One hundred dollars has been donated to the mechanical engineering department by the Lincoln Electric company of Cleveland, Ohio, for the purchase of books on the subject of welding. These books have been ordered and are gradually being assembled, according to Prof. H. F. Godeke, head of the mechanical engineering department. When the assembly is complete the books will be placed in the Engineering library and will be available for use to all who may be interested, but books will not be taken away from the library," Godeke says.

1945-46 Artists Bill Announced

Nadine Conner, Nino Martini To Appear During Fall Term

Nadine Conner, soprano, Nino Martini, tenor, Rosario and Antonio, Spanish dancers, and William Kapell, pianist, will appear on the Tech Artists Course program during the 1945-46 school year, according to R. A. Mills, chairman.

Miss Conner, who appears here early in November, made her debut with the Metropolitan Opera company in 1942 when she appeared in "The Magic Flute." Her opera repertoire includes such roles as Violetta in "Traviata," Marguerite in "Faust," Mimi in "Böhème," Micaela in "Carmen" and Sophie in "Rosenkavalier." Miss Conner has become familiar to many Americans through her radio appearances. She has been a regular star and guest artist on Coca Cola hour, Salute to Youth program, Kraft Music hall, Vicks Open House, Showboat and Shell program.

Miss Conner is an expert pianist. She lives in New York during the opera season and spends the rest of the year at her home in Los Angeles. Her hobbies are gardening, fishing and needlepoint work.

Martini, who will be presented in December, was born in the historic Italian city of Verona. His father was honorary custodian of the tomb of Romeo and Juliet. Martini started singing at the age of 10 and he sang so vociferously that his teacher, the local choirmaster, had to insist that he stop for a while in order not to ruin his voice.

He made his operatic debut at the age of 21 as Duke in "Rigoletto" which was followed by an assignment in "I Puritani," an opera that had not been sung for 50 years because one of the tenor roles called for a F above high C. After 16 successful performances in Milan, he went on concert tour of the European music centers. While on this tour he was persuaded to come to America for five short singing pictures in Italian. He appeared in "Paramount on Parade," "A Night in Venice." His radio singing won him the Columbia Medal for distinguished contribution to radio art. This medal has been granted to only five other individuals. Rosario and Antonio, who have

He taught courses on traffic safety education for instructors several summers at Tech and represents the college on the board of directors.

Safety Project To Be Sponsored By Alpha Phi's

Tech's Beta Sigma chapter of Alpha Phi Omega is sponsoring the painting of safety lanes across campus streets and is helping the student council publicize the student body election as spring projects.

Members will paint lanes across the street around the circle connecting sidewalks of the circle with walks leading to buildings Saturday.

It is the desire of APO that lanes across the streets will be beneficial to the student body and that students will cooperate in making this project a success," says Jim Wanner, president of the organization.

Posters advertising the student body election and encouraging Techsians to vote are being made by the club as well as buttons to be worn by those who have voted. "I have voted, have you?" is printed on the buttons. Each student who votes will be given one.

Posters will be put in all campus buildings including the dormitories and Bookstore. "It is hoped that there will be a better percentage of students voting in this election than in previous ones this year and we are out to get this done," says Wanner.

Wilson Memorial Scholarship Open To Tech Students

Any foreign language major may apply for the Roscoe Wilson Memorial scholarship. Dr. Charles B. Quaila, head of the foreign language department, says.

News Of V-E Day To Be Announced

Arrangements have been made for news of European victory to be distributed to classes and other campus gathering places as soon as it is received. Classes will not be dismissed, however, and no special convocation is planned. Pres. W. M. Whyburn stated in a letter which was read to all classes Monday and Tuesday.

He suggested that individual classes begin planning the type of exercise they wish to have if the news comes during their class period, and added that instructors in following classes might wish to devote a portion of the hour to a formal or informal discussion of the significance of the news and its bearing on the war.

President Whyburn stressed the fact that V-E day "will only be a step toward the conclusion of the war and that a gigantic task still lies ahead."

In conclusion he said "Let us all work together to end the V-E Day come soon and be followed quickly by V Day, which signifies cessation of hostilities on all battlefronts of the world."

Remodeled pieces consist of chairs, love seats and foot stools which have been decorated from second-hand purchases, an automobile seat and an unfinished foot stool. Students tied springs, dyed materials to match remnants, made stencil designs, wove materials, remodeled paint and varnish and changed lines and proportions by rebuilding and padding.

Purses, luncheon sets, rugs, slip covers and upholstery are displayed by hand weaving students who dyed yarn and threaded looms for weaving.

San Francisco Conference

THE San Francisco Conference is now in session with delegates from countries the world over debating on the policies that are to direct nations. The vast importance of this meeting uppermost in the minds of people everywhere, is being discussed in barber chairs, on buses, on street corners and in classrooms. Despite the fact that since the death of our late president, people have been told continuously that our foreign policies may be expected to go on unchanged, there is an element of anticipation prevalent among the people of the United States today.

The Golden Gate conference has two primary functions: To eliminate war as a tool of national policy and to lay the plan and begin the structure of an international organization. The accomplishment of these two aims has been greatly facilitated by the principles laid down at the Yalta conference, which in turn is directly connected with the Atlantic Charter.

One of the chief issues to be settled is that of the duo claims of Russia and Poland. Polish nationalists claim all of the territory which was granted to Poland by the Bolshevik government in 1921. The territory was gained in the settlement after the Polish victory over the Bolshevik armies. Closely allied to this problem is that of the Polish internal reform.

Then, of course, the destinies of our common enemies, Japan and Germany, are to be considered. Again, we go back to the Yalta conference. It was decided then that the ultimate aim of our victory over these aggressors would be to rid them of militarism. Our nation is fighting these countries because they made war upon the people of the world; and because they forced upon their neighbors atrocities never before heard of in the history of the world.

The degree of future world leadership of this country and of other nations will be determined in part by the outcome of this conference. The determination of the war will not be affected, but upon this period of decision which our country is entering on a note of caution, perhaps, hinges the final outcome of many controversies, not only of our own time but also of posterity.

In tribute to a leader who dedicated himself to his country, our people have determined to strive to eliminate war, the menacing destroyer of civilization.

Attend Play Day Tomorrow

PLAY DAY! Its name signifies what it really is; it's a time of forgetting studies and cares to play—to play for play's sake and not for strenuous competition. The playing day, which is the most outstanding sports event of the year for women students, is to be sponsored tomorrow in the gym by the Women's Recreation association. Colleges are asked by the National Amateur Athletics federation to have such a day for women.

If it's worth having 15 times, and this year's event marks its fifteenth anniversary, it's worth going to.

Every woman in school is invited to participate in the activities. Everyone, regardless of her skill will find something to play. Games from jacks to team sports, including volleyball, basketball, baseball, tennis, ping pong and archery, will be played. Tournaments will be held in each of these sports and each attending may enter any she chooses.

Absences of women taking part in Play Day will be excuses, so there is no reason for a large number of students not to take part in this annual affair.

Another drawing feature of Play Day is that admission fee, which is only 25 cents, will include a barbecue lunch.

Not only will Play Day participants get physical exercise and practice in sports, but they will have a chance to practice democratic sportsmanship, get school spirit, meet new people and most of all just have fun.

Improve your tennis technique, your arching accuracy, pitching precision, and ping pong speed by taking advantage of Play Day.—E. G.

No V-E Day Celebration

WITH the Russians in control of over half of Berlin and with American, British and French forces rapidly closing in on all sides, many Techsians have been discussing and wondering just what effect this will have on the length of the war, both in European and Pacific theaters.

Even though American people are being continually warned that the war is not yet over, it is difficult for most of us to realize that chances are Germany will not surrender when Berlin crumbles. In all probability it will take at least a month and perhaps even two or three times that long completely to conquer the Germans. Of course, with the fall of their capital, the worst fighting will be over. After that it will be a matter of time and of hunting them out of the hills where many have already fled for refuge.

If German civilians revolt, as many are predicting, then Allied forces should not have too much difficulty delivering the final blow. There has been some indication that not only the civilians but also many members of the German armed forces were almost jubilant when Allied armies marched in. With German morale so low, they may attempt to help defeat their already fallen dictator, or as the old saying goes, "there are only nine meals between the people and a revolution." With Berlin already encircled and supply routes cut off, it may be a matter of only three days or so.

As far as the Japanese are concerned, the fall of the Nazi capital may be a blow, but it will hardly come as a surprise. They realized some time ago that they would have to fight the war alone, and they have been making plans to continue without Germany's aid. There is certainly no assurance that Japan will run up her white flag as soon as the war ends in the European theater. It will take months and maybe even a year or more to defeat her.

For this reason, Pres. W. M. Whyburn has asked Techsians to attend classes as usual when V-E day is announced. This should not be a day for celebration, but rather a day of thankfulness

College Extension Division Serves 20,543 Since 1927

The college extension division has served 20,543 registrants of credit and non-credit correspondence courses since its inception Sept. 1, 1927. Included in the figures are 1,514 servicemen and women in the United States Armed Forces institute, served since Aug. 18, 1942, says J. H. Millikin, director.

War has restricted the extension class work to the college campus. Classes in preparatory mathematics for engineering students, Spanish, education and psychology are currently offered.

One of the departments of the division is the visual instruction department which Mrs. Janet M. McDonald is film librarian. This department served an area of 42 counties with war film programs.

In the past year it has released 2,438 booklets with an aggregate audience of 455,000 persons in Texas and eastern New Mexico.

In addition to handling credit and non-credit correspondence courses, instructional motion pictures and extension class work, the division has courses of study for clubs and club lectures.

"Education and psychology students are most numerous, representing almost one-fourth of the entire registration," Millikin says. "English is second, history and allied subjects third, foreign language fourth and government courses fifth."

"Few students under 20 and over 43 years of age do correspondence work, and more college seniors take correspondence than any other classification. Approximately two-thirds of those enrolled are women and one-third men," Millikin points out. One course is usually taken at a time with an average grade of B.

Subjects taken by correspondence are agriculture, Bible, economics and business administration, education and psychology, English, foreign languages, government, history and anthropology, home economics, journalism, mathematics, music and band, physical education, sciences, sociology and philosophy.

The United States Armed Forces institute, newest addition to the division, is a government aid assigned servicemen and women. Personnel of the armed forces has been given opportunity to receive high school and college credit through this "foxhole" university, as it is called. Enrollments have come from every state in the union and many from overseas.
