Government Stops Car Sales; Local Tire Quotas Assigned

Auto Plants To Work For War Purposes Only
WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Sidney Hillman, associate OPM director, predicted today that complete utilization of the automobile industry's machines and men "might shorten the war by months."

automobile parts industries have been invited, together with the industry's advisory committee, Hillman said.
Hillman and Director General William S. Knudsen of the OPM, both will participate in the automobile conference, which is expected to last for several days.

The 400,000 passenger cars and the light and heavy trucks now in stock with dealers can be bought only by government, lend-lease and the most essential civilian users. Pending establishment of a rationing system to handle distribution of these automobiles, the purchase, sale and delivery of all new cars and trucks is prohibited.

Three Scientists To Split Prize

DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Three scientists will split a $1,000 prize awarded by the American Association for the Advancement of Science for the discovery of a biological common denominator.

They are Professor Frank H. Johnson of Princeton University and Dugald E. S. Brown and Douglas A. Marland of New York University.

This denominator clarifies several puzzles—the nature of unconsciousness, action of sulfanilamide, of vitamins and of temperature and pressure on living bodies. The discovery, presented here this week, showed that enzymes—compounds which cause chemical reactions in living bodies—are the basis of consciousness and a part of other puzzling reactions.

The Texas Academy of Science, holding its meeting in connection with the AAAS, yesterday elected Dr. Elmer P. Chesbath, associate professor of biology at Southern Methodist University, president. Dr. Frederick A. Burt of Texas A. and M. College was chosen executive vice-president.

Safeguard The Home Against Fire By Cleaning Up

PREVENT FIRES
By LUCRECE HUGHES
AP Features Service Writer

The first thing you can and must do to safeguard your home is to take every possible precaution against fire.

Are there rubbish heaps in your basement? In your attic, stuffed with old papers, magazines, letters, dresses, bric-a-brac? Are your work clothes crumpled with oily rags, mops, inflammable cleaning fluids? Then you practically have a five-foot welcome sign painted on your roof top. Any incendiary bomb that comes your way will have a glorious time of it.

So give yourself a winter cleaning. Send your junk and old papers to government collectors. Tidy up the closets. Throw out the bric-a-brac. Place buckets handily by all water taps.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Edwards entertained with an annual open house and egg nog party in their home New Year's Day from 9 o'clock until evening. Over 300 guests called during the day.

The table was centered with crystal and silver scales filled with holly. Branches of holly surrounded the centerpiece and two white reindeer figurines were placed in the holly.

Hollywood Lists 100 Marriages, 50 Divorces In '41

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 2 (AP)—Paced by three Westmore brothers and two of the Bennett sisters, the film colony had 100 marriages and only 50 divorces in 1941.

The Westmores thus caught up with the Bennett family in number of weddings, 11, but remained behind in divorces, six to eight. Romances of these two families have been furnishing Hollywood with bits of gossip for years.

Ern Westmore started the brother makeup artist's marital trek in February by taking as his fourth wife Betty Harron. Perc married Mrs. Juliette Novis in June and Buddy made Rosemary Lane his bride on Dec. 28. Ern had been divorced three times; Perc twice and Buddy once. Two other brothers, Wally and the late Montague, were married once each.

Constance and Joan were the only Bennetts to aid their romances last year, but each got both a divorce and a new husband. Connie divorced the Sinequias Henri De La Palasio De La Coudraya and married her long-time friend Gilbert Roland. Barbara's divorce from Morton Downey freed her for a June wedding to Addison (Tex) Randall of the films. Connie has been through four weddings and three divorces; Joan three and two, Barbara two and one, and father Richard Bennett two and two.

Three actors were remarried to former wives, Stan Laurel to Virginia Ruth Laurel, Robert Armstrong to Claire Louise Armstrong, and Thomas Mitchell to Anne Brewster Hier.

Two marriages lasted just a few weeks, Judy Canova's surprise wedding to Pvt. James Ripley in Honolulu and Mary Brian's to Jon Whitcomb.

John Barrymore, whose love life oft has crowded important news off front pages, took a year-long vacation from cupid and the divorce courts. Closest he came to romance was a denial that he and Elaine Barrie might effect a reconciliation. "You know, it's funny," he said, "but I have always got to know my wives a lot better after we were divorced."

Oregon Upsets Duke, 20-16 Crimson Tide Rolls Over Aggies, 29-21

Fumble Paves Way For Tiger's 2-0 Loss To Rams

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 (AP)—The Fordham and Missouri football teams were about as evenly matched as teams could be, and the one that got the big break—outside of that the eighth annual Sugar Bowl game yesterday ran exactly contrary to all predictions.

Since both teams boasted powerful offensives, the tilt was expected to be a free-scoring affair—but the final score was Fordham 2, Missouri 0, and a blocked punt decided the issue.

No Use Guessing—

Mascot Picks Easterners To Cop Tilt

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Little Jerry Glynn says the East will win—and that ought to tell most people where to put the binoculars in tomorrow's 17th annual Shrine East-West charity all-star football game.

Jerry, a 14-year-old kid who looks no bigger than a minute, is the East's self-appointed mascot. If his luck is as good as it has been in the past, the Easterners have the decision wrapped up and packed away before they ever go onto the turf of Sugar Bowl stadium. For Jerry never has been with a losing team.

His latest job was helping his high school football team win a scholastic championship, and he has real off other achievements if you give him half a chance.

The East and West teams both came to town yesterday from their training camps at Biloxi, Miss., and Baton Rouge, La., and took quarters at Tulane campus.

A crowd of between 50,000 and 85,000 is expected for the kickoff at 2 p. m. (Central Standard Time) Saturday.

Kobe, Japan, is one of the Orient's great shipbuilding centers, as well as the center of the country's match-making industry.

Beavers Never Lose Rose Bowl Lead To Hosts

Dukes Get 15 To 14 First Down Margin; Durdan Sets Pattern

DURHAM, N. C., Jan. 2 (AP)—They laughed when Coach Len Stiner of Oregon State set down hard on the football spectators because they had "underestimated his team." But when Len's boys started to play, folks, the laughter changed to amazement.

Len proved convincingly yesterday in the Rose Bowl game here that his Beavers, who entered the contest on the short end of a 3 to 1 odds, were the most underrated individuals since David slung his sling. The youthful coach maneuvered his team to a 20 to 16 triumph over a Duke club which had gone through a nine-game season without a defeat, a tie, or a close call.

Thus ended what probably will go into the record books as one of the most unusual games in the Rose Bowl saga. Duke made 15 first downs to 14 for the visitors. But the Beavers were out front most of the way, and Duke never forged into the lead.

The first payoff play was a 15-yard romp by left-handed Don Durdan, the Mr. Dependable of the westerners' squad, on a fake pass in the opening quarter. Warren Simas kicked the placement. Duke knotted the count in the second stanza, on a four-yard reverse by the brilliant Steve Lach, with Bob Gant making the placement. The tally was set up by long runs by Lach and Tom Davis.

Then came the third quarter, and one of the wildest chapters in the history of Dixie football. Oregon State went into the lead when Bob Dethman shot a beautiful 31-yard touchdown pass to George Zollic. Simas' kick was good.

Winston Siegfried scored for Duke from the one-yard line, in a touchdown set up by a great run by Lach and a penalty against the westerners for unnecessary roughness. Tom Frothro's kick tied the score again. But Oregon State again took the lead, this time on a 66-yard pass and run play from Dethman to Gene Gray.

In the last quarter, Duke scored a safety when Durdan, standing in his end zone, got a bad pass from center.

Sinkwich's Passing Blasts TCU, 40-26

Georgia Ace Tosses Three First Half Touchdown Aerials

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP)—Georgia's Bulldogs wrote the spectacular story of "Frankie Sinkwich, All-American" all over the Orange Bowl stadium while piling up a 40-26 victory over Texas Christian before a New Year's Day crowd of 55,000.

The flat-footed Youngstown, Ohio, sensation left the Horned Frogs bewildered by throwing three first half touchdown passes—two of which covered 60 yards or better.

Then, just to show the Horned Frogs he could do something besides pitch the ball, he pounded through the whole T.C.U. team for 45 yards and Georgia's last touchdown.

Sinkwich set up another Georgia touchdown with a 33-yard pass to Lamar Davis. One of the Bulldogs' six scores was made without his assistance, Jim Todd tossing a 23-yarder to Davis for that one.

Although Frankie's passing was easily the feature of the game, his running wasn't anything to sneer at. His net average from scrimmage was 65 in 23 tries and his total net yardage of 129 compared favorably with the 64 net yards racked up by all the T.C.U. backs combined.

The Christians demonstrated, however, that they had quite a ball club. After they recovered from the humiliation Frankie slapped on them in the first half they rallied nobly and came very close to making it a photo finish.

Kyle Gillespie, the Frog's star quarterback, would have looked like a great star if Sinkwich had stayed at home.

Tulsa's Dobbs Pitches 6-0 Win Over Raiders

EL PASO, Jan. 2 (AP)—A long-legged kid with a nonchalant air and an arm like a blacksnake whip was the toast of the town today.

He was Glenn Dobbs, lanky six-foot, four-inch halfback for Tulsa university, who pitched Texas Tech dizzy in the Sun Bowl and, with the help of a magnificent line and some fancy pass reception, downed the Red Raiders 6-0.

Dobbs' bullet-like passes demoralized Tech's defenses, and when it wasn't his passes it was Dobbs' kicking and running. Two great ends, Saxton Judd and Elston Campbell, with Dobbs made a passing combination which bowled over the Red Raiders before 14,000 spectators.

As Tulsa rolled out of town for home today, the Golden Hurricane left a bemused Tech eleven behind with the air of a man inquiring: "Why didn't someone tell me about this before?" The Red Raiders will have later for Lubbock.

As a spectacle, the Sun Bowl encounter was dull going for about 58 and a half minutes. At this precise juncture, when almost everyone was willing to settle for a tie, Dobbs connected with a pass to Judd for the touchdown.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (Wide World)—Duke saved the Rose Bowl game for this year but the move to Durham made the Pasadena show in the long run.

Looks like a cinch that the folks in the Carolinas will try to make a permanent fixture of a New Year's Day game, and if they can arrange a hookup with the Southern conference, that will eliminate a possible California visitor each year.

Cadets' Aerials Outshined By 'Bama's Nelson

Tide Is Outgained By 234 Yards, Makes One Last Down During Day

DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Alabama didn't stop that blasting aerial game of the Texas Aggies but the Crimson Tide did the next best thing—they just outscored the Cadets and the result was the thriller of thrillers in Cotton Bowl history.

At the long end of a 29-21 count, the Tide will roll back toward Tuscaloosa late today, breaking the homeward journey at New Orleans where the squad will see the East-West game.

Pretty good for a team that makes only one first down and is outgained by 234 yards as was the Crimson Tide yesterday in halting the Aggies' victorious march among the bowls. But there was Jimmy Nelson and there, brother, was plenty.

One of the greatest running backs ever seen in these parts, Nelson was the difference as he sifted wealth-like through the Aggie team twice for touchdowns, one on a 13-yard return of a punt, the other on a 51-yard swirl around end.

The score was tied 7-7 when Nelson started to move and the Aggies never could catch up, although scoring twice against Alabama reserves in the waning minutes of the game.

And the downfall of the Aggies made it a clean sweep against Texas teams in yesterday's bowl battles. Texas Christian lost a scoring thriller in Georgia, a fellow member of Alabama in the Southeastern conference, and Texas Tech was beaten by Tulsa in the Sun Bowl.

An estimated 25,000 saw the sixth annual Cotton Bowl tilt, the A. and M. defeat marking the first time a Southwest conference team ever had lost in the Dallas post-season clash.

The Aggies rolled up 124 yards in the air but Alabama intercepted seven A. and M. passes and tried seven of their own, completing only one for 14 yards, but that led to the touchdown that brought Alabama even with the Aggies in the second period of the vicious game.

Nelson led the scoring parade with 18 points—two touchdowns and a point after—while Russ Craft pitched in with one touchdown, all-America Holt East another and George Hecht kicked a 23-yard field goal and one point after touchdown.

District 3-AA Parley To Be In B'Spring

District 3-AA's executive committee meeting, originally scheduled for Big Spring then changed to San Angelo, has been returned to Big Spring. The parley is slated to get underway at 1:30 p. m. Saturday at the Settles hotel.

The conference had been shifted to San Angelo because of the all-district basketball preview there set for today and Saturday, but cancellation of the game show resulted in the meeting site being returned here.

Big Spring and Midland gave notice of their withdrawal from the basketball tournament, after which San Angelo called off the whole affair.

Unlike the last three meetings of the executive committee, the parley is due to be free of any arguments between one side wanting something and the other side opposed to giving anything.

Supt. W. C. Blankenship, chairman of the body, has declared that the meeting will deal only with routine matters—arrangement of 1941's football schedule and the ironing out of any basketball-date conflicts.

In addition to the regular business at hand, a means of providing a definite and universal check on eligibility of all gridsters in the circuit before the season starts may be discussed by the group.

Officials and coaches from Big Spring, Odessa, Colorado City, Lubbock, Sweetwater, Midland and Abilene schools will be hosted by the San Angelo members.

Yunnan province, through which runs the greater part of the 725-mile Burma Road, is the second largest province of China proper.

Bell Named Head Of Mentors Ass'n.
DETROIT, Jan. 2 (AP)—Coach Matty Bell of Southern Methodist University yesterday became the first southerner to preside over the American Football Coaches association since 1933, as the football mentors wound up business at their annual meeting.

Dick Harlow of Harvard moved up in line for the post in 1943.

One of the concluding acts of the session was a recommendation for the establishment of at least three hours a week of compulsory physical education for college students because of the war.

Editorial— 1942 Sacrifices May Do Us Good

Today we get down to the business of starting another year of work. Ordinarily, it isn't a particularly important date, for instead of being a beginning, it usually is a routine continuation. But this year is different, or rather it looks to be different from any we have known at least in the last score of years.

Already we are learning that we may face some dire situations during the year. None of these are of the type which would merit fear, but some will be of a kind to call for sober consideration. Take, for example, a few short weeks ago none of us would have dreamed that we could not go down and buy all the new tires our credit would stand. Today we find it next to impossible to get a new tire.

What holds good in this instance may spread to other fields during the year of 1942. What will be the next item affected we have not the slightest idea. We don't even like to think about what it might be, and don't recommend that the public think about it. For if we begin to get scared about shortages in this and that, first thing you know we will have created some needless shortages by our own foolish purchases.

Indeed, if there is need of rationing—there should be none so unpatriotic as to rush in ahead with some unwarranted purchases. That's hoarding and a foolish, selfish thing.

The point about 1942 is that we are going to be called on to do with and do without many things which normally we considered ours. The job is to readjust ourselves cheerfully, willingly and if need be, sacrificially to these conditions. Sure, we may be faced with some inconveniences, but perhaps we need a few to sort of jar us back on the right track. If it does bring us closer together, 1942 will be a good year.

NO TIME FOR LOVE

Chapter Seven WEDDING PLANS

"Pete, you silly thing!" said Zoe. "Aunt Dorcas wouldn't be leading a leopard around New York!"

"Oh, I don't know about that!" said Pete. "I saw a woman walking down Fifth Avenue with a leopard one day. And it had on spats." He grinned at Miss Dorcas. "Anyway, I'm glad you got here in time for the wedding. You'll come, won't you?"

"Certainly will!" Miss Dorcas said eagerly. "There's nothing I'd like better than watching a couple of fine young people like you and Zoe getting married."

"Sweet!" said Pete.

"What's more," said Miss Dorcas, "I'll give you a wedding supper or luncheon." She turned to Lavinia. "You can invite a young man, my dear—and we'll have a party!"

"But, Aunt Dorcas," said Lavinia, "I—"

"You can ask Freddy," said Zoe. "Yes," said Pete. "Freddy's a swell fellow. Lots of people accuse him of being a chaser, but—"

"What's a chaser?" Miss Dorcas wanted to know.

"A man," said Lavinia, "who's trying to get a girl to take his wife's place."

"That's not fair, Lavinia," said Pete. "Freddy was only married a little while, and I happen to know that he goes around with a lot of girls because he wants to forget having lost his wife."

"That seems a funny way to forget," said Lavinia.

"Losing Kay," Pete went on. "He doesn't mean any harm—rinsing around with other girls. Anyway Lavinia, he's sincere in his admiration for you."

As well as for all the other girls at Armworth's," said Lavinia.

Her aunt looked at her. Her brow was again lifted in that quizzical fashion Lavinia remembered so well.

"Is there some other man you'd rather have?" she asked.

"No," said Lavinia, feeling completely helpless. "Freddy will do as well as anyone."

Aunt Dorcas then went on planning the party. But Lavinia paid little attention. The sense of confusion was worse than ever. Aunt Dorcas, eager to attend a wedding, Aunt Dorcas, planning a wedding supper . . . of all things.

Then she heard Pete saying: "Did you really shoot that bear there?" He pointed at the rug.

"I did," said Miss Dorcas. "But I'd like to forget about it, if you don't mind."

"But why, Aunt Dorcas?" Lavinia asked, staring. "I've always looked forward to hearing you tell about it."

"Very well," said Miss Dorcas. "I'll tell you about it—and then we'll forget the matter from now on."

She lit another cigarette. "I saw the bear coming at me—looking, I thought, like a Rocky Mountain with four legs. I started to run, but realized the bear could also run. I changed my mind, lifted my gun, shut my eyes—and—"

"Both eyes?" said Pete.

"Yes, both eyes," said Aunt Dorcas. "I shut both eyes—and fired."

"And you hit him?" said Zoe.

"I did."

"What happened then?" Lavinia asked.

"I fainted," said Aunt Dorcas.

The Streamlined Spinster

During the days following Miss Dorcas' return, Lavinia continued to have a dazed, confused sort of feeling. And this feeling increased as she watched her aunt's metamorphosis—the gradual transformation of a female explorer into a modern, streamlined spinster; a spinster who didn't look in the least like one. And yet, in a way, it was also interesting, watching the disappearance of the sort of person she had always thought her aunt to be, and seeing the appearance of this entirely new person.

"I've been a museum-piece quite long enough," Miss Dorcas said one evening as she and Lavinia were dining together in a restaurant not far from Miss Dorcas' hotel. "And, frankly, I rather like myself as the beauty parlor has made me." She watched Lavinia, and asked: "Do you like me, my dear?"

"Of course I do," Lavinia replied. "Only I've got to have a little time to get accustomed to you as the beauty parlor has made you."

"You've nothing on me there!" said Miss Dorcas. "I need time to get accustomed to myself." She glanced into a nearby mirror. "I let them have their way with my hair, and lips, and skin—but I drew the line on red finger nails. I think painted nails are downright savage; in fact they remind me of bloody talons in a jungle. I'm glad you didn't go in for them."

"I loathe them," said Lavinia. They ate in silence for a few moments. Then Lavinia spoke once more.

"About the party you're giving for Zoe and Peter," she said. "I wish you'd make it dinner and a show, instead of dancing."

"Why?" Miss Dorcas wanted to know.

"Because I dance terribly," said Lavinia. She remembered that unhappy experience with Freddy.

"Then you should take lessons. I'll be glad to foot the bill!"

"I haven't the time. Besides, with a business career before me, I see no need of becoming an expert dancer."

"No?" Miss Dorcas was thoughtful. "I was under the impression that business women as well as men felt social accomplishments were in their work."

You know, being able to go out and dance, and be gay—so's to bring in orders, or something."

"Lots of them do feel that way," said Lavinia. "But they're mostly men and women who have something to sell—and want to make a good impression on customers. I buy, you see. I don't sell."

"But don't the people who want to sell you ask you out?"

"Occasionally."

"Don't they want to dance—visit night clubs—see the sights of Manhattan?"

"Of course. But I usually manage to inveigle them into seeing a show instead. Then, I tell them I must get home—the hour being late."

"I see," said Miss Dorcas. "However, I still think you ought to learn to dance well."

"Perhaps you're right. But I haven't time to learn before your party—so I hope you'll do as I suggested, and make it the theatre. Zoe loves a good show—and most men do."

"Very well, my dear," Miss Dorcas drained her coffee cup. "But whether you take dancing lessons or not, I'm going to. I want to learn the rumba."

"Good heavens, Aunt Dorcas!"

"I watched savages doing wild dances in the jungles—and I've an idea I can give some startling new twists to what civilization calls 'primitive' dancing."

No Dinosauria!

Lavinia said nothing at once. She was too busy remembering Armworth's woman about her aunt's age, one who was determined to stay young and kittenish if it killed her. And suddenly she felt a sense of fear and worry—lest Aunt Dorcas go to the extremes

Washington Daybook— Maxim Litvinov Attracts Washington Attention

By JACK STEINMETZ

WASHINGTON—The war has made more changes in diplomatic circles than it has in the map of the world—but none stranger than that which has brought round graying Maxim Litvinov into the Washington spotlight as one of the most popular figures in the nation's capital.

If this were Hollywood, it would be a safe bet that only President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill (during his visit) would be any more sought after by the auto-graph hounds than the paunchy, smiling ambassador from the U. S. S. R., who because he also holds the title of Deputy Commissar for Foreign Affairs, outranks all diplomats here with the single exception of the British ambassador, Lord Halifax, who likewise has retained his status as a member of the British cabinet.

That, however, is a protocol rating and has nothing to do with the fact that ex-revolutionary, one-time exile in Siberia and in-again, out-again favorite of Josef Stalin, rates top in popularity with official and unofficial Washington.

The capital press corps especially has placed its approval stamp on the man from Communist-land and there's good reason for it. In his conference in the big Sixteenth Street embassy, Litvinov greets the ladies and gentlemen of the press with a big smile that deepens the creases in his heavily lined face and threatens to displace his oval-shaped spectacles.

His manner is easy. It impresses one as being more frank than that of official spokesmen of our own more firmly established Allies in the war on the axis. At times it is almost confidential.

When a question treads too close to subjects he does not wish to discuss, he displays a Russian genius for skirting the issue without seeming to refuse an answer. That kind of double-dealing the newspaper men can understand—and appreciate.

It is difficult to say if, in taking over the reins here, Litvinov has made any great difference in the running of the embassy staff. One who should know, assures me that the new huge staff is happier than it has been since the United States shifted from a cold shoulder to an outstretched hand in its attitude toward the soviets.

Certainly the diplomatic relations between the United States and the Soviet Republics seem to be functioning smoothly, for the latching is nearly always out for Litvinov both at the state department and the White House. While there is no evidence that the new Russian ambassador has been taken as a bosom pal by either President Roosevelt or Secretary of State Hull, neither is there any that he is in the least persona non grata, a state in which his predecessor, Constantin A. Uman-sky, frequently found himself.

In other respects, Litvinov differs radically from the former host of the Russian embassy. Uman-sky's functions were primarily social and titular. His job apparently was to keep up what contact he could with a nation that frowned on his own and maintain a brave front with the representatives of other nations who were more friendly.

Litvinov, on the other hand, is considered Russia's greatest diplomat, in spite of his two years in disfavor with Stalin before he came to this country. His assignment to the new world capital residence of the Axis powers is full of responsibilities. He works hard and long.

For that reason and one other there is not much social activity around the Russian embassy these days and the ambassador and the staff are doing no more pink-teasing than their most urgent obligations demand. The other reason is that Madame Litvinov, who before her marriage was Ivy Low, an English woman, has been ill ever since her arrival in this country.

and turn out to be such a person. She couldn't bear it—she simply couldn't!"

"By the way, Aunt Dorcas," she said, deciding now was the time to get her aunt's thoughts off numbers and onto something else. "I want to take you up to the Zoological Park one afternoon."

"What for?" asked Aunt Dorcas.

"To see the way they now have the animals—the lions and—"

"My child, I've seen enough animals to last me seven life-times!"

"And," Lavinia went on, "there are some especially fine skeletons of Dinosauria and Dinotherium over in the Brooklyn Museum. I'm sure you'll be interested in seeing them."

"And I'm just as sure I wouldn't be interested in seeing them, my dear girl," said Aunt Dorcas. "Listen, Lavinia, please. If you'd decided on a vacation, would you want to spend it looking at department stores?"

"No, Aunt Dorcas, I suppose no, but—"

"Well, I'm on a vacation of sorts, and I don't want to look at the things I've been digging up for years, nor the things I've been shooting."

"But I do keep myself in touch with department store activities when I'm vacationing," said Lavinia. "I mean, I take along a lot of trade journals I've not had time to read while at work, and I study them while I'm on vacation."

"That," said Aunt Dorcas, "is plain insanity." She looked at the time. "We should be getting on to your apartment. I bought some clothes today and had them sent there instead of the hotel. I wanted the judgment of you and Zoe."

"Then let's go!" said Lavinia. "I'm crasy to see what you got. But I'm paying the dinner check."

She reached for her purse.

"I won't argue," said her aunt. "We've been arguing dinner and luncheon checks ever since I arrived. Then when they were out in the street, she said: "What show would you suggest for the wedding party?"

"I hear 'Flight to the West' is splendid," Lavinia answered. "The entire action takes place in a clipper. There are refugees and a spy, and—"

"Then it's definitely out," Miss Dorcas interrupted. "Don't forget I've been living the life of a refugee for sometime, and that I had a hectic time on a clipper myself. Aren't there any good musical shows in town?"

"Why, yes. There's 'Panama Hatlie'—and there's the Ice show at the Center Theatre."

"I'd really like to see something sort of Frenchy—like I used to see in Paris. However, I'll settle for a gay musical play—if there are catchy songs, and good dancing."

"Then I suppose 'Panama Hatlie' will have to do."

"Good! I'll see to seats right away." We'll do up—sit down front—and forget the trouble about this old world has gotten itself into," Miss Dorcas smiled in anticipation.

Lavinia fell into step with her aunt. "Now, about your own clothes. I think a dinner gown with very simple lines, and touches of lace here and there, would be nice for you. A soft shade of lavender."

"Listen, Lavinia," Miss Dorcas exploded. "If you think you're going to dress me up in lavender and old lace, you're mistaken!"

Man About Manhattan— Stradivari Violin Rides In Pullman Berth Of Own

NEW YORK—An astute Whittaker Bolton, that old Hollywood sage, who says that plays haven't got much chance of running through the summer if they open after March:

"Podnah, you're wrong. . . . Why, I'm going to show you just how wrong you are. What you just do is stroll out on 42nd street and take a good sniff of the air. . . . Then head west till you come to the Martin Beck, and take a look at what the sign says. . . . What does that sign say? Why, it says 'Lillian Hellman's new play, Watch On The Rhine, with Paul Lukas, Lucille Watson, Mady Christians."

That's the Drama Critics' Prize play of the year, son. And it opened after March. It opened in April. It ran away with the summer, and with most of Broadway, too, right through the hot days and into the fall and it's still running. I just thought you'd want to know.

The last cello made by Antonio Stradivari is owned by a 29-year-old ex-Austrian who is also the leading cellist in the world. It is one of 16 Strad cellos in the United States and is valued at $35,000. Whenever Feuermann travels, he always buys an extra Pullman berth for his cello. . . . Not for him the cold gray gloom of the baggage car. . . . He says, "If that Strad was in the baggage car I couldn't sleep." Feuermann isn't kidding. That's his business and his life.

You like half-wit stories? Dick Todd has a hat full, and the one he likes best is about the unbrilliant psycho who was finally taken to a psychiatrist.

The medico gathered the lad to him in a kindly glance and said, "Son, what would happen if I were to cut out of your ears?"

"I couldn't hear."

"What would happen if I were to cut out both your ears?"

"I couldn't see," replied the lad.

"How do you figure that?" the psychiatrist wanted to know, a little taken aback at this answer.

"If you cut off both my ears," the boy said, "my hat would fall over my eyes."

The Japs have changed a few of our Broadway and Hollywood plans for us. There was a new play due the other week, but day after the Pearl Harbor attack it was called off. The play had a moral significance and its locale was Pearl Harbor. . . . At the same time, Tommy Dorsey was on the coast to appear in a picture called "I'll Take Ma-

Hollywood Sights And Sounds— 'Tortilla Flat' Comes To Hollywood Stage

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—"Tortilla Flat" has come to town. Tortilla Flat sits there, on about an acre of sound stage overlooking a Monterey Bay which has been painted cleverly on canvas.

The real dirt of its streets hauled in by the truckload, is soft under the feet as you walk past the shabby yet somehow smiling cottages which are the homes of John Steinbeck's palsanos.

The flowers of the palsanos are there, too, Ross 'round the door, and all that. And the weeds of the palsanos, which they have put off clearing out because these palsanos are happy, child-like people and tomorrow is another day. . . . They are people, as Steinbeck described them, ". . . of laughter and kindness, of honest lusts and direct eyes, of courtesy beyond politeness."

Or as John Lee Mahin, who did the screenplay, says in his script foreword: ". . . native-born Americans, yet not American in the way they live, the way they look at life, not even in the way they talk. Nothing exactly like them has ever been seen on the screen before."

A few years ago it might have seemed incredible that "Tortilla Flat" would come to our town at all. That was before Lewis Milestone made a fine movie of Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men," and before John Ford made "The Grapes of Wrath." Now Victor Fleming is doing "Tortilla Flat," and Milestone is working on another Steinbeck story, "The Red Pony."

"Tortilla Flat" would have seemed incredible as a movie a few years ago because so many people looked between its covers for sensation and overlooked the human characters involved. Scripter Mahin's foreword indicates how the movie is to be approached. He would suggest that the literal be avoided. . . . A discreet stylization of what is there would better serve the mood of the story. It is essentially a comic story, yet it may be played in the hard bright light of comedy. Beauty of composition and mood in lighting will accent it more suitably. . . . Above all, the primitiveness of the backgrounds and their essential poverty must never be allowed to appear squalid. . . . Its people also should be played with discernment deeper than mere realism.

Its people? Spencer Tracy is Pilon, the amiable fellow who would go to extremes to avoid work and yet work endlessly to help a neighbor in distress. John Garfield is Danny—the lad who inherited two houses and didn't care when one burned down, because he still had one. Hedy Lamarr is Dolores, the Portuguese gal who believed in work and thrift, and "corrupted" Danny with such notions. And Akim Tamiroff is Pablo, the whole-souled admirer of Pilon. Frank Morgan is the Pirate. There's a heap of "discernment" in this crew, and you never heard such enthusiasm for a story or script as you do from them.

Combine Strips Farmer Naked WORTHINGTON, Mo.—It was only 12 above zero—pretty cold even for a well-clothed man—when Donald Shearer got caught in a soybean combine and had all his clothes, even his socks, jerked off by the machinery. Aside from the embarrassment, he suffered only minor cuts and bruises.

Texas Solon Opposes Freight Rate Increase

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Declaring that Texas long had suffered from a "discriminatory freight rate differential," Rep. Gossett (D-Tex.) has appealed to Dr. W. M. Spivak, member of the interstate commerce commission, to oppose a suggested 10 per cent increase in freight rates over the nation.

In letters to Joseph B. Eastman, commission chairman, and to Spivak—former president of the University of Texas—Gossett said a blanket percentage increase would "further aggravate the situation." Gossett said he believed a flat percentage increase would increase rates most where they already were highest.

"While rates are being raised, they ought to be adjusted," he said in a letter to Eastman. "If no adjustment is to be given, then the least we should expect would be that all rates be increased by the same number of dollars and cents."

To Win The War - - Miss America Will Sacrifice

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Maybe Miss America will have to sacrifice her automobile first to beat the Axis, but—what about Miss America, who may lose her figure?

Wait 'til she realizes what the war is going to mean in terms of foundation garments. Not to mention garters. And bathing suits. And countless other feminine items in which elasticity holds the secret of success.

While the rubber shortage first may have Father sitting up nights with a shotgun before the year is over to guard his tires from itching fingers of desperate neighbors, the distaff side of the family will be facing a major morale problem a little later—control of girth without a girldie.

Production of all but essential civilian rubber goods was halted by the government last month, after outbreak of war in the Pacific shut off Far Eastern sources of crude rubber supplies. Inventories at that time were very large, but toward the end of 1942 or early in 1943 present stocks of corsets, girdles, golf balls, sink stoppers, and thousands of other gadgets and near-essentials common in all households or offices will be exhausted.

OPM experts predict the real pinch in the rubber shortage will be felt in 1943 and 1944, leaving seeming hardships of tire rationing almost pale in comparison.

Texas Congressman Says Boys In Agricultural States Do Most Fighting Under Draft Set-Up

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—The men of Texas are drafted into the army at a per capita rate far higher than those in the populous eastern manufacturing states, says Representative Paul Kilday of San Antonio, member of the house military affairs committee.

Exemptions from the draft, as permitted under the selective service act for youths engaged in defense production plants, is the reason, he believes.

Texans want to do their share and more in the armed services, and Kilday argues there is nothing equitable in the present draft setup which compels an abnormally large proportion of the youths from the agricultural states to do the fighting while the young men in industrial centers stay at home making high salaries.

Holiday Fails To Stop Texas War Activities

By The Associated Press

Not even the gala festivities of a holiday—not even football—forced Texas to relax its war effort as the new year rolled around.

While bottles clanked and heels clicked in city night clubs, recruiting offices worked as usual, with enlistments reported unusually heavy.

Dallas selective service boards worked at least part of the day and a national defense school hummed with activity.

The war atmosphere even invaded the gridiron.

Some 35,000 persons cheered while 31 college athletes were inducted into the air cadet corps of the naval reserve between halves at the Cotton Bowl game between Texas A. and M. and Alabama.

Said Halback Derrace Moser of the Aggies to a teammate after the game:

"It was just another ball game. We've got a bigger game now. And if you lose in that one you don't get another chance."

Two of Texas' largest cities—Dallas and Fort Worth—set Jan. 22 as a tentative date for a simultaneous blackout of Dallas and Tarrant counties.

United States District Attorney Clyde O. Eastus pressed the campaign against alien activities in 100 counties of North Texas—including the rounding up of cameras and short-wave radio sets.

Dallas—Senator W. Lee O'Daniel, visiting his family, recommended that Texas cities attempt to obtain federal offices likely to be moved from Washington because of congestion. Many non-defense federal agencies are being moved from the nation's capital.

Corvaca—More than 2,500 citizens have enrolled for various phases of civilian defense activities.

Jacksonville—The Lions club voted to sponsor a blood bank to furnish blood for military and charitable purposes. Various club members are to have their blood typed at a local hospital.

Clarksville—January 8 has been set for Clarksville's first blackout against air-raids.

Help On Way To Singapore

SINGAPORE, Jan. 2 (AP)—General Sir Henry R. Pownall, new commander in chief of British forces in the Far East, declared today "considerable help is on the way" to Malaya where Japanese forces struck closer to Singapore in fresh landings on the west coast below the big tin town of Ipoh.

His statement, published in the Malay newspaper Kuala Lumpur did not disclose the nature of the help, but said "it is intended to fight for every inch of ground down the Malay peninsula."

Fighting already had closed in to approximately 100 miles from Singapore on the east coast, in the Kuantan region, and 275 miles on the west coast in lower Perak province.

It was in lower Perak that the new Japanese forces were landed and engaged by British defense forces, a communique said.

The war report asserted that "there has been renewed activity in Perak both on the main front and with enemy parties who landed in lower Perak. Fighting continues."

Draft Boards Cautioned Not To Jump Gun

AUSTIN, Jan. 2 (AP)—Adjutant General J. Watt Page today cautioned local draft boards against anticipating changes in the classification policy for dependency and occupational deferments.

The state director of selective service sent to all local boards a memorandum quoting in part a telegram from General Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service director, as follows:

"Production of war materials is vital to a successful prosecution of the war. Many complaints are being received that local boards have taken it upon themselves to reclassify many necessary workers. Local boards should be cautioned at once against anticipating changes in classification policy in dependency deferments and occupational deferments and that the vital necessity of continuing the uninterrupted flow of the materials of war cannot be overemphasized."

Robert Murray Death Victim

Robert Brown (Bob) Murray died unexpectedly at his home, 507 Goliad Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

Funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Eberley chapel. The Rev. E. E. Mason and the Rev. B. G. Richbourg will officiate, and burial will follow in a local cemetery.

Born July 10, 1886 in Baird county, Missouri, Mr. Murray had lived in Big Spring since 1914.

Survivors include the wife, a daughter, Mrs. J. O. Murphy of El Paso; two sons, Burness and Glenn of Big Spring. A sister-in-law, Mrs. J. D. Willis of Canon City, Colo., is expected here for the funeral.

Casket bearers will be Claude Major, Gene Wilson, Bill Brown, Blarble Human, Lloyd Gully, Henry Moore, Shorty Davis.

Malaria causes about 16,000 deaths annually in the Philippine Islands, according to the department of commerce.

Cotton Insurance Deadlines Fixed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Final dates for acceptance of cotton crop insurance applications were announced today by the agriculture department.

Leroy K. Smith, manager of the Federal Crop Insurance corporation, explained that the time differed by areas because of variance in planting dates and that all applications for insurance must be filed with county AAA offices on or before dates specified for each state.

Contracts must be signed before the crop is planted, but in no case later than the final date for acceptance of applications.

March 15 will be the deadline for counties in the Big Spring area, including Borden, Dawson, Ector, Howard, Gaines, Glasscock, Martin, Midland and Mitchell.

AB Club Hears Of Red Cross Work In Area

Work being done in the Red Cross in various fields and specific work being done in Howard and Glasscock counties in first aid was told by Stoney Henry, chairman of the first aid training program in the two counties, to the American Business club at luncheon Friday at the Settles club.

Installation of officers was conducted by Roy Reeder, lieutenant governor. Doug Orms was inducted as president and made a talk pledging his efforts for the year. Charles Girdner, vice president, Emmon Lovelady, sergeant at arms, and the board of governors, George Zachariah, C. O. Nalley, George Thomas, J. D. Jones, C. A. Amos, and W. B. Younger were also installed in office.

An auditing committee composed of Hugh Duncan, chairman, and Fowler Faubion and Bill Younger was appointed.

Two new members present were Jake Morgan and Lee Harris. Guests were Henry and Jimmy Jones.

Houston Banks Have Record Deposits

HOUSTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Houston bank deposits reached a record total of nearly $400,000,000, with an increase of more than $18,000,000 over the total of three months ago, it was shown today in a response to the bank call.

The total for Dec. 31 was $395,104,256.99, compared with $343,527,187.13 on the same date last year and $379,548,300.84 on Sept. 24 last.
