

Council Selects Lamb For New Vice-President

One Soph, Three Fish Members Chosen; Kirk To Publications Group
By GORDON HANNA
Student council elected Arch Lamb, senior agriculture student from Fort Worth, vice-president of the student association at a regular meeting Thursday night. Lamb will serve the remainder of this semester. He replaces Wayne Vaughn, senior engineer from Perryton, who resigned his position on the council several weeks ago.

The council also elected Claude Bateman of Henderson, sophomore representative to the council from the engineering division. Bateman succeeds Paul Jones of Goree who changed divisions at the beginning of the semester and by doing so relinquished his post.

Bateman was one of three students whom the nominating committee, consisting of the other engineers on the council, recommended.

Attending a council meeting for the first time Thursday night were three representatives from the freshman class. They are: Wayne Liles of Slaton, arts and sciences; Charles Butts of Wichita Falls, engineer, and Ruth Cowan of Spur, home economics. A freshman representative from the aggie division has not yet been selected.

The freshman class has only one seat on the council during the fall semester. That is the position of class president. In the spring the class are allowed divisional representatives the same as other classes.

James Huffman, student president, announced to the council that he had appointed Euster Kirk, junior engineer from Spearman, to fill a vacancy on the Publications committee left open by the resignation of Wayne Vaughn.

Taking up other business the council voted to recommend to Dean of Men James G. Allen that some action be taken to prevent bad checks to Lubbock business houses, thereby making difficult for an honest student to get a check cashed.

The group also voted to recommend that similar action be taken to prevent the selling of used books to the two bookstores by students other than the rightful owners.

Cooper Helps Organize FTA

Dr. L. B. Cooper, associate professor of education and psychology, has been chosen as co-organizer of a branch of the Future Teachers of America in Texas, along with M. E. Brown, assistant superintendent of El Paso schools.

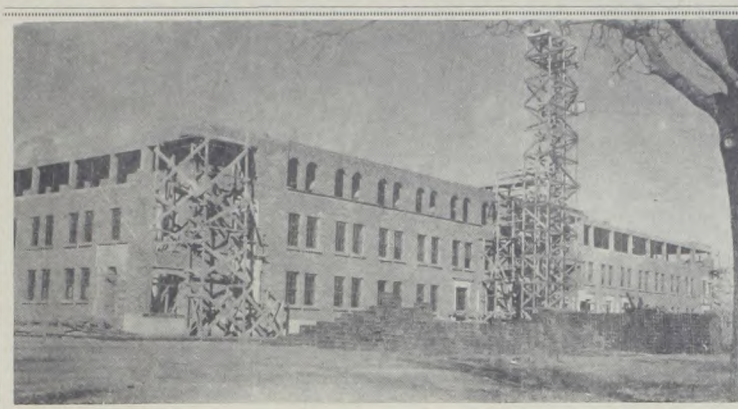

The organization is a nationwide movement that has just begun in celebration of the Horace Mann centennial, Cooper said, and is under the direction of Dr. Joy Elmer Morgan of Washington, D.C. The clubs will be composed of high school and college students who are interested in teaching.

The movement is already well established in several states, and it is hoped that at least 100 clubs will be organized in Texas before the year is over, Cooper said. Ten clubs are necessary before a charter can be procured for the Texas branch.

Knapp Hall You Say; Knapp Hall It Is

Knapp Hall Is Choice Of Vast Majority Voting On New Dormitory Name; 1457 Ballots Cast

Arbor Day Plans Near Completion

Program Features Trees, Politicians, Grads

A parade featuring candidates seeking offices in the coming publications election and a plan designed to bring Tech graduates from the first three or four classes to take part in the program, will be the sidelights of the second annual Arbor day to be held on the campus Feb. 22.

Deviating from last year's program, emphasis will be placed on foundation planting around campus buildings, according to O. B. Howell, plant industry professor in charge of arrangements. About 2000 trees and shrubs of 30 varieties will be set out, with only few replacements needed for plants failing to survive. Special attention will be given to the beautification of the dormitory grounds.

About 2000 trees and shrubs of 30 varieties will be set out, with only few replacements needed for plants failing to survive. Special attention will be given to the beautification of the dormitory grounds.

The plan has been originated for the early grads to take part in the tree planting, and they will try to identify the trees that they planted many years ago. The student candidates will be paraded over the campus in a wagon bearing signs bearing their names and indicating the offices which they wish to attain. According to Dean A. H. Leigh of the agricultural division, who is chairman of the program committee, the candidates will not be expected to make any speeches.

Featured among club ceremonies is a skit, "As You Like It," to be presented by dramatic units in the area designated as Forest of Arden. Biology club members will stock a pool in the botanical garden with gold fish.

Recapitulating last year's event, a chuck wagon will be hauled about the campus and doughnuts and coffee will be served to participants in the tree planting program. Doyle Settle, in charge of the refreshment committee, said Thursday that he had asked faculty members to pay for the provisions.

Forbis Leads SPQR Discussion

Dorothy Margaret Forbis lead a discussion on "The Influence of Latin Culture on our Modern Civilization and the Value of Classical Learning" at a regular meeting of the SPQR club Tuesday night.

Miss Forbis called on several members to elaborate on the subject and to discuss points emphasized in recent articles.

Betty McKay referred to "I Never Went to College," Elsie Harberer referred to "Recent Archaeological Discoveries in Italy," Ferrel-Tucker referred to "Byron and Shelley in Italy," Velma Smith referred to "The Augustan Age" from the New York Times, Gwen Gordon referred to "A Parent's Revolt" from the New York Herald-Tribune, Leon Blair drew references from "Friends, Romans" and "Blind Spots in Education."

To Address Forum

Dr. W. B. Gates will talk to Forum Sunday, February 26, at 2 o'clock in Doak hall lounge, on "Stratford on Avon."

At the last meeting of Forum Olga Ann Elliott was elected to take Floy Glenn's place as secretary of the organization.

Fresh Coed Honor Society Adopts Constitution

Freshman honor society for women met Friday, Feb. 17, at 5 o'clock to adopt the constitution that had been set up by a selected committee.

Further plans for the organization were discussed.

Gordon Is Second In Balloting; Selections Vary

Student opinion decrees that Knapp hall shall be the title of the new men's dormitory east of Horn hall. No uncertainty of undergraduate feeling remained after Saturday's student voters overwhelmingly chose to honor the late Tech president, Dr. Bradford Knapp.

Of a total 1457 ballots cast, 1053 listed the former president in first place. Nearest contender was Dr. James M. Gordon, dean of arts and sciences, who received 127 first place votes on the popular ballot.

President Clifford B. Jones was the only other nominee to receive over a hundred first place votes, with 101 to his credit. Most students listed him within third choice on the tickets.

Only 19 students voted the late President in fifth position. Popularity of Amos G. Carter, the Fort Worth publisher and first chairman of the college board of directors, was shown in the large vote he received in music brackets on the five-place ballot. President Franklin D. Roosevelt was remembered by students appreciative of the PWA loans which built the dormitories, following closely the four runners-up in the balloting.

The names placed on the ballot were the five most popular choices written in by students on blanks which appeared in last Saturday's Toreador. In last week's nominations the late Dr. Knapp showed a strong lead, which indicated the final outcome of the election. On See STUDENT, Page 4

Bids Opened For Dorm Equipment

W. T. Gaston, business manager of Texas Tech and secretary of the board of directors, and S. T. Cummings, purchasing agent, attended the opening of bids for equipment for the new men's dormitory held in Fort Worth yesterday.

Cummings attended the meeting held in the office of Wyatt C. Hedrick architect for the dormitory to assist in the tabulating of the bids. Gaston represented the board of directors.

They return to their offices this morning.

Dean Compiles Reports On Men Students

Two reports concerning men students who are working will be compiled this semester by Miss Levene Childers, secretary to the dean of men.

One list will indicate the number of students engaged in each type of work. This compilation will be finished in approximately three weeks, Miss Childers said.

Another record, which will be completed in about five weeks, will correlate grade point averages of employed students with number of working hours per week.

First Tech Board Meeting Was Colorful, Minutes Declare

Sweetwater for the first meeting were from Plainview, Lubbock, Colorado, Big Spring, San Angelo and Fort Worth.

Board members convened on the day set for a celebration of West Texas of passage of the bill creating Texas Technological college which was to be located west of the 98th meridian and north of the 29th parallel. People celebrated passage by the legislature and approval by Gov. Pat M. Neff of the bill.

Board members who were present for the meeting were: the late Mrs. C. F. Drane, Corsicana; C. W. Meadows, Waco; Jones, Spur; William P. Hobby, Beaumont; Robert A. Underwood, Plainview; Carter, Fort Worth; John W. Carpenter, Dallas; the late Dr. J. E. Nunn, Amarillo. The late Mrs. Charles

Wassermanns Start Monday

End Of Fight For Tests Appears Near At Hand

Monday sees the end of a year-long fight to obtain Wassermann tests for the nominal cost of $1 when facilities of the Lubbock sanitarium and the college medical office will be placed at the disposal of students seeking the blood tests.

Students not purchasing medical fees may obtain the test for $1 the same as any other, said Dr. M. C. Overton of the sanitarium.

Faculty Party To Honor Campus First Family

A faculty party honoring President and Mrs. Clifford B. Jones will be held in the livestock judging pavilion Feb. 22.

"We will play under the direction of the program committee, and eat, not a Mexican supper, but a typical Craddock meal," Prof. W. L. Stangel said.

Price of tickets is 60 cents which takes care of a supper and a few incidental expenses. The deadline for the buying of tickets is 5 p. m. Feb. 21.

Radio Play Honors Doctor

The second in a series of radio broadcasts of the "Salute to Pioneer" over the Texas State network will be a dramatization of Dr. B. C. Coleman, Colorado City, Texas. The broadcast originates over KFYO at 2:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The historical data was gathered by Prof. W. C. Holden, and the script was written by Richard Flowers, speech instructor.

Dr. Coleman was one of the best known doctors in West Texas. He began his career about 1884, and he was in active service for about fifty years. The incident dramatized in Sunday's broadcast is the one in which Dr. Coleman rode to Colorado City to help a cowboy who had broken his leg. This was one of the many incidents in which he assisted those who needed medical attention.

Tech students appearing on the program are: Eron Gafford, and Thompson, Lee Byrd, Lucien Upshaw, Joe Burson and Kathleen Webb.

Mowery Judges

Prof. R. C. Mowery will judge a 4-H and FFA livestock show at Seagraves Saturday.

Walker P. Todd, former Texas Tech student is in charge of the show.

Buskin Petitions Due

All those planning to try out for Sock and Buskin dramatic club this semester should file their applications in the speech office immediately. A formal letter of application should be brought to the office before securing an application blank.

Attention to the fact that the celebration was held on the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence by the Fathers of Texas. "Even as the adoption of the Declaration of Independence at old Washington on the Brazos signaled eternal freedom of Texas from the rule of Mexican militarists, so did the enactment into law of the bill creating Texas Technological college mark the Declaration of Independence of the producers of Texas from Eastern manufacturers," said the governor.

The governor also hailed the day when Texas mills would manufacture finished products from Texas material. "Texas Technological college can bring this about," Gov. Neff stated, "because students from the college will be able to master the textile arts."

Mozart Choir Begins Spring Artist Course

Twenty Boys Offer Classical Selections On Monday Program

Concert of the Mozart Boys' Choir of Vienna under the direction of Dr. Georg Gruber, Monday night at 8 o'clock at the High School auditorium, marks the beginning of the first artist course of the summer.

The 20 boys composing the choir range in age from 10 to 14 years. They tour in concert for 8 months of the year, and with them is a tutor to see that their school curriculum is not neglected. The boys have appeared in concert in Central Europe, England, South America and the United States, presenting operas such as Mozart's "Bastien and Bastienne," Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel" and a musical play based on Johann Strauss' "Tales from the Vienna Woods."

Three youthful soloists of this choir have gained the distinction of singing under Toscanini. They sang in the 1937 Festival at Salzburg, when the great maestro selected them for his performance of "The Magic Flute." The Mozart Boys' Choir is from the time-honored Haydn Basilica in Vienna, and is not to be confused with another organization of Wiener Sangeknaben, which is from the Hofburg Chapel. Return to the Choir to the United States inaugurates their first transatlantic tour.

Dr. Georg Gruber, conductor of the group, truly reflects the Viennese training he received from the State Academy of Music. In 1926 he was appointed conductor of the Haydn Basilica Choir. For seven years he conducted the Vienna Choir Boys and also the Vienna Male Choir of 500 voices. Later he was called to South America to conduct the Bach-Mozart Festival at the Colon Theatre in Buenos Aires and directed orchestral concerts in Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo.

These youths present a choice selection of 18th and 17th century church music and delightful operetta given in costume with English dialogue, and favorite European folk-songs.

Program includes "Innsbruck, I must leave you," "Three Little Folk-Songs," collected by Peter Folk about 1590; "Good now you must wander," a song about the Battle of the Marston; "She Remembers a Net," a "Morning Song," arranged by Franz Schubert; "The Part II" includes an operetta, "The Deceived Cad," by Christoph von Gluck, arranged by Dr. George Gruber; Part III includes a group of German, Austrian, Caribian and Bavarian folk songs.

Political Wars Get Up Steam For Final Week

Candidates Speak, Post Signs As Election Nears; Places Drawn

Candidates for publications offices enter the final week of campaigning under forced draft as speeches, placards and handshakes dominate the political scene.

Plans for the coming week include a parade for all office-seekers in connection with Arbor day ceremonies Wednesday following a formal introduction of aspirants between halves of the Tech-New Mexico Aggie basketball game in the gymnasium Tuesday night.

At last Thursday's Student Council meeting candidates drew for position on the ballot upon which students will vote next Thursday, Feb. 23.

The names will appear in the following order:
TOREADOR EDITOR
Ernest Joiner
Gordon Hanna
TOREADOR BUSINESS MANAGER
Elvira Smith
Eugene Whitt
LA VENTANA EDITOR
Mary Beth Tomlinson
Freddy Boswell
LA VENTANA BUSINESS MANAGER
Wayne W. Smith
Troy (Chop-Chop) Pickens
John Blackwell

The election will be supervised by Student Council and faculty members. Boxes will be placed in the four main buildings and the polls will be open between the hours of 8 and 5 o'clock Thursday.

Winning candidates will replace Reeves Henly and Johnny Wells, TOREADOR editor and business manager, and Tom Coker and A. Frank Fisher, editor and business manager of LA VENTANA, at the beginning of the fall semester this year.

Slaton Exes Form Club

Johns, Chamber Manager, Originates Idea

Meeting Monday night in Slaton some 49 ex-students of Texas Technological college will form a Tech Ex-Students and Alumni organization for the purpose of keeping up old school relationships and acquaintanceships.

The idea of such an organization was first presented by Raymond Lee Johns, manager of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce and erstwhile associate editor of the Toreador. Joe Webb, superintendent of Slaton schools, also Tech student, and John J. the unsan is ass.

Prom Committees To Meet Monday

March 24 Set As Date For Annual Ball

Junior Prom planning committees meet Monday for a report on activities to class officers and instructors were elected by Wicks upon administration 220, said President Clark Wicks.

Friday, March 24, is set for the Prom date, Wicks said, unless a change is made within the next few days. This date immediately follows mid-semester grade reports.

In charge of nominating candidates for Junior Queen is the committee: Dolores Haseloff, Dallas, Chairman; Jerry Jordan, Blackwell; Billy Schumpert, Portales, N. M.; Johnny Hatchett, Harlingen. These officers were elected by Wicks upon recommendation by the class in a meeting Monday afternoon. Junior Queen will be selected by preferential ballot in a Student Council-sponsored election open to juniors only.

Other Prom committee members, who will make business arrangements for an orchestra are Slyvan Pederson, Clifton; Chairman; Bryan Williams, Post; and Billy Schumpert.

Class colors of blue and white were selected Monday during a class discussion of decoration possibilities for the gymnasium, traditional scene of the annual Senior-Junior dance.

In charge of the decorations will be Lois Marie Daniel, Post; Chairman; Loyce Turner, Floydada; Anne Buckley, Fort Worth; Ina Marie Bacon, Lubbock.

Invitations will be dealt with according to the method practiced last year, President Wicks said. Requirement is that one member of each couple be a Junior or Senior. Admission price has not been set for Juniors.

Comprising the advertising committee are Elmer Wall, Knox City; Jo Marie Carmack, Clovis; Betsy Reeves, Munday.

Proposal by Prexy Wicks was to attempt to hire the band coming here this spring to play for the Prom, but he explained this may not be practical. Band arrangements will be discussed during committee reports Monday afternoon.

Night Extension Classes Offered

Extension classes have been offered on the campus under the instruction of Dr. A. W. Evans, head department of education and psychology, and Dr. W. C. Holden, head department of history and anthropology.

Dr. Evans is teaching a course in extra-curricular activities, and Dr. Holden a course in the history of West Texas.

Dr. L. B. Cooper, professor of education and psychology, has begun a course for teachers of Dawson and Lynn counties at Lamesa in the use of educational motion pictures and George Smallwood, professor of English, is directing a course in current American drama at Muleshoe.

The education courses offer credit toward an administration certificate, either elementary or high school, depending on problems worked by the student. Junior standing is necessary if the student takes the courses for credit, but anyone interested may enroll without receiving credit.

Aggies Sponsor Judging Contests

The agricultural division of Texas Technological college will conduct its 14th annual judging contests for high school students Feb. 25, and April 1.

Dairy cattle, dairy products, meats, and cotton contests will be held Feb. 25, and livestock, poultry, crops, and farm shop contests on the latter date.

Approximately 500 students are expected to attend each meet, Prof. R. L. Chappelle said.

The college has conducted the contest every year since it opened.

"The contests will be divided into parts this year for the first time, because they have grown to such an extent that it is difficult to conduct all in one day, Chappelle reported. Also, officials wanted to schedule the meats and dairy products contests before the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show in Fort Worth in March.

THE TOREADOR

The TOREADOR, student newspaper of Texas Technological College, is published every Wednesday and Saturday on the campus of Texas Technological College at Lubbock by students of the Journalism department.

Unfair Tactics

In every campus political campaign there is to be expected a certain amount of mud slinging, but an even more serious evil has entered into the present race. Yes, it is true that the same situation has existed previously, yet it is one which is unspportsmanlike, dishonest and cannot be condoned in any fashion. It is that practice of tearing down placards of candidates seeking office.

Candidates are forced to spend a certain amount of money on their races in order to get their names better fixed before the student voters. This money has usually been come by the hard way, for few college students can well afford to turn loose any sizeable amount of money. When they make an investment in placards they hope to see some good come of it.

Yet when placards are torn down, the candidate loses not only his money but the possibility of gaining votes as well. Usually he cannot afford to have additional posters printed with which to replace those that have been lost. He rightly feels that he has been wronged.

THE TOREADOR accuses none of the candidates, for most can appreciate the feelings of his opponents sufficiently to realize that such a practice is unfair. Moreover, placards of every person in the races have been removed from the spot where they were originally placed. It is possible that this is due to overzealous supporters of an individual. Regardless who is responsible, it is a situation that should be stamped out post haste.

Part of the difficulty may rest with the candidates themselves. Certain areas, such as doors and private bulletin boards, are restricted from the tacking of posters. Care should be exercised in placing the placards. If this be done, there can be no legitimate excuse for anyone hurting the chances of any candidate.

Need Of Sharpening

OFTEENTIMES there are many needs which are too small to be noticed by college officials yet have a vital importance to students. One of these was called to our attention the other day by a student and seems of sufficient import to warrant passing it along. This is the need of pencil sharpeners situated at positions about the buildings where they will be available to all.

At present it is necessary for students desiring to sharpen pencils to obtain admission to some office where a sharpener is located. However, not all offices possess such instruments, and office hours are so irregular that it is sometimes hard to find one.

To avoid embarrassment and one which is open to professors, the placement for both students and every building a most logical plan seems to every building sharpeners in the halls of twelve buildings. The expense would be relatively small, but the advantage to all would be great. Certainly it is worth investigation by college authorities.

Our Open Door Policy

WHEN contractors built the Library building they, as you might expect, followed the architect's plans pretty carefully and when the structure was turned over to the college as a finished product, there was a double door at the east end.

At least the portal had the appearance of being a double door as in most of the other campus buildings. But time leads us to believe that the aforementioned appearance is for beauty only, because only half of the space has ever been opened, despite the fact that a great number of students crowd to pass through the opening at the end of every hour.

There is truly a great need for a double door at the east end of the Library, particularly at this time of year. For that opening catches the majority of students going both in and out of the building either to the basement or first floor.

If the weather were warm and still with the sun shining most of the time the period that a person would have to wait before he could crowd inside the structure might be very pleasant. But this is early spring in West Texas. Very little time spent on the outside can be called pleasant. Few persons enjoy braving a strong wind or having sand ground into their eyes.

So if there is a wider opening into the Library on the east end, and we are lead to suspect that there is another door, by the almighty let it be opened. Such things are bad enough at best.

Give Him Support

RECOMMENDATION by Representative George Mahon to the Civil Aeronautics authority this week that Tech be selected as a site for a student aviation school is to be greatly commended.

Attention has already been called to the advantage of such a course here by Tech students interested in the subject, but official cognizance of the college as a possible location for a training school is of unlimited value.

President Jones ably summed up the adaptability of Tech to an aviation project when he stated that here is ample space and facilities for such training. He added that the location of a field at Tech would prove of value in army flight principles.

Interest in aviation at Tech has always been keen. Many students have taken private lessons on their own initiative; many have gone from Tech to government flying fields and gained high honors in the service. The engineering training already offered makes wonderfully for a better understanding of flight principles.

A government student flying school at Tech would serve to draw many students who otherwise might go out of the state or to other schools where such training is available. It would increase the many forms of education now being offered. It would bring wider recognition for the college.

It would be altogether fitting for the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, college authorities and service organizations to prepare briefs for the national authority to show the suitability of Lubbock as a possible site for a training school. Representative Mahon has taken the initial action, but he cannot carry the burden alone. Every ounce of support will help.

Another Vacancy

FOR the fourth time during the tenure of office, President Roosevelt has received the opportunity to place a man of his own appointment on the Supreme Court bench. The most recent vacancy occurred with the resignation of Associate Justice Louis D. Brandeis this week.

Brandeis, 82, exercised his prerogative under the court act of 1937 to retire after 10 years of service on the high tribunal and after attaining the age of 70 years. He had been a member of the Supreme Court for 23 years.

Unlike two previous occasions, the appointment of a successor to Brandeis will not disrupt the liberal-conservative balance of the Court, for Brandeis was one of the original justices who saw fit to support the New Deal in a majority of instances.

Regardless of affiliation, however, there can be naught but regret at the resignation of the veteran jurist. He has proved himself a man worthy of his position. May the Supreme Court of the United States be blessed with many more men of his calibre.

Interesting Sports

ANECDOTES of instances where patents have been refused because of the omission of a comma in the application have nothing on the NEW YORK DAILY NEWS and its interview with Clare Booth, author.

Omission of a comma caused Miss Booth's hobbies to include "surfboard riding, shooting cats and needlepoint." The story immediately drew fire from the S.P.C.M.F.E. (Society For Prevention of Cruelty to Man's Four Footed Friends) on the grounds that cat-shooting is an undignified sport.

Miss Booth's comment that "I love real cats, a true genius. Skunk know" marks her as could even be shooting the latter type feline pastime to be sanely adopted as a national pastime. In fact, to our mind, it would be surpassed as a sport only by the extermination of those who think up initials for societies designed to prevent such sports.

Learn To Like It

TECH students have two more chances to see what appears to be a championship bound basketball team in action. Monday and Tuesday nights the Raiders wind up their business at home before taking to the road for a final series that stands to bring them another Border conference championship.

Attendance at basketball games this year has been good, perhaps even above the average. Yet there is still much room for improvement when it comes to filling the balconies over on the north side of the campus.

As every buyer of an activity ticket is doubtless aware, the ducats are equally as good for cage tilts as they are for the better attended football games during the fall. Slacking off of student interest in athletics during the spring months may be due to an undeveloped appreciation for minor sports.

By all odds, however, it is an appreciation that should be developed, for one of the strongest talking points against Tech's admittance to the Southwestern conference is the lack of interest in minor sports. Begin now. Get a glimpse of a winning basketball team! help Tech tear down the sentiment that she is not minor sports conscious.

Allred Approved

FINAL confirmation of James V. Allred, former governor of Texas, to the federal judgeship of the southern district of Texas came yesterday when he was finally approved by the Senate of the United States.

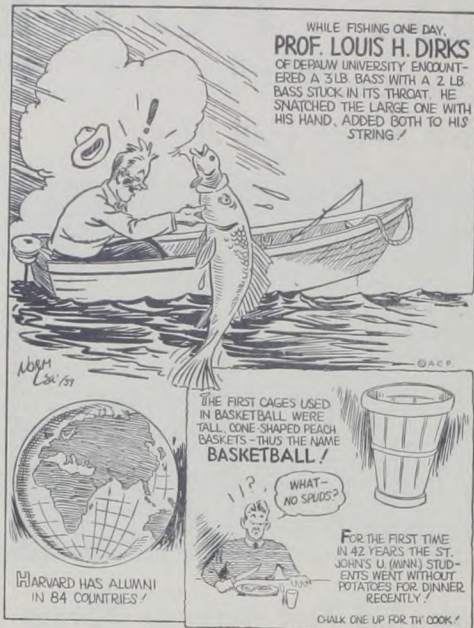

For a number of years Allred has played a prominent part in Texas politics. He has more than earned his spurs, and for a man so comparatively youthful he has shown keen perspicacity in affairs politically.

The position of a federal judge is one with high requisites. As a well-paying, lifetime job it is an enviable post. Yes, on any basis, it would be hard to find a man more qualified or deserving than Allred. The Senate has done well in confirming President Roosevelt's appointment.

Washington has made two serious breaches of etiquette in the last few months. We didn't get Japanese permission to fortify Guam and we didn't consult Hitler about the Lima conference.

CAMPUS CAMERA

Opposes Incorporation In the Morning Mail

My good Mr. Henly:

On the proposal to incorporate the campus into the city of Lubbock:

I have yet to hear of a good reason for such incorporation that could not be cured in some other manner and let me tell you I've got some reasons against it.

First—the so-called advantages: Fire and police protection and saving on insurance. The campus is already protected by the city fire department, and besides the area to be incorporated does not include the only buildings on the campus not classified as fireproof—the gym and NYA dormitory. The police would not eliminate parking on the campus drives and it is extremely rare that the city speed limit is passed on the campus. At night the campus has two nightwatchmen who do a good job of protecting the buildings from robbery or destruction and also keep any real vice at an extreme low on the portion of the campus that would be protected by the police.

Now the disadvantages: The incorporation would allow the city bulls to break up even the most innocent case of courting. Dean of the campus from dark to dawn, Jack Hightower, has always allowed the students to do their bit of harmless courting but he has always clamped down when he thought the limit of harmless courting had been reached.

The majority of the college students have nowhere else to do their bit of courting, and where would we be now if mother and dad hadn't had a place to do their bit? I'm even more positive that we don't want the bulls if they are going to have target practice on every car that passes 35 miles per hour. It's not so dangerous for the occupants as it is for those persons who happen to be wandering about the campus.

Desires Figures

Dear Editor:

Early last summer I was one of the many who heard from fairly authoritative sources that the loan on the dormitories had been paid off. (And you would be doing a great favor to Tech students and especially Dorm residents if you would investigate and publish the financial status of the dorms.)

Now during the course of this school year I have been extremely doubtful many times for the food has not improved, no material improvements or even repairs have been made, nor has the price of room and board been lowered.

But if the debt is paid, what is there to keep the college from naming that which belongs to the college. Since the students as a whole have shown an earnest desire to pick a good lasting name for the dorms, I feel sure that the college authorities will be guided by the student choice.

Very truly yours,
A dormitory resident

The postman brings a letter from London. D.M.L. has just completed a course in Peel House which is a school for policemen. He says that he spent his first eight hours as a "cop" walking a beat. There was a car stolen but the owner caught the thief. He says that every offense no matter how slight is brought to trial. Seems that being a policeman isn't the exciting life it is here. He says one of his pals was on a beat and found a murder case. This seems to be very rare too. It is a cause for much excitement. From his letter we get the impression that all news-ers are published by the Jews and the English people don't rely on stories of these papers.
Success story—A girl was to be presented. Her dress came from another city, much to her disappointment it was not like she had hoped. Then it wouldn't fit lacking two snaps. Then she tried to reduce. That made her sore. She thought she couldn't walk down thirty-six steps. Then just before the fatal moment she stepped on a nail and her date got sick with fever 102 degrees. Here is the outcome. When she put on the dress it fit. Her foot got all right. There were not thirty-six steps—this was a joke played on her and lastly she was the loveliest pledge there and she got her picture taken.
Maxine Roper of New Mexico School of Mines paper staff is of the opinion that men should let their beards grow. She says that it may be a defense for these sneezing hair styles of the girls. She encourages them to let their beards grow and look like bums if they want to.
We differ in opinion with this miss. Let a man appear with a beard and his frame of mind seems to change. If they could only be the gentle creatures they were before acquiring a beard. But no, they think it is a definite signal to get a "cave-man" attitude and "whisker" the fair damsels just to hear them scream. Maybe in New Mexico they like that but I venture to say that those who will admit it will say, "Do away with beards."

Under The Double T

By HERBERT FOSTER
Toreador Sports Editor

When Greek meets Greek, they start a restaurant. When an irresistible force meets an immovable object—well, they haven't figured that one out yet. When Marshall Brown meets Kiko Martinez, all indications point to a basketball game such as has not been unreel on the Raider hardwood for many a moon.

When the two teams which are tied for first place in the red-hot Border conference meet next week in their first series of a season which has seen only one defeat for each, things are liable to happen. Somebody is going to come out on the long end of the score, and someone else is going to get shucked. Barring, of course, the unlikely possibility of a tie.

Leading the Raiders into the fray will be dark-haired, elusive Marshall Brown, who has sparked the Mat attack throughout the season, being high-point man in most games and turning out well-nigh perfect floor performances. Backing him up will be Robert "Trotter" Percival, whose shy grin and frequent tumbles belie his all-round effectiveness as a forward and basket weaver; and lean Bauman Roper, cotton-topped center, whose one-handed push shots have whistled through the net repeatedly in every game.

Others in the Tech lineup will be William "Curly" Risinger, well-muscled guard, who plays an air-tight defense and sinks 'em from near midcourt as well as closer to the basket; and Rex Williams, the light-hearted gridiron pivotman who whipped quickly into condition and a place on the starting roster in the cage game.

They are fine players, all of them. And on the sidelines, ready to leap into the game, will be T. L. Gilley, who formerly started at guard but has been out of the lineup due to illness; Truman Neal; J. B. White; diminutive but hard-fighting Leo Patterson; big Jake Geron; Paul Reynolds; G. L. "Country" Webb; and Captain Elmer Darbo. The Tech lineup to give any set of opponents fits.

Opposing them will be the New Mexico Aggies, defending Border conference champions who tied for first place with the Raiders this season. Kiko Martinez, forward, a superb player in every department of the game. Martinez went to the 1936 Olympics with the Old Mexico team, and made the second all-world squad. He is a seasoned player, and was instrumental in pasting defeats on the Raiders last year.

Backing him will be such tough customers to beat as Pecos Finley, forward; Morris Wood, all-conference guard; six-foot-four Joe Jackson, the Cimarron Skyscraper, at center; Bob Sims, guard, who looks as if he might rate an all-conference berth this year; and a string of reserves just about as capable.

Press releases from the home of the Crimson Cavalcade, as the Aggies style themselves, said that they were going into the game with New Mexico U. last Friday with light injuries. Martinez, it was said, nursed a number of sore fingers. They must have bothered him a lot, for he only made around 38 points against the hapless Lobos, who are the lads from Las Cruces. The team as a whole kept the enemy nets smoldering with 85 points, and rumor has it that the scorekeepers had to be revived five times.

It will be Red Raiders against Crimson Cavalcade, Brown against Martinez, the august councilings of Berl Huffman against the teachings of Jerry Hines of the Ags. What the result will be, we can't say. All we can do is to advise this: Don't sell the Raiders short.

They are going up against the toughest competition they have met all year, against a team which has been playing together as a unit longer than the Mats have, against defending champions. In comparative scoring to date, it may look like the Raiders have the low end of the odds. But this sports predicting isn't an exact science. Things can happen. As a matter of fact, things are going to happen. As long as they are the right things, a committee had better be arranged to go over and attend to the victory bells.

One way or the other, it ought to be a whale of a game that unwinds on the worn floor of the Tech gym Monday night, and again Tuesday. They will be the best games of the year, and the last home tilts. If every coed and jock that can crowd into that mule barn isn't there, it will be their own loss. Attending the game isn't so much a matter of school spirit; there is going to be some darned good basketball played there both nights. Come out and take a gander at it, and yell like a fool if you want to. We'll be right with you.

In any game, and particularly such a game as basketball, there is a tendency to glorify

The Cavalcade Is Coming--Ags To Meet Raiders

Martinez, Brown Lead Teams To Fray

Squads Tie For Conference Lead

Bringing to Tech a scoring attack that has rolled up impressive margins over all but one of its opponents, the Crimson Cavalcade of the New Mexico Aggies thunders onto the Matador maplewood Monday and Tuesday nights against the team which is tied with it for first place, the Red Raiders.

Lead by unstoppable Marshall Brown, the Raiders will be right there waiting for them, in a series that, unless split, may decide the conference crown and will at least break the tie for top honors.

Kiko Martinez, former Olympic star, heads the Aggie attack, backed by such stalwarts as Pecos Finley, Morris Wood and towering Joe Jackson.

Brown's cohorts in the fray will be Robert Percival at the other forward post, Bauman Roper, center, Rex Williams and William Risinger, guards.

The Aggies, defending Border conference champions, have met defeat only once this year, at the hands of the Tempe Teachers, Tech lost its first game of the season to Texas Mines.

The series will be the last home appearances of the season for the Raiders, who play the rest of their games on the road. They trek to El Paso to play a return series against the Miners, then meet the Aggies again at Las Cruces, N.M., to close the schedule.

The meeting of the top two teams in the conference Monday and Tuesday nights is one calculated to leave the result-guessers hanging on the ropes. Both teams have been going great guns in Border conference competition; and though the contests may at first appear to be a battle of scoring stars, neither squad is a one-man team.

Martinez has been high point man in nearly every game this season. In a recent game with the New Mexico Lobos, he rang up 38 points, and the team as a whole swamped the hapless Lobos under a pile of 85 tallies.

The Raiders, on the other hand, have not piled up such tremendous scores, but they have, with two exceptions, provided fairly comfortable margins of safety between their score and that of their foes. The exceptions were the first game with Texas Mines, when the Techsans lost, and the initial tilt with the Flagstaff Teachers, when William Risinger looped a long shot through the basket in the closing seconds of the game to throw the Raiders into a one-point lead and victory.

A scorer just as capable as Brown holds down the pivot post, in the person of Bauman Roper. On the last road trip, Roper scored 53 points in four games to 49 for Brown and 43 for Percival. The lean center specializes in one-handed overhead push shots from near the free-throw circle, while Brown's finest touch shots come in chucking 'em in from the corners.

The Raiders enter the series after two wins over Tempe (Ariz.) State Teachers on the home court last Monday and Tuesday. The first melee ended 48-33, Brown leading the scoring with 15 counts. Second was Roper with 13, followed by Percival with 8.

Starting slow the first half, the Raiders finally put on steam and took the second match, 54-27. Brown, as usual, took top honors in basket weaving, and this time with nets. Roper and Risinger tied for second place with 12 each. In both games Coach Berl Huffman sent in his reserves in the final minutes.

The individual star and let the other performers who do not shine quite so brightly go unnoticed. Perhaps that is as it should be, for it is the star who pleases the crowd, and they are the ones for whom the game is played.

But there are other men. It takes stamina, hard training, long hours of grueling practice, as well as a physical excellence and an uncanny eye for the basket, to be a star. The star has some inducement to train, to work hard. After all, his is the glory, his is the name on everyone's lips, he is the man who is pointed out above his fellows.

Such is his lot. It's not an easy job, in more ways than one. In addition to the regular task of being a star, there is the job of keeping the ego properly deflated, of still being able to wear the same hat at the end of the season. But somehow, our own hat goes off in salute to the fellows who are not stars. Some of them work just as hard as do the most brilliant performers. Their hearts are in it, but they lack something, some sense of timing, some speed, some ability to feint, that keeps them from the front ranks. Perhaps they are only 5 feet four, when they need to be somewhere around five feet eighteen.

Perhaps this sounds like the rantings of a high-school cheer leader giving a pep talk, some tripe about the Forgotten Man, or just an advanced case of dementia praecox, but somehow we feel that there should be some recognition

Plans Begun For Annual Spring Golf Tournament

Tech's Squad Of 20 Members To Enter; Telford, Allen back

Plans are underway for the annual spring golf tournament, to be held at Meadowbrook course in either late March or early April. Three to six or more flights will be played, depending on the number of entrants. In the past, from twenty-five to forty golfers have played in the tournament each year.

Eighteen-hole matches will be run in the qualifying and elimination rounds. Probably thirty-six holes will be played in the championship matches. Prizes furnished by local merchants and sporting goods stores probably will be awarded to flight winners, runners-up and consolation winners. J. W. Byrne, Meadowbrook course pro, has agreed to talk to all entrants on golfing and different phases of play. All Tech students are eligible to enter.

Tech's whole squad of 20 members, strengthened by the return of Manson Allen and Lindsey Telford, former stars, will enter the tourney. Raider linksmen are expected to be exceptionally strong this year and have already contracted matches with Texas Christian and other downstate colleges and universities.

Fulfilling their requirement for physical education, the twenty team members are playing eight-hole golf each week. Those playing are: George Tipton, Hampton Stennis, Johnny Gunderth, Rex Rose, Mickey Ledrick, Bill White, Donald Doherty, Lawrence Latham, J. D. Webster, Melvin Best, Jack Walker, Furber Salsler, Leland George, James Leftwich, Charles Leftwich, Argo Peck, Pete Grayum, and the two former stars, Manson Allen and Lindsey Telford.

New Hampshire's largest inland body of salt water, Great Bay, will be the object of intensive research and writing by University of New Hampshire undergraduates this winter.

of the hard-working lesser lights in sports. To them we doff our somewhat greasy hats: may they at least know the satisfaction of a hard job done as best they can.

Speaking of basketball, as we are doing for this last yard or so of column, the curtain rises on the Monday night games ought to be a killer-diller, when the fish play the West Texas State Calves at the school at Canyon, which frequently boasts what it terms the tallest basketball team in the world, seemingly has no place for runs on its first-year team, either. That animated skyscraper you will see on the court will be Charles Halbert, who measures just six feet ten when where he parts his hair to that thin spot on his sole.

Though the coach might have to have him bed down in the baggage car on road trips instead of trying to fold him up in a berth, such a player should be invaluable to a team if he possesses so much as the ability to merely stand up and drop the ball through the basket. Yes, we said drop, and we meant it. The hoops are only 10 feet from the floor, and if such a specimen can't reach up 10 feet, then his arms much be off at the elbows.

In our stores and meat markets you will find the fine quality foods you will want to serve your family and guests during the Lenten season. They'll make your food budget reach further, and will inspire many delightful combinations for family dinners and entertaining snacks.

Pic Cagers Face Toughest Foes

Picador basketball squadmen face their toughest assignment Monday night against the West Texas State College Calves in a certain raider to the varsity tilt with the New Mexico Aggies. The West Texas Fish have not scored less than 80 points against any foe, while their opponents have never run up a tally of more than 15.

The Calves are reported as being able to beat the WTSC varsity. As tall as the varsity of WTSC the fish quintet from Canyon have one man who towers 6 feet 10 inches. The tall man's name is Charles Halbert, and he hails from Taos, New Mexico. Halbert started to come to Tech, but the Raiders did not take enough interest in basketball for him. The tall man will have a definite advantage over the fish of Tech because of height, and he will be a new experience for the Tech sharpshooters to guard.

The game will start at 6:30 p.m., because of the large crowd expected to attend both games. The games Monday night will be the best basketball games that Tech has participated in so far this year for both the varsity and fish. If the first year men win this game it will show that Tech has one of the best squads in its history, said coach Lou Jones.

Horn Hall Softball League Elects Heads

Softball competition in Horn hall will be in full swing again this spring with a second annual intramural tournament. Arrangements are being made to use the diamond back of the dormitory, and team captains for each floor were elected at a recent meeting of the dormitory association.

Captains, by floors, are: First west, Grady Shytles and Arton Willingham; first east, Lewis Jones; second west, Bill Hamann; second east, James Forbis; third west, Clois Mapes and Mack Barnes; third east, Leon Cox.

The captains have not yet met with the residents on their respective floors and organized teams.

The University of Michigan has a collection of 4000 old and rare textbooks.

Skinny Greene Is Red Raider Guard No Longer

Editor's Note: This is the sixth in a series of stories dealing with Red Raiders who have either completed their eligibility or graduating. Others will be treated in later issues.

Dark-haired Wilmer "Skinny" Greene, lettering two years in varsity football, graduates in May, has trotted out on Tech field to hold down the guard position or any other as a qualified Red Raider, for the last time.

Skinny was born in Dallas, Jan. 15, 1917. He started to school in Hedley, but after one year of the first grade, he pulled a transfer to Gainesville, where he finished his pre-college education. He lettered three years in football in high school, two years in basketball and two in track. He was all-district tackle for two seasons.

He was president of the Hi-Y in high school, and made an A average.

Greene came to Tech in 1934, following a brother here who had graduated the previous spring. His high-school coach came here to coach the freshman team, which also influenced him.

Freshman football claimed his attention in 1934, and since then he has lettered for two years at guard, forsaking his old high school position of tackle.

Skinny will graduate with a B.S. in education, with a major in history and a minor in physical education. His ambition is to teach and be a successful coach.

Plastering the walls of his room with his collections, he saves match folders and magazine pictures. He likes all shows, especially aviation pictures. He likes to swim, hunt and fish, and for recreation prefers a rousing game of Chinese checkers or a crossword puzzle.

He prefers "average-sized" women. Contrary to the legend that gentlemen prefer blondes, he favors brunettes, but likes all types.

Sandstorms Delay Workouts

Lost: one baseball diamond, due to sandstorms. If anyone finds an extra diamond, please notify Doc Spears, Tech baseball coach. Sandstorms are holding up workouts as far as batting practice is concerned, but the players are working in the gym, and are showing up well, according to Spears.

The pitching staff is especially good so far this year. Three pitchers are working out and all three are showing promise. The pitchers are: Pierce, fast ball artist; Dowdy and Carpenter. "Salty" Carson is the only catcher working out, but is showing up well in that position. At least one more catcher is needed. For the last three days about thirty boys have shown up for workouts, and are taking real interest, according to Spears. Batting practice is to start next week and all boys will participate.

Sometime in April Texas Tech's sluggers will play their first games against some small-town independent team. If Tech gets in the Southwest conference, the Athletic association will back the baseball team next year, it is said.

An all-college dance will be given to raise funds for the baseball

Pete Nachlinger, Coats Lose Bouts In State Meet

Tech's two representatives in the state Golden Gloves meet lost their initial fights in Fort Worth Thursday nights, eliminating them from further competition in the race.

Pete Nachlinger, junior engineer from Hermleigh, lost a decision to George Porter of Dallas in the welterweight division. Nachlinger, who ordinarily fights as a lightweight, changed places with James Stotts of Slaton on the Lubbock squad. He won the city welterweight and the district lightweight titles in recent tournaments here.

Tommy Coats, sophomore engineer from Seagraves, lost on points to Harry Wilson of Tyler in the featherweight class. Coats took the second round, but Wilson's greater reach and weight told the tale in the first and third.

Tech's other contender for state honors, Rhea "Fats" Mitchell, freshman agriculture student from Lockney, won the heavyweight title in the district scraps, but was unable to make the trip to Fort Worth.

Preliminaries in the tournament will be completed tonight, with finals in each division scheduled for Monday night. Winners of state

Murals Continue As Keys Quintet Take Centaurs

Bringing life to an intramural basketball race which started out in a series of defaults, saw two contests and was forced to go into temporary retirement during the playing of the varsity games, the Centaurs quintet lost to a hustling Silver Key five 29-25, Monday night.

High point man of the game was Allen of the Centaurs with a score of 15; Brummett for the Keys and Joe Rives for the Centaurs were second with a count of eight for each. Alderson was runner-up for the Keys with a tally of six.

Thursday night College Club met Komax; Soci met Los Camis. Last night North Plains played El Macons.

Three night games are scheduled for next week. Camp Marion meets Torch and Castle Wednesday; Hedgers play Aggies Thursday; and the Bojars pit themselves Friday against the Mohawks. All tilts begin at 9:30.

Netters' Plans Still Incomplete

Final arrangements have not as yet been made for matches on the Easter tennis tour, according to James G. Allen, coach. Fourth man for the team has not been chosen, he said.

Negotiations are under way to play Hardin-Simmons, Abilene Christian and Texas Mines in Abilene the second week in April. Matches have been arranged with A and M, SMU, TCU and Texas U. for the first week of that month.

Contenders for the fourth member of the team are Buster Houston and Harold Beckmeyer. Other members of the team are Sidney Moore, Wilson Chapman and Claude Bateman.

Distric Hoop Meet Run Off In Gym

Playoffs in the district high school basketball meet will be run off this afternoon. First round elimination play was held yesterday afternoon in the gym.

Patton Springs defeated yesterday Whiteface, 31-18; Lubbock high took Wellman, 41-20; and Plains downed Buia, 40-38. Plainview lost by the slim margin of four points to Lockney's hustling quintet, 30-34; and Aberrathy swamped Sudan, 52-36. Southland made nearly two points to every one that

New Home dropped through the hoop, to win, 37-19.

Prof Lectures On Face Creams

Says They Are Good For Lubricants Only

Special To The Toreador
AUSTIN, Jan. 16—If you're expecting any more from cold creams than a face-lubrication job, you're wasting your time and money, 50 alarmed coeds at the University of Texas this week heard a University professor of pharmacy announce.

Dr. Louis W. Schleuse, assistant professor of pharmacy at the University, spoke to members of the Home Economics club on the value of cosmetics. With one sweep on the hand, he cleared dressing tables of rouges, face powders, cold cream and astringents.

"One face cream can be used for all purposes," he began. "The lubricating and emollient effect in supplementing nature is the only good effect that can be gained."

"You can't shrink a pore," he continued, dismissing astringents and substituting good old-fashioned alcohol, U. S. P. zinc oxide or witch hazel in their places.

"Face powder is valuable from the psychological and aesthetic point of view, but it's never worth the money paid for it," he told the amazed coeds.

Twenty cents would buy a pound of the powder that sells for $2 and $3 an ounce, he persisted.

The rouge pot had nourished the roots of the family tree, he concluded—and had done so since the fourth century.

Social Pathology Class Mourns Pic Tendencies

Failure of motion pictures to use their potential possibilities for educating the youth of America was mourned by a social pathology class.

"The children of today will grow up thinking Tyrone Power built the Suez canal," lamented one serious student as he recommended that the adventure strain in pictures be replaced with plots of social value.

Lubbock Attorney Speaks To Pre-Laws

George W. Dupree, Lubbock attorney, spoke to members of the Pre-law club and their guests at the annual Pre-law club banquet held in Doak hall Wednesday night.

Dupree emphasized in his talk that 10 per cent of the lawyers in this country are doing 90 per cent of the legitimate law business.

He also pointed out that much of today's law business is done in the private office, not in the court room.

Scout Frat Will Broadcast Today

Broadcast Today

"The Boy Scout Jamboree of the Air" will be broadcast this afternoon at 5:15 over KFYO by the Tech chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national scout fraternity.

This will be the last of a series of programs which have been given every day this week. Powell McCree, president of the club, said that another series would be started within the next two weeks, the programs of which would be given once a week instead of daily.

The program will probably be in the form of a series. Powell also said that there is a chance that the new serial will be put on the Texas State network.

Graduate Takes Coaching Job

Vaughn Corley, Tech graduate of '29 from the aggie division, who has been employed on the coaching staff at New Mexico A and M since his graduation, recently resigned his post to become line coach at the University of Oregon.

POSTPONES MEETING

The French club will not meet Monday, Feb. 22, because of the conflict with the artist course, Dr. D. W. Alden, sponsor of the club, announced Thursday. The next meeting will be held March 6.

Aggie Division Tests Feeding Value Of Corn

Merits Of White And Yellow Compared In Experiment With Swine

Feeding value of locally grown white corn vs. locally grown yellow milo, both properly supplemented, is being compared as to efficiency in the agricultural division of Tech, Dale McWhirter, graduate assistant in the animal husbandry department, said.

The experiment was started Feb. 9 and will be continued through two or three trials of approximately 80 days each.

The experiment has been conducted a number of times in the corn belt region, using yellow corn, but has never been tried in this country with home grown feeds.

It is believed that the result will be of value to the college as well as to farmers and feeders of the surrounding territory.

The paired system of feeding is used in this experiment, four pens 5x8 feet, including shelter, constructed on a concrete floor. One pig is confined in each pen having a feeder containing grain and supplements.

Two pigs as similar as possible in ancestry, previous management, conformation, thrift and weight were chosen, each checking against the other.

Grain for one of the pair is yellow milo and the other is corn. The other pair was chosen and will be compared in the same manner.

The initial weight of the pigs was determined by weighing each pig separately on three consecutive days at the same time each day, and the average of the three being considered the initial weight, McWhirter said.

Final weights will be determined in the same way. The pigs will be weighed at 30-day intervals throughout the experiment.

When the pigs of the first trial have reached market weight, they will be removed from the pens and the experiment repeated.

The foregoing experimental data was used for a thesis partially to fulfill requirements for his master's degree, McWhirter said.

Millsaps College Newspaper Fights Medieval Law

JACKSON, Miss.—(AP)—

One of the most medieval of any law still on the statute books of any of the 48 states—selected which prohibits the granting of legacies to churches and charities—is being made the target of a state-wide repeal campaign begun here on the campus of Millsaps college.

The law, called a mortmain law because it prohibits the giving of gifts after death—is being fought particularly by church-affiliated institutions of learning because it hampers progress that could be made with additions to their funds from donations and legacies.

The campaign, organized by the staff of the Purple and White, undergraduate weekly, has as its goal the repeal of the law by the legislature next November.

In explaining the history of the law, the Purple and White said: "Hard to believe as it may be our present-day people are much more than the Catholics, for the Catholics instituted a scheme of willing property to the bishop, who had no family, and whose property naturally reverted to the church on his death. The provisions were left out of the code of 1880, as Judge Campbell, who prepared the code said they were unwise, unjust, and unnecessary; but, mostly because of pressure by the Ku Klux Klan, they were reintroduced in the constitution of 1890.

"During recent years, church people have put up a brave and constant struggle to have these provisions repealed. The legislature has been singularly unheeding to their pleas."

Skybirds?

Well, maybe. But in this picture John Payne and Olivia de Havilland look more like a couple of lovebirds to us. Or maybe we are taking too much for granted. Anyway these two play with George Brent in "Wings of the Navy," coming to the Palace theater tomorrow.

Alumni Secretary Attends Meeting

Hazlewood Will Speak Before Group In Austin

Calvin Hazlewood, secretary of the Alumni and Ex-alumni association, is attending a meeting of all secretaries of Alumni associations of Texas colleges today in Austin.

Hazlewood met two alumni representatives of Hardin-Simmons university in Abilene who will accompany him on the trip.

Members of Alumni associations meet to discuss the organization and management of clubs. Hazlewood is to speak before the meeting on "Donations and Memberships."

The Austin Tech chapter of the Alumni association will meet Saturday night when Hazlewood will assist in the selection of a district committeeman of the 20th Senatorial district. The district committeeman will represent his district to the head office of the Alumni association and help promote alumni activities in the locality.

Manuel DeBusk met Friday night with the Tech Club in Dallas to elect a district committeeman there.

Rushing, York Marry Here

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Ann York, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. York of Lubbock, to Barrie E. Rushing, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Rushing of Plainview, took place Saturday morning at the First Christian church. The vows were exchanged before an altar formed of sinax and pyramided tall tapers. The background was of palms and modernistic baskets of calla lilies.

The wedding music was played by Miss Elizabeth Anne Price. The bridesmaids, Misses Lynn Bain and Kathryn Weaver, wore silk dirndl suit and carried nosegays.

The bride wore a suit of navy sheer wool of pique design and a guchaia flowered turban. Her corsage was two orchids.

Cecil Rushing of Santa Fe, N.M., brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Byron Brown, jr., and Mike Tate were ushers.

The bride attended Texas State College for Women and Tech where she was a member of Sana Souci. Mr. Rushing was a member of College Club while attending Tech.

Ex-Student Weds Greenville Man

Miss Marydee Miller, former Tech student, and Oscar Symms Long of Greenville were married Saturday evening at the Kavanaugh Methodist church in Greenville.

The bride received her B A degree at Texas State college for Women, at Denton after attending Greenville High School and Tech. The groom is a graduate of A & M College and will be connected with Firestone at Port Arthur.

Heard Represents Tech On Cotton Committee

M. E. Heard, head of the department of textile engineering of Tech, will represent the college at a meeting of the statewide cotton committee starting yesterday at Austin. Heard is chairman of the better ginning section statewide committee and will appear on the program speaking on "Stressing Need for Cotton Ginning Laboratory of Texas."

THE AMUSEMENT WORLD:

Mozart Boys' Choir Pride Of Austria For Five Centuries

By GORDON HANNA

Twenty members of the Mozart Boys' choir will offer the first Artist Course presentation of the spring semester at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium Monday night.

For five centuries this group has been the pride of Austria by maintaining a tradition of polyphonic singing unsurpassed in the world. However, January of 1938 marked its introduction to this country. The boys' success was instantaneous, and during the last year they have made their first transcontinental tour.

Though the three-part program that the choir will present includes many popular numbers, we are disappointed to find that neither Mozart's one act opera, "Bastien And Bastienne," nor "Tales From The Vienna Woods" by Johann Strauss will be offered. Both of these are in the choir's repertory and have been acclaimed by critics in all instances that they have been given.

Basketball, Choir Conflict

Conflicting with the Artist Course will be the first game between Coach Huffman's basketball squad and their opponents for the border championship, the New Mexico Aggies.

So it depends on whether a person is musical or sports minded as to which event he will attend. But believing there are enough students to go around, we're predicting a large attendance at both places.

Held First Formal

Las Armonias will break into the circle of long dresses and stiff shirts tonight with their first formal presentation since the club was organized. Though previous columns may have appeared that we are Hilton minded, this affair really will be held in the Hilton ballroom. Jack York and his orchestra will furnish the rhythm.

Incidentally, York has a first tenor sax man in the person of one T. N. Rayburn. Rayburn is from Oklahoma and has played in the past with Bob Wills and his Playboys.

Another Oats Opy

For addicts of child actors Jane Withers in "The Arizona Wildcat" will begin at the Lindsey tomorrow. The cast also includes Leo Carrillo.

The picture is one of the wild and woolly western type with plenty of riding, shooting and spilling.

Webb Entertains Castro Club

Members of the Castro County association were honored Wednesday evening when Allen Webb entertained with a bridge and dancing party in the home of Tina Mae Wright, 2902 Twenty-first street. Decorations carried out the George Washington motif.

Members and guests attending were Robert Ramey, Emily McLean, Martha Lange, Jimmy Munice, Will Johnson, James Bradford, Betty Jo Cardwell, Jim Clananah, Decima Ramey, Daphne Hutchings, Woodrow Killingsworth and Helen Wesson.

Fred Griffin, club sponsor, was a special guest.

Aggie Prof And Studes Attend McAdoo Banquet

Prof. T. L. Leach will attend a banquet at the McAdoo High school Saturday. He will take two freshmen agricultural students with him. They are Reid McLaughlin and Nuge Ruge.

J. Sam Lewis of the Avalanche Journal will also accompany him to McAdoo.
