

Tech Invades SWC With Baylor Tilt

Vol. 32

Lubbock, Texas, Friday, September 28, 1956

No. 5

By BILLY ELLIS
Toreador Sportswriter

Texas Tech plays its first football game with a Southwest Conference member since it became a member last May 12 when the Raiders meet Baylor tomorrow afternoon in Waco.

No longer is Tech the "anxious outsider" as has been the case in previous meetings with Southwest Conference members. Tech is now "one of the family," in the SWC circle, and tomorrow's game, while it will not count in the official standings, will be the first of several in which the Raiders will play the part of the "frustrated child."

For Tech, although not having to give its all in order to gain recognition as it did in previous years, now must work even harder, in order to show the conference, and other interested onlookers that the conference's decision was not a bad one, and that Tech really belongs with the other "big boys" of the SWC.

In this light, Tech's task tomorrow is going to be doubly hard. The Raiders lack the depth that carried them through three straight Border championship seasons. Baylor, on the other hand, has put together what experts have termed their best team in years, and are destined to finish close to the top in conference play.

Tech Fights Odds

Several things, besides the comparative strength of the two teams, are against a Tech win in tomorrow's contest.

1. The site of the game will hurt the Raiders. Any team is expected to play better when it is playing at home, and when you make a change of climate like that Tech will be forced to do, you are naturally going to be hindered. The hot, muggy South Texas afternoon will be quite a change from the cool evening of last week's game.

2. A DeWitt Weaver-coached team has never beaten Baylor. Of all the teams his Raider elevens have encountered in his five-years-plus as head coach, Baylor is the only team the silver-haired mentor has not beaten.

In Weaver's first year (1951), Baylor beat the Raiders, 40-20 at Waco, and the following year Tech lost 21-10 in Lubbock.

3. Tech has never beaten Baylor in Waco. Through the years, Tech owns a 4-9-1 record against the Bears, but none of their four

Woody Herman To Play For Homecoming Dance

Woody Herman and his nationally-known "Fourth Herd" will be at Tech for the Homecoming Dance in the Lubbock Coliseum Nov. 3.

Tickets for $3 a couple for students and $4 for alumni will go on sale Monday in the Ex-Student's Association Office in the Administration Building and at the newsstand in the Tech Union.

In the last 25 years the Woody Herman name has been spotlighted in everything from vaudeville to television, in the United States and abroad. The 43-year old band leader has been playing the clarinet professionally since he was 13. He became a vaudeville star at nine, and was featured with a name band in his teens. He made his first recordings when he was only 20.

WOODY'S ON THE WAY—Signing formal papers to bring Woody Herman and his well-known "fourth herd" to Tech for the Homecoming Dance are L. C. Walker, executive secretary of the Ex-Students Association, and Bob Richards, chairman of the homecoming dance. Both were instrumental in arranging a big-name band for the annual celebration.

Nov. 3 will be from 8 to midnight, co-sponsored by the Ex-Student's Association and the Tech Union Program Council.

President Jones Dismisses Classes

Wednesday, Oct. 3, is to be a big day at Tech. Beginning at 10 a. m. in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum, we shall have the opportunity to see what Texas Tech is really like at an All-College Convocation. Everybody will be there, including students, faculty and staff, and all employees. Tech is literally to "close up and go."

"Classes at 10 and 11 p. m. will be dismissed. The student Union Building and all college offices will close."

"This therefore is an urgent invitation to every student of Texas Tech to be at the Convocation. You will be seated by classes according to the seating diagram of the Coliseum which will appear in Tuesday's issue of The Toreador."

"Only with the completion of a facility like the Coliseum has an 'all Tech meeting' of this kind become possible. It will be one of the events of your student days at Texas Tech which you will always remember!"

—Pres. E. N. Jones

TECH UNION SLATES THREE ACTIVITIES

Two movies, a "Hospitality Hour," and Jam Session are key attractions at the Union during the next several days.

"T. C. and his Jitterbops," a small band made up partly of Techsians, will be featured at Sunday's Jam Session at 4 p. m. in the Snack Bar area of the Union. "Students may bring their own instruments to play, or they can dance, or just listen," according to program director Nance Brown.

Monday night at 7 in the ballroom a free movie, "Gunfighter," starring Gregory Peck is scheduled.

A movie of the Tech vs. Baylor game with Coach E. F. Otterburn, Jr. narrating, will be shown at 6:30 Tuesday in the ballroom. Movies of all out-of-town games will be shown Tuesday nights following the game.

Tuesday from 9:30 until 11 a. m. will be "Hospitality Hour" for students and faculty in the lounge downstairs in the Union. Sponsors Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Pi Beta Phi will serve refreshments.

Foreign Students To Hold Meeting

Cosmopolitan Club will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Student Union ballroom lounge to elect officers for the fall semester.

Membership is not limited to foreign students and anyone may attend meetings.

Main aim of the organization is to promote understanding and friendship among students from all over the world. It holds meetings of general interest, socials, and sponsors an all-college international banquet.

Kindergarten Needs Two More Children

Two children, four or five years old, are needed to fill vacancies in the Tech kindergarten, announced Mrs. Floy Sides in the child development department.

Children of students or faculty members will be given first consideration and application may be made by contacting the child development department in the Home Economics Building. One boy and one girl are needed.

Kindergarten hours are from 2 to 4 p. m. Monday through Friday and tuition is $45 a semester.

"The program consists of activities which promote creative expression and growth in the mental, social and physical areas, which increases readiness for school," said Mrs. Sides.

The group is limited to 10 children in the age range of four-and-one-half to five and one-half years.

Student ID Cards To Be Distributed

Identification cards may be picked up in the Administration Building foyer early next week, probably Tuesday, Herald Photo announced today. Students who registered late will have to wait approximately two weeks to receive their ID cards.

"An estimated 7,500 photos have been made. "There is no deadline on having ID photos made," says Rollin Herald, manager, but there will be a charge for those made after the middle of October."

Parking Situation Improves

Tech's new parking regulations, and police force are paying off in added parking places and a decrease in parking and traffic violations, according to Officer S. E. Thomson, head of Tech's Security-Traffic department.

"I am very well pleased with the parking situation and the cooperation that we have been getting this year from students who have cars on the campus," said Thomson, adding that every person he had talked to had noticed that the parking and traffic situation as a whole has been greatly alleviated over conditions at this time last year.

So far, it has not been necessary to use the "tow-away" system at all, Thomson said, and students are not parking in forbidden zones to any great extent.

Most flagrant violation of parking rules is students parking in staff lots, and policemen believe as soon as students get used to the marking on the lots, and see that tickets are handed out for such violation, that the parking space problem will be very satisfactory over the entire campus.

Thomson reported that approximately 300 tickets had been issued to student and faculty cars in the first two days of strict enforcement. Many times that number of tickets were given out in the same period at the beginning of the 1955-56 school year.

Although the situation is much improved, officers of the campus have indicated that rigid enforcement of the rules on traffic and parking will be strictly enforced.

In addition to enforcing traffic and parking rules on campus, the new police force of eight men also provide around-the-clock protection and security for cars and buildings, a feature that is incorporated in campus law enforcement for the first time in the history of Tech.

Tech Band Plans To Present 'Texas Tech' Story At Baylor

"Tech All The Way," and "Beat Baylor," were the cheerful yells heard today as Tech's Matador Marching Band boarded buses to Waco for the Tech-Baylor game.

Using the theme of "Texas Tech," the band will have five formations on the half-time show. The Lamp of Knowledge formation will light the way for Tech's half-time activities followed by a graduation cap formation honoring Mortar Board and Tech's schools of learning. SWC will next appear on the field as a tribute to Tech's entrance into the Southwest Conference. The last two formations will honor Baylor and Tech by spelling out BAYLOR and a script TECH.

Wiley said the band would use the double front formation with a drum major at each end. Lee Boyd Montgomery and Don Grimes are drum majors. During football season the Tech band is primarily a marching unit, composed of approximately 115 performers. The band has an elaborate program of music and maneuvers which they present at all home games and this year at the Baylor game and the Texas A&M game. The band also plays at pep rallies and pep concerts.

Officers for the band this year are Scott Couch, president; Ken Briden, first vice president; Judy Milburn, second vice president; Gracie Wheeler, secretary, Jim Shipman, treasurer; Jim Edmondson, librarian, and Lee Boyd Montgomery, public relations.

A movie of the Baylor game, including halftime band maneuvers, will be shown Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. in the Tech Union ballroom.

KTTC 'Steam Pipe' Broadcasts Resume

Same station, same steam pipe! It's 655 on your radio dial.

Tech's radio station, KTTC, will resume broadcasts Monday with the latest in news and music from 5:30 to 12 midnight.

Reception in the dorms is much clearer if the radio is placed on the radiator, according to Dr. P. M. Larson, speech department head. The station operates on a limited power and impulses from the transmitter are grounded by the steam pipes, he explained.

Any student interested in working at the station should contact Leon Simpson or leave his name at the Department of Speech office. Positions are open for announcers, typists, record librarians or maintenance of equipment.

FISH BALLOT: ANY POODLES?

Here's to the hope that voter apathy won't reach the stage seen recently on the campus of the University of British Columbia.

A French poodle recently captured 405 votes and ran third in a campus election there. A student who wanted to point out the lack of clear thinking in elections entered the ballot under the name "Kiki Graham."

Could the same thing happen at Tech Tuesday in the election of the Freshman Council? Let's hope the answer from the 2,000 frosh is a resounding, "No!"

Strong leadership in the past has given the double T college the type of program needed to carry out its many worthwhile projects and activities.

The plea is for the freshmen, in their Tuesday balloting, to take their first big step in continuing improvement of that tradition by choosing capable, conscious and intelligent representatives.

Tech Press Club Sets Organization

Tech's Press Club, composed of students interested in journalism and newspaper work, will meet Wednesday for the first time this semester at 7 p.m. in room 204 of the Journalism Building.

Organization, including election of officers and scheduling early activities will be high on the agenda of the first meeting, according to Harold Creswell, club president.

It is not required that members be journalism majors, and every interested person on the Tech campus is invited to attend.

TECH VETS AGREE TO MEET THURSDAY

Meeting night for the Tech Vets Club was set for each Thursday at 8 p.m. at a meeting of about 120 members this week.

Any veteran at Tech is eligible for membership in the club and should contact any present member or attend the regular meetings to obtain membership.

The fee for membership is $2, which covers costs for parties, dances and get-togethers during the semester.

Regular meetings will be held in C-101. Last meeting business including introduction of officers and discussion of the club constitution.

PHI U TO MEET TUESDAY NIGHT

Phi Upsilon Omicron, honorary home economics fraternity, will meet for the first time this semester Tuesday at 7:15 p.m. in room 105 of the Home Economics Building.

President Marian Wilson said plans for fall programs will be made.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

"SHE'S IN ONE OF MY CLASSES - RATHER DISTRACTING ISN'T SHE?"

OUR ALL-COLLEGE COFFEE BREAK

Webster defines "convocation" as "assembly or gathering of persons convoked." And "convoked" means "to summon or call together."

This year—just as in years past—every member of the student body has been convoked. We are to meet in the Coliseum this year, however, instead of in the Gymnasium. We are hoping there will be another important difference in this year's meeting, too.

Some Tech students of the past have made their own definition of "convocation." They "gathered" and "assembled" all right, but instead of in the Gymnasium, it was in groups of three and four in coffee shops along the avenue. We're hoping there won't be any of that this year.

Classes will be dismissed for convocation, as usual, but instead of declaring it "all-college coffee break," let's make an all-out effort to carry out the central theme set for this year's convocation and get "mighty Tech under a single roof" for the first time in more than a decade.

In past years, it didn't matter if the crowd numbered in the hundreds instead of in the thousands. The Gymnasium wasn't big enough to hold everyone in the first place.

The coliseum has a capacity of 10,000 persons, and Tech's student body won't be crowded, even if every person attends. It will be a pretty pitiful sight if only the usual small portion of the students turns out for the excellent program that has been planned for the occasion.

It is no small task to assemble the entire population of Tech, and seating arrangements have been well planned. The task of the average student will be merely to transport himself to the Coliseum, and the main thing that needs remembering is that we can't have perfect attendance unless you are there.

—Ross Short

THE ETERNAL QUESTION... CLASS CUTTING?

Now is as good a time as any to examine the attitude of a certain campus policy concerning the eternal "cuts."

The system of discrimination against those who fail to attend classes seems slightly unfair.

The logic of some instructors is—"If a student isn't in class, he isn't interested, therefore not deserving of a higher grade."

Granted some students often fail to use good judgment in class attendance. If that happens they will automatically be punished by getting behind, missing important assignments and lectures and generally becoming the victim of insurmountable back work. The lesson: Don't cut class.

Of course, students should realize they cut classes, except in emergencies, at their own risk. It isn't fair to instructors to waste valuable time trying to make up assignments when the student has no real good reason for missing class.

But the number of cuts in itself shouldn't be a foundation for determining grades. If a student is able to make excellent quiz grades, keep abreast of his assignments, and still take an occasional "breather" there shouldn't be any penalty.

The idea should be to encourage new students to judge how much effort is needed to gain maximum benefit from their college courses. But after they become upperclassmen, a freer rein—even to the point of judging their own ability to do the work and still cut class—should be given.

—Floyd Wood

Techsans Invited To Coffee At Baylor

The Athenian Club of Baylor University has extended an invitation to all Tech students planning to be in Waco Saturday to attend a coffee.

The coffee will be held from 11:30 a.m. until 1 p.m. in the Baylor Student Union Building.

Lucy Hawes, corresponding secretary of the organization, sent the invitation.

Baylor Has Struck

Baylor has a 6-game streak with the Raiders. Tech actually leading in the series the mid 40's, 4 wins to 1. Then the drought hit. Proving the series has been constant and cold streak for the Raiders is the fact that 3 of their wins came in successive years, 1932 by 14-2, 1933 by 13-0 and 1934 by 14-7. Tech's last drive Baylor came in the game, 19-6.

Captain Sam Boyd, a Baylor in his first year as head coach, warned his team that last year's series meant, absolutely no "Tech" was probably looking ahead. Boyd was quoted as saying his squad, "Boyd was pleased with the overall showing in the Bears, and he wanted to have his boys 'poisoned' by Tech."

Raiders Buckle Down

Tech, meanwhile, has buckled down to some hard work. Especially under close observation this week has been the Raider game, which was a notable flop in the season opening week. The Tech backs were not complete only 2 passes, or a total of 20 throws.

The Raiders will definitely prove their passing attack, such chunkers as Don Williams, Buddy Hill, and receivers Ben Yakey, Bobby Young and Earlfield, who had been

Howard Cops Guard Post

TOP GUARD—Ray Howard, returning to the Red Raider squad after a stretch of armed service duty, is scheduled to take over the starting guard position in the Tech-Baylor tilt Saturday. He won All-Border Conference honors twice before entering the service and contributed valuable power to the Tech eleven in the 1954 Gator bowl game.

Ray Howard, an ex-serviceman, was starting guard in the Raiders' 35-13 win over Auburn in the 1954 Gator Bowl and has now forged his way back to this status on the basis of recent workouts and his showing against Texas Western last week.

Howard, a former Childress griddier, intercepted a Miner pass in the final quarter Saturday night, and ran it back 37 yards, almost going all the way for a TD, which could have been the winning marker.

Playing for the mighty Fort Hood team last year, Howard made "All-Fourth Army" and was selected third team "All Army." As a Red Raider, Howard twice made the all-Border Conference team and participated in Tech's only two bowl victories. (A 25-14 win over College of the Pacific in the '52 Sun, and the Gator win).

Howard was first known as the griddier who ran into an auto and came off the winner. During pre-season workouts as a freshman in '51, Howard and an auto came into contact. He suffered concussion, but the car still had a bashed-in door when Howard made his first start of the '51 season in Tech's 33-19 win over Texas Christian.

Howard is majoring in history and minoring in government.

With both of last year's starters, all-conference Doug Campbell, whom Ray is replacing in the starting lineup tomorrow, and all-conference Hal Broadfoot, returning to compete with Howard for starting berths, the prospects at that spot could cheer Coach DeWitt Weaver, a guard himself for Tennessee in the mid-30's.

PING-PONG TOURNEY SLATED IN OCTOBER

Sign-ups will be held Monday through Wednesday at the newsstand in Tech Union for a ping pong tournament to be held late in October on the Tech campus, according to Miss Nancie Brown, Tech Union program director.

Miss Brown also revealed that bridge instructions are given free of charge each Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Room B of Tech Union.

Humble Oil and Refining Company has been granted exclusive privilege to broadcast all Tech games on the road. The company is responsible for the regional telecast of the Tech-Baylor clash.

Frosh Grid Team Battles Tyler Apaches

Texas Tech's freshmen footballers are in Tyler today for a game with the Tyler Junior College Apaches.

The Picadors of Coach Tom Hamm are making their second start of the season. The freshmen crew, with less than a week's work, lost to San Angelo Junior College 27-0 last Friday in San Angelo.

The Tech first-year men, who had hardly had a chance to get acquainted with each other due to freshman orientation operations, held the polished Rams to a 7-0 halftime lead, but San Angelo wrapped the game up in the latter portion of the game, scoring three more touchdowns.

Hamm praised his team for its all-out hustle, and was especially pleased with the showing of full-back Jimmy Allison of Amarillo. The 190-pounder was never thrown for a loss, gaining 48 yards on 10 carries, almost one-half of his team's total offense.

"The boys went out to win the game," said Hamm, "and would have, too, if they had had a little more fundamental work. They were just not used to playing together."

Hamm expects Tyler JC to have a team "at least equal in strength" to San Angelo's, although Tyler will be running a Split-T offense that his boys will be familiar with.

Two of the Tech frosh making the trip will be playing in familiar surroundings. They are Joe Leggett, first string left halfback, and Joe Talkington, reserve quarterback, both of Tyler.

Leggett had a recurrence of an old injury in last week's game, and might not be able to start today. Allison also had a pulled leg muscle in the San Angelo game, causing the Tech trainers to work hard to keep the Picadors' backfield intact.

Raiders Invade Baylor Territory...

Baylor Has Streak
Baylor has a 6-game winning streak with the Raiders. Tech was usually leading in the series in the mid 40's, 4 wins to 3, but in the drought hit. Proving that series has been constant "hot 1 cold" streak for the two teams is the fact that 3 of Tech's 11 wins came in successive years, 1932 by 14-2, 1933 by 13-0, 1934 by 14-7. Tech's last win over Baylor came in the 1946 game, 13-6.

Coach Sam Boyd, a Baylor ex, has his first year as head coach, coached his team that last week's res meant absolutely nothing, which was probably looking ahead," Boyd was quoted as telling his squad. Boyd was dissatisfied with the overall showing during in by his Bears, promising to have his boys "poished up" by Tech.

Raiders Buckle Down
Tech, meanwhile, has been buckling down to some hard work, especially under close observation this week has been the Raiders' losing game, which was a miserable flop in the season opener last week. The Tech backs were able to complete only 2 passes, out of total of 20 thrown.

The Raiders will definitely improve their passing attack, with "ch chunkers" as Don Williams and Buddy Hill, and receivers like Y Vakey, Bobby Young and Pat Hartsfield, who had been clicking all along in practice. Baylor, however, will be set for the Raiders' aerial display after last week's experience with California. Cal's passers hit 17 out of 25, causing Baylor to give pass defense more attention.

Tech Lineup Changes
Tech's starting lineup has undergone a slight change this week. Right halfback slot has been taken over by Hugh Fewin of Burkburnett, from M. C. Northam of Littlefield. Right guard is now in the hands of Ray Howard of Childress, a senior who has won 3 letters. He took the job away from Doug Campbell, senior from Pine Bluff, Ark., all-Border Conference last year, winner of 2 letters at Tech. Lubbock's Bobby Young, 2-year senior letterman is still running ahead of Pat Hartsfield, junior 2 letter-winner at the right end position. The rest of the line-up for tomorrow's game reads:

'57 Grads To File Information Forms

Seniors who will receive their degrees in 1957 are requested to fill out Personnel Information Forms and file them with the Placement Service during the period from Oct. 8 to 10. Graduates for '57 may secure these forms from their academic deans or from the Placement Service office. Filing of this form is a requirement for graduation. Seniors wishing printed personnel sheets should fill out the request at once and pay $6.50 at the cashier's window at once. Purchase of the leaflets is optional. Filing of two glossy print photographs, approximately 2" x 3" to accompany the Personnel Information Form is a requirement for graduation; however the deadline for the photos will be a much later date.

Tech Prof. Studies Bats In Tech Belfry

If bats inhabit the two belfries atop Texas Tech's Administration Building, they probably have bands on their wings—especially if Dr. R. W. Strandtmann has found out about them.

Dr. Strandtmann, Tech biology professor, is currently doing research on bats in the South Plains and Panhandle. By banding the wings, he can study their migration habits and determine the seriousness of rabies cases among bat colonies.

Working under a grant from the National Institute of Health, Dr. Strandtmann and his research associate, Ted Tibbetts, began their project by capturing a dozen bats in crevices near Justiceburg. After the bats were examined they were banded and released at Lubbock.

A few days later, when Tibbetts returned to Justiceburg, about 50 miles south of Lubbock, he discovered one of the banded bats had returned to the same crevice from which it had originally been taken.

Others of the first bats have not been discovered yet. Dr. Strandtmann asks that anyone finding banded bats contact him at the Tech biology department.

Dr. Strandtmann first became interested in a study of area bats as the result of a thesis done by a graduate student, David Jameson. This is the only known research of this nature ever done in the South Plains-Panhandle area.

In addition to banding the bats, Dr. Strandtmann and Tibbetts record their apparent ages and check them for parasites. Some of the parasites discovered have been mites, ticks, fleas, and an insect similar to the bed bug.

Although nothing definite has been established as to the bat life span, it is believed to be five to six years. Ages are determined according to color—the young bats being dark, the older one pale in color.

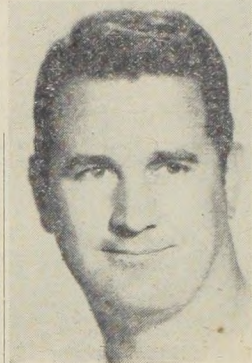

Reports on findings will be sent to the National Institute of Health over the next three years, the period covering the grant. The project is being done in cooperation with the Tech Office of Research under the auspices of Dr. Sylvan Kaplan.

Picador Coach Was College Guard

Tom Hamm, freshman coach, in his first full year as a Tech coach, came to Tech from a coaching job at Enid, Okla. He had previously coached at Vicksburg, Miss., High School.

Hamm played guard at Mississippi State in 1948, and at Tulsa from 1950-52, making all-Missouri Conference in 1952. His teammates voted Hamm the outstanding blocking and tackling lineman.

He played his high school football at Corinth, Mississippi. Assisting Hamm is Eural Ramsey, Tech-ex doing graduate work.

Intramural Sports Need More Officials

Officials are needed for the approaching intramural to football season and other intramural sports of the year. All interested persons should contact Director of Intramurals, Edsel Buchanan at the Tech gym as soon as possible.

Buchanan said officials will be paid for all work, and a large number of positions need to be filled immediately.
