The score 18 to 5 does not tell the story of a truly in-teresting and closely contested game staged Sunday. Many errors on both sides caused the large score, but at times both teams played jam up baseball. It is noticeable that the first inning was the disaster for the visitors since in the other seven innings of the contest Morse registered one more score than the local team.

Panhandle Lions Club Visits? Spearman

Panhandle Lions came to pearman for an inter-city Spearman for an inter-city meeting Thursday evening of last week, headed by Mayor W. L. Boyles, chairman of the intercity relations committee. They came with the evident intention of letting Spearmanites know they were in town. The entire membership of the club was membership of the club was dressed in Hillbilly clothes, and brought hillbilly maners with them. The lively club members were restrained by the dignified example of Mayor Boyles until example of Mayor Boyles until they reached the banquet hall, when the lid was lifted. The uncooth visitors refused to take off their hats, and when their song leader attempted to bring forth harmony on such tunesom songs as "Roar Lions Roar," the roughneck gang from tough alley injected plenty of discord with their version of "Around Her their version of "Around neck she Wore a Yallar

Mayor (Tubby) Boyles should be complimented for his effort in restraining the Hillbilly members of his club. He was very successful in keeping a sem-blance of order until some in-nocent member of the gnng tossed an unserved T-bone steak in his general direction, and he deliberately stuck his face in front of the missle. When he had wip-ed off the catchup, Mayor Boyles gave up all semblence of dignity

What the visitors lacked in behavior, their program made up in quality. Headed by Hillbilly Stuttering Sam, of radio fame, the program got off to a dandy start. Sam made a ramb-ling talk full of take-offs on Spearmanites, and worked in Roosevelt, when she visited the WTCC Resource and Museum Institute last March. The conven-tion also will feature studies of soil and water conservation and transportation.
