

Wall cracks due to construction problems

By WALTER CLARK
Staff Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series concerning the flooding problems incurred in campus buildings during heavy rains, the causes of the flooding and the actions taken or not taken to correct the problem.

Ray Downing, director of building maintenance & utilities, said major construction problems of the English Building are now the cause in recurring maintenance problems.

Several teachers have complained about the walls of the building splitting. Downing said that was an exaggeration. "The cracks they are talking about are just little plaster cracks and you have this problem in any building," said Downing.

FLOYD EDDLEMAN, associate professor of English, said that he and other teachers have seen large cracks in the walls of the English Building. Eddleman said the cracks were big enough to see through. He also said that at times he has seen braces under the concrete over hangs on the outside of the building.

The University Daily made a 45-minute random inspection of the English Building and found at least eleven class rooms with wall repairs and other walls in need of repair. Wall tiles were loose or missing. The University Daily also found six roof leaks adjoining or near roof expansion joints.

"THE MAIN PROBLEM with the English Building was the construction company went bankrupt after one of the floors fell in, causing a year and a half delay in the completion date. A bonding company had to take the responsibility of the completion," said Downing.

Downing was asked to give an explanation of the problems and what his office intends to do.

He said the tile on the walls has to be replastered. There is a roof leak, and floor tiles do not stay glued.

"The tiles will have to be re-glued with better glue. The roof is guaranteed for ten years and will be taken care of by the bonding company," said Downing.

DOWNING WAS ASKED what actions his department was going to take concerning the eight other buildings that have basement and/or roof leaks.

Downing said that the major problem he has in finding out about the needed repairs is people are willing to accept things as they are. He said if the occupants would report their problems directly to his office, quicker and more efficient corrective measures could be taken.

The buildings that were under one-year-old were still covered by the guarantee and the architects would take care of any problems at their own expense, said Downing.

CONCERNING THE buildings that were more than a year old, Downing said the architects were no longer legally responsible, but he felt the architects were morally responsible. He said that on most of the buildings the architects would be consulted as to the problems.

Downing said the architects of the science building had been consulted and that a possible correction for the basement leak is a concrete splash pad along the perimeter of the building.

The Computer Building has a leaky roof. A bonding company is responsible for the roof and has been informed of the leak, said Downing.

"Any major or recurring problem from now on is to be reported directly to me, and I will take what ever action is needed to correct the problem," said Downing.

Request considered for showing nude pix

By DONNA BOWLES
Staff Writer

A request to restore two colorprints of nudes that were removed from the exhibition currently showing at the Museum is now under consideration by Dr. Grover E. Murray, Tech president.

Dr. Bill Lockhart, chairman of the Art

Department, said he expects the prints to be on exhibit before the end of next week.

THE EXHIBIT, "Colorprint, U. S. A.," is an invitational show to which various artists throughout the nation contributed. Rudy Pozzatti judged the prints. The prize for winning entries was eligibility to be sold for $50, $75 or $100. Gold stars are on prints already sold and gold circles are on the prize-winners.

Dr. Earl Green, Museum director, said he removed the prints before the show was officially opened to the public because he felt they were in "poor taste" for the general viewing audience of the Museum and because they are not artistically symbolic.

FROM APPROXIMATELY 100 persons who viewed the exhibition before it was officially opened, only one complaint was made of the colorprints that were removed. However, the museum's audience includes local grade school classes, girl scouts and other such organizations.

Lockhart said that had the decision been his he would not have removed the prints. In his opinion, the exhibition has other, more controversial prints which were not removed. He said all the prints were symbolic.

Lockhart and Green agreed that five or eight years ago, the showing of such a contemporary exhibition would not have been possible. Green said if his audience were more sophisticated, he would not have objected to the prints. In an art gallery, such an exhibition would not have received any complaints, he said.

GREEN TOLD the art faculty if they felt his decision was unjust, they could protest to the administration. Although the Museum is not part of the university, it comes under the authority of Murray and the administration because it is located on the Tech campus.

Athletic dining hall incomplete

The new athletic dining hall, approved by the Tech Board of Regents last summer and scheduled for completion within the year, has yet to be seen.

Polk Robison, Tech athletic director, said that as far as he knew the blueprints had been released to bidders. "I think the plans were given to the bidder the first of this week," he said. "Bidding should be completed by the end of this month."

THE TECH ATHLETIC Council recommended the dining hall in an attempt to bolster Tech's sagging athletic recruitment program, which for some time has been penalized by inadequate facilities. "This is one of the things we need most for our program. It will have a very vital effect on recruiting," Robison said.

The new facility will be an addition to the Wiggins Complex, and will provide a lounge, meeting rooms and an office for an academic counselor. The dining hall will seat about 225 and will be built with athletic department funds already accumulated.

Norman Igo, director of new construction on the Tech campus, was not available for comment on the delay in construction on the dining hall.

Settler blasts Senate for eluding Moratorium

By AMY HAMMER
Staff Writer

Moratorium Chairman Roger Settler blasted the Senate's refusal to discuss either a pro or con resolution concerning the November Moratorium and announced plans for next week's Moratorium.

"I think it was indicative of the Student Senate's usual role of skirting any issue of importance," said Settler, Lubbock senior.

"AN ORGANIZATION with such vested importance which will not discuss something of importance is abdicating its proper function," said Settler.

Settler, former A&S senator, had authored the bill (SR 83) sponsored by six Greek senators. This resolution and another condemning moratorium failed to receive the two-thirds majority required to suspend the rules to allow discussion.

ACCORDING TO SETTLER, the committee has submitted its plan to the administration and traffic security. Approval is pending.

November's Moratorium will climax Friday night, Nov. 14, with a march to Memorial Circle.

"If it is not approved there will be an unofficial march," said Settler. "That is, we would dismiss the moratorium after the service."

Lecture cancelled

Dr. Max Rafferty, lecturer in the third of the University Speakers Series, was forced to cancel his lecture to be given last night in the Municipal Auditorium.

Upon arrival in El Paso, Dr. Rafferty's flight was scheduled to overfly Lubbock and land in Dallas due to high winds in Lubbock. He stayed and caught the next flight to California.

Col. Haynes Baumgardner, chairman of the University Speakers Series Committee, said he will try to reschedule another lecture by Dr. Rafferty.

National scorn awaits November Moratorium

WASHINGTON (AP)—Force will be used if necessary to block a mass march down Pennsylvania Avenue on Nov. 15 to protest the Vietnam war, the Justice Department said yesterday, citing availability of the National Guard and the Army.

"The Army, as far as the District of Columbia is concerned, is always standing by," said Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst as he reiterated that there is "a substantial likelihood of serious violence."

HE TOLD NEWSMEN the Guard and the Army will be ready if needed to bolster District of Columbia police, U.S. Park Police and the White House police force.

The Pentagon, saying it has started precautionary planning, reported 28,000 soldiers and Marines are available in the general Washington area for use if needed.

The New Mobilization Committee and other sponsors of the projected three-day protest against the Vietnam war next week have been promised a permit only for a symbolic parade along Pennsylvania Avenue instead of the mass march by the White House which they had outlined.

JOHN W. BEAN III, a Kleindienst aide who has been conducting negotiations with the sponsors, said the department will "under no circumstances" reverse itself and permit the mass march.

He said discussions are continuing with the sponsors on other matters such as parking, health and medical facilities.

Nov. 9-14 declared International Week

By the authority vested in me I would like to declare the week of November 9-14 as International Week on the Texas Tech campus. Furthermore, I would urge student participation in the activities that include the international dinner, international fair, and cabaret.

International Week is being sponsored jointly by the Student Association, Student Union, International Club, Circle K, Delta Phi Epsilon, Women's Service Organization.

For additional information, contact the following people: Andy Bray, International Department Chairman; Eren Johnson, International Interest Chairman of the Union; Gerald Randles of Circle K; and Bob Burnett, Director of International Student Services.

—Jay Thompson
Student Association President

"I cannot prevent a drift of people toward the circle," he said.

The majority of activities will be in the Union Ballroom. Settler said the Union has been most cooperative.

THE ONLY ACTIVITIES not in the Ballroom will be the student-led memorial services at noon Thursday and 8:30 p.m. Friday in the "free speech area of the Union." Settler questioned the location of the free speech area.

Guerrilla Theater will be presented Friday at 4:30 p.m. The play is impromptu but does have a definite script. The cast is fluid and may leave out what they feel is inappropriate.

Koepchne death inquest receives another delay

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP)—The long-delayed inquest into the death of Miss Mary Jo Koepchne is being delayed further.

Edgartown District Court Judge James A. Boyle announced yesterday he would refrain from setting a date for the proceeding until a decision is made in Pennsylvania on exhumation of Miss Koepchne's body for an autopsy.

THE DECISION was disclosed by Court Clerk Thomas A. Teller after a closed-door meeting between Boyle and 12 lawyers involved in the case, among them Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis, who initiated the autopsy request in Pennsylvania.

Miss Koepchne was found dead July 19 in a car owned by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy that plunged off a bridge on nearby Chappaquiddick Island.

A medical examiner ruled her death a drowning and the body was sent to Pennsylvania for burial without an autopsy.

DINIS' EXHUMATION request currently is pending before Judge Bernard C. Brominski of Common Pleas Court in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who declined to comment on Boyle's decision.

Kennedy was not available for comment

A forum of Lubbock ministers will discuss "Ethics, Ethics and the War" Friday at 7:30 p.m. Settler said most of the ministers will be blacks or chicanos.

Preliminary events are scheduled for the first of next week.

Settler stressed that though the local moratorium supports the National Moratorium Committee, it does not support the New Mobilization Committee, which is marching to Washington, D.C., nor the Student Mobilization Committee which is advocating class strikes.

HE SAID THE LUBBOCK committee is directing their call for an end of hostilities to North and South Vietnam as well as the United States.

immediately. But earlier he expressed the hope the inquest would be held soon.

Boyle's decision surprised observers, who had expected him to announce a date for the inquest after yesterday's meeting.

Ski section set for UD

Every angle of skiing from the resorts to fashions will be covered in a special section of The University Daily, Nov. 20, Jimmy Snowden, editor, announced today.

The section is to include articles and news on resort areas, equipment, fashions and maps of ski areas. Special attention will be given the New Mexico and Colorado areas. Much of the information will be supplied by the resorts and by local retailers in ski equipment and ski fashions.

"Ski-related advertising will be another aspect of he section," Steve Hames, director of advertising, said, and added, "This is the first ski-section the paper has published."

The University Daily also hopes to contact Tech students who are specialists in the sport, Snowden said.

'Light the World with Joy' to be Carol of Lights theme

The Carol of Lights, with the theme "Light the World with Joy," will be on Dec. 2 at 7 p.m. in the Science Quadrangle.

The annual event will include luminarios, traditional Christmas songs from a residence hall choir and musical presentations from the Tech choir and band.

IN YEARS PAST the dorms have been organized into several choirs. This year all of the dorm choirs will join to form one large choir.

The Brass Choir, which is part of the Tech Band, will play music beginning at 6:45 p.m. while people arrive at the Quadrangle. At 7 p.m. the program will begin with the invocation given by Amy Trail, secretary-treasurer of WRC.

A welcome will be extended by Judy Jenkins, president of WRC.

THEN THE TECH Choir under the direction of Gene Kenney and the Brass Choir directed by Dick Tolley will perform. The residence hall choir will sing followed by the traditional blackout.

"This year the Carol of Lights program will only be 15 minutes long instead of the usual 30 to 35 minutes," said Judy Storm, program chairman. She also said different organizations on campus were going to help test and put up the lights.

A DINNER WILL precede the program. It will be attended by dignitaries and WRC members.

Buildings that will be illuminated this year include the Science Quadrangle, Administration, Journalism and BA buildings. Two new structures, the Home Economics and FL&M buildings, not illuminated before will be outlined by the colored lights.

Dec. 2 will also be Penny - Minute night. All girls living in the dorms may stay out until 12:30 a.m.

Committee members announced

Dr. Grover E. Murray, Tech president, has announced faculty and student members of 1969-70 college (sic) committees. One major change in the composition of these committees as compared with last year's committees is that there are only three non-voting student members on the Admission and Retention Undergraduate Committee, whereas last year there were four voting student members. The number of faculty representatives remained the same number, 6.

Dr. Glenn E. Barnett, executive vice president, said he didn't know the reason for this change. Student Association President Jay Thompson said he planned to discuss the matter with Barnett today.

ANOTHER CHANGE from last year's committees includes the appointments of three faculty members and no students to the University Appeals Committee.

Mrs. Jean Baker, assistant to the president, said this was in accordance with the new Code of Student Affairs, which calls only for three faculty members and three alternate faculty members.

Thompson said that both student and Faculty members on last year's Committee on the Code of Student Affairs approved of not having any student representation on the Appeals Committee. Thompson said he had asked, through Dr. Owen Caskey, vice president for student affairs, that administrative action be taken to allow students on the committee.

"However, students did have a voice in the decision, since there were students on the Code of Student Affairs Committee," Thompson said.

Committees and their members are:

Letters Question name

Recent events have caused some of us to ask the question, "Has Texas Tech really received a name change?"

The two main items that have caused this quandry were written by an individual and an official organ of Tech.

In his message to the Texas State Legislature vetoing certain items in the appropriations bill, Gov. Preston Smith, an ex and now a distinguished alumnus, referred to our university as Texas TECHNOLOGICAL University.

In the current edition of the university telephone directory, published by the Division of Information Services, the advertising disclaimer also sheds interesting light on the subject.

The disclaimer proudly states that any ad does not constitute an endorsement by Texas TECHNOLOGICAL University.

Also it has been brought to our attention that letterhead stationery in certain departments carry the name Texas TECHNOLOGICAL University. The "new" name has also received national publicity in Advertising Age, Oct. 13 issue, in a substantial discussion on the advertising convention held here. The name used was Texas TECHNOLOGICAL University.

With these four examples, we can only ask for your opinion. Did Tech really get a new name?

ARMY CHECK—Winifred Mae Wilson, senior art-history major from Paxton, Ill., may not be wearing army green yet, but she's already spending her first paycheck as a member of the Women's Army Corps Student Officer Program. The check for $352.93 is Sgt. I.C. Santos Rodriguez, local Army recruiter. Also present are Capt. Jean Phillips (left) and Capt. David R. Arrowsmith of Headquarters, 4th Recruiting Dist., Ft. Sam Houston.

Tech coed seeks career as officer in US Army

Winifred Mae Wilson, senior art-history major from Paxton, Ill., may not be wearing army green yet, but she's already spending her first paycheck as a member of the Women's Army Corps Student Officer Program.

"The Army Wants You," slogan really became meaningful to Miss Wilson when she inquired into the program last year when a WAC Officer Recruiting team visited Tech. Later she took a 30-day orientation trip to Ft. McClellan, Ala. WAC Training Center.

After Miss Wilson's July trip to Alabama, she enlisted in the U.S. Army reserves with the grade of Corporal E-4, until her graduation next spring when she will be commissioned a Second Lieutenant.

All I have to do is keep up my grades... During the orientation tour at the WAC camp, Miss Wilson lived in the Bachelor Officers Quarters and attended classes on military science. With 150 other girls, she participated in inspections and also attended social functions on the Army post. Part of the 30 days was spent at Ft. Benning, Ga. where the girls watched infantry and scout dog demonstrations but also were able to get into the actual activities of the corps by jumping from a paratrooper's training tower. During the entire tenure in the student officer, Miss Wilson wore a uniform only during her orientation tour on post.

Rains halt 'walk construction

With the soaking rains over and the sun out again, Tech students are now looking for the new sidewalks.

When questioned about the new sidewalks, Dr. James Kitchen, a director of grounds maintenance, said, "As soon as it's dry enough, we will begin construction on the new sidewalks. So far, it just hasn't been dry enough to build them."

KITCHENS CITED an example of the effect of the inclement weather on the construction of a sidewalk along Flint Avenue adjacent to the new Architecture Building. The base was laid about Oct. 20, and plans were to pour the asphalt the next day. The next day it started raining again," said Kitchens.

Kitchen said there are plans for sidewalks between the Business Administration Building and the Wiggins Complex, and near the Biology and Agriculture Buildings.

IRON BUTTERFLY—The Iron Butterfly will offer a taste of their new hard rock flavor at 8:00 p.m. Nov. 13 when they make their West Texas debut at the Lubbock Coliseum. Tickets priced

Pop bottles to top billing describes Iron Butterfly

By LARRY GALLAGHER
Staff Writer

Only two years ago, the Iron Butterfly, an unknown musical group at that time, were scrounging around Hollywood Hills and Sunset Strip looking for littering pop bottles that they could trade in for the menial income to be derived from such an occupation.

On Nov. 13, the Iron Butterfly will open a one night stand at the Lubbock Coliseum. Now maybe to some Lubbockites that won't appear to be a great deal of progress, but to the members of this very popular group, it's a welcome change.

In the Butterfly's cocoon stage, they spent 12 hours of each day rehearsing their own style of hard rock. After three months of intense rehearsal, their efforts were rewarded by receiving a contract for a single appearance at Hollywood's Whiskey-A-Go-Go.

Their overwhelming popularity was of such magnitude that they were held over for three weeks.

From the Whiskey, the Butterfly moved down Sunset Strip to the Galaxy where they garnered such a gigantic following of fans during their three month stand that they were encouraged to make an album.

Engineers at the recording studio had a difficult time understanding how a group of young men could enjoy so much what was to them a grueling task. Finally, after great patience on the part of everyone at the studio, the album, "Iron Butterfly-Heavy," was released. Within a short time the LP had sold over 300,000 copies.

Two of the Butterfly's songs from the "Heavy" disc, "Unconscious Power" and "Iron Butterfly Theme," were part of the Dick Clark-produced feature film, "The Savage Seven."

Upon the success of their new album, the group left Hollywood to begin a national tour that took them to nearly every major city from the renowned Westbury (New York) Music Fair to the Miami Pop Festival.

The fact was established by this time that the Iron Butterfly was surpassing most of the other hard rock groups in popularity. As soon as they were back in Hollywood, they were swamped with offers of television appearances.

Soon after these numerous guest television spots, recording studios across the nation began to vie for the talents of the Iron Butterfly. The hassle climaxed with the announcement of their second album.

"In-A-Gadda-Da-Vida," which earned them their first gold record.

The title song on this album was written by two members of the group. The song lasts 17 minutes and five seconds and makes up one entire side of the record.

represents and means a lot of things to us. "In-A-Gadda-Da-Vida" means just what it says. And we're saying that when two people learn the meaning, they can spend their whole lifetime in happiness."

Said Doug Ingle, lead vocalist of the group. "It's a song that

Tech prof gets museum position

Dr. Francis Earl Green, a member of the Texas Tech University Museum staff for 10 years, has been appointed executive officer and associate director for science and history for the new Museum.

Dr. Green became curator of collections at the Museum in 1959, was made acting director in 1964, and director in 1965. He has edited the "Museum Journal" since 1963.

Green's appointment to the position was announced Wednesday by Tech President Grover E. Murray. The appointment is a part of the expansion program for the Museum which will move into new quarters at Indiana and Fourth Avenue about mid-1970.

Dr. Green, an archaeologist, is an authority on the geology, paleontology and archaeology of the Southern High Plains.

He has conducted several archaeological salvage projects under a joint agreement between Tech and the National Park Service. One involved the Sanford Reservoir area on the Canadian River.

His most recent one was this past summer at Fort McKavett, near Menard, excavating the site of some of the original buildings at the fort and preparing materials for the Forts Restoration program. This project was under inter-agency agreement with the Park Service and the University.

Dr. Green has had a number of works published, including a comprehensive study of excavations at the Lubbock Lake Site, which is to be developed by the City of Lubbock through the cooperation of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and the West Texas Museum Association into a park and site museum.

One of Green's primary

interests is research on artifacts and related materials belonging to the time of the prehistoric elephant-hunters about 11,000 or 12,000 years ago.

Dr. Green holds three degrees from Tech: a bachelor's in petroleum geology and a master's and doctor's in geology. He has done post-doctoral work at Columbia University.

Other recent Museum appointments include Eugene Kingman, former director of Joslyn Art Museum in Omaha, Neb., director of exhibits and programs and associate director for art; and Jerry Rogers, director of the Ranch Headquarters and associate director for the Museum.

The first phase of construction of the new Museum is scheduled for completion in April 1970.

Area musicians organize

The new Musicians Organization of Lubbock (MOL) will present the first of its universal contracts for all bookings next week to Tech's Interfraternity Council as the first of several organizations to receive these new booking procedures.

The MOL, according to Danny Atcheson, Tech graduate student in math and leader of the Traveling Salesmen band, has been founded to establish better relationships between Lubbock and area bands and the groups they play for.

ATCHESON and Al Faison, a local music store employe and member of the Bruts band, are co-chairmen of the MOL.

An attorney was hired by the group, composed of 17 Lubbock and area bands, to draw up new contracts which provide a number of new stipulations for both the band playing and the group sponsoring it.

Among the stipulations governing the band playing are the following: that the replacement of a member of the band be announced to the sponsoring group; and that the band's cancellation of a booking date within 30 days of the scheduled booking result in a 25% forfeiture of fee.

THE LATTER rule also applies to the sponsor, as well as the following: the use of a stage so that people and equipment are separate; the guarantee that damage to the equipment will be paid for by the sponsor; and the guarantee that the band will be paid its fee at the end of the performance.

A number of these rules have never been in existence until the formation of the MOL.

The IFC will see these contracts for the first time next week, and other sponsors will see the contracts before bookings are made.

Atcheson expressed the hope that the sponsors and the bands will be able to come to easier mutual agreements through the MOL and the new contracts.

Soccer club faces TCU

The Tech soccer team will travel to Fort Worth Saturday to meet TCU in a Texas Collegiate Soccer League game at 10 a.m. in the track field near Daniel Meyer Coliseum.

Tech received a victory over Rice last Saturday when the Owls had to forfeit because of travel reasons.

St. Mary's University and the University of Texas at Austin will square off in a showdown battle in the capital city Saturday at 10 a.m. for first place in the league.

The Rattlers, way out in front in league play with a 6-0 season record, took care of second place Texas A&M in San Antonio Saturday, 6-4. The Rattlers ran up a 3-1 halftime lead, survived a brief Aggie rally that cut the margin to 4-3, then pulled away for the victory.

The game is crucial for both teams Saturday. For St. Mary's a win over Texas would virtually assure a championship for the Rattlers, who finish the season against fifth place Trinity (3-3) and last place Schreiner (0-5).

But Texas hasn't lost a game in almost two years, the Longhorns stretching their unbeaten string to 27 with a 9-1 win over Schreiner Saturday. Texas was tied, 3-3, earlier this season, by Houston, who lost to St. Mary's, 5-2.

The Longhorns are 3-0-1 for the season, and have a game remaining with TCU, the University of Texas at Arlington, Texas A&M and Trinity.

This week's schedule in addition to the St. Mary's Texas battle, will find Houston at Schreiner, and Trinity at Kingsville for a rematch with Texas A&M, Texas A&M, Rice and the University of Texas at Arlington are not scheduled in league play.

In other games last week, Trinity lost a non-league contest to Texas A&I, 4-3.

Frazier ready for Ellis bout

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joe Frazier is ready to fight Jimmy Ellis for the undisputed heavyweight boxing championship of the world Feb. 2 at Madison Square Garden in New York. Ellis, however, hasn't agreed.

Frazier's manager Yank Durham said he has accepted a Garden offer of $150,000 guaranteed minimum or 30 per cent of all receipts. The Garden confirmed that Frazier is committed, but it hasn't got Ellis, who was given the same offer.

Durham disclosed his deal with the Garden after promoter Chris Dundee in Miami Beach offered each fighter a $250,000 guarantee for a fight in Miami next February or March. Dundee claims the fight won't do as well in New York as in Miami because of the ancillary revenue.

"New York is one of the biggest television markets, probably the biggest in the world," said Dundee. "They would lose money on the television income by holding the fight in New York."

Baseballer says Cuellar should have award alone

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave McNally, an also ran in the American League Cy Young Award voting, said Thursday he thought his teammate Mike Cuellar should have on it outright instead of tying with Detroit's Denny McLain, who was "somewhat surprised" at the result.

McNally was asked his opinion in Baltimore after Cuellar and McLain each had received 10 votes in the balloting by the 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America, two from each league city. Minnesota's Jim Perry received three votes and McNally got one.

"I think Mike should have gotten the award," said McNally. "He was great. What else could he have done? He was super after the All-Star game 13-2 and he pitched well before that but we didn't get him any runs."

"I'm not taking anything away from McLain but Mike's ERA earned run average, was much better 2.38 to 2.80 and he was as consistent as Denny. The voters have always gone with the pennant winner in the past. Mike didn't get it for the same reason Weaver hasn't named manager of their year. The Baltimore press didn't push him enough."

Cuellar, who is pitching winter ball in Puerto Rico, was not available for comment immediately.

McLain was reached in California between engagements on a nationwide organ-playing tour.

had a 20-6 record and McNally was 20-7 with Baltimore.

This was only the third year in which separate Cy Young Awards were made for each major league. Originally from 1956 to 1966, the voting was for the outstanding pitcher in the majors. In past years the only seasons in which the winner was not with a championship club were 1967 when Mike McCormick of San Francisco took the National League award, 1964 when Dean Chance of the then Los Angeles Angels, and 1962 when it was Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who lost a playoff to San Francisco.

Jack Lang, secretary-treasurer of the association, said there are no tie-breaking provisions in the rules. Consequently each will receive an award. The voting was done by secret ballot between the end of the season and the start of the playoffs with only regular season performance to be considered.

"I feel very lucky and somewhat surprised," said the Tigers' ace, who won 31 games in 1968 and followed with a 24-9 season in 1969. "Last year wasn't too much of a problem. This year, I thought sure they'd go with the pennant winner. I'm certainly very much honored." McLain is a member of a musical group of four who play in music stores or wherever booked. They were due to be in both Sacramento and San Diego Thursday.

Cuellar, 23-11, never missed a turn while helping the Orioles win the pennant. He was acquired from Houston in a trade last winter. The Cuban left-hander's big pitch was a screwball. Perry

North Dakota to try for ninth win

(AP)—Rugged North Dakota State will try to wrap up another unbeaten season and its second straight Associated Press small college championship this weekend.

The Bison, who have coasted past eight straight foes this year, wind up their regular season campaign at South Dakota State Saturday. A victory undoubtedly would assure the AP's little college poll leader all season of the title.

North Dakota State was a commanding leader again in this week's poll, drawing all but four of the first place votes in the balloting by a panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Montana, a 7-6 victor over rival Montana State last weekend for its eighth straight victory, moved up one spot into the runner-up role, while Delaware, 6-1, jumped from seventh to third after ripping strong Rutgers 44-0.

Arkansas State, 5-1, is fourth. Akron, 6-2, moved up from eighth to fifth.

Harriers to meet TCU in cross country meet

The Tech Cross Country Team leaves for Fort Worth today at 12 p.m. to compete against TCU in a dual meet Saturday at 10:00 a.m. The race will be run on the cross-country course on the campus of TCU.

The Raiders are coming into the meet fresh from a victory last week in the Eastern New Mexico University Invitational Track meet in Portales, New Mexico.

Head coach Vernon Hilliard will start the same men that won last week's meet Saturday. The team includes George Coon, who received second place in the meet last week. Other members of the team are Lance Harter, David Nelson, Francis Doyle, Kevin McPeak, and Dave Generre.

Tech and the Horned Frogs met earlier in the year at the Oklahoma State Invitational and both tied for seventh place.

Red Raiders visit TCU for must game

Tech's Red Raiders will be aiming to even their Southwest Conference (SWC) rivalry record with the TCU Horned Frogs as they meet in Fort Worth at 2 p.m. in Amon Carter Stadium tomorrow.

In the SWC rivalry, begun in 1960, the Horned Frogs hold a 5-4 edge over the Raiders.

TCU has won 15 games to Tech's 10 games since the teams first met in 1926. The Horned Frogs won the first game 28-16 in Fort Worth.

THE RAIDERS WON last year's tilt 31-14 after the Frogs had jumped to a 14-0 lead.

TCU sports a 2-5 season won-lost record and a 2-2 won-lost record in SWC play. Tech is 4-3 for the season with a 3-1 SWC mark.

TCU opened their season with a defeat by Purdue, Ohio State, Arkansas, and SMU. The Frogs bounced back to defeat A&M but fell the following week to Miami. Last week the Frogs defeated Baylor, 30-14, in Waco.

THE UNPREDICTABLE Red Raiders opened the season with a victory over Kansas but fell to the University of Texas the following week-end. Oklahoma State tripped the Raiders next. Then Tech dropped to Texas A&M only to fall to Mississippi State the following week. In their last two outings the Raiders have been victorious with wins over SMU and Rice.

The Raiders will meet a veteran team. TCU will start 11 juniors and seniors on defense, all of whom have been starters for the Frogs during their careers.

ON OFFENSE The Frogs will start only one true sophomore and one red-shirt sophomore.

Tech, in contrast, will start three sophomores defensively and five sophomores offensively.

J. T. King, head Raider coach, has spoken highly of the Frogs. "Man to man, TCU is better," he said. "We need the support of the student body, faculty, townspeople, coaches, trainers, plus a 150 per cent effort by the players," he added.

"We are going to have to play the best football game we've played this year — both offensively and defensively — if we hope to defeat TCU."

Tech reported only the usual bumps and bruises following Saturday's game and expect the Raider's key personnel to be ready to go. Bob Mooney, Raider defensive guard who missed the Rice contest, also is expected to be ready for action.

THE FROGS reported Donnie Terveen, defensive guard and Bob Creech, defensive tackle-linebacker, have achilles tendon problems but could play. Andy Durett, middle linebacker, has ankle troubles but will play.

Major problems for Tech may come from Steve Judy, TCU's sophomore quarterback, who has had great success hitting flanker Linzy Cole, and Sammy Rabb, runningback, for long yardage on pinpoint passes.

Tech will continue to run from the tandem I and pro set. TCU will use variations of the tandem and the pro set.

The Tech-TCU tilt will be the Frogs 43rd homecoming. Only once before has Tech been the homecoming foe for TCU, that being in 1967 when the Red Raiders were bidding for a Cotton Bowl Berth, but were upset by the Horned Frogs, 16-0.

TCU'S OVERALL homecoming record shows 16 wins, 21 losses and 5 ties.

The Horned Frogs were the first SWC team ever to play Tech in 1926. TCU won five straight from the Raiders before Tech broke into the win column with a 7-0 victory at Lubbock in 1936.

Starting offensively for the Raiders will be Ken Kattner and Charles Evans, ends; Mike Holliday and Jerry Ryan, tackles; David Browning and Jesse Richardson, guards; Mark Hazelwood, center.

Starters in the backfield will be: Joe Matulich, quarterback; Danny Hardaway, tailback; Johnny Odom, flanker; and Miles Langehenig, fullback.

Defensively on the line for the Raiders will be: Bruce Dowdy and Richard Campbell, ends; Dicky Grigg and Jim Dyer, tackles; and Pete Norwood, Middle guard.

IN THE SECONDARY for Tech will be: Larry Molinare and Dennis Lane, linebackers; Denton Fox and Jerry Watson, halfbacks; Kevin Ormes, safety; and John Howard, rover.

TCU's probable starters on offense are: Jerry Miller and J. R. Eubanks, ends; Gerald Kirby and Jerry Cooper, tackles; William Riley and James Ray, guards; and John Ruthstrom, center.

In the backfield for TCU will be: Steve Judy, quarterback; Marty Whelan and Sammy Rabb, running backs; and Linzy Cole, flanker.

Defensively TCU will start: Clay Mitchell and Terry Shackelford, tackles; Chuck

Forney and Donnie Terveen, guards.

IN THE DEFENSIVE secondary for the Frogs will be: Bob Creech, Andy Durett and James Vanderslice, linebackers; Greg Webb and Jimmy Tidwell, cornerbacks; and Ted Fay and Larry Wright, safeties.

The game will be broadcast over the Humble Network, KFYO in Lubbock, with Eddie Hill and Ray Boyd.

Expected attendance is 30,000.

Aggie fish defeat Tech 35-0 in College Station

The Tech Picadors just had too many penalties, interceptions, and too many Aggies, to compete with last night as they fell to the A&M Fish 35-0 in College Station.

The Picadors received the opening kickoff and started a drive from their own 20 yard line. They moved to the Aggie 46 before having to punt. Dickie Ingram's punt put the A&M fish back to their own 14 yard line.

The Picadors held the Fish deep in their own territory forcing the defending SWC Freshman champions to punt. Gary Davis' kicked a boomer which traveled to Tech's 34-yard line.

Ed Lee Renfro, Picador halfback, didn't take long to get the ball into Aggie territory as he gained 21 yards on Tech's first play from scrimmage. That is as far as the Picadors got, though, and Ingram punted to the Aggie 9-yard line.

On the Aggies third possession Kerbow was the man again as he took the ball on the second play from scrimmage and galloped 37 yards for A&M's initial score. Brad Deusek kicked the extra point.

The second quarter started just like the first with Tech having to give the ball up on their first possession. Again Ingram put the Aggies deep in their own territory with a boot to the 16-yard line.

It looked as though the Aggies would score again on their third possession in the quarter as they marched to the Picador 13-yard line but an alert Tech defense stopped them cold and the ball went over at the A&M 20.

Neither team could get anything going the rest of the quarter and the period ended with a 64-yard field goal attempt by Ingram.

It didn't take the Aggies long to score in the second half as they marched 64 yards in 11 plays to go out in front 14-0. Kerbow again scored the TD. The conversion was good.

The Aggies scored again midway through the quarter on a 6 yard run by Gaines. The TD capped a 63 yard drive.

Tech came back early in the fourth quarter only to have a pass intercepted on the Aggie 27-yard line.

The Aggies took advantage of the play and marched 73-yards for the score. Kerbow capped the drive with a 10-yard excursion.

The Aggies final touchdown came late in the period on a three-yard plunge by Bill Sherman.
