Appointments by the Board of Directors have made James G. Allen, dean of men, the first dean of student life at Texas Tech, and placed Dr. W. B. Gates, professor of English, as dean of the graduate division. The board accepted Dr. W. C. Holden's resignation as dean of the graduate division preceding Gates' appointment, which will become effective Sept. 1, Ed Smith, assistant to the president, said.

Holden asked for his resignation so that he could devote full time to his work as curator of the museum. Allen's new position will be a coordinating agency for all Tech students and will work with both the offices of the dean of women and dean of men, Smith said.

Budget for 1950-51 as submitted by Dr. D. M. Wiggins was approved by the board. The presidential assistant stated. Contracts totaling $166,149.48 were awarded to R. H. Elder, contractor, of Lubbock, for the construction of a stock judging pavilion and living quarters and a veterinary science building.

Plans Approved
Plans and specifications were approved for an agricultural engineering building, part of the campus expansion program, and bids are to be opened May 22, Smith said. Plans were prepared by Haynes and Kirby, architects of Lubbock.

Three New Jobs . . .

Texas Tech is really coming of age. This was proven decisively as a result of the action taken by the board of directors in their recent meeting when it elevated three of the campus' more popular and efficient personalities to positions which they have long deserved.

To Dr. W. C. Holden, who has seen his dream become a reality and who has given so unselfishly of his time to a museum on this campus, goes the coveted position of head curator of one of the most modern and what should be the best equipped museum in this area. We are sure that under his able direction the Texas Tech museum will rise to take its place among the best in the nation.

Dr. W. B. Gates of the English department has also been a tireless worker both for his own department and for the betterment of Tech as a whole. He will be elevated to dean of graduate studies. Among the original faculty members of the college, Dr. Gates is an excellent choice for his new position. With the ever increasing number of graduate students enrolled in the schools of this state there is little doubt that this job is one of the most important on the campus.

And finally the step which this college has been in need of for so long has been taken. Dean of Men James G. Allen was named dean of student life in a move that will have a direct bearing upon students and their welfare. Dean Allen needs no pats on the back or "well dones," because everyone at Texas Technological college is already familiar with his ready smile and immediate interest in any problem which confronts the student.

Long the man on this campus with the reputation of getting things done, Dean Allen should fit perfectly into his new position. A man with a clearer picture of just what the college student of today is doing and what his needs and wants are would be hard to find.

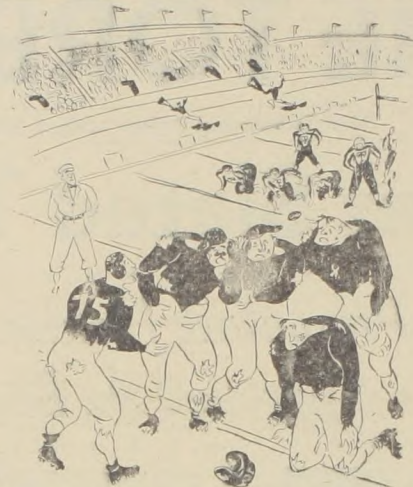

The Toreador is very happy to wish success to these three men in their new jobs. Not to take effect until next fall, the new positions will prove, we are certain, not only a boon to Dr. Holden, Dr. Gates and Dean Allen, but also an unprecedented value to Texas Tech.

President Videla's Visit . . .

One of the most important convocations of this or any other year in Tech's history will be held Monday morning in Jones Stadium. The occasion is the visit of President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla of the Republic of Chile to the campus for a short visit prior to his inspection of the Levelland Oil Refinery.

President Videla marks the first time the head of any government has been a guest of the college. Even though his visit is primarily to inspect the oil industry of this area President Videla will undoubtedly be interested in higher education in the United States.

Tech is fortunate to be able to act as host for his visit. Perhaps some of our ideas on education will be observed and followed as a result of the visit. At any rate it should be an occasion which any student would benefit by attending. Popular West Texas Congressman George Mahon is acting as escort to President Videla's party. The entire convocation promises an unprecedented chance for the student body of this college.

Come on gang! Tech can't play the type football WE play in the SWC.

THINKING ALLOWED

By Jerry Hall

EDITOR'S NOTE: Thinking Allowed is happy to welcome a guest writer this issue. She is next year's Toreador editor-elect, Sue Holmes, a junior journalism student from Garland. Without any further palaver here is an official introduction to Madame Editor for 1950.

Students returning this week from the Southwestern Journalism congress meeting in Baton Rouge were amazed at the interest in politics which the LSU students showed. West Texans attending the meet wished they had read more of Huey Long's regime, since Louisianans were quick to say that Broderick Crawford's portrayal of the famous governor was not a true account. The fifteen years which have elapsed since the assassination seem to have heightened rather than dimmed interest in the Long scandals. Tech delegates found the neighboring state just as colorful as the Chamber of Commerce and fiction writers claimed it to be. In the fiction line, the natives down there think Harnett Kane's "Louisiana Hayride" is the best story of the politicians and people.

Ground-breaking for the new campus buildings presents another time to speculate on the appearance of the campus in years hence.

We will have to look at the results to appreciate the inconvenience of the building program, but we can be sure the next generation of Techians will have spacious classrooms and laboratories. Already students have started spinning stories to tell their grandchildren about conditions on the campus in 1950.

Barring the noise and displaced dirt, inconveniences are very few in connection with the building program. The dumped dirt which is blocking streets and foot paths will be described, no doubt, as "mountains of soil which the wind picked up and threw in our faces." And the kids of 1975 will grin politely at our stories, and find it hard to believe that the campus didn't just "grow." How many of us enrolled now have thought of Tech's birth pains which, compared with the present growing pains, must have been terrific. Pioneers who saw the whole process of building a new school on West Texas prairie are able to laugh over these memories.

Few of us enrolled now will be able to attend classes in the new buildings, which are just enormous holes in the ground. Homecoming will draw larger crowds of proud ex-students, and think of the conversations in 1960. "Say, freshman, see that wing of

From the Balcony

By Gene Alford

As it looks from the balcony, Tech is being added to the list of dramatic aspiring institutions throughout the country. Some of us have watched her young thespians grow from blind infancy—to maturity—and filter into adulthood. Now!—Now, if you please, the old speech department is creating some excitement by accepting the challenge of what is considered by many to be the ultimate in dramatic productions, — William Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet."

Perhaps this undertaking was spurred by the somewhat surprising but favorable response to the production of "Twelfth Night," a Shakespearean comedy recreated by the department last fall. . . . At any rate, we are observing Shakespeare in the making and your reporter will be on hand in the next few issues to bring you glimpses from the balcony; so you would-be-drama-critics stick around. . . . You should have fun with this one.

Now about this Shakespeare guy! If opinions could be materialized, and if we could reincarnate William from the many conceptions of the pen-wise lad, the distortion should be slightly more than complex. We all have our attitudes about Shakespeare, but contrary to some theories there was probably only one playwright by that name . . . so . . . Shakespeare is yours to be taken any way you see fit. The department director, Miss Cecilia Thompson, takes her Shakespeare one way, in the manner of which she believes the author intended it; the cast members accept their Shakespeare with individual interests and opinions; . . . the rest of us? Well—let's just watch this thing grow and apply our own judgment. After all, if Tech is game enough to tackle the Southwestern Conference, we shouldn't worry about a little thing like "Romeo and Juliet." We may not be ready for either, but we'll see.

Critically speaking, the only critic the speechsters are afraid of has been dead for about three centuries, and they believe their interpretation to be as authentic as may be called contemporary. This looks like a good opportunity for you to brush up on your Shakespeare, so watch this column for theatre progress at Tech . . . and from the balcony we invite your interest and comments on the subject.

the Ad building? Well, I stood in a registration line four miles long in 1947 which wound around where that foundation is now." Or, "Hear that music coming from the Music building? Our baseball diamond used to be where that building now stands."

The award is presented every month to the student who has been of outstanding service to the club during the month under consideration. Cooper won the award for March. The first award was presented in February to Flake Tompkins, dairy manufactures junior from Fort Worth.

Preparations are being made for presentation of the first "Aggie of the Year" award at the final Aggie club meeting of the year and will be based upon outstanding leadership for the year.

Tech Dairy Adopts New Style Bottles

Tech dairy is now delivering its milk in new style square bottles which are embossed with a Double T.

This type bottle with the school's emblem will be used exclusively from now on, Dr. J. J. Willingham, head of dairy manufactures, said.

Homogenized milk is also now being made, Willingham said. It is distinguished by having no cream line because the fat particles have been broken up and do not rise to the top. This milk is richer, creamier to the taste, Willingham said.

Raiders Meet Midwestern And Lobos On Cinder Path Today

By SAN ANDERSON
Toreador Sports Editor

Red Raider cindermen will play host to the thirty clubs of the University of New Mexico and Midwestern college track and field teams today. The meet was originally scheduled as a dual affair between Tech and New Mexico, but later Texas Western was invited to participate. Midwestern colleges was contacted when Western announced that it would be unable to send a team.

The Raiders, enjoying the warm summer-like weather have been working hard for this home engagement and will be favored to win.

Charlie Pinnell, the top point maker on the Red Raider squad, is expected to show his cinderman's way to victory with a performance equalling his Albuquerque showing. Pinnell, a junior from Andrews, scored 24 1/2 points in this New Mexico city in a previous meeting between the New Mexico Lobos and the Tech squad. The track star will enter the high jump, broad jump and pole vault in the field events. He will also run the high and low hurdles and a quarter lap on the relay team.

Earl Hutcherson has recently turned in his best 100-yard dash mark, and may prove rough on competition in that event. He sprinted the century in 9.9.

Other Tech participants in the tri-college meet include: Moon Mullins, another sprint ace; Travis Tadlock, Sonny Stanford, Homer Rudd, and Joe and Ben Wilson for the track events. The field events will be handled by Ike Stuver, Ted Peabody and Henry Briscoe.

Toreador-Sponsored Intramural Track Meet To Be Held Saturday

By BILLY YOES
Toreador Sports Writer

Great trackman huh? Well, you'll get a chance to show your talents next Saturday afternoon when the all-college intramural track meet gets underway.

The meet, an annual affair sponsored by The Toreador, has been held only once previous to this year. The last running of the all-college event was held in 1948 and was rained out last year.

Tipp Mooney, coach of the varsity track squad, has been named as official starter and referee. Varsity trackmen and physical education majors will act as judges and officials.

Team captains must have names of team members in the physical education office by 5 p.m. Monday. Anyone running any event over the distance of 100 yards must have a medical examination in order to compete, George Philbrick, director of the meet, announced. These examinations may be obtained in the college infirmary free-of-charge, Philbrick stated.

No men will be allowed to wear spiked shoes in any events, he added. Team eliminations will be held Friday if necessary. Coach Mooney said that the track oval is available for practice as long as the members of the varsity squad are not running time trials.

Several events have been dropped from the schedule, Philbrick said. There will be no javelin, discus, or mile-run events. Events on the schedule include: pole vault, 440-yard dash, 100-yard dash, shotput, high hurdles, 60-yard dash, 880-yard run, low hurdles, football throw, softball throw, broad jump, 220-yard dash and high jump.

Times and distances made in 1948 are the current record as follows:

Squirrel Shooters Offer Challenge To Softball Teams

By SAN ANDERSON
Toreador Sports Editor

Anything on Tech campus that even vaguely resembles a softball team had better get out of sight because the Squirrel Shooters are out gunning for game.

The Squirrel Shooters, a Tech intramural softball team, can't find anybody with courage enough to play them. So say G. W. Warden and Milburn Haydon, pitchers for the powerhouse nine which has lost only one game this season and that was by forfeit.

Warden says the Squirrel Shooters challenge any team on the campus, or any combination of teams, to match base hits and pitching prowess with them.

Challenges The Girls

"We'll even play girls," Warden stated.

The Squirrel Shooters are tied with the Baptist Student Union for the Independent Intramural lead. The two teams will meet Monday in a playoff match to decide the championship.

"We'll beat them again," Warden opined. They white-washed the BSU nine 4-0 in a league match played earlier this season.

Red Raiders On Team

The roster for the Squirrel Shooters' aggregation includes such stellar athletes as: Bud Conley, varsity fullback, who holds down right field; Jiggs Jackson, Red Raider basketball standout, left field; and Bobby Williams, another varsity footballer, who is stationed on first base.

Other team members are: Jim Joe Rejger, center field; Morris McClendon, third base; Roland Drake, keystone; and Bryan Clark, catcher.

Any team wanting to play the Squirrel Shooters should call Warden at 2-6415 or Haydon at 8531.

Interleague Softball Playoffs Slated To Begin Monday

By JOHN LEE
Toreador Sports Writer

Continuation of play in MICC softball league and conclusion of play in Aggie league mark the beginning of the end for 1950 softball season as Interleague playoffs begin the first of next week.

Kemas Win Three

Winners in the past week of MICC softball play include College Club, Silver Key, Soci, Wranglers and Los Cams with one victory apiece and Kemas with three wins. Kemas drew blood three times and then fell victim to the winless (up to that point) Los Cams softball team. The Kemas men met Soci in their first outing of the season and edged them in a high scoring race 13-12. Melvin Brock and Ronald Bennett pitched winning ball for Kemas and were aided by the powerful batting of John Shinn and Hollis Smith, both of whom connected for the circuit.

Kemas pulled the improbable Monday when it met and outclassed two opponents, Centaurs and Silver Key. The Kemas team edged Silver Key 13-11 as David Leaverton blasted three home runs and Joe Thomas made one. Brock was the winning pitcher. The team met the Centaurs and slipped past them 6-5 behind the hurling of Billy Bob McMullen and Brock.

The fire went out and on the following day the combined efforts of McMullen, Brock and Tommy Hewlett failed to stop the onslaught of Los Cams as the Cams took the game 14-11.

Los Cams lost to Soci 4-6 despite Pitcher Joe Overton's home run smash in an earlier MICC game. College Club was also victorious over the Cams by a 7-4 score.

Other scores are: Silver Key won its first as it beat Soci 14-11; Wranglers edged the Silver Key 2-1 in a hard fought battle; and Silver Key came through with its second game of the season as it overpowered Centaurs 9-3 Tuesday afternoon.

PI Leads In Aggie League

Plant Industry club reigns over the Aggie softball league as the result of beating Block and Bridle in the playoffs Wednesday afternoon.

Season's standings are as follows:

| Team | Won | Lost |
|------------------|-----|------|
| Plant Industry | 8 | 1 |
| Block and Bridle | 5 | 2 |

|---------------------|---|---|
| Dairy Manufacturing | 3 | 2 |
| Aggie Economics | 3 | 3 |
| F F A | 2 | 3 |

| Freshmen | 0 | 6 |

Playoffs Set For Monday

Softball playoffs will get underway Monday afternoon and will conclude May 15 with the All-College Intramural championship game.

Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock, BSU will meet Squirrel Shooters on diamond four to play off the tie for the Independent league. Each team has one loss; the Squirrel Shooter's loss came as the result of a forfeit while the BSU team went down to the Shooters 4-0.

Doak Hall, undefeated dorm champs, will meet the Plant Industry team, champs of the Aggie league Tuesday at the same place and time.

Thursday, the winner of the Doak Hall-Plant Industry game will vie against the ASME, engineering league champs, who will advance via the bye-route. The winner of this game will meet the winner of the BSU-Squirrel Shooter game the following Monday.

The overall victor will meet the MICC social club champ in the All-College Intramural softball championship game to be held May 15.

Penitentes Cling To Many Ancient Rites; Crucifixion Excluded From Ceremonies

By JOAN MAPLES
Toreador Staff Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE: While Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Holden were in Santa Fe during the Easter holidays recently they witnessed a ceremony performed by a religious group which has been excommunicated from the Roman Catholic church. Since very few people, who are not of that sect, have been allowed to watch the ceremonies Toreador Reporter Joan Maples interviewed the Doctor and his wife to get the following story.

"About nine o'clock a procession came out of the door of the morado—there were several men in the group most of them chanters and three flagellants. The flagellants each had a whip made of 30 or 40 bear grass leaves and about every ten steps the entire procession would stop and they would beat their own backs with these whips. Before the thing was over, their backs looked like raw hamburger meat. The procession went down to the church which was about one-third of a mile away, went in for some 30 minutes and came back to the morado," Dr. W. C. Holden, head of the graduate division and director of the Museum on the Tech campus related.

Doctor and Mrs. Holden witnessed the ceremonies of the Penitentes while in Santa Fe during the Easter holidays. The Penitentes are a group of men banded together in a secret organization which has branched off from the Roman Catholic church. The group presents Passion Plays during Holy Week preceding Easter. Their plays do not stop with mere portrayals of the last week in Christ's life—they actually perform the scourging, and until recently, the crucifixion.

Missionaries Introduce Christianity
This group originated with Indians who were brought into the New Mexican area by Spanish missionaries who thought that Passion Plays might induce the Indians to be more interested in the Christian religion. When the Penitentes got out of hand, to the point of crucifying one of their members each Good Friday, they were excommunicated from the church.

When this did no good toward cutting down their activities, the church took them back in an effort to control them. Today their ceremonies are not so rigorous as they have been; they have eliminated the crucifixion entirely, but still continue the other things they have been doing for two centuries.

Processions Continue All Night
"After the group returned to their morado and stayed there for another twenty or thirty minutes they came out again. Each of the three flagellants had a cross placed in his shoulders by two men and

5,000 Attend Open House Sponsored By Home Ecs

Over 5,000 people attended the fourteenth annual Home Economics Open House last Friday and Saturday. According to former and present students, it was the best ever held.

Suggestions are being taken by all departments for next year's show, which will use Tech's Silver anniversary as its theme. Plans are being made to hold it in the new H.E. building now under construction.

Miss Sannie Callan, professor and head of child development, and Miss Esther Sorenson, area supervisor, will attend the Pacific Regional Conference for Home-making Education in Salt Lake City, Utah, May 1-5.

each dragged the crosses down to the church where they left them and went in. They come out, took the crosses and went back to the morado.

"We left then, and do not know what happened after that, but it is reported that the procession went back and forth between the morado and the church all night. The crosses were made of rough wood—the long piece was about 16 feet and the cross piece about eight," Dr. Holden continued.

Crucifixions Not Practiced Today
In the early days the "Cristo" was actually crucified with nails, and usually died as a result of shock and exposure. They wear only a pair of light cotton trousers that look like pajama pants. Later the chosen one was tied on the cross with ropes for a few hours and then cut down. Today there are no crucifixions.

"When the Penitentes were younger they would kill or seriously injure anyone caught watching them. Later they would run them off by stoning them and if a visitor could outrun the Penitentes he was usually safe.

There has been one case where a writer published a book about the ceremonies and was found dead a few days later. Today they do not mind being watched, so long as they are shown proper respect and are not bothered. Any one who is silly enough to throw a beam of light on them even now is practically guaranteeing himself an early entry into the pearly gates," Dr. Holden concluded.

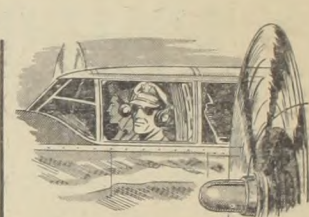

Capt. Paul Buskey, Middlebury, '38 Air Intelligence, U.S. Air Force

An excellent student at Middlebury College, Vermont, Paul found time to win the coveted All Sports Trophy in his senior year. He graduated in June, 1938.

He then joined a coated paper mill firm as research and control man. Pearl Harbor changed all that—Paul went to Maxwell Field to begin Aviation Cadet training.

An outstanding Cadet, 2nd Lt. Paul Buskey was held over as an instructor after graduation. Then he was assigned as a pilot in the Air Transport Command.

His big plane education was topped with 23 missions over the far-famed "Hump," flying C-54 transports. After V-J Day, he stayed on in the Far East until March of 1948—specializing in Air Intelligence.

Back home, after accepting a Regular Air Force Commission, Captain Buskey went to Air Tactical school, was there rated an outstanding student, and won assignment to Command and Staff school.

Today, Captain Buskey is an Air Intelligence Officer on MATS Headquarters Staff at Andrews Air Force Base near Washington, D. C. He looks forward to a rewarding future in the U. S. Air Force.

If you are single, between the ages of 20 and 26½, with at least two years of college, consider the many career opportunities as a pilot or navigator in the U. S. Air Force. Procurement Teams are visiting many colleges and universities to explain these career opportunities. Watch for them. You may also get full details at your nearest Air Force Base or U. S. Army and U. College Sponsors Feeders Day Show

Approximately 200 farmers, cotton oil mill operators, vocational teachers and county agents attended the 1950 Livestock Feeders day at the college Thursday, Ray C. Mowery, head of animal husbandry, said.

The morning program included an inspection of cattle on feed and the livestock facilities of the animal husbandry department. The 60 head of cattle completing a 154 day feeding period were observed by the visitors before shipment to Fort Worth later in the day. Jess Robinson, graduate student, fed the steers under the supervision of W. L. Stangel, dean of agriculture.

Luncheon was served by the Block and Bride club in the livestock judging pavilion.

Immediately following lunch, a program was presented in the agile auditorium, largely by graduate students who did the experimental work in the feeding of 80 cattle and 180 lambs under the supervision of Dean Stangel and Mowery.

Eleven members of the Discipline Student Fellowship of the Christian church returned this week from Camp Brownwood where they attended a conference.
