

Advance to District Bake Show

Three Hansford County 4-H'ers will advance to the District 4-H Better Bake Show on Saturday, Sept. 16 at the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo.

Kim Wagner, Leslie Latta and Karla Kunselman will compete for $25 first place prizes. The contest is co-sponsored annually by the Tri-State Fair and Texas Wheat Producers in Amarillo, Arrowhead Mills of Hereford and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The 4-H'ers who advance to the district contest won first place honors in the Hansford County Bake Show on Sept. 7. The purpose of the contest is to promote the use of wheat, which is one of the Panhandle's leading agricultural products.

In the baked product division, the 4-H'er prepares a product using a minimum ration of 1:2 parts whole wheat to white flour. The emphasis is on the nutritional value of the recipe chosen, the taste, texture and appearance of the product.

Kim Wagner's recipe of Coffee Cake Muffins will represent the county in the Junior Division. Leslie Latta's recipe of Whole Wheat Loaf Bread will compete in the Senior category. Juniors (ages 9-13) prepare a quick bread recipe of their choice and seniors (ages 14-19) prepare a yeast-leavened recipe.

Project record forms are also entered at the district level. Senior Karla Kunselman will compete in the records division. Records are scored on the basis of goals set, knowledge learned, educational activities, leadership, citizenship and community service, awards and a summary of the bake show activities. Alternate winners are Kiki Carthel in the junior product division, and Karla Kunselman in the senior product division.

Kim Wagner was a Jr. Quick Bread and Coffee Cake Muffins Bake Show Winner.

News From The Lions Club

by John Scott

It's the time of year for pre-season picks in football. We recently polled the Spearman Lions Club for their pre-season picks. Here are the results: LEADING RUSHER (the member who will most consistently hurry out of meetings before work assignments are made) Steve Holton; LEADING PASSER (the member who "passes the buck" by making the most excuses) Billy Miller;

STAYING IN THE POCKET (the most tight-fisted member) Billy Miller but also receiving votes were Al LaRoche, Cecil Biggers, Robert Queener, Harry Stumpf and Don Reed; OUTSTANDING OFFENSE (the member who will probably make the most offensive remarks during meetings) Larry Butler, other receiving votes were Jack Oakes, Dick Gillespie, James Cunningham and George Young;

OUTSTANDING COACH (the member who will probably say the most while doing the least) Billy Miller; SACKS (the member who will "bag" the most groceries at luncheon meetings) Billy Miller, also receiving votes were Dick Gillespie, Don Reed, Burl Buchanan, Steve Holton and Robert Queener; and M.V.P. (most vicious personality) George Young, also receiving votes were Jack Oakes, Al LaRoche, Steve Holton, Larry Butler, Robert Queener and Don Reed. Most of these Lions accepted their "honors" in good fun.

The Spearman Lions will be conducting their annual broom sale by the post office on September 21. Proceeds go to benefit the blind and to support various local community service projects. The Lions meet every Tuesday at noon at I.V.'s Hungry Cowboy.

Health Report

A generic drug, identified by its chemical name, usually costs less than a brand-name drug, which often has development and advertising costs associated with it. The law provides that prescriptions specify whether the drug be "dispensed as written," in which case a brand-name drug will be dispensed, or if selection of a generic substitution is permitted. Some drugs cannot be generically dispensed.

If you have a question about the drugs prescribed to you or their cost, discuss the matter with your physician. No generic drug may be available for a brand name prescribed, or the law may prohibit generic dispensing of that particular medication. Your physician also may believe the generic equivalent of the drug is not as effective as the brand name. In this case, your physician is fulfilling his duty to ensure the highest quality medical care for you.

Remember, Texas Medical Association says you have the right to receive the medication best suited to your individual needs.

The Texas Association is a professional organization of more than 29,000 physician and medical student members. It is based in Austin and has 116 component county medical societies around the state. The Association represents 80 percent of the state's physicians, and its goal is to improve the health of Texans through the professional and personal development of members.

Pharmacists often tell consumers they can save money with generic substitutions of prescribed drugs. Although this is often true, not all generic substitutions are therapeutically equivalent to prescribed brand-name drugs, says the Texas Medical Association.

As a patient, you have the right to receive the medication best suited to your individual needs. The key to success is being an informed consumer.

When a physician prescribes a drug for you, more is involved than the designation of a drug most likely to prove effective for your condition. Your physician has an ethical duty to ensure high quality drugs will be dispensed to you. The benefits of his/her knowledge are lessened if you receive drugs of lower quality.

Among the Neighbors

by Helen Fisher

Congratulations are due Greg Meek, who has recently received a degree in radiology technology from Amarillo College.

He has accepted employment at High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo. Greg's parents, Bob and Sherrill Meek, hosted a dinner in his honor at Sutphen's following the graduation exercises. After the dinner a reception was held for him at St. Stephen's Methodist church, attended by relatives and friends.

Witnessing the graduation ceremony, none were prouder than Greg's little son Will and daughter Ashley, as well as his wife Dina.

Others attending from Tulia were Brent and Linda Joy, Mrs. Myrtle Jennings. From Spearman Jane Meek, Robert and Mona Driscoll, Ray and Carolyn Gressett, Zetha, Sara and Adrian Blackburn, Holly Jarvis, and Wayne Meek of Abilene.

Juanita Tucker returned a few days ago from San Angelo, where she spent 10 days with her grandchildren. She was in the home of son Mike and Tena Tucker.

Mike, with General Telephone Company, is attending a five-week school in Florida. Tena is a director at a pre-school.

Al Tucker has gone down this week to do his stint as babysitter. It might well be that Al will learn that everything in the home operates on switches, except the children!

Juanita reports that her sister Marietta Huse, now in a Freeport hospital, is in very critical condition. Marietta and Smokey Huse have been wintering at Freeport, near their daughters.

Ethel Byers is back at home after a couple of days at High Plains Baptist hospital in Amarillo. She and Bernard had just returned from a visit with her daughter, Nedra Gray, and family at Quitman. Ethel was stricken and rushed to the hospital, but fortunately the illness wasn't as severe as first suspected.

Scott and DeVonna Boyd of Amarillo announce the arrival of a daughter on Sept. 4, weighing 6 lbs., 15 ozs. at High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo. She has been named Alix Danielle and joins her 19 month old brother, Phillip Andrew.

Her grandparents are Martha and Roy Gene Boyd, Spearman, and Richard and Linda Jamigan of Amarillo. Great grandmothers are Reba Phillips and Viola Boyd, Spearman and Pauline Jamigan, Silvertown.

Martha spent a week in Ama-riilo acting as "nanny" for the young lady and her brother.

Marlene and Jim Miller are fairly well settled in their home at 910 S. Haney and Dillon, 10, and Landon, 8, are in school and report that all is to their liking.

Jim is the pharmacist at Hansford Hospital. He and Marlene both received their degrees from Southwestern University at Weatherford, Okla. Her degree is in elementary education. They are both Panhandle natives—she from Wheeler and he from Allison.

Marlene operated a dance studio at Wheeler but with the activities of the school boys and 4 year old Colton, her outside activities will be limited to family affairs. All the Millers enjoy family camping and spectator sports, and Jim is a fisherman.

They are members of the Methodist church and a warm welcome is extended to the Millers by all the neighbors.

Jack Morris and his son, Zack, returned to Spearman for the weekend, visiting in the home of his aunt, Eulalie and Eschol Blankenship. They are now living in Plainview.

Shannon Dixon and son, Andrew, of Dallas are visiting here this week. They are guests of Andrew's parents, Mary and Perry Dixon.

Jim McWilliams, who is director of public works for the city of Spearman has just recently moved to Spearman. He has been employed here since July and moved from Gruver. He had been in the utility department at Gruver for 13 years.

Jim plays golf and enjoys woodworking in his leisure time. He is a member of the Baptist church and lives at 32 North James.

Glen and Pam McCormick are now making their home in Spearman, coming here from Stinnett. He is employed by General Telephone Company. They are both Panhandle natives so feel right at home.

Their four children have enrolled in school and feel that they will enjoy school here. They are Amy, 2nd grade; Salina, 3rd grade; Toby 4th grade; and Jerry, 7th grade.

With four active children there is little time for hobbies, but Pam likes counted cross stitch and Glen likes to fish.

The McCormicks are living at 604 South Evans and their church preference is Baptist.

Parvo Disease Increasing

During the last few weeks Hansford County Veterinary Hospital has seen a dramatic increase in the number of cases of Parvo disease. This disease is highly contagious and can be fatal. We highly recommend vaccinating all dogs that have not been vaccinated within six to twelve months of age. Puppies require a series of three vaccinations starting at six to eight weeks of age to give them adequate protection.

FACTORS AFFECT CONSUMER BUYING BEHAVIOR

Have you ever stopped to think why you purchased a particular item?

Did you really want the item, or did you want to gain social approval? Did you think you were getting a good deal? Did you purchase the item because of pressure from the salesperson, or were you persuaded by advertisements?

Although many consumers do not realize it, factors such as these do affect their buying behavior. Ask yourself the following questions when making a purchase decision.

Am I buying this product or service to gain social approval?

What people buy is influenced by society. Purchasing goods or services to gain social approval can be a problem when this behavior costs more than the person can afford. If you really can't afford it, don't buy it.

Am I purchasing this goods or service because it's a good deal?

When people purchase goods or services because they think they are getting a good deal, many times they are buying items they don't really need or want. Purchasing items you had not planned to buy can put a strain on your budget. You may end up not having money for necessary items. In addition, the purchase may not be such a good deal, but even if it is a good deal, you may never have use for it.

Did I purchase the item because the salesperson pressured me into it?

Many salespersons will try to make you feel bad if you do not purchase whatever item it is they are selling. Beware of such lines as "You've wasted my time," or "How could you pass up such a good deal?" Remember, these are sales strategies, and you are not a bad person if you do not want or need the item being sold. Be assertive and say "no."

Did I buy the item as a result of watching or listening to advertisements?

Advertisements are designed to persuade people to purchase goods or services. If you have not planned to purchase whatever item is being advertised, you probably don't need it or want it. Take some time to think about it before acting.

Stop and analyze your buying behavior. If you have not planned a purchase, you may have been influenced by one or several of these factors. Remember, these factors may be preventing you from effectively managing your

Fair Offers

Free Shows

The Amarillo Tri State Fair, scheduled for September 18-23, not only offers livestock, display exhibits and big-name entertainers, but will also feature many other acts and shows that are free with your gate admission to the fair.

Appearing on the outdoor children's stage three times daily will be the David Sturges' Marionette Show. The Sturges' Marionette Revue entertains audiences for 30 to 45 minutes featuring 6 to 10 routines. The elegantly-carved marionettes, beautiful costumes, upbeat music and meticulous manipulations combine to create a memorable experience for children of all ages. Also for the youngsters, the popular educational petting zoo, featuring some twenty different animals, will be open each day of the fair. For the older folks, Billy Ledbetter will perform twice nightly on the main outdoor free stage. The Ledbetter Show will feature vocal and instrumental music of country and the 50's. His comedy impressions of Elvis, Ray Charles and Marty Robbins are sure to delight all viewers. Then the racing pigs will again be at the fair to run two heats four times daily at the Pork Chop Downs Track.

Other special entertainment will be the West Texas Sheep Dog Championship Trials for the third year at the fair. Performances will begin in the Bill Cody Arena at 5:00 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday, September 20th and 21st. Sheep dogs from throughout the southwest will fetch, herd and pen sheep for prize money and awards.

You don't want to miss these acts and the many other things to see at the 1989 Tri State Fair.

KIDS ARE A TARGET MARKET

Madison Avenue has isolated "latchkey" kids as a good consumer market. There are 5-7 million, ages 5 to 13, alone at home after school each day. One survey estimates that this group spends $20 billion on food, toys and clothes. They influence outlay of another $443.6 billion of family income, mostly groceries.

More than half the children under 13 do housework, and more than 20 percent do laundry, according to one survey. Other survey data indicate 11 percent of these youngsters use dishwashers; 15 percent, stoves; and more than 25 percent, microwaves. Major food outfits are already pitching to them, promoting brownies and other products kids can pop into microwaves for instant treats.

TIGHT LOCKS ON 401(k) PLANS

The IRS is tightening the rules and now says you must be nearly broke (and must attest to that fact in writing) to apply for a withdrawal from your 401(k) retirement plan before you reach age 59 1/2. You must show an immediate and heavy need -- medical bills, tuition, down payment on a principal residence, or a threat of eviction or foreclosure -- to get at those funds.

County Activity Center Offers Exercise Classes

Did the "lazy hazy days of summer" get you away from your regular exercise routine? School starting is a good time to get back into the habit of regular exercise. The days start getting cooler and now is the time to start dropping a few pounds and inches and have the possibility of a size smaller in clothes before Christmas.

Aerobic classes are offered at the Hansford Co. Activity Center at different times. If you like to get up at the crack of dawn (or before) Judy Schaeffer teaches a 6:30 a.m. class Monday through Friday. If you want to get rid of stress and tension and rev up your metabolism to burn more calories the rest of the day and into the night, afternoon classes are offered on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 4:30 and Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at 5:30. The 5:30 class has a 15 minute super-circuit weight-lifting segment added to it. This involves lifting light weights for 50 seconds alternating with an aerobic activity to keep the heart rate up in its "fat burning" range. This is the most effective, quickest way to tone muscles. This is a coed class (good for men, too) and is taught by Wanda Archer.

All the classes at the Center are taught to the student's own ability and new students are urged to start slow. Working heart rate is taken several times during aerobic segments and warm up and cool down segments make the work outs safe. Both instructors have current CPR cards and are certified by the National Y.M.C.A.

All of these classes strengthen the most important muscle in your body - your heart. Also, regular aerobic exercise seems to be the only way HDL's (the good cholesterol) can be raised. A low fat diet can lower the LDL's (the bad cholesterol) but can't raise the HDL level.

If you want to feel better, have more energy, less stress and look better, come visit one of these classes. The first one is free.

Gramm Wants Colombian Drug Lords Caught, Tried In U.S.

A worldwide manhunt is now under way to bring Colombia's worst drug lords to justice in the United States, says U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm.

"Our Justice Department has named the 12 international drug kingpins that it most wants to bring to trial," Gramm noted, referring to a public list of "most-wanted" Colombians that includes leaders of the two major Colombian cocaine cartels and a former Colombian police officer who officials say tried to gun down two U.S. drug enforcement agents.

The senator praised Attorney General Dick Thornburgh for enlisting the aid of the Colombian government and Interpol, a worldwide network of law enforcement agencies, in launching a crack-down against the world's most notorious drug traffickers.

"Eighty Colombian drug traffickers--thugs who are directly responsible for feeding drugs to American children--are under criminal indictment in the United States," Gramm said. "Their cases have been stalled since the Colombian Supreme Court bowed to the power of the drug cartels in 1987 and overturned its extradition treaty with the United States."

"Fortunately, Colombia is now

reacting to the assassination of presidential candidate Luis Carlos Galan and has instituted emergency measures to allow the immediate resumption of extraditions," Gramm said.

Those on the "Dozen Most Wanted" are eight alleged Medellin cartel leaders, including Jose Ivan Duarte Acero, 37, a former Colombian police officer who has been identified as a gunman responsible for the attempted murder of two U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration agents.

Also on the list are the reputed leaders of the Cali cartel.

New Laws Offer Oil And Gas Incentives

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Friday that two new laws offering tax incentives to oil and gas producers will give those industries a much-needed boost.

"Oil and gas production are important industries in Texas, and these tax incentives will allow producers to make the most of our natural resources," Bullock said. HB 428, passed by the 71st Legislature and effective September 1, reduces the state's oil production tax rate from 4.6 percent to 2.3 percent for enhanced oil recovery (EOR) projects. Producers must have projects approved by the Texas Railroad Commission before the tax rate can be reduced for that project, Bullock said.

Producers have until January 1, 1994 to apply for approval and the reduced tax rate is applied only to oil that is produced from the EOR project. The reduced rate expires 10 years after oil is first recovered from the project.

"At least 117 billion barrels of oil remain under Texas soil, and much of it can't be recovered without using the more expensive EOR techniques. These incentives will make it more practical for oil producers to make the most of our economic resources," Bullock said.

The 71st Legislature also granted gas producers a break by passing SB 963, which offers tax incentives for high-cost natural gas production projects, according to Bullock.

The tax incentive takes the form of an exemption rather than a reduced tax rate, and natural gas producers must apply to the Railroad Commission for project certification before they can qualify. Also, qualifying wells must be spudded or completed between May 25, 1989 and September 1, 1996, according to Bullock.

The new law, which goes into effect on September 1, exempts natural gas that is produced between September 1, 1991 and August 31, 2001, when the exemption will expire.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

Some men were discussing the misconduct of a friend. One urged punishment, not a cure. "After all," he said, "God has given us eyes."

"Yes," admitted another, "but He has also given us eyelids." You'll find wheat and chaff in every life. A friend will sift the contents with love. He'll keep the wheat, and with a breath of kindness he'll blow away the chaff. Gently and humbly, he'll help that one do right.

The Park

By Elizabeth Follin-Jones
Chevy Chase, Md.

I have never seen such green: the ball field an Irish postcard, the late sun rolling color.

From here the players are snapshot size, home plate a chip, red and orange T-shirts dazzling. Above the path, dog chains rattle, bicycles weave, a woman in fuschia races a child.

Nothing can sustain this pace, clover bobbing, gnats in uproar. And while the meadow sweeps viridian, endings form beyond the ridge.

PUBLIC NOTICE BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS SPECIAL ELECTION NOVEMBER 7, 1989

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 102 proposes a constitutional amendment that would increase the salary of members of the legislature to one-fourth of the Governor's salary and increase the salary of the Lieutenant Governor and the Speaker of the House of Representatives to one-half of the Governor's salary. The annual salary of members of the legislature, the Lieutenant Governor, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives is currently $7,200. Under this provision, the annual salary of the Lieutenant Governor and the Speaker would be $46,716, and the annual salary of members of the legislature would be $23,358, based on the Governor's current annual salary of $93,432. The increase for the Speaker and the members of the legislature would take effect when the legislature convenes for its regular session in January 1991. The increase for the Lieutenant Governor would take effect when the term of that office begins in 1991. The salary increase for the Lieutenant Governor would not make members of the legislature ineligible to run for the office of Lieutenant Governor.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to limit the salary of the lieutenant governor and the speaker of the house of representatives to not more than one-half of the governor's salary and to limit the salary of a member of the legislature to not more than one-fourth of the governor's salary."

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 5 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the Texas Water Development Board to issue an additional $500 million of Texas water development bonds. The additional bonds are to be used as follows: $250 million of the bonds are to be used for water supply loans and facilities acquisition; $200 million of the bonds are to be used for water quality enhancement projects; and $50 million of the bonds are to be used for flood control. PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 51 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the legislature to provide for the issuance of general obligation bonds to provide money to establish a Texas agricultural fund, a rural microenterprise development fund, a Texas product development fund, and a Texas small business incubator fund in the state treasury. The Texas agricultural fund would be used to provide financial assistance to develop, increase, improve, or expand the production, processing, marketing, or export of crops or products grown or produced in Texas by Texas agricultural businesses. The rural microenterprise development fund would be used to stimulate the creation and expansion of small businesses in rural areas. The Texas product development fund would be used to aid in the development and production of new or improved products in this state. The Texas small business incubator fund would be used to stimulate the development of small businesses in the State.

The principal amount of bonds outstanding at one time could not exceed $25 million for the Texas agricultural fund and $5 million for the rural microenterprise development fund. The financial assistance offered by both funds could include loan guarantees, insurance, coinsurance, loans, and indirect loans or purchases or acceptances of assignments of loans or other obligations. To carry out the Texas product development fund, the legislature could authorize loans, loan guarantees, and equity investments, and the issuance of up to $25 million of general obligation bonds for initial funding. To carry out the Texas small business incubator fund, the legislature could authorize loans and grants of money, and the issuance of up to $20 million of general obligation bonds for initial funding.

Bonds authorized under this amendment would be paid out of the first money coming into the treasury in each fiscal year that is not otherwise appropriated by the constitution, less any amount in any interest and sinking account at the end of the preceding fiscal year that is pledged to payment of the bonds or interest.

The proposed amendment would authorize the governing body of a county, municipality, school district, or junior college district to prevent the exemption of this tangible personal property from taxation by taking official action before April 1, 1990. In addition, each elected and appointed officer would be required to sign a sworn statement that he or she had not paid, offered, or promised anything of value for a vote or to secure appointment to an office, as applicable. The amount of bonds guaranteed by the permanent school fund could not exceed $750 million unless a higher amount was authorized by a two-thirds vote of both houses of the legislature. If a school district were to become delinquent on a loan, the amount of the delinquency would be offset against other aid to which the district was entitled.

Senate Joint Resolution 44 proposes a constitutional amendment that would repeal subsection (e) of Article III, Section 50-d of the constitution. Article III, Section 50-d currently allows the Texas Water Development Board to issue and sell Texas agricultural water conservation bonds in an amount not to exceed $200 million, if two-thirds of the members of each house of the legislature approve. Under subsection (e), this authority will expire in November, 1989. Repeal of subsection (e) by passage of this amendment would continue in effect the authority to issue and sell the bonds.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to eliminate certain time limitations relating to the issuance of Texas agricultural water conservation bonds."

PROPOSITION NO. 19 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 59 proposes a constitutional amendment that would allow local governments to invest their funds as authorized by the legislature. Currently, the constitutional prohibition against a grant of public money to an individual, association, or corporation or against becoming a stockholder in a corporation, association, or company prevents local governments from making some kinds of investments. This proposed amendment would allow local governments to make any investments authorized by the legislature.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to authorize local governments to invest their funds as provided by law."

PROPOSITION NO. 20 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 16 proposes a constitutional amendment which, if passed, would abolish the office of county surveyor in Cass, Ector, Garza, Smith, Bexar, Harris, and Webb Counties. A majority of the voters in an affected county must vote in favor of this proposed amendment before the office is abolished in that county. If the office of county surveyor is abolished in any of these counties, the powers, duties, and functions of the office are transferred to a county officer or employee designated by the commissioners court of the county in which the office is abolished.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to abolish the office of county surveyor in Cass, Ector, Garza, Smith, Bexar, Harris, and Webb Counties."

PROPOSITION NO. 21 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 74 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the legislature to enact laws authorizing the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board or its successor to provide for, issue, and sell an additional $75 million in general obligation bonds as college savings bonds. The form, terms, and denominations of the bonds would be prescribed by law. The interest rate and installments would be prescribed by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board or its successor. The maximum net effective interest rate would be set by law. Proceeds from the sale of the bonds would be credited to the Texas opportunity plan fund, which is used to make loans to students to attend institutions of higher education in Texas. The bonds and interest on the bonds would be payable from the first money coming into the treasury in each fiscal year that is not already appropriated by the constitution, less the amount remaining in the sinking fund at the close of the prior fiscal year.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment providing for the issuance of general obligation bonds as college savings bonds to provide educational loans to students and to encourage the public to save for a college education."

Estos son los informes explicatorios sobre las enmiendas propuestas a la constitución que aparecerán en la boleta el día 7 de noviembre de 1989. CONSUMER ALERT

by Jim Mattox
Attorney General

Debt Collection Abuse Is Illegal

During these hard economic times, many consumers have fallen behind on some of their bills. While creditors have an indisputable right to seek payment on outstanding debts, the law prohibits the use of fraudulent and abusive collection tactics.

Recently, however, the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division has received hundreds of complaints that bill collectors are using harassing tactics against debtors. Our office has filed suit against one national collection agency for alleged abuses and is investigating other complaints.

A consumer having difficulty paying a debt can contact the creditor before the bill goes to a collector. Sometimes the creditor will renege or otherwise modify the agreement rather than pay a collector. If not, the debtor has certain rights.

Debt collectors don't have the right to abuse. It is illegal for any debt collector to:

- Threaten violence or other criminal acts;
- Use profane or obscene language;
- Falsely accuse the consumer of fraud or other crimes;
- Use the telephone to harass debtors by calling anonymously or making repeated or continuous calls;
- Making collect telephone calls without disclosing the true name of the caller before the charges are accepted.

Fraud and deception are against the law. Debt collectors are prohibited from:

- Using a false name;
- Misrepresenting the amount of the debt;
- Sending documents to a debtor which falsely appear to be from a court or other official agency;
- Attempting to collect any interest or fee that is not due.

Texas law protects wages and homesteads. Some collectors will threaten to foreclose on homesteads or garnish wages. In Texas, a homestead cannot be taken to pay a debt except for purchase of the home, home improvements or certain taxes. Wages can only be garnished to pay court-ordered child support.

Pay only what is owed. It is unlawful for a debt collector to attempt to collect more than the amount originally agreed upon—whether the agreement was in writing or not.

If you have a complaint about debt collectors or any other consumer problem, call your nearest Consumer Protection Office in Austin, Dallas, El Paso, Houston, Lubbock, McAllen, or San Antonio. The Attorney General's Office is the people's law firm. We're here to help you.

New Law Gives Tax Break To Charitable Groups

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said recently that a new law provides sales tax exemptions to a variety of philanthropic and charitable groups, while allowing Texas to comply with a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling.

"The new law serves two purposes—it gives deserving groups a tax break, and it allows us to keep our sales tax laws intact," Bullock said.

Under the new law, which went into effect August 28, charitable, philanthropic and benevolent organizations may sell publications and other writings tax-free if the groups publish and distribute the printed material themselves.

For example, if a local historical society sells cookbooks to raise funds, no tax is due on the books, as long as the society publishes and distributes the cookbooks, Bullock said.

Examples of other groups that fall under the exemption include the Junior League, college sororities and fraternities, the Rotary Club and Kiwanis Club, and the Parent-Teacher Association.

Bullock said the legislation was passed after the Supreme Court ruled in February that Texas was unfairly exempting religious organizations from paying sales tax on periodicals and writings, since periodicals produced by other types of organizations weren't exempted.

The case against the state was brought by Texas Monthly magazine, which was refunded $160,285.30 in state tax after the Supreme Court upheld the magazine's argument.

Bullock said that extending the sales tax exemption to other groups will have no impact on state revenue.

Watching Washington

Some of Wall Street's leveraged buy outs are going belly up. I have been concerned for some time that American companies are going too far into debt, and that our tax laws encourage borrowing and discourage equity financing.

A leveraged buy out occurs when investors purchase a company with very little cash down. Instead, the purchase is financed largely with borrowed funds. Often, these loans are so risky that the interest is very high and the business must be stripped to the bare bone just to have enough cash for the payments.

In recent weeks it has come to light that in fact some of these companies are unable to make their interest payments. This will mean even more drastic cost cutting measures, and in all likelihood lost jobs. It is particularly distressing that these failures are occurring during a surging stock market and stable economy.

Corporate debt has tripled since 1980. Changes need to be made so that the U.S. tax code treats debt financing and equity financing more evenly. But, we must make sure that our solution, does not excessively clamp down on businesses' ability to borrow the money they need.

Under a provision of existing tax law called "loss carry back", if a company suffers losses from an unexpected business downturn, it may recoup taxes paid in the prior three years. So, if a company earns profits of $1 million a year for three years, but loses $3 million in the fourth year, it would be entitled to a refund of all taxes paid during the three profitable years.

Businesses should be allowed to smooth out swings in income that occur as a result of business cycles or simple reverses in fortune. However, because of this rule, the federal government has found itself writing more and more tax refund checks to corporations engaging in LBOs. Here is how it happens.

In the typical leveraged buy out transaction, a business that has been paying taxes for years takes on a sudden, large new debt burden. The interest deductions generated by this debt will often create a tax loss that can be carried back to recoup the taxes paid in prior years—giving the corporation a tax refund.

For example, 17 companies acquired through LBOs paid $430 million in taxes the year before the takeovers, but received $130 million in tax refunds the year after the takeover. These situations involve tax losses voluntarily created, and the federal government should not subsidize them.

As Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, I have introduced legislation to limit these tax refunds if they result from leveraged buy outs. A corporate takeover financed with borrowed money would not qualify for a loss carry back tax refund on the interest paid on that debt.

With U.S. corporations carrying an increasingly heavy load of debt, I think it's important that we take this step to eliminate a bias in the federal tax system that encourages business debt and discourages investment.

CONGRESSMAN

Martin Frost
REPORTS

to the 24th Congressional District of Texas

This has not been an easy year for the United States Congress. It got off to one of its slowest starts in years as it reeled from controversies over ethics and pay struggles, faced budget constraints, and waited for the Bush Administration to get its people and its programs in place.

Clearly the biggest issue remaining will be next year's budget. The Nation continues to overspend and overborrow in every direction. We are a huge debtor nation, and the internal politics of Washington do not provide immediate prospects for reversing that circumstance. This year the President and the Congress agreed to a relatively small amount of deficit reduction for 1990, much of it phony, and are having trouble producing even that. The 1991 budget will require real pain, in order to reduce the deficit to the level required by Gramm-Rudman.

The Congress seems to be moving toward significant increases in federal aid to the poor. This includes an expanded tax credit for working poor with children, a new child-care program, an expansion of Medicaid to cover low-income pregnant women and children, and perhaps also a modest increase in the minimum wage. It could also enact a major cut in the capital gains tax, which would be helpful to the well-to-do. A major proposal pending is to change the way doctors are reimbursed under Medicare.

The war against drugs certainly looms large. The President has given his message on drugs, but he remains unwilling to fund that program adequately. The Congress has been increasingly concerned about the recent record of government waste. This includes the Pentagon procurement scandals, the collapse of the savings-and-loan industry, the farm credit system bailout, and the Housing and Urban Development scandals. All of these raise questions about congressional and executive scrutiny, which could have saved taxpayers hundreds of billions of dollars.

So a demanding agenda looms ahead for the Congress, and after a difficult beginning, I think the Congress has now regained its footing. There is a lot of legislative business to come, and I welcome the challenge to get on with the business of the Nation.

STRAIGHT TALK FROM TDA

MIKE MOELLER
DEPUTY COMMISSIONER
TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Vegetable oil has a good reputation among health-conscious consumers. That's because vegetable oils like corn, sunflower and soybean oils contain less artery-clogging saturated fat than do animal fats like butter, beef fat and lard.

But many consumers aren't aware that vegetable products like palm, palm-kernel and coconut oils--the so-called "tropical fats"--are actually higher in saturated fat than many animal fats.

Labels Can Be Deceptive. When a food-product label reads "made with 100 percent vegetable oil," many consumers are more attracted to that product than to one containing animal fat. But if you are concerned about your cholesterol level, it is wise to read ingredient labels carefully to find out exactly which vegetable oil the product contains.

Watch out for ingredient labels that use the catch-all phrase: "may contain one or more of the following oils," then list several possibilities. If that list includes any tropical fats, the product may increase your intake of saturated fat instead of reducing it.

Saturation Is What Matters. From a health standpoint, the important point about fats is their chemical make-up, not their animal or vegetable origin. Saturated fats increase your risk of heart disease by raising the level of cholesterol in your blood. Many unsaturated fats actually lower your blood cholesterol level, thereby reducing your risk of having a heart attack.

Saturated fats may come from either animals or plants. Common animal fats high in saturates are the fats in meat, butter, cream, whole milk, and whole-milk cheese. Saturated vegetable fats are less well known, but also common. They're found in many solid and hydrogenated (i.e., saturated) shortenings and in tropical fats--coconut oil, cocoa butter, palm oil, and palm-kernel oil. Saturated vegetable fats turn up as ingredients in packaged crackers, cookies, cereals, pie fillings, non-dairy creamers, and hundreds of other foods.

The known cholesterol-reducers, called polyunsaturates, are abundant in corn, cottonseed, safflower, soybean and sunflower oils.

Early Planting Increases Risk of Wheat Streak Mosaic Virus

Wheat growers across West Texas should avoid early planting to reduce the threat of devastating wheat streak mosaic virus in this season's crop, warns a plant pathologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Several counties on the South Plains and in the Texas Panhandle were hit hard by the virus in 1989, said Dr. Harold Kaufman, the Extension specialist. Potential losses from the virus were overshadowed in many counties by drought and freeze injury losses, he said.

The disease is spread by a wind-borne wheat curl mite which is most active in warm weather. Symptoms of the mosaic vary with wheat cultivars, time of infection and environmental conditions, the Extension Service specialist said. Infected plants are stunted, with yellow- and green-streaked leaves.

"Fall infection is common and most devastating," Kaufman said, "but symptoms rarely show until temperatures increase in the spring."

The wheat curl mite is the only vector of the virus. It thrives on the tender, young growth of wheat and many grasses. Other hosts include corn, barley, rye and oats. "Mite numbers can increase rapidly in a short time, going from egg to adult in eight to 10 days," Kaufman said.

Distribution of the virus in a field is related to the dispersal of the mite. Margins of the field are the first areas affected.

"The mite is simply blown into fields by the wind," the plant pathologist said. "Since it is only active during warm weather, it is usually warm winds from the southwest that move it. Therefore, the virus usually moves across a field from southwest to northeast."

Control of wheat streak mosaic is achieved by destroying volunteer wheat, avoiding Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) land, planting later and planting resistant varieties, Kaufman said.

Mites survive the summer on volunteer wheat and various grasses, many of which are used as cover on CRP acreage. Volunteer wheat, the most important host, should be plowed two weeks before planting, Kaufman advised.

"Planting on the north or east side of CRP acres or volunteer wheat should be avoided, as winds from the southwest will blow the wheat curl mite into the planted wheat," he said. If such locations must be planted to wheat, they should be planted last, he said. Early planted wheat should be placed in safer areas, he said.

"The planting date is very important in controlling wheat streak mosaic virus," Kaufman stressed. "Volunteer wheat and CRP grasses provide the vector and virus, but early planted wheat provides the target to the entire new crop."

This jeopardizes not only the wheat on that land, but also the crop of downwind neighbors and the entire area, he cautioned.

Planting should be delayed to allow mite populations to decrease. "Ideally, it should be delayed until the first frost," Kaufman said.

Later planting allows the mite and the virus less time to damage the crop. "It is widely known," Kaufman said, "that the earlier the infection occurs in the fall, the more severe the impact on yield."

"Just a week's difference in the planting date can have significant effect on the severity of wheat streak mosaic infection."

Some wheat varieties have shown tolerance to the virus, he said. Among these are Tam-200, Thunderbird, Tam-105 and Triumph 64. Resistance to the mite has been reported for Century, Thunderbird, Tam-107 and Tam-200. The most susceptible varieties are Mustang, Hawk and Centurk 78.

Risky early plantings, especially near sources of the mite, should be to tolerant varieties, the Extension specialist said. More susceptible varieties should be planted last and as far as possible from volunteer wheat or CRP acreage.

Thunderbirds Pilots Demonstrate Ideals, Standards Of U. S. Air Force

Is flying one of America's newest frontline fighter jets exciting? You bet it is, says U.S. Air Force Lt. Col. Steve Trent.

Especially when you fly with a group of pilots whose wingtips are separated laterally by three to five feet. That's where Colonel Trent earns his "Bread and butter" commander/leader of the U.S. Air Force Air Demonstration Squadron, "Thunderbirds."

"Every young boy or girl who's ever dreamed of flying would be as thrilled as I am to fly one of these magnificent fighters," said Colonel Trent. "It's like jumping into a high-speed sports car and blasting down a road with no speed limit or curves to worry about. Flying this jet is a dream come true."

All members of the Thunderbirds are volunteers, hand-selected from stacks of special-duty applications. They're chosen because of an ability to perform their jobs to the squadron's exacting standards.

Thunderbird officers are in positions like no others in the U.S. Air Force. In addition to flying the red, white and blue F-16s, they must fulfill their role as America's "Ambassadors in Blue." Visits to hospitals, speaking to school groups, and signing autographs on the showline are examples of the "extras" required of the Thunderbirds.

Selection to this elite corps is a rare honor. Currently, 11 officers are assigned to the squadron, and with the Air Force officer corps numbering more than 100,000, competition to become a Thunderbird officer is keen.

Six of the openings are for demonstration pilots, three for support officers, and one each for logistics and narrator. The latter two positions call for qualified tactical pilots as their aviation expertise is required for mission success during each demonstration as well as for media orientation flights. Executive, maintenance, and public affairs duties are performed by the support officers.

When a vacancy occurs, a thorough screening of each applicant is made with particular emphasis on the person's performance record, appearance and written recommendations. In the pilot selection process, flying background and experience are closely scrutinized by current officer team members.

Depending on the number of officer vacancies and the quality of applicants, several semifinalists may be asked to accompany the squadron on a few deployments. This travel offers potential Thunderbird officers an opportunity to see real travel conditions and meet with squadron members. It also gives team members the chance to personally evaluate each applicant's abilities and attitudes. As the field is narrowed, applicants travel to Nellis AFB, Nev., for extensive personal interviews and thorough medical evaluations. For demonstration pilot vacancies, applicants actually fly the Thunderbird aircraft in formation so their airmanship can be observed.

For Capt. John Posner, who was selected this year to fly the diamond's right wing position, it was a "chance of a lifetime." Strapped to the seat of a Thunderbird F-16B model, or two-seater, Captain Posner flew off the wing of Colonel Trent flying in the number one aircraft. "It was impressive while flying to look over and see a red, white and blue F-16 outside my canopy," the Alexandria, Va., native said. "At that moment I thought, even if I don't make the team, I'm doing something and seeing things few have had the chance to do."

Captain Posner and four other tactical pilots were ultimately selected to the Thunderbirds by the commander of Tactical Air Command, Gen. Robert D. Russ. Besides Captain Posner, incoming 1989 pilots include Maj. John Weida, Litchfield, Minn., flying slot; Maj. Chuck Greenwood, Grand Blanc, Mich., flying opposing solo; Maj. Dave Janik, Daytona Beach, Fla., logistics; and Capt. Tim Hoy, Falls City, Neb., narrator.

The team's maintenance officer position also changed hands this year with Capt. Paul Bowman of Appleton, Wis., coming aboard.

Thunderbird officers normally serve a two-year tour. Usually, one-half of the pilots change each year to ensure a smooth transition.

Competition for Thunderbirds

enlisted positions is just as intense. Enlisted members are initially selected on the basis of performance and personal records, plus recommendations from supervisors and commanders.

Once the commander/leader makes his selection, a Thunderbird enlisted member begins a 21-day training and orientation period in the squadron. During this time, important facts about the squadron's operation, history, and aircraft are learned. Such measures ensure each new member is the best of those who have applied.

When the public sees the Thunderbirds at a demonstration site, the ideals of the U.S. Air Force and modern military air power are on display.
