Black slams protesters

WASHINGTON—Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black, touching on the violence-splattered demonstrations during the Democratic National Convention, says he knows of nothing that "gives people the right to tramp up and down the streets by the thousands."

In a precedent-shattering television interview, Black said Tuesday night the freedom of speech guarantee does not shield conduct that is unlawful.

The nation's senior justice avoided judgment on the actual clashes that took place in Chicago, but said, as a matter of principle, the right to assembly does not extend to another man's property, not even government property.

Protesters, Black said, have only "a right to talk where they have a right to be under valid laws."

The 82-year-old Black, member of the nation's highest court for more than three decades, spoke in an hour-long interview over the CBS television network.

VC reject proposal

PARIS — A Viet Cong spokesman rejected Tuesday as "ridiculous" a reported South Vietnamese plan calling for the guerrillas to rally to the side of the Saigon government.

In the middle of this verbal jockeying, an advance party of the South Vietnamese delegation arrived and U.S. sources said it was hoped the enlarged peace talks could begin next week.

Government sources in Saigon said the plan to be submitted to the first four-party talks would provide for scale-down of the fighting, supervised withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South along with a cutback of U.S. forces and a "rallying" of the Viet Cong to the government.

"That's ridiculous, very ridiculous," said a spokesman for the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political arm.

"The puppet administration of Saigon represents no one. It is the creation of the United States. The National Liberation Front is the legitimate representative of the South Vietnamese people. . . I find these proposals scarcely realistic."

Senators sold

WASHINGTON—The Washington Senators baseball club was sold Tuesday to Robert E. Short, Democratic party national treasurer.

Short, former owner of the Los Angeles Lakers of the National Basketball Association, paid a reported $9 million for the baseball team, which will remain in the nation's capital.

Owners rejected a rival offer by comedian Bob Hope for the last-place American League club.

Norman B. Frost, a director of the club, said a formal announcement was planned Tuesday evening at the Winter Baseball Meetings in San Francisco by Short and Webb C. Hayes III, the attorney who handled the sale.

Frost confirmed reports of the sale were "substantially correct."

Short, 50, is a Minneapolis hotel and trucking executive. He handled the fund-raising to finance Hubert H. Humphrey's vice presidential campaign.

Welfare change asked

DALLAS—A Dallas civic group recommended Tuesday legislative action be taken to change the state welfare system.

The Community Council of Great Dallas made the recommendations during a hearing before a state legislative committee studying Texas employment.

The council suggested that the welfare system be changed to be based upon a single criterion-need.

The community council's proposal called for elimination of the welfare system's categorical programs, such as aid to families with dependent children, old age assistance, aid to the needy blind and aid to the permanently disabled.

The council criticized the procedure in Texas of placing a ceiling on welfare funds through the state constitution.

Callan Graham, committee chairman, spoke earlier and called for state funds to help employers upgrade the skill of workers on the job.

Astronauts get shots

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON — Apollo 8 astronauts received injections and started a program of "limited exposure" this week in a plan space doctors hope will keep them free of colds or Hong Kong flu during their Christmas time flight around the moon.

The astronauts, Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders, were given inoculations this week against the Asian 2, or Hong Kong, influenza virus.

Some 1,200 key space personnel at Cape Kennedy also received the shots, and about a fourth that number are expected to get them at the Manned Spacecraft Center here this week.

Students stone police

SAN FRANCISCO — Student strikers, enraged at the reopening of San Francisco State College, stoned police Tuesday and in return were bloodied by swinging clubs in a wild afternoon of intermittent clashes.

Five policemen and three other persons were injured. Police arrested 20.

Numerous other students, both strikers and non-strikers, suffered lesser injuries as strikers attacked students loyal to the administration.

About 300 activists among the college's 18,000 students appeared to be involved, with up to 2,000 others as on-lookers or underfoot in the milling mob scenes on the main quadrangle.

Most students attended regular classes for the second day since the strife-torn college was reopened Monday.

CHRISTMAS SEASON BEGINS—An estimated 3000 students and Lubbockites watched Tech kick off the holiday season with the annual Carol of Lights. The entire campus was blacked out prior to the festivities, which took place in the Science Quadrangle which featured dancing girls, choral groups and a brass choir. The lights outlining the buildings will remain on during the month of December. (Staff photo by Richard Mays)

Science adviser named

DuBridge gets post

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon named educator Lee A. DuBridge his science adviser Tuesday, and said he hopes to narrow a gap between government and scientists who now "take a rather dim view of the political operator."

DuBridge, 67, is retiring as president of the California Institute of Technology.

Nixon said the United States needs "a major scientific research effort," particularly in the field of peacetime technology. He said DuBridge will have major responsibility for bringing this about.

DUBRIDGE HIMSELF said there must be a stress on basic science in the United States, the kind of pure research which leads to discoveries and new scientific applications.

The president-elect said DuBridge also will be counseling him on efforts to enlist private enterprise in research. He said the government will continue to play the major role. "But to some extent that we can enlist the private sector more, we will do so."

He spoke, too, of an alienation between scientists and politicians.

"I think there's a tendency, being quite candid, for people in the scientific community and the people of the intellectual community generally, if I may use that in the broadest terms, to take a rather dim view of the political operator," Nixon said.

"I THINK we would like to bridge that gap."

Nixon said DuBridge can help. "I think he will be able to reassure the scientific community that our interest in them is not simply what they can produce but also how they can counsel us and how they can advise us."

He said DuBridge will bring to the White House leaders of scientific thought from the United States and abroad, "to give me and my associates in the government a chance to have a dialogue."

DuBridge has been president of California Institute of Technology for 28 years. Nixon said DuBridge is moving up his retirement date to confer with Dr. Donald F. Hornig, presently White House science adviser.

DUBRIDGE, A physicist, has served as an adviser and consultant to eight federal agencies.

DuBridge, once less than enthusiastic about U.S. involvement in the manned space race, said it is important that the nation reach its announced goals now, including that of sending a man to the moon.

Barring major accident, he said, that mission probably will take place sometime next year. But after a manned moon mission, he said, there must be a reassessment of the civilian space program.

He said a decision will have to be made soon on future U.S. goals in space. "I assume this will be a matter of urgent concern after the new administration takes office," he said.

DUBRIDGE SAID beyond the moon, instrument flights to the planets and to deep space are a first step. "Some day men will have to go along," he said. He said he cannot forecast when that time will come.

Nixon spent much of the day conferring with seven advisers on development of programs for the new administration.

Med school question renewed since veto

This is the second time around for Tech in the medical school quest. In pre-Coordinating Board days it got through the Legislature only to be vetoed by Gov. John Connally.

Connally vetoed the Tech Medical School bill April 13, 1965, when the med school was proposed by the Texas Legislature.

Connally said that the bill authorized creation of a medical school "prior to the completion of any professional study as to the overall medical needs of the state or the location of new facilities."

CONNALLY CONCLUDED, "In my opinion, this is contrary to sound planning of graduate programs in the highly complex and expensive field of medical education."

Connally wanted Lubbock lawmakers to recall the bill and make it subject to the Coordinating Board's study, but Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, Lubbock representative, said it was "an unwarranted interference with the procedure of the legislative branch of our state government."

Connally's veto message was fully documented to show the state medical schools in Galveston and Dallas, and Baylor University Medical School in Houston, "are not sectional or regional in nature and presently serve the needs of the entire state."

"THE POSSIBLE addition of a new medical school should be preceded by at least as much analysis, study and planning as preceded the authorization

Frosh elections slated Thursday

Freshman Council elections will be held Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Off-campus representatives will vote in the Tech Union and dorm representatives will vote in the dorms.

Results will be announced in Friday's University Daily.

Thirty senioritas arrive on Tech campus today

"Operation Seniorita" starts its seventh anniversary today at Tech.

The event, sponsored by the Junior League of Lubbock, is designed to promote good will between the United States and Mexico.

Tech coed vies for national title in queen contest

Popular vote will determine who will be the 1969 College Football Centennial Queen.

Barbara Specht, Tech sophomore from New Braunfels and the Southwest Conference football queen, will be vying for the title along with 12 other national conference queens.

Tech voters may pick up ballots in the Dec. 6 issue of Life Magazine, or submit Miss Specht's name and her title as Southwest Conference Queen on a postcard and mail to College Football Centennial Queen contest, Box 1010, Detroit, Michigan, 48232.

National School for Teachers in Mexico City, will visit the campus today.

STUDENT-TO-STUDENT visiting, a coke party with Southwest Conference athletes, a quick view of the common historical interests of Texas and Mexico and visits to Tech classrooms are part of the scheduled activities.

The senioritas' official welcome will be given by Glenn E. Barnett, executive vice president, at 8:30 a.m.

The President's Hostesses, members of Mortar Board, officers of the Student Education Association and Dr. Panze Kimmel, education professor, will act as guides for the group.

They first will tour the West Texas Museum where Dr. David M. Vigness, professor and chairman of the history department at Tech, will describe in Spanish the development of the High Plains.

VISITS ON campus will include the children's nursery at the department of home economics, art laboratories, classes and Chitwood Hall.

A reception from 10-11 a.m. will be given in the Coronado Room of the Tech Union.

Tech gets okay for second try at med school

University Daily News Services

The Texas Coordinating Board Tuesday adopted a Special Committee report which will allow Tech to request authorization for a medical school on its campus in 1969.

Recognizing the necessity for a medical school to serve the special needs of West Texas, the Coordinating Board said "such a medical school could possibly be developed in partnership with the medical center in Amarillo and with hospital authorities in Lubbock, Midland and Odessa."

Teaching and administrative controls for the complex would be on the Tech campus.

"THIS IS A big step toward obtaining a medical school for Texas Tech," Dr. Grover E. Murray, president of the university, said. "We feel this recommendation by the Coordinating Board will greatly help in the Legislature."

The Coordinating Board said it envisions an innovative medical school at Tech designed for an annual enrollment of 100 entering students in the pre-clinical years. The board members went on to say they anticipate the four cities involved "would provide clinical and post-graduate (internship and research) levels of educational work for the new school."

The board said it recognized that there are not yet adequate regional resources, both in academic programs at Tech and facilities in the cooperating communities.

"However, viewing the progress in that area of Texas, we believe these can be developed so that authorization from the Legislature can be requested in 1969."

THE COORDINATING Board said it expected the medical school to be instituted as soon as facilities and programs are judged adequate.

Murray, in Austin for the board meeting, said the recommendation was a challenge to Tech in its continuing role as the major state supported university in West Texas. "We are pleased that the Coordinating Board has shown this confidence in our university."

The board also recommended a new state medical school at Houston, a state dental school at San Antonio and help from tax money for the Baylor Medical and Dental schools.

The board abandoned a proposal for an "urban university" system embracing public colleges in the Dallas-Fort Worth-Denton area, clearing the way for the University of Texas to establish a North Texas sub-system.

POLICY STATEMENTS approved by the board on medical and dental education and the needs of the North Central Texas region represent in many respects efforts to reconcile conflicts that arose at a hearing last month.

Approval of the legislature is needed to establish any new state school.

Hijacked jet stops for fuel at Key West

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A National Airlines jet with 35 persons aboard refueled under a hijacker's gun late Tuesday and flew on to Havana on a forced extension of its scheduled New York-to-Miami flight.

Helpless to do anything with the gunman still in control, authorities stood by for more than 90 minutes as employees sought jet fuel and resupplied the big plane for the short hop to Cuba.

The jet left Key West at 6:41 p.m. EST.

THE PLANE, a Boeing 727 en route to Miami from New York's Kennedy Airport, carried a crew of seven and 28 passengers.

Jet fuel, unavailable at the Key West commercial airport, was trucked in from nearby naval facilities.

All personnel except those directly involved in the refueling operations were barred from the Key West airport.

The Federal Aviation Administration in Miami said the jet was seized by a gunman while making its final approach to the Miami airport.

Medical school approaches reality

The medical school situation has now been studied and Tech is well on the way to getting the medical school it thought it had in 1965.

In fact, final approval is one step behind its near-miss attempt in 1965. In effect though, final approval is closer now than it was then because it has the endorsement of the Coordinating Board for State Colleges and Universities.

The Coordinating Board report looks for legislative approval in 1969, which would bring the Tech medical school as far as it advanced in 1965. That time, however, legislative approval was followed by gubernatorial veto.

Gov. John Connally wanted the just-approved Coordinating Board to study the medical situation before any action was taken. So they took four years out to appoint the board and do the studying in order to end up with the same recommendations.

For the record, the medical school still lacks the approval of the Tech Board of Directors, the Texas Legislature and the governor.

The Tech Board of Directors probably will give its approval at its Dec. 14 meeting with no trouble. Gov. Preston Smith, as lieutenant governor in 1965, favored the bill ("I will be shocked and disappointed if this meritorious bill is vetoed only to prove a dubious point. . .," he said then.) He likely would not veto it this time.

That leaves only the Legislature in question. It approved a Tech medical school once. We shall have to wait to see if it will approve it again.

Queen needs Tech support

The campaign for votes in the college football centennial queen balloting is well under way at Tech.

The Tech Union and CorpsDettes called The University Daily Tuesday wanting to help solicit votes for Barbara Specht, Tech's football queen who was chosen to represent the Southwest Conference. Saddle Tramps have been working with Donna Axum, division of information services, in planning the campaign.

Miss Specht appeared on national television at the Texas A&M-Texas game Thanksgiving Day and again on national television at the University of Southern California-Notre Dame game Saturday.

If she finishes as one of the top three in the national balloting, she will appear on national television again Dec. 28 at the East-West Shrine Game in San Francisco.

If she wins, she will receive a $1,000 scholarship and the use of a car for one year. A vote for Miss Specht could be important for the Southwest Conference, for Tech, and for Miss Specht.

Tech student response will be the deciding factor.

Author to speak at luncheon

Dr. Faye L. Bumpass will speak to a luncheon meeting of the Texas Tech Quarterly Club Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. in the Blue Room of the Tech Union.

The topic of Dr. Bumpass's speech is "Let's Awaken to the Self-American Way", which concerns the teaching of English as a foreign language.

Dr. Bumpass earned her B.A. and M.A. at Tech and her Ph.D. at the University of San Marcos at Lima, Peru. She has worked for the State Department as a member of the Latin American Council for English Teaching Seminars and was decorated by the Peruvian government for outstanding work in education.

During 1968, she has traveled more than 60,000 miles in fulfillment of commitments as lecturer, consultant, and director of workshops in Guam, Puerto Rico, Mexico City, and Monterey.

Dr. Bumpass has worked with Chicago's Board of Education; the University of Vermont where she worked with teachers responsible for teaching English as a foreign language to French children; the University of Southern California; and was consultant to Indian schools in Arizona and Nevada.

Among the honors conferred on Dr. Bumpass are listings in the Education Journal in Tokyo, Japan; the International Biography of Educators, published in London, England; and Whos Who Among American Women.

Dr. Bumpass is the author of 32 text books in the province in the teaching of English as a foreign language.
