Hackler Urges Clubs To Back Varsity Show

Urging clubs to back the Varsity Show for Tech this year, Lee Hackler today pointed out that only about one hundred fifty dollars now stands between the beginning of production, and that only 15 clubs here underwriting the show for ten dollars each, would guarantee funds necessary for the program.

Hackler urged that clubs bring the subject of the Varsity Show before their members at the earliest possible date, pointing out that time was a vital factor in the production of the show.

No definite date for initial work on the production has been set as yet, he further stated, but only "the sheekles" stands between a Show for the coming year and the possibility of failure.

PICTURES SHOWN

Two motion pictures, "Reproduction of Mammals" and "The Heart" were shown to members of the Pre-med club at a regular meeting of the organization Monday night in the chemistry building.

The club will sponsor an all-college dance Saturday, November 30, at the gymnasium. Admission will be 20 cents per person.

Tags To Send Yell Leaders Out Are Sold

"Beat New Mexico" tags are being sold to defray the expenses of the yell leaders' trip to Albuquerque. Each of the five leaders have been given 100 tags which sell at 10 cents apiece.

To get your tag see L. D. Whiteley, Bud Barnes, Sandy Sanderson, Cowboy Nance or Billie Beas. Show sometime before Friday.

Services Held For Mrs. Michie Today At Home

Mrs. James N. Michie, 53, wife of Dr. James N. Michie, died of a cerebral hemorrhage at one a. m. Monday morning at the family residence, 2215 Sixteenth street, Lubbock. Mrs. Michie had been failing in health for three years, and for the past three months had been confined to her bed.

Mrs. Michie was born in Norfolk, Va., and moved with her husband to Lubbock from Austin in 1925. Dr. Michie has been head of the department of mathematics at Texas Tech since organization of the college.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Michie is survived by a son, R. E. Lee Michie, of Moffett Field, Calif., and two daughters, Mrs. Victor Harris, Chicago, and Mrs. James E. Johnson, Pampa.

Rev. J. A. Winslow, St. Paul's Episcopal church, will conduct services at the family residence today. Pall-bearers will be: Dr. R. C. Goodwin, Dr. W. B. Gates, Dr. C. E. Qualla, Dean James G. Allen, Dr. W. H. Abbott, W. L. Stangel and R. J. Allen.

Burial will be in Austin.

Tech Officers Leave College

Day And Richards To Begin Duty With Army

Sergeant Leonard R. Day and sergeant Richard R. Richards have been called to active duty in the army. Both sergeants have been on the mill faculty of Texas Tech since it was started in 1935.

Sergeant Day is temporarily stationed in Fort Benning, Ga. where he is taking a course for reserve officers. Sergeant Richards is in the post exchange offices at Fort Crockett, Texas at Galveston.

Sergeant Albert L. Ramsey has been transferred to Texas Tech from Oklahoma A&M to replace Sergeant Richards. At the present time no one has been detailed to Tech to take the place of Sergeant Day.

Sergeant Ramsey has been in the army service since the last World War. In 1917 he volunteered for service overseas. Upon being granted his discharge Ramsey reentered the service and chose the marine corps. He stayed in the marine corps for six years, and then he reenlisted in the United States army. He was appointed a sergeant in 1931, and has seen active service since that time.

SOCIETY ELECTS ALUMNUS

Dr. Elliot Powers, employee of the Gulf Petroleum company at Amarillo, was recently elected vice-president of the Panhandle Geological society according to information received by Dr. Leroy T. Patton. The society is composed of all geologists of the Texas Panhandle.

Dr. Powers received his bachelor of science degree from Tech in 1928. He received his masters and doctors degrees at the University of Iowa.

Tech Women Given Chance To Name Most Glammerous Male On Ignorant Hill Campus

Want to vote for "The most glammerous, sweet-scented and desirable man on the campus of Texas Technological college?"

This week, as a matter of fact—TODAY — THE TOREADOR is giving to each and every female on this college's grounds the opportunity to aid in selecting the "man of her dreams."

Voting will be conducted by write-in ballot, and only coeds are eligible in this search for a masculine "glammer pants" who will be awarded a prize by the staff of the paper, in appreciation of his services to the campus and coeds here in general.

It has been rumored that the lucky man will be given an opportunity to endorse several patent medicines and that if at all possible, THE TOREADOR will dedicate a special issue to him.

Any male student—regularly enrolled in Texas Tech—with the exception of members of the staff of THE TOREADOR, their families or relatives—is eligible to receive this unique and prodigious title.

Saturday, females will also be given another crack at the male population, when the women will be asked to name "the most obnoxious, repulsive, and generally despicable student at Texas Tech."

Again, the voting is limited to females, and those eligible are regularly enrolled male students, not connected with the staff of THE TOREADOR.

No professor, dean, or official of the college will be counted, and anyone voting for such a person will have her ballot disqualified. It is to be noted that in other schools and in Hollywood, swank debuts have been given for the glamor boys, and it is possible that some organization on this campus might be willing to throw away a few bucks to fete this pansy-panned youngster.

Every attention will be given him by the TOREADOR, and his every wish granted for his great achievement of his college career. Being the heart-beat, and cynosure of all female affection can't be sneezed at by any means. Who knows what further fame may grace his manly shoulders, and what cares may be lifted from his brow by being so honored.

Therefore, all women, attached or otherwise, are urged without restriction to go to the polls and vote for Tech's Glamor Pants No. 1.

Art Institute Receives Gift

Women's Club Gives Lithograph Of Alamo

Frank Callcott's lithograph of the Alamo at midnight has been presented to Tech Art institute and now hangs in the West Texas museum. The lithograph was purchased and presented by Lubbock Women's club in recognition for outstanding activities in art.

The print added to the permanent collection of the Art institute shows the Alamo at midnight under floodlights. Callcott, who is best known for his Centennial series, is one of the most prominent of Texas artists. The series, one set of which was recently added to the permanent collection of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, consists of two etchings and eight lithographs depicting numerous Texas landmarks.

This series has been shown in more than 70 exhibitions throughout the United States and has been featured in five New York shows. Oil paintings by Callcott, in addition to landscapes and character studies, include a portrait of Lieut. Gov. Coke R. Stevenson which was accepted by the Texas senate in 1939. Callcott is represented in permanent collections of the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts, Columbia University, Scudder School of New York, Texas Scroll and Southwestern university.

Lubbock Women's club is the first organization to make such contribution to the Art institute. "We sincerely hope that other organizations on the campus and in town will see fit to make future gifts. It is necessary to build the museum from the inside as well as outside," stated F. A. Kleinschmidt, director Tech Art Institute.

Eugene Benton, co-sponsor of IRC, announced that books in the club library will soon be available for members of the club. These books are furnished by the Carnegie Endowment for Advancement of Peace and are to be located in room 305 of the Administration building.

Qualia Speaks On Failure Of Treaty At IRC

Says Responsibility Rests On Citizens Of The United States

"Relation of Treaty of Versailles to the Present Situation" was the subject discussed by Dr. C. B. Qualla, head department of foreign languages, at meeting of International Relations club Monday night.

"To call the treaty of Versailles unjust is propaganda. It was not conceived in the spirit of hate, but was intended to settle territorial claims and promote permanent European peace through a League of Nations. Soldiers were not permitted to enter German territory and destroy property and humiliate the German people. If you compare the treaty with the past treaties of Europe you will find that it is by no means unjust," Dr. Qualla said.

According to Dr. Qualla a large degree of responsibility for the failure of the treaty, as well as the League of Nations, rests upon the citizens of the United States for their failure to participate in the League. The Republican party is to a great extent responsible for this, since they fostered the so-called "isolationist" policy and failed to see the strained world situation.

Special Train Will Leave Here Saturday

Large Crowd Predicted At Final Game For Students

All aboard for Albuquerque! The TECH SPECIAL will depart Friday night from the Santa Fe depot at either 10:30 or 11 p.m., depending on the final disentanglement of rail traffic tie-up caused by snowstorms of the past week. Departure from Albuquerque will be made at 1 a.m. Sunday morning.

A round-trip fare will cost $7.35, and tickets to the game are listed at 90c to those students presenting activity tickets.

The small admission charge to Tech students comes as a courtesy from New Mexico university. Evident enthusiasm on the campus about the prospective trip assures the Red Raiders of an ample contingent of supporters when they take the field in Albuquerque in continued pursuit of an undefeated season.

The Santa Fe ticket agent will make a list of all the students who purchase tickets for the trip. This official register will enable supervisors to keep a check on those aboard.

One hundred members of the Matador "A" band will be making their annual football trip. The musicians compete keenly for the honor and pleasure of being selected for this yearly event and will add a lot of spirit to support of the Raiders.

In addition to a between-halves march, the band will give a special concert in Albuquerque Saturday morning.

Several times in the past Tech students have journeyed to the New Mexico metropolis to see their "men in red" contest the Lobos of New Mexico university on the gridiron. Just as often, New Mexico's collegians have come to Lubbock to back their team against a traditional rival. Last year 200 students from Albuquerque came to "Double T" stadium for the game.

Every year the college sponsors a special train to one football game. The Student council is in charge of arrangements for this year's trek and hopes to make it one of the best ever undertaken, to support one of Tech's greatest football teams.

Volunteer Or Wait?

"If the United States went to war against Germany, Italy, or Japan, would you leave school and volunteer or wait until your turn came in the draft?"

The answer—of all college men questioned in a comprehensive poll, 23.5 per cent would volunteer—and 76.5 per cent would not!

The first reaction we saw after results of the poll were printed was a bitter remark in a small paper to the effect that college men must be lacking greatly in the stuff of which their fathers were made.

Reasonable assumption—to us—is that unless one has a burning desire to watch his guts spread out all over Japan or Germany he is a piker, according to this super-patriot.

On the other hand, let us examine some of the more pertinent facts brought out by this questionnaire of the Student Opinion Surveys of America. One of the more interesting is that college men alone were interviewed.

This, in the first place, makes the question limited to a group which is as the rule above average in knowledge of government and its functions.

Is it then, reasonable to suppose that these persons possess better than average knowledge of government, or the responsibilities of a nation to its peoples, and of citizens to the state?

Does it necessarily show cowardice for a man to say he would not volunteer to fight Germany, Italy, or Japan—for the sheer joy of fighting?

Or does such an answer show that the American college man of today is not convinced that we would gain any more from this war than we did from the last?

We sometimes wonder if the answers given in this poll do not indicate that college men are either smarter than the average man in the street who would "give my right arm to get a crack at those Japs", or whether they could be just a little bit more honest than many of the blowhards who wear their patriotism on their shirt sleeves—and most of whom will probably prove more backward in the case war really does come.

"Created Free And Equal"

Equality of all men in a democratic nation is not true equality. There are economic, racial, social, and political advantages that work for some and against others.

Opponents of democracies are swift to point out these differences—and just as quick to show the system that will eliminate them.

Perhaps they are right—but on the other hand, the belief that a democracy offers nearer equality than any other system now in operation is so easily proved that it renders many of these utopian theories worth about as much as the paper on which they are written.

For example—let us take Fascism, which "produces a benevolent inequality of the individual for the advancement of the state." If there is any doubt about the inequality of man in Italy, then there is doubt about the most obvious of facts present in government today.

Communism preaches the doctrine of entire equality, but nowhere in the civilized world is there a more absolute and autocratic rule than that of Josef Stalin—in a nation devoted to the ideal of complete equality.

Nazism never at any time preached equality—neither have the people of Japan known it.

Nowhere in the known world today is there more equality than in a typical democracy such as that of the United States, England, or Switzerland.

Yet, even in democracies, complete equality is an unworkable ideal. Just as it is in any form of government now in practical operation.

On paper there may be forms which offer more—but in operation democracies are still the champions of the rights of the common man.

And until people change radically, there will be no perfect government—so long as it is managed by human beings—even if it does look good on paper.

Reported Again?

Mid-semester reports once more come and go, leaving behind some ill-will between students and professors. Each year the same things happen—the student who "thought he had at least a B" finds the little slip in his mail-box, and another prof bites the dust at the nightly bull session.

No doubt the teacher gets more than a little tired at the chronic "beefers"—always ready with an excuse, and nothing more. But once in a while there is more than a little that may be said for the student's point of view.

Here's the way it ought to be: The teacher should realize that he is paid a living wage to instruct—not to dictate. He should know that his responsibility to the student is to aid him in selecting his life's work, not pile so much on that he won't be able to work after graduation. And he should consider the fact that he is not one of the twelve apostles—that his decisions are sometimes questionable—and that if they are, the student has a perfect right to question them.

And the student should appreciate the fact that it is the professor's place to aid him, not to raise him! If he refuses to do the work assigned, he may hold no one responsible but himself.

It is only on the basis of mutual respect and understanding that any good will ever be accomplished between teacher and pupil—both must respect the rights and purpose of the other—or both will fail.

To The Editor

Editor, THE TOREADOR
Dear Sir,

I am not one to complain about the usual things that cannot be helped around the campus like fast driving around the circle or popcorn eaters in the show, but the time has come for a real complaint.

There is a class that only upperclassmen can enroll in and yet in a class of 505 or more, they as a whole act like a bunch of fifth graders. Freshmen wouldn't carry on in such a manner. For the life of me, I cannot see why students who are supposed to be grown up should talk, giggle, and act like a bunch of gibbering idiots during lecture periods and then howl like barn cats when a true-false test is given and they make low on it.

The professor is not to blame. The world should know—and for the love of me I am not one to uphold the faculty against the students.

The class meets at 10 on TTS and they yell and talk and giggle and carry on until 10:45 at which time they all start putting on wraps and gossiping like magpies. Then a few scattered ones get up and leave to do their practise teaching. As they leave they are not polite enough to walk behind the teacher but instead they walk in front and look at him as though he should be ashamed of being behind them. Then by the time the bell rings, the students are in an uproar.

Now I know personally that the prof is at his wits end to do something about such a conglomeration but one would think that punishment for college students would be above that for kindergarten children—but when in Rome, do as the Romans do, and certainly they are asking for just such treatment.

Will you write an editorial, calling names and such if some of us send you the material? Two of us who are in the class really enjoy it when we can hear and see the thoroughly disgusted with the baby stuff the class acts up with. Please help in some way.

For better classes,
I am,
Mary Whitt

SNOW BOUND IN NEW MEXICO

Snowbound in Raton, New Mexico, Sunday and Monday, were John E. Harding, instructor in economics, and his wife, Mrs. Lorene Harding, secretary to Dean James G. Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. Harding were returning to Lubbock from Pueblo, Colorado, where they had spent Thanksgiving with Mr. Harding's sister.

Mrs. David Childers, 2005 Tenth street, Lubbock, was notified by wire of the plight of her daughter and son-in-law, who were temporarily marooned in the snow-swept mountains of northern New Mexico.

JACK YORK has a new drummer to take the place of "Moe" Morrison, who is reportedly taking off to guard encampment. His name is Sammy Smith and is from Little Rock, Arkansas. One of the feature attractions of Jack's orchestra has long been "A Man and his Drums"—the tune by which "Moe" plummeted to fame when all the dancers stop and gather around the bandstand in tribute to a real drummer. Sans the crazy expressions, which added to the number no end, the old punch and stamina are still part of the number which Sammy can handle very well, thank you!

and these are not the only positions to be filled. We must remember that this is a VARSITY show and should be just what the name implies . . . it must be carried on by the students themselves, independent of any specific organization. If any club or organization wants to lend aid, however, that is perfectly glorious. Just one or two of these clubs can't be expected to carry the entire burden, and a handful of students can't either—it must be the work of the entire student body with the brains, brawn, and personal initiative of each and every individual thrown in. Let's all get hold of the lead rope and pull together—that's what it takes! We can have NO LAGGARDS!

Dedicated To Our Readers

It's just like I keep telling the guys down at the office, "It ain't the size of the dog in the fight, but it's the size of the fight in the dog that makes the difference."

For instance, take the rambling Red Raiders, who just barely rambled over St. Louis Thursday last. It's the smallest team—in weight and numbers—that we've ever seen out at ignorant hill, yet they've taken quite a few big boys to the cleaners this year, by the sheer process of scrapping to beat all hell for every point they make.

All of which would tend to remind us that there are a number of "little but loud" organizations beginning to stick their heads above the moist South Plains sod. Perhaps one of the loudest of these is the group which hid out in the alley back of 14th street the other night along about one or two in the morning, and after singing a few hymnals to clear their throats, burst forth into the stirring chords of "She's Got The Habit." Gee, Papa, ain't them social clubites cards, huh?

All hell is going to break loose some of these days on the Tech Tattler, if he doesn't quit swiping the stuff THE TOREADOR is using the next day. To be scooped legally is one thing—to be scooped by what is usually scooped up around horse-barns, is quite another story.

It is rumored that the Tattler is a very prominent club man on the campus—all of which would make this little bit of bait the more appetizing to the editor, whose tendencies are way over on the side of the reeds.

And speaking of your (X) being red, maybe we shouldn't have run the one entitled "Let God Do It—Because He Knows How." In spite of the fact we still believe that God is getting too much credit for the general crumminess of mankind, it seems that putting His name in this paper is—to quite a few more or less honest ministers—nothing short of Liber, PER SE.

And still on the subject of (X's) being red, you'd never recognize the old place now; three months of trying to keep aggies, engineers, arts and sciences, and even home economics students off our necks has caused most of the staff to look forward toward publications elections with greatest of joy. Why anyone will run is a constant source of amazement—even to those of us who won last year.

GO TO THE POLLS TODAY AND VOTE—YOUSE WENCHES!

TODAY THE STAFF OF THE TOREADOR GIVES YOU THE OPPORTUNITY TO VOTE FOR THE "MOST GLAMOROUS MAN ON THE CAMPUS OF TEXAS TECHNOLOGICAL COLLEGE."

No member of the staff of THE TOREADOR is eligible for election—we know we ain't got no glammer boys over here.

Next week, the women will be given their chance to vote for the "most obnoxious, repulsive male on Tech's campus."

Again, to limit chances, no member of the staff of THE TOREADOR is eligible for election.

than the average of the 4 other of the largest-selling cigarettes tested—less than any of them—according to independent scientific tests of the smoke itself

WHEN you get right down to it, a cigarette is only as flavorful—only as cool—only as mild—as it smokes. The smoke's the thing! Obvious—yes, but important—all-important because what you get in the smoke of your cigarette depends so much on the way your cigarette burns.

Science has pointed out that Camels are definitely slower-burning (see left). That means a smoke with more mildness, more coolness, and more flavor.

Now—Science confirms another important advantage of slower burning . . . of Camels.

Less nicotine—in the smoke! Less than any of the 4 other of the largest-selling brands tested—28% less than the average!

Light up a Camel . . . a s-l-o-w-burning Camel . . . and smoke out the facts for yourself. The smoke's the thing!

"SMOKING OUT" THE FACTS about nicotine. Experts, chemists analyze the smoke of 5 of the largest-selling brands . . . find that the smoke of slower-burning Camels contains less nicotine than any of the other brands tested.

CAMEL— THE SLOWER-BURNING CIGARETTE —

TIME IN!

BY BILL WOOD
Toreador News Editor

NO ONE ever accused Dana X Bible of lifting pencils from a blind man, but the bald-pated Longhorn coach would do almost anything to knock off the Texas Aggies tomorrow.

If the University of Texas takes that tilt, it'll be the biggest steal since the Indians sold Manhattan for a handful of beads.

Of interest to pigskin partisans might be these points: 1. Texas A&M has won four games from Texas in Austin in 36 years. Three of those were prior to 1910.

2. 1922 was the last year for A&M to win in Austin—a 14-7 triumph. Since then, Memorial stadium was dedicated, and the Aggies have scored a slim-hipped total of 18 points in the horseshoe. That's a point-a-year average.

3. Dana X Bible piloted the Aggies to their 14-7 victory in 1922.

IT WAS Thanksgiving Day of 1938 and I and 40,000 other people sat in Memorial stadium. There were the Texas Longhorns, smaller in stature than the Lubbock high Westerners. They hadn't won a game all season. They hadn't kicked an extra point all season.

And there were the hulking Texas Aggies—Dandy Dick Todd, Jarrin Jawn Kimbrough, Marcell Pugh, Odell Herman and Jim Thomason in the backfield. Men like Pannell, Boyd, Routt and Bruno Schroeder in the line.

We saw an inspired herd of steers, a white blast in my ear, a headlight blinded my eyes. Then came Drake's voice, "Well, whaddya know, we made it!"

And that night the late Reeves Henly and I stowed away on a Red Raider special headed for the Sun Bowl game in El Paso. We were apprehended by a negro porter at Shallowater, which cost us $10 hush money.

Even today a train whistle instigates a tremendous itching in my insteps.

That is one reason I am all a-twitter over Friday night's departure for Albuquerque and Saturday's game with New Mexico U.

There are a few simple rules for riding specials:

1. Make sure the train is moving. See TIME IN Page Four

Raiders Leave For New Mexico Friday At Noon

Lobos Determined To Avenge Former Losses By Upsetting Raiders

By JIM BRIGHAM
Associate Sports Editor

Nearing the end of a tough 11-game schedule, the Texas Tech Red Raiders will roll down the rails Friday at 1 o'clock toward the stronghold of the New Mexico Lobos in Albuquerque.

On the heels of the Raiders, a student special will follow.

The Lobos, a team that came within 60 seconds of ruining a perfect season record for the Techs in 1938, have not beaten Tech in their past five clashes, but as game time nears odds are falling back to a standstill.

Started Slow
Off to a slow start when they lost in the mud to an inferior Wyoming eleven in the opening game, the Lobos in their last three games apparently have regained their form and confidence.

Incidentally, the University of Arizona is the same team that won over Oklahoma A&M, 24-0, while the Raiders were fortunate to tie the "Ookies." Comparatively speaking, the Lobos are three or four touchdowns ahead of the Men in Red.

Aerial Circus Slated
More than likely, the sky above University stadium in Albuquerque Saturday afternoon about 3 o'clock, will be clouded with pigskins.

After nipping a spirited St. Louis Billiken eleven by the margin of a single point, the overconfidence was taken from the Raiders and the team coordination evident in an earlier fracas with Miami may reappear. If so, the outcome will be merely a matter of formality.

If not, cobblestones will be large and numerous on the road to an unscathed season for the La Fonda inhabitants.

Raiders In Red Select All-Star 'ii' From Foes

On the long trip back from St. Louis last week, the Raiders, probably thinking about the tackles they missed and the tackles they failed to move, the passes they should have caught and the ones that could have been intercepted, picked an all-opponent eleven.

Here They Are:
Ends: Jett, Wake Forest; Moore, Oklahoma A. & M. Tackles: Zimmer, St. Louis; Preston, Wake Forest; Guards: Liles, Oklahoma A. & M.; Trunzo, Wake Forest; Center: Apolskis, Marquette; Halfbacks: Galovich, Wake Forest; Reynolds, Oklahoma A. & M.; Quarterback: Weber, St. Louis; Fullback: Palanski, Wake Forest.

At the University of Texas, all the athletes live in Hill Hall or "Hero Dorm," as it is often called. As you enter the mess hall, you will notice a wire over the door covered with clothes pins.

Clothes pins are used as napkin holders. Each one is marked with a boy's name and it serves as a place card at the table.

Drawing my head down from the clouds, I want to remind all you suckers reading this column that Tech's undefeated march is not quite over.

Standing in the way are the New Mexico Lobos and San Francisco Dons. Foremost at present, of course, are the Lobos, a gang of Ted Shipkey-coached lads who

TIME OUT!

By JACK YELTON
Sports Editor

WITH my usual candor, I am going to toss in two cents, lay my cards on the table and call a spade a spade. I hereby invite some BOWL association to invite the Texas Tech Red Raiders to play a one-day stand in their hamlet the afternoon of January 1, next!

In return for YOUR invitation, gentlemen, the Scarlet Scourge of the Southwest will put on a football act that's guaranteed to bring down the house. You'll be casting your orbits at a high-geared machine that is NUMBER 2 in these parts.

If you can see them at all, you'll gasp over some of the fastest packages of humanity that have ever brought cheers to the lips of an alumni. In Amoret (the "Flomot Flash"), Hill, Austin, Lowe and Douglass, the Raiders boast chain-lightning that has struck with deadly ferocity all year.

Playing a leading role will be elongated E. J. McKnight, one of the highest scoring and greatest offensive ends in the country. He's guaranteed to take care of the receiving end of an aerial combination that strikes with the cunning of a mountain lion and strength of a panzer unit.

Did someone mention power? With the variety of a Shakespearean volume, the Men in Red push forward big Charlie "Devo" Dvoracek, one of the mightiest bone-crushers ever to commit legal assault in a Tech football suit. Some say he's got Jarrin Jawn beat for pure power, and point to the fact that up until his nose injury in the Centenary clash, he hadn't come close to being stopped by a line on the Raider schedule.

In Smith and Storrs colorful P. Willis Cawthon has a couple of passers who delight in daylight bombing attacks on defenseless end zones. Storrs, chunks a 60 yard aerial for at least four or five yards.

In Smith and Storrs colorful P. Willis Cawthon has a couple of passers who delight in daylight bombing attacks on defenseless end zones. Storrs, chunks a 60 yard aerial for at least four or five yards.

I could go on for hours like this and still miss the Raiders stars, but we've got the real business to settle.

I mean to impartially extend this little invitation to every bowl group in Uncle Sam's borders. It will probably be "first come, first served"—these super-charged boys from the Plains are AT LIBERTY only temporarily.

Just between you three readers and I, here's the way the lineups around the country have a good chance of reading the first day of 1941.

ROSE BOWL—Stanford vs. Texas A&M
SUGAR BOWL—Tennessee vs. Boston College

Wail of the Wolf . . .

IT HAS been the policy of many newspaper writers and editors in America never to publish an anonymous letter. But, I once read a short story in "Breezy" magazine entitled "Too Late For Love." The author wasn't named, but the article was unsurpassable.

Hence, the following letter:
Horn Hall
Texas Tech
Messrs. Bill Wood and Jack Yelton
Toreador Office
Texas Tech
Lubbock, Texas
Dear Sirs:

Your ignorance or narrow-mindedness is very embarrassing. A visitor from out of town who had been reading your accounts of the mighty Webster's football feats asked me, after witnessing the game Saturday, in which Webster participated, if he was having an off day, or if that was the best Tech had. He had gathered from your articles that Webster was about the best on the bench.

Since you see the effect that your articles will have on persons who do not know the true situation, you are hurting Tech's football team as a whole by pursuing this mode of writing.

Webster gets more credit by sitting out and sitting on the bench or playing a minute or two and looking lousy, than Dvoracek and Douglas do for saving a game for Tech.

Very respectfully yours,
A Tech Student

Mr. Yelton will have to "speak for himself, Jack," but I hasten to contend that Dvoracek and Douglas have received more note than Webster, solely because they have done more. On the other hand, Webster play football ever since he stumbled onto his first Lubbock high school practice field on through his triumphant year as a Texas Tech freshman. I believe Webster will make the grade. He needs help, assurance and faith from fans and fellow-players alike.

Perhaps the pay-off won't come until his last game as a senior, but if Walter Webster runs wild again even for one single game, and it gives Texas Tech a victory over some top-ranking team, then neither fans nor coaches will have wasted their time and faith in the Cisco sizzler from Lubbock high.

I appreciate your letter, "Tech Student," for I feel it represents some bit of student opinion. But, I hope you agree with me that great players, even great football teams, aren't made on the practice field alone. You can sacrifice either of those on the altar of public opinion, and Texas Tech is striving too hard for recognition and tradition to swing the knife.

Mr. Lain didn't even make All-Southwest conference that year. Back to Tech, you may remember the story of Maurice Chernosky, halfback on the Red Raiders as a senior in 1937. Chernosky, he of the bulbous nose, started the season a first-string half-back. It was to be his banner year. Partly because of injuries, partly because of a "let-down," Chernosky fizzled like mineral rights on a salt-water well.

But, The Toreador continued running his picture; its columnists kept boosting the lagging leather-lugger. With someone behind him, Chernosky fought on. He didn't reach the peak foreseen a year before, but he didn't have to check in his suit.

THE same is true of Jumbo. He has the stuff, but he's going through a crisis. This is Jumbo's first year in big-time football. He came to Tech on top of the high school heap. That in itself is a mental hurdle for Webster to leap. Against Centenary, Jumbo

Mural Tourney Postponed For Fish Practice

Four games in Tech's intramural basketball tourney were postponed Monday and Tuesday night due to freshmen basketball practice scheduled for the same dates.

As soon as a schedule can be arranged without any conflicts, the tourney will continue and the games—College Club vs. Kemas; Los Camas vs. Silver Keys; Wanglers vs. No-Stars and Newman Club vs. Centaurs, will be run off as usual, director T. L. Gilley announced.

Saturday's TOREADOR will carry a complete schedule for the following week.

Amusements—

AT THE THEATRAHS: Tonight there is another preview at the New Lindsey when Rosalind Russell, Brian Aherne, and John Carroll play in Universal's triumph, "HUSBAND WIFE".

"Captain Caution", a story of adventure and extreme excitement, will be screened at the Tower starting tomorrow and continuing through Saturday.

Time Out—

Back in '38 the bowl-bound Raiders found out for the first time what it means to take a New Mexico university team too lightly.

This week the Red Raiders won't be taking their New Mexico foes lightly. They realize that a win over an undefeated Tech is just what Shipkey will need to save his scalp from the wolves.

Strengthened by the return of Dvoracek to the lineup, the Scarlets will shoot the works at NMU.

If you are intending to ride that special train to Albuquerque Friday night, you had better see two gentlemen TODAY about tickets.

For a ducat to the game Saturday afternoon, see Mr. Mule Dowell in the Hilton Hotel lobby, and for train tickets contact either James Snyder, student council proxy, or Ralph Trollinger, at the Santa Fe offices.

This student special will leave Lubbock at 11 p.m. Friday night and arrive in Albuquerque early Saturday morning. Return trip will leave the Duke City about midnight Saturday.

Curry Hits New Low And Takes Contest Again

Hitting a low 80, 56 points ahead of his nearest competitor, Ernest Curry of Haskell finished first in the eighth of the Toreador-Sears Roebuck football contest last week.

All entries for this week's contest, next to last in the series of ten, must be in by noon tomorrow, Thursday, as several of the games on the list will be played on the traditional Thanksgiving Day.

Holding his lead of several weeks, Gene Nickell came closer to the grand prize, a $50 ten-tube Silver-tone radio, but lost two points to Sammy Tate, who gained on him last week.

- With two weeks of guessing left in the contest, the ten leaders and their point-standing are: 1. Gene Nickell, 979, 2. Sammy Tate, 1000, 3. Herbert M. Gray, 1039, 4. James Atkinson, 1045, 5. James Thompson, 1045, 6. George Wafford, 1057, 7. Gordon Shackelford, 1057, 8. Ardath Head, 1059, 9. Wallace Smith, 1060, 10. D. A. Tmopson, 1070.

Time In—

2. Nexas throw light-bulbs overboard. Put them in your pocket and chunk the referee Saturday afternoon.

3. Never offer the man next to you a drink. He may take it.

4. Do not plan to purchase intoxicants in Clovis. The dispensaries will have been locked half-an-hour when the train arrives.

5. Chinning on the emergency brake cord is considered fudging in the best circles. 6. Whiskey in the boiler will not make the train go faster, but a little in the engineer wouldn't hurt. 7. Rule No. 4 is fact, not fiction. May I call your attention to that again. The dispensaries shut shop at midnight. It's a two-hour tour to Clovis.
