But no charges filed yet

Suspect held in murder case

Lubbock police are holding one suspect in the murder of Tech senior Gary Owens, but no charges had been filed late Friday night because of "insufficient evidence."

Lubbock Police Chief J. T. Alley called a news conference Friday morning, with the intention of announcing that charges had been filed against the suspect, a 26-year-old Negro man.

HOWEVER, SHORTLY before the conference, Dist. Atty. Alton Griffin informed Chief Alley that the evidence presented to his office was "considered insufficient to file a complaint in the case at this time."

Chief Alley said the suspect was apprehended Thursday night in his Lubbock home by officers who were executing a search warrant involving an earlier robbery.

During their search, officers found a blood-stained shirt with a metal button missing from one sleeve. Chief Alley said a button similar to others on the shirt was found near Owens' body last week.

"I thought we had enough evidence to file charges," Chief Alley said, "but the district attorney thinks it isn't quite enough yet." He said the police still have several leads and scraps of information to investigate, and "we are going to continue work on this case until we find the person responsible."

CHIEF ALLEY added that the suspect now in custody can't even be questioned about the murder because of qualifications in the state criminal code. "As the law is now, a person must be charged and taken before a magistrate to be informed of his rights before we can even talk to him about a specific case," he said.

Owens, 22, of San Angelo, was found unconscious Dec. 30 in the office of the Holiday Inn South where he worked as a night clerk. Officers said Owens was severely beaten about the head and was apparently the victim of a robbery. Only $50 was missing from the office.

The senior psychology major never regained consciousness and died Tuesday.

SHORTLY AFTER the robbery, Lubbock businessmen and others began a fund to provide a reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible.

More than $3,000 has been contributed so far, and police officials said "quite a few" callers had already phoned in information.

"We don't yet know how much of the information we can use," Chief Alley said, "but we are not overlooking anything."

The telephone number for persons to call in information is PO2-2202.

Getz, The Pair to perform at 8 p. m. in Auditorium

Stan Getz, the most popular saxophonist in the history of jazz, and the Pair Extraordinaire, an unusual blending of a bass and a vocalist, will put jazz at its best into the spotlight tonight at the Municipal Auditorium.

Getz is well known to most jazz lovers and practically everybody else

And no phone bill?

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Through a freak in radio reception, Air Force Capt. Richard L. Bowers got to talk to his wife in Lincoln, Neb., while he was flying a mission in Vietnam recently.

Allen G. Bowers, a retired Navy commander from Overland Park, Kan., a Kansas City suburb, said his son was returning to Saigon from a photo mission over North Vietnam when he made a freak radio contact with Hamilton Air Force Base, San Francisco.

Hamilton men quickly got Mrs. Bowers on the telephone at Lincoln and patched up a radio-telephone conversation.

It was the first time Mrs. Bowers had talked to her husband since he went to Vietnam in August.

Ruby buried in quiet rite

CHICAGO (AP)—The body of Jack Ruby was lowered into a grave Friday before a small group of mourners. It was in sharp contrast to the notoriety that surrounded Ruby as the self-appointed avenger of a martyred president.

At funeral services in a Northwest Side chapel, Rabbi David Graubert termed Ruby "a misguided patriot."

Newsmen, photographers and the public were barred from services in the funeral chapel and the cemetery. But a crowd of curiosity seekers—about 30 women, 15 men and 3 children—gaped at the graveside rites from outside a high wire fence.

Ruby was awaiting another trial on the charge when it was discovered he was suffering from cancer. He died Tuesday in Dallas.

Cost estimates soar; 7 cars struck by pole

By DAVID SNYDER
Editor

Winds of near-hurricane force brought one of the worst sandstorms in years to the South Plains Friday morning, toppling three Jones Stadium light towers, one of which crumpled seven cars as it crashed to the ground. No one was injured.

Clocked at a maximum of 68 miles per hour at Lubbock Municipal Airport and at 72 m.p.h. on other portions of the Plains, the wind and sand hit Tech at about 9:30 a.m. Visibility soon dropped to less than 200 yards. By 1:30 p.m. the campus had again cleared, leaving only a gigantic cleaning job for the custodial staff.

Only one of the damaged cars was occupied. Richard R. Mitchell of 2902 Third Place, Apt. C-8, was trying to leave the off-campus parking lot east of Jones Stadium, but couldn't get out in time.

"I turned around and watched it come down. There wasn't much else I could do because my exit was blocked by several parked cars. At first I didn't think it would hit me, but it was coming down pretty fast."

THE TOWER ITSELF did not hit Mitchell's car, but several of the 48 light fixtures came loose from the top of the pole to hit it. One shattered his front windshield, while others pounded the back fender and trunk. Damage to his car was estimated at $670.

Witnesses said several other cars were leaving the lot as the tower toppled, but that none were hit.

Only minimal damage was reported on other parts of the campus, although the infirmary reported a few instances in which people were "blown down and scratched up."

Several plate glass windows were broken in downtown Lubbock, and other minor damage was reported at some buildings. Some power lines were temporarily down. Traffic at Municipal Airport was disrupted for about three hours.

The 159-foot light towers, bolted at the bottom to stadium supports, imbedded in several feet of cement and also secured to the top of the stadium, were supposedly built to withstand winds of up to 100 m.p.h. when they were installed seven years ago. But still the three towers, all located on the east side of the stadium, snapped off at their bases. Six towers are on each side of the stadium.

THE FIRST TO FALL was in the center two-bank tower, toppling at about 9:50 a.m. Next the second tower of the center bank tilted about 40 degrees, but it was about an hour before it finally fell to the ground.

The tower which smashed the cars, located in the south bank, fell at about 10:40 a.m. In the meantime athletic officials had considered guying the towers to winch trucks, but eventually abandoned the idea.

Athletic Director Polk Robison surmised that the towers fell because the wind, coming out of the west, directly hit the light fixtures on top of the towers. Wind storms usually come out of the north or northwest and hit the reflectors from an angle, creating less stress on the towers than there was Friday.

Damage was estimated at $31,500, based on the construction costs of seven years ago. However, this does not include the cost of new lights, transformers and wiring. Together with rising construction costs, this could push the replacement figure to about $50,000. The stadium itself was not damaged.

ALSO, EACH remaining tower will have to be checked and the foundations will have to be x-rayed for cracks. An estimate of this cost was not immediately available.

Damage figures on the cars, other than Mitchell's, were not available. It was estimated that at least three were totally destroyed.

The money to replace the lights will have to come from the athletic department's reserve fund which had been earmarked for a new fieldhouse.

The towers were not covered by insurance. Tech has a $100,000 deductible policy covering all its auxiliary enterprises, but in Jones Stadium only the press box and athletic offices are included.

Tech officials were uncertain as to whether the university is liable for damage to the cars, but Vice President for Business Affairs Marshall Pennington said Friday afternoon that he assumed Tech is "precluded on paying any damages until due process has been taken." He said however, that the state attorney general may have to be contacted for a legal ruling on the matter.

"DUE PROCESS" would mean that the complainant would have to file a suit against the State of Texas following approval of such action by the legislature.

Pennington said he was basing his opinion on the fact that in the past state auditors have told Tech that it can't pay damages in accidents in which university-owned vehicles are at fault.

Owners of the damaged cars were listed as Sidney Gregory, 1802 5th St. Apt. 113; Kay Weaver, 1710 9th St. Apt. 2; David Bessire, 4101A 17th St.; Karl Clifford, 304C Sherman St.; James M. Metzger, 3419 59th St.; and Mitchell. The owner of the seventh car, a Volkswagen, was not known late Friday.

Absentee voting ends in precinct election

Voting in the "wet-dry" local option election in Precinct 2 dried up slowly Friday with only 13 votes in the bottom of the ballot box by late afternoon.

A gritty "norther" which hit the area at mid-morning may have been partly to blame, said a spokesman for the County Clerk's office.

Friday's voting brought to 382 the number of absentee ballots cast in the election set for Jan. 14 to determine whether the precinct will ban or reapprove the sale of liquor for off-premises consumption.

Public sales of liquor in Lubbock County's only "wet" area could halt on Feb. 18 if the precinct votes "dry."

Most of the absentee ballots—295—had been cast in a special polling place set up in Slaton as a convenience to voters. The balance was filed with the County Clerk.

Opened near the end of December, the Slaton box was closed Thursday afternoon by sheriff's deputies who removed all balloting material.

Closing of the box came at the order of County Judge Rod Shaw. The judge issued the order amid charges that members of both the "wet" and "dry" groups exerted "undue pressure" on voters near the polling place.

In addition, County Atty. Fred West said he had received telephone calls threatening personal violence from persons claiming alliance with "The Drys of Justice Precinct 2."

An agent of the Texas Liquor Control Board said Friday that if "dry" forces win the Jan. 14 election, the County Commissioner's Court would have five days in which to canvass the vote and certify the legality of the election. The score of liquor dealers in Precinct 2 would then have 30 days in which to sell their stock to consumers.

At the end of that period, the stores would be closed to the public, but dealers would be given another 30 days in which to dispose of their remaining stock to licensed distributors or wholesalers.

Voting to date in Precinct 2 accounts for 13 per cent of the 2,897 votes in the area. The precinct went "wet" in 1960 by a vote of 1,260 to 1,054.

"Excalibur" is Treasure of Month at Tech Museum

"Excalibur," a work of art designed by James Houston, is the Treasure of the Month at the West Texas Museum on the Tech campus.

A miniature sterling silver broadsword, 8 inches long, is thrust into a solid block of cut crystal. The hilt of the sword is bound with 18 karat gold. The sword and the crystal symbolize one of the romantic episodes from the great cycle of Arthurian legend.

THE MOST REMARKABLE of Arthur's early adventures concerned his sword "Excalibur." The king was dead, and it was foretold that the new ruler would be the man who could pull "Excalibur" from the stone in which it had been embedded by Merlin, the wizard. Months passed and the greatest knights tried their strength, without success. When, however, young Arthur laid his hand on the miraculous sword, he easily drew it from the stone, and was thereupon proclaimed King of all England. The artist, James Houston, was born in Canada and studied painting and graphic arts there and in Paris and Tokyo.

MEMBERS OF THE TREASURE of the Month Committee of the Museum's Women's Council plan and execute the displays in the exhibit case. This month's display was supervised by Mrs. Floyce Masterson. The treasure is on loan from Neiman-Marcus Co., Dallas.

MERRILL EXHIBIT—Mrs. Mordema Bundy places a title card next to a painting by Ross Merrill. Oils and water colors will appear at the showing which is Merrill's first one-man show in his home state. The exhibit will run Sunday through Jan. 29.

First showing in state

Paintings of Ross Merrill to hang in Tech Museum

Techians will have the opportunity of viewing the paintings of Ross Merrill in Rotunda Art Gallery of the West Texas Museum Sunday through Jan. 29.

This is Merrill's first one-man showing of oils and watercolors in his home state. "In the paintings I have tried to give the essence, the feeling, of landscapes without resorting to abstract form," Merrill said.

"I want to give viewers the emotional element and yet show them what they are getting emotional about."

Many of the paintings show human involvement in landscapes. Here, Merrill says, he is trying to show the relationship of man and nature.

Merrill admits paintings mean different things to different people and that if one gets something out of a painting it is worthwhile. Still, he hates to see someone enjoy a painting only as a pretty picture, missing all the feeling and emotion that may be captured in it. Paintings are not fully appreciated if viewed as photographs, Merrill feels.

Merrill's works have won honors at many shows and have hung at the Fort Worth Art Center Museum and in the Texas Annual in Dallas.

Employed as registrar at the Fort Worth Art Center, Merrill is also an instructor in still life, landscapes, watercolor workshop and basic drawing.

Grants wait on approval of budget

The processing of research grants for the next school year is up in the air until the legislature decides how much money to award Texas Tech. Research projects to be financed by state appropriations have been turned in to the Graduate School, but they cannot be approved by the board of directors until it is known how much money can be allotted for research.

Student killed in collision

Glenn Allison Birdsong, a 22-year-old Tech student, was killed Dec. 31 in a head-on collision about seven miles north of Winsboro.

Birdsong, driving a late model Pontiac, collided with a U.S. Mail truck driven by Oscar McGee in a heavy fog on Highway 37, a little after 4:00 a.m. McGee was treated for minor injuries.

Dr. Fred Rigby, dean of Graduate School, said that the $714,000 was more than requested in the budget, so some of the requests will have to be refused.

Birdsong was born in Winsboro and attended Mount Vernon High School where he was active in football, Future Farmers of America, and the National Honor Society.

The proposals are now in the process of being organized in preferential order, with as many to be approved as can be financed.

Birdsong served three years in the United States Army and six months in Vietnam.

"But we can't do anything final until Gov. Connally approves the appropriations bill," said Dr. Rigby, "and that will be sometime this summer."

Birdsong is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Birdsong of the Cypress Community. He is survived by his parents; one sister, Mrs. E. M. Parnell; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Birdsong, of Mount Vernon, and Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Price, of the Pine Forest community.

JUDO LESSONS
The Y.M.C.A. is offering judo lessons to interested Tech students, male and female. Classes meet on Sunday and Wednesday from 6-8 p.m.

Funeral services were held Sunday, January 1, at the First Baptist Church in Mount Vernon with Rev. J. E. Whitt and Rev. Don Morris officiating.

DELTA PHI EPSILON
Delta Phi Epsilon, professional foreign service fraternity, will meet at 4 p.m. Sunday in the Blue Room of the Tech Union.

PROJECT VIET NAM
Any organization which has not contributed to Project Viet Nam and wishes to do so should call PO 3-4392 for pick-up. Donations are being boxed for shipment at this time.

Jan. 7—Stan Getz plus The Pair at 8 p.m. in the Auditorium.

Jan. 8—Movie: "The Americanization of Emily" at 3 and 7 p.m. in the Coronado Room.

Jan. 11—Noon Forum: Dr. Jtto Nelson speaking on "Germany: Yesterday and Today" at 12 p.m. in the Blue Room.

Orchestra directors from 25 junior and senior high schools will be on campus today to attend a materials workshop conducted by Tech's music department.

The workshop, according to Paul Ellsworth of the music staff, is being conducted for the first time this year. It is jointly sponsored by Tech and the Texas Music Educators Association.

Ellsworth and the Tech orchestra will perform requested selections from the list of contest material chosen for this year's Interscholastic League competition.

The workshop will be in the Music Building from 9 a.m. until noon and from 1:30 to 4 p.m. with a luncheon in the Union between sessions.

The participating TMEA members are from Region I, which includes schools from Amarillo to San Angelo.

There are presently 300 applications for space in women's halls and 200 men's, added Burgess.

Coeds like life in Nurses' Dorm

Grape and orange soda pop, and a bicycle to ride at leisure, are only two of the advantages Tech coeds living in the Methodist Hospital Nurses' Dorm feel they have.

The Methodist Hospital Nursing Dormitory, located at 2002 Miami, a block south of 19th Street, is about one mile west of the campus. Mrs. Harlan is the main dorm counselor.

THE DORM has a capacity of 120 women but at present there are only 32 nursing students and 35 Texas Tech coeds living there. The coeds were placed in the dorm because of lack of available housing on campus. The arrangements were made with the provision that the coeds would be moved on campus as soon as space became available.

There were 80 coeds at first but many girls have moved on campus as soon as rooms have become available.

"EVERYONE was dubious at first," a coed says, "I even called the Tech housing office every day to see if I had been given a room on the campus yet. Then I stopped calling and I realized that I really love living here."

The rooms themselves are quite similar to those in Clement, Hulen, Wall, and Gates Halls. There is more closet space and more mirrors.

There is a main lounge on the first floor with a large adjoining kitchen. The main lounge, besides having a fireplace and television, has stereo and tape recorder. A prayer room is on the first floor also.

THE MAIN LOUNGE opens to a patio and large fenced backyard with two barbecue pits, a place to set up a volleyball net and ping pong tables. Two bicycles for the use of the dorm residents are kept on the patio.

Besides a kitchen on each floor, there is a large main bathroom, a TV lounge, a sewing machine, and more soft drink and candy machines.

"THE RENT is only $30 per month without food," says Sonia Small, sophomore from Fort Worth, "so we have the option to cook or eat out."

There are extra dishes in each kitchen besides a stove, oven, and refrigerator. "We have no problems with anyone stealing food," says Sonia.

ANY GIRL can reserve the large kitchen off the main lounge for her own party if she wants. There is a set of silver including a silver punch bowl set for the dorm's use.

"We go by Tech rules," says Sonia, who serves as dorm president. "We have scholarship banquets based on mid-term grades. We had a Homecoming party here and we also decorated our doors for Christmas."

Instead of a weekly room check however, they only have one unannounced room check each semester. "The rooms must be really clean," says one coed.

PERHAPS ONE of the disadvantages is that there is only one line to phone into the dorm and four lines out. There are two pay telephones in the main entrance.

There is one phone per floor and phone calls are limited to five minutes. There are buzzers for each girl in the lobby. The buzzer pressed in the lobby is heard in the girl's room.

"One buzz is for the telephone, two means a long distance phone call downstairs, and three means a girl's date has arrived," says Mrs. Giles, one of the dorm counselors.

WHEN A BOY wants to pick up his date he can buzz her room himself. Two girls run the switchboard at night and on Sundays and a dorm counselor runs it during the day.

The distance of the dorm from the campus doesn't seem to pose much of a problem. "We can ride the city bus, but almost everyone rides in a car pool," says Sonia. "When you need to go to class, there is almost always someone in a car going to the campus."

Adrian Hawkins, freshman from Fort Worth, walks the two-mile round trip every day except when the weather is too terribly bad.

AS TO SHARING the dorm with student nurses, all the coeds confess they enjoy it. "We get to do things with them and they have functions with us," says Sonia. "I think the experience is beneficial to both groups."

The dorm has a special feature for parents. On the first floor there is a nice guest room that can be rented by a girl for her parents or other guests for two dollars a night. It has twin beds, a private bath, a large closet, and a roll-away bed.

"NOBODY wants to move," says Carole Korolevich, a freshman from Fort Worth. "It's just like having a Mom."

"We don't feel left out of campus activities at all," says Sonia. "We really get to do more things than coeds on campus because we have functions with the nurses."

UNCLAIMED CRUMPLE—The Traffic-Security office was still searching late Friday for the owner of this crushed Volkswagen, a victim of Friday's Jones Stadium down-

Viet government statement leaves peace talks in doubt

TOKYO (AP)—A North Vietnamese government statement Friday described Hanoi's hard-line demands as "A basis of ways to settle Vietnam problems," but left in doubt the Communists' attitude toward peace talks without conditions.

Vague hints from the Communist capital have quickened interest around the world in the possibility of a Hanoi contact with Washington. The United States waited for clarification of North Vietnamese statements, expressing hope for something positive.

THUS FAR, from the U.S. administration's viewpoint nothing concrete has been forthcoming from Hanoi to indicate whether an American decision to halt the bombing of North Vietnam would lead to a reciprocal gesture from that country's Communist regime.

The latest development in what appeared to be a guarded sounding by Hanoi was the broadcast by the Communists' official news agency, VNA, of an "authorized" statement describing Hanoi's four-point stand on Vietnam as a basis for settlement.

THE STATEMENT was preceded by complaints that some newspapers and broadcasts in "capitalist nations" had distorted remarks made Wednesday by Premier Pham Van Dong in an interview with a New York Times correspondent in Hanoi.

The broadcast gave no instance of distortion but said: "On this matter, the Vietnam News Agency has been authorized to make the following statement: The original text of what Premier Pham Van Dong told Harrison Salisbury was: 'The position of the four points of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam is a basis of ways to settle Vietnam problems.'"

SALISBURY, an assistant managing editor of the Times, had quoted the premier as saying the four points were no conditions for talks but rather a basis for settlement. This had aroused speculation abroad that North Vietnam had retreated in some degree from the all-or-nothing stand of the four points, which have been an obstacle to negotiations.

THE FOUR points are 1) recognition of the independence, sovereignty and unity of Vietnam and withdrawal of all U.S. forces and installations pending reunification of the country; 2) respect for the 1954 Geneva agreements under which the country was divided; 3) settlement of Vietnam's future by the Vietnamese without foreign interference and "in accordance with the program" of the National Liberation Front, the Communist Viet Cong's political arm, and 4) peaceful reunification without foreign interference.

After Dong's statement was published, Washington restated its position: it was prepared to talk without preconditions and to order cessation of bombing the moment Hanoi gave assurances publicly or secretly that there would be a corresponding North Vietnamese move to scale down hostilities.

IN VATICAN CITY, Pope Paul VI contributed to the wave of new speculation about possible peace moves by appealing to Red China to "talk peace."

He was speaking of religious peace, but some Vatican sources interpreted this as meaning virtually an offer of papal mediation in Vietnam.

since if Peking would open the door to discussions on religious matters the way would be clear to talk about Vietnam, too.

IN WASHINGTON'S view, there has been little encouragement coming from North Vietnam, which, for example, has been denouncing a variety of peace initiatives, including a recent one from Great Britain and another from Secretary-General U Thant of the United Nations.

Hanoi's latest statement left matters up in the air.

SECRETARY of State Dean Rusk said the United States is ready now to meet with Hanoi representatives either publicly or secretly to work out arrangements "for a just solution."

In a letter to a North Carolina student leader, made public Friday, Rusk said there would be no difficulty in having the Viet Cong's views represented, but he rejected the Communist demand that the National Liberation Front be the only spokesman for South Vietnam.

THIS IS a point upon which Communist statements appear to insist, as they also insist that any settlement be "in accordance with the program of the National Liberation Front."
