

Family Escape Plan Could Be Life Saver

If your life depended on it, could you get out of your house, crawling, eyes stinging because of smoke, lungs burning as you breathe hot air, doors and passageways blocked off by heat and flame?

Many Texans find out the answer to this question each year. For far too many, the answer is "no". For these people the end result can be serious injury or death, says the Texas Insurance Information Center.

The office of the state fire marshal reports that last year approximately 400 persons were killed and about 900 injured in home fires in Texas. Although panic can overcome anyone, children who don't know how to get out of the house and older persons too weak to escape in time, are in particular peril if a fire breaks out in their home.

Although good fire prevention measures provide the best protection against home fires, even the most cautious can suddenly become a fire victim. Killer fires are often those that ignite in the evening after everyone has gone to bed. Undetected, these fires can rage out of control in minutes, overcoming occupants with smoke. Fires spread so quickly that experts say there is only about a four minute safety margin between the outbreak of the fire and safe escape.

This is where a family fire escape plan comes in. Every year there are needless deaths and injuries in Texas that could have been prevented by an effective escape plan.

There isn't a better time for families to work out such a plan than during the summer when children are home from school. Draw a floor plan of your house and plan at least two means of escape from each bedroom—the normal exit and an emergency exit, in case the usual route is blocked by flames or toxic fumes.

Agree ahead of time what warning device or signal will be used to alert the family. Establish a meeting place outside so that a head count of family members can be accomplished quickly. Rehearse your plan. This is especially important for children who will often panic and, tragically, hide in closets or under beds rather than escape.

In developing your plan keep in mind the abilities and disabilities of family members. An agile teenager might be able to go through a window or climb down a ladder, but a young child or grandparent may not. Your local fire marshal's office or fire department can give you valuable advice on planning a home escape route.

Since early warning is vital, fire prevention experts suggest that home smoke detection equipment be installed. Such equipment is widely available in electric supply, hardware and large department stores, usually for under $50. Purchase only those detectors that have been approved by an independent testing laboratory such as Underwriters Laboratory, Inc.

Most homes require more than one such device to give adequate protection. Moderate income families sometimes prefer to buy one or two such devices and place them first where they offer protection to bedrooms, adding additional detectors as the budget permits.

Whether or not you have such a device, it is advisable to sleep with your bedroom door closed. The door may block off enough smoke to give you those extra, precious seconds needed to escape.

If you suspect there is a fire on the other side of a closed door, test it with the palm of your hand before opening. Never open a door if it feels hot to the touch. The heat necessary to warm a door is enough to kill you with the first breath. If the door feels okay, brace yourself against it and open cautiously. Be prepared to slam it shut if you discover fire.

Get out quickly by an alternate route. Do not stop to gather up valuables or call the fire department. Once out, never return to the house. Call the fire department from a neighbor's house.

Here are some other fire safety tips from the Texas Insurance Information Center:

--if caught in smoke, keep low. Crawl along the floor where the air is better and take short breaths through your nose until you reach safety.

--in high rise or multiple story building, do not use the elevators. If power is cut off you may be trapped between floors.

--close doors behind you to block the path of the flames. Never lock them as this may prevent the escape of others.

--if trapped and escape is impossible, seal off cracks around doors and vents to keep smoke out and take refuge in a room with an outside window, closing as many doors as you can between you and the fire. Open a window for ventilation and hang a sheet out to signal for help.

--never leave children unattended at home, even for a few minutes. Small children are pathetically helpless and unable to escape danger without adult aid.

--when leaving children with babysitters, make sure the sitter knows the family escape routes and understands that the most important job is to get the children to safety if a fire breaks out.

Good fire prevention measures offer the best defense. Check your house for fire hazards. Safety checklists and instructions for developing fire escape plans are available from local fire departments and from the following sources: Office of the State Fire Marshal, 1110 San Jacinto, Austin, Texas 78786; American Insurance Association, Engineering and Safety Department, 85 John Street, New York, N.Y. 10038; or National Fire Protection Association, Publications Department, 470 Atlantic Avenue, Boston, Mass. 02210.

Lynx go to Dumas

The Spearman Lynx along with thousands of other high school football players, donned their pads for the first time last week-end, and Coach Greg Sherwood and his coaches had a chance to look at their shock troops, for the first time this year, in full battle attire.

Despite the hot, and always dry weather, the Lynx seemed to be "more" than ready for this year's kick-off! The coaches are not running at exactly full speed this early, but the boys are all still pretty sore and stiff from the strenuous work-outs and the heat is taking its toll!

The Lynx had better be getting in shape, because they are getting ready to scrimmage one of the top AAA teams in the Panhandle, when they journey to Dumas this Thursday night, for a 6:30 scrimmage. Of course the public is invited to journey to Dumas, and watch this contact scrimmage. The younger boys will start at 6:30 p.m., and the older varsity players will follow them! In the meantime, the Gruver Greyhounds will host Dalhart in a scrimmage at Gruver Friday night, and the public is expected to attend this scrimmage at Gruver.

Many Lynx fans are wondering if Spearman can make it "three in a row" to the play-offs this year. Most fans think it is possible for the Lynx to win the district, but then Childress will be their bi-district foe, and the Bobcats will be loaded again this year.

This year, district I-AA has been re-organized. Phillips has been moved into I-A, while Canadian and River Road are up in I-AA.

Coach Sherwood has about the same number of returning people, as he had a year ago, approximately 15 players. Among them are Zane Newton, Rick Morris, Mark Cunningham, and tackle Jimmy Kenney; Kent Hargis, a hard running back should be at his peak this year!

Sherwood will be looking at several boys, who must become his "quarterback" for this season! Among the candidates are his son Scott Sherwood, a 150 pound Sophomore; and Junior Randy Reid, 140 lbs.

Some of the defensive regulars returning are: Bo DeArmond, 235 pound tackle, Philip Archer and Ed Pogue a pair of fine linebackers and end Twain Friemel. DeArmond is one fine tackle, and will be watched by all this year, and Archer and Cunningham were all-district picks at their positions last season, as was DeArmond.

Coaches for the Spearman Lynx are enthused about this year's team needless to say. Members of the staff include: Sherwood, Ed Moore, Windy Williams, Ken Friemel, Chuck Steele, Bill Hamilton, Dennis Tomlin and Curtis Beasley. Superintendent of the Spearman school system is James Cunningham, and the high school principal is Eddie Clemmons.

Enrollment at Spearman High School is 303. Spearman stadium seating capacity is approximately 3,000. Remember, your season tickets are now on sale, and you have only a short time to reclaim your seats from last year, if you want the same seats!

National Farm Gas Meet opens Friday

The threat of a crisis in natural gas supply and price for farm use, and what can be done to head it off, will be outlined this week-end in Amarillo at a National Planning Meeting of farm natural gas users.

The national planning session opens Friday, August 20th, with remarks from several area political leaders, including Representative Jack Hightower of Vernon, on federal gas regulation and price policy problems at the state level.

The Saturday session will focus on ways farmers from California to Nebraska, and down to the South Plains of Texas can organize to fight for a continuing supply of natural gas - at a price the farm industry can afford.

"Right now, irrigation farmers are trapped in a vise. On one side, the Federal Power Commission hasn't given us any guarantee that we won't have our supply of gas cut-off in the near future."

"On the other side, price regulation agencies like the Texas Railroad Commission have adopted policies which promise to raise gas prices to as much as $2 within a year," declares Jim Dowdy of Dumas, a director of the North Plains Energy Consumers Association, one of two groups sponsoring the national gas meeting.

Also participating in the call for a national gas strategy and group is the Oklahoma-based Southwest Gas Users Association. On had as well will be John Aikin, Hereford farmer-attorney, who represents the Plains Gas Users Association. Aikin was a witness in gas pricing hearings earlier this month before the Texas Railroad Commission.

"In Austin, I discovered that the people and the farm community have no voice with the Railroad Commission, which right now is acting as if it were a lobby for the gas industry. If we don't organize to turn back its pricing rules, a lot of Texas irrigation farmers may be shutting off their wells next year, as they have already been forced to do in Pecos," Aikin says.

The Amarillo planning meet which opens at the Hilton Inn at noon Friday is open to all farmers and agri-businessmen. "Producers and gas irrigation leaders from Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Oklahoma, Kansas, and Texas have already announced plans to attend," Dowdy says.

Guest speakers will address the convention late Friday afternoon, and a business session will follow Saturday morning. Farmers interested in attending the meeting, for which there is no registration fee, may contact Troy McNeill, NPECA Executive Secretary at A/C 806-935-2998.

Dist 4-H Dress Revue Nets Winners

Under the theme "Bell Ringing 4-H Fashions", five young ladies showed off their own creations and earned themselves a trip to the State 4-H Dress Revue in San Antonio by winning top honors in district competition here Thursday (Aug. 12).

The event, held in the Fine Arts Building of Amarillo College, also netted top winners in seven categories.

The winners are Kay Coffee of Collingsworth Co.; Lisa Hill, Hartley Co.; Sue Smith, Gray Co.; Lenita Hershey, Dallam Co.; and Kim Diedrichsen of Moore Co.

Named as alternates are Carla West of Deaf Smith Co. and Shannon Lemons of Hemphill Co. These two girls will fill in at San Antonio, Sept. 17-18, in case any of the others can't compete in the finals during the State 4-H Dress Revue.

All 19 contestants, who represented a 20-county area of the Panhandle High Plains, made and modeled their own outfits.

In addition to senior level competition, 40 juniors vied for honors. They'll not compete beyond the district level.

There are no 1-2-3 placings in the annual dress revue. Contestants are judged on their sewing and construction skill, overall appearance, modeling abilities and their 4-H record books.

Parents, 4-H leaders and special guests were treated to a tea sponsored by the Texas Home Demonstration Association after the revue. Eight exhibitors and donors of awards participated in the show. Among them were Amarillo College, Hancock Fabrics, The Fabric Mart, The Cloth World, Stretch and Sew, Bernina Sewing Studio, Singer Sewing Machine and Extension Clothing Specialist Becky Culp.

Joyce Shipp, County Extension agent (home economics) in Deaf Smith Co., served as chairman of the event, and Sue Farris, district agent (home economics), served as coordinator, with a number of county Extension agents serving on committees.

Commissioners Call Hospital Election

The Hansford County Commissioners Court, has called an election for November 2nd. This election will be on the question "Shall the Hospital Board be elected?" If this election carries, the board members whose terms expire next April will be replaced by elected persons.

United plans to feed 2,000

Big doings are planned for the Perryton celebration this year, and plans already are being made for a "really big show" at the Bicentennial Celebration to be held this month. Perryton Jaycees, the main organizers for the events to be held during the celebration, have lined up some special attractions this year as well as the traditional ones featured in the past.

A major addition to the celebration this year will come from a giant breakfast, free to the first 2,000 people, on Saturday, August 21, by the UNITED SUPERMARKET in Perryton.

"We felt like we owed the people of the area, especially in Hansford and Ochiltree counties something for the good treatment we have received since the store opened, and we felt this was the best way we could show our appreciation," Max Smithey, manager of the store said this week.

Plans now call for the breakfast to start serving at 5 a.m. that day, the culmination of the week-long Perryton celebration, and for serving to go until 8 a.m.

"We plan to have enough food on hand to serve 2,000 people breakfast," Smithey said. On the menu for the morning repast will be fried eggs, bacon, biscuits and coffee, all cooked outdoors over an open fire.

Doing the cooking for the mammoth breakfast attempt will be the Gibson Family. The family makes their home near Hardesty, Oklahoma.

"The Gibson Family have agreed to make the Perryton Celebration an annual affair and part of their regular schedule," Smithey said.

Asked why the store is putting on the breakfast, at obvious great expense, Smithey said he hopes it will add a little life to the celebration and get more people involved and willing to work harder to make the occasion a lot more fun.

Following the breakfast will be the parade and the FREE Barbecue Dinner at the VFW Building.

County Agent's Report

Lush lawns and pastures resulting from recent rains have whetted the appetite of fall armyworms. These pests have come on the scene in Hansford County in the past few days, points out Jim Kuykendall, county agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Armyworms generally appear in late summer and early fall where lush growth appears in lawns, pastures and forage crops. Small grains, Coastal bermuda, forage sorghums and lawns are especially susceptible to damage. Plants can be stripped of their foliage in a short period of time," says Kuykendall.

The pests reach a length of about one-and-a-half inches when mature. Newly hatched worms are less than one-fourth inch long. Armyworms range in color from pale green to almost black. They have two characteristic markings—three parallel yellow lines extending along the back from head to tail and a prominent white, inverted "Y" appears on the front of the head.

"Armyworms feed mainly at night but are also active on cloudy days," notes Kuykendall. "Grasses should be inspected frequently and carefully to detect armyworm activity, especially during cool, wet weather."

Jim says that it is not uncommon to totally miss an armyworm infestation until damage is done because the small worms consume little leaf tissue. But during the last two or three days of their cycle, the mature worms consume about 85 per cent of the foliage. Most homeowners and ranchers fail to notice armyworms until the last stage of their development.

Armyworms can be effectively controlled if measures are taken soon after an infestation occurs. Delaying the application until the worms are nearly mature greatly increases the amount of forage or leaf loss, emphasizes Kuykendall.

Six insecticides are effective for armyworm control on pasture or forage grasses when properly applied. These include carbaryl (Sevin) or malathion at 1.25 pounds of actual ingredient (a.i.) per acre; trichlorfon (Dylox) or naled (Dibrom) at 1 pound a.i. per acre; or parathion or methyl parathion at .5 pound a. i. per acre. Malathion or Sevin are recommended for lawn application.

There is no grazing restriction or waiting period before application and haying or grazing when carbaryl, trichlorfon or naled are used. However, there is a 15-day waiting period between application and grazing or harvest for hay with the use of parathion and methyl parathion.

Kuykendall encourages growers applying material with ground equipment to use carbaryl, trichlorfon or naled. The more toxic parathion or methyl parathion should be applied by air. Additionally, naled and trichlorfon can be applied as ULV (ultra low volume) applications.

The Scientists Tell Me... Beef Industry and the Consumer Benefit From Quality Research

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

Most consumers desire top quality beef and more sources of edible, economical protein. Improving the taste of beef and finding protein additives that do not affect the basic taste and cooking characteristics of beef are major problems — problems that scientists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station are doing something to solve.

Research by several Experiment Station meat scientists has shown that one way to improve the flavor of beef is through the use of electrical stimulation of the carcasses. Drs. Zerle Carpenter and Gary Smith took 29 forage fed steers, immediately after slaughter, and subjected the left side of each carcass to electrical stimulation.

They then removed meat samples from the 13th rib region of both sides of the steers, and found that samples from the left side had significantly higher overall tenderness ratings than those from the right side. Scientists say that the use of such electrical stimulation immediately after slaughter and before chilling resulted in substantial improvements in beef palatability.

One very promising area of study is the addition of plasma protein (extracted from blood) to edible meat products. Dr. C.W. Dill, Experiment Station scientist with the animal science department at A&M, has found that the addition of plasma protein to raw meat can greatly improve cooking properties and has no adverse effect on taste. Dill cites the work of A. Gordon, a meat scientist who found that the addition of 1-2 per cent plasma to a raw hamburger mix produces a product with exceptionally good binding properties; in fact, hamburgers that have been blast-frozen can be fried with no breakdown in structure.

Despite its obvious advantages as an additive, scientists say that there is probably no animal protein so poorly utilized as blood protein. Dill believes that many people fear that the blood will be contaminated during the process of removal from the animal's body. But Dill says that blood taken from a healthy animal is essentially a sterile fluid, and the only possible way it could be contaminated would be through exposure to the atmosphere.

Dill says that while blood collecting techniques should be researched further, a very effective procedure now being used is the hollow blade knife, or thief knife. The knife is inserted into the animal's jugular vein, blood is picked up in a cup or vacuum tube, and anticoagulant is added at a point near the base of the knife handle. The mixture is then carried away through a tube, without exposure to the atmosphere.

In most European countries, a selection of specialties, such as blood sausage, made by using whole blood and/or blood plasma can be found in butcher shops and supermarkets. Both the technology and the equipment required for the collection, preservation and processing of blood are satisfactory and readily obtainable. However, Dill says there is no doubt that there is still room for further improvement and innovation both in the technology and facilities needed for food products manufacture.

Dill has isolated a substance from the blood serum that is a very high quality protein nutritionally. He has found that up to 10 per cent of the flour in bread dough can be substituted with the plasma isolate. This substitution increases loaf volume by as much as 16 to 18 per cent, and significantly improves crumb texture. Most importantly, the addition of the plasma protein to the wheat protein dramatically increases the nutritional value of the bread by increasing the levels of essential amino acids.

Recent advantages in transportation equipment as well as reduced transit times have stimulated interest in preserving meats during transoceanic shipments, according to Carpenter and Smith. The demand for fresh beef by foreign consumers has recently increased as highly industrialized or oil-rich countries have developed higher standards of living. Correspondingly, the potential for sales of United States beef in foreign markets has grown dramatically. Interest has increased in finding ways to preserve fresh cuts and quarters of beef during the transit time required on relatively inexpensive ocean-going vessels.

Carpenter and Smith found that the best way to protect fresh beef cuts during long distance shipments was vacuum-packaging. Vacuum-packaged cuts were adequately protected from both weight loss and deterioration during the experimental 20-21 day shipment. The best method for protecting fresh beef quarters during long-distance, transoceanic shipments consisted of wrapping with polyvinyl chloride (PVC) film and transporting the quarters in a modified atmosphere van. The scientists also found that for short-term transoceanic shipments of beef, beef cuts stored for 5-7 day intervals fared better when wrapped in PVC film and kept in a normal atmosphere. Package and transportation costs were also much lower.

Research by meat scientists will help supply the consumer with the best quality meat at the lowest possible cost. And the utilization of new protein sources will raise both the production and the quality of our nation's meat products.

Today, the American outlay for food is 16 percent of disposable income and the nation's food waste, according to the Department of Commerce, is at the lowest level in the world. By preventing spoilage, plastics such as widely-used polypropylene and other packaging have helped the food industry to reduce food costs by $10 billion a year.

In these days of energy consciousness, plastics have at times been branded as a waste of natural resources and energy. The fact is, plastics use less than two percent of the total world production of petroleum and help save energy because less is used in manufacturing plastics and plastic products than in alternate materials.

New Tax Rate Set At $143

The school board met in special session Tuesday night to accept the budget for 1976-77, and set the tax rate. The new tax rate will be lowered from 1.44 to 1.43 per hundred. The reason for lowering the tax rate is the re-evaluation of city property which brought the total valuation up enough to lower the tax rate.

The new budget for 1976-77 will be a total of $1,678,944.00 as compared to last year's budget of $1,586,980.00. This year's budget is less than a 6 percent increase over last year's budget!

Now, one prune juice comes with vitamin C added. This Super Mott's Prune Juice also has an extra amount of prune solids—10 percent more than the United States government requires—so it is said to give more of what we buy prune juice for. This, according to many people, makes it rich in taste and smooth in texture.

The Scientists Tell Me... Field Days Are Show Windows For Texas Agricultural Research

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

"Both the general public and agricultural producers are welcome to see and hear the latest research results at our field days," says Dr. H.O. Kunkel, Dean of the College of Agriculture at Texas A&M University.

"It's gratifying that there is such a growing interest in agricultural research by both urban people and agricultural producers. The research facilities of the Experiment Station, strategically located across the state, are owned by the people of Texas and the field day offers an excellent opportunity to find out the latest results, firsthand," Kunkel adds.

Experiment Station scientists are on hand at field days to show and explain the results of their research. Research facilities all across the state, during the field days, throw open the doors to their laboratories and open the gates to their research fields and pastures.

Since field days are usually a cooperative effort between the Experiment Station and the Extension Service, county agents and specialists are co-hosts with Experiment Station personnel. Helpful Extension displays and printed material from both agencies are other popular features.

"Though the U.S. still has a large export market for our abundance of food, feed and fiber, the gap has narrowed between world supplies and world needs," Kunkel says.

"If we are to feed ourselves and help the rest of the world, then we must step up the volume of agricultural research. Past research helped the U.S. obtain primacy in agricultural production. But if we lose momentum in research, then we will also lose momentum in production.

"An additional complication is that we must now increase production and do it with the most efficient utilization of resources. In the future, we must rely increasingly on renewable resources, as energy from fossil fuels is both expensive and irreplaceable.

"We can greatly expand agricultural production if scientific and technological innovations occur and farmers receive the technology and have the incentive to apply it.

"Transfer of technology to producers is a function of Extension. But only scientists develop that new technology and only farmers and ranchers produce food. And the field days are a way to bring both together," Kunkel concluded.

What you'll see at a field day depends on its location. The Texas A&M University Research and Extension Center at Lubbock, for example, is surrounded by agriculture — big agriculture. Area businesses and other industries are usually allied with farming and ranching, so field days concentrate production agriculture.

But at Dallas the A&M University Research and Extension Center is bounded on all sides by the 10th largest metropolis in the U.S. A great variety of people in countless occupations must be served.

"Agriculture for portions of north and central Texas aren't neglected by any means," says Center Superintendent, Huey Whitehurst, "but there is considerable emphasis on research for the benefit of townspeople."

"Actually, research on agriculture and urban yard and household problems often complement each other," points out Dr. Jarvis Miller, Director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. "Farmers and ranchers are also consumers with homes, lawns and gardens that have the same problems as city dwellers. And much of the agricultural research on insects, plants and animal diseases provides useful information for urban people.

"Production of ornamentals, bedding plants, and turf is a growing industry in Texas and contributes increasingly to agricultural income," Miller added.

So, at a field day you can see better grasses for your lawns or other improved grasses for pastures. You can also learn how to control insects on fruit trees whether you have two or an orchard. And whether your ornamentals and flowers are grown in your yard, greenhouse or field they have common problems that need answers only research can provide.

Dates of field days vary according to location and range from late spring, through the summer, into the fall. Watch for announcements in your local paper of a field day near you, put it on your calendar and attend. You'll learn a lot about research results, meet people with similar interests and have a good time.

DISCOVER BICENTENNIAL AMERICA AMERICAN LANDMARKS

Throughout the country, landmarks stand to America's 200 years of growth and achievement, and many communities have special events surrounding these landmarks, to celebrate America's 200th birthday.

These include Brunswick Town, near Southport, North Carolina. This town was evacuated during the Revolution and burned by the British in 1776. Twenty-three building foundations have been excavated. In San Francisco, which is also 200 years old this year, is the 210-foot Coit Memorial Tower on Telegraph Hill, a monument to the Volunteer Firemen of the 1850s and '60s.

Near Newburgh, New York, is the New Windsor Cantonment State Historic Site, a reconstruction of a Revolutionary War winter camp that once housed 7,000 troops commanded by George Washington. It's free and open until mid-October. Just outside Traverse City, Michigan, is the Old Mission Lighthouse, one of the first built on the Great Lakes and set on a spot midway between the North Pole and the equator. Borger, Texas, is the home of the Alibates National Monument, an area containing flint quarries used by Indians many centuries ago. Daniel Boone's grave can be seen in Frankfort, Kentucky. Although Boone died in Missouri, his remains were brought to the Frankfort Cemetery in 1845.

One of the largest rolled-fill dams in the world is Garrison Dam in Riverdale, North Dakota. It was built by the U.S. Army at a cost of nearly $300 million.

The Boston Tea Party dumped 45 tons of tea into Boston Harbor.

There are almost one million species of insects.

Fabric-stuffed dolls, animals and pillows for infants should be washable. Check for holes or weak seams and repair them before laundering. These kinds of toys absorb much moisture during washing and require a long drying time. If items are machine dryable, use the highest drying temperature setting. Stop the appliance occasionally and shake toys to redistribute stuffing—the items will then dry more evenly, says Mrs. Linda McCormack, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Intensive Seminar Scheduled

"All the Bible You'll Ever Need" is the title of an intensive seminar resourcing imaginative change, led by the Rev. Roger B. Knapp of Austin at the First Presbyterian Church of Spearman on September 10-12.

Roger B. Knapp, a member of the Palo Duro Union Presbytery, is recognized as an innovative interpreter of the scriptures and contemporary living. Now completing his doctoral studies at McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago, Knapp has been awarded a certificate of biblical studies from the University of Edinburgh, Scotland. Having been graduated from Princeton Theological Seminary and Duke University in North Carolina, Knapp has served congregations in Taos, New Mexico; Bartlesville and Tulsa, Oklahoma; Hereford and Sweetwater, Texas.

The seminar will be open to a minimum of twenty persons and a maximum of twenty-four. While Presbyterians will be given the preference, this will be open to anyone. People planning to register should do so with Helen Etter by August 31. The cost is $15 for an individual and $25 for a couple. It is intensive and fun and is a playful workshop for energetic people who dislike traditional bible studies. Sessions will be Friday, September 10, 6:30 to 11:00 p.m.; Saturday, September 11, 9:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.; Sunday, September 12, 1:30 to 6:00 p.m.

Spearhead Breakers Attend Jamboree

Spearhead Breakers C.B. club had a booth at the Panhandle Wide C. B. Jamboree in Borger's Dome, July 10 and 11th. We are proud to report a total of 33 Spearhead Breakers attended the Jamboree in the 2 days. But it didn't win us a trophy. We lost out by 2 people in the final hour. Since most of the people had left for home.

Lady Arrowhead represented the club for the two days.

The Tram Diamond 40 Radio was won by Jack Owens, Spearman. The ham went to Tom Rutledge of Fargen, Okla., J. D. Wilbanks of Spearman won the Big Mama Antenna, for guessing closest to the amount of beans in a jar.

Stacy Thomas, Spearman, won the money jar. Pam Stumpf, Spearman, won the Battle Purse.

Twist off was Runner up in the Horse Behind Award, and Lady Arrowhead was runner up in the Channel Hog award. These trophies went to Canadian and Borger. This was a new experience for the club. One we will remember for months to come. Since it was so hot inside the dome. But their was a good turn out from all over Texas and Oklahoma, and Kansas. And even Colorado and California had C.B.'ers there. So I guess we Illinois' are not the only C.B. nuts.

Northern Natural slo-pitch team loses in finals here!

The Northern Natural Slo-pitch Team lost to the Perryton Blues in the Finals of the big Spearman Tournament played in Spearman Saturday and Sunday. Eugene Yarbrough pictured with the trophy was named the Most Valuable Player in the Tournament.

The Perryton Blues won the Spearman Invitational Slo-pitch Tournament Sunday night. The Blues are coached by player - manager Max Smitley.

The Perryton Ped Team lost to Spearman in the semi-finals Sunday evening in 4 over-time innings. The Big Ped Team is one of the finest teams in the state.

The Northern Natural slo-pitch Spearman team, lost a heart-breaker to the Perryton Blues, in the finals of the first Spearman slo-pitch tourney, held here Saturday and Sunday. Although the Spearman Northern Natural Gas team lost in the finals, one of their players, Eugene Yarbrough was picked as the outstanding player of the tournament.

In the first game, the Perryton Blues slipped by the Berger team in a tournament opening thriller, 12-9. Max Smitley's Blues "held on" to win this opening game sizzler. In game 2, the Gruver team lost to Stinnett 9-4. Coach Stillman and his Greyhound team played together for their first time and did a great job, even in losing. In game 3, the Northern Natural Spearman team edged the Perryton Red team 19-18. Eugene Yarbrough and Monty Black of the Spearman team, each got 4 hits, to lead the Northern team to the close victory. In game 4, Berger edged the Gruver team 13-10! Game 5, saw the Perryton Blues whip the Stinnett team 22-19! Game 6 saw the Perryton Reds blast the Berger reds 24-18, with both teams playing very well. Game 7 saw the championship Perryton Blues defeat Spearman 15-9! Game 8 was a thriller as Perryton Reds squeaked by Stinnett 17-15! In game 9, just before the finals, a tired Northern Natural team from Spearman, defeated an equally tired Red team from Perryton, 20-19, in 4 over-time innings. The Blues, from Perryton, coached by player-manager Max Smitley, went ahead to defeat the Spearman team 24-10 to win the championship.

This was the first slo-pitch tournament ever held in Spearman. Tourney Chairman Eugene Yarbrough did a fantastic job with this tourney, and all six towns who participated in the tournament are to be congratulated. The tourney was rained out Sat. night, but they went ahead to finish on schedule late Sunday!

According to one researcher, marital satisfaction is lowest for couples when their children reach and progress through the school-age years. Couples indicated a decrease in satisfaction with finances, task performance, companionship, sex and relationships with children. At one time we were able to buy all that was offered to us on the

TEXAS GRAIN MARKETS

CORPUS CHRISTI AREA MILO
(Counties of Live Oak - Bee - Nueces - San Patricio - Refugio)
Rain showers had eased up in this area on Thursday with farmers moving across milo fields which were dry enough. Some fields in the area still remained too muddy on Thursday for harvest. The weather damage has caused much of the Coastal Bend milo to be sample grade which includes grain of more than 15% total damage. At present elevators are storing the milo largely, as they look for a market and hope to blend some of the better grain to bring the grade up to three or better. Thus, the prices being paid to farmers vary substantially from the No. 2 price which is quoted in this report.
Price range paid to the farmer F.O.B. elevator as of noon Thursday is $4.70-4.75 per cwt.

UPPER COAST MILO
The grain in this area, while being hurt by the prolonged wet spell, is in much better shape than Coastal Bend grain. Some No. 2 milo is being cut, however, grade 3 or less will probably be tagged on the majority of this crop. Test weights are in the lower fifties with discounts being placed on milo having test weights under 55 pounds. Farmers were offered $4.20-4.30 per cwt. for No. 2 milo as the market softened substantially on Thursday.

SOUTH TEXAS AREA
(Counties of Atascosa - Uvalde - Medina) Grain sorghum harvest was underway during the third week of July with showers hampering the harvest at midweek. Quality of this grain has also been lowered with sprout damage and discoloration plaguing some fields. The milo was grading anywhere from 2 to 4 with no reports of sample grade grain. Attention should be brought to an error in last week's South Texas report. The statement printed which said that most milo in the area had been lost earlier in the spring because of drought was incorrect. Farmers were being offered mostly $4.50 per cwt. for No. 2 milo.

CENTRAL TEXAS MILO
(Counties of Hill - McLennan - Falls - Bell - Milam - Williamson)
Some milo has been harvested in South Central Texas in the Williamson-Milam County area this week. However, humidity and occasional showers are keeping the moisture content high. So, should open weather occur in the next couple of days, a substantial quantity of grain will be coming in shortly. A nominal market continues in the area with a price of $4.25-4.50 per cwt. as enough grain has not traded to establish a firm price. Contract interest at these levels remains limited.

HIGH PLAINS AREA
Farm level prices moved sharply lower as compared to prices of a week ago. Grain sorghum lost 5-15 cents, wheat was 10-20 cents off, soybeans lost about 85-90 cents, and corn was mostly 14-15 cents lower. The markets continue being very vulnerable to weather as wattered rains in the Corn Belt continue driving prices lower in anticipation of a large corn crop.

As for conditions of the Texas High Plains crop, the Trade indicates that the corn and milo crops look very good after responding to recent rains in the Southern Plains. Farmers have planted some late milo during the past week in dryland areas which received the late moisture. Some problems are reported with green bugs in the milo fields and farmers are respond with aerial spraying.

contract price of $4.50 per cwt. However, since the market has declined substantially, it is most difficult to tell a farmer what the market is on new crop milo until we have actually made a sale. Lately we feel it has been too cheap to sell.

In reference to the Texas Grain Markets Report, at the left, which comes from the Texas Farm Bureau and also appeared on Page 5, Section B of the August 12 issue of the Herald . . .

Our freight to Corpus Christi is 74¢ per cwt. - so perhaps you could subtract this from the prices quoted in this article and it would be helpful to you to know what values you might want to place on your new crop.
