Kern Auction Sale Of Dairy Cattle

The big auction sale of one hundred head of dairy cattle of R. P. Kern, one-half mile west of Spearman, takes place on November 6. Mr. Kern is a very busy man these days, distributing advertising matter of the sale and shaping up his fine herd for the sale. Col. Burgess and Col. Highfield of Enid, Oklahoma, have been employed as auctioneers and the sale will be clerked by the First National bank of Spearman. Besides the 100 head of registered Jersey and Holstein cattle there will be included in the sale about 35 head of fine hogs.

Old School Buildings Are Being Modernized

The trustees of Spearman Independent school district sold two of the old wooden school buildings which served this town and district for several years as school houses, and the buildings are now being modernized in every way and put to other uses.

Spearman Has Her First Robbery With Firearms

The Campbell's Men's Store was robbed of about $90 in cash by two bold, bad and unmasked young men on Saturday night of last week, who held up Pat Malone a boy clerk, with an automatic six-shooter and escaped through the back door.

Builders of Pipe Line Move Offices to Spearman

E. H. Ervin, in charge of field work, and Jack Crawford, in charge of field offices of the Continental Construction Company, this week moved their headquarters from Stinnett to Spearman. This company is building a 24-inch natural gas line from the Hutchinson county gas fields to Chicago. The line runs entirely across Hansford county, passing Spearman about two miles to the west. Jack Barth and Arthur Everham are the two young men assisting with the work in the field offices of the Continental Construction Company.

P. T. A. Changes Meetings Dates

The P. T. A. is having its regular meetings on the first Tuesday of each month at 4 p. m. So, next Tuesday is our regular meeting day. We are expecting a large attendance. We need you and we want you. You know we may have widely different opinions on business, social, political and spiritual outlooks of life, but we must all agree on the worth of a little child. If you are not a member of the P. T. A. we would love to have you join. Whether you are a member or not, be sure and be at the meetings. Don't forget—next Tuesday, 4 p. m., in auditorium. Plan to be present.

Jake Clifton Kicked By Horse Monday

Jake Clifton, well known young farmer-stockman of the Leb community, was kicked by a horse Monday of this week and for several hours was in a critical condition. He was brought immediately to the home of his sister, Mrs. Chas. Hitt in Spearman, and given medical attention. Jake is getting along nicely at this time.

International Sunday School Lesson

By DR. J. E. NUNN

FOR NOVEMBER 2, 1930

General Topic—Simon Peter. Scripture Lesson—Mark 8:27-29, Luke 22:31-34; John 18:25-27; 21:15-17.

Mark 8:27. And Jesus went out, and his disciples, into the town of Caesarea Philippi; and by the way he asked his disciples, saying unto them, Whom do men say that I am?

28. And they answered, John the Baptist; but some say, Elias; and others, one of the prophets.

29. And he saith unto them, But whom say ye that I am? And Peter answered and saith unto him, Thou art the Christ.

Luke 22:31. And the Lord said, Simon, Simon, behold, Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat:

32. But I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not; and thou art converted, and strengthened thy brethren.

33. And he said unto him, Lord, I am ready to go with thee, both into prison, and to death.

34. And he said, I tell thee, Peter, the cock shall not crow this day, before that thou shalt thrice deny that thou knowest me.

John 18:25. And Simon Peter stood and warmed himself. They said therefore unto him, Art not thou also one of his disciples? He denied it, and said, I am not.

26. One of the servants of the high priest, being his kinsman whose ear Peter cut off, saith, Did I not see thee in the garden with him?

27. Peter then denied again; and immediately the cock crew.

John 21:15. So when they had denied, Jesus saith to Simon Peter, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me more than these? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my lamb.

16. He saith to him again the second time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my sheep.

17. He saith unto him the third time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? Peter was grieved because he said unto him the third time, Lovest thou me? And he said unto him, Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee, Jesus saith unto him, Feed my sheep.

Golden Text.—Now when they beheld the boldness of Peter and John, and had perceived that they were unlearned and ignorant men, they marveled; and they took knowledge of them, that they had been with Jesus.—Acts 4:13.

Introduction

"Among all the followers of Christ of whom the New Testament tells us, none is more interesting than Simon Peter. None comes closer to the heart of the average Christian. Peter is so human that he draws us to himself. Paul towers so far above us in the greatness of his intellectual power, in the sublimity of his faith, and in the completeness of his consecration, that we stand awestruck in his presence. But Peter is a man of like passions with ourselves. His very weaknesses constitute a bond of fellowship between us and him. When we see what God made out of the rugged, impetuous, and self-confident Galilean fisherman, we are encouraged to believe he can make something out of us."

Simon Peter—Leader

He was the chief of the apostles; constantly with our Lord from the beginning of His ministry to the end; his name is mentioned first in every list of the Twelve; and he is one of the three intimates—Jesus' little inner circle. His record of Jesus (though an "interpreter" or amanuensis, John Mark) is looked upon as the kernel Gospel. His prominence continued long after the events of the crucifixion, throughout the early formative period of church history—he is thus the central figure of the first half of the Book of Acts—and the extra-Biblical traditions that cluster his latter years are more reliable than almost any other of the apostolic church.

Christ's Two Questions. Mark 8:27, 29.

It is a crucial hour in the experience of Jesus and his disciples when he asked them the question, "Who say ye that I am?" He first inquired, "Who do men say that I am?" Three opinions were current. Some, like Herod Antipas, thought he was John the Baptist risen from the dead. "A superstitious notion growing out of guilty fear on the part of the murdered, and finding some currency among his followers." Others thought he was Elijah, whose return had been predicted by the prophet Malachi. Still others thought of him as merely one of the prophets. All these views were inadequate. Jesus was already aware of the failure of the people to appreciate him, and apparently the purpose of his question was to prepare his disciples for the much more important one, "Who say ye that I am?"

Peter's Confession of Faith. v. 29

It was the impulsive Peter who responded for the apostles: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God, as Matthew tells us Jesus as the Messiah on the authority of John's testimony. But when his conduct proved so different from that which they had expected of the Messiah, doubts arose in the minds of John, and probably also in the minds of the disciples. By degrees, however, the conviction grew upon them that Jesus was in a special sense the Son of God. They had confessed this in their amazement over the stilling of the storm; and now some time later, in the quiet seclusion of Caesarea Philippi, they repeated that confession. Nothing that Peter said moved the hear of Jesus so profoundly as the utterance of this conviction. The light of heaven was shining in Peter's soul that day.

Tempted, But Prayed For. Luke 22:31-34

"But I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not." Jesus has in mind Judas' impending shameful defection and betrayal. But he says to Simon Peter, Satan has you all in his thrashing; and you (they) especially he would make his victim (the first "you" is plural, the second singular). "I'm praying hard that he may not get you and cast you with his winnowing-fan, chaff, to damnation; that you may settle, like the corn-kernels, on the ground of steadfast faith. But, look out!"

It is a fine, courageous, if over-confident, word with which the apostle declares Jesus' fears groundless so far as he is concerned. May we not suppose that it pleased the Master? Still, he must regretfully prophesy base, and so soon to follow the boast! repeated denial.

"Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall." 1 Cor. 10:12.

"In the hour of trial, Jesus, plead for me! Lest by base denial I depart from thee."

Peter's Great Sin. John 18:25-27

"The fall of Peter is a mirror of human infirmity, and a memorable example of God's goodness and Compassion. Peter acted inconsiderately in entering the high priest's court. It was proper to follow the Master, but he had been warned his possible defection and should have avoided the occasion. Conscious weakness should not hinder us from going with our Lord. God calls us, but it ought to restrain rashness and stimulate to prayer." (John Calvin).

The twice-repeated out-and-out denial, by this intimate friend of Jesus, who had been plainly forewarned, is hard to understand, explain or excuse. The deliberateness of it fairly shocks us. Was it fear that overcame him? Or just a momentary lack of faith in his Lord. The Christian church has ever stood aghast in the face of the shame of it. His cursing and swearing (Mark 14:71) make matters worse.

Peter's Repentance

"And Peter went out and wept bitterly." v. 62. Satan did not get Peter, after all. The repentance of his bitter weeping restored him to a faithful discipleship and in the sequel he did indeed strengthen his brethren (Luke 22:31). Bernard Weiss comments: "Seeing that Peter was forgiven and became so useful, let him that knows he has fallen rise up in earnest repentance." And Doctor Crannell: "Those bitter tears were a healing flood, sweeping much selfishness and sin out of his soul, and helping to prepare him to receive the healing balm of Christ's entire forgiveness." We remember, too, Martin Luther's well-known remark, "If I could paint a portrait of Peter, I would write on every hair of his head, 'Forgiveness of sins!'"

Peter and the Risen Lord. John 21:15-17

This last and significant meeting of Peter and his Lord takes place not in Jerusalem, the city that had cast him out and murdered him, but in the home-land, Galilee, by the shores of its beautiful lake, where they had spent so many happy hours together. The Eleven must have returned northward full of hope and expectation, even though uncertain as to the full meaning of what had happened.

Peter is here, as elsewhere, the representative apostle. Jesus' word to him is intended, generally speaking, for them all—and for us. The work of shepherding, of feeding with the word of life, of guiding and caring for Christ's flock, the men and women and little children whose Saviour-Shepherd he would be, was not deputed to his disciples. The supreme qualification for this service is love. This is why Christ keeps repeating to Peter that inquiry, "Lovest thou me?" The added, "more than these others (do)" may have reference to the fact that he was to be a leader among them; and at the same time, perhaps, harks back to his denial.

Special Lessons

1. "Jesus saw in Simon two men: Simon the son of John, and Peter a son of God. Simon Peter is the Jacob of the New Testament."

2. "If someone should fall from this pier into the water, would he be drowned?" an old boatman was asked. With a quizzical smile he answered: "No; it's not falling into the water that drowns a man." "What is it, then?" "Staying there."

AN "ODD JOBS" CAMPAIGN

By Bruce Gatto

There are two ways of meeting any sort of misfortune. One is to sit down and call on the world to witness that you are being wrongly treated. The other is to roll up your sleeves and go out and do something to make things better.

As far as the present economic depression goes, the first method seems to be more popular with most of us. We read and hear of men who are close to starvation because they can't get work, and we shake our heads and feel sorry for them—and let it go at that.

There are exceptions, however. In Racine, Wis., the citizens decided to adopt the second course; and they have gone to work so effectively that their action deserves to be broadcast over the nation so that other cities can copy it.

An intelligent columnist named Tex Reynolds, who writes for the Racine Times, got the idea that bit of a job, no matter how paltry, does a jobless man a lot more good than a lot of public walling. With the aid of his paper, he launched what you might call all Odd Job Campaign, urging everyone in Racine who possibly could to find, or invent, some sort of odd job that some unemployed workman could fill.

Business and civic leaders fell in line enthusiastically. The unemployed men were enrolled so that people could see just how many men needed work. Citizens who had regular jobs looked around for chances to hire men. Some engaged men to clean their furnaces. Others found they could pay a couple of dollars to have ashes hauled away and rubbish removed. Others found other small jobs. All in all, a good many men were given work that they needed very badly, and a good many flat pocketbooks got a little much-needed stuffing.

Now the important things about all of this is that it is the sort of measure that any town or city can take. It is adapted to the biggest in the country and to the smallest. It does not need a lot of wealthy people to make it a success. The man of modest means can take an important part in it.

Some of the jobs obtained in this manner prove permanent. Most of them last only a day or a week. But in either case they are extremely valuable to the men who get them. A five dollar bill looks pretty big to a man who has not worked since May. And it's a lot better for him to get it by earning it than by having some charitable organization hand it to him.

PASTURING WHEAT

By H. H. Baifer, Director South-west Improvement Association.

As a pasture crop wheat is excellent for feed but as a grain crop it seldom pays to let livestock graze it extensively. To sow wheat for the double purpose of pasture and grain usually does not pay, the returns from pasturing are more than offset by the decrease it causes in the grain yield.

The claim frequently made, that the pasturage secured from wheat is just that much clear gain, is not true under normal conditions, it is frequently true, however, in wheat of an early rank fall growth that needs to be held back. Experiment stations seldom show gains in yield or other beneficial results from grazing ordinary growths of wheat, but they frequently show losses of one to several bushels per acre from over-pasturing or pasturing wheat that is too small.

Of course there always are times and conditions when judicious pasturing will pay, but good judgment must be used as to when it pays and to what extent it can be done. For example, wheat sown too early in the fall often makes a rank growth and removes far more of the soil moisture and plant food than the future development of the crop will justify and under such conditions holding it back by pasturing is advisable. Much of the present growing crop is small and cannot stand pasturing, it will need all of its growth for winter protection.

Newspaper Advertising Still Unapproached by Other Methods

This is the age of publicity and who employs the best medium for reaching the buying public achieves the greatest success. For many years newspapers furnished the only means for carrying messages to the buying public. Later magazines and other periodicals entered the field, then circulars, and finally the radio. Volume advertisers employ advertising experts who are constantly on the job studying the subject, and well they may for they annually spend hundreds of millions of dollars to create and stimulate buying.

Newspapers Best:
These experts are generally agreed that no medium of publicity approaches the newspaper which enters the home and is read by every member of the family, and often by neighbors who are not subscribers. As a result of their studies circulars have been discarded as of little value. The radio as an advertising medium has seen its peak. A recent survey showed that 60 per cent of the radio audience turns the dial onto something else when an advertising talk is on. You cannot turn the home town paper. You can throw it away but you never do until you have read it throughout. Ask any rural mail carrier what the mail patrons do with purely advertising matter that patrons have not written in for. He will tell you that they are invariably thrown away at the box or on the way home, which shows conclusively that that kind of advertising has no appeal.

Brought Together
The merchant who reasons that it is so well known that he does not need to advertise is courting a visit from the sheriff. Older readers will recall St. Jacob's Oil remedy that was in the medicine cabinet of nearly every home in America thirty years ago. It had been placed there by the excellence of the product, aided by a great and intelligent campaign of newspaper advertising that extended over a period of many years. We can visualize their ads even at this late day. Finally, the original owners sold out to some concern for a large sum of money. The new owners of St. Jacob's Oil reasoned that the product was so well known that further advertising was throwing money away, and by discontinuing the use of newspaper space they could effect a saving of something like two million dollars per year, the sum the former owners had been spending to keep their product before the public. What happened? Sales immediately began to fall off and in a few years St. Jacob's Oil became but a memory with the old timers. The owners of course, went to the wall. Countless others have met with the same experience, and yet others, who persist in following in those footsteps, will meet the same fate.

Newspaper advertising brings buyer and seller together at less expense and with much greater effect than any other medium. Why not use it?—Congressman Harold Knutson, Pioneer-Journal, Wadena, Minnesota.

Texas leads the states in main pipe lines for transportation of gas—6,000 miles. Authority Manufacturers' Record.

Texas produces about 44 per cent of all the rock asphalt produced in the United States—320,331 short tons in 1929.

During the first six months of 1930 in Texas 226 new gas wells were completed—almost as many as the 240 completed during the entire year 1929. Initial volume of the 226 wells was 4,152,500 million cubic feet as against 4,420,500 million cubic feet of the 240 completed in 1929.

Texas has almost a world monopoly of sulphur production its total being nearly 90 per cent of the world's total and nearly 100 per cent of that of the United States. The largest sulphur plant in the world is in Wharton County, Texas.

Sterling County has an unique record among Texas counties—no Sterling County citizen has ever been sent to the penitentiary; no murder trial has ever been held in the Sterling County court house; the Sterling County jail is empty and its doors are open.

Texas is the second largest producer of rice in the United States. Estimated production for 1930 is 7,300,000 bushels.

The University of Texas has conferred 14,506 degrees since its establishment in 1883.

SAYS WILSON MADE MYSTERIES POPULAR

Detective and mystery stories came out of the behind-the-woodshed age with Woodrow Wilson's open acknowledgement that he liked them, according to Haywood Broun, noted literary and theatrical critic, in Woman's Home Companion.

The former President, says Broun, justified the boyishness in many great men that showed they like thrillers and that such stories are fit subjects for the mighty to read. On the other hand, Conan Doyle, next to Poe the greatest mystery writer of ages, was heartily ashamed of his character Sherlock Holmes, and often wished to be rid of him. Despite which, Sherlock grew to be one of the greatest fiction characters ever known.

"When President Wilson, who was, even in the eyes of his enemies eminently respectable," says the writer, "popped himself up in bed at night to discover who it was that thrust the ivory paper knife into somebody's midriff, we all began to flout the books that once had been handled furtively. It became the stamp of careerists to seek solace from their many duties in the anodyne of swift-paced mystery dramas."

Meanwhile, Conan Doyle, states the writer, was a martyr to the form of writing that he liked least, while great men were growing famous by professing to like his characters.

REFUND BEING MADE HOTEL BONUS DONORS

When the solicitation for funds for the 7,500 bonus for the procuring of the present new Hotel Perryton was made, the committee promised that if the fund was over subscribed, then that part that was left would be prorated back to the donors. Most of the subscribers laughed and said that they never expected to get a refund, but the impossible has happened for Chas. V. Callaway, who was custodian of the hotel fund, has been busy the past few days paying back an eight per cent refund. Mr. Callaway's report shows that a total of $3,175.00 was collected (more than this was subscribed but a number did not pay their pledges). Of this amount $7,500 was paid to the builders of the hotel and $17,500 was paid out for collection fees, leaving a balance in the fund of $657.50. The refund amounts to $654.00, the remaining $3.50 being turned to the Chamber of Commerce treasury.—Ochiltree County Herald.

BUYING FUR COATS STILL A CEREMONY

Although the purchase of a fur coat is no longer the subject of weeks of discussion at the family breakfast table it is still of the utmost importance, Theodore S. Clark, New York fur expert, discloses in Woman's Home Companion.

Buying just a fur coat of elegant cost is no longer the main thing to be considered, Clark declares. What matters now is how the expensive or no-expensive coat is going to look with different ensembles.

"If it is to be one coat," says the expert, "the young matron with no business cares, might well use gray squirrel that is suitable for both general wear and dress-up. Straight lines and long haired squirrel skins are preferable. An older matron would prefer, in business or at home, a black, kaffe or gray.

"For a reasonable everyday coat pony is newly smart," Clark continues. "Ombre muskrat, golden brown Alaskan seal, Hudson seal, or dyed muskrat, are popular. These are for women who buy but one coat. Those who are going to have two coats have an entirely different choice.

"A sports coat in tweed and a dressy coat in furs is the ideal combination, especially for the older woman. Mink, summer ermine and either broadtail or moire caracul (depending for the formal coat). They should be gently flared, but without the belt that is so favored on the sturdier pets. Slim silhouettes and soft collars that blend well with the older face soften lines that one strives to hide.

DISABLED VETERANS SWAMP PENSION PLAN

World war veterans disabled by sickness are likely to have a long wait before they obtain the benefits of the new law passed by the last Congress for their relief. All Veterans Bureaus have been swamped under a flood of claims, and protracted delays are indicated by an investigation undertaken by Collier's, which submitted a test claim of an Ohio soldier to the government.

The statement issued by the Cleveland bureau regarding this test case says: "This claim is one of several thousand filed in this district during the last few months. Physical examinations are being conducted as rapidly as possible, but due to the limited facilities of this office it will be necessarily several months before all the new claims now pending are adjudicated. This veteran will be called for examination at the earliest available opening in the examining schedule."

The real guilt for these delays, according to the investigators, is that of Congress for passing a law giving promises which could not be performed. The law, like so many others, was decreed without and adequate provision for its enforcement. Yet the very failure of Congress to provide the personnel safe starting—and quick starting, even at zero temperatures.

Cold weather is motor-punishing weather... Now, more than ever, you need the extra protection of this DE-WAXED, EASY STARTING OIL

Change now to this new oil. Use it all winter for motor safety and economy. You always will find Germ-Processed Motor Oil at stations bearing the Conoco Red Triangle.

CONOCO GERM PROCESSED PARAFFIN BASE MOTOR OIL

In cold weather motors usually are hard to start, but Conoco Germ-Processed oil actually makes starting easier!

There are two good reasons for this.

First: Germ-Processed oil is thoroughly de-waxed and does not congeal at low temperatures. Second: Germ-Processed oil does not drain away during periods of motor idleness.

The initial "turning over" process is made easier by the protective lubricating film which is on duty before you touch the starter. The usual 40% to 60% of motor wear occurring during the starting period is greatly reduced. Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil gives you 50 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE Texas and Panhandle Strip of Oklahoma; $2.50 per year elsewhere.

Entered as second class matter November 21, 1919, at the post office at Spearman, Texas, under act of March 3, 1879.

Prosperity is up for election, aiming to overthrow Depression. It's for the people to decide which will be chosen. Every man and every woman is privileged to vote—every day.

Depression has no rightful place in a hundred and twenty million people, exchanging goods and services—capable—accustomed and willing to work—more highly skilled than other peoples—leading in efficiency and progressiveness—backed by the vast natural resources of the United States.

When we make it possible for the man who works to have a job we make it possible for him to buy for his family and so help all business, including that of the farmer.

The rest of the world is of little importance compared with this free market of 120,000,000 people—homogeneous—of like habits and aspirations—living under the same laws—free trade barriers. Foreign trade is troubled by tariffs and duties, but at the peak our ports represented only five or six billion dollars of gross business in a year out of a total American income of ninety billion.

Stagnation of circulation is the matter with agriculture and with business. Everyone helps to get that circulation going again.

Government can't make prosperity—alone. Bankers and other business leaders can't make prosperity—alone. It's the people, led in opinion and purpose and age, who determine prosperity. They can elect it—none other. Allots that will be validly elected for prosperity are of many kinds. Some one of them man and woman can cast.

Example: Help a deserving man or a woman to get a little paying work—better, a regular job.

Be wisely and not too timid—anticipate scheduled expenditures so far as is practical—

Turn the deaf ear to false, misreporting rumors; and don't repeat if you do hear them.

Be willing to pay a fair price—take advantage of the other's necessity. Recognize that he has a good claim to a fair price.

Be a vampire that fattens on miseries of others shows up, to make him unpopular, encourage calamity howlers.

Keep business moving evenly, remember that, to the average man, his job is his particular business. When possible, reassure against his fear of losing it, but save wisely, not invest for the profit that enterprise pays and for the profit that will come after sterility of pessimism has passed.

WALKING IS DANGEROUS

careless pedestrian's foot leads him to the grave by six routes, and the most of these is the jagged. A very large number of 5,000 deaths occurring last through auto accidents were so streaking across busy and not using the intersection.

fusion on the part of the pedestrian, not hearing warnings, turning back in his tracks about another large truck accidents and deaths.

Children playing in the street behind their wagons and behind wagons and autos increase the death toll. In cases the fault was clearly pedestrian's and could not be on the driver, the weather voidable circumstances.

It is only one safe way to cross—cross at the proper and then only when the way is short-cuts in many cases short lives.

Parents should practice the safe crossing streets not only for own safety but to set an example which their children can follow.

Children should be taught the danger of playing in the high streets, and parents if necessary, prohibit them games where there is any danger at all. Many deaths occur where there is very little

"TOO MUCH"

"Too much wheat and too much lumber, too much steel our mills encumber,

Too much cotton, too much corn, too much autos, (here's what's fun), Even too much ready money.

Too much hog, and too much cow, that's they say, the trouble now. Selling half and making double, that's not it. No, here's the trouble;

Too much waiting for the low, Standing still when signs say go. Too much question, too much fearing, too much talking too much hearing;

Too much people every day, doubting this old U. S. A. Too much waiting chicken-hearted, for the rest too get things started.

Too much saying times are bad, too much talk of times we had. When we ought to start the movement, too much waiting for improvement—

Too much brake instead of clutch, That's the only 'much too much'."

—American Lumberman.

The Last Journey

From the Farm

The road was long and pale and dusty, and stretched like some phantom giant's finger beneath a hot July moon. The night was sultry and the leaves on the maple trees were twisted and turned up to drink in a breath of the air that blew faintly now and then from a silent and mysterious somewhere.

The blackberry bushes in the fence corners were wilted and over the whole white, hazy world, suspiring beneath the red and molten moon, not a drop of dew had gathered. There were fifty of them, all white faces, fat and sleek, and the tang of the bluegrass was strong upon them. Until sunset they had never been outside the master's big pasture, where wild roses grow, and the meadow larks sing. They had come ten miles, wondering but trusting, along the road that never ends, and their flanks, heaving with heat, were white with dust. Every now and then one would toss his head high above the others, switch his tail furiously and below. Often, too, struck with some sudden fear or overcome by some strange premonition, the leaders would stop and put their heads to the ground, refusing to go further. But at the call of the master's voice they invariably lunged forward. He was driving in a single buggy in front and was enveloped in a cloud of dust. They could not see him, but heard his long, wailing "o-o-h-a, o-o-a," rising in a crescendo floating back to them. It was the sunset call in the great pasture and they followed implicitly, fearing no harm. It was midnight now, and they had stopped to breathe beneath the shadow of a high steeple. A few fire-flies were still fitting back and forth over the low houses, and a belated pedestrian blocked at the crossing, had stopped to light the stump of a cigar. In the light of the match he saw their eyes glowing from heat and fear, and their red tongues lolling out. A prolonged heart-rending solitary bawl spilt the night, and then came again the master's sunset call, "o-o-h-a, o-o-h-a," and with a final lunge the herd, following the melancholy music of the pasture, started down the road to death and the abattoirs.

How infinitely tragic is the whole suffering, multiform scheme of life, life that lives on death, and death that continues because life is. Have the creatures of the pasture some God, like him that notes the sparrow's fall, who follows them into the din of the merciless slaughter-room and its agony? Is the whole plan some vast, masterless, unaccountable tragedy, without beginning or end, or does the lower, blindest form of life that drones or creeps beneath this summer night, find its way upward and is, somewhere, somehow, taken again into the current and being of a beneficent and perfect All Giver?—Quoted from "Scrap Bag" in Paris, Mo., Mercury.

Canadian C. of C. Will Present "Corporal Eagen"

"Corporal Eagen," a sensational comedy of the American Rookie will be staged by local people in Canadian Thursday night at eight o'clock, October 30, in Canadian's new Municipal Auditorium.

Included in the cast of characters are a number of well known Canadian and Hemphill county people, among whom is Erman Gray, local band instructor; F. N. Sawyer, superintendent of school; Judge W. D. Fisher; Carl A. Studer, rodeo promoter, and a host of others.

The play will present nearly 150 people and provide a wide range of color, comedy, spectacular patriotic pagentry, 25 of Canadian's most charming young ladies and a soldiers and sailors chorus of thirty in addition to a leading cast of nearly twenty prominent men and women.

"Corporal Eagen" is being sponsored in Canadian by the local Chamber of Commerce. A special block of choice seats is being held for out-of-town visitors and mail orders and long distance calls to the local chamber are receiving prompt attention.

Support of University Land Amendment

McCamey, October 30.—Claiming they have been giving to the university and the state more than they have been receiving and in excess of other counties, the judges of 17 counties where the university has holdings, have directed an appeal to voters throughout Texas to remove the inequality and discrimination by voting for the university land amendment Nov. 4. The Crockett County Commissioners court by resolution has asked voters to render justice in their verdict, the resolution being broadcast over this section.

Crockett and Upton counties have road projects which will entail a half million dollar expenditure through university lands, and neither will get a cent from the university to help pay for the cost of improvements. It is a gift to the school that tax payers of the two progressive counties will bear, whereas the roads will be returned to the good of the university, the state, and to every county interested in supporting the university, says the statement of the judges.

Taxes paid by the 17 counties in 1928 for state purposes amounted to $1,281,408.47 and the total repaid them in school apportionments was $556,185, making an excess retained by the state of $725,313.47, the judges cite in their plea for justice.

WHO LOVES A LOVER

The belief that all the world loves a lover seems to us to be inaccurate. What the world feels we believe, is a deep compassion mixed with a lively curiosity about what the poor boob is going to do next.—Collier's Weekly.

WALKING IS DANGEROUS

careless pedestrian's foot leads him to the grave by six routes, and the most of these is the jagged. A very large number of 5,000 deaths occurring last through auto accidents were so streaking across busy and not using the intersection.

fusion on the part of the pedestrian, not hearing warnings, turning back in his tracks about another large truck accidents and deaths.

Children playing in the street behind their wagons and behind wagons and autos increase the death toll. In cases the fault was clearly pedestrian's and could not be on the driver, the weather voidable circumstances.

It is only one safe way to cross—cross at the proper and then only when the way is short-cuts in many cases short lives.

Parents should practice the safe crossing streets not only for own safety but to set an example which their children can follow.

Children should be taught the danger of playing in the high streets, and parents if necessary, prohibit them games where there is any danger at all. Many deaths occur where there is very little

E. L. and W. M. U. Social Meeting

One of the most elaborate affairs of the season was the social given by the W. M. U. and T. E. class at the home of Mrs. D. W. Holland on Wednesday, October 9th.

Mrs. Holland, Mrs. Marvin Lee and Mrs. Fred Brandt were the hostesses for this occasion. The house was beautifully decorated with Halloween decorations of various kinds presenting a most ghostly and spooky appearance. Mrs. Glover, representing the ghost, received the guests as they came, and each was presented with a Halloween mask, creating much laughter and excitement. They were directed to the fortune telling room where Mrs. C. O. Collard, attired as the witch stirring in the old fortune pot, finding in it the destiny of each and every one.

The Black Cat Society was then organized by Mrs. J. H. Richards. Most everyone present was eligible to this society by describing the dissected parts of the very cold and spooky black cat, which brought forth screams and yells. After this initiation each one took the oath and gave the sign of the society and they were declared full fledged members. Other Halloween games and contests were played.

A delicious refreshment plate consisting of chicken sandwich, potato chips, perfection salad, pickle, pumpkin pie, with whipped cream and hot chocolate was passed to the following:

Mesdames, N. L. Beck, J. H. Richards, H. E. Towe, C. A. Hitt, E. B. Howerton, Bob Baley, R. H. Prewitt, Hobart Dick, J. C. Sanders, Rex Sanders, W. M. Glover, Sid Board, Reed, Carl Hutchinson, W. S. McNabb, Fred Brandt, Jim Thompson, Chas. O. Collard, D. W. Holland.

The Vicious Circle

When someone stops advertising, Someone stops buying. When someone stops buying, Someone stops selling. When someone stops selling, Someone stops making. When someone stops making, Someone stops earning. And when everyone stops earning, Everyone stops buying.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Austin, who live out on route A, fifteen miles southeast of Spearman, were in the city Monday attending to business matters and trading. The Austins are new comers to that section and are new at the farming game, but getting along fine. Mr. Austin was formerly in the mercantile business in Oklahoma.

Bob Fuller and Clarence Leu were Perryton visitors Wednesday of this week.

First Christian Church Birthday Rally

Everybody who can possibly do so, is invited to come to our birthday party to be held on Sunday, November 2, our big Rally Day. We hope to break all our records for attendance on this day. Big basket dinner at noon; preaching morning and evening. Special bible school rally program, etc. Just a big day. Come.

JASPER BOGUE, Minister. CLYDE D. RIGGS, Supt.

Methodist Church

Our congregations were good last Sunday. Had one conversion at the morning hour and was received as a member into the church by baptism at the evening service. The Sunday school and League were well attended. We feel like the church is making progress. Let's keep it going.

Just two more Sundays before the conference year ends, and the pastor will go to the Annual Conference. Reports for the year will be given. This church will have a great report to make. Let's make the next two Sundays the greatest in the year—by attending Sunday school, church and the league. Let's fill the house—we can and we ought to do it. Preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10 a. m. and League at 6:45 p. m. All strangers and visitors will find a hearty welcome at our church.

H. A. NICHOLS, Pastor.

At the Baptist Church

The church work seems to be growing better in every department. We are having good crowds at all meetings. All regular services at the usual hour next Sunday. Every member is urged to be present next Sunday at 11 o'clock, as we will arrange for the convention to be held in Amarillo on November 12, at this hour. J. H. RICHARDS, Pastor.

Parent-Teachers Association

The banquet given for the chamber of commerce by the Spearman Parent-Teachers Association was a real success financially, as we cleared $130. It surely was a lot of hard work, but was worth the effort. We wish to thank the chamber of commerce for furnishing us this opportunity to make so much money, and sincerely hope that this organization was pleased with our efforts. All the ladies who were called on to help with the banquet responded willingly and worked faithfully. We now have a $200 piece of playground equipment installed on the school ground and it is almost paid for. So, don't you think we are doing things. We have a real live "Ways and Means" committee.

Another real, worthwhile piece of work is being done by Mrs. Noe, and that is taking subscriptions for the Child's Welfare Magazine. We must have and read this magazine if we expect to be informed about our work. She has sent in this month more subscriptions than we have sent in altogether in the past eight years. We are cooperating—we are working. That means success. REPORTER.

Le Jeudi Bridge Club

The members of Le Jeudi Bridge Club met in a business session at the home of Mrs. W. L. Russell Monday afternoon, October 27, 1930.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Cecil Foote. Nominations were made to fill the vacancy made due to the resignation of Mrs. Pope Gibber. Mrs. John Duncan was unanimously elected for membership and other business included the election of club officers. The officers elected are: Mrs. Max Lackey, club chairman; Mrs. Jim Thompson, treasurer; Mrs. Dawson Nichols, reporter.

The following by-laws were voted on and adopted:

1. Club meetings shall be held promptly at 2 o'clock every other Thursday afternoon. Any member arriving later than 2:15 shall pay a fine of ten cents.
2. Any member who cannot be present at the ensuing meeting shall notify the hostesses not later than Tuesday afternoon preceding the meeting Thursday afternoon. If this is not complied with the absent member or members shall pay a fine of fifty cents.
3. In case of an emergency or sudden illness on the part of any member on the day preceding or on the same day of the club meeting, the vacancy shall be filled by the hostesses unless they should find it more convenient for the absent member to fill her own place.
4. Only five games shall be played at each club meeting.

It was voted to order one dozen folding chairs to be used for club meetings. Each member shall pay a minimum charge to cover the order fees.

The next club meeting will be on Thursday, November 6, at the home of Mrs. R. W. Morton, with Mrs. Morton and Mrs. S. B. Hale as hostesses.

Each member is requested to comply with the above adopted by-laws an especially if she finds it impossible to attend, to notify the hostesses for the coming meeting.

CLUB REPORTER.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lee Entertain

A pretty party was Saturday evening when Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lee entertained with three tables of bridge. Halloween suggestions were used throughout the appointments.

High scores went to Mrs. Chas. Chambers and D. W. Holland. R. H. Prewitt received consolation.

Those who played were Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. Max Lackey, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lee, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Prewitt, and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lee

Missionary Society

The Missionary Society spent a very delightful social hour at the home of Mrs. H. P. Bailey on Wednesday afternoon. On arrival each guest was presented at the door with needle and material from which a Halloween bonnet was made. Mrs. P. A. Lyon won the prize for making the best looking bonnet. Several games were played and delightful refreshments were served, consisting of sandwiches, potato chips, olives and pumpkin pie with whipped cream. Each plate contained a candy pumpkin. The house was beautifully decorated in Halloween colors.

R. C. Womble Is Injured When Arm Caught In Drill

R. C. Womble, north plains farmer, is recovering at the County hospital from injuries received Thursday when his right arm was caught in a wheat drill. The ligaments were badly torn.

Had it not been for the timely assistance of Mrs. Womble in stopping the tractor, her husband possibly would have lost his arm in the machinery. It was necessary for her to break parts of the drill in order to extract Mr. Womble. The injured man is a son of former commissioner W. C. Womble. —Hutchinson County Herald.
