

Deepest West Texas Production Is Tested; New Record Depth Is Near

By JOHN B. BREWER
SAN ANGELO, March 25—Staking of locations for nine wildcats in seven counties and leasing of blocks in Crane, Andrews and Cochran counties on which wildcats likely will be drilled featured West Texas oil operations this week.

Phillips No. 1 Ada C. Price, Pecos county wildcat, rapidly approached the world's depth record of 15,004 feet held by Continental KCL-A2 in Kern county, Calif., drilling below 14,837 feet in unannounced formation. It is in the C SW SW 11-101-TCRR, 25 miles southeast of Fort Stockton.

Mid-Continent No. 1 R. A. Wheeler, West Texas' deepest producer, was finished as the second well in the Wheeler Ellenburger field in eastern Winkler county. It registered a natural daily flowing potential of 1,801.92 barrels of 46 gravity oil and gas-oil ratio of 1,956-1 through gun perforations from 10,470-710 feet. It is in the C SW SE 10-46-1s-T&P, half mile northeast of Stanolind-Shell No. 1 W. D. Blue estate, the pool opener.

Second producer in the Key-stone Ellenburger field in Winkler county, Sinclair Prairie No. 4-A J. B. Walton established a natural daily flowing potential of 1,672 barrels of 43.3 gravity oil and gas-oil ratio of 895-1 for completion. Production is through gun perforations from 9,610-60 feet. Location is the C SE SE 20-77-psl, 7-8 mile northwest of Amon G. Carter and Pure No. 2-C Walton, the discovery.

Prospective first producer from the Grayburg lime in Andrews county, the Texas Co. No. 1 A. W. Patillos, C NW NW 21-A36-psl, headed 25 barrels of oil following a shot from 4,280 to 4,380 feet. It was substituting a cable tool unit for a rotary to clean out.

Shell No. 1 Dr. E. H. Jones, southwest outpost to the Russell Clear Fork lime pool in northwestern Gaines county, indicated production from the lower San Andres on two drillstem tests but drilled ahead below 5,705 feet to test the Clear Fork. It recovered 10 barrels of oil with gas rating 312,000 cubic feet daily on a one-hour drillstem test from 5,624-75 feet.

Humble moved in materials for a proposed 8,000-foot wildcat in southern Gaines county, No. 1 M. S. Doss C SW SW 9-A24-psl, eight miles south and slightly west of Seminole.

Heimerich & Payne, Inc., of Tulsa leased between 2,500 and 3,000 acres in east central Cochran county northwest of the Slaughter field and was reported to have contracted the drilling of a 5,500-foot wildcat.

Stanolind began preparations to drill No. 1-F Midland Farms, scheduled 6,500-foot wildcat in southern Andrews county near the C NE NW 1-42-2n-G&M&B&A, eight miles northeast of the Emma pool.

John I. Moore of Midland and others staked location for No. 1 Southland Royalty Co., and others (Waddell), proposed 8,000-foot wildcat in southern Crane county, C W W 19-2-H&TC.

Return To Kwajalein— War Wreckage And Stench Of Dead Transformed Into American Scene

By WILLIAM L. WORDEN
KWAJALEIN ISLAND, March 1 (Delayed) (AP)—To come back to Kwajalein after the battle is to come back to a few acres of soil already as American as hot dogs.

It was Japanese a little more than three weeks ago. The stench of its dead two weeks ago was unbearable. Miserable natives and the stubborn enemy still lie in hospitals recovering from the soul and body shocking experience of being days without food and water among its smoking ghosts of trees. But now there is change.

Kwajalein, when the battle was over, was a wasteland. Fires smoldered in the formless ruins of what had been Japanese buildings. Bodies were everywhere—more than 4,000 Japanese.

is a huge and modern airport. Where there were paths, there is a network of military roads. Everywhere there is food and ammunition. More dirt has been moved by the bulldozers in two weeks than Japanese shovels touched in a quarter-century.

Piers have gone up where no piers were. Tents surround the high stumps of the palms. American prefabricated buildings occupy some of the sites of ruined Japanese structures.

An American base on former Japanese soil are legion—fly-proof latrines, which the Japs never had; screened kitchens; the draining of swamps among the palms; the filling of thousands of caves in which Jap snipers lived—and died.

This work never has stopped, night or day, since the battle ended. It goes on now, with a continuous rumbling of trucks and bulldozers, the sound of the hammer replacing the familiar snap of rifles.

STANTON, March 25 (SC)—Mrs. B. P. Eidson was notified by the post office department at Washington, D. C., she had been made acting postmaster of the Stanton post office. She was one of several applicants who took the civil service examination for postmaster held recently in Midland.

Bill Clements has been acting as postmaster following the resignation of Morgan Hall as postmaster three months ago. He has been classed 1-A for service in the armed forces, and he did not ask for deferment to take the examination.

Mrs. Eidson will serve as acting postmaster until her appointment as regular postmaster is affirmed by the senate.

Oil Activity Quickening In This Area; Guffee Well Is Completed

Oil activity was quickening in tempo in this area at the end of the week as several new tests were projected and explorations in northeastern and western Howard county continued.

Thomas W. Doswell of Dallas and Chicago acquired a drilling block of about 6,000 acres in northwestern Borden county from Coffield & Guthrie and reportedly plans to drill a wildcat. Hunt Oil Co. of Dallas leased approximately 15,000 acres in northeastern Borden county in block 97, H&TC Ry. Co. survey, paying a bonus of $1 an acre for 10-year commercial leases carrying an annual rental of 50 cents an acre.

B. C. Mann of San Angelo was credited with blocking around 16,000 acres in extreme northwestern Howard county, in blocks 33 and 34, township 2 south, T&P Ry. Co. survey.

Herman Brown, Geo. R. Brown and J. C. Karcher of Dallas were due to have started Saturday a slated 6,000-foot cable tool wildcat in northern Howard county. It is No. 1 J. C. Caldwell in the C NW NE 32-32-3n-T&P, 18 miles north of Big Spring.

Coffield & Guthrie No. 1 Guy Guffee, 330 feet out of the southwest corner of section 58-20, LaVaca, direct east offset to the discovery well in the Vincent area of northeastern Howard county, was completed after cleaning out from a shot from 4,244 to 4,370 feet. Although it did not make a potential test, it pumped 90 barrels in 18 hours and apparently was good for well over 100 barrels.

Equipment was being moved back to the Cosden and Guthrie No. 1 Pauline Allen, discovery well and 330 feet out of the southeastern corner of section 57-20, LaVaca, which was completed originally at 4,090 feet for 140 barrels daily. It will be deepened to 4,325 feet in search of the pay picked up in the Guffee well. If this zone is picked up, both it and the first, picked as Clear Fork pay, will be shot. Originally it was acidized.

Cosden and Guthrie No. 2 Pauline Allen, diagonal northwest offset, was cleaning out from a 250-quart shot, after plugging back from 6,172 feet, from 5,440 to 5,500 feet, bottom of hole. Gravel and cal-seal tamp was used and operators were still trying to knock out the bridge.

In eastern Howard county the Ray Oil Co. No. 2-B Read, in the northern half of section 48-30-1n, T&P, finished cleaning out from a 125-quart shot from 2,763-2,796 feet and reportedly was preparing for a second jar. Cosden No. 2-B Read in the southern half of the same section was drilling at 2,560 feet in lime, approximately 200 feet off the anticipated pay.

Golgis Makes Body Grow

H. W. BLAKESLEE
 Science Editor

NEW YORK — A long-sought secret of nutrition has been partly discovered with the demonstration that a microscopic particle called a Golgi body is the living element which builds fats and proteins.

What element of animal body cells did this was previously unknown. The proteins are the building blocks of the body and the Golgi bodies appear to be the microscopic masons.

Their job is done inside the tissue cells which in the human body number around a quadrillion. The raw materials are the fats and proteins of foods, after the digestive system has broken them down, the blood stream has distributed them, and they have filtered through the walls of the various cells.

In each cell there are from one to several dozen Golgi bodies. Within these bodies, the raw materials are apparently transformed into the special kinds of fats and proteins characteristic of each tissue.

Existence Was Doubtful

Most of the Golgi bodies are so diminutive — about one-twentieth of a thousandth of an inch in diameter — and so transparent, that ever since they were discovered in 1898 by an Italian Scientist, Camillo Golgi, there has been doubt even about their existence.

The techniques which helped to verify them and at the same time demonstrated photographically and by chemical means that the little bodies were producing fats and proteins, are reported in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences by Dr. Leonard G. Worley, and his wife, Dr. Elizabeth K. Worley, of the department of biology, Brooklyn College, N. Y., and the Scripps Institute of Oceanography of the University of California.

Dr. Worley, 38, is a native of Lincoln, Neb. His wife is from South Hadley, Mass.

What Made The Mystery

The mystery about Golgi bodies was largely due to the fact that they were not generally believed to be visible until a tissue cell had been killed and its contents rendered visible with salts of certain heavy metals. Then the Golgi bodies showed up as rings, rods and networks. It had never been certain that these forms were not merely precipitations of the metallic salt.

The corresponding living structures are in the form of minute granules and small balls, quite different in shape from the Golgi bodies of dead cells. These bodies have been known for years, but it had never been shown conclusively that they are the living representative of the Golgi apparatus of the dead tissue.

Blue Stain Used

The Worleys used a methylene blue stain which did not kill the cells or their contents. This dye colored the little spheres a darker blue than any of the other smaller particles visible in the cells. Photographically the Worleys were able to trace the transition from the tiny living balls—their consistency that of overripe tomatoes — through the distortion process accompanying death, into the classical and familiar Golgi bodies perform precisely similar nutritional roles.

Fully recorded too, in the pictures was the behavior of the living Golgi bodies in the elaboration of fats and proteins. Each blue ball would begin to swell. In several hours its diameter might expand as much as 10 times, and its volume 100-fold.

Part of this swollen particle would become nearly white, while the rest remained dark. The dark portion would continue to enlarge, and soon from this dark mass tiny droplets of the dozens would leave the Golgi body. Chemical examination showed that these droplets were fat.

Dark Mass Shrinks

Later, the dark mass would begin to shrink away from the large, light-colored portion of the Golgi body. The latter was found to be largely protein.

After both fats and proteins had been discharged, the Golgi body would shrink, sometimes to a little granule again, sometimes breaking into a dozen or more little particles. In either event, these particles would start the cycle over again.

The Worleys' studies have been done mainly on the tissues of molluscs and amphibians, with other species of animals to back up the observations. The probability is strong that the human Golgi bodies perform precisely similar nutritional roles.

Four Men Inducted Into Armed Service

Announcement of induction of four men into the Army and Navy was made Saturday at selective service board headquarters.

Adrian M. Sessions, Howard county registrant, and Charles J. Engle, Jr., transfer to the Howard county board from the board at Odessa, were inducted as aviation cadets at Lubbock and left immediately for training stations. They were volunteers.

Bryant T. Payne, Howard county registrant, transferred to a board at San Francisco and was inducted.

Richard Owen Oliver, Howard county registrant, transferred to a San Antonio board and was inducted into the Navy at Fort Sam Houston.

Sterling Parrish Of Lubbock Is First To Announce For Senator

Sterling J. Parrish, Lubbock, Saturday announced that he would be a candidate for state senator from the 30th district.

He formerly resided in Big Spring, having been stationed by the state comptroller's office, with which he was affiliated, here for two years. He was familiarly known as "Tiny."

"On the day of election this coming July 1 will be 30 years of age," said Parrish. "This coincidence will afford every voter in the district an opportunity, individually, of presenting me a most welcome birthday present—their vote."

"My Uncle Sam has said that I am too big for the Armed Forces, and I have, therefore, been classified as 4-F. If I am too big to serve my country in a uniform, then I am surely big enough to serve this district in the senate of Texas."

"Having never run for public office before, I cannot be classified as a professional politician."

Born in Crosby county, Parrish moved to Lubbock with his father, Pink L. Parrish, and family. He attended Texas Tech. The elder Parrish once served this district as senator, and his son, mindful that he cannot serve in the armed forces, said "I trust I will be forgiven for having the ambition to walk in the footsteps of my Daddy."

"Some of the problems to which I will give my attention if elected," said Parrish, are:

"Re-districting of this state for legislative purposes; support of public institutions of the district, including Texas Tech and Big Spring State Hospital; fair distribution of rural aid money to West Texas; a sufficient state appropriation of money for school teachers salaries to enable this most underpaid profession to take its proper and respected place in our state.

Adequate social security for the aged, blind and dependent children; advancement and protection of the farming interests of this section of Texas, particularly the adjustment of freight rates on producers goods; fight for West Texas' fair share of oil production; lessening of bureaucracy in our state government."

He promised a detailed platform at a later date. As transportation restrictions will permit, Parrish said he will "attempt to see the voters of this district and solicit their vote between now and the July primary." He also asked increased help of friends because of this limitation.

Jacky Ray Burns, one of five youths charged March 10 with theft of an automobile and breaking into Highway Package store, was released from Howard county jail on bond Saturday. James W. 'Honor' Of Being First On Docket Is Dubious

The "honor" accorded a Mexican in justice court was not appreciated by the man.

"You have the honor of being the first to go on our new docket," Walter Grice, justice of peace, remarked to the man, who is charged with theft. The Mexican apparently considered it a dubious "honor."

The former docket has been in use since June 29, 1940. Since that date, approximately three years and nine months ago, 314 felony cases have been filed in the examining trial docket in the office.

If You Can't See The Tread — SEE US!

When your tire has the first sign of a smooth appearance, when the tread has worn off—that is the time to see us for recapping service. Every mile you drive beyond that point endangers the life of that tire. As the casing rubber wears off you get near the cord fabric, which means that continued driving could very likely ruin it altogether so it could not be recapped. Further, it heightens the possibility of a blow-out.

Just A Little Care Will Save Your Tire

All you have to do is use normal care. Drive within to day's speed limits. Don't make jump starts or stop too suddenly. Don't bump over curves. Check wheel alignment. Have tires inspected regularly. Maintain proper air inflation. Occasionally change wheels from front to rear. The rear right tire wears out faster than the others. Best of all, look to us for tire guidance. We'll keep you rolling!

Every Turn of the Wheel Means That Much Added Wear Repair and Recap Now!

A small stone bruise or cut may not seem very important to you. But every time your wheel turns you aggravate it that much more. Tires flex when your car runs. That is a constant expanding and contracting. A minor repair may save your tire, and possibly your life. Let us attend to it promptly when it is time to recap. Don't wait—do it then.

Don't Gamble on New Tires—They Will Be Very Scarce

The more people who become eligible for new tires the less chance you have. New tire production will be far less than the original 30,000,000 estimate, and that was only slightly more than one tire for every passenger car. Actually, LESS than one tire per car will be made this year. That leaves at least three tires to depend on the best of service promptly—efficiently—carefully. Heed our good and sincere advice and you'll drive through the emergency.

Do Your Part—And We'll Do Ours
We have a large stock of Grade No. 1 and Grade No. 3 Tires

Odd But Science—

Vitamins Needed For Plant Growth

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor
NEW YORK — The vitamins, hormones and enzymes which are good for man have their counterparts in hormones, auxins and growth-promoting chemicals that are good for plants.
An attempt to use these growth substances in practical farming is in its third year at Kimberton Farms, Pennsylvania, under direction of E. Pfeiffer.
He reports that when plant hormones are added to manure and to compost, which is synthetic manure, to produce humus, the black material that enriches fields, the production is speeded up, here is also a tremendous saving, in nitrogen, which is one of the main plant food elements in the humus.

Ordinary humus-making processes lose 50 per cent of the nitrogen in the original material. Dr. Pfeiffer says the hormone treatment loses only five per cent.
With this sort of humus he says his organization was able to stop erosion on badly eroded fields in the short time of two years. Grass and clover in that time completely covered the fields.
Other methods of applying the plant growth substances are under experiment at these farms. There are both growth-promoting and growth-inhibiting substances, all of them naturally produced by plants.
Dr. Pfeiffer is working on a five-year program to demonstrate his ideas.

Colorado City To Celebrate Guard's Birth

COLORADO CITY, March 24—Formal celebration of the third anniversary of Company D, Battalion 10 of the Texas State Guard, sworn in March 30, 1941, will be held in Colorado City Thursday night when the TSG unit here will entertain with open house at their armory in the City-county building, Captain R. H. Ratliff has announced.
One of the first companies organized in the state, the company came into being in October 1940 when 75 business men banded themselves into what was then called the Defense Guard. Captain H. B. Slagel was the first commanding officer with Lt. Charles Tickey and Lt. John E. Watson as the other officers. All three are World War I veterans. Later, Captain Watson was commander.

When Watson, now major in the army, resigned, E. Louis Latham resigned because of frequent out-of-town business, and Ratliff, also a World War veteran was promoted to captain. Serving with him as lieutenants are Howard Rogers, and Thomas E. Birus.
Forty-eight members of the original company are now in the armed forces. Of the 31 original members who are still in the company 28 are veterans of the 1917-18 conflict.
At the party planned for the guard and the public, a service flag with 48 stars will be presented and dedicated. Major John H. Alvis of Abilene, commanding officer of the 10th battalion, and staff officers are expected. Major Olney Bryan of the state adjutant's office, Austin, will also take part in the program. Senator Pat Bullock will make the presentation of the service flag to the guard headquarters.

Also to be presented are service ribbons to 31 men who are completing three year's service and who will receive three-year ribbons, and 25 men who have completed one year's service.
Thomas R. Smith is first sergeant; Gray D. Foster, Dean R. Headstream, and William E. Womack, staff sergeants. Captain Harry A. Logsdon, veteran of an ambulance corps in the first World War was recently commissioned by the state headquarters of the TSG and is now attached to the company as medical officer.
The center of gravity of the human body is to the right.

Drivers' Licenses To Expire Soon

Numerous drivers' licenses will expire within the next few days, it was reported Saturday at the Texas Highway Patrol office.
There is no set date for expiration of licenses, but they expire two years from the date of issuance of last licenses and many will expire in the next few days due to the fact April 1 was the deadline two years ago for renewal of a large group of licenses within certain numbers.
Application blanks for renewal of licenses may be obtained at the patrol office at Third street and Scurry. The blanks are to be filled in and mailed to the Driver License Division, Department of Public Safety, at Austin.
Applicants are to mail the top half of their present licenses, the patrol office emphasized. Renewal or also was given that the space for "Operator No." should be filled in with the number of the present license.

Those not renewing old licenses before the expiration date must apply as a new driver.
Licenses of many Howard county drivers will remain effective several months, since other death lines in the 1942 issuance of renewals were not until July 1 and Oct. 1. Also, many residents of the county already have renewed licenses. During January, 70 operators' licenses were obtained either following examinations or by renewals, through the Big Spring office. Fifty-four commercial operators' licenses and 11 chauffeurs' licenses were issued and 84 were refused.

'Song Of Russia' Co-Stars Taylor, Peters At Ritz

Robert Taylor follows his acclaimed performance as the unforgettable, hard-boiled sergeant in "Bataan" with a powerful stellar role in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Song of Russia," now at the Ritz Theatre.

Introducing to the screen one of the most dynamic new romantic teams since Clark Gable was paired with Lana Turner, "Song of Russia" teams Taylor with comely Susan Peters, Hollywood's most rapidly rising young actress. The picture, incidentally Taylor's last for the duration, is also Taylor's most commanding love story since "Waterloo Bridge."

Taylor, who has scored in such hits as "Stand By For Action," "Johnny Eager" and "Bataan," portrays John Meredith, a great American orchestra conductor touring Russia. Miss Peters, as Nadya, is a pretty Soviet pianist, a girl of the soil who also works in the harvest fields, who meets and falls in love with the American. After only one year with MGM, Susan has appeared in five box office successes and was one of five nominees for Academy actress award for her work in "Random Harvest." She has also recently won critic's acclaim for her portrayals in "Assignment in Brittany" and "Tish."

Robert Benchley, favorite American laughmaker, heads the strong supporting cast. As Hank Higgins, Benchley is Taylor's shrewd manager. The role is one of his finest in recent years.

Debut of Michael Chekhov

Renowned Russian stage actor Michael Chekhov makes his American screen debut as Susan's father. No less an authority than Madame Litvinoff, wife of the Russian Ambassador, attests to his outstanding popularity in the U. S. S. R. and he's often referred to as the greatest Russian actor of the day.

Felix Bessart, screenland's man of many mustaches and who scored recently in "Three Hearts for Julia" and "Crossroads," is Petrov, Russian official in charge of Taylor's tour. Darryl Hickman, who won the critic's praise for his village halfwit characterization in "The Human Comedy," plays Peter, young music prodigy. Jacqueline White, Patricia Priest and John Hodiak also have important roles. And the cast includes the greatest array of Russian actors ever in one picture, including such players as Feodor Chaliapin, Valdimir Sokoloff, Michael Delmont, Tamara Shayne and Leo Bolgakov.

Two definite entertainment ends: (a) it presents a super-strong love story against the backdrop of Nazi invasion of Russia, with the protagonists an outstanding male star, and the most talked of young actress developed by Hollywood in recent years; (b) with the locale the "Tschalkowsky country," the area in which the greatest Russian composer lived, it enriches a strong dramatic story with the beauties of the best in Russian music. And through the co-directors of the musical score, Albert Coates and Herbert Scharth, the most beautiful Tschalkowsky music ever recorded for motion pictures is brought to the screen.

Gregory Ratoff, Hollywood's colorful Russian director, handled the poignant love story. Ratoff will be remembered for such screen hits as "Intermezzo," "The Great Profile" and "Adam Had Four Sons."

For A Laugh—See Bud Abbott and Lou Costello play the hilarious picture, "Who Done It," showing today and Monday at the State theatre.

Abbott And Costello Showing At The State

Abbott and Costello, rated as Hollywood's best-liked and best-patronized comedians, are again on the run. Following an extended movie chase that started with "Buck Privates" and hit the laugh ceiling more recently in "Pardon My Sarong," the No. 1 clowns have a new offering called "Who Done It?" scheduled to open today at the State Theatre and run thru Monday.

From Universal studio, which made the comedy, comes the announcement that "Who Done It?" bears little resemblance to the team's previous laughfilms except that the comics have been provided with funnier material than ever before.

The story, a murder mystery, places Bud and Lou in the hazardous profession of amateur detectives; and in turn, on the wrong end of a tremendous police dragnet. Action of the plot takes place, for the most part, in a vast radio broadcasting station. Methods by which the boys extricate themselves from their maze of troubles, are declared to provide some of the most hilarious moments ever experienced by movie audiences.

GOP Freshmen Talk With Secretary Hull

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—Clare Boothe Luce (R-Conn) emerged from a conference of republican congressmen with Secretary Hull with the declaration today that "silence is still the settled policy of our state department."

Mrs. Luce declined further comment on her reaction to the conference which was sought by the group in an avowed effort to pin down the administration's policy on many foreign affairs, principally the specific war and peace aims.

Representative O'Koniski (R-Wis) who joined with the group of 24 first-term republicans in seeking the parity and said he specifically wanted to know the attitude toward the Polish-Russian border dispute, remarked: "Well, we cleared the air a little."

Built-In Piano

GALLUP, N. M. (AP)—Charles Kastning sold a player piano to a Navajo Indian, but the door to the Indian's mud and log hogan was too small to get it inside.

"Put the piano on the ground and build a new hogan around it," suggested Kastning.

The Indian did, and the piano now is the envy of the tribesmen near Chinle, Ariz., in the heart of the Navajo hinterlands.

Young Grandad Dons Uniform To Join Other Two Generations At Ft. Sill

A Lamb county man, brother of Clarence Fox of Big Spring, is one person who was tickled to death to arrive at Ft. Sill after being inducted, because just the day before induction, even though he is only 35 years of age, he had become a grandfather—and the new granddson, had duly arrived at a Ft. Sill hospital.

Grandpa Oma Fox's first request upon arriving at the Alabama army base was a glimpse of his new grandson.

Three generations of the family are now at Ft. Sill, the father of the baby boy is Sgt. Glendon Peel.

The grandfather is not a stranger to a military uniform. He enlisted in World War 1 at the age of 14, after running away from home, got a uniform, and served three weeks, and then his age caught up with him and he was given an honorable discharge and told to wait for another war.

Whammer Sans Glamour

By CLAYTON IRWIN AP Features Writer

NEW YORK — On the stage of a Broadway theater a pretty and widely-known gal orchestra leader, dressed in a brilliant red gown that dipped low both fore and aft, swayed to the romantic rhythms of the band.

In the wings, Georgia Gibbs stood and watched, and absently tugged at the jacket of her plain tailored suit.

"See what I mean?" she said, bobbing her head toward the stage. "You step out to sing with an eye-filler like that working back of you and you'd better have something, or you lay a nice, big egg. I'd be crazy to put on a slinky gown and try to compete with 'em on the same basis. I know my limitations, and I'm not foolin'."

now she's riled up over the number that practically everyone except Georgia sings as "Shoo, ly, are 'Sh, Sh, Baby'."

"That," she says, "is silly, besides being all wrong. It's a swing lullaby, and the words, correctly, are 'Sh, Sh, Baby'."

Georgia ought to know. She introduced it.

Part of this goes back to Chapter One of her two-chapter career. Five years ago, as Fredda Gibson, she was a dance band canary out of Worcester, Mass., and got her start in radio, when Maestro Richard Himber heard one of her recordings and signed her, sight unseen.

In the next three years she climbed rapidly — but then dropped just as fast. Soon she was "at leisure" — the dignified way of saying she was out of a job.

She sat down for a strategy conference with some friends; an orchestra leader, and arranger, a music publisher and a press agent. They decided she needed a new personality, more color. They re-christened her Georgia Gibbs, worked out a new singing style, gave her a new hair-do and tossed in the idea of the suits as an afterthought.

She caught on again quickly. Comparisons of her records show more wallop, more nuances, more the same tone quality, but Donald Duck. For instance, right club engagements and theater dates, and landed back on the radio as a featured performer.

Memories Of Comrades And Homeland Behind Plans For French Benefit Ball

By HELEN WILSON

The benefit ball to be held at the Settles hotel April 15th by the French detachment at the Big Spring Bombardier school means much more to these fellows than just a gay party with unusual decorations furnished by a talented French artist and a good floor show . . . for engraved in the minds of all these men are memories of the France that used to be and France today.

They are remembering that 125,000 of their brothers, cousins and school mates were killed in May and June of 1940 alone by the Nazis; that 13,000 were killed in Tunisia, and that still there are one million of their people, who, interned for four and five years now, are rotting in German prison camps.

They are not forgetting that thousands have died of starvation and tuberculosis and that about one half of that number who will return to their homeland when the war is over will not be physically able to work.

This, and not the love of fun and gaiety . . . much as Frenchmen enjoy it, is encouraging the men of the detachment at the local field to all-out plans for the party, proceeds of which will go to the French war prisoners fund.

Lieut. Joseph Charlels, who will be in charge of the affair, formerly lived in Algiers where he broadcast twice weekly news bulletins to the people of France. When he left Africa and came to America, his wife took up his work and is still broadcasting, according to a recent letter received by Lieut. Charlels.

Lieut. Edmond Vales, who was graduated from the Beaux Arts school in Paris, will be in charge of decorations for the benefit ball.

Just as he was making a name for himself in France war broke out and his work was interrupted even though he did hold an art exhibition in Casablanca after Africa was demobilized.

Another member of the committee in charge of arrangements is Lieut. Andre Blanchet, 25, who formerly lived in Paris. Before the war he was a university student and newspaper writer. He is handling the advertising and the public relations angle for the group.

Most of the fellows stationed here lived together in France as civilians in 1939 and 1940, some have been German prisoners and others have served in Spain and Tunisia.

Having been in our country where freedom is the foundation of the American way of life, these men are anxious to restore liberty in their homeland.

Grains Are Higher In Steady Advance

CHICAGO, March 25 (AP) — Grains inched higher today in the steady advance which has featured trading during the latter part of this week, and the reason behind the upturn remained the same — the scarcity of cash grain at terminal markets in comparison with the strong demand from feed manufacturers.

Toward the close of the session it appeared that a little more profit-taking was entering all pits. May wheat was offered freely at its ceiling of $1.73 3-8 and the final quotation was $1.73 3-8 - 1-4. Similarly, May oats was offered slightly below its maximum of 82 cents at the close, final price being 82-81 7-8.

Deferred months of wheat were firm, advancing 1-2 - 5-8, July finishing at $1.70 3-8 - 1-2. Deferred oats contracts were up 1-4 - 3-8, July 79 3-8, rye finished unchanged to 5-8 higher, May $1.30 3-4 - 7-8, and barley was up 1-8 - 1 5-8, May $1.28.

IMAGINATION IN THE LABORATORY

WHAT IT DOES FOR YOU — IN WAR — IN PEACE

BUY MORE WAR BONDS!

Imagination traps years in a test-tube, builds highways on a work-bench . . . turns the weather on and off at will.

Imagination sees with the X-ray's eyes, measures the muscles in metal, studies atoms to learn how tons will behave in action.

Imagination is the searching, fact-finding force in laboratory work that gives special character to all Chrysler Corporation products—for war or peace.

Laboratories have the last word on all Chrysler Corporation products. To uncover any possible weakness, scientists put parts through tests equivalent to years of service, then check them for changes or wear—long before they are approved for use.

The laboratories dig out facts for the entire operating and producing Chrysler Corporation. In this way, Chrysler is organized to apply all its resources to each of its manufacturing divisions, and to exchange among the divisions the skills and experience of each.

This practical use of imagination brought you 4-wheel hydraulic brakes, high-compression engines, all-steel bodies, floating power, fluid drive and other car improvements which owners of Chrysler Corporation cars now enjoy.

Today, Chrysler Corporation produces large quantities of tanks, anti-aircraft guns, aircraft assemblies and engines, ammunition, army trucks, harbor tugs, gyro-compasses and other vital weapons. When the war is over, Chrysler resources again can be devoted to the production of quality automobiles and trucks for you.

Mrs. Lovelady Attends Meeting

Mrs. Ennon Lovelady, delegate from the First Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service, has returned from Vernon where she attended the Methodist conference Monday through Thursday.

Mrs. Lovelady will give a report of the meeting at the Monday afternoon session of the WSCS.

A building boom in Helsinki, Finland's capital, collapsed when the war slackened out the 1940 Olympic Games.

LEND LEASE

by Edward R. Stettinius, Jr. When we realize that the United States has put into Lend-Lease about twelve cents out of every dollar we have spent thus far to fight the war, it is important that we endeavor to find out just what our billions mean in fighting strength.

As we read Mr. Stettinius' book, we do not feel altogether that we are on the giving end and the other Allied nations are on the receiving end, since these nations, like our own, are giving their utmost to achieve unconditional victory. Especially is this true of Russia and China, both fighting with undying courage on their own soil.

Mr. Stettinius sets forth the fact that the co-ordination of the Allied powers is the one condition upon which ultimate victory depends, and that, after all, Lend-Lease is but mutual aid in mutual self-interest.—M.H.B.

Almost any of the people hereabouts whose surnames denote Irish descent, and they are many, should be interested in this glimpse of the lovely land of their forefathers. The tiny seaside village in County Donegal, the scene of the story, is a pleasant picture of contemporary Irish life and character as portrayed by this 'alien' author, an Englishwoman, is particularly interesting, being that the question of the neutrality of this Republic is of vital concern to all of us.

The tired, nervous R.A.F. bomber pilot, about whom the story revolves, is well rested after his holiday in the lovely village. He also will be the sympathetic reader at the story's end.—M.H.B.

LAST MONTH you learned how to send your youngster to college

LAST MONTH, you bought some extra War Bonds. Maybe it wasn't easy to dig up the extra cash. Maybe you had to figure awhile to see how you could cut down on some of the money you'd been spending for comforts—or even necessities. But the point is, you did figure it out. You did find out how to put the extra money aside—and still get along. And the moment you did that, you found out something else. You learned how to send your youngster to college—how to provide a comfortable, independent old age for yourself—how to get your share of the good things that are coming after the war.

You learned that you could save more money than you ever thought you could. For your own sake and your Country's—don't forget it! Keep on saving that money! Keep right on buying those extra War Bonds from here on in!

Let's all KEEP BACKING THE ATTACK!

Gustine May Be Pirates' Key Man If Knee Holds Up

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

MUNCIE, Ind., March 25 (AP)—If his injured knee holds up, Frankie Gustine will become a key man in the Pittsburgh Pirates' plans to remain in the National League's first division this season.

The 25-year-old Chicagoan, classified 4-F, has a .266 batting average for his five years with the Bucs and has played all infield positions as well as catcher. This mobility will greatly enhance his value this year when Uncle Sam begins picking off the club's eight draft eligibles.

With the exception of the catching spot, the Pirates are fairly well fixed to bid for another fourth place in the league pennant race year to year to better that standing of last year.

Veteran Al Lopez and Albany's Hank Camelli, the only regular receivers, are awaiting reclassification from 2-B to 1-A, and if they are called, Coach "Spud" Davis may have to be placed on the active list to take over.

Also 1-A are third baseman Bob Elliott, the club's best hitter with .315 last season, and Lee Handley, former Pirate regular now on a comeback after jamming his shoulder in an auto crash in December 1941.

Other 1-A's include Tommy O'Brien, outfielder, and three outstanding rookie pitchers—Southwest Preacher Roe of Columbus, Nick Strincevich of Toronto and Art Cucurullo, 20-game winner for Albany. But four Pirate mound veterans are 4-F—Rip Sewell, Al Butcher, Xavier Rescigno, and 6-foot-9-inch Johnny Gee.

Frisch can lineup a fairly substantial outfield, and infield with these 4-F's—switch-hitter Jim Russell in centerfield; Johnny Barret in left; Frank Colman in right; Babe Dahlgren at first base; Frankie Zak of Toronto at short, and Gustine at second or third.

Marines Invent Game, And Learn To Win At It

The Marines, arguing with Australian sport writers about the merits of American football, have come up with an exciting new game, "Austus."

It started when Pfc. W. C. Jost of Jamaica, N. Y., declared: "Give us our own ball and the forward pass and we'll beat you at your game."

Soon a game had been booked with the Marines learning ten minutes before the tilt about the rudiments of Australian football, which requires 18 men to a side, an oval field 150 to 200 yards long and 100 to 170 yards wide. Any player may kick and throw and receive passes. Six points is scored by kicking or throwing the ball between the center goal posts and one point if the ball passes between smaller uprights on either side of the center posts.

Pfc. Jost amazed spectators when he passed 72 yards for a goal, a throw longer than any player could kick, to pace the Marines to a 69 to 38 victory. Australian All-Stars, a team of picked professionals, won the next one 115-78, but then the Marines were down 92-6 at half time. Before 8,000 "Austus" fans, the Marines grabbed the third game 75-52 and Bill Jost was almost an Australian household word.

Air-Borne Grid League Planned For Post-War

By JAMES JORDAN

PITTSBURGH, March 25 (AP)—A post-war "air-borne" transcontinental professional football league, playing two games a week part of the season, is the aim of a group of sportsmen representing at least ten cities who will gather here April 2 to discuss organization problems.

Whether the meeting will result in tentative organization of the play-for-pay loop—to be operated as soon as manpower and transportation conditions permit—or whether only spade-work will be done remains indefinite, Roland D. Payne, Pittsburgh sportsman who arranged it, said today.

"We may elect officers and draw up a tentative constitution. That depends. But we definitely will lay the foundation for the league," he said.

Jayne said representatives from New York, Baltimore, Boston, Buffalo, Washington, San Francisco, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Seattle, who have expressed a desire to obtain franchises in the new league, have said they would attend the meeting.

Under tentative plans, eastern and western divisions of the league would be set up, two games a week would be played in the first two months of the season, and all travel would be by air.

"Correspondence I have had with some of those interested would indicate that is the type of league they want," Payne said. "Of course, these tentative ideas may be changed before we are organized, or before we actually can put teams on the field."

Payne's plans for a play-for-pay league on a coast-to-coast basis are in line with the recent announcement by Elmer Layden, commissioner of the National Football league, that professional football would expand to perhaps even international proportions after the war.

Softball Game Booked At City Park Today

Sports fans will have an opportunity to aggravate their spring fever today by witnessing a fast softball game on the city park diamond at 3 p. m.

The Brown Bombers, composed of the colored soldiers in the bachelor officers quarters area, will clash with the 1047th guard squadron. They have two games behind them thus far, dropping an 8-7 decision to the officers and picking up a 7-2 piece off the 78th squadron.

Sgt. H. E. Hammer took the colored soldiers under his charge and with E. Henderson as the playing captain, has fashioned them into a fair early-season contingent.

NOTES ON THE CAMPS

CHICAGO, March 25 (AP)—Phil Weintraub, 36-year-old first baseman for the New York Giants, was rejected for military service today.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., March 25 (AP)—The housing problem has extended to the New York Giants spring training camp. With the arrival of the main Jersey City squad today and 45 youngsters due Tuesday, for Carl Hubbell's tryouts, there will be almost as many ball players as citizens in this resort town.

The Giants squad was boosted today by Ace Adams.

FREDERICK, Md., March 25 (AP)—Gathering strength as they rolled along, the Philadelphia Athletics defeated the Curtis Bay Coast Guard nine in their first exhibition game, 8 to 3 here today.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., March 25 (AP)—Outfielder Al Zarilla notified the St. Louis Browns today he was leaving Los Angeles immediately for training camp while from San Antonio came word Pitcher Bob Muncie passed his pre-induction examination.

BECKLEY, W. Va., March 25 (AP)—Johnny Gorsica, big right-handed hurler for the Detroit Tigers, dropped from the holdout ranks tonight and said he would report to the American League club's training camp at Evansville, Ind., Monday.

ATLANTIC CITY, March 25 (AP)—The New York Yankees enjoyed a workout out of doors for the first time in a week today and greeted Albert Lyons, rookie pitcher from Kansas City who spent the winter in a war plant.

Club President Ed Barrow said relief pitcher Johnny Murphy had been placed on the voluntarily retired list.

WILMINGTON, Del., March 25 (AP)—Ron Northey, the husky outfielder, came to terms today as the Philadelphia Phillies staged their first outdoor drill of the spring training season.

Details of the contract Northey signed were not disclosed.

COLLEGE PARK, Md., March 25 (AP)—Cuban baseball talent is spread all over the Washington Senators' practice diamond these days as Clark Griffith and Ossie Bluege try to whip a team into shape.

The roster of hopefuls now includes Luis Suarez, who may get the infield spot; Gilberto Torres, a veteran pitcher; Fermín Guerra, a catcher; Fernando Fuentes, another batsman; Jose Zardón, an outfielder, and Preston Gomez, a shortstop.

PHILADELPHIA, March 25 (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles of the National football league today announced the signing of five players for next season. They included Melvin Bleeker, a fullback from Southern California, who has received a medical discharge from the Army.

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y., March 25 (AP)—Rube Melton, right handed pitcher, turned up unexpectedly in the Brooklyn Dodgers camp today and quickly came to terms with Manager Leo Durocher, who conferred with the hurler in the absence of President Branch Rickey.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 25 (AP)—Ed Killeman, righthanded pitcher who won 23 games for Baltimore last season, virtually is certain to draw a starting assignment early in the Cleveland Indians' 1944 schedule.

Manager Lou Boudreau is on the alert for a rookie hurler to use as a starter without risking the ball game.

CAIRO, Ill., March 25 (AP)—Muscular stiffness slowed the St. Louis Cardinals today as they limbered up for Sunday's scheduled exhibition game with the Fourth Ferrying Command, Memphis, Tenn.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 25 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds put on an intra-squad ball game today, with the regulars winning, 3 to 1, in seven shivering innings.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 25 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers opened their exhibition season today by defeating the Chicago White Sox, 5 to 3, in the first game of a two game series.

Each side had a no hit pitcher, if only for three innings. Dizzy Trout did not allow the Sox to smack a safe one in the first three innings and Ed Lopat, a lefty who won 19 for Little Rock last season, pitched the fourth, fifth and sixth for the Sox without being touched.

Girl Cagers Form Intramural League

With plans formulated for a tournament to begin on Monday, an intra-mural girls' basketball league has been organized at the local high school by Mrs. Marguerite Schwarzenbach, instructor in physical education.

Ten girls have been selected from each gym class to take part in the contest, and captains appointed for each squad include Alene Brownrigg, Gypse Smallwood, Helen Blount, Faye Newton, Lena Jane Wolfe, Joyce Jones, Ramona Weaver, Margie Sano, ridge, Janette Byers, Wynelle Wilkinson and Jeanne Dickerson.

Games will be held each afternoon, March 27-31, and the championship will be determined by elimination. A dinner will be given for the surviving team.

Lions Topple Kiwanis Mites In Cage Tilt

It was medicine for sore eyes and stitches were needed for laughter-split sides in the high school gymnasium Friday evening when the ferocious timber-tripping Lions gobbled up a quintet of Kiwanis minors in the cage sensation of the current Red Cross drive. The Red Cross is the beneficiary.

The Kiwanis mites were paced by Bobbie Barron, Reeves and Holmes who rolled up four points each with Ike Robb Rankin and J. Barron accounting for two counters each, for a total of 18 points, against 30 for the victors. Lion stalwarts Otis Graf, Eske Compton, 'Maestro' Conley, Jolting Jack Smith and G. Herring composed the winning roster with Herring accounting for 16 tallies, Conley for two and Smith for 12 besides assisting his opponent in ringing a goal. 'Battling' Boone Horn was substitute.

A dubious report from Jake Douglass, a Lion press agent, credits the growers with making six points for the Kiwanians.

Immediately following this game was another played by two teams from the girls' basketball league of Big Spring in which the Engineers trampled the WAC's 41-26.

The play was fast and rough and afforded spectators equally as much amusement.

Wood Shoots 67 To Lead Field

DURHAM, N. C., March 25 (AP)—Craig Wood, hot after his first individual tournament victory since 1941, the year he won the National Open in Fort Worth, Tex., shot his second straight 67 today to lead the fieldlocked with McSpaden werg Johnny Bulla, commercial airline pilot from Atlanta, Ga., and Little Tony Penna of Dayton, O. All had identical scores of 72-69-141.

Wood had five birdies and two bogeys on the relatively easy first nine holes, but only matched par on the difficult in nine which was lengthened by 50 yards today, converting the last hole from a par three to a par four and making standard figures for the Hillandale layout 37-35-72.

Ed Furgol of Detroit hammered out his second straight 72 for 144, the best among the amateurs as the field was reduced to 52 for the final 36 holes tomorrow at the Hope Valley country club.

Manpower Doesn't Bother Phillies

By JACK HAND

WILMINGTON, Del., March 25 (AP)—Ever since the Phillies made their last western swing in 1943 with a skeleton club of three outfielders, four infielders, one catcher and a few assorted pitchers Manager Freddie Fitzsimmons hasn't been worrying unduly about the player shortage.

Fitz wouldn't care to go through that experience again but he reasons it can't get much worse unless they change the nine man rule.

At the present time the Phils have 29 men in camp and 20 of them are reasonably sure of being available for the 1944 season.

Dick Garrett and Al Gerheauser, two of the key men of the pitching staff, are in 1-A but have not been called while Bill Lee, the other member of the starting big three, is staying home at Plaquemine, La., where he expects to take his physical within a week. Jack Kraus has passed his exam and is home in San Antonio awaiting call and Dick Carter, another hurler, took his physical today.

Infielders Glen Russell and Catcher Blimp Phelps are staying home and Outfielder Paul Busby is about to go.

Catchers Bob Finley and Benjie Culp, Infielders Ray Hamrick and Ford Mulden and Outfielder Coaker Triplett all are present but their future is overshadowed by the man in the high silk hat.

AAFBS Enters 3-Man Team In Texas Relays

AUSTIN, March 25 (AP)—Two San Antonio high schools renew a bitter track feud next week-end at the annual Texas Relays here.

Thomas Jefferson has filed entries for a 13-man team headed by its ace, Charley Parker, dash man who has won 43 consecutive races, and Brackenridge brings a 16-man team to the track and field carnival.

Thomas Jefferson edged Brackenridge out of the title in the high school division at the Southwestern Exposition and Fair Stock Show track meet at Fort Worth by a scant half point.

Thus far 15 high schools have entered 118 participants for the relay carnival, Director Clyde Littlefield announced today.

Service teams preponderate among entries in the combined university, college and service team division.

From Great Lakes Naval Training Station will come Jerry Thompson, recently transferred by the navy from the University of Texas. He is the national collegiate two-mile champion and also Southwest conference two-mile and cross country champion. He has been capped in the 2,000 meter race.

Nine teams have been entered in the division, with additional entries from several Southwest conference schools expected next week. Entries received to date:

Big Spring Bombardiers, with a three-man team; San Marcos Navigators, two; Kelly Field, 16; Fort Sam Houston Reception Center, one; Oklahoma A. and M. 3; North Texas Teachers, one; Sam Houston Teachers, eight; Southwestern Institute of Louisiana, eight.

Other high school entries: San Antonio—Tech, eight; Harlandale, six; Thomas Edison, nine; Alamo Heights, seven; Burbank Vocational, six; Dallas—Woodrow Wilson, one; North—Dallas, six; Highland Park 10; Houston—Jefferson Davis, seven; Corpus Christi eight; Dripping Springs 11; Elgin, four; Mason, six.

Leo Rusk Shaping As Shot Put Hope

Strength may be coming to the Big Spring high school track team from a source at first thought to be devoid of talent.

The department is the shot put and the budding artist is Leo Rusk, 180-pounder, who has been shoving the brass ball around 40 feet and better. This doesn't happen to be world-beating distance, but compared with other efforts in the district, it's good enough for a place in competition.

At the same time, Jay Boyle, after only one week of work, is selling the discus out for 115 feet. Another 10 or 15 feet would put him up in the top class. Last year John Ulrey, Big Spring, took regional honors with a heave of 117 feet. Jay also is doing a little form jumping on the broad and high jumps.

PeeWee Simmons and Jim Bob Maney are shaping up as the low hurdles and Bobby Barron, who has great form, may not run them.

It's Pete Cook, Kenny Partidge and Simmons in the 100 dash. Nathan Richardson probably will supplant Simmons when it comes to the 220. Sole hope in the 440 is Robert Sisson, James Duncan, who was the top speedster and who is hoped to finish with a 1:15.8 out with a bad knee.

The half mile has been entrusted to Hugh Cochran, who has been doing the 880 in fair time. John Reeves, probably a better in the shorter distance, may be called in from the mile, leaving that event to Ben Aguerre, who is starting out well for a beginner. When it comes to the 440-relay, the team looks like Cook, Partidge, Simmons and probably Cochran with Robert Miller and Richardson as understudies. The team's best time yet was 48.9, still about three and a half sections too high to hope for a place in the district picture.

Only other event on which anyone is working is the pole vault, and here the versatile Simmons has been doing some jumping.

Army regulations for dishwashing provide for washing for 40 seconds in water of 165 degrees and rinsing for 20 seconds in water of 180 degrees.

Politics Pick Un In Martin

STANTON, March 25 (SC) — Politics warmed here during the past week with the announcement of J. D. McCreless, incumbent, and James A. Brown as candidates for commission of precinct No. 1.

Appointed originally to fill a vacancy in the commissioners court, McCreless has since been elected to four terms. Brown came to Martin county five years ago from Mitchell county and has been doing road maintenance work since.

Other candidates announced to date are: George Mahon, congress; Marielle McDonald, district attorney; H. M. Aimmer, Louis Baker and Jim McCoy, sheriff-tax assessor and collector; B. F. White, county judge; Mrs. Lenora B. Ely, county and district clerk; Garland Brewer, county treasurer; D. E. (Ed) Bloomer, commissioner No. 2; Otto Bearden and Sam Cox,

Vehicle Licenses Increase Saturday

A steady stream of persons visited the office of county tax assessor-collector Saturday, sending the number of 1944 licenses issued for Howard county vehicles to 2,725.

Of that total, 2,313 are for passenger cars, 289 for commercial vehicles, and 123 for farm vehicles.

Saturday midnight will be the deadline for obtaining licenses without a 20 per cent penalty or affidavit that the machine was not used on the highway after April 1.

Charges filed in the court of Walter Grice, justice of peace, Saturday included one of assault against a Mexican woman, charged with assaulting another woman, one hot check complaint and one charging operation of a motor vehicle without an operator's license.

Commissioner No. 3: L. E. (Lee) Castle, commissioner No. 4.

Invasion's Chief Footman

AP Features Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, leader of American ground forces for the invasion of Europe, was the first U. S. general to use the "unconditional surrender" formula proclaimed at Casablanca. When his Second U. S. Corps broke through at Bieserre, Gen. Krause of the Afrika Korps asked for an armistice. "Unconditional surrender," came back the reply and 25,000 Germans gave up to Bradley's proud standard. For this he was promoted to lieutenant general, awarded the Distinguished Service medal. When Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower set up his invasion staff in London he took this skilled infantry tactician along.

BRADLEY, tall, lean, quiet, is athlete as well as thinker. In the Louisiana maneuvers he piled over obstacle courses, swung across ravines while younger men dropped out, exhausted.

STUDENT—The 1915 class seer at West Point predicted good student Bradley would be a general to make classmates proud. He embarked on his career as a U. S. soldier and army instructor.

SUCCESS—The seer was right. Bradley was the first of his class to become a general. He got his star in 1941 when he took command of Fort Benning, Ga., infantry school.

SPEARHEAD — Eisenhower's field aide in North Africa, he proved worth on reconnaissance. Given a field command, he showed skill as a tactician in swift victory at Bieserre.

Cecil H. Barnes, San Angelo, Is Candidate For 91st Representative

Cecil H. Barnes, San Angelo attorney and business man, Saturday announced his candidacy for representative of the 91st Texas legislative district to the voters of Howard county.

In announcing, subject to the democratic primaries, he recalled he was a candidate a year ago when a special election was called to name a successor for Dorsey B. Hardeman, who resigned to enter service. "Mr. Burke T. Summers, one of Big Spring's able and valued citizens, was elected by a plurality," said Barnes. "He was duly elected and I publicly joined others in wishing Mr. Summers success in this task. I have no criticism to make of his fine effort. He won fairly under the special election law."

Since it was a plurality "of about 150 with four in the race" and no run-off, Barnes said, "I feel justified at this time to act under the suggestion of friends and offer myself as a candidate in the regular democratic primary. I offer any opponent a clean race."

Taking cognizance of the fact that his home county carries the heavy end of the voters, Barnes said that he would serve as a "challenge to me to be openly fair to all interests of the minority end of the district (for) protection of minority rights is a democratic principle which all citizens should adhere. The entire district has most of its interests in common."

"I know well that Big Spring is committed to redistricting for legislative purposes. Our representative, Mr. Summers, favored this at the last session of the legislature. I want to say and especially to the minority end of the district served by The Herald, that I favor redistricting and a fair redistribution of representation, and that I will support any legislation tending to this good purpose."

Under the crisis of war, the people have given up much in the way of self-government, and Barnes pledged himself to "support all legislation tending to return to the people their constitutional right of self-government. At the war's end democracy must be restored in full." In this connection, he said it would be his policy not to interfere with "those whom I recognize as military experts in their sincere efforts to bring the war to an early and successful conclusion. I shall do everything possible to help win a perpetual peace."

Economy must "cease to be a campaign by-word," declared Barnes, who added he would do all he could to run state affairs "to cut expense to a minimum just as a good businessman cuts overhead to the borderline of efficiency."

"When our present old people were young they had no social security," he said, but the constitution has been amended to include it and now "the old age pension . . . must be respected and upheld as the constitution directs."

He also favored ways to provide productive work for all able bodied citizens and thus provide all a fair chance to provide for their own security . . . and degree of self-respect which is the right of every man."

"Money should be diverted from less worthy projects and spent in public education. Illiteracy is democracy's greatest enemy. It must be eliminated in a degree to guarantee high living standards and eventual security in retirement. No good teacher should ever be lost because of insufficient pay. . . .

"No legislation has a right to exist that sets labor against capital or capital against labor or that outrages the legitimate rights of either. I shall never ride the fence on any issue that has a right or wrong," he said, but added that no politician should make "catchy promises to 'get' labor's vote, for 'we are one people in America.'" Thus, he said, he would seek to represent no class, but all. "To do less is to deny the whole people fair representation."

As a representative, he promised "the same degree of straight dealing that I have tried to follow in private and professional life."

Barnes is 43, married and father of three children. He taught three years before studying law. He has been a practicing attorney in the district for 13 years and has been in business also. He is a Methodist and church school superintendent, member of the Tom Green county school trustees, and a (dollar a year) government appeals agent.

A NEW CROP OF ART LOVERS is crowding New York's auctions like the one shown here.

By ARLENE WOLF AP Features Writer

Artists are eating these days! All over the country plain people are buying pictures in an art boom that's putting butter on artists' bread, rationing or no.

New York's galleries are bulging with crowds of new lookers and buyers.

The line outside many auction sales look like the ticket queues at movie theatres on Saturday night, and you're apt to find the same people in both lines—servicemen and their girl friends, the people who live across the hall, sightseers from out of town. And not only are people coming to art, but art is traveling to the people in barnstorming exhibitions sent out by museums and galleries. Department stores in 21 cities are selling contemporary originals farmed out by an organization called "Tomorrow's Masterpieces." Even New York's subways are adorned with car card reproductions of famous works at the Metropolitan Museum.

Art experts have a variety of explanations for this quickened interest. Thousands of people who always wanted pictures could never afford them until high wartime wages came along, they say. Many gallery owners believe the Federal Arts Project sowed the first seeds of interest in American art.

Others hold the shortage of consumer goods partially responsible. "People can't buy automobiles, or refrigerators," they say, "so they're buying art." Some galleries even have put art in the same purchasing class by allowing installment plan buying. And most agree that the ever-increasing number of pages devoted to art in popular publications has helped tremendously.

"It's art's turn now," says James Thrall Soby, director of painting and sculpture of New York's Museum of Modern Art. "War has brought a longing in people to get hold of something lasting." But Mr. Soby thinks that war has only given new impetus to a movement that was well under way before Pearl Harbor.

Can We Get More Funds?

Before the week is out, we of the Big Spring Independent School district will have held another trustee election. Three places are to be filled, and only candidates are incumbents. There is, quite obviously, no campaign, and thus no issues.

But we contend that regardless of what good men represent our interests on the board, there are some burning problems which need to be thought through by every citizen instead of leaving them to the board.

Two questions, as we have seen them before, are: What sort of an educational program do we want for our children? Are we willing to pay for this program?

The first question is more important than the second, but we brush by it for the reason we are convinced that most people are vitally interested in the best possible educational facilities and opportunities for their children.

Whether most people are willing to pay for such a program we cannot say. Probably they do, but the matter of how to meet the cost has been allowed to choke our thinking.

As a people we do not like to deal with unpleasantness, and taxes have been permitted to sink into that category. Thus, we do not like to courageously face the issue of taxes.

Yet if we are to adequately finance the sort of a program which Big Spring probably would wish, it is going to require taxes and more taxes. It has aptly been suggested that not all sources of tax revenue have been tapped. Until recently only one, automobiles, was on the roll, and other personal property was negligible outside of merchandise stocks. It might be honestly said that the valuation of these stocks is about as accurate as the five dollars a-acre figure on farm land in deep rural sections.

There are still other avenues of getting more taxes—if people are willing to meet the cost. The rate can be raised by special vote, or the valuations can be raised. More territory added to the district could add more revenue. More funds might be had from the state. Yes, there are a few ways open to get more money if we really want to get it.

What could we do if we had more money for our schools? For one thing we could give teachers a year around job, and thus be entitled to a year around program. We could broaden the base of our curricula. We could enlarge our educational contribution to the fight against juvenile trouble.

The chief thing, to speak frankly, is that we could hold some of our instructor personnel that we are going to lose if we don't face this issue squarely. This is not scare or threat talk. It is just commonsense reasoning based on what is happening all around us. Other systems of comparable size have better bases of pay. Some with better levels are asking for more, and we may get it. The profession as a whole pays such a low rate that already thousands of instructors have gone into other fields. Thousands of others have gone and are being called into service. The demand for those remaining is great and is daily increasing.

It may be that every one of our teachers will be satisfied with the answer that we don't have any more money (and we don't right now). It may be that offers, which they are bound to have, will fall on deaf ears. It is more probable, however, that we had better be doing some thinking about meeting some eventualities down the line.

Keep An Eye On Airports

By FRANK GRIMES

Juan T. Trippe, head of Pan-American Airways, complains that while every other major trading nation has a fully-developed postwar commercial air program the U. S. is still lacking in this respect. It may be that one of the principal reasons why we have developed no postwar commercial aviation program is the jealousy that exists between and among the great airlines of the U. S., particularly with respect to efforts of some of them to expand beyond the borders of this country. The long fight of the Export Airlines for transatlantic service is a case in point.

Perhaps the great airlines would get together and formulate a workable program and carry it to congress, they would get action and end at once the complaints about lack of an air policy.

Meantime the Los Angeles Times springs the story that the Douglas aircraft people have a DC-7 in the mock-up stage and will put it into production as soon as subsidizing war contracts make it possible. The DC-7 will carry 86 passengers daytime and 78 sleepers at night, and is designed especially for transoceanic service. She carries into the king-size class all the familiar lines of the DC-3 and DC-4. Her wingspread will be about 173 feet and overall length about 123. Her payload will approximate 60,000 pounds. Quite a ship. But what we started out to discuss was the headachy problem that confronts every small town past the watering-trough stage of development—that is, what to do about airports. For most smaller towns, say under 5,000, the best advice would be, "wait and see." Postwar aviation won't spring full-panoplied from the brow of Jove; rather it will be a long, slow and withal a painful process of pioneering in the short-haul field, as well as in the planes-for-everybody field. The notion that simply everybody will keep a plane as nearly everybody keeps a motor car isn't going to work out at all. Flying will always be a field for specialists; the average dub motorist won't be able to qualify as a pilot, no matter how easy planes become to manage.

At that, there'll be plenty of planes in the air. The kids back from the wars will go in for them, and so will the kids coming up through the grades and high schools. Nine out of ten of them are positively nuts about flying.

Every town of 10,000 or more will need at least one airport, mostly for private flying. Larger towns of, say, around 50,000 to 75,000 population will need two or three ports—one for commercial flying, one for private owners, and one for airplane sales rooms and service shops. The three types won't mix worth a hoot.

Every town in the country has made a bust every time an airport was built. Not a single one has proved adequate. LaGuardia Field in New York was outgrown before it was finished, and the same is true of many another ambitious project. A community can spend more money on an airport and yet get nowhere than on any municipal enterprise, unless it is a water supply.

For that reason communities would be well advised to proceed slowly with plans for postwar airport development. What no aspiring city should neglect is the acquisition of a site or sites for future airport development.

The Thrill That Comes Once In A Lifetime Today And Tomorrow

More Cemetery Space Is Needed

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—There's a scrap going on here now between some residents of Arlington county and the War Department that is of far more than local importance.

Residents are seeking to block the department's purchase of 90 acres to add to Arlington National Cemetery to make room for 18,000 additional graves for service men and their wives.

There's no need to go deeply into the local situation. Arlington cemetery already is so crowded that priorities on plots are bitterly contested by high ranking military officials. According to one attorney representing Arlington county residents, the present rate of burial, which is nothing to what it will be as the war progresses, will use up the 90 additional acres, plus all available space now in the cemetery in seven years.

Rep. Howard W. Smith, Virginia Democrat who represents the district "just across the Potomac," says two-thirds of the area sought contains 328 family dwellings, including several apartment houses and one $125,000 school.

These are the basic facts in the local Arlington county ruckus, but there is much more to it than that. The real question is whether the nation wants to go on mushrooming Arlington into a vast national marble forest for men who have died in service, or whether we will take time out

Philip Wants To Be Wooed

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Whenever my friend Philip disagrees with what one of our allies is doing, he issues a stern note of warning to desist, or else the Senate will not ratify the treaty of peace, and our people will return to "isolation." Though it often seems to me that Philip's objections are well founded, I cannot think that this particular threat makes any sense whatsoever. What Philip is trying, in effect, to do is to coerce foreign governments by telling them that we may retire from world politics if they do not yield to his views. He seems to think that our participating in arrangements to maintain the peace is a favor, almost an act of charity, which we may or may not confer on others. When he is issuing his warnings, he seems to have forgotten that in our own vital interest we must insist on participating in order to see to it that we do not have to fight another war. Philip, so it seems to me, has gotten the real issue turned completely inside out.

Our object in staying in world affairs is not to do something that is disagreeable and expensive for ourselves, but kind to others; our object is to use wherever it is needed all the influence and power we have to prevent the next generation of Americans from being forced to fight another war. That being the object, it is silly to suggest that we shall sulk and withdraw when what we have to do is to insist on being present even if we are not wanted.

Philip's notion that he can make other governments yield by threatening to withdraw is a hangover from the other war and the long controversy about the League of Nations. It was true then that the European victors, Great Britain and France, were unable to enforce the treaty and make the league work without American assistance. They, therefore, wooed American public opinion. But that is where Philip, who was a league enthusiast, acquired the habit of expecting to be wooed by foreign governments.

This habit was deepened during the early phase of this war, during what might be called the American lend-lease period. Philip really believed, though he often said the contrary, that lend-lease was a gigantic American charity given to save hard-pressed nations abroad. He thinks of our tanks going to the Russians and he never quite thinks through to the end what it means when the Russians put a Russian man in that tank and send it against our enemy. So whenever a political difference arises, Philip habitually assumes that we are the givers and the foreign governments are the receivers, that we confer favors and that they obtain the benefits.

As a matter of fact, the threat of our withdrawal is an empty one in this war, and more dangerous to ourselves than to Philip. The Russians know that we are not that stupid, and therefore Philip's threat cannot impress them. Philip's threat is dangerous to ourselves because if our people came to believe it seriously, they would by withdrawing fail to safeguard American interests in the world settlement. Philip is threatening to cut off his nose to spite his face. It is just possible if he keeps on confusing our people, who are only beginning to understand world affairs, that he may just succeed in persuading us to throw away the influence and power which are being earned with so much sweat and blood and tears.

no more influence. Every other country, even the greatest, has carefully cultivated and conserved its influence abroad.

Philip is much interested, and quite rightly, in the fate of the Poles. But his idea of helping the Poles is to encourage them to stand firm against the Russian demands, and then to announce that if Russia still insists, he will wash his hands not only of Poland, but of all Europe, Africa and what not, as well.

Philip would advance his ideals, which are the right ideals, if he would devote his attention to making our foreign policy more intelligent in its conception and very much more efficient in its administration. That is where the real trouble is. That is why our diplomatic influence is deteriorating all over Europe and even in South America.

But Philip is one who loves so dearly the enunciations of fine principles that he thinks they constitute a foreign policy. In fact, he believes that the enunciation of fine principles is, by the fact that they have been uttered and repeated, a great diplomat. The administration of foreign policy does not interest Philip. At least he never criticizes it.

Yet now, as he complains to me that the great principles are not making headway in the world, I like to tell Philip, who by the way, is a character in fiction, that he has had a distinguished part in making us what we are today and that I hope he's satisfied.

Capital Comment— Mahon Praises Land Bank In Texas

By GEORGE STIMPSON

WASHINGTON, (Sp)—I paid my income tax early this year. Usually I get in about five minutes before midnight, on the 15th of March. This year I dropped it into the mail shoot at 11 o'clock.

Why does a country boy who goes to the city have a better chance of making good than a city boy does? Because he's got to make good or go home. Cong. George Mahon of Colorado City thinks the Farm Credit districts of the nation have operated with varying success, "but the Federal Land Bank of Houston and the Farm Credit District, which is made up of the state of Texas, have operated with singular success."

"I am not advocating any slipshod administration of the land bank, rather the contrary; but I do advocate the elimination of unnecessary red tape, duplication, waste and extravagance wherever it may be found." Ed Gossett, of Wichita Falls: "Personally, I am somewhat alarmed over the Arabian pipeline. I understand already some of our boys have been killed guarding lines in existence in that area. As I understand the situation, if and when that line is constructed by the government it will be necessary for the government thereafter to police it."

Wesley Disney of Tulsa, observed: "I understand that if you go hat in hand—that is, the independent oil producer and owner of stripper wells making less than five barrels—and if you show kindly and courteous consideration to the grand moguls of the OPA and show that you are just a nice fellow, you may get 30 cents a barrel subsidy."

Martin Dies is convinced that the overwhelming majority of Congress is anxious to support legislation to guarantee freedom of speech over the air to citizens and public officials, who have been slandered."

Says Martin: "Refusal by the

Hollywood— Things Look Better To Jimmy

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Jimmy Kern looked things over today and found them good—at least in his immediate vicinity.

He was surrounded by a big, beautiful hotel suite and a cast of stars, all of whom would do his bidding, abiding by a script which he and Sam Hellman wrote together. Whenever Jimmy Kern said the word, Ann Sheridan would pop into the suite's bathtub and take a nice, foamy, Hays office bath. Alexis Smith and Craig Stevens, her fiance, and here her film romance, too, would act for him. John Ridgely, opposite Ann Sheridan, might soon be taking orders from Uncle Sam, but for the present he was Kern's man. Jane Wyman and Jack Carson were ready to jump at his command.

Jimmy Kern was a director. "I am putty in your hands," said Carson. Jimmy Kern grinned. "The biggest lump of putty I ever saw," he said.

It was pretty clear that Jimmy liked his cast and crew, and vice versa. Sometimes when a new director takes over a picture, the players are suspicious—but not when they know their new boy has earned his job. Jimmy Kern has.

Directing "The Doughgirls" today means that he has won a $1,000 a week gamble with himself, a continuing wager begun in 1939. Remember the Yacht Club Boys? Kern, 34 now, was the youngest of the quartet, and the one who wrote their zany songs. In 1939, the boys were getting $8,000 a week from Paramount, after making eight features. They still had some to go when Paramount decided musicals were out, and settled their contract for $45,000. That was when Jimmy began thinking seriously. Hollywood was the place to be, but the market for a comedy quartet was low. His wife was expecting a baby. The war was cutting out London as a show-spot, and the boys had always counted on London appearances for a nice piece of change. They could always hit

Gauges Probable On Two Hawley Tests This Week

Two of seven J. B. Hawley tests underway in this immediate area were likely to go on pump this week, it appeared Saturday.

In the Moore pool area southwest of town where much of Hawley's operations have centered lately, his No. 1 J. O. Rosser, 24-34-s, T&P, cleaned out to 3,232 following second shot and was about 18 feet off bottom. A gauge on the well was possible during the week.

Similarly, the Hawley No. 4 H. D. Cowden, section 18-33-1s, T&P, was due for a gauge, having cleaned out with reverse circulation. It was on pump Saturday but was drawing off the cleaning fluid. No. 3 Cowden has been awaiting pumping equipment.

Approximately 50 feet of pay was jarred with 266 quarts in the Hawley No. 1 Thompson, section 13-34-1s, T&P. Rotary rig had been moved from the Hawley No. 1 Harold Homan, 1-650 feet from the north and 2,310 feet from the east lines of section 12-34-1s, T&P, which was to drill in with cable tools, to the Hawley No. 1 Bruce Frazier, which Saturday set surface string. The Frazier test, 1,650 feet from the north and 2,310 feet from the east line of section 7-33-1s, T&P, is a mile north of nearest production.

Around two miles north of the Frazier test and bidding to be a connecting link between Hawley production in western Howard county production and the Moore pool, materials were being moved in for the Hawley No. 1 Gullair in section 2, Bauer, and Cockrell survey. The test is a mile and a half southeast of the Hawley No. 1 Cook, his first well in the county and completed for a small producer.

Northern Ordnance Co. No. 1 Clayton & Johnson, south central Borden county deep wildcat, had drilled Saturday below 4,325 feet in hard lime.

Hope

ces Langford: "After the show, will you go to Big Spring and have dinner with me?"

Miss Langford: "Lovely, Bob—but I'm hungry."

Miss Langford: "He took me up to his room to use his manual of arms."

Colonna and Hope gave several imitations, one of which Hope announced would be a demonstration of a meeting of two Big Spring fishermen. The crowd laughed ahead of time that time. "What, no water here," Hope said, changing his remark to "two fishermen from anywhere."

Hope, describing an airplane trip across the Atlantic: "I read a novel all the way over; then I read the second chapter on the way back." Autograph seekers crowded around the party after the show.

The visitors were guests for dinner with... at the post at the Officers' club. Those present were Hope, Miss Langford, Niles, Colonna, Romano, Major Bickerstaff, pilot of the plane which brought the party here and who has accompanied the group on all of its tours of camps; Capt. Colvin, RAF and AAF pilot, who was co-pilot of the plane; Barney Dean, friend of Hope; Tom Sawyer, movie producer; V. A. Hunter, radio executive; Colonel Wittkop, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Paul Dewell, and Major Harry Wheeler, special services officer.

The group left Saturday night for Los Angeles to appear in a show there today.

Hope and other members of the party visited the bombardier school recently and were invited to appear in a show here. Since that time, the group has made a Caribbean tour, but remembered its invitation and visited the local post en route back to California.

Local Teachers Are On Meet Program

Three Big Spring faculty members will have parts on the program of the West Texas Teachers association Friday at Lubbock.

Because of transportation difficulties, an insufficient number of local teachers are going to warrant closing of the schools, said W. C. Blankenship, superintendent.

John L. Dibrell, athletic director, is to be in charge of the health and physical education section of the associational meeting. In the commercial section, one of the speakers will be Mrs. A. C. Kloven, teacher of commercial subjects in the local high school. Dan W. Conley is to discuss the importance of teaching reading songs through grades as his contribution to the music section.

Others from this area on the program are C. G. Parsons, Garden City superintendent, and F. Williams, Colorado City superintendent. In a panel discussion of high school evaluative criteria, Rita Cox, Odessa, will head the commercial section, Mrs. Ara Purcell, Lamesa, will speak at the foreign language meeting. Blankenship and V. Z. Rogers, Lamesa, are on the state executive committee. Murry H. Fiv, Odessa, and Williams on resolutions; Blankenship on legislative; Rogers on constitution and Rogers and Fiv on resolutions.

Yank Sailors Take Their Fighting As Seriously As They Do Their Sports

American sailors go about their fighting with much the same seriousness and reactions as they do about their sports, Robert Carroll Delbridge, signalman 2/c, has discovered in his prowlings aboard a destroyer in the Southwest Pacific.

He is now home on leave to visit with his mother, Mrs. Mary Delbridge, for the first time since he enlisted in the navy in July of 1941. A pre-Pearl Harbor volunteer, he was placed in school following boot training at San Diego, Calif., and shuttled to San Francisco and then Honolulu soon after the war's outbreak. Subsequently, he landed on a destroyer tender but finally got a transfer because the tender always had to lay back out of actual action.

When Green Island was bombarded and invaded, however, he happened into a regular hornet's nest of action for a time.

"The sky would be full of flak puffs," he said, "and yet sometimes a Jap plane would get through it and make a pass at us. We'd rush to the other side of the bridge to see if he went down in flames or got away. If we hit him, everybody was happy, but if he got by, everybody from the captain down to apprentice seaman cursed the luck."

Robert witnessed an American fighter dart in through flak from Yank ships to get on the tail of a Zero and shoot him down. "Those fighter pilots don't much care," he thought.

Because of the nature of his work, Robert spends his time on duty on the bridge and thus has a ringside seat on action. All in all, however, he says that travel has abounded more than action. He got a week ashore at Sydney, Australia, and thinks the Aussies are swell folks—"just like West Texans." In addition, he has pretty well made the circle of islands and atolls in the Southwest Pacific.

Here 'n There

More notes from Shine Phillips' fan mail bag: Mr. and Mrs. S. Radcliffe Weaver have named their farm at Carlisle, Ontario "Big Spring Farm" after reading Shine's book, "Big Spring"; Sam Houston Bridges wrote from Rosita, Coah., Mexico of his remembering some of the characters mentioned in the book from his experiences as a 10-year-old water boy for a gang building grade for the T&P, as it pushed through here in 1881 toward El Paso; George Doyle Antrim, regarded by many as a second James W. Reilly, penned an original poem; R. M. Hudson, pioneer Big Spring publisher, wrote his regards and concerning the Earl of Aylesford, said the nobleman "once told Pantagraph (the name of Hudson's paper) that he had basked in many sunny climes including the coral strands of India, but that Big Spring sunshine and climate outranked them all."

Mrs. Herman Williams, Forsan, was in a spot Saturday. She had lost a pair of British tan leather gloves near the Settles and came along too late to advertise for them. Maybe this is irregular, but maybe it will help a lady in distress recover something that's well nigh impossible to replace now.

The Week

nesday he addressed a club on the seriousness of the water situation, urging conservation in every possible way. That same evening he chanced to notice one of the club members busily watering his yard.

Speaking of water, those who have their fingers closest to the pulse of FWA and others concerned, have hopes that Big Spring will get word on an application for aid within 10 days or a fortnight. Seemingly FWA has smiled on the million dollar job, which would tap new and heavy underground water sources for the city, and now the military is giving it an analysis.

The Howard-Glasscock chapter of the American Red Cross went over the top as expected last week. The way funds have started coming in at theatres, it is not improbable that we will ultimately be $2,500 to $3,000 over our $24,800 quota.

A good policy, we think, has been adopted by the city judge, Tracy T. Smith, in upping the fine each time on chronic offenders; and that Justice Walter Grice may have dealt a blow in support of the VD campaign when he popped individual fines of $200 against two who admitted to a mighty low call.

Cubbing Session Gets More Adults On Line, Company Unit Back

Three dens of Cubs likely will be organized as the result of a Cubbing educational program now underway at South Ward school.

Friday evening nine parents, who were not present for the first meeting, took part in the informational section. They were Mrs. Chester Cluck, Mrs. Joe Wood, Mrs. Garland Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fort, Vernon Logan, Tillmon Lloyd, Mrs. J. B. Mull and Mr. Rogers.

Final session is Monday at 7:30 p. m. in the school building and Nat Shick, chairman of extension, hoped still other parents would come. A similar series of three meetings is being projected for West Ward school.

Troop No. 2 Boy Scouts returned Saturday afternoon from the Concho river where they had gone Friday for an overnight camp. They were on the Hall ranch near Water Valley under direction of the scoutmaster and troop committee.

Beaumont Coach To Leave For Service

BEAUMONT, MARCH 25—(AP) Raymond Alford, head football coach and athletic director of Beaumont Public Schools, departs for the army Monday and a re-assignment of coaching duties for Beaumont High results in: Raymond Mover becoming director of athletics.

Carlos Davis becoming head of the physical education department, head track coach and director of students' military training.

Earl Hutchinson becoming head football, basketball and baseball coach.

Kiddies Bring More Than Three Tons Of Paper To Matinee

Big Spring children brought in more than three tons of paper Saturday morning to the Ritz theatre as admission to a special matinee.

The show, staged for benefit of the paper salvage campaign, netted at least 6,400 pounds and H. D. Norris, field scout executive, who directed disposition of the paper by a group of scouts, said there might have been some additional.

Children were charged 20 pounds of paper admission. Proceeds from sale of the paper will be divided equally between Girl and Boy Scouts.

Meanwhile, at least four Boy Scout troops continued their weekly gathering of paper, picking up an amount possibly equal to that gathered at the Ritz.
