Raider-Bear Game Highlights Homecoming Schedule Exes Return To Campus Today

Bruins Will Fight For Third Straight Victory Over Tech

By JIM SANDERS
Toreador Sports Writer

The Red Raiders will be out to give the Homecoming fans at Texas Tech a lesson in bear skinning when they take on a highly-rated Baylor team at 2:30 p.m. today in Jones stadium.

The Bears, a heavy favorite, are in top shape for the fracas. As yet undefeated, the Bruins are one of the favorites in the Southwest conference loop.

Adrain Burk, one of the flashiest backs seen in the Bear's camp in several seasons, will lead the attack for the visitors. In taking a 35-15 decision from the Arkansas Razorbacks, Burk threw 11 passes, 9 of which were completed for a total of 94 yards. One of the aerials was good for a touchdown.

The sharp-eyed passer has a favorite target in the form of J. D. Isom. The Burk-Isom combination has worked successfully 16 times in 17 tries and has netted 171 yards and two touchdowns. In three games this season, Burk has tossed 45 times and completed 29 passes for a total of 308 yards. Seven were for touchdowns.

Not only does Baylor have a passing attack, but it has proved that it can roll on the ground when the need arises. Frank Boydston, a burly 195-pound fullback, has plenty of power through the middle. The Baylor line is traditional. It averages 199 pounds with such standouts planted in it as Clark Heironimus at right tackle, Eugene Heubner at the center spot and Isom at right end.

The Red Raiders have undergone extensive drills the past week readying themselves for the Homecoming affair. Downfield blocking has been one of the major assignments given the Tech gridders on the practice field. Lack of such blocking was one of the reasons the Raiders didn't "go" when they had the chance in last week's game against Tulsa.

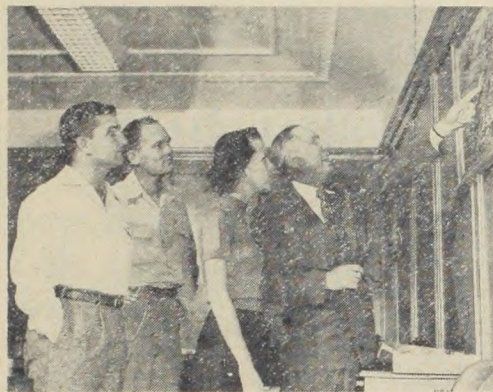

The Tech "fish" have been running Baylor plays against the varsity in practice sessions in an effort to give it an idea of what to expect from offensive-minded Bruins. In varsity-fresh scrimmages, J. W. Thompson has showed up especially well and Bud Conley playing his usual brand of goof football. Jerril Price and Marshall Gettys went about their tackle duties in a way as to serve notice on the Bears to stay out of their way or suffer the consequences.

Board Of Directors To Give Contracts

Texas Tech's Board of Directors will award contracts for completion of the Administration building wings and will consider recommendations of the building and finance committees for a student union building at 9 a.m. this morning.

Additional contracts for the Administration building will be let for plumbing, heating, electrical work, and air-conditioning for the new wings.

The finance and building committees met yesterday afternoon to consider a student union building. The committees' recommendations will be presented to the general board meeting this morning.

The Student Council has suggested that a student union building fund be set up with a percentage of profits from the college bookstore. Board members will vote on this proposal today.

Band To Salute Tech Exes In Today's Half-Time Show

Texas Tech band is planning an elaborate show for this afternoon's game. D. O. Wiley, band director, announced. The exact formation will not be revealed but he said that there will be more formations than usual with the entire band participating.

Professor Wiley said that this half-time show by the band will include salutes to the exes, Baylor, Tech and the Lubbock Air Force base.

The band will also be participating in the Homecoming parade this morning, Wiley said.

William Davis Will Speak At Pre-Law Club Meeting

Dr. J. William Davis, professor and head of government, will talk on law schools in the state of Texas at the Pre-Law club meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Ad-302.

This is the first of a series of addresses to be delivered during the year. The Pre-law club hopes to arrange an address by George Mahon, United States representative from this district, at some future date.

Class Favorites May Be Selected

Margaret Clark, general elections committee chairman, announces that petitions may be secured in the Student Council office, Ad-323 for electing class favorites and two council representatives, one from arts and sciences and one from home economics division.

Class favorites this year will consist of a boy and girl from each class besides a Mr. and Miss Texas Tech. The boy favorites are a new feature of this year's annual. Petitions must be handed in to the Student Council office by noon Friday, Miss Clark said. This applies to the favorite selections as well as to the council representatives.

Mr. and Miss Texas Tech will be senior students, but the complete student body will vote for them. For the class favorites, each class will vote for its respective choices.

Balloting will be Tuesday, Oct. 25 from 8 p.m. until 12 noon. Miss Clark announced. Location of the ballot boxes will be announced at a later date.

"The Great Pictures of 1948" are being exhibited in the reading room of the Journalism building, Mrs. Jane Moore, instructor in journalism, announced.

The pictures, 100 in number, are winners of the fifth annual "News Pictures of the Year Contest" which is sponsored by the Encyclopedia Britannica Book of the Year and the University of Missouri School of Journalism.

The showing began Tuesday and will continue through Friday. The award-winning pictures appeared in the photographic section of Coronet last spring, Mrs. Moore said, and all have appeared in the publication. Each of the pictures was made by persons employed on newspaper staffs.

This group of pictures is sent to schools upon request and is being shown here through the efforts of the journalism department and Kappa Alpha Mu, national photography fraternity, Mrs. Moore said.

Record Crowd Of Former Students Returning For Annual Activities

By GENE BRASHEAR
Toreador Staff Writer

A record breaking crowd of more than 8,000 persons are expected to jam the campus today for the Twentieth annual Homecoming festivities which began with a gigantic bon fire and pep rally Friday night.

The highlight of the entertainment packed day will be the annual Homecoming football game.

This year's game will pit the Red Raiders against the powerful Baylor Bears, as yet undefeated in the seasons play. During the half-time period of the game the traditional freshman shoe race is scheduled, together with a performance of the Tech Matador Band and presentation of the new Homecoming trophy to the organization having the float designated as the over all winner of the Homecoming parade.

Huge Parade Planned

Rivaling with the football game as a center of attraction this year will be the Homecoming parade, which is the largest in history with a total of 43 floats participating in the three classifications; beautiful, descriptive, and comic.

Thirteen floats have been entered in the beautiful division, 20 in the descriptive division, and 11 in the comic division.

The winners of each of the three divisions will be announced in the Ad building rotunda immediately following the parade. They will receive a plaque bearing the organization's name, the year, and the division which they won.

Trophy To Be Presented

The new Homecoming trophy in the form of a Greek goddess will be presented at game half-time along with the plaques. Heading the parade committee is Bill McCasland.

Furr Food Stores and T.N.M. and O. Coaches have extended special invitations to members of the faculty at Tech to attend the annual Homecoming luncheon at 12 noon in the gym.

Exes have complained that they have not seen enough of their erstwhile professors at Homecomings in the past.

The campus will be a maze of lights tonight and the towers of the Ad building will be lighted as in the past.

Returning exes will be greeted by welcome signs at the dance and registration booths.

Registration began at 5 p.m. in the downtown booths located in the Hilton Hotel and Hotel Lubbock. These booths re-open at 8:30 this morning.

Booths on the campus open at the same time. They are located in the Ad, Aggie, Home Economics, and Engineering buildings, and the recreation hall.

Teas, Parties Planned

All booths will close at 12 noon with the exception of two booths located in the gym which open at 11:50 a.m. to 1 p.m. during the luncheon for the exes.

The annual bonfire and pep rally Friday night initiated the 1949 Homecoming under the direction of head cheerleaders Glenna Winston and Jimmy Carter.

Beginning at 9 a.m., and in some cases as early as 8 a.m., campus organizations will host social events, such as breakfasts, open houses, and coffees, in honor of their exes.

The Dairy Manufacturing Club honors its former members with breakfast from 7:30 to 8:00 a.m. in the D. M. lab of the Aggie building.

Presentation of the K. M. Renner Memorial Plaque will be at 8:30 a.m. in the Aggie auditorium.

All former members and their families have been invited to a coffee given by the Home Economics Club, Phi Upsilon Omicron, and Lubbock Home Economics Alumni, from 9 to 10 a.m. in 108 of the Home Economics building.

Parade This Morning

At 10 a.m. the Homecoming parade will start downtown and move toward the campus along streets thronged by thousands of spectators.

At 11 a.m. the Double T Association will hold its annual reunion and election of officers in the varsity lecture room at the stadium.

Texas, New Mexico, and Oklahoma Coaches lines and Furr Food Stores will be hosts at the annual Homecoming luncheon in the gym.

Dance To Be Held

Introduction of Ex-Students Association officers will take place at 1 p.m. in the gym.

After the game organizations will again sponsor open houses and teas for their exes. All these events along with their times and places will be included on Homecoming programs.

The Homecoming dance from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight will conclude the program. Burl Hubbard will play.

Der Liederkranz Will Present "Die Fledermaus"

"Die Fledermaus" (The Bat) a German movie, will be shown at the Tower theater Tuesday and Wednesday.

The movie is sponsored by Der Liederkranz, an organization for German students, and the foreign languages department.

The dialogue will be in German with English sub-titles. The movie will be shown at the regular hours. Tickets will be sold in the Ad building rotunda. Admission will be at the student rate of 30 cents. Ted Alexander, sponsor of Der Liederkranz, urges all students to buy their tickets from members of the club.

"Die Fledermaus" is based on the operetta by Johann Strauss. Scenes in the movie were taken in Vienna in the original settings. A new color process was used on the film which was developed during the war and is not available in the United States.

Musical arrangements are by Alois Melichar. The cast includes Willi Dohm, Marte Harrell, and Willi Fritsch. Dorit Kreysler and Hans Brauswetter sing the leads in a premiere of the operetta.

Abram Will Appear In Concert Tuesday

Jacques Abram, concert pianist, will appear as the first selection of this year's artists' course program at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Senior high school auditorium. R. A. Mills, artists' course chairman, said.

Abram has been acclaimed by such national magazines as Life, Liberty and Harper's Bazaar. He will be heard this season as a guest with the New York Philharmonic symphony, and following his current concert tour, he is to leave for tours of Europe and South America.

Only students having odd-numbered receipts from the business office may attend this performance, Mills said.

Season tickets are on sale for $7.50 at Adair Music company, 1207 Main. Single admission is $1.50 for students and children and $1.80 for adults.

College's Progress Is Due To Work Of Many People

It wouldn't be proper to let this day go by without officially extending a greeting to the many ex-students and other visitors which we have on the campus. Many former students will find various changes in both faculty and campus which may seem strange and certainly they will find a general "hustle and bustle" about the place that has long been lacking.

That general air of "get up and go" that is now evident is proof in itself that Texas Tech is not content to run along in a rut. Under an administration which has certainly proven itself competent in the past year this college is looking ahead rather than backward.

New buildings are springing up where there was nothing but bare prairie a few years ago. A modern football stadium and an ultra modern museum are just a few of the new additions of which the college can now boast.

All of these and many others are not made possible by any one man nor can they be done by a small group of college administrators. Through the generous and loyal support, both financially and otherwise, of its ex students and friends can Tech today say that it has perhaps the brightest future of any college in this country.

An institution like Tech must have friends and benefactors to back it and help build it into a future college of which the youth of Texas and the United States can be proud to attend. So to all you exes and visitors who have pushed Texas Tech in the past and who, we hope, will continue to do so in the future—we say "Thanks."

New Tech Enthusiasm Is Reflected In Student-Teacher Cooperation

As Tech exes return for Homecoming this year they see a somewhat new Tech as far as the physical aspect is concerned. But we think that this year there is something else pervading that heretofore was not present. This unseen value we speak of could be called "esprit de corps", a common devotion of students to their college. One faculty member says it is also felt more in the staff than in previous years. It seems that just this semester this feeling has caught hold and each student is conscious of it.

What has brought this about? And how has it developed? Perhaps it came with our new president. Certainly he has brought with him an aspect of universality. One thing that might have caused it is the way our campus has been beautified this year. That alone is enough to fill each Techman with pride and cause him to be more devoted to his school.

The bounding growth of Tech is being exemplified in the actual building now taking place on the grounds. We have seen the West Texas museum rise from its foundations and are looking forward to seeing the wings on the Ad building stretch out toward the south.

Yes, it is true the exes will see a new campus but, Tech students and faculty can truly feel a new one. . . . W.L.

THINKING ALLOWED

By Jerry Hall

Just a few words to the many visitors who are on the campus today. To all of you from all of us a very hearty welcome this year and may this be the best Homecoming you have ever attended. Plans for this year's celebration have been worked on since the beginning of the school year and from all indications it should be the best yet. Student body prexy Curtis Sterling reports the best cooperation possible has been shown from both students who worked on the parade and other activities and the business men in town. This year's parade is the largest on record. Parade superintendent Bil McCasland says the floats are sure to capture everyone's fancy. Your various clubs and other organizations are each having a get together and all in all it looks as if this will be the most spectacular Homecoming weekend in the school's history. One of the most enjoyable things about going to college is being able to reminisce about the "good old days". So exes today when you see Joe or Jane and start talking about "Remember the time that . . ." just remember also that we who are now students at Texas Tech are glad to welcome you back "home." After all the old "forty acres" belonged to you before we had the privilege of coming on the campus and so many today become one of the fonder memories which you have about Texas Tech.

Here is a thought which was passed on to us which the students of future years might keep in mind. Several persons have asked why we don't have a Homecoming queen here at Tech. They point out that most of the other leading schools in the country always have a queen for that day of days and since Tech is no longer an infant in diapers why not have some beautiful coed crowned as the Homecoming ruler each year. Not a bad idea.

Here we will take time out to pat ourselves on the back just a little.

In an effort to make today's celebration as big as possible The Toreador has also gotten a little bigger. After much deliberation we decided the best way to let exes know they were welcome was to boast of the new things on the campus which we as well as they call a part of their old Alma Mater. So in the second section of this issue of the paper, and we might add this is the first evidence we can find of two sections ever being published, you will find pictures and stories which we hope will make the day mean a little more to each one of you.

Sports Chatter

by
KEITH ANDERSON

(Staff Writer Pug Davidson is writing Sports Chatter for this issue in the absence of Sports Editor Keith Anderson.)

I have noted with much interest the past two weeks the moans coming from Coach Dutch Meyer concerning the slaughter of his footballers by the Razorbacks at this Arkansas university. Unquestionably the loss of several key men from any ball club would give rise to much moaning and groaning and tearing of hair, but the accusation made by the TCU coach that Arkansas played dirty football seems to go beyond the realm of sportsmanship. Had TCU won the ball game and then made such accusations, his claims might have stood, but in losing and then crying, it seems that someone is looking for the easy way out.

Those claims that Arkansas played dirty football remind me of the claims of some would-be great teams of a few years ago which charged that one Peter Willis Cawthon and his Red Raiders from Texas Tech were an outlaw band. It seems that when the opposition blocks and tackles just a little hard and possibly does injure a man or two while winning a game from the favorite, there is a howl of dirty football. If the rock 'em and sock 'em game is too rough for TCU, then I would suggest that it schedule Eryn Mawr, Stephens college and TSCW.

Also noted with interest was the follow-up of the claims of Coach Meyer by the sports editor of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram to the effect that Arkansas should be kicked out of the conference and Texas Tech admitted.

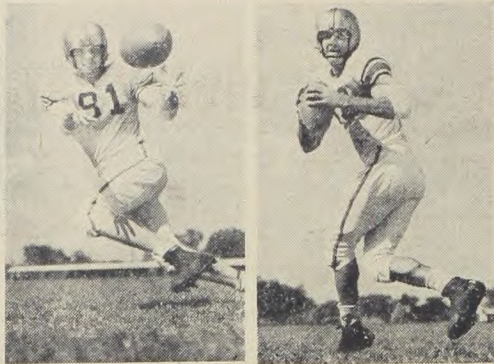

With kindest thanks for the recognition and suggestion that Tech be admitted to the conference, it is my belief, and several people on the campus will disagree, that Texas Tech is not ready for admittance to the conference at this time nor will it be ready any time in the near future. Tech certainly can't hope to compete with the Southwest conference clubs after having been administered two resounding defeats by clubs in the lower bracket of the conference, and the two defeats which are sure to come in the near future, barring a miracle.

It's athletic program is not well rounded enough for it to compete within the conference at this time. Tech has no college baseball team, no boxing or wrestling team, no swimming team, nor does it have the facilities required for such contests to be held here. I, too, would be most happy for Tech to be a member of a recognized major conference, but not until it is able to compete on equal terms in a full athletic program.

Our annual game with Baylor is the feature attraction of Homecoming and would that we could be in the mood for celebration after the game. The undefeated and untied Bears, on paper, are rated some 40 points better than the Raiders, but if tradition repeats and Tech plays up to its capabilities, there could be some cause for joy in Eldersville tonight.

Away from the football game and on to the manly art of boxing. Tech students have been sorely neglecting the progress of one of their outstanding athletes, Bill Henderson.

Henderson, as some of you know, is one of the top-rated lightweight boxers of the nation at present.

and in his forthcoming bout with Manuel Ortega of El Paso, he is meeting the fourth-rated featherweight of the world. Henderson is somewhat disappointed at the lack of interest shown by his fellow students, and he has expressed the desire for more backing in his efforts to climb to the top of the pugilistic ladder. Henderson is scheduled to meet Ortega Tuesday, in a 10-round main event to be sponsored by the VFW at Chapman field house.

Our weekly peek into the crystal ball left us with nothing but a warning that this week is the "big one" of the football season. The schools of the nation have their warm-up games off, and this week finds all of them wading into stiff competition, most of them in conference play. Getting nothing from the crystal ball, we paid a visit to a seer and got nothing from him but a bill for two ducks. As a last desperate effort we managed to borrow a football card and after careful perusal of same come out with these predictions:

In the East, Princeton over Brown; Dartmouth will trim Colgate; Holy Cross will roll over Duquesne; Penn State will easily beat Nebraska; and Rutgers will edge Syracuse.

In the Midwest, Missouri will continue its winning ways by defeating Illinois; NAVY WILL UPSET WISCONSIN; Michigan State will score at will over William and Mary; Mississippi State will beat Cincinnati; Oklahoma, fresh from its victory over Texas, will rout Kansas; and Oklahoma A&M will outscore Drake.

In the South, Tennessee will shove Alabama further down the list with an easy victory; Duke will barely edge North Carolina State; Georgia Tech will defeat Auburn; Virginia Tech will nose out Washington and Lee; and Vanderbilt will steam roller Florida.

In the Southwest, Deak Walker (SMU) will beat Rice by three touchdowns; TEXAS AGGIES WILL DEFEAT TCU; ARKANSAS WILL BEAT OVERRATED TEXAS; and Baylor will swamp Texas Tech.

In the Far West, Washington State will overpower Idaho; Stanford will soundly thrash Washington; UCLA will drop Santa Clara; and Oregon State will roll over Montana.

Other major contests will see Northwestern help end Michigan's reign in the Big Nine with a close victory over the Wolverines. In the same conference, Minnesota should overpower Ohio State, and Indiana should take Iowa. The top game of the nation this week will see Notre Dame continue its winning ways with a hard-earned victory over Tulane. In the East, some traditional games will see Army beat Harvard, Penn take Columbia and Cornell steamroller Yale.

Raider-Bear Tilt Record Gives Tech Three Wins, Five Losses, One Tie

This afternoon the Red Raiders take the field against a highly-gearred bunch of Bruins from Baylor university in a continuance of their annual feud.

This highlight of homecoming weekend is the tenth game of a series that had its beginning in 1929 with Baylor defeating the then-monickered Matadors by a 34-0 score. In 1931 the Bears were again victorious by a 32-0 score, but the following season saw the Raiders defeat the Bruins by a 14-2 score for their first victory over Baylor. In 1934, the Raiders again whipped the Bruins, this time by a 14-7 score.

The series between the two teams was discontinued at that time and not until 1942 did Tech resume contesting the Waco eleven, the latter winning this renewal tilt by a 14-7 score. The two teams battled to a 7-7 tie in 1945, and the Red-clad warriors of Tech defeated the Bruins the following season by a 13-6 score. The Bears rebounded for a 32-6 win over the Morganmen in the following season, and last year saw the Raiders battle the heavily-favored Bears in the annual Homecoming game only to lose by a 13-0 score.

In the contests between the teams, the Bears of Baylor university have won 5, while scoring 147 points, and the Raiders have won 3 and have scored 61 points. There has been one tie.

Residents of Men's Dorm III have received their radio-phonograph combination and public address system, said Hilary Fry, dormitory supervisor.

The case, eight feet high and six feet square, is constructed of bleached veneer. Its three tiers, trimmed in brown imitation leather, can display 30 trophies.

Designer of the case is John McKaughan, senior commercial artist from Tahoka. His plan was chosen from those submitted in competitive work by students in Architecture 332, a commercial course.

Fund for the case was donated by the 1948 alumni. First award to be shown on the tiers was the trophy to be awarded to the outstanding float in today's parade.
