Dr. George Gail Heather Will Head Division Of Business Administration

By PAULA FLX
Toreador Staff Writer

Dr. George Gail Heather will assume duties as the new dean of business administration Jan. 15. Dr. E. N. Jones, vice president, said Thursday.

Doctor Heather, who is 32, has made rapid progress in his professional career and has been strongly recommended for the position by leaders in education, business, and industry, Dr. Jones stated.

Comes From Florida State
The new dean will come to Tech from Florida State university, where he is professor and chairman of commerce. Other positions he has held include instructor in commerce and economics at the State University of Iowa, assistant professor of economics at Fort Hayes State college in Kansas, and director of curriculum and associate professor of economics at the University of Denver.

Doctor Heather received his BS degree from Southwest Missouri State college. He earned both his MA and PhD degrees from the State University of Iowa.

Married to a Tech graduate, Doctor Heather has a 14-month-old son. His wife, the former Mary Caroline Stewart, received her BA degree from Tech in 1945.

Taylor Commended

He holds membership in Alpha Kappa Psi, Pi Gamma Mu, and Pi Omega Pi, professional honorary societies. He is also a member of the American Economics association, Southern Economics association, and the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

Haskell Taylor, professor of accounting and finance, is the acting dean of business administration. He will resume full-time teaching duties next semester.

"I want to express my appreciation to Professor Taylor for the excellent job he has done as the acting dean of business administration. He has skillfully guided the division since he assumed his duties in Sept., 1948," stated Dr. D. M. Wiggins, Tech president.

X-ray Schedule For Students Is Given

A schedule for the Red Cross X-ray unit has been announced by the student health service. The unit will be on the campus Tuesday and Wednesday.

Students with last names beginning with A through F are scheduled from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday; G through L from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday; M through R from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday and the remainder from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. Friday. Tests will be made in the Aggie auditorium.

Families of faculty members will also be X-rayed, but no children under 15 years of age will be examined. By means of X-ray doctors are able to determine and check the nature of a disease before it becomes too far advanced.

The machine to be used in the tests here will be a portable one capable of X-raying 1,500 persons daily.

CHORUS STUDENTS TO MEET

All students signed for Chorus 113 through 414 are notified that attendance at Monday's rehearsal is urgent, said Dr. Gene Hemmie, professor and head of music.

An important announcement which will affect the membership of the entire chorus will be made at that time stated Doctor Hemmie.

Student Body Prexy Now Proud Poppu

All that cigar smoke coming through the portals of the student council office this week is due to a visit of the stork to Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Sterling Thursday.

The baby, a girl, was born at 2:24 o'clock Thursday afternoon. She weighed six pounds, six and one-half ounces, and has been named Suzanne.

Student council members stated that Sterling, who is student body president, has been extremely nervous all week, but that he was at least walking on the ground, not in the clouds as he is now.

Sterling, who paced the floor for 12 hours, said, "You can probably find my footprints on that corridor. And as to making a statement for the press, I've been a little too preoccupied lately to think much about the press."

Mrs. Sterling is the former Josie Barton, ex-Techsan from Earth. Sterling is a senior student from Snyder.

Shakespearian Comedy Promises Evening Of Riotous Entertainment

By MAC STRONG
Toreador Staff Writer

The curtain will go up on "Twelfth Night" at 8 p.m. Monday in the Speech building auditorium. Miss Cecilia Thompson, instructor in speech and director of the play, said. The production will run through Friday.

"Twelfth Night," which is the most popular of Shakespearian comedies, promises to be a riot from beginning to end. Miss Thompson said. The two plots of the play revolve around such intriguing subjects as mistaken identities, a fool being fooled and romantic sequences. The play has starred many outstanding actors and actresses during its presentations in this country, she said.

Admission will be 75 cents for everyone, and activity tickets will not be accepted as admission.

"Persons desiring seats on special nights should make reservations through the speech department. The auditorium has seating capacity for only 103 persons, so reservations should be made early," Miss Thompson stated.

The cast of the play is: Gerald Saunders, Orsino, Duke of Illyria; Bob Carnahan, Sebastian; David Blackbird, Antonio, sea captain, friend of Sebastian; John Zahn, sea captain, friend of Viola; Brad Beedy, Valentine; Pug Davidson, Sir Toby Belch, uncle of Olivia; David Fawcett, Curio; Gerald Tippet, Sir Andrew Aguecheek; Phil Nickell, Malvolio, steward to Olivia; Gene Alford, Feste, a clown; Roberts Bujac, Fabian; Billie Hutchings, Olivia, a countess; Jo Ann Simmons, Viola; Betty Houston, Maria; Betty Stewart and Shirley Cummings, attendants to Olivia; and Harry Albough, priest. Earlene Rodgers is assistant director.

Senior Class Tops Enrollment Figures

Seniors are more numerous than any other classification this semester, Miss Evelyn Clewell, assistant registrar, stated.

Statistics have been compiled which show that 1,672 students are classified as seniors, 259 of whom are women. Freshman class enrollment stands at 1,419, with 429 of this total being women. Junior students number 1,191 with 259 women included in that number. Sophomore enrollment is slightly less with 1,184 students registered. There are 319 sophomore women. Graduate enrollment is 377.

Last fall's statistics show the following distribution of the 5,145 total enrollment: freshmen, 1,618; sophomores, 1,308; juniors, 1,553; seniors, 1,490; and graduates, 176.

Latest official count of veterans places that total at 1,991. Total enrollment stands at 5,843, although it is possible that more extension classes will be organized, Miss Clewell said.

Today's Half-Time Show Will Present International Theme

Half-time activities during the Tech-Arizona game in Jones stadium at 2:30 p.m. today will take on an international flavor when the 29 members of the Cosmopolitan club take to the field along with the band.

Immediately following the presentation of a set of foreign flags to the college by the students, who make up the membership of the Cosmopolitan club, the band will salute Arizona and execute a formation in honor of Tech's cheer leaders.

Jimmy D'Acosta, Cosmopolitan club president, is to make the presentation of flags to Pres. D. M. Wiggins, who will accept in behalf of the college. James G. Allen, dean of men, who is in charge of these foreign students representing 12 different countries and Dr. E. N. Jones, college vice president, are to take part in the presentation. Willie Perca, club reporter, said. The Tech band will play "National Emblem" during the marching.

Many People Responsible For Success Of Homecoming

Homecoming is over for another year and one week later most of the college has had time to catch its breath and settle down to work again. Some mention should be made, however before Homecoming weekend gets too far gone, of the splendid way in which both students and Lubbock townspeople welcomed the ex students of Tech back and made them feel it was really "coming home."

Not only was this year's parade and game one of the best on record but the exes also commented on the way in which they were made to feel they were really "special" guests. Much of the credit for making this Homecoming successful should go to D. M. McElroy, executive secretary of the ex-student association. Through his work and also the labor of such members of the Student Council as Bill McCasland, Curtis Sterling and others did this celebration turn out to be such a success.

Among the Lubbock business firms who cannot be overlooked if credit is being given are the TNM&O Bus lines and Furr Food stores. These two firms, under the direction of Roy Furr and Jess C. Levens, made the huge luncheon in the gym possible. We would not attempt to guess the amount of money, to say nothing of time and labor, that was spent on this luncheon. TNM&O was also responsible for providing free transportation for the Tech band from the band hall to the point where the parade began.

Now that Texas Tech is "getting some age" more and more graduates will be returning every year. Soon thousands of people will be jamming Lubbock each fall to make the annual trip back to school. While we are not presuming to predict or prepare future Homecomings it would be nice if plans for the next celebration could begin right now. We don't mean the actual work, but rather that plans and completely new ideas for the parade and other activities could be mulled over.

Now that we have established such a fine tradition as our Homecoming has become, it should not be allowed to fall into a rut. If future Homecomers can feel something new will be in store for them every year they will be looking forward to coming back more and more. After all it is most of those same people who are exes of this college who are indirectly responsible for the college's future. Why not give them something better, if possible, every year so they can boast to associates and friends of the up and coming Alma Mater which they have.

Officials Announce Plans Are Being Made To Replace Paths With Walks

Problems concerning the parking areas are not the only ones being corrected by Tech officials. A suitable network of sidewalks is being planned and constructed on the campus. About $7000 worth of new walks are being put down and some of the old ones are being widened.

Tech's first sidewalks were not placed where they were needed the most, but followed a definite geometric pattern. Dr. E. N. Jones, vice president, says that he hopes this pattern will never be attempted again. Instead, sidewalks will be placed over the most worn paths, Frank Junell, assistant to the president, states. Walks will be curved a little to make them look better but will follow the general direction of beaten paths. Work will begin immediately to cover with a curved concrete walk the path leading from the front door of Sneed hall to the corner of College and Broadway.

If students do not have enough time between classes to walk on sidewalks, then how about everyone's cutting across the grass in the same way? If that is down, only one path will be worn across each area and the entire grassed section will not be killed. . . . B.W.

"Whom are you calling out?"

THINKING ALLOWED

By Jerry Hall

Recently a Tech student was hitch hiking back to Lubbock on a Sunday afternoon and the car in which he was riding was involved in an accident near Floydada. A civil law suit has resulted from the accident and the attorney in charge of the case is trying to locate the student. His name is unknown but if he can be located, Warlick Carr of Carr and Carr, attorneys here in town would like very much for that student to get in touch with him immediately.

Nothing has been said of the spirit which our head boy cheer leader showed when despite a severe wrist and chest injury he performed as usual during the Baylor game. Jimmy Carter was injured during the victory pep rally after the Tulsa game two weeks ago when he didn't quite make it on a flip. He crashed into the pavement when he and Bob Hogan failed to make connecting in a back flip under the light at Broadway and College. Jimmy crashed to the pavement on his right shoulder and pulled several ligaments in his left wrist. He didn't plan to do much in the way of acrobatics Saturday but we noticed when he did a few just the same. Jim has done such a swell job so far this year that it would be hard to find words to express our sorrow at his injury. We will just pretend that we are in Amarillo or Big Spring and offer this as a toast. "Here's to a swell guy and a grand cheer leader. Get well soon."

Another attraction which has added charm to the yell section of the Red Raiders is little Miss Kay Caris, Jimmy's pert blonde 11 year old girl friend who has adopted Tech as her favorite college. Kay is the daughter of a Hobbs, N.M. family and originally came to Lubbock to take aerobatic lessons from Jimmy Carter. She comes here for one lesson a week and also drives (we mean her parents drive) here for each Tech home game. Kay has added color to the cheering section and we for one would like to vote her in as an honorary member of the student body.

One of the very notable visitors at last Saturday's 20th annual Homecoming was W. W. (Windy) Nicklaus of Amarillo. Nicklaus was captain of the first football team Tech ever fielded and this was the first Homecoming he had attended since leaving college. He was also named second vice president of the Ex-Student association Saturday.

From listening to the comments made by several of the beauties who were judged in the Aggie Auditorium Sunday we found La Ventana editor, Roy Grimm, should be given a pat on the back for the excellent way in which the judging was carried out. In past years considerable griping has been done about the way the judging was handled. However, most of the girls who had been in previous contests agreed that the one Sunday was the best organized they had ever seen. Incidentally we were one of the judges for the affair and although we don't profess to be an authority on beauty (damn it!) we would like to say in all fairness to the girls it certainly wasn't easy to pick the most beautiful. Who said Texas didn't have the most beautiful women in the world?

Here is a thought which we mentioned briefly last week which we would like to bring up again: Tech needs a Homecoming queen to ride at the head of the parade every year. Other schools do it. In fact most of the other colleges we know have Homecoming queens. Granted it wouldn't be the easiest thing to do and would require a little work on someone's part. It would mean extra class meetings to choose the candidate from each class and would necessitate a campus wide election. But think of the color and extra excitement it would afford both students and visitors. The girls chosen could be officially crowned at half time. Of course she would have to be named earlier in order to preside over the entire Homecoming celebration but that could be done.

In the past we have had band

Around The Campuses

Doak Walker has his troubles, according to The SMU Campus. He can't go to a football game as a spectator without being mobbed by autograph hounds. He was forced to leave the Highland Park-Waco game by the end of the third quarter so the crowd around him could see the game.

The student lounge at TCU cleared $253 during September. The Skiff stated that this was the greatest net profit ever. In the first 14 months of operation, the lounge lost almost $4,000. Under the new management, the TCU Student Congress, it has begun operating in the black.

Two foreign students have enrolled in Georgia Tech under the World Student Fund contributions of that school during the past year. One is an ex-seargent major of the German army, and the other is an ex-Finnish soldier. They are studying architecture and industrial management.

Colorado School of Mines and Denver university have declared a "gentlemen's agreement" regarding campus raids on each other's institutions. According to the Oredigger, School of Mines publication, the halt came after some acts of destruction demanded that action be taken.

Hardin-Simmons Cowboy club is sponsoring "Icelandia", the first show if its kind in West Texas. It is to be an ice show with a cast of 30 stars of the Ice Follies and Ice Capades. The company presenting the show has its own ice-making machine which will equip an area in the Hardin-Simmons field house for the performance which is to be on Monday and Tuesday, according to The Brand.

queens and other various beauties crowned at the annual Homecoming game and it did add a certain amount of spark to the proceedings. What would be a better or more welcome treat to the thousands who throng the campus than seeing the best in beautiful women we have at Tech? If enough interest could be worked up it would not be too far ahead of time for the girl from each class to be chosen in the class election during the early part of the year. From there the candidates could be boomed and the election could be held a week or so before the game. Seems to us like that might be a worthy cause for some organization to back for next year.

Crager, Lovett, Alsup, Garner Provide Melody For Texas Tech

By GUIDA MILLER
Toreador Staff Writer

Poland had her Paderewski; Austria had her Mozart; Russia had her Tschaikevsky; but Texas Tech has Crager, Lovett, Alsup and Garner.

Ted Crager plays first cornet in the Tech band and is working on his master's in music. While playing with the College Capers sponsored by the Interstate theaters in Dallas, Crager was offered a job with Ted Weems' band. After the war, he was director of a service band which broadcasted regularly from Radio Tokyo, the same station which had carried Tokyo Rose's program. Crager has also played with the Amarillo and Lubbock symphony orchestras and was musical director for the Lions club minstrel and Varsity show last year. This summer he played with George Olson's traveling dance band.

Another student with a noteworthy past is Paul Lovett, who plans to receive his BS in music in January. He has been playing in professional bands 15 years. During his four years in the army, he organized a band for the 69th infantry division and carried a touring show through France and Germany. He has played with such name bands as Ray Herbeck, Phil Levant, Buddy Marino and the Austin Little sextette and vocalists. Those original tunes from the varsity shows of '46 and '48 which people are still singing were written by Lloyd Alsup, senior band major from Muleshoe. Alsup, who has done some professional song writing, attended the Navy school of music in Washington, D.C., and directed a navy service band in Trinidad, British West Indies.

Gary Garner, sometimes called a "child prodigy" by his friends, masters such instruments as the alto and tenor saxophones, clarinet and flute. Even while he was attending high school in Amarillo, Garner played with professional bands and the Amarillo symphony orchestra.

A 19-year-old sophomore, Garner performed with Nat "King" Cole in Galveston in 1948. He played with Sherman Lowe's band until Lowe joined Harry James' orchestra. This summer he was featured with George Olson's band on the flute and clarinet. He had offers from Shep Field and Johnny Long, but he decided to come back to Tech to finish his schooling.

Sports Chatter

by KEITH ANDERSON

Well we finally got back, and find that the sport chatter was in good hands while we were gone. Of course we don't expect all of you to agree with Mr. Pug Davidson, but still in spite of what we believe, we will have to admit that he has some pretty good facts on his side. We won't attempt to answer Pug's arguments in this column except to say that we believe that if Tech should be admitted into the Southwest conference it would attract the material necessary to put her upon the same basis as the present members.

While we are on that subject, we would like to take exception to all the griping being done about the type of material that Tech has at present. We believe that Tech has some good material. What we need is more of it. We are sure that a lot of people who talk about Tech needing material really mean "more material", but they should say that, and not cast reflection upon the present crop of men who are members of the Red Raiders. We believe that such men as John Andrews, Dan Pursel, Jerrell Price, Bobby Williams, and injured Don Williams could find a birth on any of the SWC's eleven. Such members of the Raider secondary as Earl Jackson, Bud Conley, J. W. Thompson, Cal Stevenson, and Milton Rathbone would also see plenty of action. We realize that we have only mentioned a few of the names that are SWC material. It is really an injustice to the other boys to leave them out, but we are only using these few as illustration. We personally believe that Bill Lyman has the ability to quarterback any team, if he could find himself and get rolling. At times this year, like in the Texas A&M game, Bill looked like he was ready to go.

Tech's main problem, as we pointed out is the lack of more material. The day of the two platoon system is here. No longer do we have the eleven iron men. For good or bad it's here, and to compete with teams of the SWC level, Tech must be able to field men who are specialists in their particular positions. We are not able to do that at the present time. And though the present crop of freshmen look very good, we don't believe that Tech will be able to do so until she enters into a higher conference.

Within three years after Tech enters the SWC, she would play football on the same basis as the best of them. Why not? Three years would give Tech time to build up its reserves with the added inducement of being a conference member. Due to the very nature of the school, we believe that she would rank second only to Texas University in appeal. This is not wishful thinking, but fact. Many of our present crop of Texas highschool players go out of state because they don't want to go to denominational schools, and they don't get offers to Texas University. The fact that A&M is not educational rules it out for many, and Rice scholastic standards hinders its drawing power. We would like to point out that none of these characteristics pertain to Tech.

Whether we will ever see this theory tested, we do not know. The powers that be in the Southwest conference have turned a cold shoulder to our pleas for admittance. So we will probably keep trying to play them on their terms, but if the day should ever come when we can play them on an even basis, oh how sweet revenge will be.

Judging Team Goes To Los Angeles

The Tech dairy manufactures judging team left Wednesday for Los Angeles where it will participate in the Collegiate Students' International contest in judging dairy products. The contest is held under the sponsorship of the Dairy Industries Supply association and American Dairy Science association.

The team, which is composed of Clarence Darter, Royce Jackson, Harold Sawyer and Terry Smith, is accompanied by J. J. Willingham, professor and head of dairy manufactures.

Picadors Will Play Powerful New Mexico Eleven in Roswell Tonight

The highly-touted Texas Tech freshman football team returns to action Saturday night in Roswell, when it faces the New Mexico Military Institute.

Coach Allie White expects to take about 35 men to Roswell and is hopeful of victory. The Tech 'fish' in their only game this fall defeated West Texas State junior Buffaloes, 59-7.

Coach White said he believed his team is somewhat improved over its last appearance because of almost daily workouts with the Tech varsity. The freshmen, in the main, have been using plays of Tech's foes and may present a varied offensive in Roswell.

Tech probably will start the same crew which did so well against West Texas; All-Stater Jimmie Williams, Phillips, center; All-Stater Buddy Barron, Temple, and Don Ribble, Arlington Heights, Gray, Breckenridge, guards; Mar-Fort Worth, and Charles Goff, McAllen, tackles; All-Stater Alton Linne, Monahans, and James Thames, Alvarado, ends; Carl Madison, Atmore, Ala., all-star quarterback; All-Stater Waldo Young, Monahans, left halfback; W. H. Barker, Colorado City, right halfback; and Ronnie Miller, Albany, fullback.

In the West Texas game, the Tech line gave little ground, while backs ran wild and passers hit twelve of twenty-one tosses including four touchdown heaves. Thames caught all eight passes which went his way; Barker turned in sixty and eighty-five touchdown runs; Miller kicked all five conversions he tried; and Young ran the closing put back seventy yards for a TD, crossing the goal line after time ran out.

Boy Scouts Attend Council Round-Up

Eight hundred to one thousand Boy Scouts are attending the council wide round-up which is being held at Texas Tech this weekend, according to W. R. Postma, council executive.

About 400 of the boys are quartered in tents behind the gym and on the freshman football field.

"There are tents of all kinds, sizes and descriptions," Postma said.

"Futures Unlimited," the all-student movie about Tech was shown Friday night in the gym as part of a program which also included recognition of the troops represented in the round-up, and welcome to Tech by Pres. D. M. Wiggins and Vice-pres. E. N. Jones.

Today the scouts will visit the departments of the college in which they are interested. They will be guided by members of Alpha Phi Omega, fraternity of ex-

Polgár Cancels Tech Engagement

Dr. Franz Polgár, the mental wizard, will not appear in the Rec hall Thursday night as scheduled, James G. Allen, chairman of the Rec hall committee, has announced.

The Dixie Bureau which handles Doctor Polgár's engagements notified Allen this week that the Hungarian hypnotist is appearing on television shows every Friday night and will be unable to fill his engagement at Tech. A second appearance is scheduled for Mar. 17, Allen said.

Vincent Sheehan, author and lecturer, will be the first speaker on the Rec hall program. He is to appear Nov. 2, the chairman stated.

boy Scouts.

Lunch will be served behind the gym in chuck wagon style, after which the boys will attend the Tech-Arizona football game in Jones stadium.

This is the first round-up held since 1942 and Postma expects it to become an annual affair again. Accompanying the boys will be about 100 leaders and other adults.

Bill Henderson Scores Technical KO Over Manny Ortega in Tenth Round

By PUG DAVIDSON Toreador Sports Writer.

Bill Henderson, senior agriculture student from Levelland, moved into the top rung of the fistful world Tuesday night when he scored a technical knockout over Manny Ortega, world's fourth ranking featherweight, in the last round of a scheduled ten-round main event at Chapman fieldhouse.

Henderson and Ortega both started fast in the opening round, and Henderson won the first two rounds with a wicked left jab which he continually kept in Ortega's face and with a right cross which scored repeatedly on the jaw of the El Pasoan. Ortega came back strong in the third round and outboxed and outfought Henderson although the Tech student was never in serious trouble.

In the fourth and fifth, Ortega traded shot for shot with Henderson and came out with a slight advantage in both rounds to go ahead in the score up to this point. Henderson opened the sixth round with a vicious body attack and repeatedly drove Ortega across the ring with punishing shots to the head and body.

Henderson kept getting stronger and in the seventh round he again kept Ortega in trouble and had him hanging on the ropes at the bell. At the opening of the eighth, Henderson again opened with a vicious body attack. When Ortega dropped his guard, he was stunned by a series of vicious rights which repeatedly found their mark on his jaw. The Tech student kept on top of the tiring and badly shaken Ortega and a series of right and left hand shots to the jaw had Manny in bad shape on the canvas at the bell.

Knowing that he had his opponent in trouble, Bill came out fast in the ninth round and drove stunning blows to both the head and body. Ortega was downed twice and was helplessly hanging on the ropes when Referee LaVerne Roach stopped the fight.

Henderson, in winning his 28th professional bout in 30 attempts, defeated one of the outstanding fighters in the nation. His decisive victory showed that he is ready to move into the upper bracket of the fight game and is a challenger for the world's title.

He has lost only twice in his professional boxing career, both bouts having gone to Jean Mougin, the lightweight champion of France.
