMES
For years Toyokiko Kagawa was hailed as the outstanding leader of Japan's 350,000 Christians. (Comparative statistics: Shinto, 17,000,000 adherents; Buddhism, 47,000,000.)

Kagawa toured the United States, spoke to filled churches and auditoriums, was welcomed and hero-worshipped by many high churchmen, who defended him fiercely against critics who hinted that he might not be, after all, a second St. Paul.

Came the war and disquieting rumors about Kagawa drifted back to this country. He was on the air, propagandizing for the Greater East Asia Co-Prosperity Sphere, denouncing the United States as a country of barbarians, otherwise indicating that his heart and soul was in Japan's attempt to conquer by the sword.

Still his admirers defended him, and they still do for that matter.

Well, Gerald R. Thorp, correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, checked up on Brother Kagawa in Tokyo the other day—not second hand or by hearsay, but first hand in a personal interview with the redoubtable "Christian" leader.

Thorp's interview was in simple question and answer form and for those who are interested in Kagawa as a Christian or as a Christian statesman, we give here a few of the highlights, boiled down: Thorp asked him if he spoke up in opposition to the war against America.

Kagawa: I am for Japan. The American radio announced that if America won the war, I would be made premier of Japan. . . . Therefore I was in danger and the life of a Christian was in danger. That was why I went on the radio.

He wasn't cut out to be a Christian martyr, obviously, whatever his other qualities.

Q.—Why did you speak in favor of Japan?

A. Because Japan was the only independent country in Asia and if Japan had been eliminated, there would have been no independence left in Asia. (Note that Japan enslaved and brutalized every country she overran.)

Q. Speaking as a Christian, Mr. Kagawa, what do you think America should have done after Pearl Harbor?

A. If President Roosevelt had been a Christian, why did he also want to wage war against Japan?

Q. But what do you think of Japan's policy in the Far East?

A. I am against militarism, but I am also against domination by white races in Asia.

Q. What of Japan's domination of Asia?

A. No answer.

Q. What do you think of Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor?

A. It was a mistake.

Q. What was your reaction to Pearl Harbor?

A. Though I didn't like it, I thought it would lead to independence for Asia.

Q. How can you reconcile your position in defense of Japan with the Christian precept, "Thou shalt have no other gods before me?"

A. In the Orient things are different. . . . Finally, the interview ended with Kagawa's observation that he had rather be dead than see Japan conquered by Americans.

In view of the probability that his American friends will bring this man back to the United States

Providence

Out in Pasadena, Calif. the Rev. Charles G. Long has been predicting the world would come to an end as of Friday last—and to say that the reverend missed on his guess is putting it mildly. He now hedges to Sept. 29 and then to next autumn.

There is nothing wrong with the parson airing his visions if he wants to. We think it's silly, but even sillier is the fact that a lot of people took the thing seriously. The press and radio blew it up all out of proportion to its importance.

We'll just leave the destiny of the world to Providence, figuring it is in good enough hands that it won't require any worry on the part of any of us. Anyhow, we don't know anything about it nor does any other human being.

My Country, Right Or Wrong

In an accompanying column, Frank Grimes has an interesting comment on Kagawa and his attitude toward Japan and the war. The following condensation of an editorial in the San Angelo Standard-Times will be interesting also in this light:

Probably Americans haven't any right to criticize the Rev. Martin Niemöller and Toyokiko Kagawa for their attitudes toward their countries' part in the war. For they have only paraphrased the famous words of Stephen Decatur which, as school children, we were made to learn and exhorted to admire: "Our country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be right; but our country, right or wrong."

Niemöller became a hero and a symbol through his brave defense of God's authority over Adolf Hitler's, a defense which led to a long imprisonment, aroused the first open defiance of Hitler's tyranny, and won the sympathy of the Christian world.

But when he was released by the Allies, Niemöller, a famous U-boat commander in the first World War, acknowledged that he had offered his services to the Nazi government in 1939.

"If there is a war," he told the Americans, "a German does not ask the question whether the war is just or unjust. . . . but feels instinctively that he is bound to serve in some way."

Kagawa was Japan's most famous native Christian layman. He had spent much of his life and much of his never abundant strength in a zealous fight for social and religious reforms. He served three prison terms for opposing his country's imperialistic wars. But in a recent press conference, he sounded as chauvinistic as one of the Samurai.

"I am for Japan," he said. "I do not like America to conquer Japan because this is my country." Niemöller and Kagawa are inconsistent. But our own Decatur's famous statement is scarcely a gem of logic. Their words are symptomatic of an ancient, ingrained, universally revered emotion which, misled and uncured, is as much a threat to world safety as the atomic bomb.

What Decatur's country or anybody's country does in the field of foreign relations is dictated by the decisions of mortal, fallible men, acting almost always in secret.

And so, while we can't censure Niemöller and Kagawa, we can feel concern for the thought that they represent. And we can see how long it will be before the noble and sensible notion that the persecution of people in any country is the concern of decent people everywhere can take root and grow.

at some future time, it is quite in order for Americans to study his record and decide whether he is a good Christian or just a good Japanese.

He muttered no word of repudiation or denunciation of Japan's gory record, even though he was under American protection at the time of the interview. He may have the eloquence of a Paul, but not the courage of a Stephen.

The Thrill That Comes Once In A Lifetime

THE MAN WHO LOOKED IN HIS WIFE'S HANDS FOR AN ADDRESS

Washington— Clock Watching, Congress' Style

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—If some one doesn't throw a wrench into the works, most of the clocks of the nation will be set back an hour on Sunday, Sept. 30.

That is the goal members of Congress are shooting at. When it comes, war time will officially give way to peace time once more, except in those states and communities which have their own laws or ordinances.

With the passing of war time, Congress will be relieved of one of its most persistent headaches. Periodically, the war weary nation went into furries of worry over gas rationing, draft inequities, empty coal bins, no shoes for baby, the leanness of the meat supply and a dozen other things. The constituents wrote their congressmen about them all.

Without even taking his cigarette holder out of his mouth, the President said: "Why not call it war time?"

The coating, however, didn't disguise the pill. The country swallowed it, but it never let up making faces at its congressmen. When Cannon ended his little harangue in the House with: "Let us hope it will never be necessary to legislate war time again," there were "Amen's" from all over the place.

Steve scratched his head over a dozen sugar-coated titles, but could find none to suit him. At one of the pre-breakfast conferences FDR often held with his more intimate aides, Early mentioned his problem.

The good congressman explained that he didn't want to bore readers of the Record with more, so he was just giving them a little sample. Many of the messages were signed by representatives or members of school, hospital, farm and civic organizations.

Cannon's mail is just a small sample of the total received by Congress on the subject. Since Jan. 20, 1942, when the Daylight Saving Time Act went into effect, I have run through hundreds of these complaints against it.

The arguments are many, but virtually all of them are based on the fact that it forces people to get up too long before sunrise. (There were some summer objections to going to bed before the chickens.)

In winter this has worked a hardship on children who had to court pre-dawn frostbite in order to get to the little red school house before the tardy bell. This relief to school children is one reason the congressmen said they were so eager for immediate action.

Tucked away in Franklin D. Roosevelt's memoirs someday may be the little story of how "war time" got its name. Recognizing the unpopularity of "daylight saving time," administration poobahs pleaded with Chief Publicist Steve Early to give it another name.

Steve scratched his head over a dozen sugar-coated titles, but could find none to suit him. At one of the pre-breakfast conferences FDR often held with his more intimate aides, Early mentioned his problem.

Washington Merry-Go-Round— Stimson Fighting Japs For 14 Years

(Note: Drew Pearson today awards the brass ring to his old friend, Henry L. Stimson, retiring secretary of war.)

By DREW PEARSON
WASHINGTON—Of all the millions who contributed to the defeat of Japan, none perhaps is more entitled to credit than the venerable statesman who yesterday celebrated his 78th birthday and his last week as secretary of war. Perhaps even more than for his late chief, victory over Japan was a personal victory for Henry L. Stimson.

He had begun fighting Japan as secretary of state under Hoover, 14 years ago this week. And he never stopped, not even when he was out of office—until now.

Even after he had stepped out of the state department following Roosevelt's inauguration in 1933, Stimson came down to see the new president of the United States at the White House.

He and Roosevelt at that time did not particularly like each other. They had been political enemies since 1910. That was the year which swept young Roosevelt into the New York senate and Mr. Stimson into defeat as candidate for governor of New York.

Stimson, older than Roosevelt both in age and in manner, regarded him as an ostentatious young whippersnapper, didn't like the way he wore riding boots in the Albany legislature, considered him a poor imitation of his cousin Teddy, whom Stimson worshipped.

"Charming, but without stamina," was the way Stimson described Roosevelt in those days. Nevertheless, the ex-secretary of state swallowed his personal feelings and came down to see the new president of the United States in May, 1933, on what he considered the most important international problem facing the country—Japan.

He urged Roosevelt not to recognize Japan's conquest of Manchuria, which he, Stimson, had fought so bitterly. Leaving the White House after the interview, Stimson's face glowed. A friend, who knew what his mission was, asked what the new president had said about recognizing Japan's puppet government in Manchuria.

"He said," replied Stimson, "I won't even discuss it with the . . ." and just before he used a three-letter word which many others have applied to the Japanese since Pearl Harbor.

Stimson's Long Fight
The story of Stimson's long battle to stop Japanese aggression in China has never been adequately told, and probably won't be unless he tells it himself. Unfortunately, Mr. Stimson is all too reticent.

But this columnist, who travelled with Mr. Stimson on some of his trips abroad remembers vividly how Stimson was one of the few who realized that the minor skirmish on the tracks of the South Manchurian railroad below Mukden, 14 years ago this week, actually was the beginning of Japan's well-laid plans for the conquest of Asia.

Many others at that time thought Stimson was wrong. Baron Shidehara, the Japanese foreign minister, emphatically told him so; and judging by the way the war lords kept Jap diplomats in the dark, Shidehara probably thought he was telling the truth. Some of Stimson's own state department advisers also told him so. So did the British foreign office; and so also did the French, with the exception of Aristide Briand.

Finally, even in his own cabinet, Herbert Hoover felt that Stimson was unduly alarmed about the Japs, while midwestern members of the republican national committee nearly had conniption fits when Stimson ordered Prentiss Gilbert, U. S. consul in Geneva, to sit as an observer with the league of nations.

In fact, it was pressure from mid-west republicans which forced Stimson to withdraw Gilbert from league sessions and replace him with that clowning diplomat, Charlie Daves, whose safe and sane mid-west republicanism appeased the isolationists but did not help stop Japan.

Era of Peace Dies
An age was dying, an age of international optimism, goodwill pilgrimages, and Harding normalcy, the aftermath of the war to end war. An age was dying, and Henry L. Stimson struggled almost alone to give it renewed life.

Leaving a sick-bed in the spring of 1932, he sailed for Paris, determined to warn the statesmen of Europe of impending disaster. Renting a villa at Geneva, he called in Ramsay MacDonald, Chancellor Bruening, Dino Grandi, Andre Tardieu and pointed out that aggression in faraway China could be a greater threat to peace than the menace of big guns in Europe.

There came a time several years later when France was pushed out of Indo-China, when Britain called for American help at Hong Kong, Singapore and India. But at Geneva in 1932, Mr. Stimson was branded as naive and idealistic. The leaders of Europe were "practical men."

Those were dark days in Stimson's Villa Besingne on Lake Geneva. His room looked out on an old garden sheltered by high trees, in which roosted flocks of birds. And sometimes when he could not sleep and work dragged endlessly, Stimson stood at his window looking out upon the trees and the moon and the shadows they cast upon the garden, and remembered the World War days when he was a colonel of artillery in France.

Out among the poplars, he saw again that line of men from the fields, the factories, the sea, going forward, and the line of women, wounded men, exhausted men, going back. A panorama of his life lay before him then, the latter years having been given to rebuilding.

And gradually, Stimson and Roosevelt were drawn closer together. Actually they were very much alike. Both New York country squires, both born to wealth and comfort, both actually preferring to spend their time with horses, dogs and trees, both believing in taxing themselves and the wealthier classes to the bone, both believing that their heritage was to give their lives to public service.

And more than anything else, both believed that this war meant the last try for civilization, the last try to preserve freedom of worship, free thinking, freedom to go and come, freedom to struggle toward the goal of loving thy neighbor as thyself.

So the two men, political rivals in peace, fought side by side in war, and came to respect and revere each other. And at the first hushed and hurried cabinet meeting called after the death of the late president, Henry L. Stimson, then nearly 78, having served in both the Taft and Hoover cabinets, sat shaken and solemn.

"I am a soldier," he said when Truman asked him to remain in the cabinet, "and when I am called upon to serve, I serve for the duration. His face was white. His eyes were filled with tears.

Now the duration is over. Having won the war that he began single-handed 14 years ago this week, Henry Stimson has retired. (Copyright, 1945, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

A Pleasing Half-Truth

By WALTER LIPPMANN
General MacArthur's statement that after April he will need only 200,000 regular troops is, as he meant it, no doubt true. But for Congress and the public it is a half-truth. For the general was talking about the number of men that he needs in the Japanese home islands; what the President and Congress have to think about is how big a navy, army and air force we must maintain behind him and behind General Eisenhower.

Thus the number of men General MacArthur will need in Japan depends on how quickly they could, if necessary, be reinforced from outside of Japan. This is a clear case, as Theodore Roosevelt used to say, of being able to speak softly if you carry a big stick. General MacArthur can manage with small forces only in so far as he knows and as the Japanese know that there are other trained, well equipped forces ready to move in swiftly by sea and air. Because he forgot to make this clear, and was thinking only of his own requirements, his statement could mislead Congress and the public to think that our needs can be met much more cheaply and easily than they can be.

Not enough thought has been given by the State, War and Navy Departments to the problem of how over a period of years we can best work the occupation of Germany and Japan. It is, however, quite clear, as General MacArthur indicated, that the men who were drafted to fight the war cannot be used. It would be unfair to ask it of them, and in any event men trained for combat are not suitably trained for occupation.

We should think about how to organize specially recruited and specially trained occupation corps. We should think of these corps not as combat units but as police forces, or constabularies, or gendarmes. The occupying forces we need are not armies, but policemen to keep disarmed civilians from rearming and to arrest them if they disobey orders. Provided the constabulary can be reinforced quickly by real troops, an occupation by men trained specially as policemen is likely to be efficient.

An occupation constabulary would have to be recruited by volunteer enlistment for fairly long periods. The men might, perhaps be offered double army pay, say half of it in German or Japanese occupation currency. They should be able to look forward to retirement pay and they should be enabled to take their families with them so that they can settle down, and make a career of their job. The whole cost of the force would, of course, be chargeable against the enemy countries.

There is no reason why enlistment should be limited to Americans. While the commanding officers should be Americans to make sure that acts conform with policy, some proportion of the rank and file and the junior officers could well be recruited from the other United Nations.

Unless we adopt some such plan as this, there is every reason to suppose that the occupation will break down before its purposes are achieved.

An occupation constabulary need not be large, once the enemy countries have been disarmed and physically demilitarized and we are able to govern by indirect control.

To determine the proper size and character of our total military establishment, we must not try to be so farsighted that we cannot see what is in front of us. We must legislate for something like the next five post-war years. We can speculate about the atomic age and the rocket age. But we must act for this present age—for the immediate post-war years in which we shall be pacifying Germany and Japan, and shall be making the settlement in Europe, Asia and Africa.

Hirohito Secure As Japan's Ruler

By Russel Brines
TOKYO, Sept. 22. (P)—Emperor Hirohito, target of one futile, short-lived plot to forestall his surrender announcement, now is more secure than ever on his Imperial Throne. Lt. Gen. Iimura, commander of Japan's still-active gendarmerie, told me Iimura's organization, which still maintains a tight check throughout the country on individuals as well as groups, has found no hint of any fresh plotting against the Emperor's continued rule, the gendarmerie commander reported.

Other sources likewise agree that Emperor Hirohito now is stronger in Japanese public opinion than at an other time in the modern era, as the result of his leadership in his nation's surrender.

These sources said that communists and some other radical elements in the early 1920's had advocated elimination of the Japanese Imperial House, regarding it as a barrier to the introduction of communism. These elements, however, were ruthlessly quieted at the time by the gendarmerie.

Well-informed Japanese said any militarists who might have intended to force out the Emperor as a result of his victory over them in forcing surrender, now lacks sufficient strength.

Routine matters will be discussed with the addition of the livestock question in the city when city commissioners meet at 5:30 p. m. Tuesday at the city hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Dunham of El Paso are weekend visitors in Big Spring. Dunham was formerly mayor here.

Hollywood— Sister Brice Gives A Testimonial

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD—Does your cigarette taste at all lately? Fanny Brice's doesn't. She's sworn off. "And it's killing me," she said. We were sitting on the porch of her Malibu home, overlooking the full sweep of Santa Monica Bay. The Riviera was never like this. "I haven't had a cigarette in nine weeks. You'd think I wouldn't miss them, but every day the longing for them gets worse and worse."

Why all this abstinence? Let Fanny explain. "For three yrs I haven't been feeling well. I've been having nervous ailments and trouble with the circulation. I've never had a good, healthy disease in my life. . . . 'Good, healthy disease.' I'll have to remember that line. "When I went to radio rehearsals, I used to hold my head down like this — to get the blood up there. Then I'd go ahead with my line. The other people on the show must have thought I was going nuts. My doctor kept telling me one thing—lay off cigarettes—but I thought it was just a simple answer which he cooked up. "Then a couple of months ago my little bird started working. That's the little red bird with the black wings that sits on the top of my head. Well, the little bird started spreading its black wings over me, and I knew it was time to see the doctor. "He put me right in the hospital and said the first treatment would be to quit smoking. He said I'd have to get another doctor if I wouldn't quit. 'So I did.'"

This was no easy job. "I used to smoke three packs a day—four when I was playing gin rummy. I would wake up in the middle of the night and need a cigarette. And I always had four or five with coffee every morning."

But now things are different. She says food tastes wonderful now. "I never could figure out why anyone would want to eat vegetables, but now I know. I love them."

In fact, Fanny is feeling so much better that she will be able to resume her "Baby Snooks" radio series.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Dunham of El Paso are weekend visitors in Big Spring. Dunham was formerly mayor here.

Deepest Pay Is Guaged In Gains

By JOHN BREWER
SAN ANGELO, Sept. 22—Development of the deepest oil production in the Permian Basin and the most northerly from the Devonian lime in West Texas by Amerada Petroleum Corp. No. 1-A Dr. E. H. Jones of San Angelo in northwestern Gaines county eclipsed other oil developments in the region this week. Irion, Crane, Pecos and Ward counties listed a wildcat location each.

685.76 barrels of oil through a half inch choke in 10 hours, and subsequently 281.4 barrels in three hours. On the latter test the oil was cut three-tenths of one percent by basic sediment and four percent by water.

The well indicated production from the Wolfcamp, basal Permian, on drillstem tests between 9,082 and 9,224 feet, but likely will be completed now only from the Devonian, which was topped at 11,181 feet, 7,482 feet below sea level. Location is the C NW NE 3-A6-psl, one-half mile south of the Yoakum county line and 2 1/2 miles east of the Lea county, N. M., boundary. It is 4 1/2 miles southwest of the Wasson field and seven miles northwest of the Russell field, both Permian lime producing areas. Amerada has a block of about 5,000 acres. Lease holders in the area include Argo, Cascade, Cities Service, Magnolia and Atlantic.

Countess Edda Still Loved And Admired Father Who Had Husband Put To Death

ROME, Sept. 21 (AP)—Countess Edda Ciano says she still "loved and admired" her father, Benito Mussolini, even after he put to death her husband, Former Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano.

The countess wore light blue slacks, a flannel blouse and tennis sneakers when she met correspondents in the parlor of her villa.

Intelligent Fuse Is War Invention

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—The war's second most startling invention is a fuse which knows when a shell is close enough to the target to explode effectively.

Those who know her say her lot is not so hard. She goes where she pleases on the island, smokes American cigarettes and has a superb view from her villa of the Mediterranean in which she swims occasionally.
