

HARVEST IS NOW ON; BETTER THAN EXPECTED

WHEAT TO FORTY BUSHELS PER ACRE

Harvest broke in the Spearman early this week. Wheat is being brought in town right along, but there will be no big rush, in former years. Farmers are getting ready to handle the great quantity. Piling it on the ground is expensive waste and is being avoided whenever and wherever possible. Some great yields are reported and some are not so good. Ten to fifteen bushels per acre will be the result. More wheat will be shipped from Spearman this year than in the year 1929. This is due to a good yield per acre and to increased acreage. A few yields reported up to now are: Homer Allen, 30 bushels per acre; C. F. Bennett, 30 bushels per acre; Frank Allen, 25 bushels per acre; O. L. Williams, 15 bushels per acre; R. C. Sampson, 15 to 20 bushels per acre. These men are professional wheat men and occasionally raise a pretty good crop when some folks like R. C. Sampson is a member of the city commission of Spearman. He farms, also.

Clint Small Says No Special Sessions

Special sessions of the legislature will be unnecessary with the right kind of leadership at Austin, is the opinion of Senator Clint C. Small, Democratic candidate for governor. Something Wrong Here Stores Shipping in Eggs

The poultry industry in this county should be encouraged. It is one of the most profitable industries of the farmers can engage in, for the money invested. It has come to the attention of the editor of this paper of the shortage of eggs most all the year around in this city and community. Our merchants are compelled to ship in eggs to supply their customers. It also means profit to the farmer who engages in this industry, as a few laying hens will add much to defraying expenses for the farm household. It's an annual income that never fails. We have a good hatchery located in our city, where thoroughbred chickens can be purchased. It is hoped that more attention will be given to this industry by our farmers. There is always a ready cash market for eggs, fryers, capons, etc.

C. of C. Committees Are Announced

Important standing committees of the Spearman Chamber of Commerce were appointed the past week by President C. A. Gibner, and plans for constructive work is now being made. Our Chamber of Commerce is in better position today to provide assistance to its members than ever before since its organization, because it has committees which are appointed for every line of activity. No department is missing from the lineup of the Spearman Chamber of Commerce. When professional advice is needed it comes from a member qualified to give it. The Chamber of Commerce tells the world of the attractions and possibilities of a certain place. It compiles and distributes the information regarding our churches, schools, railroads, highways, water, light, climate, crops, prices, stores, amusements, soil, production, shipments, payrolls, social and fraternal conditions, and a thousand and one subjects. The success and distribution means more residents, more money, and employment. It creates a better market for your crops, more improvements, less taxation, due to wider distribution of costs, and eventually makes a real country and community which was only in name before.

Leave these details to any one business man or any dozen and they are never attended to; for the reason a man cannot neglect his private affairs to attend to civic matters entirely. To get results requires action. Action takes money, but brings results and makes good business. The Spearman Chamber of Commerce is your Chamber of Commerce and is working for you. Come in to the office of the Chamber of Commerce and give your ideas and good suggestions. They are welcome. Get better acquainted with the workings of your chamber of commerce, which is at your service at all times.

More New Homes And Business Building

New building projects are being noticed at each week passes. The past week building has begun on three new homes in Spearman, and from reports that come to the Reporter, many buildings are now being planned which will be announced at an early date. We hope to see the good building program continue, we need more cottages and living quarters in our city, if we are to grow and increase in population we must provide homes for people to live in. The Consumers Oil Co. is completing a very modern filling station this week. It is said to be one of the most attractive stations to be found in any city of the North Plains section.

The Hansford county democratic executive committee, of which Fred W. Brandt is chairman, met at the court house in Spearman last Saturday afternoon, for the purpose of determining the order of names on the ballot to be used in the primary election to be held on July 25, to estimate the cost of the primary election, and to appoint cost and attend to other business. The county executive committee is composed of Fred W. Brandt, chairman; T. A. Shapler, Harvey Wright, T. J. Harvey and P. A. Lyon.

Provision was made by the committee to hold a second primary as the contests for county office are concerned, as there are more than two candidates for any one office. However, the race in one office and state offices may necessitate the holding of a second primary.

Instruction School of Electrical Appliances

Miss Mildred Crawford of the Texas-Louisiana Power Company has returned from Fort Worth where she attended an intensive three day course in the use of electrical appliances at the Hotel on Thursday and Friday last week. This school is the first of its kind ever held by a Power Company for women employees only and was a tremendous success. It was organized to give these women a thorough knowledge of electrical appliances and their uses, in order that they may better assist the home maker of their various communities in obtaining the fullest benefit from the use of electricity in the home. The construction, operation and proper maintenance of the different appliances was brought out in demonstrations conducted by factory representatives. Power company officials explained rate structures, meter reading and the importance of proper customer contact.

CLINT SMALL FOR GOVERNOR

Feeling that the paramount political need of Texas at the present time is to cast off its shoulders the snarled burden of personal and political animosities which have made of the government at Austin a bedlam of incision and cross purposes. The Star-Telegram believes that the best served in the forthcoming campaign by the candidacy of State Senator Clint Small of Wellington.

This belief is supported not only by the fact that Mr. Small is not allied with any of the factions which have made impossible the direct and straightforward conduct of the State's governmental affairs, but by the further fact that Mr. Small has displayed in the formation of his platform and in his various public statements a sane and enlightened attitude toward the States' problems and a highly satisfactory degree of straight thinking which has enabled him to put those problems relatively in their proper place.

We do not hear Mr. Small advancing sectional or other prejudices as the basis upon which the people are asked to exercise their franchise, as one candidate for Governor is doing. We do not see him raising a smoke screen of personalities to conceal his own incapacity, as another candidate is doing. We do not see him making demagogic appeal to regional prejudices which exist mainly because politicians have kept them stirred up, as another candidate is doing. We do not see him standing upon such fallacies as that the state government can be supported without taxation that will bear upon every citizen, as one candidate is doing. We do not see him appealing for "vindication," as a public vote to deny the righteousness of the punishment which was accorded for maladministration of office, as another candidate is doing. We do not see him even putting himself forward as an appointed peacemaker whose elevation to office would magically dispel all strife and forthwith bring about that "harmony" which is only imaginary on earth, existing only in heaven.

On the contrary, we do see him putting forward a sober, logical and constructive program of public policies and public administration, having in mind the political and economic advancement of the State, the conservation of the rights of the people which include the right to learn and enjoy the comforts of life. That these ends may be accomplished, Senator Small does not trot out ancient and dishonored shibboleths, he does not fall into the demagogic practice of leading the group which is thought to have the most votes. He sets up the thesis that Texans are one people, whether their homes are in great cities, small cities, towns or upon the farm, and that whatever betters the condition of one must be something that betters the condition of all.

There are some eight or ten of these outstandingly great stores in small towns throughout the country. We hear about them generally in magazines or at conventions. This paragraph from Senator Small's announcement illustrates the point and gives the keynote of Senator Small's candidacy:
"I am prompted by the conviction that the people demand, and should have, relief from partisan strife and that in lieu thereof they shall be given a careful business administration. If I should be elected Governor, it will be my aim and ambition to adjourn politics in Texas and to inaugurate a constructive era devoted to building and developing Texas institutions. By thoughtful application of strong business policies it will be possible for the State to make substantial progress without additional cost to government. State government should so function as to make Texas an inviting field for new and diversified industries. To accomplish this end, taxes must not be increased, but the tax dollar must be judiciously expended and made to yield greater dividends. The most practical way to aid agriculture in all its branches is to make Texas an industrial State.
This is an admirably straightforward declaration of the principle of communalism of interest previously referred to. Texas suffers now from one-sided development. Agriculture suffers from the

WATCH PASTURE AFTER FOURTH

The Fourth of July usually is thought of only as the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, but it should serve another purpose for the farmer. In the average year, the Fourth of July should serve to warn the farmer that his pastures may be drying up, and that his stock may not be getting as much nourishment from the grass as he thinks. In the average pasture the grass will be good until the Fourth of July, but then the farmer should keep his eye on it pretty closely. The grass should be in its best condition right now, since it has passed the watery stage, and should hold up the milk flow to the maximum—if the farmer does not depend on grass to furnish the entire menu for his cows. Tests have shown that cows lose weight while being milked, if they have nothing but grass, because no matter how abundant the grass, a cow can not consume enough of it to provide for the needs of her body and keep up milk production. Nature has provided the cow with means of drawing upon her milk reserves to supply in the milk elements that otherwise would be lacking because of the small amount of food that can be consumed in the form of grass. This arrangement ostensibly was meant only for the protection of suckling calves, but man has not considered that point, and the cow suffers.

A good protein concentrate, such as linseed meal, should be included in the cow's ration at all times. A good mixture for high producing cows while the grass is good is 200 pounds of ground barley or corn, 300 pounds of wheat bran, and 100 pounds of linseed meal, fed at the rate of one pound for each six pounds of milk produced.

A FRIENDLY SPIRIT

A friendly spirit among a community's leaders is essential to town progress. When men play together they are able to work together, and it is only when they work together that they record achievements that classify their city among the progressive communities of the country.

Anyone who would wish to see his town prosper and grow should first seek to find ways and means of creating a friendly cooperative spirit among its business leaders, and among all of its citizens in fact.

Suspicion, animosity, and factionalism never thrive in a friendly atmosphere. To remove these obstacles to community growth it, therefore, becomes necessary to find ways and means of bringing the community's citizens closer together.

If the next war is going to be fought between machines what are we going to do for memoirs.

ELEVATE YOUR JOB

"I am just doing this work to carry me over a waiting period. Some day I hope to have an easy job and a chance to get out of this dirty mess." Young men and women make such remarks. They feel that ordinary work adds nothing to their social positions. They express contempt for labor and dream of the time when they may be able to live lives of ease and comfort.

When we encounter such a young man, one who is ashamed of his job, we like to call to his attention an interesting anecdote. A Roman noble, who expected a province, was appointed inspector of sewers in Rome, as an insult. Instead of so regarding it, however, he accepted the post and said: "If the job will not elevate me, I shall elevate the job."

Fortwith he carried on a campaign of public sanitation. Sewage disposal works were constructed. The avenues of filth that served as streets were transformed into highways of beauty and utility. Many of the greatest achievements of ancient Rome could thus be credited to this noble, who assumed his work with an idea of elevating the job.

Young noblemen in those days sought and secured appointment to posts in the army or to high office in the provinces, but few of these left any notable record of achievement for future ages to admire. This noble, however, recorded achievements of great benefit to his time because of his intelligent attitude toward his work.

Is therea thought here for general application? We believe there is and we therefore urge the young man who is not satisfied with his post in the world to elevate his own position by elevating his job.

THE MOTIVE POWER

Much as we may condemn selfishness, it must be recognized that an enlightened self-interest is the motive power back of most worthwhile achievements. If one can prove that men will profit, even indirectly, then they can be induced to support an enterprise.

In all of our talks on community building, it is, therefore, our intention to emphasize the benefit that each citizen of Spearman will reap through efforts to up-build the community. We want to convince every citizen in Spearman and in the surrounding territory that they will profit in some manner through the efforts of a few to make the city more prosperous.

The worker will find a better job and greater opportunities for his children through every new industry that is brought to the city. The farmer will gain through the benefit that always comes from living near a live town—better schools for his children, more pleasing entertainment, better markets, and a little higher valuation on his farm.

So be as selfish as you will only remember that the selfishness must be enlightened.

A modern home is defined as one in which every activity stops when the current goes off.

When you're in the market for a used car it becomes hard to believe that the automobile is a modern invention.

"I CANNOT PRAISE THIS KONJOLA TOO STRONGLY"

Says Wichita Lady Suffered For Twelve Years From Stomach Trouble

MRS. DELLA SETTLE "I cannot praise the Konjola too strongly because I tried many other medicines and treatments, but none gave the remarkable relief that Konjola did," said Mrs. Della Settle, 1749 Mildred Avenue, Wichita, Kan. "I just had to force myself to eat and nearly everything I ate made me sick. I had cramping pains in my stomach and bowels and I could hardly endure them, and I simply felt miserable all the time. "Finally I decided to put Konjola to the test. That proved to be a wise decision. Right from the start I noticed improvement. I now have a much better appetite, and meals are a pleasure as food digests without pains or misery in my stomach. My bowels are functioning as they should, and it is certainly a relief to be rid of that tired, worn-out feeling. I gladly endorse this splendid medicine that restored my health." Konjola has become the most talked of medicine in America because it makes good. And Konjola makes good in the most stubborn cases when given a fair trial and from six to eight bottles are used. Konjola is sold in Spearman at Hastings Pharmacy, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

PUBLICITY

"Will you give me a fine tenderloin steak, in the best of condition and deliver it at my home for dinner? Of course I understand that this is free."

Any person who made such a request seriously would immediately be subjected to an intelligence examination. But hundreds of reasonable, intelligent, and considerate people make such a request of every editor in the course of a single month. Our community is filled with people who want us to give front page position to an article that has no more real reader interest than the advertisements for which we receive good money.

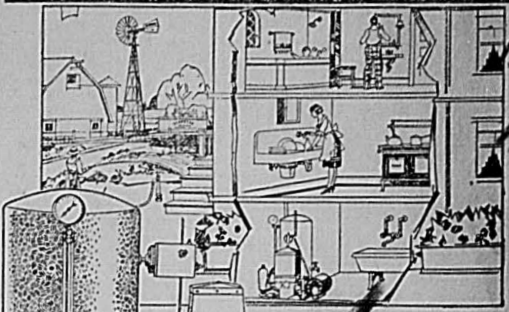

But our local friends are not the worst offenders. Frequently we can accommodate them although we realize we are giving away something for which we should receive cold cash.

The great offenders are the national manufacturers who have highly paid publicity experts to open our columns to so called news that should appear only upon the payment of our regular advertising rates. For these space grabbers we keep a sharp lookout. We have a large wastebasket that receives this matter as quickly as we open the envelopes and detect the purpose behind it all.

Our only objection is against the waste. Most of this is harmless in effect. It need not be regarded as propaganda. But it is advertising and will always be so regarded by us. It represents just as much waste unless it is also regarded in the same way by the advertiser.

When you don't hear anything about one of our great men for quite a long time you know he's been elected Vice President.

40" After the First Twenty-five Thousand Miles

THE VALUE of sound design, good materials and careful craftsmanship is especially apparent in the new Ford after the first twenty-five thousand miles. Long, continuous service emphasizes its mechanical reliability and economy of operation and up-keep.

As you drive the Ford through many months and years you will develop an increasing pride in its appearance and a growing respect for the substantial worth that has been built into it. From every standpoint—in everything that goes to make a good automobile—you will know that you have made a far-seeing, satisfactory purchase.

Wherever you go, you hear enthusiastic praise of the car and this significant, oft-repeated phrase—"I'm glad I bought a Ford."

A FORD owner in New York tells of a 13,000-mile trip across the United States and back in sixty days and says, "the car was extremely economical to operate, comfortable and speedy." A grateful father tells how the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield saved his wife and children from serious injury.

To test tires, a large company drove a new Ford day and night, for an average of 500 miles every twenty-four hours. It was still giving satisfactory service after 105,000 miles.

A Ford car that had fallen into Fernan Lake was submerged for twelve days before being raised. After a new battery and carburetor bowl were installed, it was driven back to Spokane under its own power.

Many police departments have written of the special advantages of the Ford in crowded traffic because of its alert speed, acceleration, and ease of control. An increasing number of fleet owners are also purchasing the Ford because their cost figures have given conclusive proof of its economy of operation and up-keep.

In addition to important triumphs in Germany, France and Italy, the Ford won six out of seven leading places in a contest in Finland, first and second in the Rafaela races in Argentina, first and second in the run from Copenhagen-to-Paris-to-Copenhagen, three gold medals in England, first ranking in the durability test over the tortuous Amancaes road in Peru, and first place in the 1930 reliability run conducted by the Royal Automobile Club of Sweden.

This contest was an exceptionally severe test of endurance and sturdy construction because it was held in the dead of winter and covered 600 miles of steady running over snow-covered country roads and mountainous hills.

Friday the thirteenth may not be so bad after all. On the evening of that day the Pringle school building served as a gathering place for the candidates of Hutchinson county and the people of the north plains who were interested in hearing the candidates speak. Almost all of those seeking election to a county or district office were present to make speeches and give to the people of this section of the county, some idea of what they had in mind to do should they be elected to the office desired. Perhaps some of them came in order that they might defend themselves in case an honorable opponent should say something which they could not fully appreciate—we aren't quite certain about that minor detail. But at any rate all of the speakers made good talks, which were enjoyed and appreciated by the entire audience.

After the speaking a race was run for the ugliest candidate. W. L. Kelly and Judge H. M. Hood ran neck and neck for almost all of the ten minutes and Judge Hood won by a few votes. Nobody seemed to doubt his deserving to win and a box of cigars was awarded him as consolation for being considered so homely. And what a pretty girl race? Beulah Deering won the prize offered in that contest which was a box of chocolates.

The box supper got started and the boxes all sold very well. The proceeds from the box supper and the two contests totaled $116 above expense.

The P. T. A. wish to take this opportunity to thank those who were present and so freely bought the boxes offered. The money taken in from this sale will go toward a school library.

The full impact of the terrific blow was received by the General Dual Balloon 8 Blow-out Proof tires, on the car. Although the rims were bent out of shape, the tires were not damaged in any way, inside or out.

THE COMING FOURTH

The Fourth of July will soon be here. And, according to the precedent set in other years, it will leave behind a toll of destroyed lives and property due to carelessness with fireworks.

Fireworks, except when used under proper conditions by experts, are a great fire hazard. Blindness, lockjaw, mangled limbs, fatal clothing burns, property damage and crippled bodies have always followed Fourth of July celebrations.

Many cities, and a few states, have prohibited the use of fireworks except in supervised public displays under permit from the proper authorities. It is unfortunate that our time-honored manner of enjoying the Fourth must be restricted—but conditions in our modern crowded cities are such that promiscuously allow the use of fireworks is to court injury, death and destruction of property. Children, especially, are endangered. Not a single Fourth has passed without a tragic waste of young lives throughout the country.

Make the Fourth "safe and sane." And when fireworks are used every possible precaution should be taken to guard against misadventure.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo. Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

ARTICLE XXVII

DRAWING THE "COLOR LINE" ON EGGS

Editor's Note—This is another tory in a series of 52 stories on oultry raising written by the well own national poultry authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis. The entire series will ap- ear in this paper. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

Color of Eggs Has a Decided In- fluence on Their Market Value in Some Parts of the Country. A Decided Swing From White to Brown in Many Centers and the Reverse in Others.

There are no doubt very few who would care to take literally the oftquoted assertion of a well known writer that gentlemen prefer blondes. Most certainly some gentlemen prefer blondes, but there are others who have decided preference for brunettes. No man who favors either the lighter or the darker tresses would dare to say that the color of his choice carried with it any superior virtue, grace or distinction. He just likes what he likes and that's all there is to it. A very similar situa- tion exists in the egg market. In some parts of the country, brown eggs are almost unsalable, with white ones at a premium, while in other places the exact re- verse is true.

Just why certain sections of the country should be so thoroughly prejudiced in favor of one color or the other is something that re- quires a lot more explaining than the space allotted to this article will permit. No one has yet been able to discover that the color of an egg shell has any connection with the food value of its contents. On the contrary, it seems to be well established that if hens laying brown eggs are fed the same ma- terial and cared for in the same way as those laying white ones, the products of both will be ab- solutely equal in food values. Never- theless, these strange local prej- udices must be considered just as certain merchants must reckon with the fact that women in cer- tain parts of the country will ac- cept nothing but Clark's thread, while Coat's thread, spun on the same spindles from identical raw materials, is the only brand others will have.

This peculiar state of affairs is of little interest to the poultrymen whose entire output is consumed locally. He knows the preference of his own neighborhood and, if wise, will cater to it. It is the poult- ryman or egg buyer whose out- put is too great for local consump- tion who must face the blonde brunette problem when he sends his product out to market.

The great center for marketing brown eggs is and has always been Boston and surrounding communi- ties. There, the preference seems to date back to the days of the earliest settlers. The reason it has persisted for so long doubtless lies in the fact that most of the Amer- ican class breeds—all brown egg layers originated there.

The owner of "brown-egg" fowls has the advantage when it comes to supplying dressed fowls for family use. As for capons, these breeds are ideal. The capons rival turkeys for size and weight with flesh of such tenderness and delicious flavor it would take an expert to decide if anything on earth could equal them.

Nevertheless, many poultrymen whose chief concern is egg produc- tion, hold the white egg laying breeds in high esteem. They are undoubtedly wonderful layers and the various strains have been greatly improved of late years. Their eggs now compare quite favor- ably in size with the average run from brown egg laying breeds and it can no longer be said that the so-called "all egg" breeds are less productive than the general pur- pose or brown egg breeds during the fall and winter months. There are certain localities where white eggs are in great demand, what- ever reason may be. That, after all, is sufficient reason for rais- ing the kind of fowls that supply them.

Public preference sometimes changes. The situation in New York is a good illustration of what can happen. There, brown eggs were at one time all but a drug in the market. Early in November, 1927, white egg prices began to decline and brown eggs forged ahead until the latter were soon enjoying a price advantage of 8c a dozen. Since then, there has been considerable fluctuation. In many other markets similar chang- es in one direction or the other have been noted.

Such changes as this are of no little significance to poultrymen everywhere. No matter how large or small your flock may be, if you produce eggs to sell, you want to be on the right side. Be prepared to swing with the tide of public de- sire. It may not be the most heroic measure, but aside from Lind- bergh's case, who ever heard of heroism that paid dividends? Copyright, 1929, by Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S.

DEAD TOWNS

The 1930 census reveals many social and economic changes to those who can read figures. Of special significance among these is the story of towns that have prac- tically passed out of existence with the close of this decade.

In many parts of the country sites where flourishing communi- ties once existed are now inhab- ited only by a few hundred resi- dents who remain to care for prop- erty or to spend their declining years. Back of every one of these dead towns is a story of a losing industry, of business that failed to keep pace with the changing times, and of citizens who could not be- lieve that their towns could die.

But census figures show that communities do die, and if one could only take the time to study the history of a number of these places, one could find that the tragedy, in most cases, might have been averted.

These cities grew up around small industries that were not able to cope with the competition of modern times and discontinue op- erations. The citizens of the com- munity gave up in discouragement when they saw prosperity slipping away from them and they too abandoned the old town. Little concerted effort was made to re- place passing industries with new business institutions. Little thou- ght was given to the great prob- lems of the community.

Let's give this matter some serious thought. Could Spearman meet with misfortune that would result in such disaster? Is there anything we can do to prevent it? Will concerted action enable us to compensate for any such possible loss?

If so, why wait until we are con- fronted with danger? Why not take an aggressive position now and enlarge and improve our city by bringing to play upon our prob- lems the power of united commu- nity action.

GOOD LIVING

The man who can translate money into terms of good living will find a small community like Spearman the most desirable sort of place in which to live.

Dwellers in the great cities must be contented with apartment life, with crowded streets as play grounds for their children, with artificial amusements for enter- tainment.

Residents of small communities have homes and the comforts that are denied to their city cousins whose earnings in dollars are much greater. They travel a short distance to enjoy wholesome out- door recreation. They escape the burden of high rents, exorbitant transportation costs, and of a thousand and one other items that reduce the big pay of the city when translated in terms of living.

A friend observes that Ameri- can husbands should receive no more credit for the kindness with which they treat their wives than the lamb should get for not get- ting rough with the lion.

The dollar is the only thing we can think of that goes faster after it is broken.

An Iowa man recently asked for divorce because his wife never told him the truth, but we can bet that there are a lot more men who want divorces because their wives do tell them the truth.

The Congressmen are now at home building up the fences they will straddle this fall.

as dead men.
5. And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear not ye; for I know that ye see Jesus, who hath been crucified.
6. He is not here; for he is risen, even as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay.
7. And go quickly, and tell his disciples. He is risen from the dead; and lo, he goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see him: lo, I have told you.
8. And they departed quickly from the tomb with fear and great joy, and ran to bring his disciples word.
9. And behold, Jesus met them, saying, All hail. And they came and took hold on his feet, and worshipped him.

10. Then saith Jesus unto them, Fear not; go tell my brethren that they depart into Galilee, and there shall they see me.
11. But the eleven disciples went into Galilee, unto the mountain where Jesus had appointed them.
12. And when they saw him, they worshipped him; but some doubted.
13. And Jesus came to them and spake unto them, saying, All authority hath been given unto me in heaven and on earth.
14. Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit:
15. Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I command you: and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.

Place:—Jerusalem.

break of dawn. "For an angel of the Lord descended from heaven." If ever these celestial beings came to earth, it would be to attend the birth and the resurrection of the Son of God. "And came and rolled away the stone." The women, as they approached the tomb, were worrying about the great stone that closed the entrance, and how it could be moved by their feeble strength—a fine example of the uselessness of worry. They did not know about the sealing of the tomb and the Roman guard in front of it, or they would not have attempted their errand at all.

"He Is Risen, As He Said." v. 6

"He is not here." He was in the world, but not in the grave. "For he is risen, even as he said." These women had been with Christ throughout his ministry. Probably each of them had heard him prophesying that he would rise from the dead on the third day. This is the most stupendous announcement ever made, more wonderful even than the angels' proclamation of the birth of Jesus at Bethlehem. It is the most blessed for us, taking away the fear of death forever. It placed the crown of triumph on the life of the Saviour. "Come, see the place where the Lord lay." The empty tomb would be more convincing than the stone rolled away. When Peter and John who came next, running, entered the tomb, they were powerfully impressed by the sight of the grave cloths which the body of Jesus had been wrapped, and especially by the headbands, lying there rolled up in the shape of the Lord's head, like a chrysalis shell from which the butterfly had emerged. (John 20:1-8)

The Appearances of the Risen Lord. vs. 9-17

"The New Testament is an effect, the cause of which lies in the fact of the risen Christ. If Jesus Christ had remained buried in the tomb, the story of his life as recorded in the New Testament would have doubtless been buried with him. The death of Christ shattered the faith of his disciples. This is evident from a study of the conduct of the disciples between the death and appearance of Christ. It is a question as to whether we should have heard anything more about them, or any further messages from their lips, had not the risen Christ appeared to them and resurrected their faith."—Dean William Evans.

"And behold, Jesus met them, saying, All hail." No one but a true historian would have related, in those days when women were not held in honor as they are now in Christian lands, how the Lord showed himself first to a woman. A false historian would have told how the risen Saviour showed himself to the Sanhedrin and Pilate to confound them, or to the chief of the apostles, Peter and James and John.

The Report By The Guard.

Matthew interrupts his narrative at this point to relate the report of Christ's resurrection made to the chief priests by the Roman guard, the dismayed meeting of the Sanhedrin, and their bribing the soldiers to say that while they (the soldiers) slept, the disciples came and stole the body of Jesus, a falsehood repeated by the Jews even to this day. The Sanhedrin agreed to protect the soldiers if Pilate should threaten to punish them, for it was death for a sentinel to sleep on duty; but it is inconceivable in the first place that the soldiers would be asleep, and in the second place that the disciples would have taken such a step. We know that they were honest men. They died for their faith in Christ, based on his resurrection. Men do not die for the sake of a cheat which they themselves have accomplished.

"We are not to think of the Lord's resurrection as a mere appendix to our religion. It is a fundamental part of our Christianity. We are justified in believing in Christ as our Lord only by the completed fact of his resurrection."—Rev. D. W. Faunce, D. D.

"Go Ye Therefore." v. 19

Because I have authority, therefore I command you to go forth. Because I will empower you, therefore go. Because there is no other way to get the gospel to all the world, therefore go. It is to be noted that the first two letters of Go-spel spell Go! The people will not come to Christ? Then it is our business to go to them with Christ. "And make disciples of all the nations." Christ said he was sent only to the lost sheep of the house of Israel; but he sends his disciples to all the lost sheep, of all lands and races. "The method by which Jesus proposes to subdue all things unto himself appears to be utterly inadequate. To teach, to make disciples, and to baptize these disciples, and to baptize these disciples, and to baptize these disciples, are the weapons of our warfare? Not thus do the princes of this world contemplate conquest, for they rely on monster guns, ironclads, and engines of death-dealing power. Yet what are these but proofs of their weakness? Had the all power in themselves they would not need such instruments. Only he who has all power can work his bidding by a word, and dispense with all force but that of love."—C. H. Spurgeon.

"Teaching Them"

"Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I command you." "We men are, at our best, always learning, always revising, correcting, supplementing what we have learned heretofore; never able to express ourselves positively on subjects which deeply interest us, without feeling that we, or others, will trace shortcomings, or exaggerations, or elements of paradox or falsehood, in what we say." Our Lord is haunted by no such apprehension as this. He is confident that what he has taught his disciples will hold good for all time; for all races and classes of men; for characters, moods of thought, moral and intellectual atmospheres the most diverse. As he said, "My words shall not pass away." (Matt. 24:35), so now he fearlessly bids his apostles teach the nations. He reigns, alike in the moral and the intellectual world; and he is certain of the authority of the commission which he gives to teach. "—Dean H. P. Liddon.

"I Am With You Always."

"And lo, I am with you always." Literally, all the days; dark days, bright days, busy days, restful days, "all the way my Saviour leads me." And notice the verb, "I am." To Christ, the Lord of eternity, all time is one, and present. The name of Christ, as of the Father, is: "I Am." Remember his great saying, "Before Abraham was born, I am" (John 8:58). "So shall we ever be with the Lord." (1 Thes. 4:17). "Even unto the end of the world." The margin reads, "The consummation of the age," the close of this world-age. The coming of the Holy Spirit, and his constant abiding with Christians, is the fulfillment of this great promise. "This last and wonderful word in Matthew is a worthy close for any book, for any career, even for the life of Jesus the Son of God."—Prof. A. T. Robertson.

Speaking of Bugs—

Just Read This

From now until frost some part of the flower garden, vegetable garden and shrubbery is bound to be attacked by disease or insects. An early dry spring has caused an unusual invasion of insects which are threatening most every kind of garden plant. To be on the lookout and find the pests before they are too numerous, is most important and after locating them, proper identification of the damage is necessary in working out proper control.

It is not necessary to know exactly what name the insect bears before he can be put out of commission, but the kind of damage is most important of all. Insects do one of two things when they feed: one type sucks out the plant's juices, and another eats the plants or parts of them. Some worms which are really "eaters" and not "suckers" cut the plants off below the soil or just above the soil. Other worms skeletonize the leaves of a plant, and often this is also the damage of beetles.

For insects which feed by sucking the juices out of a plant it is necessary to actually hit the insects with a contact insecticide which spreads over their bodies and closes breathing pores or causes paralysis. Several materials will serve this purpose and are sold as commercial sprays. Black Leaf 40, which is a 40 per cent nicotine extract, is one of the best. Evergreen, which is a preparation of acetone and pyrethrum is also effective. Some oils are good but must be used with extreme caution or foliage will be seriously damaged.

Chewing insects are controlled with stomach poisons. At times it is necessary to cater to the likes and dislikes of the insect before he can be induced to fill his stomach with a poison strong enough to kill him. Arsenic is the most common insect poison and may be in combination with other chemical elements such as lead, calcium and copper. Arsenate of lead and Paris Green are the most commonly used arsenicals for plant insects and when properly applied are very effective as a control. All of these compounds are either soluble or may be mixed with water, which is the diluting material used.

Complaint has been general concerning the outbreak of flea beetles which have been first noticed on nasturtium plants. The insects is a small black beetle which hops off of the leaves as soon as disturbed. Those actually hit with a contact spray may be killed, but it is necessary to keep after the beetles every few days until they are cleaned up. A weak spray of Bordeaux (2-2-50) is a good repellent for some of the beetles and is often valuable for diseases too.

Grubs (larvae of the June beetle) in grass and shrubbery root are a real problem, and have been doing special damage to roses. This pest is often brought into the rose garden in manure and since they like moist soil, they breed rapidly in the beds. Field control consists of cultural methods and pasturing with hogs but in the small garden plot either nicotine dust or liquid nicotine incorporated into the soil to plow depth is helpful and those reached by carbon disulphide may be killed by this material in small plots. Carbon disulphide is effective control of ants by pouring a small quantity into the runs.

Striped cucumber beetles, green aphids, spiders, thrips and snout beetles are all in the sucking insect class along with many other common insects. Cutworms, cabbage worms, caterpillars, tobacco worms, and hundreds of others of the leaf eating type are killed largely by arsenical poisoning.—Panhandle A. & M. College, Goodwell.

The Little Genius Has the Stamina and Clearance to Make Good Anywhere

THE LITTLE GENIUS is built to stand up in any field, and do good work under all conditions where it is reasonable to plow. Heat-treated beams and axles, and rigid bracing wherever needed, make it a plow that will hold its parts in perfect alignment in the hardest kind of fall plowing.

Greater clearance between the bottoms and under the beams than is found on any other plow of this type gives ample room for the passage of trash, weeds, or heavy green-manure crops. There is also ample clearance between the front bottom and the front furrow wheel. You will find that the No. 8 Little Genius will do a good job of plowing, and will not clog.

Tractor Plowing Means Timely Planting

The owner of a Little Genius tractor plow and a McCormick-Deering tractor has little to fear from the weather man. If a rain keeps the plow out of the field a few days, a little speeding up of the outfit, a few hours overtime, and he soon catches up and is able to get his planting done at the right time. This is really one of the biggest advantages of a tractor plowing outfit, for the difference between a crop planted at the right time and one planted late may easily amount to more than the entire cost of the tractor and plow. A Four-bottom outfit enables one man to plow from 15 to 20 acres a day. In many fields an additional once-over with a good tractor disk harrow and double-gang soil pulverizer puts the seedbed in condition to plant.

Joint Hostesses Entertain With Lovely Affair

An enjoyable occasion this week was the T. E. L. entertainment Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. M. Glover, with Mrs. C. A. Robertson, Mrs. Lucille Wolvertson and Mrs. W. M. Glover as hostesses.

Miss Fullbright, a life-long friend of Mrs. Glover, rendered two beautiful solos. The afternoon was spent in playing games, which each one enjoyed very much. We were glad to have Mrs. V. L. Allen and Mrs. Frank Allen of Amarillo, with us. Also Mrs. W. T. Walker. Tasty refreshments were served at a late hour to the following: Mesdames Bailey, Gower, Hulbert, Gould, Holland, Previtt, Collins, V. L. Allen, Brandt, Frank Allen, Marvin Lee, W. T. Walker, Towle, Wilbanks, Collard, Robertson, Wolvertson, Glover and Misses Vanica Wilbanks and Fullbright.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom McMurry and their children returned Monday from a visit with relatives and friends at Abilene, Geo. W. McMurry accompanied them to Abilene and became ill while there. He is practically well at this writing but will remain for a few days longer before making the trip home.

R. V. Converse, owner of the Broadview farm, recently sold a fine boar pig to Bryan Smith of Dumas. The price paid was far above the average which proves that Mr. Converse has the kind of hogs that are wanted.

W. L. McConnell, candidate for district attorney of the 84th judicial district, was looking after the interests of his candidacy in Spearman and vicinity the first of the week.

Mrs. Delon Kirk went to Amarillo Sunday to meet her sister and little son Walla Reed, who came from their home in Waco to spend three weeks in Spearman.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Merritt and their daughter, Mrs. John Tally and her baby daughter Sally who are visiting here, left Sunday for Dallas where they will spend a week visiting and attending to business matters.

Churches and Society

Presbyterian Church

We are entering upon a real program of work now. The pastor is on the grounds and for the next few weeks will give his entire attention to the work here and at least half time thereafter. Plans are under way to build a manse, so that the pastor may move his family here as soon as possible.

I would be glad if every Presbyterian in and around Spearman would meet with us next Sunday. Everyone is welcome. If you live here and are not connected with any other church we will be more than glad to have you come with us. "Come thou with us and we will do thee good."

The subject at 11 a. m. will be "Strange but True." The subject for the service at 4:30 p. m. will be "Casting out Devils."

Come, the church needs you, and you need the church.

B. W. BAKER, Pastor.

Methodist Church

Services every Sunday, both morning and evening. The Sunday school begins promptly at 10:00 o'clock. Preaching at eleven and at 8:30 at night. Summer is here and also harvest time and everybody is busy, but let's not forget the attendance upon these services at the church. It's a very easy thing for us to persuade ourselves that after a week's busy time that we are too tired to go to church—but suppose every member and friend were to look at it in that light—the churches would have to close their doors. Sunday school and church attendance have held up fine since the school has closed—but a great number could attend who do not. The services will be brief and we trust helpful to each one who attends. Prof. Warren has taken charge of Prof. Snider's Sunday school class and others have taken the classes without a teacher. We invite you to these services where a welcome awaits you.

Rev. W. M. Pearce, presiding elder of the Amarillo district, will occupy the pulpit Sunday night at 8:30. If you want to hear a real good sermon, fail not to attend this service.

H. A. NICHOLS, Pastor.

Live Wire Class

The live wire Sunday school class of the First Christian church is conducting an attendance contest. Those wearing the white ribbon have as their leaders Auburn Curtis and Lola Philyaw, and those wearing the blue ribbons have as their leaders James Mahaffey and Inez Sparks. We are planning many good times in the future. If you are not attending Sunday school elsewhere we want you, and will give you a hearty welcome.

Missionary Society

The Missionary Society met on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Sid Clark. Eighteen ladies were present. A business meeting was held and discussions heard, after which light refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. H. P. Bailey, on Wednesday afternoon, June 25. As a band of Missionary members, we take this method of expressing our thanks for the good time and profitable lessons we received at the zone meeting held at the home of Mrs. Lusher in Perryton on Thursday, June 12. There was a large attendance and the lesson was taken from the Missionary Voice and May Bulletin. The devotional was given by Mrs. Forbes of Perryton. Prayer by Mrs. Foote of Quarah. The topic of the lesson was the education of Korean girls given by Mrs. Lance and Mrs. McDivitt of Perryton. The Bulletins were read by Spearman ladies and Mrs. Rogers gave a special council report. Mrs. C. D. Foote of Spearman sang a beautiful solo. We hope more of our members become interested in these meetings.

Mr. and Mrs. Alkino Richardson came from Amarillo Monday and visited until Wednesday with relatives and friends here.
