

Preview Of Museum Planned

By CHARLOTTE BLACKBURN
Toreador Staff Writer

A dinner-preview of the Texas Tech Museum will be held at 7 p. m. Friday in the auditorium of the new building, Dr. W. C. Holden, head of the history and anthropology department and director of the museum, said Monday.

Given by members of the Texas Tech Museum association, the dinner will honor all persons who had a part in making the museum possible, Doctor Holden said. Members of the Museum association, their guests, the Tech board of Directors, college officials and contractors of the structure are invited.

Members of the Board of Directors who will attend are Raymond Pringer, Charles W. Woodruff, Charles C. Thompson, and Chancellor E. Weymouth.

The ranch style dinner will be followed by a business meeting of the Museum association. James G. Allen, dean of men, will express gratitude to everyone who contributed toward making the museum a reality. Doctor Holden will then speak on the plans and policies of the new structure.

Officers are to be elected and standing committees will be appointed. Committees to be named are: pioneer rotunda, James H. Milam, chairman; accessions, Mrs. W. P. Clement, chairman; donor, Roy Furr, chairman; committee on ceramics and objects of art, F. A. Kleinschmidt, chairman; murals, W. C. O'Mara, chairman; musical programs, Dr. Gene Hemmle, chairman; lectures and special programs, Dr. E. N. Jones, chairman; committee to plan the formal opening, Allen, chairman.

Planning for the museum dates back beyond the 1938 Texas Centennial. Funds were raised for the foundation of the building during the centennial celebration. A campus drive during the war accounted for some other funds, and a recent appropriation by the legislature permitted the final construction.

Exterior design of the building follows the Spanish renaissance lines of other campus buildings. Pastel color scheme has been used throughout the interior. Classrooms, exhibition halls and offices branch off the main rotunda. Formal opening of the museum will be held sometime next year. Mrs. Jean Quinn has been named archaeologist.

Paula Fix Becomes Yearbook Associate

Paula Fix, junior journalism major from Lubbock, was approved as associate editor of La Ventana, college yearbook, at a meeting of the Publications committee Monday afternoon.

Miss Fix edited the 1947 Lubbock Senior High school annual, The Westerner, which received an All-American rating for excellence.

A. B. Strehli, committee chairman, read a letter from Bob Parkinson, Bill Parsley and Margaret Clark recommending that Tech have a campus magazine. The publications group moved to submit the recommendation to the Student Council for discussion and possible action.

Strehli was given authority by the committee to approve the publication of all dormitory newspapers so long as they meet requirements and conform to publishing regulations.

The sum of $75 was approved to pay expenses of Keith Anderson, sports editor of The Toreador, for a trip to Fresno, Calif., to report the Raider-Spartan football game in the Raisin bowl Dec. 31. Anderson is to write news and feature stories and take pictures of the team's activities.

Roy Grimes, editor of La Ventana, reported that submission of

Techsans Recall Pearl Harbor Eight Years Ago Today

By JOAN MAPLES
Toreador Staff Writer

December 7, 1941, just eight years ago today, is well remembered by the American people, if Tech students and faculty members are any indication.

The thing remembered most vividly is complete surprise at news of the Pearl Harbor attack. Persons interviewed Monday made a comment first on the complete unexpectedness of the attack. Many people did not believe the first reports.

Ivan L. Little, assistant professor and head of philosophy, remarked that he was studying at the time and listening to a radio.

"When I heard the news, I did not believe it. I thought it was a program on the order of Orson Welles' 'Men from Mars.' Even when they kept repeating the announcement, I still thought it was just talk, especially after the Japanese officials in Washington denied it."

Miss Mabel B. Smith, instructor in sociology, said "When I finally realized that it was the truth, I was surprised and shocked."

"It was nearly unbelievable, even when I saw it in a paper," Mrs. Louise Allen, assistant professor of journalism, said. "I had just seen the play 'It Happened One Night,' and it seemed ironical to get the news just then." ("It Happened One Night" is a propaganda play dealing with the Nazi infiltration.)

Austin McCloud Chosen As Tech's Most Handsome Man At Club Scarlet Saturday

By SUE HOLMES
Toreador Staff Writer

Austin O. "Digger" McCloud, Wrangler, was elected Tech's most handsome man at the annual Club Scarlet contest Saturday night. The mock night club is sponsored annually by Theta Sigma Phi, women's honorary journalism fraternity.

Bill Parsley emceed the program which first featured a group of women's social club pledges in a "television" screen test. Fannibeth Allen introduced Ann Malone who was coordinator for the acts. Jan Dorn and Rita Lane presented a black-face skit followed by Norma Everett dancing the Charleston.

Betty Formby mimicked Betty Hutton singing "Papa Don't Preach to Me." Billie Hutchings tap danced to "La Cumparsita." Chorus girls Corine Garrison, Norma Everett, Phyllis Leach, Viola Sansom, Lorraine McCloud and Billie Lou Betts sang and danced a secretary's version of "I Don't Know Why."

Shirley Harris, Nancy Davis and Bob "Porkey" Parkinson, vocal soloists, were called back for numerous encores. Guida Miller played a barroom piano version of "Five Feet Two." Mary Jeanne Naugle and Kenneth Hobbs tangoed to "Jealousy." A take-off on Homer and Jethro featured Janet Moore, Pat Todd and Freida Harwell, who were dressed mountain style. Jim Thomas concluded the program with magic tricks.

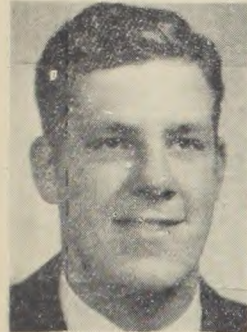

McCloud was presented a miniature vanity set as a prize. Contestants for the honor were Tommy Bell representing Aggie club; Bill Bates, College Club; Ronnie Fee, Silver Key; Bonner Geddie, Kemas; Robert Knight, Sochi; Wayne Harman, Centaur; and Tommy Scott, Saddle Tramps. Voting was done by secret ballot. Music for dancing was furnished by juke box. Chaperones were Dean and Mrs. James G. Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Rutland.

CLASS MEETINGS SCHEDULED

Three classes will hold meetings this afternoon.
Seniors are to meet at 5 p. m. in Ad-320, with Harold Luke, president, in charge.
Juniors will convene at 5 p. m. in C-101. Pres. Ralph Lacy is to conduct the meeting.
Sophomores will meet at 5 p. m. in Ad-220. Bob Schmidt, president, will be in charge.

VETERANS ASKED TO REPORT

All veterans who are enrolled in school under Public Law 16 are requested to report to the office of Carroll Smyers, veterans coordinator, in the Guidance Center sometime this week.

Student Is Found Dead In Shamrock

Edward L. Briggs, freshman arts and sciences student from Shamrock, was found dead in the Shamrock First Methodist church at 10:30 a. m. Monday. A .22 caliber pistol was found near his body. Funeral arrangements had not been announced at press time. Bobby Clise, his roommate, Bryan Clise, Milburn Hayden, and Coaches Allie White and Dell Morgan plan to attend the services as representatives of the college.

Briggs was a member of the freshman football squad. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Briggs of Shamrock.

College authorities were informed that Briggs left Lubbock at 5:45 p. m. Sunday to catch a bus to his home. He had indicated to his friends that he planned to leave school. He had been to the movies with his roommate shortly before he left.

Rev. S. M. Dunnam, pastor of the First Methodist church in Shamrock, discovered his body. Reports from Shamrock indicate that Briggs had purchased a pistol Monday morning.

Skitch Henderson And Orchestra Play Rec Hall Dance Friday Night

One of America's outstanding orchestras and band leaders will come to Tech campus Friday to play for a Rec hall dance and to present a concert.

Skitch Henderson and his orchestra will play for a dance at 8 p. m. to which students will be admitted for $1.80, couple or stag. A concert at 5 p. m. will feature the orchestra. Admission price is 90 cents per person, with tickets being sold in Ad-114 on a first-come, first-served basis until capacity of the Rec hall is reached.

The orchestra is featuring Gregg Lawrence and Knobby Lee, Ed Zandy, and "Moose" Anderson, billed as brass wizards. The music makers have appeared in New York's Hotel Pennsylvania and Capitol theatre and in such places as the Sherman and Stevens hotels in Chicago and the Casa Loma ballroom in St. Louis.

Henderson was born in England 30 years ago and studied at the Lord's School of Music in London with the ambition to become a concert pianist. Coming to America when he was 16, the pianist, who had been taught to scorn popular music, began to appreciate Duke Ellington tunes. Soon Henderson was playing popular music with such top-ranking orchestras as Glen Gray's Casa Loma band, Skitch Ennis' band and with orchestras of Tommy Dorsey and Artie Shaw.

In 1939 the pianist performed on Dave Rose's radio program and was later musical director of the Frank Sinatra show. Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Dick Haymes, Arthur Rubenstein, and Sinatra were among his earliest boosters.

Capitol records asked Henderson to organize his own orchestra and signed him to an exclusive record-

Names Instead Of Numbers Asked For Three New Dorms

Men's Dorm IV, Women's Dorm III—cold, categorizing labels. They are our homes away from home, and we wish they had names. There is something in a name that gives a building dignity and individuality.

The new dormitories were given numbers and locations—III East and III West to designate the new brick and plaster constructions on the campus.

Later, they were given different numbers—III and IV—to make mail delivery easier. This is still unsatisfactory. Taxi drivers, florists, expressmen and especially parents get them confused.

West, Sneed and Drane are the only residence halls with official names, and they are named for former members of the Board of Directors. Doak is not the official name of Women's Dorm I, although it is called that in honor of Mrs. Mary W. Doak, first dean of women.

The board, having the responsibility of naming dormitories, has selected a committee for the problem. That group has a difficult job. A choice of name must be made from among many persons meriting the honor.

The committee has also the responsibility of setting traditions for naming future buildings at Tech—as whether to name them for board members only, for persons closely connected with Tech, or for friends of the college.

Perhaps if the board approved the idea, students could suggest names, with written statements explaining the qualifications and suitability of each name. Such procedure was employed in the naming of Reese Air Force base west of the city.

We hope that our newer places of campus living will soon have individual names, not merely numbers. . . . D.A.

Need System For Handling Posting, Removal Of Signs

Something is wrong with Tech's "signology." This little drama is too familiar.

Coed (asked why she missed a club meeting): "I didn't know we were having a meeting."

Club president: "We had signs up all over the campus."

Coed (defensively): "I didn't see any."

This is not the case of the missing signs, but rather the case of too many. It is a principle of visual psychology that when the eye is constantly confronted with the same stimuli or objects, it soon fails to respond and no longer sees them. That is our trouble.

Artists Course and Rec hall publicity, as well as announcements of class and club meetings, are often left up on the bulletin boards long after the event. Not even the most naive freshman can long have faith in campus signs if he sees, daily for two weeks, a large poster announcing "Junior class meeting today at 5 o'clock."

The effect is like the "wolf, wolf" fable, because when the meeting does take place, everyone is so conditioned to the sign that he does not heed it, much less recognize that this time it is valid.

Nothing is wrong with the signs themselves. They are the simplest campus-wide communications system Tech has. They are cheaper, less trouble and more fun to prepare than postcards.

Misuse has caused our signs to quit serving us, but a minimum of effort would restore our sign-consciousness. Persons who put up signs should be responsible for taking them down the morning after the event. Signs without a time limit should be left up less than a week. . . . D.A.

Smithy's Forge

By JAMES F. SMITH

Football games of the past two weekends once again prove that it is sometimes wisest not to predict the outcome of a season, but instead to wait for a regional victor to emerge from play.

We remember that when Tech's first game was approaching last September, sportscasters saw nothing but black clouds in sight for this college. The Raiders' chances to keep their Border conference crown were considered definitely slight. And who won the conference?

Lubbock Senior High school, on the other hand, was thought to be a powerhouse. As the weeks went by, and the Westerners took one win after another, their state rating—and their confidence—zoomed upward. They were believed to be sure of a place in the final playoffs. And what happened Saturday?

When you're walking with your head in the clouds, and then tumble, it's a long, painful drop down to earth.

Monday morning's newspaper brought the most welcome story we have read in many a semester. Seems that radio quiz shows are declining in popularity, and sponsors are worried over their loss of audiences. After rolling along for months at an undesired peak of listener interest, most of the giveaway shows are finally falling from favor. We are ecstatic to learn of their imminent demise.

Too many evenings of radio entertainment have been marred by programs which offer staggering amounts of prizes to contestants who at times put forth no more effort than the uttering of half a dozen words.

Before the surge of quiz shows after the war, we enjoyed such half hours as "Doctor I.Q.," which gave comparatively reasonable rewards for a minimum of work by a contestant.

Then came the flood, with "Stop the Music" atop the wave of popular appeal. Handing out everything from canned foods to a trip to Paris, the musical question program absorbed more and more of the radio audience until finally Fred Allen, always one of our favorite comedians, left the air rather than compete with the melodic quiz.

But "Stop the Music" is losing part of its audience, reports say, and perhaps Allen is having the last laugh.

At any rate, we feel justice has triumphed.

The display of modern art in the engineering auditorium last week afforded some students and faculty members their first look at works of a few of the European masters.

Included in the exhibition were pictures by Renoir, Chagall, Vlaminck, Kokoschka, Bonnard, Kollwitz—all giants of present-day painting.

Unfortunately, much of the show was only small pictures, and not all of it was first-rate. We were, nonetheless, dazzled by the names of the artists, if not by their productions.

We wish it were possible that representative examples of the modern masters were available for students' study every day. Perhaps with the completion of the museum, the college's small collection will grow to embrace typical works of the major figures in art.

Random shots: Wonder how many are falling by the wayside as the mid-semester reports come out. Ever notice how many women wear high heels with the ease and grace they might display if they were on stilts? It's amusing to watch a lady walk when she is unused to wearing heels. . . .

Tech chapter of Wesley Players will send nine students and their sponsors to the national convention of Wesley Players in Urbana, Ill. Oleta Hill was elected by the group to be its nomination for secretary-treasurer of the national organization, announced J. E. Cooper, president.

Jim Rogers will be the leader of Forum at 7:15 tonight at the Methodist student center announced Rev. Cecil Matthews, director of students. "What it means to be great" will be the topic.

Around The CAMPUSES

Before looking at the interesting things on other campuses around the nation, take a look at the latest invention that has been introduced to our own campus. Designed for men with jealous women in their lives, it is called the Kisskerchief. When thrust into the breast pocket, it is as innocuous-looking as the ordinary handkerchief, but unfurled it reveals a red octagonal center on which gentlemen can wipe off lipstick.

Lipstick, it seems, is a scourge of human life. There is no question that husbands have been betrayed, happy homes disrupted, romances shattered by lipstick. Thus the Kisskerchief, which is also an accurate gauge of a man's popularity. The more used in a week, the more . . . !

The coffee question is still being debated in many schools but it is settled at the University of Detroit. It is seven cents a cup, and seven cents it is to stay in the Union Room there, according to The Varsity News.

A course without a teacher has proven popular at Baylor. It is a Spanish class which was scheduled for 7 p. m., a fact which led the administration to assume that no one would sign up for it. They were fooled. Seems that Spanish is more romantic when studied by the light of the moon under the graceful towers of Old Main on the Baylor campus. It has been suggested that the class be conducted on the balcony to assure a full view of the moon.

On the Michigan State college campus, at East Lansing, Mich., there rages a squabble over the wearing of blue jeans. The dean of students accused coeds wearing them of being on the way to a (pardon the expression) beer bust. His stand was reported by the campus student newspaper, but the girls fought back with cries of, "more comfort" and "it's a lie." He also said he thinks that the widespread wearing of the things foreshadows a moral letdown. The men on the campus say they notice no difference in the manners or morals of the jean-wearers and the non-jean-wearers.

If you think ice hockey is rough, listen to this from the University of Texas. Three students were taken to hospitals with broken appendages after one day of intramural soccer. The Daily Texan relates the tale of the students, two of whom had broken arms and one, a broken ankle.

Circle Chatter

Digger McCloud representing Wrangler fraternity, was voted Tech's most handsome man at the annual Club Scarlet sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi Saturday night. Prizes presented to him by Jane Skinner, president, were a "Beauty Fair" magazine and a vanity kit.

Other contestants were Bill Bates, College Club; Roland Fee, Silver Key; Bonner Geddie, Kemasi; Robert Knight, Scott; Wayne Harman, Centaur; Tommy Bell, Aggie club; Tommy Scott, Saddle Tramps.

Lois Jean "Snookey" Weekes, ex-Las Chap, and Mary King, former DFD, were campus visitors over the weekend.

Margaret Smart, ex-Techsan and DFD from Mangum, Okla. is engaged to Winifred Gosper, Centaur from Monahans. They are making plans for a summer wedding. She is teaching English in Whitharrell high school and Winifred is planning to enter law school at the University of Texas after his graduation in June.

Jamie Trainer and Billie Grace Webb, former Tech students, were here for the weekend. Both women are teaching school in Lamesa.

Paula Sittel, summer journalism graduate, is selling department store advertising in Denison. She was secretary of the Press club last fall and worked on the Toreador and La Ventana.

Frances Eubanks, Tech graduate is teaching school in Midland. She was a member of Las Vivarachas.

Charles McElree, ex-Silver Key member, is employed by the Texas Electric company in Fort Worth. He received his degree in electrical engineering last spring.

Jayne Thompson, ex-member of Las Chaparritas, visited friends here last weekend. Jayne, who graduated last spring with a BA degree in journalism, is teaching school in Chillicothe.

Members and pledges of Wrangler Fraternity held a picnic Sunday at Buffalo Jake's. Special entertainment included group singing and a vocal solo, "Blue Moon," sung by Dave Faucett, Wrangler pledge.

Nancy Spiller, former student and member of Tech Rodeo association and Bill Tutum, both of Junction, were married Nov. 12 in Junction. They are living on a ranch near Gatesville.

A. D. Anderson, former student and member of Silver Key, is working in Dallas. He was a '48 graduate in architecture.

Cotton Fanning, '49 journalism graduate, is back in Lubbock working for the Chesterfield Tobacco company.

Ko Shari Club Christmas Dinner Dance Scheduled For Friday In Hilton Hotel

Greeting Card Sale To Continue Friday

The Applied Arts Workshop sale of block-printed Christmas greeting cards has proved so successful that the sale will be continued, said Mrs. Ethel Jane Beiter, assistant professor of applied arts. A thousand cards are being printed and these will be on sale Friday.

Original designs for four of the cards were made by students in the Applied Arts 131 classes. These were chosen as good examples of designs which could be carved from linoleum blocks and printed for sale by members of the workshop. The workshop has found that this project has proved to be a very satisfactory, interesting and money-making project. They may possibly continue it in the future.

Individuals who are interested in ordering the cards may contact Mrs. Beiter in X-25, or any member of the workshop.

Christmas Festival Plays Scheduled At Methodist Church

Christmas Festival plays which are presented annually by the Wesley Players will be given at 7:30 p.m. Friday and 5 p.m. Sunday at the First Methodist church, announced J. B. Cooper, president.

Friday night two of the plays, "The Cornhusk Doll," directed by Willa Farris, and "The Christmas Carol," directed by Mona McGraw will be acted. The "Cornhusk Doll" is a play about the Christmas feeling penetrating the heart of a Hollywood star.

On Sunday, "The Gifts," which is directed by Jean Padgett, is to be presented. It is about what might have happened to the gifts of the three wise men. The "Music Box," directed by Billy Phillips is a story of a cruel landlord who experiences a change of heart at Christmas.

The public is invited to attend the plays, said Cooper. No admission is to be charged.

Raisin Bowl Contest Will Be Final Game For 17 Raiders

By JIM SANDERS
Toreador Sports Writer

With the playing of the game in the Raisin Bowl, 17 members of the Texas Tech football squad will have donned the Red Raider uniform for the last time. And what could be more fitting than to wind up a college football career in one of the better bowl games of the country.

Counted among the graduating seniors on the squad are 8 starters, 5 linemen and 3 backs. Starting linemen soon to see their last action with the Raiders are John Andrews, Dan Pursel, Bobby Williams, Milburn Haydon, co-captain, and Marshall Gettys, while graduating backs are co-captain Bud Conley, Ernest Hawkins, and Calvin Steveson.

Following is a run-down on each of the leaving Raiders.

Luke Thompson is a 185-pound end who hails from Eldorado. Luke has lettered three years at Tech previous to this year. He had his best season in 1948. He is 23 years old and a navy veteran.

John Andrews is 195 pounds of tackle and considered as one of the best in these parts. He is a navy veteran and calls Amarillo his home. Johnny has earned two letters playing with the Raiders.

Dan Pursel, a 180-pound guard, is one of the scrappiest men on the squad. Dan lettered at Kilgore Junior college before coming to Tech and since his arrival he has lettered three times. Gladewater is his home.

Bill Stallings, another Kilgore Junior college transfer came to Tech in 1948 and lettered that year at guard. He weighs 197 and is from Tyler.

Bobby Williams from Phillips is playing his fifth season with the Raiders. He is a 200-pound center that moves very fast. Bobby is a leading candidate for all-conference honors.

J. B. Mahler, one of the best defensive centers in the Raider camp, is from Temple. He is a former fullback. The navy veteran lettered at Tech last season.

Cagers Turn South For Games With Rice, Baylor, Trinity

Texas Tech's rapidly improving basketballers are continuing their pre-conference season with a tour through south and central Texas. While on the road the Raider cagers will meet Rice, Baylor, and Trinity college.

The sophomore-laden hoopstars of Coach Polk Robison are scheduled to meet Trinity college at San Antonio tonight, and tomorrow night the Bears of Baylor at Waco. In Rice and Baylor, the Raider quintet will meet two of the teams that are favored to cop the flag in the ever-tough Southwest conference. Rice has several returning lettermen from last season and is considered by many as the team to beat for the conference crown. Baylor also has several veteran cagers and figures to battle it out with Rice for the basketball championship as it did for the football title.

Little is known of the quality or quantity of material at Trinity, but if past records mean anything, the gens from San Antonio will have an excellent group of hoopsters to throw at the invading Raiders.

Coach Robison's charges have shown remarkable improvement since their opening game against the Bisons of West Texas State in which they absorbed a 45-67 shellacking. In their only other outing, the Raiders showed the expected progress and easily defeated a veteran McMurry team by 73-46.

The Raiders have been led this year by Sophomores Jack Alderson and Verdel Turner, both products of Lubbock High school. The red-clad basketekers include veterans Gene Gibson, Jiggs Jackson and Charley Pinnell, who have played fine ball and have been an influencing factor in the poise shown by the flashy sophomores.

After the tour through the state, the charges of Robison return home for a couple of games before the Christmas holidays, and then turn to conference competition against Texas Western at El Paso on Jan. 5, and New Mexico A&M and New Mexico university before returning to Tech to play West Texas on Jan. 10.

happen, if for no other reason than we would have liked to have seen some of the playoff games that might have been played here.

We noticed an article in the paper last week about Walker Nichols resigning as line coach at the University of New Mexico. Nichols was track coach, and football coach here before he moved to the university along with Burl Huffman. We wonder if this might be an indication of a shake-up to come at New Mexico; such has been rumored for some time. We hope not, and we seriously doubt if such a shake-up would benefit them any.

Everyone likes Huffman, but people are not in harmony on his coaching ability. In fact we heard one business man in Albuquerque make the statement that Huffman would be fine as an assistant, but that someone else was needed for head coach.

It is no secret that the crop of New Mexico's high school players is thin picking. That means that the University of New Mexico has to go out of state in order to get enough of the type of players that it needs to play a rugged schedule. It is not able to do that. It has made a few raids into Texas, and last year into the northeastern states, but even there it is more or less getting culls. It doesn't have the necessary inducement to get a good player away from the name schools in his own state.

The situation is one that doesn't appear to have any remedy. In the first place, the school does not pay a high enough wage to its coach to get a big name one. Even if it did, a coach is only as good as his team. You still can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear. So what's the answer? You tell them, they don't know either.

Sports Chatter

by KEITH ANDERSON

The Lubbock Westerners' chance for glory this year was trampled to bits in the dust of Austin High stadium Saturday. From here it looks as if it were one of those things which is bound to happen sooner or later to a team whose backers place such unlimited confidence in it as the supporters of the Westerners placed in their team.

We know we are sticking our neck out to say or even hint of such a thing but it appears to us as if overconfidence instilled by their supporters finally took its toll. It almost happened at Odessa, and for such a mistake to happen more than once nearly always proves fatal.

We do not blame the boys. What hurt was such beliefs as some of the avid Westerners supporters held such as, Lubbock not being extended until it reached the finals. Any team that manages to make the state playoffs must be pretty good, and shouldn't be under-estimated. The Lubbock coaches were not under estimating the Austin team, because they have been quoted as saying that Austin would be no mean opponent. The fans paid no heed, and of course the boys were probably infected with that same opinion in spite of what the coaches could do. Still it is very possible that Lubbock just met a better team. But regardless of that, we know from watching the Westerners perform, that it was a better team than the game Saturday would indicate. We don't believe that they had the sort of team that most of the Lubbock fans believed them to have.

Weaknesses were too apparent in it as a whole. The backfield had speed, but as a result relied too much on speed alone. The line, while being good, didn't quite measure up to what a state champion's forward wall should be. The boys were adept, but they weren't aggressive enough.

The newspaper and the radio stations did not do much to prevent the overconfidence; rather, they seemed to aid it. Support for a team is fine, but even that can be overdone. We are sorry it had to

Los Camas Take Evenly-Played Tussle From Keys; Kemas Blank Wranglers

Los Camaradas battled the Silver Key eleven to a 13-13 tie Sunday in an MCCC touch football game, then after the originally scheduled contests had ended, the Camas won the encounter with a four-down sudden death play-off series.

The championship of the MCCC was probably at stake, and both teams were aware of the fact. They fought like cornered wildcats.

The Keys scored once in the first quarter and again in the second to lead 13-0. Andy Behrends, a consistently fine performer, passed to Gene Garner late in the second quarter for the Los Camas counter and the half ended 13-7 in favor of the Keys.

Los Camaradas, however, were not to be denied. Neither team could muster a score in the third period, but in the fourth canto Behrends faded a pass, changed his mind and ran 20 yards for the tying score. Joe Overton missed his try for the extra point and the game ended in a complete deadlock.

The officials, declaring first downs and penetrations equal, awarded each team four downs with the team racking up the most yardage to be awarded the victory.

The Silver Keys made 31 yards on their four downs. The Camas carried the ball 14 yards on their first three attempts and needed 18 more on their last carry. Andy Behrends calmly passed to Bill Miller for 20 yards and the ball game.

The Kemas in another MCCC encounter, blanked the Wranglers 8-0. The victory lifted them into second place tie with Silver Key. Monte Roy passed 30 yards to David Reverton for six points and two more markers were added by a safety.

The Soeli scored their first victory of the season Sunday when they edged the College Club 6-0. Don Shirley completed a 15 yard touchdown pass from Beris Hanna, and the game was on ice.

Senior Petroleum Engineer Selected To Represent Tech At AIME Meeting

Riley V. Carleton, senior petroleum engineering major, left today for College Station where he will attend the annual symposium of the student branches of American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

Carleton was selected to represent Tech at this meeting by presenting the best paper on petroleum engineering for the local AIME chapter. The report written by Carleton is entitled "Factors Contributing to Corrosion Fatigue of Drill Pipe." He will receive a set of AIME books as a prize.

Carleton will be accompanied to Texas A&M by W. L. Ducker. They will attend the meeting to be held there Dec. 8 and 9. Then they are to go to Houston where Ducker will attend the concurrent meeting of the National and Texas Society of Professional Engineers.

This is the first year that Tech has had a representative at the meeting. Only two other schools, Texas university and Texas A&M, will be represented. These two with Tech are the only colleges in Texas that have a student branch of AIME.

Judges selecting the best paper were E. B. Armstrong, divisional engineer of the Honolulu Oil company; R. E. Bush, chief engineer of the Lane-Wells company for the West Texas-New Mexico division; and W. L. Ducker, professor and head of the petroleum engineering department.

west conference can stand up and yell. Mighty Notre Dame, which had not been extended all year, ran into off-beaten SMU, minus Donk Walker, and was lucky to come out on the long end of the score. Don't look at us. We were surprised too. In fact we made the regretted statement at halftime, that we thought the score would end up about 40-0. We hadn't figured on Role and an unknown by the name of Champion almost running the vaulted Irishmen out of the stadium. By the way, we will have a little fun with Coach Tipp Mooney on that one. He made the statement at a quarterback meeting that if they didn't lock the gates tight, SMU wouldn't be around at the finish. You can join me Mooney, as being the worst predictor of the year.

RAISIN BOWL—

Milburn Haydon is a 210-pound guard who has lettered two seasons prior to the current one. He was hampered by a knee injury last season but has showed up well this year. He does the kicking-off for the Raiders. He's from Hart. Marshall Gettys, all-conference tackle in 1948 and a good bet to repeat, is from Amarillo. Gettys received honorable mention for All-American this year in his fourth and final season. He weighs 190 pounds and is vice-president of the student body.

Bobby Broyles, the largest man on the squad, tips the scales at 248. He lettered at San Angelo Junior college before coming to Tech in 1948. He lettered last season at tackle. San Angelo is his home.

Hugh Jackson, a 198-pound end, played his first season with the Raiders this year, transferring to Tech from University of New Mexico. He does not graduate but his eligibility is used up. Phillips is his home.

Walter Edrington, from Odessa, lettered at Tech last season. He is a 190-pound guard who lettered at San Angelo Junior college.

Ernest Hawkins, the man under on the Tech "T" has lettered four years before this. He has quarterbacked the Raiders to three conference championships. He has also lettered in basketball and track. He weighs 175 and is from Lamesa.

Milton Rathbone is a quarterback from San Angelo. He has been slowed up by injuries this season. He lettered at San Angelo Junior college before coming to Tech last season. Rathbone weighs 175 pounds.

James Conley, Tech's leading ground gainer this season, is from Quanah. He runs with 190 pounds of force from the fullback slot. Bud also received All-American honorable mention this season.

Calvin Stevenson, a main-stay in the Raider backfield, is from Brownfield. He led the Raiders in rushing the past two seasons. Cal weighs 195 and runs from the left halfback position.

Walter Maloney, a 175-pound halfback from Roscoe, is one of the best broken field runners on the squad. He has been injured this season and has seen little action. He has lettered twice before this season.

Herman Bailey, a speedster from Detroit, Texas, came to Tech after lettering at Paris Junior college. He lettered as a sprinter in track last year here at Tech. He is a 170-pound halfback.

Lens And Shutter Presents First Exhibition Of Prints

Lens and Shutter club will have its first annual exhibition with prints hanging in the Recreation hall today through Dec. 16, announced Fred Gibson, president.

The club expects to hang about 150 prints, representing a cross section of work of members of the club over a period of the last two years. Purpose of the exhibition is to acquaint everyone with the activities of the club, and to solicit new members from the student body and faculty.

Gibson said that a salon would be held in the spring. He explained the difference between this exhibition and the salon to be that the salon has judges and prizes.

Over 1,000 Attend Annual Meeting Of Southern Colleges And Schools

Over 1,000 delegates from all over the South attended the annual meeting of Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools from Nov. 28 through Friday in Houston, said Dr. E. N. Jones, vice president. This is the largest crowd ever to attend such a meeting, Doctor Jones pointed out.

The program was a practical and realistic one adapted to the problems of the immediate present, he explained. In addition to the regular program, there was also a conference dealing with academic freedom and tenure. It was attended by representatives from college administrations, faculties and boards of directors.

Dr. J. B. Conant, president of Harvard, gave the principal address, "Teaching of Science." Another speaker was Dr. T. V. Smith, professor of philosophy at Syracuse university and former Congressman, whose subject was "The Pedagogy of Self-Forgiveness."

Dr. John E. Ivey, director of the board of control for Southern Regional Education, spoke on "Building a New South Through Higher Education." In line with this, a coordinating committee is to be appointed by the governor of each of the southern states for the regional board. The Texas legislature has not approved the provision yet, Doctor Jones reported.

Dr. Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, was another guest speaker. His topic was "Education of Free Men." In his speech, he advocated scholarships for students of unusual ability from federal sources, but without federal control.

Another feature of the convention was a round table discussion concerning standards governing graduate work in the South. Doctor Jones pointed out that the trend is to label by the degree offered the kind of work being done and to set up varied requirements for different degrees.

He explained that this trend confirms the pattern outlined in Tech's new graduate bulletin. For example, no thesis will be required for a master of education, but a candidate must do additional work in statistics. These will still be required for MA and MS degrees, Doctor Jones said.

Mechanical Ability Of West Texans Claimed To Be Higher Than Average

West Texans are entitled to take a bow according to statistics in an article written by Dr. Albert Barnett, college director for the guidance center.

West Texans are definitely superior in mechanical aptitude to the nation as a whole, according to statistics in the article entitled "A Note on Mechanical Aptitude of West Texans" which was published in a recent issue of the Journal of Applied Psychology.

The article is based on information obtained from results of tests given during the past few years at Tech. The first example used by Doctor Barnett to illustrate the high mechanical aptitude of residents of this section of Texas is of 371 freshman men, mainly from West Texas who were enrolled in the arts and sciences division. The Revised Minnesota Paper Form Board AA was used for this test which was given in 1941.

These freshmen, with a mean chronological age of between 18 and 19 years, excelled 70 per cent of the standardization group of freshman men. Their median score was 42.5 as compared to a median of 38 for the standardization group.

During several months in 1947-48, a record was made of the scores of men taking the Minnesota Spatial Relations Test coming to Tech. Mainly in their twenties and thirties and representing every educational level, from the illiterate to the college graduate, these men were individually tested by individual psychometrists.

The results showed that this sample group of 383 men required 973.5 seconds to complete the test, as compared with 1279 seconds for the normal time furnished by the publishers of the test.

"As yet, no satisfactory explanation has been found for this superiority (as tested) of West Texans men in mechanical aptitude," noted Doctor Barnett.

He said that a possible explanation might be that this region is one of mechanized farming and that most of the men tested have been accustomed to tractors and other machines since boyhood. But, he added, the test is supposed to be relatively free from the influence of previous mechanical experience.

Doctor Barnett stated in the article that later division of those tested into age sub-groups indicated that a part of the superiority of the group might be accounted for by the fact that they were, as a whole, comparatively young.

Spring Semester Sees Men Being Housed In Drane

Drane hall will be used for men students and married couples for the spring semester, Frank Junell, assistant to the president announced.

Women students will be moved to Women's Dorms III and IV, leaving room for about 250 men in Drane hall, Junell explains. This is a temporary arrangement, he points out. The dormitory will be used for women again next fall if the co-ed enrollment is large enough to demand it, states Junell.

Applications from approximately 700 male students were received for dormitory space which was unavailable this fall, Junell says. The new arrangement will enable approximately 250 men to move into a dorm, he continues.

All students whose homes are not in Lubbock are required to live in the dormitories to the full capacity of the facilities, according to the student handbook. However, college officials state that there probably are enough applicants on the waiting list to fill the dorm without enforcing this regulation.

Professors Plan December Trips For Professional Meetings, Conventions

Several professors and college employees are planning short leaves of absence during December. O. V. Adams, professor of civil engineering, will attend the annual meeting of National Society of Professional Engineers and the quarterly meeting of the Board of Directors of TSPE, Houston, today through Sunday.

W. L. Ducker, professor and head of petroleum engineering, will be in College Station today and tomorrow to attend a meeting of AIME and the AIME student paper competition. He will attend the annual meeting of the National Society of Professional Engineers Friday and Saturday.

Lyle E. Hessler, director of cotton research, and Herbert E. Kiese, laboratory superintendent of cotton research, plan to return Sunday from visiting, observing, and inspecting operations in the Hillsboro Cotton mill.

Three members of the education and psychology department will attend the annual meeting of the Texas Psychological association, Austin, tomorrow through Sunday. They are: Dr. Agnes True, associate professor of education and psychology; L. B. Cooper, associate professor of education; and Dr. Albert Barnett, professor of education and psychology.

Lehman H. Hutchins, associate professor of psychology, has been in the Massachusetts General hospital for the past week and will remain until Dec. 19. In addition to having a physical check-up, he plans to visit several institutions in order to make a study of the departments of psychology and to interview prospective faculty members.

Dr. Embree R. Rose, college physician will attend the annual meeting of the American College Health association, New York City, Dec. 26-Jan. 2.

Cooper, True and Barnett Leave Tuesday For Meeting In Austin

Dr. L. B. Cooper, associate professor of education and psychology, and Drs. Agnes True and Albert Barnett, professors of education and psychology left Tuesday for Austin where they will attend the third annual meeting of the Texas Psychological association, to be held at the University of Texas tomorrow through Sunday.

A banquet will be held at the Driskill hotel at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Tech has purchased 405 grade Rambouillet ewe lambs to be used in research studies carried on at the Pan Tex farms, which are a branch of the college.

Student Committees Have Been Chosen To Plan HE Lounge

Student committees have been appointed by Miss Margaret Weeks, dean of home economics, to study the furnishings and the uses of a new student lounge, to be in the new Home Economics building.

Bobby Brown is chairman of the committee studying the uses of the room. Others on her committee are Janet Crandall, Jean Pratt, Clara Dowty, Sally Raudebaugh, and Velma Lou Howell. Faculty advisor is Miss Geraldine Clewell, associate professor of home economics education.

Olga Teague is chairman of the furnishings committee. Others on her committee are Gladys Haynes, Nettie Shearer, Dell Brown, Essie Lee Denny, Sue Winter and Marilyn Denman. Mrs. Ethel Beitler, assistant professor of applied arts, is the faculty advisor.

Both groups will make preliminary surveys and the entire group will formulate a budgeted plan for the room.

The Home Economics club and Phi Upsilon Omicron, home economics honor society, have saved money for several years to assist in furnishing such a room.

Miss Mabel Erwin, professor and head of clothing and textiles, is the general chairman of the group. The entire project is under the direction of students and their faculty advisors.

San Jose State Is About Same As Tech Says Morgan

San Jose State college is, as Coach Dell Morgan puts it, "about our same big." The Tech Red Raiders and San Jose Spartans will meet December 31 in the Raisin bowl at Fresno, Calif.

San Jose was established in 1857, while Tech is a mere youngster, having been in existence since 1923. Tech's campus has all in all 2,008 acres, while San Jose has only 59. Our library has some 100,000 volumes, and San Jose's 95,000. The total properties of the California school come to $2,668,768 and Tech's property is valued at $5,567,041. These figures are for 1947.

For the past three or four years the enrollment figures of the two colleges have been nearly the same. Tech has had on the average about 500 more students per year.

San Jose had 11 foreign students in 1948, as compared to Tech's 27.

Living expenses are a little lower for the students in California. Tuition is $13 per quarter there and $25 per semester here. Married students may rent apartments from the college at San Jose for $37.50 a month. Tech's married couples pay about $120 a month for room and board in the dorms.

stration of a small country.)
Hayat Salmon, bacteriology student from Lebanon, remarked that she worried. "I had just attended a performance of 'Romeo and Juliet' when I got the news."
Labang Naw, agricultural student from Burma, said: "It was very exciting. I was in Rangoon at the time and the Japanese were getting very close. We were glad to get the news, because it meant that we would get some help from the United States."

One student, an aggie, had a reaction that was typical of many of the young men: "Dammit, here I go!"

Tech Club Places Third In Chapter Reports In Chicago

Texas Tech's chapter of Block and Bridle club placed third with its entry in the judging of chapter reports at the annual national Block and Bridle club meeting in Chicago Nov. 28.

The local chapter's report, prepared by William Krueger, senior agriculture student from Clifton, was dedicated to Ray Mowery, professor of animal husbandry and retiring sponsor of the club. The report included detailed accounts of membership, business and social activities, scholarships, merit award winner, annual livestock judging contest, intercollegiate judging team, and Tech livestock and campus buildings.

W. J. Krueger and J. H. Heath represented the Tech chapter at the national meeting, which saw the presiding officer, M. A. Alexander, of Nebraska university, re-elected to the office of president. W. L. Hennig, Penn State, was elected vice-president, while E. D. Farwell, of Michigan State, was elected secretary.

Chapters placing higher than Texas Tech were those from Iowa State and Mississippi State.

Over 30 Bands At Annual Clinic Beginning Friday

More than 30 high school bands in West Texas and New Mexico will attend the seventh annual Texas Tech-Lubbock public schools Band clinic to be held on the campus Friday and Saturday, director D. O. Wiley, reports.

Wiley said 37 cities sent representatives to last year's clinic and indications are that this number may be exceeded this year. All replies had not been received at Toreador press time Tuesday. Five clinic bands will play for the visiting bandmen, expected to number around the 1,200 mark.

Entertainment for the visitors includes a smoker for band directors and a dance for band members Dec. 9 in Tech band hall.

This annual affair is one of the largest services that the music department sponsors during the year, Joe L. Haddon, assistant professor of music, said.

The various bands will play selections chosen by a committee appointed by the Interscholastic league. After the visiting bands play these prescribed numbers, the Tech band will replay them as a service of the clinic, Haddon added.

Tech Rifle Group Will Compete With Other Rifle Teams

Tech Rifle team will compete with firing groups from Texas A&M, Oklahoma A&M and Oklahoma Military academy in a match this week. Sgt. Woodrow W. Brooks, officer-in-charge of the team, said. The team will also begin a series of matches with 14 schools in the Fourth Army area this week. The series is divided into four stages and will last until Feb. 10.

Team members will fire in the Tech indoor rifle range with 22 calibre rifles. Ten members fire in each match and the five highest scores are sent to opposing schools. Before the actual recording begins, each man is allowed five practice shots. The participants fire 10 shots in each of four positions: prone, sitting, kneeling and standing; and every bull's-eye counts 10 points.

The team won matches over Oregon State 1,742 to 1,698 and New Mexico Military institute 1,742 to 1,664. Those having the five highest scoring honors were J. L. Hansen, Ted Thornhill, I. L. Reese, T. R. Hunter and Charles Gilmer.
