

Distribution of Placement Annual set

The 1967 College Placement Annual is ready for distribution, the Tech placement service says.

The Annual is available to seniors and graduate students.

The Annual is an occupational directory. There is valuable information about applications and interviews. It is arranged in a clear, concise way and information is easily accessible.

Annuals may be picked up at room 242, Electrical Engineering building, or after Oct. 10, at the following times:

9-10 a.m. Monday through Friday.

3-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

New draft standards start today

Revised induction standards will provide 20,000 additional men for the armed services starting Oct. 1.

The new standards will affect men who previously would have been classified 1-Y because of low scores on armed forces intelligence and aptitude tests.

The requirement change says that men who make low scores on the tests must no longer pass the general technical area if they pass at least two other areas. Other areas are infantry, armor, artillery, and engineer, general maintenance, electronics, motor maintenance, and clerical.

THE LUBBOCK selective service bureau said the change will not be retroactive, but will affect only those tested after Sept. 30. The bureau said no distinction will be made between newly eligible men and the present pool of 1-A classifications concerning order of induction.

This revision of standards is part of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's plans to train 40,000 previously unqualified men this fiscal year for duty in the armed forces.

Efforts are being made to lower minimum induction levels again to provide the additional 20,000 men by June 30, the end of this fiscal year. Induction levels have already been lowered three times this year.

McNAMARA'S TRAINING program, scheduled to hit its stride in 1968, will make available 100,000 men a year who would have otherwise been rejected under previous standards.

In order to reach the 100,000 mark, men with minor physical defects will be accepted. Such defects would include ailments, such as hernia, which can be cured in about six weeks.

McNamara arrived at the 100,000 figure on a theory that one sixth of the 600,000 men rejected annually can be trained to meet armed forces standards.

THE LOWER INDUCTION standards should help the selective service system meet its increased quotas for October and November. The October call of 49,200 approaches the 53,000 drafted in May of 1953, when the Korean War was nearing its end. The November quota is scheduled to reach 43,700.

One reason for the soaring October and November quotas is the reluctance of the selective service to call up men during the Christmas holidays.

The armed forces approved McNamara's training plans, although details have not yet been worked out concerning allotment of trainees among the different services. However, all men drafted in October and November will be assigned to the Army.

FAIR WEATHER?—As tradition will have it, the warm, sunshiny days of fall depart with the arrival of the Panhandle South Plains Fair. The results of the sudden temperature change are shown in the desolate, empty rides and grounds during the annual Tech students day. The record attendance the first days of the fair was reduced radically with the arrival of the cold, windy weather.

Entry station relocation stirs up disagreement

By FRANK O'HAGAN, JR.
 Staff Reporter

Relocation of an entry station which prevents students from entering the campus to buy books at Tech Bookstore has stirred up a disagreement among college officials.

W. C. Cole, manager of the Tech Bookstore, says that the relocation of the entry station has caused a decline in his business.

Last year the entry station was located adjacent to the bookstore parking lot and students were allowed to park in front of the bookstore and conduct their business within a thirty-minute time limit.

THIS YEAR students must park off-campus and walk to the bookstore.

"I see no reason for the moving of the entry station," Cole said. 10,000 off-campus students have been hampered by the relocation of the entry station because they can no longer park in the bookstore parking lot to conduct their business.

Tech senior key to bogus bills arrest

Ray Beats, a senior architecture major from Fort Worth, played a key role in the arrest Thursday of a Fort Worth woman charged with passing counterfeit $20 bills for merchandise in three Lubbock stores.

Beats, an employee of the J. C. Penney Co., told police a young woman with a baby paid for merchandise Wednesday with a $20 bill. Beats said he immediately noticed that it felt differently but pretended to put it in the cash register.

The woman disappeared after Beats went to the manager to tell him about the bill. A Secret Service agent from Dallas verified Beat's suspicion that it was counterfeit.

Thursday the same woman entered Furr's attempted to pass another $20 bill. The serial number, checked by the clerk, matched the number given out the previous day, and while the clerk went to get change, she called the police.

The offender was apprehended and after searching her car, police found 31 more $20 bills.

The woman is being held pending possible federal charges.

Dean of Men Lewis Jones, chairman of the Traffic Security Commission, said that the stations were moved to relieve congested traffic.

COLE SAID that he had written Traffic Security Commission late in August in an effort to change the entry station back to its original position.

Jones feels that the bookstore does not offer enough space for traffic to turn around. In order for the traffic to leave campus after shopping at the bookstore a traffic circle would have to be built, he said.

At the present location on 15th Street, next to Drane Hall, traffic can move smoothly off campus with little or no congestion, he added.

JONES SAID the traffic entry stations are on a temporary basis until November 1. The Traffic Security Commission is working to solve the problems of traffic on the campus.

Bill Daniels, chief security officer, said that infirmary passes are being made to accommodate students that must go to the infirmary.

In the north dorm parking lot, faculty members that work in the museum and in the engineering buildings cannot leave the area without loss of time. Heavy traffic on College Avenue makes it difficult to enter or leave the 11:15 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. and at 5:00 p.m.

BILL MABUS, student representative of the Traffic Security Commission, said the entry station on north Boston Avenue has relieved most of the traffic congestion and that it is a very effective means of eliminating traffic congestion.

Mabus also said that extended parking privileges have been given to residents of Sneed, West, Gordon and Bledsoe Halls.

The parking lots behind the gymnasium are now for student parking and members of the above mentioned residence halls may park in them.

SC to study trial news

WASHINGTON (AP)—A committee of 12 federal judges is studying ways to shield federal juries from prejudicial publicity. Chief Justice Earl Warren announced Friday night.

And the same committee, headed by Judge Irving R. Kaufman of the U.S. Circuit Court in New York, is studying the possible use of data processing in court administration, Warren said.

Pope asks Saigon for Viet peace

VATICAN CITY (AP)—In a message carried by his special mission to Saigon, Pope Paul VI vowed Friday to work without letup to make "peace be with you" a reality for Viet Nam.

The message was in a letter to be read to a meeting of Viet Nam's Roman Catholic hierarchy.

The Vatican disclosed the letter had been entrusted to Archbishop Sergio Fignedoli, who left here three days ago as head of an extraordinary three-man pontifical mission. At the time the mission left, the Vatican limited its announcement to saying the mission would attend a meeting in Saigon on Church problems.

Tech Health Service ends infirmary report issuance

Students visiting the Tech Health Service will no longer be issued infirmary reports which in the past were presented to teachers as proof of excused absences.

The new policy went into effect this semester, according to Dr. F. P. Kallina, director of the Student Health Service. Another new policy is a $1 per syringe charge for allergy immunization injections.

The policy change was suggested in a letter from Dr. Kallina to W. M. Pearce, Vice-president for Academic Affairs.

IN THE PAST, four copies of infirmary reports were made: one for the student's personnel dean, his academic dean, the Health Service files, and for the student himself.

Dr. Kallina estimated one-third to one-half of his nurses' time was spent writing out excuses. Daily reports on students confined to the infirmary will continue to be sent to personnel and academic deans.

Another exception to the new policy is that an excuse from physical education classes may be secured if attendance would be detrimental to the student's health.

DR. KALLINA also said that the infirmary reports were never intended to be regarded as an excuse from classes, and nowhere on the slips were they identified as such.

The elimination of the slips will put excused absences for illness at the discretion of the teacher. However, con-

San Francisco guard eased

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The National Guard withdrew half its riot control forces from San Francisco Friday with order hopefully restored in two violence-shaken Negro districts.

Riots had flared for two nights after a white policeman shot and killed a Negro youth. In Friday's calm, government and business leaders spurred drives to produce jobs as a cure for the Negro unrest.

Mayor John F. Shelley, a former labor leader, blamed high unemployment in the Hunters Point and Fillmore areas as the chief cause for the outbreak there of fire bombing, rock-throwing, and looting.

CYRIL MAGNIN, San Francisco Chamber of Commerce president, called a closed conference of the 100 presidents of the city's largest employers. He said the purpose is to generate all possible jobs for minority groups.

Shelley sternly charged both organized labor and business management with responsibility for limiting Negro job opportunities.

"In my opinion the medieval practice of discrimination by some labor unions is just as sorrowful and just as unfair as the archaic attitudes expressed by some members of employer or management groups," Shelley declared.

DANIEL M. LUEVANO, regional director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, said he expected to report in 24 hours on war on poverty funds immediately available for putting Hunters Point and Fillmore residents to work.

The White House ordered this Thursday after Shelley directly appealed to President Johnson for federal help.

The city's own Civil Service Commission announced it will employ a new recruiter—at $13,642 a year—to search the high jobless areas for workers to fill 774 vacant jobs at City Hall.

Except for small and sporadic incidents, quickly curbed by fast moving police and highway patrol cars, the two Negro districts were quiet Thursday night under an 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew.

POLICE LEFT patrolling of most streets to 135 young Negro men, volunteers in a Project S.O.S.—for "Serve OurSelves."

Maj. Gen. Paul R. Teilh, National Guard field commander, said 500 guardsmen were being held at Candlestick Park and another 500 at Kezar Stadium.

But another 1,000 were released from duty Friday.

Court ruling dresses down 'Mod' look

DALLAS (AP) — The fashionable "mod" look got a dressing down of sorts Friday as a U.S. district judge ruled that high school principals have the authority to suspend boys whose hair is too long.

Three Dallas high school musicians lost their attempt to force the school administration to admit them to classes with Beatle type hair styles.

The youths claimed their civil rights were violated when W. S. Lanham, principal of Samuell High School, refused to let them register for school Sept. 7 unless they got haircuts.

U.S. Dist. Judge W. M. Taylor Jr. issued a temporary restraining order two weeks ago ordering the principal to let the boys go to school until their suit against the administration was settled.

None of the trio—Stephen Webb, 18, and Phillip Farrell and Paul Jarvis, both 17—was present in the judge's office as the decision was handed down.

All three were in school. Their attorney, Herbert Hooks, commented: "As it stands now, they'll either be escorted to the front door of the school or to the barber shop."

Hooks said he would meet with the boys later to decide their next move.

The plaintiffs, members of a musical combo called "Sounds Unlimited," charged that the principal and school Supt. W. T. White had acted "arbitrarily and capriciously" in refusing their admission to school.

Judge Taylor disagreed, and said:

"The conditions or terms upon which a public free education are granted in the high schools of Texas cannot be fixed nor determined by the pupils themselves."

firmation of a student's visit to the infirmary and of any medical recommendation for bed rest can be secured by calling the infirmary.

The new policy will also leave the four full-time nurses employed by the Health Service free from clerical work for their professional duties.

A CHECK with the deans of the schools of Arts and Sciences, Home Economics, Agriculture, Business Administration, and Engineering showed that the change will have little effect on absence policy.

A spokesman for S. M. Kennedy, dean of Arts and Sciences, said that they had not been notified of the change, but that they had always relied on the student or a friend to report absences from class because of illness.

A spokesman in the school of Business Administration said that they had not been notified, but that they never used the slips much.

A SIMILAR statement was made by a spokesman for the school of Engineering who said that they seldom use the slips.

J. W. Bennett, dean of Agriculture, said such a thing as an excused absence had not existed in the school for a number of years.

A spokesman for the school of Home Economics said they had not been notified of the change, and that the slips had very little value anyway.

Philosophy department created

Tech has a new department in the School of Arts & Sciences this fall—the department of philosophy, headed by Dr. Ivan L. Little, assistant dean of A&S.

Since 1946, philosophy has been assigned administratively to the department of education. It was removed this year to give education a more precise function, anticipating the eventual founding of a School of Education.

Commenting yesterday on his 20 years of association with the department of education, Little said, "Dr. Morris S. Wallace, head of the department, has helped push philosophy as a discipline. He's been most considerate of me and my staff. It's been a pleasure."

CURRENT teaching staff in the philosophy department consists of Dr. Little; Dr. T. Bruce Waters, a professor; Dr. Zuhdi T. Faruki and Mr. Charles S. Hardwick, both assistant professors; and Mrs. Mary Lou Rawlings, part-time instructor.

The department offers a bachelor of arts degree plus minor courses at the master's level.

"Within five years, we hope to offer a master of arts degree with minor work at the doctor's level," Little said.

ALTHOUGH Tech now has only a dozen or so philosophy majors, Little looks forward to attracting more as a result of departmental listing in the 1966-67 catalog.

Establishment of philosophy as a separate unit brings to 19 the number of departments in the School of Arts & Sciences. Other departments involve a wide spectrum of fields, ranging from biblical literature to psychology.

Talent '67 tryouts

Results of the "Campus Talent '67" tryouts will be announced in two weeks, Dorothy Pijan, Tech Union program director, said.

Fifteen groups auditioned Thursday night with talent ranging from a stage band to a magician, Mrs. Pijan said.

She expressed confidence Tech would be represented in the state-wide display of collegiate talent.

This movie initiates the entertainment film series set up by the Special Events Committee of Tech Union. Other movies to follow are "Mutiny on the Bounty," "Your Cheatin' Heart" and "Of Human Bondage."

An editorial

More entries needed

With 163 organizations on the Tech campus, one would surely think a respectable number would enter floats in the homecoming parade, one of the social highlights of the year. But such is not the case.

Only 17 have submitted entries thus far, with the parade scheduled three weeks from today. Ten are sororities, two are fraternities and the other five are clubs and professional organizations.

Many members of this latter group are not planning to build floats simply because of laziness. They would rather tape a sign to the side of a convertible ten minutes before parade time and let it go at that.

This also applies to fraternities, but the most obvious reason they are reluctant to build a float is they have no pledge class to do the work. On the other hand, as indicated by their large number of entries most sororities now have large pledge classes.

We doubt that finances present a problem, for a winning float can be built for as little as $100 if enough ingenuity and elbow grease are applied.

In addition, the Interfraternity Council gives a cash award to the winner of the fraternity division. As things stand now, Sigma Chi and Sigma Nu each stand a 50-50 chance of winning it, leaving nine other fraternities.

To facilitate matters, the homecoming committee will furnish trailers, vehicles and a building site for organizations wishing to enter a float.

Unquestionably, floats are the most colorful and appealing part of a parade. A parade cannot be a success without an abundant number of them.

We hope more campus organizations will consider building a float, and that fraternity actives will decide the publicity connected with building a float to be seen by at least 20,000 persons is worth doing the work themselves.

Student wins set of encyclopedias

During the wild rush of registration some students took time out in their busy routine to register for a set of encyclopedias.

Miss Julie Harber, daughter of SM/Sgt. and Mrs. Vade F. Harber of Randolph Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas won a set of the Encyclopedia Americana Thursday.

Miss Harber, a freshman this year, and other friends decided to take time out to sign up for the contest. Miss Harber said she never expected to win.

Miss Harber was asleep when the phone rang, and Ross H. Spradling, regional manager for Encyclopedia Americana in this area, asked her if she could stand some good news. Needless to say she was very happy with the message.

Spradling stopped another Tech student, Mrs. Mary Martha Sale Jr., and asked her to draw the winning ticket. Mrs. Sale and her husband are being treated to a steak dinner at a local restaurant.

Miss Harber will receive the 30 volume set in about two weeks.

Raiders meet Texas Aggies in SWC tilt

The Texas Tech Red Raiders, still suffering from the aches and pains from last week's 31-21 loss to the Texas Longhorns, will face a winless but improving Texas Aggie congregation in College Station tonight.

It will be the Raiders' second conference game of the year and the first for the Aggies.

Tech has taken the favorite's role in this the 25th meeting between the two teams. A&M has won 15 of the previous games, Tech has won eight and there has been one tie. Last year the Raiders scored with less than a minute left in the game to down the Aggies 20-16.

BOTH TEAMS go into tonight's contest with problems. Tech's come in the form of injuries and A&M's in the form of a winless season.

Defensive guard Marc Bryant is definitely out for tonight's game and did not make the trip to Aggieland. Safety

Guy Griffis is still hampered by injuries and it is doubtful that he will see much action. Both defensive starting guards Doug Young and Mickey Merritt have been hampered by bruises, suffered in the Texas game, and it is not known how much action can be expected from them.

COACH J T KING has announced that halfback Roger Freeman, who missed Tech's first two games because of injuries, will be ready for tonight's game.

Injuries are not the only problem facing Tech tonight. "We had a problem getting up for this game after last week's loss to Texas," said King. "When you get clobbered you can't get that game completely out of your mind. Everyone still seems to be thinking about the Texas game."

THE BIGGEST PROBLEM at A&M is that they have yet to finish on the big end of a game this season. They led a mighty Georgia Tech 3-0 for two quarters then saw the lights go out in the second half and fell victim to a 38-3 drubbing.

Last week they were outclassed by Tulane for a 21-13 loss.

A&M miscues was the outstanding factor in the Aggies' loss to Tulane. All three Tulane touchdowns were results of A&M fumbles, one on a punt return, another on a snapback for a punt and the third on a kickoff return.

THE AGGIES HAVE no injury problems and should be at full strength for the Raiders.

Whether the Aggie defense can stop the Tech offensive machine could be the determining factor in tonight's game. The Raiders are leading the conference in offense averaging 312.5 yards a game.

TECH QUARTERBACK John Scovell leads the league in total offense with 415 yards and is second in passing with 375 yards. Larry Gilbert leads in pass receptions with 13 for 212 yards. Halfback Mike Leinert is a double threat as a runner and pass receiver.

The Aggie defense gave up 450 yards to Georgia Tech but cut it down to 280 yards against Tulane. Highlighting A&M's defense are halfback Danny Westerfield, linebacker Robert Cortez, guard Ken Lamkin and end Grady Allen.

Tech starting line-up:

FOOTBALL PREDICTIONS

After the first week of predicting, it is becoming quite apparent that some of the so-called "experts" are in need of new crystal balls. Only Dark Lady and Star Gazer were close to having respectable percentages, each having .625. White Hope did finish the first week at .500 but the rest of the field is found to be lagging with a (there is no adjective in the English language to describe this percentage) .375. But this week everyone has an inside tip and the percentages should go soaring (they hope). On bended knee with bowed heads these football predictions are offered:

Teams	White Hope	Old Man from the Hill	Dark Lady	Gypsy	Star Gazer	Red Horse	Guessin' Go Go
Arkansas - TCU	.500	.375	.625	.375	.625	.375	.375
Texas Tech	Arkansas	Arkansas	Arkansas	Arkansas	Arkansas	TCU	Arkansas
SMU - Purdue	Texas Tech	Texas Tech	Texas Tech	Texas Tech	Texas Tech	Texas Tech	Texas Tech
Baylor - Washington St.	SMU	Purdue	Purdue	Purdue	Purdue	SMU	SMU
Rice - Tennessee	Baylor	Baylor	Baylor	Baylor	Baylor	Baylor	Baylor
Texas - Indiana	Tennessee	Rice	Tennessee	Tennessee	Tennessee	Rice	Tennessee
UCLA - Missouri	Texas	Texas	Indiana	Texas	Indiana	Texas	Texas

Koufax, Clemente for MVP?

NEW YORK (AP)—Who is the National League's Most Valuable Player?

Pittsburgh Manager Harry Walker insists it's Roberto Clemente. Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles, though, has made a strong bid, winning 26 games, including his important 2-1 decision over St. Louis Thursday night.

There seems to be a general feeling that pitchers are at a disadvantage in the balloting for the MVP award by baseball writers, the voters preferring instead to restrict the pitchers to the Cy Young Award.

However, Don Newcombe of the Brooklyn Dodgers captured the MVP and Young awards in 1956, the first year of the latter trophy. Koufax took both in 1963.

And the Dodgers' star southpaw has turned in a superior over-all performance this year than he did three seasons ago. He won 25 games, struck out 306 batsmen and had a 1.88 earned run average in 1963. His 26 victories in 1966 are augmented by 307 strikeouts and a 1.72 ERA.

Clemente, the veteran Pirates' outfielder, is having a great year, too. He has personal highs of 28 homers and 117 runs batted in, and although his .317 average is well below the mark that earned him the batting titles the past two years it is still fifth best in the NL.
