Dr. Doyle Jackson Freed In Mock Trial For "Slaying" Of Prominent Student

By CHARLOTTE BLACKBURN
Toreador Staff Writer

Dr. Doyle D. Jackson, head of the education department, was judged not guilty of "murder with malice aforethought" in the "slaying" of Marshall Gettys, senior football star. The vote was 108 to 100, at the mock pre-law trial Monday night.

Scene of the "crime," which took place shortly before 11 a.m. Friday, was the office of Doctor Jackson. Gettys went to the office for a conference with the professor, became involved in an argument with him, and was allegedly slain by him with a heavy iron book end.

First witness in the mock trial was James F. Vaughan, graduate student, who was in the anteroom of Dr. Jackson's office at the time of the "murder." He stated that Dr. Jackson made threatening remarks to Gettys. He said that blood "flowed like tears" when the student staggered into the anteroom and gasped, "I'm dying."

Campus Beauty Testifies

At this point, attorney for the defense objected because Gettys had not the medical knowledge to know whether or not he was dying. The objection was overruled by Chief Justice Alton Griffin, on the grounds that the dying man was entitled to his opinion.

Amber Logan, sophomore engineering student who was also in the anteroom at the time of the murder, was one of the prominent witnesses. She was reading the latest copy of Thrilling Romances and reported that she paid little attention to the scene in the office.

Miss Logan said she did overhear Gettys call Dr. Jackson a "stupid, lazy lout" and heard Doctor Jackson reply with "Harvard complex idiot!" She then said she fainted when the body was carried out. She described Doctor Jackson as a "rational, even-tempered, easy-going" person.

Witness Breaks Down

John Tom Baker and Calvin Steveson, both of whom played football with the victim, were called to the witness stand later. Baker burst into tears at the mention of Gettys and was almost unable to continue. He and Steveson both reported that Gettys studied education at every possible moment, including between halves and during time outs of the Tech football

Plans For Tech's 25th Anniversary Will Be Studied

By SUE HOLMES
Toreador Staff Writer

Plans for the observance in 1950 of Tech's 25th anniversary are to be formulated by a committee headed by James G. Allen, dean of men, recently appointed chairman by Pres. D. M. Wiggins.

The silver anniversary committee includes Prof. C. V. Bullen, head of electrical engineering; Dr. W. B. Gates, professor of English; and Robert Rutland, assistant in the office of public information and editor of official college bulletins and catalogs.

General aims of the anniversary observances are to recognize the tremendous growth and achievement of Tech in its first 25 years and to give its friends the opportunity to express themselves tangibly in the program, Dejan Allen

Board Orders Bids Be Advertised; Three Years Of Construction Seen

By PAULA FIN
Toreador Staff Writer

Texas Tech's Board of Directors approved plans for five buildings and directed that bids be advertised for their construction at a meeting Saturday morning in the president's office.

Architect's plans were accepted for the Music, Engineering, Science, and Petroleum Engineering buildings, and for additions to the Home Economics building. Architects are: Walsh and Hazilwood, Amarillo, Music, Wyatt C. Hedrick, Fort Worth, Science; Atcheson and Atkinson, Lubbock, Engineering; and Haynes and Kirby, Lubbock, Home Economics.

The board also approved construction of several agricultural buildings to cost approximately $550,000. Haynes and Kirby were appointed to draw up plans for Agricultural Engineering and Veterinary Science buildings, a group of greenhouses and a stock show arena.

Student Union Plans Studied

Buildings are part of a $3,000,000 program, stated Frank Junell, assistant to the president. The program will take approximately three years for completion, he said.

Board members accepted the bid of Blythe and Co., Chicago, for the purchase of $250,000 in bonds to be retired over a 10-year period for the construction of a Student Union building. This amount will be matched from funds available to construct the first unit of the building.

Committee Chosen

The board also approved the planning committee for the Twenty-fifth Anniversary celebration at Tech. Those to represent the college are: James G. Allen, dean of men; C. V. Bullen, professor and head of electrical engineering; Dr. W. B. Gates, professor of English; and Robert Rutland, assistant in the department of public information.

Ray C. Mowery, professor of animal husbandry, was appointed head of that department, effective Feb. 1. Dean W. L. Stangel, present head, requested the appointment.

On the recommendation of the utilities facilities committee, the board appointed David C. Pieffer, Dallas, engineering consultant, to make a survey of campus utilities. Committee members are: Charles Woodriddle, Dallas's chairman; Leon Ince, Houston; and Raymond Pfleger, Eden.

Report On TISA Meeting Presented To Student Council

Report of the Texas Intercollegiate Student association meeting held in Austin Saturday was the main topic of discussion at Student Council meeting Monday night.

Representatives of Tech to the meeting, Curtis Sterling, president of the student body; Margaret Clark, secretary of the student body, and Bill McCasland, representative from business administration, each added comment on business transacted.

Main purpose in the association's meeting was to outline a program for the regularly scheduled meeting which is to be held at Baylor university April 21.

Sterling was one of five delegates appointed to be on a committee to investigate further possibilities of the fine arts program (Artsists Course programs). Others appointed were Don Yarborough, University of Texas; Herb Phillips, Texas Wesleyan; Bob Prussner, and I; and Sam Lord, Stephen F. Austin.

Perhaps one of the outstanding results of the convention was the receiving of word from Rice Institute of its ratifying the TISA con-

Sue Holmes, junior journalism student from Garland, has been appointed to represent Tech on the Mademoiselle magazine's College Board.

She is one of 850 appointees from colleges all over the country. Almost 4,000 students competed nationally this year for positions on the board.

Miss Holmes will report campus news, fads and fashions and do three magazine assignments during the college year.

She will also be competing for one of 20 guest editorships, to be awarded by the magazine next June. Guest editors will go to New York for a month in June to help write and edit Mademoiselle's 1950 college issue.

PEP RALLY ANNOUNCED

A pep rally for the Raisin Bowl game will be held at 5:10 p.m. Tuesday in Jones Stadium, said Jimmy Carter, head boy cheerleader.

The football boys will be working out on the field at the time of the pep rally, and Coach Dell Morgan may have them run through some plays, he said.

"This rally will be a short one. As it is the last of the season, we would like to see everybody out for it," Carter added.

Museum Association Elects Officers, Outlines Plans At Banquet Friday

By CLYDE BRADSHAW

The West Texas Museum Association elected officers at a dinner given Friday night, in the museum auditorium, honoring those who made the building possible. The association also plans for operation and expansion. They paid tribute to those who in any way helped in financing of the new building which is now almost complete.

Acting as master of ceremonies was the outgoing president, Retha Martin, who presided over the tribute program and business session, which was followed by a ranch style dinner. The food was prepared in the museum kitchen.

emeritus of Texas Tech, was elected president of the association for the coming year and Dr. W. C. Holden, dean of graduate studies at Tech, was named director of the local museum. Standing committees were also appointed.

A twenty-year dream will be realized when the museum is completed early next year, James G. Allen pointed out in giving the history of the museum's movement.

The idea for the building, he stated, was born Feb. 28, 1929, when Mrs. Mary Doak, then dean of the women, described her visit to the British museum in England. Outlining the entire movement, he put particular emphasis on the $25,000 obtained from the legislature which

Mid-Semester Report Should Not Cause Student To Relax

The half-way point of the fall semester has come and gone, and the results are now known. For many students, this is the signal to breathe a sigh of relief and to coast along for awhile. The period between Thanksgiving and Christmas is especially conducive to this attitude.

After Thanksgiving the general opinion is that a week is necessary to "rest-up" from the holiday. Since the week before the Christmas vacation begins is devoted to making plans, only one week of haphazard preparation of lessons remains.

It isn't too soon to begin preparing for those fateful final exams. Techsians, like many other college students, fail to realize that these tests lie just around the corner of the new year.

Start your new year on the right track early. Time is too short after the holidays to bring up those lagging grades. If your grades aren't what they should be, begin bringing them up now. You may think a few sessions of "burning the midnight oil" during dead and exam weeks will raise those poor reports. This policy may help a little—but steady work every day will help a lot more.

It's better to be prepared than sorry, so be ready for those exams when they come and you'll have nothing to worry about. . . . B.S.

"Drive Safely" Should Be Techsian's Motto At All Times

Accidents on the highways are maiming and slaughtering more people than wars, according to statistics.

This alarming state of conditions is more appalling when one considers the fact that the almost invariable reply of these unwilling killers is, "I didn't mean to do it. . . ." Then the excuses vary from "three, only three beers" to "I was doing seventy. I didn't see him 'til it was too late."

Daily newspapers amplify the terror of the frequent smash-ups with gruesome pictures and gory detailed stories of "six dead, mother unconscious; feared she has critical internal injuries." On and on the gore flows. The whole nation talks of accident prevention at the breakfast table, extolling loud and long the need for signal lights, clover-shaped intersections, sponge rubber crash pads in automobiles, over-passes, six lane highways and jet-powered brakes.

What has happened is simply that automobiles are faster than the brains of the men and women who drive them.

The danger will be lessened when man realizes that seventy on the speedometer means he can't stop at under a hundred yards with safety. Slick pavement means that his chances of stopping at seventy with safety are almost nil.

Watch the father with four children in his car driving behind a car at sixty miles an hour whip around without looking and be sick at heart to know he doesn't know the danger.

Each person that drives should be familiar with a few of the terrific forces that act on metal and flesh at mile-a-minute speeds. Training of drivers and education of those learning will help.

The realization must come to every driver that he is the power of life and death over other people when he is at the wheel. This is a sober, serious exhortation to drivers, "slow down and think and live." . . . O.H.

AND THEN I SAID "NOW JUST A MINUTE, DEAN ALLEN" I SAID

Smithy's Forge

By JAMES F. SMITH

Looking through slick - paper magazines during the few weeks before the Christmas season is like scanning the pages of a mail-order house catalogue when you have no money. You see so many articles you would like to buy.

But at Yuletide, the advertisements in the better magazines are especially seductive. Each page of ads offers a potential present. As you read the magazines, you wish you had a moderate sum—say, $10,000, tax free—which you could use to buy your family, relatives and friends some of the gifts which they have always wanted but never could afford.

For many of us, wishing is as far as it goes. One of our favorite "wishing" periodicals is The New Yorker. A glance through the pages of one of its fat holiday issues, shows us ads for such items as Lord and Taylor gowns, Stunben glass, Countess Mara neckties and cruises to South America and the Caribbean. We have seen an advertisement for a sleeveless sweater costing a mere $38.

The ads which appeal to us more than any others are those of the Broadway hit shows. Lost in the hinterlands as we are, with few opportunities to see plays with actors of national reputation, we have to rely on the movies to bring us drama.

Hollywood versions of Broadway shows are not always well-cast, interesting, or faithful to the original story. What may have been a robust musical or a shocking drama on the stage is often watered down to a run-of-the-mill movie.

Little wonder, then, that we are so attracted to those show ads which offer theatre tickets as gifts.

From Associated Collegiate Press comes this:

"Dr. Will Durant, noted philosopher, in a speech at the Texas State College for Women, gave a list of works and authors everyone should know for a complete education:

"Trojan Women" by Euripides; "Lives" by Plutarch; "Confessions" by Augustine; "The Rubaiyat" of Omar Khayyam (translated by Edward Fitzgerald); "Leaves of Grass" by Whitman; "Don Quixote" by Cervantes; Voltaire's "Candide"; Boswell's "Life of Johnson";

"Bacon's essays; Shakespeare's plays; Voltaire's short stories; works of Anatole France; Goethe's 'Faust'; Keat's 'Odes'; works of Shelley; 'War and Peace' by Tolstoy;

"Le Pere Goriot" by Balzac; "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" by Gibbon; works of Flaubert; "Brothers Karamazov" by Dostoyevsky; Thoreau's 'Walden'; 'Lives of the Painters' by Ruskin; and Plato's 'Republic';

"Also, the King James Version of the Bible, especially the New Testament, and Isaiah, Proverbs, Psalms and Song of Solomon in the Old Testament."

Your Education Complete?

This is from The George Washington Surveyor, by way of ACP:

I love the paper;
I think it's swell;
In the mornings
I run pell mell
To get my copy
And read each line.
The stories and columns
I think are fine,
I laugh at the jokes;
I read all the ads;
I note all the news;
I take up the fads.
When I praise the paper,
I scorn those who laugh.
I'm really most loyal—
I'm on the staff.

Between the Journalism building and the infirmary is a narrow driveway which is wide enough, at best, to accommodate three cars parked side by side.

But people do not always park their cars in precise lines along either side of this drive. When they park irregularly, then moving an automobile between the cars becomes a problem of skill.

In bad weather, when the drive is muddy, the passage is doubly hard to ride through. Moreover, ambulances making patients to or from the infirmary, are sometimes unable to use the drive because it is blocked by vehicles.

West of the Journalism building is a parking lot, and north of the infirmary is another. Only a few seconds more driving time are needed to take a car to one of these lots, where it can stay all day with no inconvenience to other drivers.

In short: KEEP THAT DRIVE. WAY CLEAR.

Christmas Theme To Feature Open House

Women's Dormitory IV will hold its second annual open house from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday. Jane Foster, social chairman, said yesterday.

Guests will be received by officers of the dormitory and by junior counselors, Frances Hartfil, Jean Pratt, Mary Jeanne Naugle, Mary Lou Williams, Dora Lynn Stokes, Marian Boggs, Helen Brown, Ann Davis, Virginia Nelson, Barbara Scott and Ellen Keffer.

Visitors will be conducted on a tour through the offices, and on an inspection tour through some of the girls' rooms, Miss Foster said.

A Christmas theme will be used throughout the decorations. Those presiding at the refreshment table will be Noyce Jennings, Faye Stanfield, Ann Malone, Frances Cox, Cynthia Armbruster, Elizabeth Sehovajsa, Jerry Ratliff, and Bobbie Bartlett.

Dormitory IV extends to all students, townspeople and faculty members an invitation to attend the open house, said Miss Foster.

Around The Campuses

"Open the Library on Sunday," is the cry of industrious students at North Texas State college, according to a recent poll made by the Campus Chat. As one student apply put it, "It would afford the Saturday night socialites an opportunity to compensate for their sins by studying the printed texts on Sunday." On the other hand, one interested student replied, "I didn't care" to questions by the Chat reporter.

The University of Texas is planning a newsletter and questionnaire for foreign students at the university. The object of the newsletter is to make these students feel more a part of student life, as they do not get sufficient coverage in the Daily Texan.

Also at the University, student leaders are attacking the loyalty oath which all students must sign before registration. One student summed up the general feeling when he said, "The entire thing is a farce because it has not accomplished its end. Any member of a subversive group will sign it anyway." He also called the oath undemocratic, unconstitutional and a reactionary.

On a recent football trip, several joke instigators on the football team of Eastern New Mexico university decided to introduce the Texas walnut to an out-of-state teammate. They had the bus driver stop so they could find one of the delicacies for their uneducated friend. While trying to induce him to taste it, they all pretended to enjoy one themselves. After some persuasion, the out-of-stater ate part of the "walnut." Several minutes later, he threw open a window and tried vainly to enjoy nature's out-of-doors for the next few miles. Now if anyone tries to introduce him to the Texas walnut, he will probably say, "Look pal, ya can't fool me. I know that's just a green cotton ball."

The letter award to Texas Western college athletes will be changed from the block "W" of the past to a large "T," according to the Prospector. The new letter award will carry the word "Westerner" spelled out across the bottom of the crossbar of the "T." It was decided by the athletic council, however, that the team name will depend on popular usage. Sportswriters will probably continue to refer to the squads as "Miners," but they may change to "Westerners."

Dr. Jackson, when called to the witness stand, said that Gettys turned into him a voluminous report two days after registration and before having met class. The student then continued to turn them in weekly. He also admonished the professor for the humorous stories and "mental hemorrhages" with which Dr. Jackson conducted the class. Gettys disliked the professor's practice of letting classes out early, too. Dr. Jackson said he and Gettys got into an argument after the student attempted to hand in another of those atrocious reports. Gettys then threatened him, he reported, and he struck the football player with the book end.

Defense Gives Argument

Dotsy Stephenson, campus beauty who had been dating Gettys, reported that he discussed education with her constantly on their dates.

Closing argument for the defense stated that the case was not merely one of the "death" of one man, but that the honor of the school was at stake.

"We would not have a Texas Tech here any longer if we allowed students of the caliber of Gettys to remain—we would have a little Harvard," said the defense. A plea of justifiable homicide was entered.

Another witness in the pre-law extravaganza was the ambulance driver for the Rix Funeral home. His honor, the judge, perused a copy of Webster's Collegiate Dictionary diligently throughout the trial.

Engineering Book Co-Written By George Beakley

George W. Beakley, graduate of '47, is the co-author of a new textbook recently released. The book is in use by engineering departments of Tarleton State College, Southern Methodist University, Odessa Junior College and the University of Arkansas.

Beakley, who holds a degree in mechanical engineering, has been teaching in the engineering department of Tarleton State College, formerly John Tarleton Junior College, in Stephenville, Tex., since his graduation. H. W. Leach, professor of engineering at the same college, was his co-author.

"Elementary Problems in Engineering" is the title of the book written for freshman mechanical engineers and containing more than 25 photographs, 200 example problems, 160 line drawings and more than 2,000 problems. It is the result of two years of study and research by the authors.

Beakley coached fencing during his years at Tech, and is married to the former Oleta Zeh, class of '44.

Raider Basketeers Edge Out Yellowjackets To Win 60-59

Tech's Red Raiders, staving off a last minute rally, eked out a 60-59 victory over Howard Payne in Brownwood Friday night.

With three and a half minutes to play and the score knotted at 58-58, Tech's Jiggs Jackson hit the hoop for a two-pointer to send the Raiders into the lead. The Yellowjackets pulled within one point in the last two minutes on a charity toss by Herman Moore.

Tech stalled the ball until the last 30 seconds when Howard Payne gained possession, but the Yellowjackets' shots were hurried and went wild. The Raiders held on to their one-point lead for the win.

Scoring was fairly well divided among the Raiders. Gene Gibson led with 11 points, Verdell Turner and Charley Pinnell were runners-up with 10 each. The Raiders controlled the backboard for the greater part of the game but failed to cash in on the advantage completely.

Raiders employed a fast break, to take the lead away from Howard Payne late in the first half. With the score tied 34-all, Pinnell and Eddins each hit field goals and Gibson sank a free toss to send the Tech quintet out in front 39-34 at the half way mark.

The Howard Payne contest rounded out the Raiders' road trip into the southern part of the state. They dropped the first three games to Rice, Trinity and Baylor.

Raiders will not be idle during the holidays. They entertain Austin college Dec. 21, and play host in a return engagement to the Wayland Pioneers, Dec. 28. After the holidays the Raiders take to the road again and journey to El Paso to take on Texas Western Jan. 5, and visit New Mexico A&M and New Mexico university January 6 and 7 respectively.

Bill Henderson Will Try For State Title

Bill Henderson, senior agriculture student from Leveland, will be gunning for the lightweight championship of Texas when he meets Eddie Bertolino of Galveston in a fifteen-round main event of a boxing card to be held at Chapman fieldhouse Dec. 19.

Henderson, who has won 30 of 32 professional fights, is meeting the man who is ranked number one in the state in the light-weight division, the title of which is open. The bout has been recognized by the state boxing commission as a title contest, and the winner will be declared light-weight champion of Texas.

DEADLINE ANNOUNCED

Tomorrow is the deadline for filling out senior record cards, Roy Grimes, editor of La Ventana, announced. These cards may be found in the registrar's office until 5 p.m. tomorrow. Information on these cards is to accompany each graduating senior's and graduate's picture in the school yearbook, Grimes said.

Gettys, Pursel, Conley Are Named To Conference Team

Three members of the Border conference champion Texas Tech Red Raiders were named to the conference all-star football team for 1949, Commissioner B. L. Larson announced last night.

Selected for the mythical eleven for the second consecutive year were tackle Marshall Gettys and guard Dan Pursel of Tech, while fullback Bud Conley was named on the all-conference selection for the first time.

Besides the three Raiders selected for all-star honors, three members of the Hardin-Simmons Cowboy squad and three members from the Texas Western Miners were awarded the honors along with one representative from West Texas State and one from Tempe.

Halfback Cal Stevenson of Tech was named to the all-Border conference second team.

The first team, as announced by Commissioner Larson at the University of Arizona, included Robert McCreaney, Hardin-Simmons, and Charles Kitchens, West Texas State, ends; Gettys and James De Groat, Texas Western, tackles; Ernest Kelly, Texas Western and Pursel, guards; Wayne Hansen, Texas Western, center; John Ford, Hardin-Simmons, quarterback; Whizzer White, Tempe, and Hook Davis, Hardin-Simmons, halfbacks; and Conley, fullback.

The second team consisted of Vince Cisterna, Flagstaff, and Wilson Knapp, New Mexico, ends; Bruce Womack, West Texas, and Tony Bernitsky, New Mexico, tackles; Bob Surratt, Hardin-Simmons, and Weldon Bates, West Texas, guards; William Gosselin, Tempe, center; Cecil Coleman, Tempe, quarterback; Pug Gabriel, Texas Western and Stevenson, halfbacks; and Phil Heale, New Mexico A&M, fullback.

Honorable mention went to Roy Ribenburg, Arizona, center; Edward Wolgast, Arizona, halfback; and Charles Wright, West Texas, halfback.

Band Organizations Dance Is Planned

Tau Epsilon Sigma, national honorary organization for women band students, and Kappa Kappa Psi, national honorary band fraternity for men, will combine to give a Christmas dance for members, pledges and dates from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. Friday in the band hall.

The decorations are to carry out the yuletide theme with green spruce branches arranged on the walls, Tommy Shook, president of Kappa Kappa Psi, said. Also there will be a fire place and a Santa Claus. Novelty gifts will be exchanged during the party, he said.

Tables for couples are to be set up in the band hall and the music for dancing will be by recordings.

Chaperones are to be Prof. and Mrs. D. O. Wiley, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Haddon, Mr. and Mrs. George Long and H. A. Anderson.

After any game that a search interest as the Notre Dame game, it is only natural that every body should be about it. Two of the biggest intramural points seem to be whether SMT would have won or whether Notre Dame could have won the Southwest Conference.

We won't add anything to what has been said on the Walker. We have our own thoughts everyone else has his, so for that. The issue of the winning the SWC crown is a thing you can get your teeth on. However, the first point is whether any team could step into the game and out with a whoa. We doubt it.

It's true that Rice went undefeated, but with Rice a little bit of a disappointment. Rice at most has two big points for it every time we meet. We can't think of a conference that has beat Rice than any other. Too, this year Rice had the advantage of meeting Southwest Texas early, before anyone was aware of what it had.

If Notre Dame had played SWC team this past year, we have run into a team that is paying for it every Saturday impossible for a team to win at a high pitch all season. We believe that somewhere the way, the mighty I would have met their Waterloo.

What would have been a year's time for defeat the fighting for his life as Notre did against the Ponies, to a team such as Texas. You think about it. We believe it would have survived.

Monday night Tech's Henderson will have his either move up the list to become just an also-ran. Eddie Bertolino, the number one ranking light Bill will be meeting just a beat of the lighter boys southwest. On paper Bill's record is not too impressive. What should be taken into consideration however, is that all seats have been reversed low up bouts.

If Bill should beat Bertolino he is in line for some money downside, and it is that is where the money will be. Bill would become known, and should be ever move back east, any kind that can be tucked onto it will help. We understand should Bill beat Bertolino, tract call for a return engagement in Galveston, home of Bertolino.

WE THINK THAT Ed the promoter of the match given praise and all the credit by the business men, stations and newspapers book. Through his initiative is bringing a champion to us, and from our own into the promotion of Ed Enro. Ed is going to see that he can get Ed some experience in the game. He added the VFW and he helped work with mean card last summer. SMT will see some aid in the game to succeed. We believe that we hope that he does help. It's a tough business more power to you Ed to make a go of it, and bring to LaBook to stay.

Tech Intramural Basketball Play Begins; Jones, Clayton Take Badminton Tourney

Three intramural sports shared last week's athletic spotlight, with one, touch football, having only one more week of activities. Basketball has just begun, and badminton is still something of an innovation at Tech.

After any game that attracted such interest as the Notre Dame-SMU game, it is only natural that lots of copy should be written about it. Two of the biggest controversial points seem to be whether SMU would have won with Walker and whether Notre Dame could have won the Southwest conference.

We won't add anything to what has been said on the Walker point. We have our own thought and everyone else has his, so enough for that. The issue of the Irish winning the SWC crown is something you can get your teeth into, however. The first point to consider is whether any team in the nation could step into the SWC and come out with a whole skin. We doubt it.

It's true that Rice went through undefeated, but with Rice the situation is a little different. Rice, at most has two big rivals who point for it every time they meet. We can't think of anyone in the conference that had rather beat Rice than any other team. Too, this year Rice had the added advantage of meeting SMU and Texas early, before anyone was too aware of what it had.

If Notre Dame had played every SWC team this past year, it would have run into a team that was pointing for it every Saturday. It is impossible for a team to remain at a high pitch all season, so we believe that somewhere along the way, the mighty Irishmen would have met their Waterloo. What would have been a more opportune time for defeat than, after fighting for his life as Notre Dame did against the Ponies, to run into a team such as Texas or Rice? You think about it. We don't believe it would have survived.

Monday night Tech's own Bill Henderson will have his chance to either move up the fistie ladder, or become just an also-ran. In meeting Eddie Bertolino, the state's number-one ranking lightweight, Bill will be meeting just about the best of the lighter boys in the southwest. On paper Bertolino's record is not too impressive on account of the number of losses. What should be taken into consideration however, is that all his defeats have been reversed by follow up bouts.

If Bill should beat Bertolino he will be in line for some of the money downstate, and in Texas that is where the money lies. Too, Bill would become known nationally, and should he ever want to move back east, any kind of title that can be tacked onto his name will help. We understand that should Bill beat Bertolino, the contract calls for a return engagement in Galveston, home of Bertolino.

WE THINK THAT Edd Sides, the promoter of the match, should be given praise and all the help he needs by the business men, radio stations and newspapers of Lubbock. Through his initiative Edd is bringing a championship bout to us, and from our own venture into the promotion of bouts in Lubbock, he is going to need all the help he can get. Edd has had some experience in the promotion game. He aided the VEV in presenting its card a few weeks ago, and he helped work with the Lamess card last summer. Still he is fairly new at the game, and he will need some aid if he is going to succeed. We believe this should and we hope that he does get that help. It's a tough business, and more power to you Edd if you can make a go of it, and bring boxing to Lubbock to stay.

vision of George Philbrick, assistant head of physical education.

The team throttled J. H. Bentley and Ed Kunz in the final round of the tournament 15-8, 15-5.

Tourney runners-up eliminated the following teams in their rise to the finals: Charles McNailey and Ed Carter, Cecil Hale and Eural Ramsey, and Bill Baucum and Ted Cummins.

Stallings Wins Singles

A singles tourney was also staged last week, with Stallings capturing the trophy with a win over Moughon. Jiggs King took the consolation round from Kenneth Shipp.

Mason Gorby, Tommy Russell and Bill Lyman were other participants in the two tournaments.

Basketball was officially inaugurated in the intramural sports scene last week with games played in both Dorm and the Independent leagues.

The athletic dorm Squirrel Shooters hammered the Doak hall Red Devils into submission 41-39 in the first of two dorm games.

"We were beaten as well as beaten up," was the comment of one of the Red Devils after the game with the Squirrel Shooter quintet, members for which were recruited almost entirely from the Raider football squad.

Phillips and Earl Jackson were high point men for the athletic dorm with 10 and 8 points respectively. Bob Ebel tallied 10 points for the Devils, and Gene Gaston, his teammate, was close behind with 8 points.

Dorm III Beats Sneed

Bob Crye's 10 points led the Dorm III Cuspidors to a 35-20 victory over the Sneed hall Poslokes in the other dorm encounter.

The Jolly Jigaboos ran up a 44-25 win over the GDI team in an Independent league clash. Bob Stealy's 14 points not only helped the Jigaboos, but won him individual scoring honors for the night. Bill Jones and John Smith shared honors for GDI, each netting 7 points.

The Alleycats, champion in intramural football, did not carry their gridiron supremacy onto the hardwoods when they met the Quintessence Quintet, which beat them 32-18.

Solomon High Scorer

Bill Solomon scored 12 points for the victors while O. C. Dickinson made 3 field goals for the losers. Three games were played in the Men's Inter-Club council touch football league. The Los Camaradas won the league championship with a penetration victory over the Socii.

E. L. Darr and Dick Wolf each scored a touchdown for the Centaurs in their 12-0 conquest of the Wranglers, who have failed to count in their past three games.

The Silver Keys cinched a tie for second place by blanking a hapless College Club eleven Sunday. Kemas, idle the past weekend, must beat the College Club next week to retain a partial hold on second place.

Bertolino is a young, aggressive, hard-hitting boxer with plenty of experience and is expected to give Henderson his hardest match to date. Henderson has lost only twice in his brief career, both losses being to Jean Moughin, former light-weight title-holder of France. The Techsan has defeated such nationally ranked fighters as Manny Ortega, Jeep O'Neal, Kid Galvan and others in his climb from the amateur ranks to the position of national prestige that he now holds.

According to Edd Sides, promoter, a fine supporting card is being lined up and a gala evening of boxing is in store for the fight fans of the community. Tickets for the fights are now on sale at College Avenue Drug, Hub Clothiers, and City Club Gym. Prices range $4.00 for ringside, $3.00 for reserved, and $2.00 for general admission.

Baptist Students Will Hold Christmas Caroling Party

A carolling party will be held by the students of the Baptist student center at 8 p.m. Friday at the student center, announced Ardelle Hallock, youth director.

The carollers will travel by trucks and will return to the student center for refreshments, said Miss Hallock.

Tech Management association is making plans for its first banquet which will be held on January 9 at the Hilton hotel. The banquet is to be a stag affair with Lubbock businessmen as guests of the members attending.

Placement Office Is An Integral Part Of College; Works For All Students

By GENE BRASHEAR
Toreador Staff Writer

"The Placement Service is not, as some might believe, an office installed merely to procure employees for business concerns and public schools," Mrs. Jean Jenkins, executive secretary of the service, said Monday.

On the contrary, it is an integral part of the college and is maintained to serve the interests of the college and students, Mrs. Jenkins said.

In clarifying this statement, Mrs. Jenkins said that placement functions are not limited entirely to room 205 of the Ad building.

The Placement Service is made up of the office staff and the placement committee, which includes the academic deans, with Dr. E. N. Jones as chairman.

Actually, placement work is carried on by department heads and any other person at Tech who maintains relations with business concerns and public schools in the interest of the college or its students.

"In view of this fact it can be seen that the placement service is closely integrated with the offices of the deans and other campus offices and is not, as might appear to be the case, a separate office," Mrs. Jenkins said.

Instead, the office acts in a liaison capacity between the college and the students and the business world, she added.

One function of the service is to arrange interviews between students and prospective employers. This not only makes it easier for students to secure positions, but also brings more job openings to the school.

Representatives from business concerns are more inclined to visit colleges where there are adequate facilities for getting in touch with interested parties and for scheduling interviews and meetings.

Another important duty of the Placement Service is the handling of personal forms which graduating seniors are required to fill out. Files are kept on pamphlets and bulletins from most large business organizations, which enable students to know the job opportunities and requirements of each company.

Students are notified of job opportunity announcements which come to the college.

"The Placement Service is not only concerned with what it can do for students, but also with what the students can do for the college," Mrs. Jenkins said.

Bull Stomps Halsell In A And M Rodeo

Furd Halsell, rodeo association member and junior agriculture student from Fort Worth, suffered a serious ear injury, which required a large number of stitches, while competing with the Tech rodeo team in the Texas A&M intercollegiate rodeo at College Station.

Halsell's ear was severed, when struck by a hoof of the bull he was riding. Doctors who attended Halsell believe he will not suffer permanent injury to his ear.

The bull riding event, in which Halsell received his injury, was won by Kit Pettigrew agriculture student from Big Spring. Pettigrew placed second in the bulldogging event and was fourth high individual of the entire rodeo.

Other members of Tech's rodeo team are Forest Burnham, Ben Burkholder, Charley Campbell, Dub Parks, Pitt Smith and John Wilson. The group placed fourth in the rodeo. Teams placing ahead of Tech were Oklahoma A&M, Sul Ross and New Mexico.

Plans

Embodied in the observances possibly will be a program to bring to the campus distinguished personages with ceremonies consistent with the occasion, he said.

"The program will probably cover the whole school year, including several different areas of college work," the chairman said.

Buildings Dedicated

Dedication of the wings to the Administration building, the Petroleum Engineering building and the museum are scheduled tentatively for early in the anniversary program, he said.

Official college bulletin for August will be a four-color publication commemorating the silver anniversary, Rutland said.

Raiders To Meet Tulsa

Silver anniversary Homecoming is to be Nov. 11 when the Red Raiders play the University of Tulsa.

Besides making plans for the year-long program, the committee is to act as a clearing house for all campus organizational activities which will hinge on the anniversary, a committeeman said.

Possible addition of an ex-student and undergraduate student to the committee were mentioned by the chairman.

"The Art of Forgiving" will be the topic for forum at 7:15 p.m. tonight at the Methodist student center, announced Rev. Cecil Matthews, youth director. Patsy Scales will be the leader.

For instance, she said, the question of whether the various business concerns will want more Tech students in the future depends upon the degree in which present graduates from Tech satisfy their employers.

After students graduate, the placement service would like to be kept informed of their whereabouts and job changes, explained Mrs. Jenkins.

It means a great deal to members of the faculty and students to know how the school's past students are progressing," Mrs. Jenkins said.

Job information is also useful for statistical purposes.

Medal To Be Given ROTC Student

A medal for outstanding work in his junior year in ROTC will be presented to Max N. Osborn, cadet regimental executive officer, at 4:30 p.m. tomorrow in a retreat parade on the drill field. The award will be presented by Col. Robert P. Riordan, professor of air science and tactics.

The award is presented to the most outstanding junior student in Air ROTC in each school by the Air Force association.

After the regiment has been formed for the parade, all officers will be called before the reviewing stand, and the medal will be presented. Colonel Riordan; Col. Willard White, professor of military science and tactics; and Cadet Col. Elbert E. Gilder, regimental commander, will review the troops as they pass in review.

FORMBY STARTS STATION

Marshall Formby, '52 graduate of Texas Tech, has moved to Snyder, Tex., where he is managing the newly-installed radio station, KSNY. The station began broadcasting activities Nov. 1. A 500 watt station, it will be the most powerful in West Texas between Abilene and El Paso. Clint Formby, '49 graduate and former Student Council presy, is commercial manager. The station will operate at 1280 kilocycles in daytime only at the present but a night permit will be sought as the need arises.

Blackbird, Sanders Win Debate Events At TU Tournament

Tech's debating teams won four contests at the Southwestern Invitational Debate tournament held during the weekend on the University of Texas campus. Miss Annah Jo Pendleton, professor and head of speech, said.

The winning debate team was composed of David Blackbird and Jerry Sanders who competed against two teams from Southwestern State college, and one each from the University of Texas, the University of Wichita, and Southwestern university. Their only loss was to the University of Wichita, Miss Pendleton said.

Jerry Sanders debated individually and tied with a University of Kansas student.

Another Tech team composed of Thelma Hutchins and Bryce Campbell debated but did not win any contests. Their opponents came from the University of Texas, Southwest State college, and Baylor. Herbert Graf, an alternate from Tech debated once with Campbell, Miss Pendleton stated.

The tournament was an exhibition debate meet presented by representatives from Texas colleges and universities and the Universities of Kansas and Wichita to Texas high school students.

Question was: "Resolved, that the president of the United States should be elected by direct vote of the people."

Souci Presentation Held Saturday Night

Two members and 13 pledges of Sans Souci, women's social club, were presented at the club's annual presentation dance held from 8 to 11 p.m. Saturday in the main ballroom of the Hilton hotel.

Those to be presented walked through three-dimensional Christmas trees of graduating shades of blue and sprinkled with metallic dust. On each side of the two large trees was a smaller tree of a darker blue. Behind the entire stage was a silver backdrop outlined with pale blue spun glass. Curtains of pale blue spun glass extended from the sides of the stage to the corners of the ballroom, concealing the doors by which the women and their escorts entered the room.

The Techsans orchestra furnished music for the program and dance which followed. Sans Souci's club song, "Roses of Picardy," was played during the entire presentation.

Petroleum Men Will Interview Tech Students

Representatives of two West Texas firms will be at Tech this week for interviews with January engineering graduates.

Stanley Moore of the Drill Collar Service company of Midland, will be on the campus today for interviews with January graduates in industrial, mechanical, and petroleum engineering. Mrs. Jean Jenkins, executive secretary of the Placement service, said yesterday, Moore is looking for service engineers for location at Snyder, where, because of living conditions, she believes single men may be more interested in applying.

The Midland company is confined with the service of checking the strength of materials involved in certain drilling operations. The salary depends upon the line of work, Mrs. Jenkins said.

J. C. Tighe, representative of the South Fullerton Gasoline Plant at Andrews, will be on the campus Friday for interviews with January graduates in chemical, electrical, industrial, mechanical and petroleum engineering, Mrs. Jenkins said.

Students may schedule appointments at the Placement office, Ad-205.

MISS ESTHER SORENSEN ADDRESSES H.E. TEACHERS

Miss Esther Sorensen, district supervisor of the board of education, spoke to the Lubbock county home economics teachers' organization Monday night on "Home Life in Europe."

She describes in detail the homes and schools in the countries she visited this summer. She expressed amazement at the antiquated kitchens and the lack of modern appliances in the homes.

Houses, she said, are built well and for permanence. Homes often have many interesting and good pieces of art in them, she stated.

Miss Sorensen spoke to the Federated Century study club in Midland yesterday afternoon on life and Christmas time in Sweden and exhibited pictures she took this summer. She also showed several art objects purchased in Sweden.

Tech Broadcasting Club Will Present Radio Drama
