

Tech Entertains Parents Today With Tea, Game

Fifth Annual Event Will Be Observed By Faculty and Students

Fifth annual Parents' Day is being observed today by students and faculty of Texas Tech.

Parents of all students have been invited to come to Lubbock to participate in the day's program and thereby become acquainted with faculty members and the manner in which the school is conducted.

From two until four o'clock the dormitory associations and the student council will entertain parents with a tea in the lounge of the women's dormitory. At this time the parents will receive identification ribbons.

Presidents of the three dormitories, Kathleen Webb, Doak hall; Maitland Beseda, Horn hall and Rex Rose, Knapp hall, together with student council members headed by president James Snyder and faculty members including President Clifford B. Jones will receive the guests.

Members of Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity, and other students will conduct the parents on tours of the campus, before and after the tea.

Mothers of the football players will be honored with a tea from three until four at the home of President and Mrs. Jones. Wives of the athletic officials, Mesdames P. W. Cawthon, Berl Huffman, R. T. Smith and members of the women's physical education department, Mrs. George Langford and Miss Margaret Baskin will be hostesses.

Highlight of the program will be the football game at 8:30 in the stadium. Section B on the west side of the stadium will be reserved for the parents. Reduced prices of $1.15 will be made to parents wearing identification ribbons.

Prizes will be awarded at the game to those parents who have come the greatest distance, those who have the most children now enrolled in Tech and to those who have had the largest number enrolled since the school opened. James Snyder will make the presentations.

Purpose of the celebration is to provide an opportunity for parents, students and faculty to become better acquainted and to reach an understanding of their mutual interests. The program in the past has been successful and evoked expressions of satisfaction.

Tech Officials Attend Funeral

Go To Sneed Services In Amarillo Thursday

Texas Tech was represented at the funeral of Joe T. Sneed, Jr., former president of the two board directors and most of the administrative council.

Sneed, who died Tuesday, was chairman of the board of directors of Tech and had served as a member since 1933. He became chairman in 1938 when Dr. Clifford B. Jones became president of the school.

The head of the directors was a prominent citizen and oilman former president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association.

Chairman of the building committee, Sneed was largely responsible for the extensive construction on the campus during his term of service.

Those attending the funeral services were President Clifford B. Jones, Spencer A. Wells, vice-chairman of the board; W. T. Gaston, Dr. H. L. Kent, Deans O. V. Adams, James G. Allen, R. C. Goodwin, A. H. Leidigh, and W. C. Holden, Mark McGee, member of the board from Fort Worth, met the party in Amarillo and returned to Lubbock with them.

Yearbook Editor Names Deadlines

If you want to save that extra 25 cents on your La Ventana pictures you have only tomorrow to get them made. A. J. Kemp, La Ventana editor, has announced the deadline on the 75 cent pictures. After that the cost will be $1 a student.

Kemp added. He also stated that the club membership contest closes November 1. An award will be given the club having the greatest representation by that time.

All pictures for the club section must be made before November 15.

Miss Gill Reviews 'The Family' For Study Group

Miss Lucille Gill reviewed "The Family" by Nina Fedorova, a Russian exile, at a meeting of the Book Reviewers October 15.

Elaine Simmons was elected at the meeting as AWS representative for the club.

Shades of our great aunt Suzy! At last the cameraman proves beyond a doubt that some of the aggies entered in tomorrow's rodeo can actually stay put on a horse. Above are Lewis Nance, the shorty, and Tom Green, about to feel the weight of Nance's rope. Green is an aggie from Albany, Texas, and Nance hails from Justiceburg — rumored to also be found in the borders of the Lone Star state.

The panel above is taken from shots made of the aggies who are rehearsing for parts they will play in the rodeo sponsored by Block and Bridle club this year.

An annual college rodeo was formerly an outstanding feature of Tech's school year, but was abandoned four years in favor of the yearly production, La Remuda. A high man from Tech's rodeo will be chosen to represent the college at the All-American rodeo to be held in Ft. Worth Nov. 15 at the Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum.

Program Given For State Home Economics Meet

Texas Club Delegates Will Convene At Tech On October 25 and 26

Social functions will feature the program at the annual convention of the Texas Home Economics association of College clubs which meets on this campus October 25 and 26.

More than 40 delegates from various schools have mailed acceptance of the invitations to attend. About 75 are expected to represent their schools. Ernestine Story of Tech is president of the association and in charge of plans. She announced the complete program of activities this week.

The first affair is a buffet supper from 6:30 until 8 Friday night following registration of delegates in the afternoon. An informal social hour will be held from 8 to 9:30.

Saturday morning a general mixer at 8:30 will precede the opening meeting from 9 until 11 when the topics of the meeting will be discussed.

At 11 Miss Ruth Huey, state director of homemaking education, will make a talk to the girls on a pertinent subject.

The luncheon from 12:30 to 2 will be followed by a panel discussion until 2:15. Phi Upsilon Omicron will entertain with a tea from 3:30 until 4:30 at which time a business meeting will be held.

A banquet at 7 and a Halloween party and dance from 8:30 until 10 will close the convention activities.

You Can Make It Out Of Anything

Match stems, Pinto beans, clothes pins and corks are among the materials used by applied arts students in making the necklaces now on display in the home economics building.

Miss Troy Allen, instructor in applied arts, is in charge of the class which has made the amusing costume jewelry from inexpensive materials. Each member of the class has made an original accessory.

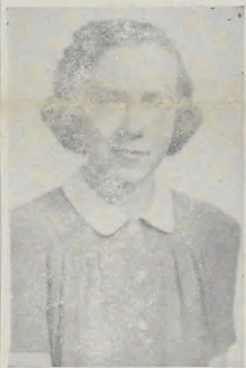

Other materials used in making the necklaces are pine cones, acorns, peanuts, wooden blocks, raffia and macaroni. Color has been added to some of the articles with tempera paints.

Band Will Get White Coveralls

The band has ordered new white coveralls for all members announced Earnest Langley, president of Kappa Kappa Psi today.

The suits are to be worn on band trips. They have "Texas Tech Band" across the back and also the emblem of the organization. They are being made and are expected soon, Langley states.

One Big Shot...

Miss Gladys Short, district supervisor of homemaking education, will conduct a panel discussion at the Texas Home Economics Association of College Clubs convention October 25 and 26. The discussion will be on problems of college clubs. Miss Short received her masters from the University of Texas. She has served as a member of the national advisory committee of student clubs for the past three years.

Sock And Buskin Elect Officers

Members of Sock and Buskin elected officers Tuesday night at their first regular meeting of the year. Those elected were: Joe Burson, president; Maitland Beseda, vice-president; Katherine McCallum, secretary; Vondee Lewis, reporter; and Clifton Sprouls, sergeant-at-arms.

Miss Ruth Pirtle, Mr. John Watson, and Miss Annah Jo Pendleton were introduced and announcement was made that try outs for membership in Sock and Buskin will begin Friday, October 25 at 3 p. m. All persons interested in joining should call for application blanks soon.

A program will be given by the new pledges on October 29.

Clay Leads REA Conference Talk

Approximately 50 persons attended a program on rural electrification held in the agricultural engineering shop last Saturday, Henry P. Clay, head of the agricultural engineering department, announced today.

In the absence of K. J. Edwards, district agent, Miss Lida Cooper opened the meeting which was presided over by M. R. Bentley, agricultural engineering specialist from Texas A&M college.

Among the topics discussed was "Electrical Power for Irrigation," a round table discussion led by Mr. Clay.

Plans Are Made For Dairy Day

West Texas Industry Will Be Tech Guest

In cooperation with the Texas Dairy Products association, the division of agriculture will sponsor on November 1, a one day dairy program which will start at 10 at the college gymnasium and continue until 4 p. m. Dr. K. M. Renner, head of the department of dairy manufactures announced today.

Designated as "West Texas Dairy Day" the program in the gymnasium will be followed by an open house for all visitors held by the division of agriculture.

Among the 500 visitors expected will be farmers, bankers, creamery managers, business men, newspaper men, county agents, home demonstration agents, teachers and others interested in the development of this area.

Coed Studies To Be Veterinarian And Leads Band

"Hello, I want a veterinarian! My cat's about to die. You're the vet? But I thought this was a man's job."

Such a conversation may take place in about 1948 after Jane Holman, 19 year old sophomore chemistry major from Seymour finishes school, and starts a cat and dog hospital.

At least, that's what she's hoping to do. She is interested in animals and is going to attend a veterinary school in the east.

She likes hillbilly music. She and her brother organized a cowboy band known as the "Rhythm Kids" which played for cowboy reunions and dances for eight years. Jane has a guitar, a violin, and a bass fiddle in her room in the dormitory and she and her friends frequently entertain Doak hall residents with their music.

Electrical Group Meets Monday

The American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Tech student branch, will hold its second meeting of the current semester Monday night, October 21, at 7 p. m. in room 152 of the engineering building. All members of the organization, electrical engineering students wishing to become affiliated with the A.I.E.E., and all freshmen E.E.'s are invited to attend the meeting.

The program will be in the form of a smoker with refreshments, jokes, and speakers to present their views on present problems. The entertainment committee is making plans for showing a moving picture. The program is to be a non-technical one.

And Another

Miss Ruth Huey, state director of homemaking education, will be principal speaker at the Texas Home Economics Association of College Clubs convention. Her address will be on "Making Democracy Work in College Clubs." Miss Huey received her B. S. degree in home economics from the University of Texas and her M. A. at Teachers college, Columbia university. She has taught homemaking in several Texas cities and has been connected with the state department of education, serving as state director for the past four years.

Tech Exhibits Place At Fair

Exhibits of Texas Tech at the National Hereford show at the Dallas state fair gave a very good account of themselves, according to Dr. W. L. Stangel, head of the animal husbandry department.

Three steers entered by the college in the special classification for feeder steers placed fourth, seventh, and eighth respectively, and second as a group of three steers. Ratings would have been higher, said Mr. Stangel, but for the fact that these steers had been used continuously for practice judging the week before they were shipped to Dallas.

Tech's other entry in this, the largest show ever held in the Southwest, was an American jack which won second in his class.

Glock Asked To Prepare Article

Dr. Waldo S. Glock, assistant professor of geology, has been invited to contribute an article to the Botanical Review. Subject of Glock's article will be tree rings and the relations of their development to past weather conditions.

The magazine prints only solicited material and is devoted almost exclusively to botany.

Wild West Comes To Life Here Tomorrow

Initial "Western Day" for Texas Tech begins at sunrise tomorrow morning by official proclamation of the president's office.

Highlights of the day are parade of rodeo participants, selection of the Block and Bridle rodeo queen, the rodeo, and Sandy Sanderson's rodeo dance in the gym that night.

Uncle Sam Signs Up 754 Techsans For Draft Call

Students Have Little Difficulty In Giving Answers; Cards Issued

Seven hundred and fifty-four Tech students between 21 and 35 registered for Uncle Sam's draft Wednesday without any special incidents taking place.

Members of the registration staff said that most students had answers on the tip of their tongues and few questions were raised about any of the eleven answers given. This was attributed to the fact that practically the same information is required in the regular college registration in September. The Tech group is a fairly select one and few questions could be raised.

Most trouble the registration staff had was in describing a registrant. Whether one had fair or ruddy complexion, gray or blue-gray eyes, light brown hair had some of the registration officials guessing. Usually they asked the applicant what he thought he had.

The registration moved fairly swiftly and smoothly from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. During mid-morning and early afternoon lines formed outside the office, but the rest of the time registrants were signed up as quickly as they came in.

Each registrant was given a card signifying that he had signed up for the draft. This card must be carried at all times in order to prove that he has registered and thus avoid heavy penalties.

The registration cards were turned in to the central committee in Lubbock and will be forwarded to local draft boards which will classify each registrant and determine his fitness and ability to serve.

Those called for service will be selected by lot from serial numbers sent to Washington. College students are, however, exempt until July 1, 1941.

Industrial Engineering Graduates Are Employed

From the office of O. A. St. Clair, head department of industrial engineering and engineering drawing, comes word of the placement of two Tech graduates.

Carl W. Bechtold, 1938 graduate of industrial engineering has been employed by the Container Corporation of America at Ft. Worth. He was formerly with the Lubbock Steel Works.

Robert A. Smith Jr. 1940 graduate in industrial engineering has been employed as part time instructor in welding with the Fairbanks-Morse Company of Beloit, Wis.

Tech's first rodeo in five years will be unrec'd under the auspices of the Block and Bridle club at the Panhandle-South Plains fair grounds beginning at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon.

A cowboy-cowgirl parade from the circle through town will precede the affair. The parade starts promptly at 1 o'clock, and Lyman McGee, publicity director for the rodeo, urges all who have horses to take part in the parade.

The rodeo program will encompass the four usual features of rodeos: calf roping, bronc busting, steer riding and wild cow milking. Elbert (Highpockets) Overton, manager of the rodeo, stated. Thirty-seven entries will compete in these events, according to the official entry list issued Wednesday afternoon.

A rodeo queen will be selected to reign over the affair and to issue the official challenge of the Block and Bridle club against all comers to "out cowboy" its members. Thirty-two girls, representatives of social clubs, have entered the contest. The queen will be chosen by Mrs. Clifford B. Jones and Mrs. W. L. Stangel on riding ability, beauty, and costume.

"Although the contestants will be amateurs, the wide experience on the open range of many of the participants is a guarantee of excellent and wholesome performances. Tom Murray, president of the Block and Bridle club, said. Spectators are promised many thrills reminiscent of the open range.

At this event will be chosen the college representative to the All-American rodeo and Horse Show to be held at the Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum at Fort Worth, November 15, according to an announcement from Clifford B. Jones, president of the college.

Classes will not be dismissed, according to this announcement. It states simply that "we trust the rodeo will be supported by student body and faculty members whose commitments and responsibilities will permit."

Admission to the rodeo is 40 cents; students with activity tickets will be admitted free of charge. McGee stipulated, however, that activity tickets must be accompanied by identification pictures. Proceeds will be used solely

College Chorus Names Officials

J. T. Lamm was elected president of the college chorus at a regular meeting Monday night. Other officers elected were: vice-president, Ruth Wade; secretary, Mary Grace Parkinson; treasurer, Florene Smith, and business manager, Carolyn Seale.

Enrollment of the chorus this semester is approximately 250, which is about the same as last year. There is no special program or concert underway at present, and the chorus is singing from the "Golden Book of Songs."

Members are urged by Dr. Julien Paul Elitz, director, to sing in the various church choirs and in the "Messiah" when it is presented at Christmas.

It's Red Raiders vs. BYU Tonight At 8:30

Unbeaten Tech Tries For Third Straight

Texas Tech's Red Raiders, momentarily tired of rambling over the country, trot out on home territory tonight at 8:30 in an effort to overpower the thousands of Tech mothers and dads who are in town for Parents Day festivities.

TIME OUT!

By JACK YELTON Sports Editor

THE more we think about it, the more we become convinced that this little game of football tonight will be in the nature of a runaway for the Red Raiders. These boys are hot as the proverbial firecracker and they're liable to make the final score look like a basketball count. Last issue we picked Tech by a 25-14 score, but we're beginning to feel sorry that we were so darn conservative in the guessing.

Maybe the reason for this outburst of confidence is the fact that we talked to an ex-Eastern athlete the other night and he said some things that opened this corner's eyes. This fellow has been around a football field a long time and formerly played with Notre Dame and West Virginia. He knows the Tech men, works out with them and traveled with them to the Montana game last week. We pass along some of our conversation.

Us: "No kiddin' now, Jones (anonymous, of course), what do you think of the brand of football we play down here at Texas Tech?" Him: "Well, I've played on some pretty good football teams and this is the roughest, toughest game here that I've ever mixed in."

Us: "How does our squad compare with the big eastern teams in the matter of being able to 'take it'?" Him: "The big difference is that these boys are just a hell of a lot tougher. Up East they train 'em

Only three days away from a weary train ride from Missoula, Montana, where they trounced Montana university 32-19, the undefeated Raiders are rated as favorites in most books for tonight's clash.

They will be meeting a Cougar team that got rough with Wyoming the past week to the tune of 20-0. Coached by the "young" veteran, Eddie Kimball, the Utahans rate as one of the strongest in the mountain circuit and have dropped only one game, that to mighty Utah by a close score.

Under the lights this evening, Tech fans will be seeing a Matorador team that is undefeated and has only a tie with Oklahoma. A Matorador is a perfect second. They'll see in action a scoring machine that rolled up over 400 yards against Montana and so impressed sports writers there that the men of the press pinned such labels on them as "the TNT" from Texas and "the chain lightning team."

On the other side of the ledger, the Cougars are slated to make full use of their Lloyd "Pony" Brink, a slippery right halfback who does a lot of running and passing for the Kimballmen, and Dean Gardner, a squat, bull-like fullback.

The starting lineup for Tech sees Amomett in at left half in place of Storrs, Bain at quarter, Hill at right half and "Jumbo" Webster at fullback. Also ready for plenty of action in the backfield are Smith, Dvoracek, Douglas, Austin, Lowe, Robbins, Stone and Brown.

Ballast In Brigham-Young Line

Gail Lewis, giant BYU guard, is one of the largest men on the Cougar squad. He is hailed as one of the best guards in the Rocky Mountains and reached his peak in the game against Wyoming last week.

Wood, Yelton Clash In Battle To Determine Which Predicting System Is More Accurate

By JACK YELTON Toreador Sports Editor

Coach Smith Say: Fella Who Forget Shoe Go Barefoot

"Hello, Coach Smith? Say, I've just discovered that I haven't any football shoes. I musta left them at home or lost them on the way, or something."

"Oh, is that so? Well, now, isn't that just fine of you to do that. Mr. Daniels, you may plan to come out to practice this afternoon barefooted, just to make you remember to bring your football shoes along the next time you leave on more than a thousand mile trip."

Picadors, Aggies Clash Tonight In Lawton, Okla.

Twenty-four husky looking fish gridlers, ready and determined to bring home a victory from the Cameron Aggies, piled on a bus yesterday afternoon for Oklahoma.

Tonight at 8 o'clock on Roosevelt field at Lawton, Okla., the varsity boys will be waiting for the referee's whistle to start them toward what they hope will be another win.

Although the Picadors as yet have played but one game—a 24-6 decision over NMMI—they are pointing to an undefeated season and prospects for such a year are decidedly in their favor.

The freshmen sport a fast, hard-hitting backfield combination in Baker, Everett, Callahan and Mc-Known, but weaknesses in the forward wall are evident, especially at the tackle slots, where reserves are badly needed.

Cameron is determined to avenge a 7-6 defeat suffered last year that ruined their otherwise perfect record and are expected to give the Picador turfmen plenty of trouble.

You've Still Got A Chance In Toreador Guessing Game

In this issue of THE TOREADOR appears the fourth entry blank in the ten week TOREADOR-Sears-Roebuck & Co. football guessing contest. It must be filled out and put in the contest box in the men's department of Sears-Roebuck & Co. by noon next Friday, one week from today.

The ten games listed should prove to be an adequate test of foresight for all entrants, especially from the standpoint of calling correct scores. Accuracy in scoring is the thing that pays off, so it would be helpful to consider both the offensive and defensive records of the opposing teams before predicting the probable score.

In the first week of the contest it was the 29-27 score of the Oklahoma-Oklahoma Aggie conflict that took the big toll in points off in the second week it was the North Carolina Tarheels who tipped the dope-bucket, along with Clemson, and put the pickers far above par in the matter of correct scores.

Winners to date have been Wallace Smith and Gene Nickell, with eight more to follow. Each week's leader receives $5 in merchandise from Sears-Roebuck & Co. and increases his chance of acquiring the grand prize by getting a jump on the rest of the field.

Varsity Netmen Meet Canyoners In Next Match

The next match for Tech's varsity tennis team will be with West Texas State, in Lubbock October 22. Singles matches will probably be contested in the morning and doubles in the afternoon, to enable the Buffaloes to return home before sundown.

to play 20 minutes, but Cawthon demands that each man be able to stay in there at top speed for 60 minutes.

Us: "Just what do you think of Cawthon and Smith and their teaching methods?"

Him: "Listen, mister, I've never seen two better coaches in my life. They build teams that are the tops in mechanical perfection, and as for guts—well, I take my hat off."

Us: "Now, Jones, what would you say the Raiders are going to do the remainder of this season? How'll they stand up against such teams as Marquette and Wake Forest?"

Him: "Jack, I've got $20 bet that Tech will be undefeated this season. Does that mean anything to you?"

Us: "It sounds like you really think they have something! But don't you think you're spreading it on a little too much about this undefeated season?"

Him: "Not a bit, no sir. This gang is gonna open a lot of eyes all over this country. I predict they'll make the people around here forget about that '38 team. They've got that Notre Dame system clicking faster and smoother than nine out of ten of the 'big' schools have. There's no telling how far they might go this year, with their share of the breaks."

Before we forget it, here are the Raiders who were picked by their teammates as the outstanding "stars" of the Montana game. The honored gentlemen this week are Captain Ty Bein, in the backfield, and Jack Shanks, lineman. While the radio and newspapers were splashing some of their material over the other and over the sports page, these were the men that really did the best jobs. Bein turned in what Grizzlies players and coaches said was the finest and most savage game of blocking they had seen in a long time.

feverish gleam in my bright, brown eyes. Somehow, I just feel it in my bones that I can snatch more winners than usual. I hear some ethereal voice whispering that "you can at least get enough right to beat that Wood guy!" Even though the voice sounds suspiciously like my own, I believe it. I am ready to go, for better or for worse!

Psychology Over in the mint julep region the terrors from Tennessee should out-manuever Alabama by at least 23 to 7 due to the well-known fact that Bzzzzzzz, the 'Bama quarterback, is worried by financial troubles, and also because the "C" boys have been promised an extra night out if they whip Alabama.
